PROXY REMOVED AS A HOOVERITE

Motions Are Designed to Limit Activity of Bolters

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 13.—(P)—Thomas B. Love of Dallas, was certified as a candidate for the nomination to be lieutenant-governor, in the coming run-off primary, by the State Democratic Executive committee here today.

Efforts to keep Love's name from the ballot because of his announced intention to vote against Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, the party's presidential nominee, called forth a flood of oratory, but when the matter came to a vote a few scattering votes were recorded for those who wished to leave Love's name on the ballot.

The question is now put up to the county committees over the state, the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals having ruled before the first primary that the county committee in Cameron county was within its rights when it barred Love's name from the ballot. Although the committee refused to drop Love's name, it passed several motions designed to limit the activities in the party of Anti-Smith Democrats. The Rev. J. C. Everett of San Antonio, whose proxy for E. J. Cleveland of Buda was accepted by the committee, was later removed from the committee when he admitted that he intended to vote for Herbert Hoover. The members of the committee were questioned as to their intentions upon the motion of Stephen J. Kinney, who also moved that all elections on the ticket be questioned as to their intentions in the November election and in the electoral college.

Grounded Ship Is Floated—Storm in Northeast Abating

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(P)—The Munson liner Munamar, forced aground yesterday off Hole-in-the-Wall, Great Abaco, Bahamas, has been floated, it was announced today by Merritt, Chapman and Scott, marine engineers.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—(P)—One man is missing and nearly 100 others were rescued during the northeast storm which abated today after lashing the coast from Virginia Capes to Sandy Hook.

The missing man is Otto Godfrey of the tug Radiant, who was swept away when the tug sank in Delaware bay near Odessa, Del., yesterday.

ANOTHER STORM BREWING

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 13.—(P)—The barometer at the weather bureau continued to drop this afternoon, the reading at 2 o'clock being 29.70, according to W. J. Bennett, government meteorologist. The wind velocity was 20 miles an hour.

BERTMAN MAN DROWNS

AUXILIARIES WILL BRIGHTEN LIVES OF DISABLED VETERANS

Each American Legion Auxiliary unit in the 16th, 17th, and 18th districts will adopt a disabled soldier and brighten his stay in the hospital with letters, magazines, gifts at Christmas, Easter, and birthdays, or in any way possible, following up a resolution passed at a business meeting of the fifth division Auxiliary Sunday afternoon.

The importance of the Auxiliary in keeping up the morale of the disabled veterans and their families was stressed in brief addresses from state and division officers of the Legion and the 1 and 40. These speakers described the opportunity the Auxiliary has for rendering a great service to humanity by showing an appreciation of the sacrifices of these ex-soldiers and their families and by assisting them through financial crises.

L. W. Hoskins, explained the aims and purposes of the 40 and 8, which he said, is the backbone of the American Legion. He showed how necessary to the work of the Legion post is the cooperation of an active unit.

Ernest Cox of Austin, assistant state adjutant, presented another phase of Auxiliary work—that of fostering and keeping alive in the minds of the American people a deep and real appreciation of World War soldier's service to his country.

Mrs. Will M. Benton of Amarillo, chairman of the fifth division, presided at the meeting. Reports on the work of various units were made by representatives, by letter, and by telegram. Borger, Wellington, Memphis, Canyon, Amarillo, and Pampa had delegates at the convention. Mrs. W. S. Parks, of Fort Worth, in petite chapeau, was present and made an interesting talk in the work that is being done in her district.

During the business session, it was announced that Pampa has the second largest active membership of any unit in the Fifth division, only Amarillo, having a larger enrollment. There are now more than 70 active members in the Kerley-Crossman Unit.

Hotel Guests Are Victims of Thief

S. Rosing cannot be convinced that Pampa is an honest city. He with Mrs. Rosing arrived in the city late Saturday night and took a room in a local hotel. As a rule he takes his money out of his trouser pockets, but Saturday night he forgot.

Upon waking Sunday morning, Mr. Rosing found his trousers missing as well as the $133 in a pocket. He immediately notified city officers, but no trace of the thief and his haul has been found.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosing are cooks and arrived here expecting to find employment.

New Paving Will Be Opened Soon

The first pavement of the new contract with the Stuckey Construction company will probably be opened to traffic tomorrow City Engineer A. H. Doucette and officials of the company state. The new vibrolithic pavement to the city's contract with the company, must set 21 days before being opened to traffic.

Two blocks on North Ballard street to connect with the first paving and one block on West Kingsmill avenue are ready for traffic.

It will require about four more working days to complete the paving of the five blocks on North Somerville street, which must stand 21 days. Grade work has begun on West Francis avenue, which will be ready for paving when North Somerville street is completed.

ATTEMPT TO BURN RACE HORSES FAILED

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(P)—A Saratoga special to the Evening World says an attempt to destroy by fire the Kentucky Derby winner Reigh Count and the futurity winner Anita Peabody, was foiled yesterday by watchmen aroused by watchdogs.

Kerosene soaked cotton was stuffed in cracks, birdows and other vantage points of the stables housing the racing strings of Mrs. John D. Hertz and John E. Madden.

LEGION CONVENTION PASSES RESOLUTIONS ASKING PENAL AND ELEEMOSYNARY CHANGES

State Is Urged to Build Hospital for Crippled Children—Pampa Is Lauded for Hospitality

After what was repeatedly declared by visitors to have been one of the outstanding district conventions of the year in Texas, the Fifth division of the American Legion adjourned its two-day session in Pampa Sunday afternoon.

