PAMPA, GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS, TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 3, 1928

(P)—Means Associated Press

PRICE FIVE CENTS

AMARILLO MAN GIVEN SCHOOL WORK

Hundreds Present at Formal Opening Pampa Refining Co. Plant

"GRACO" NOW NAME OF NEW LOCAL ARTICLE

Six Persons Suggested Winning Name For Gasoline

FINE PLANT SEEN BY MANY

Owners Say Much of Output for Export Trade

It's "GRACO." Gray county's high grade, "sweet" crude oil will be advertised through the selection of the trade name of "Graco" for the products of the Pampa Refining company...

A $25 prize had been offered for the best name for the Pampa gasoline, but when six persons suggested the same one the management decided to give each $10, making a total of $60. The lucky persons were Mattie Lee Clay, Mrs. N. B. Sisk, Phillip R. Pond, S. J. Elzekburn, Nathan Jones, and W. E. Davis...

All of these submitting names, excepting the winners, will be mailed a letter including an order for five gallons of the Graco gasoline.

Pampa Band Plays Probably 400 persons or more attended the formal opening program held under the supervision of the local Chamber of Commerce. The occasion was planned by Manager George W. Briggs, Scott Barcus, and A. McClary, manager of the plant...

City Manager F. M. Gwin and Mr. Briggs struck the keynote of the occasion in urging local support of the local enterprises. They emphasized the fact that the most successful communities are built from within...

The Pampa Refining company is owned by Reese S. Allen of Wichita Falls and Amarillo, C. L. Rowan of Amarillo, and Dr. A. McClary, manager of the plant. The Amarillo Refining company is an associated industry. Mr. Allen became interested in Pampa many years ago...

Plant Begun in March A stimulus to locate here was given by an opportunity to obtain a site, pipeline facilities, and loading rack from the British-American Oil company. Following this purchase, construction of the plant actually began March 24...

The refinery went into operation June 12 at 4 o'clock. During the rest of that month it consumed 35,553 barrels of "sweet" Gray county crude oil. It is producing high test gasoline, gas oil, the naphthas, kerosene, and fuel oil. A local market was not sought at first...

Local Use Urged However, it was pointed out by Chamber of Commerce speakers that much of the gasoline being sold here is shipped long distances and the freight, saving through local manufacture may be kept here for building up the community.

Mother of Soldier Wills Big Fortune to Nurse Who Cared for Her Son in World War

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—(P)—A mother's gratitude for the care given her soldier-son by a World War nurse was revealed today in announcement of the nurse that she had bequeathed $3,000,000 by the mother. In thirty days of the war Edna Irving nursed back to health a young British officer in the base hospital at Boulogne, France. Captain Maxwell Woodlynn was one of the many she cared for daily. The nurse, who went overseas from a little Canadian town, said she had received word from a firm of London attorneys that her name was set down in the will of the officer's mother, Mrs. Julia Woodlynn, for a bequest of 750,000 pounds, or more than $3,000,000.

First Carload of New Wheat Will Be Shipped Today

Probably the first carload of new wheat to leave Pampa will be sent from Pampa Grain company elevator today. It will contain 2,000 bushels of wheat testing 60 pounds. It brought $1.14 to $1.17 per bushel and came from fields averaging from 20 to 35 bushels per acre.

The crop is especially good south of Pampa, and appears to be averaging 30 bushels or better. Due to the late start in harvesting, the harvest season will continue through all of this month. Most of the crop is being cut with combines.

Jimmy Walker Is Perfectly at Home Clad in Pajamas

COLTON, Calif., July 3.—(P)—Pajamas may not constitute the proper habiliments in which to face reception committees, but Mayor "Jimmy" Walker of New York has shown that he can wear them with perfect poise on such an occasion.

The New York executive's train stopped here for a short time yesterday on route to Los Angeles from Houston. A reception committee, headed by Mayor Walter Pfunder of Colton and including several prominent women, made an unheralded visit to Walker's private car. There sat his honor clad in blue pajamas and slippers. He was playing solitaire.

The mayor was quickly on his feet. There was dispute as to whether he be blushed, but he received with perfect dignity the greetings that were tendered.

