Joint Ownership May Be Possible On Grounds

Plans for a great permanent Pampa fair, drafted last night at a mass fair, drafted Friday at a mass meeting of a corporation and selling of stock necessary for the purchase of land, building of exhibit structures, and development of a fair track.

J. G. Christy, who with Prof. J. L. Lester is drafting preliminary plans for the fair, explained how that the White Deer Land company offered the 30 acres embracing the present baseball field at $200 per acre—much cheaper and better situated than any other site considered.

The fair committee also has offers of cheap materials for permanent buildings. About $5,000 will be needed this year to put the fair on a permanent basis, Mr. Christy estimated.

P. B. Mooney advocated a mile race track, instead of the half-mile planned. It was brought out that a five-eighth mile track might be possible without large expenditure.

F. P. Reid made the motion to authorize the fair committee to perfect incorporation and proceed with the stock proposition. M. W. Jones seconded the motion, which carried unanimously.

Discussion of the fair brought out much enthusiasm, and it was agreed that nothing would be worth more to the city and community than a permanent fair.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Rice and Mrs. Rice's sister, Mrs. W. G. Gondova, and Miss Loyce Ammons, returned Friday night from a trip to Carlsbad, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lang went to Carlsbad (P) Tulsa, Okla., today.

Meeting Urges That Pampa Contractors Be Given Work

By resolution, a mass meeting at the Chamber of Commerce on Friday night went on record as advocating letting of local contracts to local men when the bids are in line.

The resolution: "It is the sense of this meeting that local contractors, providing they are in line with their bids, should be given preference in awarding the contracts for the Gray county courthouse, since they are residents of Gray county."

An amendment made by Scott Barcus also provided that it be understood that bidders are to use local labor, so far as is possible in such contracts.

Mrs. Henry Thut Is Paid $30,000 For One Quarter Royalty

Thirty thousand dollars cash has been paid Mrs. Henry Thut for a quarter royalty in, and under the Thut pre-emption survey at LeFors amounting to 160 acres. The royalty was purchased by the Seminole Royalty Company of Oklahoma City.

The Thut pre-emption survey is directly north of the LeFors Petroleum company's lease where the discovery well of the territory was drilled in the Thut land in the Prairie Oil and Gas company's No. 1 spraying from 2,665 feet and the same company's No. 2 drilling at 2,464 feet.

Another transaction was pending at the time the Prairie well picked up pay yesterday.

Supt. Hesse Finds Common Schools In Excellent Condition

J. B. Hesse, county superintendent, says that on August 10 the common schools of Gray county were in excellent financial condition. He had just completed a survey of the system and reports a balance of $1,070.78 in the treasury.

"Most of the schools show substantial balances which will start them off in good style this term," Mr. Hesse stated.

In Gray county there are 17 common school districts and four independent school districts. The independent school districts are Pampa, McLean, Alamed and the newly formed LeFors-Sand Creek independent district. Plans are under way to build a $100,000 school in the newly organized LeFors independent district.

An election of trustees for the new district was held Friday. The successful candidates were Jack Burnett, Geo. Thut, J. H. Palmer, Miss Birdie Short, E. Baechus, W. T. Hill and Mrs. A. Carpenter.

In common district No. 9, Black holes have been voted to erect a $5,000 brick school building, which will be ready soon after school opens.

About 75 per cent of the teachers necessary in the county have been hired to date. Practically all the teachers will attend the institute at Canyon during the first week in September, Mr. Hesse said.

DROPPED PIPE DELAYS DRILL FOR FEW DAYS

Pay Is Topped 12 Feet Above Level! Expected

NEW WELL IS HELP IN GRAY

Panhandle Production Is 654 Barrels Less Daily

The Prairie Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Thut in the southwest corner of the Thut pre-emption survey at LeFors was cased off from 2,400 to 2,420 feet Friday evening and yesterday was spraying oil around the derrick for 200 feet. This well is a north offset to the LeFors Petroleum company's 2,300 barrel gusher.

Pay in the Prairie test was picked up 12 feet higher than in the LeFors Petroleum company's well. First gas was aced off from 2,400 to 2,420 feet and amounted to 40,000,000 cubic feet. Second gas of about the same amount was cased off in the second gas pay 100 feet lower.

A string of pipe is lost in the hole and fishing is in progress. Storage has been set and the well will be drilled in as soon as the casing is recovered. The company is optimistic, believing that another gusher will be drilled in for the LeFors area.

The same company's crew at No. 2, in the same section, is setting 6-inch casing at 2,464 feet and preparing to drill ahead into pay.

Gray and Moore counties showed the only increase last week and as a result production in the Panhandle counties dropped 654 barrels daily. Hutchinson county landed with a daily decrease of 1,085 barrels. The total daily production was 82,122 barrels.