The resolutions adopted expressed high praise for the hospitality of the Kerley-Crossman post and gave special commendation for the unstinted publicity given the big meeting. Election of officers and selection of the next meeting place were deferred.

Legion members received much valuable information and encouragement in an address Sunday afternoon by H. D. Woods of Lubbock, who as head of the 18th district was chairman.

Mr. Woods appointed the following committeemen to assist in holding the state convention:

Roy Guthrie, Memphis, to committee on credentials.

A. C. Sailor, Pampa, to committee on grievances and appeals.

W. A. Morton, Borger, to committee on grievances and appeals.

W. A. Morton, Borger, to committee on constitution and by-laws.

Lewis R. Fields, Amarillo, committee on resolutions.

L. W. Hoskins of Harlingen spoke for the 40 and 8 activities, calling attention to the fact that the play organization has its serious aspects and is especially interested in boys' work.

Division Is Growing

Ernest C. Cox took up the subject of boys and expressed his belief in individualizing treatment of modern youth. He said uniform or standardized methods will not work.

A touching bit of pageantry was introduced at the conclusion of the Legion program at the Rex theatre when J. T. Crawford, 81-year-old Confederate veteran, wearing the Grey, was escorted from the stage by a Boy Scout. Although active and hearty, Mr. Crawford is one of the few survivors of the Civil War who live in this territory.

Legislation Sponsored

In discussing committee work, Mr. Cox stressed the legislative program. Nationally, this has included a two-year extension of the limit on adjusting compensation for veterans, securing an appropriation of $15,000,000 for hospitals, and furtherance of the universal draft principle.

For Texas, he urged reorganization of the eleemosynary and penal institutions, alleged by him to be antiquated and capable only of aggravating the very things they are supposed to remedy. He said Texas has 11,000 insane persons costing an average of $23 per month each, and little is being done to reduce the number.

He also called attention to the charge that the State had broken faith with the United States Veterans' bureau the Legion, Texas memorial hospital. The money has gone back into the general fund, but should be taken out and rededicated, he declared. He suggested erection of National Guard memorial armories as worthy of the fund's use.

Junior Baseball Promoted

He spoke at length on boy's welfare, in which he, as a former worker with the occupants of a boys' home, is especially interested. He told of the junior baseball tournament the Legion, in cooperation with the National and American leagues, is holding over the nation. The winning team will see the next world series free. He expressed the hope that each of the 350 Texas Legion posts will enter a team next year.

Americanization as a topic drew the caustic observation that America, proud republic, is voting less in proportion to possible ballot totals than Germany. He said the nation opened in the last year. Texas

Ready for a $5,000 Ride

Miss Bernice Muske of San Antonio is flashing one of those thousand-dollar smiles—and why shouldn't she? The saddle she is exhibiting is worth $5,000, and it will be given away at the rodeo which will be held in connection with the coming American Legion convention at San Antonio. There is more than $1,800 worth of gold on the saddle, which is the second most expensive thing of its kind in the world.

Texas Company Suffers Million Dollar Blaze

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 13.—Firemen early today succeeded in bringing under control a huge fire which destroyed a new treating plant of the Texas company refinery here with a loss estimated at nearly $1,000,000.

The fire was a result of a terrific explosion, the cause of which was undetermined and which rocked the refinery.

None was reported killed or injured. Shortly after the blast, thousands gathered around the refinery. Women and girls, fearing for the safety of husbands or friends, became hysterical, and policemen were called upon to maintain order.

Refinery workers tumbled from beds to assist in battling the flames, and W. K. Holmes, assistant superintendent; R. L. Drake, superintendent of the case and packing plant and other company officials directed the fire-fighting.

Prairies' No. 1 Thut Will Be Drilled in Probably Friday

The Prairie Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Thut in the southwest corner of the Thut pre-emption survey, is still spraying oil from 2,565 feet and will be drilled in about Friday. Six and five eighths-inch casings will be set immediately.

Three new locations were made over the week-end, two in arson county and one in Gray county. The Empire Gas and Fuel company made one location in the southeast corner of section 242, block B-2, Carson county, on the Dave Pope lease and one in the center of the southwest quarter of section 28, block 4, Carson county, on the Crutchfield lease.

In Gray county Perkins and Cullum have made a location to drill their No. 1 Saunders in the southwest corner of the south half of section 4, I. and G. N. survey, about a mile northeast of Le-fors.

BARRED BOXES FOR LACK OF TALLY SHEETS

Democratic Committee To Re-Convene Tuesday at Stinnett

POLL RESULTS TO BE CHANGED

Run-Off for Sheriff Treasurer and Legislature Sure

PANHANDLE, Aug. 13.—(Special)—A recount of ballots in the Hutchinson county Democratic primary election to permit entrance and certification of the barred Marland and Isom boxes was agreed upon here today.

A compromise plan was reached during the noon hour after opening of the election contest in 84th district court, where Judge Newton P. Willis had called a hearing on petition of H. M. Hood and other intervenors.

Taking the witness stand at 11 o'clock, W. S. Christian, Hutchinson county Democratic chairman, said the reason for throwing out the two boxes was that tally sheets had not been delivered with the boxes. Election judges in the disputed voting boxes were said to be in possession of the tally sheets. When court re-convened at 1:15, A. M. Blackman, attorney for the Hutchinson committee, told the court that, if it were according to law, the executive committee would assemble at Stinnett at 10 o'clock Tuesday to re-canvass the vote and certify the Isom and Marland boxes. The case was then rested pending outcome of tomorrow's session.