Trans Atlantic Trip Delayed for Want of Small Blade

HORTA, Island of Fayal, Azores, July 3.—(P)—A small piece of metal is delaying the trans-Atlantic flight of Captain Frank T. Courtney. When his seaplane arrived here from Lisbon en route to America one of the blades of the propeller of the generator of the radio set was broken. Sergeant Fred Pierce, mechanic, made a substitute one of brass. Since the other blade was of aluminum, the unequal weight caused great vibration in the generator. This will have to be overcome before the hop is made since the flyers are placing great dependence on the wireless for direction finding.

LeFors Is Planning Big July Fourth

July 4 at LeFors promises to be a gala occasion with a free barbecue, baseball game, speaking, and an evening of dancing at two pavilions. There also will be a band concert. Business men are sponsoring the event. Two ranchmen of that district have donated a yearling each for the barbecue.

Brownwood Youth, Spurned, Kills Self

BROWNWOOD, July 3.—(P)—Moses Grady Anderson, 17, was found shot to death here last night. He had brooded for several days over the fact that a friend had stopped speaking to him, the boy's father said. Young Anderson visited the offices of a newspaper yesterday and spent two hours writing his own funeral arrangements. The type-written notes were found after his death.

Big Texas Well Ceases Flowing

The Texas company's No. 1 Bowers, which has produced more than 700,000 barrels of crude oil, went dead suddenly yesterday. It is the belief of the company that paraffin is giving trouble, since the well has been remarkably consistent, holding up to 3,000 barrels or more daily. The well is on Section 39, block B-2. The Texas company has material on the ground for its No. 1, M. H. Reed, section 1, block B-2, offsetting the LePors Petroleum company's No. 2 J. M. Shaw.

TO FLY TO BOGOTA MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., July 3.—(P)—Lieut. Camilo Dass, Colombian army flier, took off today in his Swiss biplane for Washington, on the first leg of a flight to Bogota.

HOW TO BOLT PARTY IS TOLD BY CANDIDATE

Presidential Ticket Not Under Pledge, Says Hawkins

CONE JOHNSON AGAINST SMITH

W. C. T. U. Will Not Be Aligned With the New Yorker

AUSTIN, July 3.—The question of how a candidate for public office in Texas on the Democratic ticket can "bolt" the national ticket and yet not violate his pledge for the state primaries was answered here Tuesday by Judge William E. Hawkins, Breckenridge, candidate for governor, from his own viewpoint.

After he had given out a statement reiterating a decision not to support Governor Al Smith for president, Judge Hawkins asserted that presidential nominees are not nominees of the July primaries and that Texas voters and candidates participating in the primaries under the Democratic pledge are not morally bound to support presidential candidates of the under.

Judge Hawkins stood with regard to the bolting is parallel to that of Mrs. Edith Wilman, one of his opponents for Governor, and Senator Tom Love, candidate for lieutenant governor, both of whom have declared they would not support Governor Smith.

The name of Cone Johnson, state highway commissioner and veteran Democratic leader, was added late Monday to the list of the politically prominent refusing to support Smith. Although Johnson said he does not favor the ultra-prohibition conference called for Asheville, N. C., he declared he would not support the New York governor. Mrs. Claude de Van Watts, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Texas, said Tuesday that she will attend the conference. She said before the Houston national convention that the W. C. T. U. would bolt Smith if nominated.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Park spent Sunday in Mobeetie with Mr. Park's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Park.

Lynn Boyd Takes Over Presidency of Rotary Club as Cook Retires

Organization Started With Twenty Members and Now Has Total of 36

Lynn Boyd this noon took up his duties as president of the Pampa Rotary club, succeeding Charles C. Cook, president of the organization in its first year.

Lynn Boyd was formally installed as president of the Rotary Club, succeeding C. C. Cook, today noon at the Schneider Hotel. The luncheon was advanced a day on account of tomorrow, the regular meeting date, being the Fourth of July.

J. M. Dodson, treasurer, stated that the club had raised approximately $2,100 since it was organized in the spring of 1927 to date. The club started with 24 active members, 20 of whom are still in the club. The club now has 36 members.

Frank Keim, past president of the Wichita Falls Club, made a humorous talk, calling attention to the alleged failures of the retiring president. Mr. Cook was defended by Secretary Tom Rose, who presented the past president with a silver pitcher, properly engraved, showing his services to the club. Mr. Cook was given a goblet.