Gray county production was kept above the 30,000 barrel mark by the Texas company's No. 3 Chapman in section 5, block 25, which was brought in for 1,000 barrels initial flow and completed for an 800-barrel well. More county production increased when the Skelly Oil company brought in its No. 3, Armstrong-Byrd for 300 barrels.

Daily production by counties: Carson—6,622 barrels; Hutchinson—33,535 barrels; Gray—20,480 barrels; Moore—515 barrels; Potter—25 barrels; Wheeler—985 barrels.

More than one hundred delegates had arrived last night for the two-day convention of the Fifth division of the American Legion, which Pampa welcomed as her first big convention since oil development transformed a small town into the present city of 16,000 population.

Registration at the Legion home in the afternoon was followed by drives through the nearby oil fields. Promptly at 6:00 o'clock the poor "Goofs" candidates for membership in the Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, were brought out upon the Star-caped, from the flag decorations of the awnings to the clear sky overhead, Pampa's streets last night fittingly reflected the bustling activity, the civic enthusiasm and the orderly good-fellowship typical of this city and community.

Signs of Uncle Sam's enlisted forces was intermingled with the navy-attire of the office workers, the rough clothing of the oil field man, and the colorful seasonal dress of the city's womanhood. Cars, thronging in and out of the maze of traffic, were almost as plentiful as the throngs of people along the sidewalks. From the intersection the pretty sight of white lights, automobiles, people, added to the noise of traffic and laughter of an amused populace, formed an impression complementary to Pampa in her entertainment of the first big convention.

streets attired every mode, ancient and modern, male and female. These individuals were chained to the rear of the "box cars" and led by the local 40 and 8 drum corps and followed by the crack "wrecking crew," they paraded the streets amid the cheers of more than 1,000 spectators who lined the streets of the business section.

Escaped Goat Caught. Among the Goofs who were wrecked last night were J. Q. Davis, C. M. Carlock, C. G. Otterbach, E. B. Cober, J. W. Murphy, Bill Lane, Carroll Pullen, E. S. Bullock, C. N. Melton, J. K. Redman, E. Cassada, Clyde Ed Sinson, all of Pampa; and E. W. Thomason and Frank Barefield Amarillo.

After the flag was lowered at sunset, the Pampa band under the leadership of Pete Bradford, gave a concert on the lawn in front of the Legion home. A torchlight parade was then formed and the Goofs, 40 and 8 Auxiliary and Legion members marched through the business section.

Dances Are Popular. An informal dance, with bridge and "42" at, added attractions, was enjoyed at the New Schneider hotel.

MEXICAN FLIER HOPS FROM CAPITAL TO HAVANA, CUBA

HAVANA, Aug. 11.—(P)—Major Roberto Piarro, Mexican army aviator, tonight brought to Cuba a message of good-will after a non-stop flight from Mexico City. Twelve hours and 40 minutes after he took off secretly from the Valbuena flying field he brought his plane down on Campus Columbia here chattering thousands awaited him.

The flight, long in planning, was consummated suddenly and in the face of unfavorable weather conditions. Piarro had only the usual field attendants for witnesses of his take-off.

Piarro brought a message from President Calles of Mexico to President Machado of Cuba.

Hoover Is Greeted With Much Noise As Speech Is Made

STANFORD UNIVERSITY STADIUM, Calif., (Aug. 11.—(P)—His voice heard around the world, Herbert Hoover today enunciated principles upon which he asks the American people to send him to the White House as the third successive Republican president.

As he read slowly and concisely the 8,500-word message accepting the nomination voted him by the Kansas City convention two months ago, the adopted son of California faced a vast army of his countrymen banded tier upon tier in this huge amphitheater who received his declarations with noisy demonstrations.

A detailed summary of Mr. Hoover's address will be found upon page 4.

Lions and Rotarians Will Cooperate In Helping Children

Co-operative efforts of the Lions and Rotary clubs to help the crippled children of the community are being outlined in the local civic clubs.

For the Lions, Elbert Thomas and W. T. Fraser form a committee to plan a crippled children's clinic here in early fall. Another committee, composed of Roy McMillen and W. A. Bratton, will handle details of sending the deserving children to an orthopedic sanitarium in Oklahoma City.

A. P. Edwards of White Deer and Odus Mitchell, Pampa high coach, were guests of the Lions club this week.

Election Hearings Set For Tomorrow

Suspect Held In Roxana Stabbing

A man is being held in Borger for Carson county officers in connection with the stabbing of William Combs on the morning of July 4 in front of a dance hall at Roxana. The fatal stabbing took place during a quarrel between two other men.

Two women are also thought to know something of the case and are being held in readiness for questioning when Carson county officers arrive to take the prisoners to Panhandle. The murder was surrounded with mystery and until the earliest no clues had been found to link anyone with the murder. Combs died from two knife wounds.