To count the barred votes will put John White in a run-off with E. C. Gray for representative; Claude Smithers in a race with Sheriff Joe Ownbey, and J. M. Hedgecock in competition with Mrs. Sammie Tate Stone for county treasurer.

The hearing at Miami, in which Walter Allen is disputing the right of Clifford Braly to have a place on the ballot for 31st district attorney, alleging non-residence, has been postponed until tomorrow.

Boys Charged With Murder of Doctor

BROWNSVILLE, Aug. 13.—(P)—Simon Celaya and Truitt Cowan, Brownsville youths, were charged with murder today in connection with the death of Dr. J. Garry Church, prominent Brownsville physician, Saturday night at Point Isabel Dr. Church was alleged to have died from strangulation.

A preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow in Brownsville. The charges were filed by Deputy Sheriff D. S. Wright.

Dr. Church's tie was believed to have become tightened in a scuffle.

Politics at High Pressure in East

By MELVIN E. COLEMAN, Cable Editor, The Associated Press. Storm warnings continue to fly over the international low pressure area in Japan and China while only showers threaten the tranquility of other parts of the world of national and international affairs.

Clouds rose threateningly above the far eastern horizon in the week just ended but failed to break as a strong blast of diplo-macy blew strongly towards Manchuria, threatening to reach monsoon proportions.

This happened when Japan "advised" Chang Hsueh-Liang, military overlord of Manchuria, not to join that dependency to the national government at Nanking and simultaneously warned the Nationalists that unless abrogation of the treaty granting Japanese special privileges in China were rescinded, "subtle measures" would be undertaken.

GASOLINE HIKE TO BE PROBED

Attorney General Believes Increase Is Not Justified

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—(P)—Attorney Claude Pollard said today he has decided to start two assistants on an investigation of the recent statewide increase in the retail price of gasoline.

He said he regarded the price hike as arbitrary and without visible reason and he expects to "go to the bottom of it."

The investigation will start within the next ten days. B. V. Nichols, law enforcement chief, one of the two men detailed for the work, is expected to be out of the office for a week. When he returns, he and Assistant Attorney General Galloway Calhoun will begin the inquiry.

The State never has investigated a gasoline price raise before, as far as general Pollard can learn from the legal department office files.

ONE DISSENTER FOUND IN DEMOCRATIC MEETING

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 13.—(P)—Only one dissenter was found in the ranks of the state Democratic executive committee in its meeting here today when the roll was called and each member asked whether he intended to vote for Governor Alfred E. Smith, the party's presidential nominee.

The Rev. J. C. Everett of South San Antonio, who held the proxy for E. J. Cleveland of the Nineteenth district, announced that "Although I love the Democratic party I will vote for Herbert Hoover for president."

PLANES REPORTED DESTROYED

WASHINGTON, August 13.—(P)—The Navy department was advised today that three navy airplanes, one each from the battleships Utah, Arkansas, and Florida, anchored in Guan-tanamo bay, Cuba, were wrecked by a hurricane Saturday. An inquiry was ordered.

TWINKLES

It may be observed that many wives, rather than send their husbands to jail for failure to support them in the manner to which they aspire, use the alternative of collecting big alimony.

And husbands will agree with the Legion speaker who urged re-organization of the State's eleemosynary and penal systems.

Of course, none of us expect to get any crazier than we now are, but in the event we should it would be much nicer if the system provided steps to get us cured and out again.

With the Sheriff's association meeting pretty often, why now put the convention dates on election days and pick the points where riots are likely to occur for meeting places.

One Texas candidate is demanding that his opponent, incumbent, return to the government the unearned salary he has collected during the campaign. The accuser had better beware; getting logical in politics is more dangerous than living in a glass house and throwing stones.

Anybody who thinks we need stuff to fill up the paper ought to ask the boy who empties the editorial waste basket.

Plains Press Notes

With the finest crop outlook in years, Hale County is expecting her fair to be the best ever held at Plainview, according to The News of that city. Every phase of the fair will be centered about the municipal auditorium, and strong features of the fair will be community exhibits, sponsored by the rural clubs of the county.

In addition to the luxuriant row crops, the county expects to market 40,000 bales of cotton.

Opposition in all parts of Wheeler county to a proposal by the state highway commission to re-route the D. C. D. highway from Wheeler north to Canadian is noted by the News Review of the neighboring county seat. County officials said the bonds were voted following an understanding with the highway commission that state aid would be granted on the road from the Hemphill county line into Mobeetie.

The McLean News says that Boys Scouts of that community are planning to attend the annual summer camp, near Clarendon. The camp will open August 19 and last through August 27. The camp fee will be $6, which will cover cost of food, ice, and general supplies.

The Clarendon News Says "Donley county has again come to the front in competition against the whole state of Texas, in that Miss Nova Cook of Lelia Lake won first prize in individual dress at College Station during the Short Course recently held there. Mrs. Henry Dozier was also listed among the prize winners of the state, taking fourth place in the living room contest."

Slaton is completing a "Pretty Lawn" contest and will award the prizes next Thursday. Recently generous aid of Old Jupe Pluvius has encouraged participants, who number 67. Three judges from Ralls will decide the winners, whose names will be announced at a band concert.

