Dr. Harrow announces plans to move offices

Pampa physician Dr. Bruce Harrow will soon be moving to a new office location.

Effective July 5, his medical offices will be located at the North Crest Medical Building, 916 North Crest Road, Suite 102. Shepard's Crook Nursing Agency and the Amarillo Heart Group, Pampa office, also have offices in the North Crest Medical Building.

Patients of Dr. Harrow who wish for him to continue to be their physician should sign a release form at Medical and Surgical Clinic, 1701 N. Hobart, for their medical records to be transferred to Dr. Harrow's new office.

Pampa Regional Medical Center recently announced the closing of the Medical and Surgical Clinic due to the cost operations of the building. Patients who have not signed a medical records release may obtain their medical records from PRMC after the closure of the office on June 30.

Pampa kids paint tiles for OKC wall

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

In the dark days following the bombing of the Murrow Federal Building in Oklahoma City, the prayers and mourning of Pampa were reflected in porcelain.

Floye Christensen headed a local program that provided eight-inch square porcelain tiles to children who painted them before the tiles were forwarded to the Oklahoma City National Memorial.

Today, five years after the worst terrorist attack on U.S. soil, many of those tiles are now part of the memorial at the site of the destroyed federal building.

Over 3,000 porcelain tiles were painted by Pampa children and shipped to Oklahoma City.

Christensen's husband, Andy, wrapped each in newspaper. Nancy Crites and Betty Wilson hauled them to Oklahoma City in a van and in a pickup and stock trailer.

"The tiles painted by the children in the panhandle of Texas brought messages of love and hope at a time when they were desperately needed," said Jane Thomas of the OCNM archives.

The tiles were stored in the archives until recently when they were used to cover walls in the children's area of the Oklahoma City National Memorial.

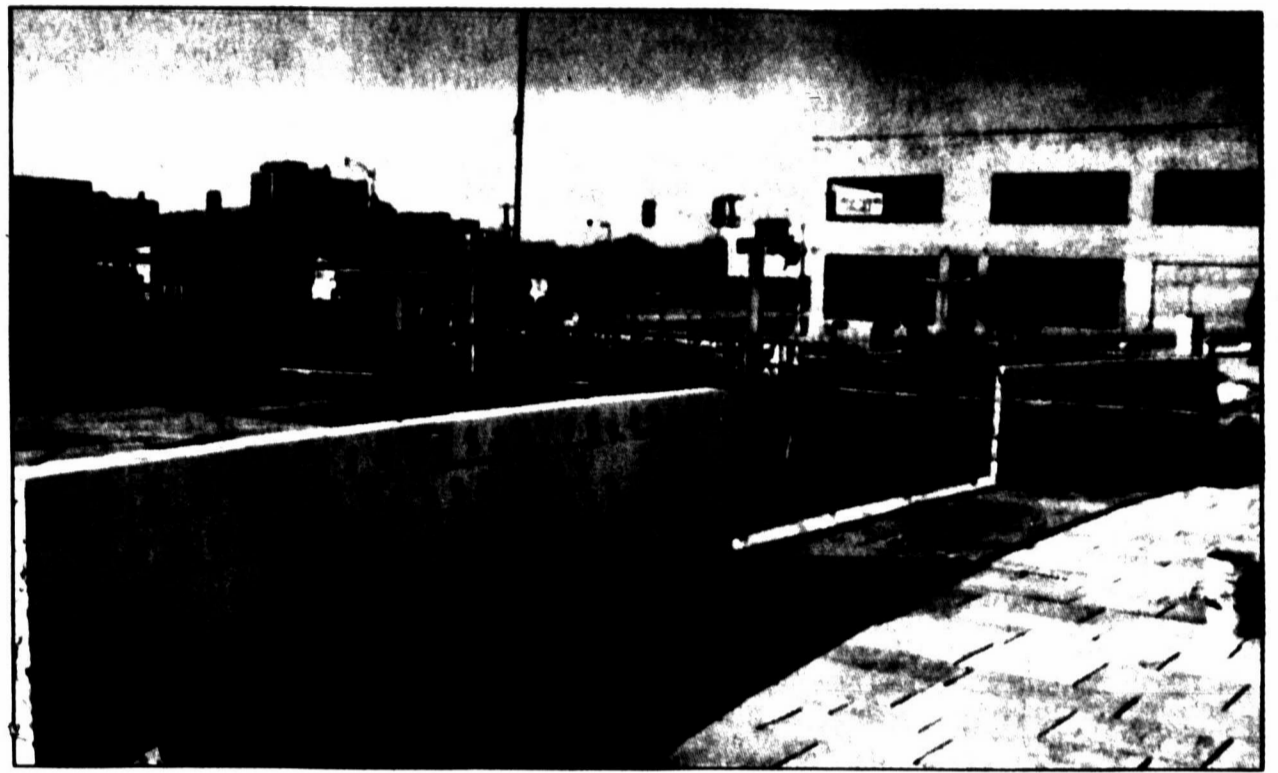

"Many of the tiles installed on the wall are those from your project in Texas," Thomas said. "We just want you to know how much we loved and appreciated these wonderful tiles that you helped produce."