TWINKLES

Vacation time offers the delightful alternative of leaving town or falling heir to unusually heavy tasks. Fortunate is he who can do the former.

"Sorry, but I'll be out of town," is an excellent reason, and something of an excuse, too.

A decade has mellowed the boys who went across, and increased their waistlines; the Legion is imbued with plenty of experience and wisdom. Memories of grievances linger, but what ex-service man does not value more his enlistment than he would any wealth he might have accumulated by staying at home?

The war is fresh in the minds of all of us, yet it is distant enough that many young business men of today were too young to enlist during the war period. The best efforts of the writer never took him beyond the Boy Scouts.

We have been intending to call the speed cop to our first blow-out, but punctures have escaped us lately. Perhaps our neighbors have picked up the nails.

Reminder: Now is a good time to throw away the first primary campaign cards lying around. The things stay with us like a last year's Christmas tree in the backyard.

Hoover's speech sounds sort of American, despite his allegedly alien inclinations.

Gone are the days when a politician could appeal to the pedestrian vote.

Smoke can be used to produce rain. We didn't read this in a tobacco ad, either.

Reads and West Texas. West Texas has aired its grievances in times past, but recognition of its needs and peculiarities is still uncertain. Because of the fact that this is a new, growing section, while many other parts of the state are more stationary in many respects, it behooves Panhandle citizens to assert their rights and work to attain state policies to the country in which they live.

Especially is this true of the highway situation. Several distinctive factors are involved. First, there is the present highway policy. The highway commission works on the assumption that State funds have no relation to any particular community that contributes them. Only the state as a whole, or those who pass as travelers from one portion to another, are given much consideration. For instance, in building highways in the Panhandle, only "control points" are considered. On highway 33, these points are Amarillo, Pampa, and the Canadian river bridge at Canadian. Pampa figures in the route only because this city happens to be in a direct line, while Miami and Roberts county are ignored almost entirely.

In reply to the protest that Roberts county has been paying much money into the highway fund, the state department says that the matter is merely "an engineering problem." In other words, the most direct route is the only consideration.

It is so arranged now that counties pay their pro rate part of the state money that is spent, amounting to one-third of any project. They in addition vote one-third of the total cost in the form of county or precinct bonds. Federal aid, to which they contribute more or less, amounts to one-third of the cost in some instances. In other words, the people of a given county, over a period of years of tax paying and through their bond issues, pay two-thirds or more of the cost of the roads. Why, then, should highway surfacing within their confines be merely "an engineering problem"?

Of course, the State is interested in preventing waste of funds through promiscuous routing, but, on the other hand, why should existing state designations, which serve persons who, in many cases, have bought property and developed it by reason of adjacent state highways, be changed overnight? Should not the paved roads, which the people pay for, serve them locally? Why should the people's money be spent with chief thought on through traffic? Why penalize local people to the extent of many thousands of dollars in valuations and convenience to cut a few miles off a route between two points? We believe the state policy in this regard is too sharply drawn. In order to pave highway bonds, it has been necessary to pledge the construction to routes which do have a local significance. Now, if the state designation is changed, the bond issue will be almost invalidated.

A $350,000,000 statewide bond issue proposed recently would take road building out of the hands of the counties, with respect to state construction and maintenance. This would mean that what present influence the local communities have over the routes would be taken away. Frankly, we cannot support this bond issue as long as the present highway policy is pursued. We believe that under the appointive plan of constituting the highway commission West Texas stands a fine chance to be beaten out of tens of millions of dollars. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been asked to take a stand on this highly important matter. We believe the question has dynamic in it. At least it is imperative

CAPITOL NEWS

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The nation is playing politics and it appears to be more than customarily interested in the game. Hoover or Smith seems to mean something to nearly everyone and as many as 35,000,000 ballots may be cast in November.

Things are beginning to happen and to be brought about, but a survey of the visible developments cast little light on the probable result. The betting odds are on Hoover and no Smith gambler would hit to take even money, but it seems as if the Democrats were in a stronger position than at any time since 1916 and it is generally believed that Smith is sure to get more electoral votes than either Cox or Davis. The situation probably will not begin to jell, however, before October.

Take Minnesota. In prejudiced opinion generally is that Henrik Shipstead, who is running again on the Farmer-Labor ticket, will get himself re-elected to the Senate. The three or four hundred thousand voters who elect Shipstead will be virtual independents; there is no Farmer-Labor presidential ticket. Minnesota Democrats are hoping that, with wet sentiment and farm discontent, they can get the bulk of the Shipstead voters, who could carry the state for Smith.

Shipstead has avoided the presidential issue, but is criticizing the Coolidge McNary-Haugen veto and spoke recently from the same platform with Frank Murphy, farm leader and a delegate to the Republican convention who has bolted to Smith.