A hotel meeting in Estelline resulted in formulation of plans for the erection of a $25,000 brick hostelry. A stock proposition is contemplated by Wylie Stewart, who offers to furnish $15,000 and donate a site.

Spearman, with 25 new Lions is the latest city to form one of these civic clubs. R. L. McClellan is temporary president. The first action of the club was to thank the Santa Fe for efficient moving of the big wheat crop in the Spearman territory.

Reputation

Vincent Kerens, son of a rich St. Louis man who died some years ago, has finally come into about $2,000,000 worth of his father's estate. His father's will stipulated that the boy was to get nothing but a monthly allowance until "of his own free will and desire he has passed five consecutive years of sobriety and good behavior."

Many young men would be willing to pass five years in sobriety and good behavior if they knew that by so doing they were coming into an immediate fortune. And yet, thousands of young men are playing for the same stakes—and greater ones—only they don't look at it that way. They don't realize it. Day by day these young men are building reputations in their home towns. Bankers watch them. Merchants watch them. Professional men watch them. They are watched by the rank and file. Some day they will want credit at the bank or a high favor at the hands of the community. They will have earned it or they will have lost their best chance to earn it. They will have failed.

Reputation is the business world's most important collateral.—Post-Dispatch.

CAPITOL News

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — If you can't decide what to name the new baby, write the Children's Bureau.

Lots of people do that. The Children's Bureau has a list of names, probably culled from a large dictionary, which it sends out on mimeographed sheets in answer to all such requests.

A woman in Kentucky has solved her problem neatly, according to the report of a child welfare authority from that state visiting here.

She had lost every child she had ever had and someone had suggested that this time she apply to the State Board of Health for the Bureau's series of advisory prenatal letters. She did that, studied and followed instructions and this time her child did not die at the time of birth.

The mother was so grateful that she named the infant State Board of Health.

And she calls him "Statie" for short!

Gasoline consumption in the United States this year is showing an increase of about 14 per cent. The rate of consumption for fuel oil has remained practically stationary. Use of kerosene and lubricating oil has slightly decreased.

The United States continues to consume about 70 per cent of the world's oil production.

If Mr. Aaron Saenz had not had a reputation for honesty he would not be slated to be the next president of Mexico. Saenz owes his rise in Mexican politics to the late President-elect, Obregon.

Obregon, in the revolutionary days, made Saenz his chief of staff and the two continued to be closely associated and attached to each other.

The reason Obregon made Saenz his chief of staff, according to a man who knew them both in those days, was that Saenz was the only man he could trust with the army's payroll.

Possibly some other presidential candidate in the past has allowed himself to be photographed in a bathing suit, but Al Smith is certainly the first one in 1928. The photograph disclosed no resemblance to the god known as Apollo, but the grin on Al's face indicated that he wasn't worrying about that.

The Democratic candidate never bothers about trying to be dignified except when dignity is obviously called for.

It is virtually certain that Herbert Hoover will not pose before the cameras in a bathing suit. One would half suspect that such a celebrity couldn't get away from the Pacific coast without posing on the sands with a few beves of California's famous bathing beauties, but one fears that he will. If your correspondent ever becomes a candidate for anything, public demand for such spectacles will never be denied.

Probably most of use have always had a secret hankering to see President Coolidge in a bathing suit—a yearning intensified by the innumerable photos that have shown him with his clothes on. But Cal, for all his liking for the camera, has never satisfied our curiosity. There is even some doubt whether he ever went swimming.

Section 1. That Section 51, of Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to read as follows:

The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant or authorize the making of any grant of public moneys to any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporations, whatsoever; provided, however, the Legislature may grant aid to indigent and disabled Confederate soldiers and sailors under such regulations and limitations as may be deemed by the Legislature as expedient, and to their widows in indigent circumstances under such regulations and limitations as may be deemed by the Legislature as expedient to indigent and disabled soldiers, who, under special laws of the State of Texas, during the war between the States, served in organizations for the protection of the frontier against Indian raids or Mexican marauders, and to indigent and disabled soldiers of the militia who were in active service during the war between the States, and to the widows of such soldiers who are in indigent circumstances, and who are or may be eligible to receive aid under such regulations and limitations as may be deemed by the Legislature as expedient; and also grant for the establishment and maintenance of a home for said soldiers and sailors, their wives and widows and women who are in the Confederacy, under such regulations and limitations as may be provided for by law; provided the Legislature may provide for husband and wife to remain together in the home. There is hereby levied in addition to all other taxes heretofore permitted by the Constitution of Texas, a State ad valorem tax on property of seven ($7.00) cents on the one hundred ($100) dollars valuation for the purpose of creating a special fund for the payment of pensions for services in the Confederate army and navy, frontier organizations and the militia of the State of Texas, and for the widows of such soldiers serving in said armies, navies, organizations or militia; provided that the Legislature may reduce the tax rate herein levied, and provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed so as to prevent the grant of aid in cases of public calamity.'

Sec. 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the State at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1928, at which all ballots shall have printed thereon 'For the constitutional amendment authorizing the aid to Confederate soldiers and sailors and their widows in indigent circumstances, and authorizing tax levy therefor, and against the constitutional amendment authorizing aid to Confederate soldiers and sailors and their widows in indigent circumstances and authorizing tax levy therefor.' Each voter shall scratch out one of said clauses on the ballot, leaving the one expressing his vote on the proposed amendment.

Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State. The sum of $5,000.000 or so much thereof as may be needed is hereby appropriated for the expense of publication of said amendment. -30-6-13-20

Fall Prospects for Livestock Are Good

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Prospects are good in most sections for fall and winter livestock ranges. H. H. Schutz, statistician for the federal department of agriculture, said in a report today on conditions as of August 1.

Extreme drouth and hot dry winds during the last two weeks of June and the first three of July burned the ranges badly and ravaged feed crops, but timely rain extending practically over the entire state in late July filled tanks and streams and gave the range sufficient moisture for present needs. Cattle are mending rapidly and many fat cattle soon will move to market. A strong market is causing the cattlemen to sell close. Restoring is taking place where producers can resist favorable prices. Sheep and goats lost flesh during July but have been improving since the rains.

Conditions of the ranges August 1, was 87 per cent, one point lower than last month, and cattle conditions was the same as July—89 per cent. July cattle shipments from 35 Texas railway stations totaled 15,237 head, or a decrease of some 22 per cent from the figure of July, 1927.

LOVE FOR TWO RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc. Bessie said uneasily, but emphatically. She couldn't understand Bertie Lou. Did she mean a girl ought to marry just to get a home? 'Of course, but some girls want marriage all their own way, Bessie. They don't think much of what the man they're going to marry would like. He may want a six-room cottage with all his heart; it may have been his dearest dream to have his own roof and a family under it, but if he's like most men he will let the girl have her way—and they may move into an apartment, or even away from town and . . . if things don't go right, they'll never have that house—not together.' She turned her head and blinked hard on the tears that threatened to spill themselves on her wan cheeks. Bessie was silent because she didn't know what to say, which was the best thing she could have done. 'TWO weeks later she made the request. Marco had come for her and driven her out to Moonfields. 'But what on earth you want out here in the prairies is a mystery to me,' he grumbled. Bertie Lou did not tell him until they were in the company's office. Then he heard it indirectly. He stared at her in amazement as she explained what she wanted. Yes, the house could be duplicated. Exactly! Exactly! But several blocks away from the original, of course. Moonfields had grown rapidly. 'How long will it take you to build it? And how much is your down payment?' Bertie Lou sounded very businesslike, but inwardly she was so excited she could hardly keep from showing it in her manner. 'What if the down payment was more than the money she had? The question of future payments she had solved by planning to rent the property. Her joy in it did not extend beyond the thought of ownership—to live in it would be to turn it into a pillory, where escape from her memories would be impossible. Marco stood by, completely dismayed, while she talked over details and terms and finally signed her name on several papers, one of which was a check for $1,500. The initial payment required by the company was less, but Bertie Lou wanted to put all of Rod's $2,000 into the house. Five hundred of it she figured she might need for extra expenses, and the things a new house always required. She had not forgotten her father's shop talk, and as a carpenter's daughter she knew something of building. Her house was going to be built right. 'See here,' Marco burst out when they were back in his roadster. 'What do you think you want with a house like that?' 'It's . . . an obligation,' Bertie Lou told him. 'Everyone who builds a house like that, as you call it, adds something to the sum total of happiness. Marco, you're too young to know that you've got to make others happy to be happy yourself.' 'With all due veneration for your gray hairs,' Marco returned sarcastically, 'there's a hole in your argument through which you're going to plop right into my hat.' Bertie Lou merely looked at him. 'If it's so necessary to make others happy how about giving me a little consideration?' he demanded. 'Why build a house for strangers to bill and coo in?' 'You promised you wouldn't begin that again, Marco. Next time I'll come on the train.' 'But, Bertie Lou, it's absurd. It's unheard of. It's monstrous, the way you treat me. Anyone would think I was nobody. Why, I've reformed for you. Half the night clubs in New York have closed and the rest are just barely keeping the wolf from the door.' 'It won't hurt you,' Bertie Lou returned dryly. 'Isn't there anything I can do to make you even think about marrying me?' Marco pleaded. 'Maybe some day I will if you keep on nagging me,' she told him. 'It will be your own fault if I do, Marco. You wouldn't get much. I'm just a hollow shell. I haven't any heart at all.' 'I suppose I haven't any right to expect Lady Luck to shoot the whole works on me,' Marco mourned in a philosophic tone. 'But I'd rather have been born poor with a chance that you'd love me as my share of good fortune. Believe it or not.' 'If you'd ever been poor I might believe it, Marco,' Bertie Lou said, 'but I can't love you, so you might as well enjoy the blessings you have. Besides, my love never blessed anybody.' 'Give it a chance, and see,' Marco urged. 'You know what the mother said to her reluctant daughter: 'Love will come afterward.''

Hoover Has Not Closed Doors on Prohibition Issue

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal August 12.—(P)—Swinging into his campaign in earnest early in September, Herbert Hoover probably will expand upon several subjects treated in his address here Saturday accepting the Republican presidential nomination. They will include prohibition farm relief, foreign affairs and development of natural resources.

While the candidate himself has not disclosed the line he will take in amplifying his declaration on the wet and dry question, some of his confidential advisors have stated he will make clear his position and the searching investigation he proposed in his speech will extend to the subject of the Volstead act itself as well as the abuses which have surrounded its enforcement.

These same advisors state that Mr. Hoover has by no means closed the door on the modification of the enforcement act passed under the Eighteenth amendment if all of the facts obtained by the investigating commission point to this as a constructive method of carrying forward what he has characterized as "a great social and economic experiment."