Not all of the tiles are up yet, Christensen said. There are still walls to be added.

Christensen coordinated the effort to produce the tiles and get them to Oklahoma City, but she said it was the love of Pampa that made it possible.

There were numerous people and groups involved in the project.

The outpouring of emotion in Pampa following the bombing of a federal building in Oklahoma City is manifested in the more than 3,000 hand-painted porcelain tiles from Pampa school children that cover parts of the memorial wall in the Sooner state capital.

A three-vehicle collision at the intersection of Somerville and Hobart streets disrupted traffic for almost an hour Thursday. A witness at the scene, Christy Hoover, said she saw the white car travel west across the intersection with a green light when the van went through the intersection traveling north on Hobart. The two vehicles collided and the van rolled over on its side on top of the white car. A third car was also damaged in the wreck. Fiesta Area-Wide telephone books were strewn about the scene. Ambulance reports indicate five persons declined to be transported for further treatment. Further information was not available at press time today.

County wins big in ranch events

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

Gray County vanquished the rest of the world this month in Amarillo.

A Gray County rancher won the ranch rodeo, a Gray County rancher and his bride won the chuckwagon cookoff and a 6-year-old Gray County ranch hand won his age group's roping contest.

The Johnson Ranch won the Coors Ranch Rodeo, part of the Cowboy Roundup USA celebration in Amarillo last weekend.

Team members, Ken Collins, Ronald Lahman, David Shaller, Tim Jennings, Brandon Gower, Kenny Chambers, walked away with top honors.

Latigo Collins, 6-year-old son of Ken and Marvel Collins from the Johnson Ranch, won first in the roping contest for his age group and second all around, losing to a 13-year-old.

"He missed on his seventh loop," said Lyda Darsey of the Darsey Ranch north of Alanreed.

Mrs. Darsey and her husband Les Darsey won the World Champion Chuckwagon Cookoff at Cowboy Roundup 2000.

Les and Lyda Darsey bested 34 chuckwagons for grub and authenticity. They served chicken fried steak, gravy, beans, sourdough biscuits and cobbler.

The Darseys have an enviable record on the chuckwagon cookoff circuit.

"We won Hobbs, N.M., in February and then we went to Abilene and won best wagon and best bread and third all around in Abilene," Mrs. Darsey said. "Our 2000 started out pretty good."

The Darseys' next cookoff will be in Gunnison, Colo., in July.

"That's going to be a nice one," Mrs. Darsey said. "We don't know how to cook when it's not hot and windy. We'll probably burn it all."

Young named as deputy chief

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

Pampa Police Department has a new deputy police chief while the former deputy chief makes plans to take the department into the new century.

Terry Young has been promoted to Deputy Chief of Police, Pampa Police Chief Charlie Morris said today.

Former deputy chief, John Goes, will command the Support Services System.

Morris said the move was made because of Goes' technical knowledge of computers.

The police chief said the department has budgeted for computer software and has obtained a grant to fund the project.

"John Goes is the only member of the department who has the knowledge and expertise to do the necessary research, selection and oversight of installation," Morris said.

Pampa Police Department's computer system will also need to be able to network the new software.

"It is of the utmost importance that we research and select a records management system that meets our current and future needs," Morris said.

Following the installation of the new software, Goes will be responsible for records, evidence retention and archiving and support services.

"The selection of records keeping software and setting up the department's network is a priority project," Morris said. "John will lead us into the future by providing direction for the department's

City attorney: dog law won't apply to Pampa

By KATE B. DICKSON

Even if Gray County passes the proposed dangerous animal law that will be on August's ballot its provisions will not apply to the City of Pampa.

That was the word to city commissioners Tuesday from City Attorney Don Lane who outlined current city regulations and what additional laws can be passed in regard to dangerous dogs.

Lane gave the report at the request of Mayor Bob Neslage who has expressed concern about dog attacks in the wake of the recent mauling of a miniature horse by two pit bulls that escaped through a nearby enclosure when a gate was left open.

The current city law applies to rabies vaccinations, dogs at large, inspections and permits of dog kennels and livestock. What it does

'Udder' disaster avoided

An 'udder' disaster was avoided this week when the inflatable cow, Mootilda, suffered a tear in the side that brought her to her knees. High winds apparently caused a rip at a D-ring for one of Mootilda tie-downs. Quick thinking by Chamber of Commerce officials, with the help of Kross Quilting's industrial sewing machines saved Mootilda in time for the upcoming Business Expo and Dairy Festival this weekend. Pictured repairing the cow are, from left, Bill Bridges, past CofC president; Clay Rice, CofC executive director; Melba Lynch, seamstress; and Kross Quilting's co-owners, DeLynn Gordzelik and Pam Ashford. Mootilda is owned by the Greater Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce and is being leased this week by Pampa Economic Development Corporation (PEDC) for the Business Expo and Dairy Festival.

and 45 years of age, was found by a highway mowing contractor as he was mowing about six-tenths of a mile from Highway 273 on Aug. 12, 1999.