Wisconsin exhibits a somewhat similar situation. The state may go for Smith. For one thing, there is more wet sentiment there. And Senator Young Bob La Follette, whose re-election is expected, apparently isn't worrying about what happens to Hoover. La Follette and his followers have no love for the Coolidge policies which Hoover has promised to continue and Wisconsin Democrats, knowing the independence of the state voters, hope the La Follette voters will turn to Smith.

There is nothing to show as yet that Democratic supremacy is imperiled in the south or that the Republicans are likely to lose anything in the farm belt. There is a tendency to class North Carolina for the present as doubtful, along with the border states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Missouri. Farmer that West Texas road enthusiasts get together and discuss the issues. A meeting for this purpose will convene in Pampa at 2 p. m. August 23.

George N. Peek's leap into the Smith camp may be the most important break of the sort to date, but it is quite as likely that Farmer Peek's jump isn't important at all.

Although most of the political dope at this stage is mere speculation, it may do no harm to point out that the progressive element, which was lately held the balance of power in the Senate, may exert some similar influence on the election. If Smith holds the South and breaks into the East as he hopes to do, the possibility becomes a likelihood.

Nebraska voters are also expected at sullying their tickets. Charlie Bryan, who carried the state by 50,000 for governor in 1922, is out after his job and has publicly swallowed Smith. Senator George Norris has publicly expressed his disgust with his party—or, rather, with the Republican party. Nebraska is one of those states where the combined La Follette and Davis vote in 1924 exceeded the Coolidge vote. Like La Follette and Shipstead, both Bryan and Norris are Progressives.

Iowa and Kansas are safe for Hoover, and probably both Dakotas. Progressives among members of Congress from those states show no disposition to spoil the Hoover show.

BARBS

An Ohio steel millionaire is going to finance a lot of public improvements for the town of Pughwash, in Nova Scotia. While he's about it he might buy the place a new name.

New York man got indignant at the size of his dentist's bill and sent the tooth-puller a challenge to a duel. If the duel is held the dentist, undoubtedly, will begin by remarking, "Now, this may hurt you just a little bit."

Western town has just elected a deaf and dumb man as constable. There's one traffic officer it'll be quite safe to talk back to.

Things are coming to a deplorable pass. What with these talking films, a man won't be able to get more than a wink of sleep in a movie theatre any more.

Talking films will have one advantage, though. The pest who reads subtitles out loud will be thrown out of employment.

Johnny Risko, heavyweight pugilist, has been made a deputy marshal of his home town. Hope they don't think he'll have to carry a club.

Miss Lillie Bankstone and Mr. J. M. Gillham Married Friday

The marriage of Miss Lillie G. Bankstone of Greenville and Mr. J. M. Gillham was solemnized Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Gillham, where Miss Bankstone had been a guest for several days. A profusion of gladioli, phlox, and other garden flowers was arranged to form a pretty background for the ceremony, and the service was read beneath an arch in which a white wedding bell hung.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. W. C. Upton, who also played "Flower Song," by Gustav Lange, during the reading of the ring service. The Rev. D. H. Truhitte, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated.

Little Misses Eleanor Ruth and Helen Odell Gillham, nieces of the bridegroom, scattered flower petals in the path of the bride. Eleanor Ruth wore a frock of salmon pink organza, while Helen Odell was dressed in pale blue organza.

The bride wore a georgette dress of palest pink and a white tulle veil, which was banded to her hair with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of pink gladioli, sweet peas, and bridal wreath. Her traveling costume consisted of a tailored model of rose beige flat crepe with tan accessories.

The wedding was attended by relatives and a few friends. An informal reception was held following the ceremony and refreshments were served. After a trip to Anson, Happy, and other points in the Paphandle, Mr. and Mrs. Gillham will return to Pampa to make their home.

Hoover Reiterates His Stand for Prohibition and Develops Ideas on Three-Fold Agricultural Program

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, STADIUM, Calif., Aug. 11.—Herbert Hoover accepted the Republican presidential nomination today with an uncompromising declaration for prohibition and the exposition of a three-fold agricultural relief program having as its axis federal financial aid in building up farmer-owned and farmer-controlled corporations to take care of crop surpluses.

In addition he declared vigorously for religious tolerance; inveighed against corruption in public office; struck a note of idealism in the relation of government to the people and issued a call to the women and the youth of the country to contribute their enthusiasm to the success of the American experiment in Democracy.

Speaking to a vast throng in this athletic bowl and to countless thousands in an unseen radio audience over the country, Hoover boldly accepted the challenge on the wet and dry issue laid down by Alfred E. Smith, although he neither named his Democratic opponent nor referred to the New York governor's declaration for liberalization of the Volstead Act.