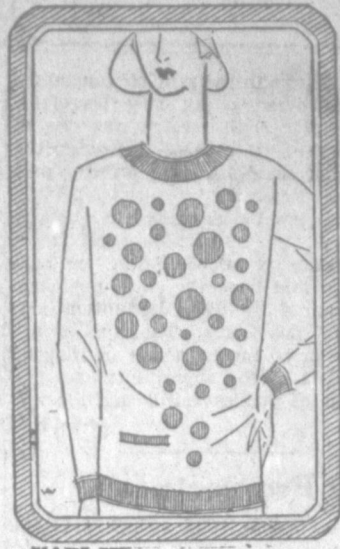

In this connection, however, they emphasize what the standard bearer himself said in his acceptance speech: that modification to permit that which the constitution forbids is nullification, which the American people will not countenance.

Plane Tamped With To Produce Fall

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 13.—(P)—Two efforts to disable an airplane at the municipal field here were under investigation today by the sheriff's office.

The plane which belongs to H. Schroeder of Boerne and Quinn Ross of San Antonio, has been tampered with so that it might have crashed soon after leaving the ground. Two cables which control the movement of the plane while in the air had been filed almost through, and the gasoline tank had been fitted with a mixture of gasoline and wood stain which have cut out the motor.

The owners were preparing to ascend yesterday when the motor began to cough. Neither has an idea who might have tampered with the plane.

Daily Oklahoman To Back Hoover Instead of Smith

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 13.—(P)—E. K. Gaylord, publisher of the Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times, two of the largest Democratic newspapers of the state, announced today in a front page editorial that the papers would support the candidacy of Herbert Hoover rather than that of Governor Smith.

Mr. Gaylord said the papers "will not join the Republican party, but neither are they going to join a liquor movement."

Mr. Hoover would "waste no wasteful efforts on prohibition modification," he elected, Mr. Gaylord said. He asserted Governor Smith of New York, the Democratic presidential candidate, would "concentrate his efforts on the modification of the Volstead act," and added that the Oklahoman and the Times "will not assist in building up a purely liquor party nor undertake a campaign to over throw the Eighteenth amendment."

R. E. FINLEY IMPROVES
Word has been received from B. E. Finley, president of the First National Bank, who has been at Manitow, Okla. over a month in the interest of his health, that he is still improving and will return home before September.

He Couldn't Wait Four Months for His Freedom; Now He Faces Hangman's Rope

By NEA Service
HOUSTON, Aug. 13.—One of the slickest prison escapes ever devised by convicts anywhere would have worked perfectly, and two prisoners would soon be free men if Raymond Hall hadn't let his impatience get the best of him.

Hall couldn't wait. So, instead of being free, he is confined on a charge of first degree murder, and may die on the scaffold.

Hall, who has a long criminal record, was sentenced to 99 years last winter for a holdup. He was tried at Wichita Falls, and was ordered confined in the farm prison at Huntsville, near Houston.

When he was sent to prison there was another convict sent with him—a young chap named Raymond Tucker, who was due to serve one year for violating the liquor laws. On the train the two got acquainted and cooked up this scheme:

They traded names and papers. At the end of one year, Hall posing as Tucker, would be released. Then, when Hall had time to get out of Texas Tucker would reveal his real identity; and while he undoubtedly would be punished for aiding in Hall's escape, the punishment would not be very heavy and having served his year, he, too, would be freed shortly afterward.

It probably would have worked perfectly if Hall hadn't got impatient. Huntsville prison officials never discovered the hoax; they listed Hall as Tucker serving a one-year sentence and put Tucker down as Hall, with 99 years to go. His year would have been out in December.

But Hall couldn't even wait to serve out his one year. One day recently Hall and some other convicts were working in a field under the direction of guards. Catching a guard by surprise, Hall overpowered him and took away his pistol and shotgun. He and six other prisoners made a break for freedom. Sergeant Henry Ward ordered them to halt and Hall shot him dead. The seven ran to the road, commandeered a passing auto and made the driver speed toward the town of Richmond, but were captured by posse after a gun battle.

So now Hall faces a charge of first degree murder.

When he was caught, however, he was put down on the books as Raymond Tucker. This was too much for the real Tucker and he promptly revealed the hoax. As a result, the entire prison system is being investigated.

Meanwhile however, Raymond Hall awaits almost certain death on the gallows.

And all because he couldn't wait for four more months to pass!

Insurance Company In Hands of Men Who Confer Today

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13.—(P)—Course of action to be taken by authorities in regard to Roy C. Toombs, president of the International Life Insurance company, lay in the decision of a conference of city and national prosecutors today.

Circuit Attorney Sidener, Attorney General Shartel, United States Attorney Brewer and representatives of the office of the attorney general of Illinois were to decide whether criminal action should be taken against Toombs, in connection with $3,500,000 of assets reported missing from the company.

Meanwhile the fate of the company lay in a hearing before presiding Judge Kimbrough Stone, who announced he would hear attorneys for federal and state receivers and decide which was entitled to take over the company in receivership.

Mrs. W. H. Hanke and children of Elk City, Okla., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Zahn and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McNamara.

Smith Calls on Many Leaders for Advice This Week

ALBANY, Aug. 13.—(P)—In conferences that may have far reaching political effects, Governor Smith intends before the end of the week to discuss the agricultural situation here with a group of farm leaders and to talk over his presidential campaign with three men high in Democratic party councils—Senator Walsh of Montana and George G. Goetz, and Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy under Woodrow Wilson.