The contractor had to suddenly swerve his mower when he saw the badly decomposed body lying close to the fence line, according to The Pampa News files. The body was described as being clothed in Levi cutoffs and tennis shoes with her top around her neck when it was discovered. Officers estimated her body had been in the field approximately a week or so before it was discovered.

The woman was described as being between 5' 3" and 5' 6" tall and a medium build frame. Officials also say the victim walked with right side limp based on lifts in shoes and a visible deformed right leg.

The photograph above indicates what the woman may have possibly looked like.

Other identifying factors included are some missing front bottom teeth, a possible right shoulder stiffness from an old fracture, a likelihood of child birth in her lifetime and, also, the right ankle and leg had been fused together by a surgical screw causing her walk with a limp.

Posters have been distributed throughout the area as law enforcement officers are hoping someone will remember something about the case or can identify her.

Russell said the victim could have originated in Florida, Maine or just about anywhere. "What a perfect place to throw out a body but in the Crossroads of America," he said, frustrated with the lack of information received in the case.

"We are wanting to get this woman identified," he said.

Anyone having any information regarding this person or crime is urged to contact Crime Stoppers at 800-509-7587 or any law enforcement agency. A reward is being offered for information on the case.

not apply to, Lane said, is "dangerous dogs."

The city could adopt a portion of the state health and safety code relating to having a dog declared "dangerous" if the animal has staged an unprovoked attack on a person. The declaration of dangerous can be made by animal control officers and certain containment requirements would apply.

In addition, Lane said the city may add provisions to the state code but may not make the law more restrictive than that in the code. Also, a particular breed can't be declared dangerous as a whole.

The state code does not apply to dog attacks on other animals in cities as does the provision which can be adopted by counties.

City Manager Bob Eskridge said, "It is somewhat frustrating. I believe most people think when a dog attacks another animal the dog is potentially dangerous."

"Well, it just concerns me," the mayor said. "Its kind of like those two dogs that attacked that little horse. What if a child had walked down the road ... would we just say 'we're sorry, our hands are tied.'"

In such an instance, Eskridge said the city could prosecute under the law against allowing dogs to run loose.

A&M bonfire expected to be replaced by memorial

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The Aggie bonfire, a pre-game tradition that turned deadly for 12 Texas A&M students, will reportedly be replaced by a memorial service this year and will only return to campus under engineers' supervision.

Relatives of last year's bonfire collapse victims said in published reports Friday that the bonfire will be suspended until at least 2002 and will return with much greater university oversight.

Texas A&M President Ray Bowen has scheduled a news conference for 2 p.m. CST Friday on campus to announce what will happen to the 90-year tradition after the Nov. 18 collapse, when the 2 million pound log stack tumbled to the ground, killing 12 Aggies and injuring 27 others.

Strict guidance of professional engineers and advisers will replace the student-run project, victims' relatives who received advance copies of Bowen's findings told the Bryan-College Station Eagle, Fort Worth Star-Telegram and The Dallas Morning News.

To whom am I speaking? Religion briefs...

For most of my adult life prayer has been a real struggle for me.

I am easily distracted or I fall asleep or my mind wanders so that God is forgotten in the press of thoughts about my slightly overgrown yard, overdue library books or unwritten stories at work. This has been a source of great frustration and guilt for me.

After all, I can talk to any stranger so why can't I talk to God?

Part of the struggle had to do with what to call God. Don't laugh because that seems such an easy thing for others, who when called upon to pray, chime right in with "Our Heavenly Father" or "Dear God," but I wasn't sure to whom of the trinity I was speaking.

Haunting my thoughts was a little teaching about the nature of the trinity which explained that God the Father is designer and provider, Jesus the Son is the one who identifies with our human condition and the Holy Spirit is motivator or comforter.

So upon which character of a triune being does one call? Rather than being helped by knowing this, it became a source of confusion, frustration and anger for me.

The primary difficulty though was the inability to concentrate on what I wanted to say. I was too impatient and distracted to set aside regular times for meditation and prayer so I shouldn't be surprised that beyond "Dear God or To-Whomever-I'm - Supposed-To-Speak" my thoughts ran in 50 directions and God was left hanging on the spiritual telephone line.

Many times I've dialed His number then

From the Back Pew...

By Cheryl Berzanskis

beyond greeting Him (or asking Him what He wanted to be called) I never actually spoke to Him again.

How frustrating knowing that one is a failure in this most elemental and equalizing of Christian practices!

But I write all this to say there may have been a turning point and, yep, you guessed it, all because of a book, In God's Presence by Marjorie Hewitt Suchoki.

Suchoki is a theologian and academic who, without bludgeoning one with failure or rules, writes about the delight of prayer. She holds that prayer matters to God because it completes the relationship between God the creator and His creation.

Suchoki compares Him to a pervasive force like water which affects everything with which it comes in contact through the gentleness and persistence of touch.

God's touch on the world works two ways, she says. When He touches us for our good, we return that touch for God's sake. In other words, we matter to the God of the universe.

She goes on to talk about the releasing our prayers for translation by the Holy Spirit, praying the Psalms to align ourselves with believers through the ages and the intimacy of personal prayer.