Defies Nullification

"Modification of the enforcement laws which would permit that which the constitution forbids is nullification," he said. "This the American people will not countenance."

Retierating that he did not favor repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, the Republican nominee said no one was to be criticized for seeking to change the constitution by lawful means, but added that the Republican party denied the right of any one to seek to destroy the purposes of the constitution by indirect means.

Recognizing the abuses of enforcement under existing enabling acts Hoover said these must be bettered after "an organized searching investigation of facts and causes" had pointed the way to the wise method of correcting them.

The Republican candidate disposed of the prohibition question in the space of a few minutes, devoting approximately 300 words to its discussion. The farm aid question he gave over more than one sixth of his address of more than 8,000 words.

Farm Aid Urgent

Declaring that agriculture presented "the most urgent economic problem in our nation today," Hoover said the Republican party farm plank, constituted "a definite plan of relief," needing only "the detailed elaboration of legislation and appropriations to put it into force."

Aside from federal aid to farm stabilization corporations, he proposed tariff increases to give agriculture the same protection as other industries and the development of inland waterways including the Mississippi and the Great Lakes to the Atlantic systems, as means of affording cheaper transportation for farm products and a corresponding shrinkage in the spread between what the farmer receives and what the consumer pays.

"And adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief," he said in putting that first in his program. Development of the great water arteries came second.

"These improvements would mean so large an increment in farmers' prices had been participated in by individual officials and members of both political parties in national, state and municipal affairs, Hoover declared dishonesty in government to be a double wrong.

"It is treason to the state," he said. "It is destructive of self-government. Moral incompetency by those entrusted with government is a blighting wind upon private integrity. There must be no place for cynicism in the creed of America."

The Republican standard bearer promised that this would be "an honest campaign" with every penny publicly accounted for, and a "true campaign" with "the use of words to convey our meaning not to hide it."

For Adequate Defense

Other policies outlined by him included:

A foreign policy dedicated to peace with the fostering of disarmament, but with the retention meantime of a navy adequate for national defense.

Continuation of a public works program—buildings, roads, waterways and irrigation—entailing an expenditure of a billion dollars in the next four years.

A unified plan for carrying forward this work with the co-ordination where possible of transportation with flood control; the development of hydro-electric power and of irrigation; and a larger visioned development of water resources so they will yield their full economic service.

Retention of the present immigration laws with amendments to relieve hardships on families and repeal of the scheme of fixing quotas on the basis of national origin.

Co-operation between government and business with government regulation avoided as long as equal opportunity to all citizens is not invaded and public rights violated.

Endorsement of the principle of collective bargaining and freedom in labor negotiations with the curtailment of "the excessive use of injunctions in labor disputes."

Avoids Boulder Dam

Hoover made no mention of either the Boulder Canyon dam project or of the operations of the so-called power trust, subjects which Senator Hiram Johnson of California and other Republican independents have put forward as an issue of the campaign.

However, the nominee did say that he hoped at a later time to discuss "the relation of our government to the public utilities and railroads."

In concluding, the cabinet officer paid high tribute to President Coolidge. "I would violate my conscience and the gratitude I feel," he said, "did I not upon this occasion express appreciation of the great president who leads our party today. President Coolidge has not only given a memorable administration, he has left an imprint of rectitude and statesmanship upon the history of our country. He has dignified economy to a principal of government. He has charted the course of our party over many years to come. It is not only a duty but it is the part of statesmanship that we adhere to this course."

The week's social calendar will hold one event of particular interest for sons and daughters of the Sun Flower state, a picnic for all former citizens of Kansas. A self-appointed committee of twenty-five has planned the affair and invites all other Kansans to attend.

The party will gather at the Pampa Daily News office at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, August 19, and from there will go to Le Fours for the picnic. Every one is asked to carry a basket lunch. Those who wish to participate in the Kansas party may call any of the list below for further information, or simply come to the News office at the hour set.

Those who have already signified their intention of going are: Mr. and Mrs. Everett McNiff, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mook, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cassidy, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kiser, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Loftis, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Dodd, Mr. and Mrs. E. Kullman, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Atteberry, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Pond, Miss Lucy Hoeslacher, R. M. Finney and Bert Howell.

The Perils Of Prejudice

By REV. J. J. CASTLEBERRY
(Pastor Walnut Hills Christian Church, Cincinnati)

Prejudice denotes prejudgment. Strangely enough it belongs in the category of respectable sins. A man cannot lie or defraud and maintain the respect of his fellows; but he can have a narrow, pinched soul and still go in good society.

There is no greater peril in life than prejudice. It is the offspring of ignorance and the twin sister of bigotry. It induces moral colorblindness and sees virtue as vice. It is a flagrant betrayal of the spirit of Christ. The remedy for prejudice is threefold.