President Boyd has called a meeting of the new directors, and plans for the year's work will be discussed. Guests included Dr. A. McClary, J. F. Vicars of San Jose, Calif., Ralph Eaton, Western Newspaper Union, Wichita, Kans. and Mrs. Tom Rose.

Smith to Take Few Days Rest Before Starting Campaign

NEW YORK, July 3.—(P)—Governor Smith today looked forward to a few days of comparative rest occupied only with patriotic and routine matters. "I'm trying to ease off a little bit," he explained. "The excitement of the crowd coming home from Houston and the last few days generally has been trying and what I want most now is a day or two of rest."

Tomorrow the Democratic presidential nominee is scheduled to make two patriotic addresses, one at the annual Tummary Hall Independence day exercises at the Dld Wigwam in 14th St. soon to be torn down, and the other before 15,000 newly naturalized citizens in City Hall park. Politics will be tabo at both meetings.

Governor Smith has declined an invitation to address a July 4 Ku Klux Klan meeting in Queens Borough. The governor said he had accepted two invitations for the day a month ago and declared "that's enough for any man."

Senator Heflin of Alabama, his bitterest political foe, is scheduled to address the Klan meeting. Governor Smith saw several Democratic leaders yesterday but said their visits were purely social and that politics was not discussed.

The governor is avoiding political discussions pending the two highlights of the Democratic pre-campaign period. One will be the meeting of the national committee here July 11, at which a new chairman and other officers are to be named and the other his formal speech of acceptance of the nomination at Albany late in July or early in August.

The speech of acceptance is likely to be the real "keynote" presentation of the issues upon which the governor expects to make his fight. He has let it be known that he will elaborate his views on prohibition in his acceptance address.

A statement by Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy under President Wilson, urging southern Democrats to vote for the party candidate and later fight in Congress any attempt to modify the prohibition laws was called to Governor Smith's attention. "I have already said," commented the governor, "that I would make my position perfectly clear in my acceptance address."

A. L. RANDAL IS LOW BIDDER IN MEETING HERE

Will Construct Three Buildings for $87,600

MANY FIRMS REPRESENTED

L. H. Sullins Awarded Heating, Plumbing Contract

A. L. Randal of Amarillo yesterday afternoon was awarded the contract to construct two ward buildings and the gymnasium-auditorium "within 90 working days."

The approximate total of the bid was $87,600. The next low bid, of about $90,950, was made by the Windsor Construction company of Hutchinson, Kas. There are several alternatives in the specifications, hence the exact totals will not be known until these have been decided upon.

L. H. Sullins of Pampa received the contract for lighting and plumbing in the ward buildings. His bid was $10,500. The lighting and plumbing of the gymnasium-auditorium are embodied in the general contract.

The Vernon-Williams Brick company of Amarillo will furnish the brick for the ward schools. This will be a light, mingled color material in grays and buffs. It is manufactured by the Elgin-Butler Brick company of Austin. O. V. Vernon of Amarillo represented his company.

The ward schools, to be placed on the new sites in the Sloan and Cole additions, respectively, will have eight rooms each.

Among the bidders submitting prices yesterday were the following: John T. Glover, Pampa. Chas. H. Sharp, Pampa. C. S. Lambie and company, Amarillo.

H. L. Case and company, Pampa. W. E. Davis, Pampa. W. Frank Little, Amarillo. Corlett and Welchins, Hutchinson, Kas.

Christy-Dolph company, Amarillo. E. C. Ciekner company, Hutchinson, Kas.

Prendergast Bros., Pampa. Harrison and Smyth, Plainview. H. H. Shell and son, Lubbock. W. P. Cooper and company, Amarillo.

A. L. Randal, Amarillo. Fox Rig and Reel company, Pampa.

Several local bidders were low or near the low figure on individual buildings, but the group bid of Mr. Randal was several thousand dollars below any other method of figuring, according to members of the board.

W. R. Kaufman, local man, is architect for the building program.

Damage Suit Is Based in Negligence in Plane Operation

NEW YORK, July 3.—(P)—What is believed to be the first negligence suit based on a death caused by an airplane crash was on file in Supreme Court today.

Mr. Stroll alleges that the airplane which crashed at Curtis field April 14, 1927, killing his son, Carl, Jr., a passenger, was "carelessly, negligently and improperly handled." His son had paid $5 for the flight.