Suchoki's view of God in the world seems more realistic than the "God as Magician" view or "God as Personal Secretary" view which are held even by people of deep faith.

She holds that God works as best He can with what He has to work with because He does not change the context, the history, or the nature of creation.

Instead, He offers the best of choices for a situation and even though they may not be the ideal choices, they can, if heeded, lead to better and better choices for those involved.

Personal history and ultimately human history can circle toward closer communion with God when one listens for His voice and heeds His touch, she says.

Suchoki's view of God is that He is so loving, so desirous of fellowship that the details of how to "do" prayer fall away. He is simply a God of the universe so approachable that to worry about His name seems trivial.

It seems unimportant to remember the acronym ACTS (adoration, confession, thanksgiving, supplication) embedded in many popular books on praying well.

Her God wants and needs our fellowship for His sake as well as our own. Barely articulated secrets thoughts are as valuable as the most carefully crafted prayers when released for His use.

Peace that passes all understanding

Years ago when I was a little kid, my sister and I (who is two years older than me) saw a John Wayne movie. The setting was supposed to be in Hawaii. John Wayne and this beautiful red-haired female actress were the main characters that I remember. In the movie, John Wayne extended his hand to the woman and said, "pax?" She took his hand, shook it and said, "pax." My sister and I learned that this was Latin for "peace." It seemed apropos at the time because John Wayne and the lady were always fighting and arguing. It seemed apropos for us because we were always fighting and arguing, too. Afterwards for years, when we would apologize and settle things, we would shake and say "pax" to each other.

By Dave Schlewitz

Kind of a funny memory. A few years ago, I received a greeting card from my sister. It is a large card and measures 5 1/2 x 7 inches. The picture is of a dove flying with an olive branch in its beak. Underneath is the word, "pax." I took it and had it decouped. It hangs in my office today. Each time I look at it I think of the funny memory and then I am reminded of how God brings peace to my life. My sister and I both found that out in our teenage years. This was the turbulent times of the Vietnam War. I was 1A and was claiming Canada was about to get a new citizen. My sister and I came out of that period rather unscathed actually. It was during that time that we both had our encounter with a "revolutionary." (That was a word that was thrown around a lot back then.)

It was Jesus Christ and He made some claims upon our lives and called us to a radical way of life. We said "yes," and experienced a peace that we never could have understood before. This was a peace that I could not generate by drinking or anything else. The experience took away all my guilt, fear and dread of the future. I felt loved and healed of all my hurts and wounds.

I never was drafted and my sister and I both finished college and went on to careers. We have never forgotten how Jesus made a real difference for us. Our lives have never been the same. Both of our lives went a different direction from that moment on. I have never stopped experiencing the "pax" of the Lord. No wonder He is called the "Prince of Peace."

Study: Priest shortage will affect Catholic worship

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A worsening shortage of Roman Catholic priests will result in fewer Masses, more priestless parishes and deacons leading worship services, a study says.

The nation's Catholic bishops on Thursday held their first extended public discussion of the problem, which was highlighted by the release of the two-year study. "Awareness of the reality is impacting us more and more. We decided we had to take a good hard look at it," said Bishop Richard Hanifen of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Hanifen led the study for the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, which is meeting in Milwaukee through Saturday.

In 1965, there were 58,132 priests serving 46.6 million parishioners in the United States. Today there are 20 percent fewer priests and nearly a third more parishioners, the study said.

Archbishop Theodore McCarrick of Newark, N.J., said 20 years from now his diocese expects to have 192 parish priests, compared with 540 today. And Auxiliary Bishop Thomas Curry reported that immigration has swollen some parishes in the Los Angeles archdiocese to 18,000 households.

"The problems are simply enormous," he said.

The Good Samaritan is no longer accepting clothing donations at this present time.

Let's Talk Real Estate

by Jim Davidson
Realtor

SOMEWHAT DETACHED

The process of setting a price for a home about to go the market involves checking statistics of recent comparable sales in the seller's area. On the basis of this information and prevailing market conditions, the real estate agent will recommend a price range to the seller. At this point, sellers are urged to shed their subjective views of their homes and adopt a more detached view. Sellers may have spent much time and money on their homes, but they cannot realistically expect to recoup this investment beyond what the marketplace considers reasonable. To help them expand their perspective, sellers should visit properties being marketed in their communities. This will help them see things the way buyers see them.

There's probably no more important decision to be made when selling a home than setting an appropriate selling price. That's when you want to call in a Realtor who will give you the most reliable information possible. For superior service, contact the skilled team at CENTURY 21 - PAMPA REALTY INC., 312 N. Gray Street (669-0007). We have national relocation services.

Indian state orders security for Christian schools

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — After the beating death of a Roman Catholic priest, security forces India's most populous state are providing protection for all Christian missionary schools, the Press Trust of India reports.

Police in Uttar Pradesh continue to investigate the June 6 murder of the Rev. George Kuzhikandan by unidentified attackers in Mathura, 90 miles southeast of New Delhi. Two days later there were four church bombings in India, though no deaths resulted.