First, face the facts. "Come and see" was Philip's challenge to Nathaniel who insisted that no good thing could come out of Nazareth. This willingness to become intelligent finally led Nathaniel to discipleship.

Again, cultivate a healthy tolerance. I do not mean the attitude which believes nothing and stands for nothing. That betokens weakness and is as dangerous as it is insipid. But strive to understand the other man's point of view. If you are grounded in basic convictions yourself you can afford to be tolerant toward others.

Finally, this leads us straight to the Christian law of love, which is the ultimate cure for prejudice. Tolerance is not sufficient. The husband who simply tolerates his wife has taken the first step towards a broken, unhappy home. It is affection that she craves, and with this the humblest cottage becomes a royal palace. "Love thinketh no evil; it suffereth long and is kind." Yes, love drives out prejudice—they cannot abide in the same heart or dwell under the same roof.

TO HOLD REVIVAL

Intensive and extensive preparation is being made for the Church of Christ revival which is to have its beginning on Sunday, August 19. C. C. Merritt, the present minister of the church, and Rev. Williams of Cordell, Okla., are the leaders in this revival.

This is to be just an honest, earnest effort to give to the public the same lessons of light and love Jesus gave a n c t h a t He commissioned His apostles to give to the entire world. There will be no great orator to attract your interest. There will be no world-famed singer-soloist to entertain the audiences.

But every ounce of power and earnestness, made possible by the grace of God, will be used to bring men, women and children into a greater love and devotion to the Lord Jesus Christ. Ours is Christo-centric and no doctrine of truth will be preached or sung apart from Him. Many have united with the church of Christ in the past few weeks and many more are expected during this revival. You are invited to come to our welcome.

Auxiliary Having Large Place In Legion Convention

The Kerley-Crossman Auxiliary Unit, No. 334, was re-organized on the first day of May, under a charter issued February 29. Twenty-two members joined at the first meeting and before the closing of the quarter more than fifty members had been enrolled. The months of May, June, and July have been spent in an intensive membership campaign.

The unit now has seventy-five members. Moreover, the entire membership is active and attendance at the meetings has been excellent. The spirit of enthusiasm which the first members and founders had has been caught by all who have joined the organization, and it is expected that the Kerley-Crossman unit will be not only one of the largest but one of the most efficient in the state.

An able staff of officers was elected the first meeting after re-organization. Mrs. W. H. Lang is president. Other officers are: Mrs. Carl Taylor, vice-president; Mrs. S. A. Burns, second vice-president; Mrs. Roy Webb, secretary-treasurer; W. Purviance, chaplain; Mrs. H. E. Florey, parliamentarian; and Mrs. W. C. de Cordova, sergeant at arms.

The unit has been a big factor in making the Legion convention a success. It will take an even greater part in today's activities. Four numbers of this morning's program at the Rex will be given by Auxiliary members. These are a reading by Mrs. Raymond Harrah, a whistling solo by Mrs. Lulu Hutchins, a violin solo by Mrs. I. T. Morrow, and a vocal duet by Mrs. E. A. Webb and Mrs. R. R. Jones. The luncheon at the Pils-Mor Auditorium will be served by the Auxiliary. Following the luncheon, there will be a joint business session of the Legion and Auxiliary of the Fifth division at the New Schneider hotel at 2:30 o'clock.

The committee in charge of registration at the Legion home yesterday was composed of the following: Mrs. W. H. Lang, Mrs. P. T. McNamara, Mrs. S. A. Burns, Mrs. Carl Taylor, Mrs. L. B. Hughey, Mrs. W. Purviance, and Mrs. R. A. Webb.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU WARD marries ROD BRYER, who had previously been engaged to LILA MARSH. Lila makes life miserable for the bride until she meets a rich Mr. LOHRE and marries him. Then she asks Bertie Lou to forgive the deed.

Trying to keep up socially with wealthy friends plunges Rod in debt and he comes miserably and Lila seizes her chance to persuade him to accept a higher salary from Lohre, shortly after, she asks Rod to put some jewels in the safe during her husband's absence. The diamond ring and Rod wants to notify the police, but Lila insists on secrecy, pointing out that suspicion against him might spoil his career.

Bertie Lou finds out that she has been seeing Lila secretly and is heartbroken. She goes home to her mother without seeing Rod. The revelation, added to Lila's plotting, causes a coldness between them. Rod expects the divorce to make advances or explanation. Rod goes to the Lohres, without her, and Bertie Lou goes out with MARCO PALMER to retaliate.

Rod is anxious to learn that Lila deceived him about the stolen jewels when a connoisseur admires her pearls at a dinner party. She admits that she gave him an empty case in order to make him dependent on her generosity and to win his love. He repudiates her treachery and disloyalty to her husband, and she remains him that his wife is at a house party with young Palmer.