The farm delegation, headed by George H. Peck of Illinois, who cast his lot with Smith several days ago, was in Albany today for its meeting with the nominee. Daniels is due Wednesday, George Thursday, and Walsh on Friday—all coming at the Governor's invitation.

Al Smith Keeps Collection of Dogs

ALBANY, N. Y., August 13.—(P)—Canine politics is being played fast and seriously these days at the executive mansion where the Democratic presidential nominee spends his few leisure hours.

Rivalry for affections of Governor Smith, White House aspirant, is fast making a strained situation in a corner of the famous gubernatorial zoo. There is Jeff, large and lazy great Dane, who is dear of the Smith dogs, not only in point of size, but in point of length of service.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Chappel and J. V. Townsend, left yesterday for Ohio. They will spend a vacation of two weeks at various points in that state. Mrs. Townsend has spent the past two months in Ohio and will return with Mr. Townsend.

I LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU and ROD BRYER are happily married, until LILA LOREE plots to separate them. She had once been engaged to Rod although she had refused to marry him because he was poor. She meets and marries wealthy CYRUS LOREE and persuades him to give Rod a splendid position because of her friendship for Bertie.

In order to see Rod without arousing suspicion, Lila endeavors to win Bertie Lou's confidence by showering her with favors. Gradually she arouses Rod's infatuation for her, and when Bertie Lou discovers that they are each other secretly, she is heart broken, and indulges in the disposition of wealthy wives which Lila had taught her.

Rod loses confidence in her and they drift farther apart but he will not admit his renewed interest in Lila. This infuriates her and to make him more dependent on her, Lila takes a jewel robbery in which it appears that Rod is the thief, but she begs him to keep it secret to save his reputation. He discovers the trick, and she admits she did it to gain his love.

He repudiates her treachery and divorces her. She reminds him that his wife is out with young MARCO PALMER. He leaves her and drives to the Palmer home where he sees Marco and Bertie Lou in lounging robes and separates without learning that they were merely coming upstairs from a morning swim.

When Bertie Lou gets home, Rod is gone, leaving no word but a check for $2,000. Not realising that he left because of his suspicions of her, Bertie Lou denounces Lila for trying to take him away from her. Both women try to locate Rod without success. Bertie Lou secures a position, and waits for Rod to get a divorce.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXVIII
IT had been a long time since Bertie Lou had been to Rod's lawyer. Everything had been settled. This summons could mean but one thing: Divorce!

Well, it had to come. She was prepared for it. But, rather strangely, she thought, it still had the power to hurt—this legal separation.

"Really it ought to be done by a surgeon," she reflected, on the way. "It's just like a knife cutting right through the heart."

But that was not what she told Rod's lawyer. "I suppose Mr. Bryer wants a divorce," she began as soon as she was shown into his office.

He looked at her in surprise. "I've no objection," Bertie Lou hurried on, but he stopped her.

"I've been requested by your husband to interview you on the subject of divorce," he interrupted, "but it is not his intention to bring suit. He wishes to know if you want to free yourself."

Bertie Lou stared at him. At last she said, quietly: "If Rod wants a divorce let him say so. He can have it. But of course if he prefers to let me bring suit, I'd rather do that than be sued."

It was in her mind to add, "In view of the fact that I am the injured party."

But she remained silent, and the lawyer, not knowing that her very soul was shuddering at the prospect, set her down among these women, who, whether they are the injured or the innocent party, prefer to cast the stigma of divorce upon the husband. To sue is respectable. To be sued is... "well, you know, my dear, it sort of reflects upon one."

THE lawyer reported to Rod later that Mrs. Bryer would start suit in the spring. Rod understood that Bertie Lou was not in a hurry to marry Marco. Perhaps for some reason of the latter's. His family maybe. And it appeared reasonable that Bertie Lou should prefer not to lengthen unnecessarily the period during which she must assume the role of a divorcee before she could marry again.

He believed she was protecting her family. It would be easier for them to have it all over with in as short a time as possible—the divorce and her marriage to Marco.

Rod's letters from home advised him that Bertie Lou was working. His mother had heard it from Mrs. Ward. That was something Rod could not understand. It was inconsistent.

Molly Fraser told him that Bertie Lou was always with young Palmer. "She comes around about twice a week," Molly informed him. "But I don't encourage her, Rod, because I think it's simply scandalous the way she has behaved. And that young Mr. Palmer is always with her."

Bertie Lou knew that she was not encouraged at Molly's, but she did not go there because it pleased her to do so, by any means. She had not forgotten the anonymous note she still believed that Molly had written her about Lila and Rod while she was in Wayville.

And Molly had heard a lot of made-up tales about Bertie Lou from Lila. She was anything but cordial when Bertie Lou called, driven to suffer Molly's attitude through a desire to learn something about Rod. His lawyer had refused her his address or news of him. At Rod's request.

She couldn't get much information concerning him from Wayville, either. In response to her requests urging her mother to ask Rod's mother for his address, and whether it was true or not—Mrs. Ward couldn't say—Mrs. Bryer claimed she did not know it. "They address their letters to Rod through general delivery," she wrote to Bertie Lou.

ONCE or twice Bertie Lou was so desperate she considered going to Lila. But she never could quite bring herself to do that.

She wondered that Lila had not left Cyrus. "But I suppose she's waiting until I get a divorce so she can be sure of Rod before she gives up Cy," she told herself. "I never would have thought Rod would stand for a thing like that! Well, they can wait until Spring if it's left to me."