Archbishop Alan de Lastic, president of the national Catholic bishops' conference, said India's Christians face their worst challenge in five decades.

Christians make up just 2.3 percent of India's population of 1 billion. Relations between the two religions have deteriorated the past two years as Hindi groups accused missionaries of using foreign funds to entice poor, low-caste Hindus. Christians deny the accusation.

Methodists get look at new hymnal supplement

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The United Methodist Hymnal, last revised in 1989, is already out of date.

The large denomination is preparing a supplement to the hymnal and has sent 70,000 samplers to give an advance look to delegates at regional conferences from May through July. The full song book, "The Faith We Sing," is due in December.

The 285 pieces in the $10 softcover will include contemporary Christian "praise choruses," world and ethnic music, gospel songs, new hymns and some old standards, including hymns that were dropped in the 1989 revision.

The most popular of the latter is "Eternal Father, Strong to Save." Years from now, the next edition of the full hymnal "will be different than anything we've seen before," said senior music editor Gary Alan Smith. He considers the supplement a first step.

Unlike the 1989 hymnal, the supplement will be available in CD-ROM and MIDI electronic format, and in an edition for worship bands as well as traditional organ or piano accompaniment.

Other titles in the supplement are "Lord, Be Glorified," "They'll Know We Are Christians By Our Love," "I'll Fly Away," "Just a Closer Walk With Thee" and "His Eye Is On The Sparrow."

Muslims plan training for lobbyists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Council on American-Islamic Relations, a public affairs organization, has announced the opening of a Muslim training center for political lobbying, grassroots activism, public relations and community leadership.

The council said its Leadership Training Center for American Muslims, believed to be the first of its kind, "is a reflection of the growing influence of Muslims and Islam in American society."

The announcement came as the Muslim council opened new headquarters near Capitol Hill.

and taken over by revolutionaries, was just across the street from their home. Coming home one day, they found themselves caught up in a convoy on its way to seize that base.

Their service in the Philippines resulted in establishment of numerous churches and a Bible school.

The Howard's next assignment was in Budapest. Here they established the International Church of Budapest, a worship center for the many English-speaking people of that area. Their work also included establishment of a Bible school for training ministers from several nations and a massive Gospel literature distribution program.

Several years ago, the Howards felt a definite call to the mission field. Mr. Howard was owner of a financial consulting service which counseled churches and church-related organizations in areas of financial planning and management. He closed the business and went to the Philippines as a missionary.

The revolution which overthrew the Marcos government took place during the couple's stay in the Philippines. A large military base, which was attacked

Elian's Florida relatives appeal to full federal court

MIAMI (AP) — As Elian Gonzalez's Miami relatives stepped up their efforts to keep him in the United States, their lawyers questioned the U.S. government's motive behind its decision to send the 6-year-old boy back to Cuba.

The relatives asked Thursday for the full 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta to hear their appeal, arguing that decisions by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service are not necessarily law and can be overturned in court. They said a three-judge panel of the court misread the law when it ruled against them earlier this month.

Seven of the 12 judges would have to agree to hear the case for it to come before the court. The U.S. government and lawyers for Elian's father were given until Tuesday to respond.

A court order requiring Elian to stay in the United States could be extended if the full court decides to rehear the case. If the court doesn't, the relatives have seven days to go to the Supreme Court.

Jose Garcia-Pedrosa, an attorney for the family, said at a news conference that internal INS documents show that the U.S. government was simply trying to appease Fidel Castro and the Cuban government by deciding to send Elian back.

Kendall Coffey, another lawyer for the family, said the internal INS records and electronic messages raise serious questions about "grossly irregular" INS procedures in the case.

One document appears to be a handwritten note with the statement "Show Fidel — we gave back the child," according to Coffey.

Two weeks ago, the three-judge panel ruled against the Miami relatives, saying the INS acted within reason when it decided that only Elian's father — not the Miami relatives — could apply for asylum on his behalf.

The panel said no federal law address whether a child as young as Elian can seek asylum against his parents' wishes. Citing 1984 Supreme Court ruling, the panel said courts cannot interfere if a federal agency makes a reasonable interpretation of a ambiguous law.

But the Miami relatives argued in court papers Thursday that the panel deferred too much to the INS.

The relatives cited a Supreme Court ruling last month that says many agency decisions based on manuals and guidelines lack the force of law and shouldn't receive the same deference as decisions made after a formal rule-making process. The papers also argue that aliens like Elian have a constitution right to seek asylum.

Elian's father, Juan Miguel Gonzalez arrived in the United States in April in hopes of taking Elian home to Cuba and ending the seven-month saga that began Thanksgiving Day. Elian was rescued off the Florida coast after his mother and 10 others drowned when their boat sank en route to the United States.

The INS decided the boy should be returned to his father. But the Miami relatives, who cared for Elian since his rescue, refused to relinquish him, so federal agents seized him April 22 and reunited him with his father in the Washington area.

Attorney General Janet Reno said Thursday that she hopes "the matter could be considered and ruled upon promptly and that it can go forward."