He leaves her and drives to the Palmer estate where he sees Marco and Bertie Lou in lounging robes and leaves unseeing without leaving they were merely coming upstairs from a morning swim. When Bertie Lou gets home, Rod is gone leaving no word but a check for $2,000. Not realizing that he left because of his suspicions of her, Bertie Lou denounces Lila for trying to take him away from her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVII

LILA spent but little time over her breakfast, having used up the best part of two hours in making herself presentable. It was not easy to erase the ravages of her night of fury.

But when she left the apartment she looked stunning in a dove gray outfit and a two-skin fox-skin. And her eyes were sparkling with renewed enthusiasm for living. The big thing had happened. Rod and Bertie Lou were parted. That was all she needed to set her again on the old road of conquest, with Rod's heart as her goal.

He would be at the office, of course. It was not uncommon for her to see him there. Frequently she dropped in for a word or two with him when she visited Cyrus.

She nodded and smiled fittingly at the girl in the reception room as she passed on her way to her husband's private office. Cyrus was tolerant of her unannounced descents upon him and she did not bother to ask if he were engaged. Neither did she stop to rap for admittance.

Cyrus was at his desk, poring over a pile of correspondence, and a large black scowl clouded his usually good natured expression. Lila paused a moment inside the room, to make up her mind what to ask for as an excuse for this particular intrusion. She decided to make it something unimportant, seeing that Cyrus looked annoyed.

"Lo, daddy," she greeted him. The greeting he gave her in return was most undaddylike. "Well, what do you want?" he grunted.

Lila came over and leaned against his desk. "Oh, nothing if you've got a cross on," she pouted. "Did you drink too much last night?"

"Never mind last night. Unless you can tell me why Rod Bryer left the party."

Lila started. "You were the last to see him," Cyrus went on. "Didn't he tell you anything?"

"Why, what do you mean?" Lila asked, barely keeping herself from stammering.

CYRUS reached out over his desk and picked up a sheet of paper. This he thrust toward Lila. She took it in nervous fingers. "Read it," Cyrus said, unnecessarily. Lila was reading. When she put it down her emotions were under better control.

"That's a mean way to treat you!" she declared warmly. "After all you've done for him!"

Cyrus glanced sharply at her. "Haven't you any idea why he resigned?" he queried doubtfully.

"Of course not!" Lila answered promptly. "He didn't tell me a thing. But I could see that he was upset and I asked him what was wrong. He wouldn't tell me. It's Bertie Lou, I guess, and the way she's behaving with that young Marco Palmer. Maybe Rod's quit his job to take her back to Wayville. Didn't you see him? Have a talk with him, or anything?"

"No. He came in early, his stenographer told me, and wrote this note to me. That's all I know. But it's queer. If he'd given some reason. . . . To tell the truth, Lila, I thought for a while that you might have something to do with it. I've an idea that young puppy thinks more of you than he should."

Lila laughed and came over to put her arms around his neck. "Don't be a silly old daddy," she purred. "If Rod cared anything about me I'd know it."

Cyrus reached up and patted her hand. "You've been seeing a lot of him," he reminded her fatuously. "You must be more careful, Lila. You're not the sort of girl a man can be around very much without being tempted to fall in love with you."

"You flatter me, darling," Lila replied with a wry smile. "But we wasn't worry about Rod—I think he's concerned over Bertie Lou. And when a man's thinking about his own wife he isn't likely to fall in love with another. You don't know where he's gone?" she added suddenly.

LILA did not think Rod would ask to be taken back. He was showing more manhood than she believed he had. This was a move she had not anticipated. It would be hard to keep in touch with him now.

"Oh, don't be harsh," she said. "It's enough to make you angry—such ingratitude. I felt that way at first, but after all, you know, we might find out that he had a very good reason, or maybe the poor boy just didn't know what he was doing."

"You're too soft hearted," Cyrus told her with admiring reproof. "People aren't always grateful, you know, dear. See how Bertie Lou has returned your kindness."

"I know," Lila sighed, "but Rod is different; let's give him a hearing anyhow. Have you any idea where we could find him?"

Cyrus hadn't. And Lila soon left to search for Rod in her own way. She called on the private detective she had retained to solve the mystery of her "stolen jewels." She had let him work on that job for a week and then had dismissed him, well paid and with a thorough understanding that she did not wish the mystery solved.

Now she sent him out to find Rod. It was a matter of days before he returned with the address of a rooming house in the West Forties. Lila went there immediately. But she did not find Rod at home. And when the landlady described his caller in answer to the questions he put because he feared it might be Lila, he recognized the description as fitting her.

Again he moved, and this time he left no trace. He took a room in the upper East Side, well outside the pale of the fashionable river section. He believed Lila would not care to visit him there even if she located him. And he was in no mood to see her.