She was willing to divorce Rod but the immediate prospect of it—the coming face to face with the actual first step—had appalled her. She could not go through with it—not yet, at least.

But if Bertie Lou was thinking undulating thoughts of Rod's attitude in the whole matter, he was inclined to think more highly of her than he had since Lila started poisoning his mind against her.

It certainly reflected a great deal of credit upon Bertie Lou to be carrying her own living, he thought, and not accepting her support from Marco Palmer. All the more reason, though, for thinking they would marry some day. Anyone must respect and admire all the more a girl with an independent spirit, Rod admitted.

But why, if Bertie Lou was willing to work, did she live such a fast pace at night? Molly said she looked like the ghost of her former self—that she was heavily made up to "hide her dissipation," and that she "smoked incessantly."

And what had become of the money he'd given her, Rod wondered.

What he did not know was that Bertie Lou ran with Marco's crowd because she was afraid to be alone—afraid of her memories and the unwelcome pictures that came to her mind when she was not "whooping it up" with a mad, impetuous band of reckless youngsters.

Marco liked her to be happy. If Marco dropped her Bertie Lou didn't know what she would do. Go mad, she supposed. She would if she had to sit in her hall bedroom and face her dreary future. Her loveless, drab, homeless future! Better to please Marco while she could; at least until he realized that she meant it when she said she wouldn't marry him. After that—well, that time hadn't come.

And it was gay to go around with Marco. They went to places where wickedness was refined at any rate, and Marco's friends were not vulgar.

Mostly they had soured on life for one reason or another and would be like that for a few years more probably. In the meantime they had to make fun to keep in the running.

BERTIE LOU did not dare let go. She became their leader and Marco was proud of her. But it could not last.

One day she collapsed at work. And her employer sent her to a hospital. Then he called in Marco.

Bertie Lou's wild days were over. She was a trembling hysterical wreck. But she wouldn't let them telegraph her mother. The doctor said she would get well. And Marco promised to see that she kept quiet when she got up. Marco was a chastened young man. The doctor had held him responsible—yes, him, and his father also for his too generous allowance.

Bertie Lou's employer held her position open for her and paid her bills. To save him expense she insisted upon being taken back to her rooming house as soon as she was able to be moved.

There, during the long lonely hours of staring at a cheap picture on the faded paper-covered wall, or of hurting her eyes trying to look through the coarse lace curtains over a dirty window, she evolved a plan that was half-dream, half-hope, for something to do when she was well again.

She couldn't go back to seeking forgetfulness in the way that had put her in the hospital. She supposed she must lose Marco—she hated that—he was a dear companion when he wasn't begging her to marry him some day. But what use could he have for a girl who was no longer able to keep up with his pace?

He'd been a darling during her illness. Fresh flowers every day and baskets of luscious fruits. Books, too, but somehow she couldn't read; she couldn't concentrate on anything but her own affairs, her tragic, hopeless affairs. For she felt that her life was done, that she never could find anything to live for again. That was tragic—unless this plan she had would help.

She let her eyes rove over the shabby room and come to rest on Marco's latest offering of flowers. She saw them through a mist of tears, and looked away. They reminded her that Marco was the last friend she had, and pretty soon there would be no more flowers from him. She must send him on his way.

The others, people she had met through him, did not count. Neither did any of Molly's or Lila's friends. The only persons who cared anything about her now were in Wayville. And Bertie Lou wasn't going home.

She was going to do something else—something interesting. Something that thrilled her just to think of it. It wouldn't last forever—the pain and pleasure—undertaking, but it would take the edge off her unhappiness while she went through the ordeal of divorcing Rod.

After that she wouldn't need distraction quite so much, and she always would have something to dream over. She was turning the thought over in her mind, developing it and getting more excited each moment when someone knocked on her door.

"Come in," she called. The door opened and a round, good-natured face with heaps of freckles and a nice grin was poked in. "May I come all the way in?" its owner inquired.

"I'm glad to have you," Bertie Lou told her. And so she was. For a week now she had received a daily visit from her neighbor in the next room, Beesie Rogers.

Beesie was a shopgirl and a devoted little soul to anyone she liked. She had liked Bertie Lou after her first call. They had not really met until Bertie Lou came home from the hospital.

"Anything I can do?" she asked after sniffing the flowers. It was a never-ending source of conjecture with her that Bertie Lou got such costly blooms. But she was not inquisitive.

"Yes," Bertie Lou replied. "You can help if you like to listen. I've a perfectly mad but heavenly idea that I've got to talk over with someone."

In Appreciation

PAMPA CITIZENS through the fine response to the opportunities presented by the Fifth division district convention here earned the acclaim of the many visiting Legiannaires, and the Pampa post takes this means of expressing its gratitude for the splendid cooperation it received Saturday and Sunday.

The friendly spirit of our people deeply impressed the visiting men and women, and the meeting will go into the records of the state department as "an outstanding convention." The result is very beneficial to the local post and the community as a whole.

To the business men who made possible the decorations which were pronounced "unsurpassed," and to the local newspapers whose generous and efficient publicity so pleased the state officials, we especially desire to express our thanks.

The assistance of the many individuals who helped make the convention a success will be held in grateful memory by everyone affiliated with this post.

He concluded in a stirring oration on Texas. More than 6 feet tall, and weighing 220 pounds, Mr. Cox with his wit, force, and enthusiasm held the attention of his audience throughout. Mr. R. A. Webb and Mrs. R. R. Jones sang duets before Taps was sounded.