In Havana, Cuban Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Aymee Hernandez said the late appeal was part of the Miami relatives' overall strategy to prevent the child from ever returning to the communist island.

"We will not give up until this boy is on again here in our country," she said.

Companion Pets Are Some People's Surviving "Family"

DEAR ABBY: "Disgusted in Indiana" was outraged because listing a pet in an obituary "elevates animals to the level of human beings"? What a mistaken idea.

Animals don't tell the "bad things" they remember about their friends. Animals don't push to be first in line for the reading of the will. In fact, all this man's animals will do is to honestly mourn their loss without regard for material gain.

I agree with "Disgusted" that not "everybody" be listed in the obituary. I say, name the dogs and omit those high and mighty "elevated" human beings.

gious to list the names of the deceased's pets in the obituary — let's blow his mind. In Las Vegas, there is a pet cemetery where human remains can be buried right next to their pets who have gone on ahead. I know, because I have a friend who took that route.

MARION PAYNE, LAS VEGAS

DEAR ABBY: I know the family "Disgusted" wrote about. The man died suddenly and unexpectedly. He and his wife had no children; instead they bred champion dogs. The dogs were an important part of their lives.

I'm sure the obituary was a great comfort to family and friends, and I applaud the afternoon newspaper that chose to run it, especially after the morning paper had declined.

There are many definitions of "family" other than what appears in Webster's Dictionary. I see no reason why "man's best friend" should not be included.

TEXAS CAT LOVER

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps "Disgusted" is blessed with a loving family. How wonderful! However, my husband's children are rude, obnoxious and selfish. We hear from them only when they want something.

Our pets, on the other hand, are loving, affectionate, and always glad to see us. I hope their names are in my obituary, and his children's are not!

DEAR DISGUSTED WITH PEOPLE: You're entitled to your opinion, but I'm not for excluding any soul who mourns for the deceased. That letter brought phenomenal response. I'm only sorry that space limitations prevent me from printing more of them. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I am 79, an only child, as was my husband. We were childless. Our pets were our "family." In my husband's obituary, I listed myself as wife of 58 years, and his three furry companions as survivors. A friend once described our pets as "furry people." I agree. They don't lie, cheat, drink or abuse; they only provide love and companionship.

The tournament was won by Stonebridge County Club pro Perry Arthur, who finished at 11-under-133 and made $2,500. Arthur was the 1999 NTPGA Player of the Year.

HOCKEY

TORONTO (AP) — Chris Pronger won the closest MVP vote in NHL history, was a runaway winner as best defenseman and made the All-Star team. Not a bad night's work for the St. Louis Blues captain.

"I'd probably trade them both for the Stanley Cup," said Pronger, whose team had the league's best record, only to lose to San Jose in the first round of the playoffs, "but if I had to take nothing or these, I'd definitely take these two."

Pronger skated away with the Hart Trophy as MVP on Thursday night, edging Jaromir Jagr by a single point. He became the first defenseman since Bobby Orr in 1972 to win the Hart.

Minutes earlier, Pronger had won the Norris as best defenseman.

Pronger got 396 points, while league scoring champion Jagr, the Pittsburgh star who won last year, had 395 in balloting by members of the Professional Hockey Writers Association. Florida's Pavel Bure, who led the NHL with 58 goals, got 346 points.

"That's a testament to all Pronger said."

The previous closest Hart vote was in 1990 when Edmonton's Mark Messier edged Boston's Ray Bourque 227-225.

The other award winners included:

—New Jersey center Scott Gomez, who got the Calder Trophy as rookie of the year.

—The Blues' Joel Quenneville, who got the Jack Adams Award as outstanding coach.

—Washington's Olaf Kolzig, handed the Vezina Trophy as outstanding goalie.

—Detroit center Steve Yzerman, awarded the Selke Trophy as outstanding defensive forward.

—St. Louis forward Pavol Demitra, given the Lady Byng Trophy as most gentlemanly player.

—Toronto goalie Curtis Joseph, who earned the King Clancy Memorial Trophy for humanitarianism.

—New Jersey defenseman Ken Daneyko, who took home the Bill Masterton Memorial Trophy for perseverance, sportsmanship and dedication to hockey.

Also announced Thursday night was the NHL's first All-Star team, featuring Yzerman between Jagr and Brendan Shanahan up front, Pronger and Nicklas Lidstrom on defense and Kolzig in goal.

Glo-Valve wraps up league title with doubleheader wins

Glo-Valve Service started off the new century the same way it closed out the last—as champions of the Optimist Cal Ripken 11-12 League. The team won its 13th regular season championship by winning both games of a doubleheader Thursday at Optimist Park.

The champions unloaded 15 hits in the first game defeating Cabot Corporation 24-7. They then made every run count in a tough win over stubborn Triangle Well Servicing Co. 7-3. Tyson Hickman picked up both wins to raise his season record to 6-1.

Hickman was perfect in two innings against Cabot striking out four. He gave up an unearned run and no hits against Triangle striking out eight and walking three in four innings of work. Brett Ferrell, Robbie Dixon, Jarron Clark and Matt Parks pitched against Cabot.