LIFE was a stark reality of fundamentals now. A matter of bed and bread. For Rod was broke. He had engaged a lawyer, paid him a fee for the legal work of handing over everything Rod possessed to Bertie Lou, turned most of his personal belongings into cash which he sent to his father to clear the loan he had received from him, and started out in search of a new position with no credentials and no patronage.

It did not seem to him quiteotic that he should strip himself of everything he owned, except a few clothes, and give most of it to his wife. He wanted nothing to do with money earned through Lila's interest in him. Bertie Lou might as well have it. At least it would buy her a decent trousseau when she married Marco Palmer.

It was not a huge sum that he sent her, but it made Bertie Lou gasp. Nearly two thousand dollars! At first she wondered where Rod had got it. Then she remembered that he had been saving half his salary for many months. Since Spring, in fact, and it was now early Fall.

He could not desert her without making some provision for her. Bertie Lou surmised. So he had saved until he could go without feeling like a scoundrel.

Bertie Lou wept and laughed over the money. No wonder he never would tell her why they must live so miserably, do without things, move into a cheap apartment and not have a maid—not even a cleaning woman by the day! He was saving to leave her!

She cried and laughed some more. It really was funny, she told herself. Their living together that way, saving just as they'd planned to save for that home they were going to build some day.

But that was before they were married. Bertie Lou sat suddenly down on her bed and ceased to laugh, even hysterically, as she had been doing. That house! Had there ever really and truly been a time when she and Rod had planned a house, a home of their own! A stab of poignant pain in the region of her heart supplied the answer.

Rod ought to have known that he couldn't buy himself away from her though, she mourned. He could go, but she would not use the money. Perhaps she could get him to take it back.

But his lawyer said no. Then Bertie Lou put the check in the bank and set about earning her living without touching Rod's money. She did not know what she would do with it finally, but at least she would not use it for herself.

MARCO PALMER begged her to get a divorce and marry him, but Bertie Lou laughed at him as one laughs at an amusing child with impossible ideas. However, Marco would not take offense or be discouraged.

"Some day you will, Bertie Lou," he declared. "You know I'm a very fine fellow, really. I'd make an excellent husband because I haven't a wild old left to sow."

"Please get off that table and help me close this suitcase."

Bertie Lou was moving. She was sending the furniture from the small apartment to join that which had been stored when they moved from the larger place. She could not bear to part with any of it, though she knew it would be costly to pay storage for it.

"If you want to do something for me, Marco, get me a job. I'm a very good stenographer, but a dum-wit."

Marco did help her find a position. It was with a friend of his. Bertie Lou marvelled at his constancy and self-sacrifice as the months went by and he continued to devote himself to her without signs of wearying of her many refusals.

But even if she had wanted to marry Marco she couldn't have. She hadn't a divorce. It puzzled her to know why Rod was so long in seeking one. She knew nothing about him, where he was living or what he was doing.

One day a letter came from his lawyer asking her to call at his office. She felt, then, that the blow had fallen.

Plans to Enter Pampa Grays in Amarillo Tournament Endorsed

BUSINESS MEN BEHIND MOVE

Ed Gober Will Be Manager of Local Team

The value of headlines emblazoning the work of the Pampa Grays in the approaching Amarillo baseball tournament was discussed at the Chamber of Commerce mass meeting last night. Civic pride and enthusiasm for the game itself received expression before the audience voted to endorse a proposal to enter a Pampa team in the tournament.

Dr. R. A. Webb extolled the baseball ability and leadership of Ed Gober, who will manage the team. F. M. Gwin, city manager, said he was a great believer in giving the home boys a chance to take part in such events.

Sam Fenberg, in explaining the tournament rules, said that ten or more teams will be fighting for the three big prizes offered. First prize likely will amount to $1,500. He made a motion to endorse the baseball proposal, and the second was by Mr. Gwin.

Baseball enthusiasts will ask small contributions from local people to finance the team. Pampa received much publicity last year, and has good chances this year to get into the big three. Placing of a strong team in this tournament will be distinctive, showing that Pampa is "A Big Town With a Big Team." It was declared.

Six Victories In Swimming Boost U. S. Olympic Total

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 11—(AP)—Austic sports of the United States today wound up the Olympic Water competition with five victories in the final six events on the program. During the week men and women swimmers and divers of the team scored top first places in sixteen events, piling up a score of 175 points out of a possible 400.

Today it was Johnny Welsmuller, fierce-stroking Chicago veteran, and Albin Orlingwich, who shot Stars and Stripes highest on victory flag in the swimming stadium and stamped themselves as the fastest sprinters of their respective sexes.

Welsmuller, defending the 100-meter free style championship he won at Paris in 1924, made a show of his field in the final of the sprint classic that was nearly turned into a handicap affair through the titleholder's poor start.

Scott Barcus was a business visitor in Amarillo Friday.