Ferrell closed out both games. He pitched two innings against Triangle allowing two runs and three hits while striking out one. He walked four. He faced only one Cabot batter, striking him out.

Eric Kingcade continued his torrid hitting for Glo-Valve with four hits, four runs scored and four RBI against Cabot. Ryan Hansen lashed out three hits, including two doubles, scored three times and had two RBI.

Hickman and Ferrell each scored four times and had three RBI. Ferrell had three hits. Hickman had two. Craig Stone aided Glo-Valve's cause with two runs, two hits and two RBI. Craig Crowell scored three times for the winners while Matt Parks scored twice. Robbie Dixon doubled and scored for Glo-Valve.

Charles Dean doubled scoring two runs for Cabot. Both Billy Hightower and Brady Eaken had a hit and a run scored. Cameron Armstrong and Bradley Johnson scored twice each. Alex Torres also had a run scored for Cabot. Johnson was the most effective pitcher for Cabot getting Glo-Valve in order in the third inning.

Triangle bunched all three of their hits in the first inning of the nightcap. Nick Robbins and Matt Furgason contributed singles followed by a booming triple by Ryan Torres giving Triangle a 2-0 lead in the first. Glo-Valve answered with two unearned runs. With two out Kingcade was safe on an error. Stone singled. Dixon's triple knotted the score at two.

Bobby Sikes reached base for Glo-Valve on an error in the second inning. He went to third when Hickman was safe on an error and scored when the Triangle first baseman was unable to handle a ball hit by Ferrell. Fine relay throws from Jonathan Maciel to Billy Bryan to Blake Nusser cut down Hickman at the plate.

Glo-Valve picked up two more unearned runs in the third inning on singles by Stone and Dixon coupled with two Triangle errors and two passed balls. Glo-Valve lead 5-2.

Triangle narrowed the lead to 5-3 with an unearned run in the fourth due to a walk to Torres, Glo-Valve's only error, a passed ball and a wild pitch.

The winners picked up their only earned runs in the fifth. Kingcade followed Ferrell's single with a triple and limped home on Stone's ground out to close out the scoring.

Nick Robbins pitched a masterful game for Triangle allowing only two earned runs and scattering six hits. He struck out seven and did not walk a batter. He weakened in the fifth inning giving way to Torres and Bryan, who shut down Glo-Valve without further scoring.

Glo-Valve ended its regular season at 11-1, a game ahead of Duncan, Fraser & Bridges Insurance Agency.

The 11-12 Round Robin City Tournament starts Monday. Each team will play every other team in the league. The four teams with the best tournament record will then continue by playing a double-elimination second round for the City Championship. The tournament is scheduled to conclude July 1.

Rockies slip past Astros

DENVER (AP) — As Jeffrey Hammonds completed his triumphant slide across home plate, his momentum sent him tumbling head-over-heels through the Colorado dust.

It seemed a fitting way to end the Rockies' topsy-turvy series against the Houston Astros.

"You never feel relief because you're never owed a win," Hammonds said after Colorado rallied for a 5-4 victory over the Astros on Thursday. "You earn your wins, and we earned it today."

Todd Helton hit a solo homer off beleaguered Houston closer Billy Wagner (2-4) to tie the game at 4 in the ninth, and Hammonds scored the winning run when he scored from third on a soft grounder by Brent Mayne.

The rally marked the game's third lead change in the final two innings and gave the Rockies some momentum heading into their three-game series with NL West-leading Arizona.

"It picks us up for the weekend," Colorado manager Buddy Bell said. "I don't know if we take it. It's something that will help us get our hearts started."

For Houston, the loss was yet another heartbreaker in a dismal season that has seen the three-time defending NL Central champions lose 15 one-run games.

Wagner, who had 39 saves in 1999, has been one of the team's biggest mysteries. He has blown eight saves in 14 chances.

"I don't have an answer to this," he said. "What do you want me to do? Start making up pitches out there? I am throwing pitches and they aren't missing them."

Helton didn't miss a 94 mph fastball from Wagner leading off the ninth. The 421-foot home run to center field was Helton's 18th of the season, but his first in 48 at-bats.

"It seemed like about 248 at-bats," Helton said. "About two weeks ago, they started pitching me a little different, a little tougher. They were testing my discipline a little bit."

Hammonds followed Helton with a single, advanced to second on a groundout and took third on a wild pitch. Mayne then hit a bouncing grounder to first baseman Jeff Bagwell, whose throw to the plate was high, allowing Hammonds to slide in safely under Tony Eusebio's glove.

"It was do or die," Bagwell said. "I had to come and jump for it. I had to make a great throw and didn't get a very good grip on it."

All-Star player

Pampa's Greg Lindsey will be playing in the Texas High School Baseball Coaches Association Class 4A-5A all-star game Saturday, starting at 6 p.m. Saturday at The Ballpark in Arlington. Lindsey will be playing third base for the North squad. Lindsey is the only Amarillo-area player named to the all-star team. He was named District 3-4A player of the year in 2000.

Comets shoot past Sol

HOUSTON (AP) — Sheryl Swoopes, part of the so-called Big Three who provide the power for Houston's offensive machine, says the trio was clicking against the expansion Miami Sol.

"I wouldn't say (the Big Three) was at our best, but I thought we played really well," said Swoopes, who scored 16 points as the three-time defending WNBA champion Comets routed Miami 77-53 on Thursday night.

Tina Thompson led all scorers with 20 points and Cynthia Cooper had 18. The pair and Swoopes, who had 7-of-12 shooting, combined for 42 of Houston's 44 first-half points.

Thompson had 17 points in the half, Cooper 13 and Swoopes 12.

"Usually, when you have a lead like we had, you tend to come out in the second half and let up a little bit. I don't think we did that," Swoopes said.

She had six rebounds, four steals and three blocks.

But it was the first time she did not lead Houston in scoring this season.

"Obviously, then we're going to have to come out and have a really good game, not only for one half, but for two," Swoopes said.

The Comets led 44-13 at the half and 53-15 early in the second half. Houston has won four straight to improve to 8-1.

"Defensively, we were outstanding," Comets coach Van Chancellor said.

Woods ignores fog to take first-round lead in U.S. Open PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Tiger Woods, the master of the dramatic comeback, is doing his best to avoid such theatrics at this week's 100th U.S. Open.

Woods, who rallied from seven strokes back in the final seven holes the last time he played on this Pebble Beach course, took a 1-stroke lead in Thursday's fog-shortened first round of the Open.

On a day that began in brilliant sunshine and ended with the picturesque course shrouded in a chilly blanket of fog, Woods shot a 6-under 65 that was the best round in an Open at Pebble Beach — which has played host to the event three times before.

"I've always felt it's nice to lead. I've always felt I would much rather have the lead than try to catch up," he said. "I think it's a lot easier to play from a spot near the lead than it is when you're that far behind."

Woods already has shown he can come back to win. In his last visit here, he made three birdies and an eagle in the final seven holes to win the National Pro-Am in early February.

But sometimes the deficit proves to be too much. Woods struggled to a 3-over 75 in the first round of this year's Masters and almost missed the cut. Though he made a final-round charge, he never became a serious threat to the leaders.

By playing so well Thursday, Woods put himself in a comfortable position and added to the aura of invincibility of a player who has won 11 of his last 20 PGA Tour events.

Woods, the tournament's overwhelming favorite, finished off his round with a birdie on 18, blasting out of the sand to within 18 inches of the cup.

He had his fifth birdie on the par-5 14th hole, pitching out of the rough and sinking a midlength putt. Woods also had birdies on Nos. 4, 7, 10 and 13.

"I played well all day. I drove the ball beautifully, and I made a lot of putts," he said. "I made a lot of crucial putts, and you have to do that in a U.S. Open."

Woods made his move Thursday just as fog and wind rolled in from the Pacific Ocean, erasing the calm of a sunny, warm morning. By the end, he had a 1-stroke lead over Miguel Angel Jimenez, a Spaniard who has never won a tournament in the United States. Jimenez opened his round with five birdies in seven holes.

The fog halted play just before 4 p.m. EDT, with nearly half the 156 players still on the course. The opening round was to resume at 6:45 a.m. PDT Friday, with the second round getting under way about two hours after that.

Among those still on the course when play was suspended was Nick Faldo, who was at 4 under after 13 holes. Faldo hasn't won a tournament in more than three years.

John Huston finished his round two strokes back of Woods at 4-under 67 and Bobby Clampett, who grew up on the Monterey Peninsula, was at 68. Clampett was playing in his first Open since 1986 and in his first tournament of the year.

"Can you believe this?" Clampett said. "It was extremely emotional for me. At times out there, I was fighting off the tears."

Hal Sutton, who opened his round with an eagle and was 6 under after 13 holes, finished at 2-under 69. He had a double-bogey 7 at the 14th when he pitched long out of the rough and missed a short bogey putt, then bogeyed the 16th and 18th.

Jack Nicklaus, playing in his 44th consecutive U.S. Open, teed off late Thursday afternoon and bogeyed his first two holes. Nicklaus, who won the 1972 Open at Pebble Beach, was at 2-over 37 after nine holes.

Tom Watson, the 1982 Open champion at Pebble Beach, had three straight birdies starting on the fourth hole and was at 1-under 34 after nine holes.

Tom Kite, who won the 1992 Open on this course, was 2 over after nine holes. He started his round with three straight bogeys, then had an eagle on the par-5 sixth.

John Daly wished the fog rolled in just a little earlier. He was at 3 over when he got to the 18th hole, but then everything fell apart.

Daly hit one ball into someone's backyard, three into the ocean, hit a left-handed shot from against the sea wall in the bunker and ended up with a 14 on the final hole. He walked off the course and withdrew from the tournament.

Daly's career has been plagued by alcoholism and blowups similar to Thursday's final-hole debacle.

"No one knows what is going on through his mind. I like John. He's a fun guy to be around," Nicklaus said. "But obviously, he's his own worst enemy. He's not going to get better until he gets those demons out of his head."