John Parke Andrews, pilot of the plane in which young Stroll was killed, also died in the crash as did Mrs. Mary Seaman of Greenport, L. I., another passenger. Their plane sideslipped to the ground when only 200 feet in the air. A coroner found that the pilot had done everything possible to prevent the accident.

PAMPA MUST NOT fail to realize the importance of the opening of an immense new trade territory through the construction of the railroad to Cheyenne, Okla.

The iron rail is still the chief mode of transportation in undeveloped territories. The trains operating between Pampa and Cheyenne will serve not only the existing people and traffic, but also the new development which is sure to come with the completion of the new road.

All of these factors mean more trade for Pampa, and especially from the wholesaling and distributing standpoint. In other words, it will give us a chance to serve, to become acquainted with new peoples and new country.

It is not too early to begin getting acquainted with this road and the people it is to serve. Pampa is the distributing point for materials, and first trains will start carrying supplies from the local yard.

Moreover, since the Santa Fe has purchased the Clinton and Oklahoma Western railroad of Oklahoma, and the Orient, which it wishes to buy, touches Clinton, Pampa may be linked with the big Orient territory as well.

Harmony, indeed

Harmony is the theme of 1928 Democracy, and it is being argued as democratic of the little "d" variety. The whole world knows that the Democratic party needs nothing quite so much as internal agreement.

That Mrs. Wilmans has decided not to support the nominee proves again that women are not politically minded. The answer of most other office seekers has been: "I am a Democrat, therefore I will support the nominee of the Democratic party." That is reason enough, if you are a Democrat, and if you believe in maintaining party strength through harmony and majority rule.

The party pledge, as such, is wrong in principle in the abstract, yet as a method of maintaining party procedure it is no more stringent than other similar organizations use.

Those who put their dislike for the party's standard bearer over their consideration for party harmony and future existence necessarily must be regarded as nominal Democrats, or mere sympathizers with the party in normal times.

It seems a sad occurrence that the chief opposition in the Democratic ranks should come from the pulpit, and that the campaigning for party discord in the next few months will come from the spot where ordinarily the Gospel is expounded.

In other words, although the pastors as citizens have the right to speak and think on political matters, we seriously doubt their judgment in devoting Sunday after Sunday to political discussions.

In other words, only organized opposition can avail anything, and in the absence of organization there is no need for sustained effort in the pulpit or curbstone—the average person can understand an attitude and one statement of arguments, and then he will do as he likes anyway.

CAPITOL News

By RODNEY DUTCHER

HOUSTON—There was a situation at Kansas City and there was a situation at Houston.

Through these two situations a remarkable parallel. At Kansas City they were going to stop Hoover. They didn't. At Houston they were going to stop Al Smith. They didn't.

Both flopped miserably. Perhaps that proved that no section of the nation—no sectional interest and no sectional prejudice—will ever again exert a dominating influence on national politics or a veto on the presidential nominations.

But the academic angle may be left aside. The question that is bothering the politicians—the boys whose business it is to get the votes, the boys who feed at the trough—is the question of whether or not these two candidates can break into the states which, under ordinary circumstances, would be reserved for either the Republican or Democratic candidate.

Your correspondent, whose guess is no better and no worse than that of anyone else, suspects that most states normally Republican and Democratic will repeat in 1928.

This suggestion is not based on the prophecy of any seer or soothsayer. It is based only on the past performances of these states and the confidential advices of the political leaders of these states interviewed first at Kansas City and then at Houston.

"They're giving us an awful job, but we'll break our necks trying to do it and with good luck we can elect him", said the politicians from Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and the Dakotas as it became perfectly obvious that Hoover would be nominated.

"It's a tough proposition, but we'll break our necks trying to put him over and we ought to be able to do it," say the politicians of Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Florida and the rest of the so-called solid south, following the nomination of Smith.

There are, unquestionably, doubtful states this year. The border states, for instance, are doubtful. The eastern states, such as Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island—and some Republicans will add New York—are doubtful.

In these states one will find, right up to the November election, Republicans predicting victory for the Republican ticket and Democrats predicting victory for the Democratic ticket.

BARBS

(By N.E.A. Service Inc.)

We called on a Republican friend of ours the other night. His radio hasn't been working since the night of Claude Bowers' keynote speech in Houston.

Department of Agriculture figures show the national spring pig crop about 7 per cent under that of 1927. That is encouraging.

George Remus, former Cincinnati bootlegger, has gone to Chicago to sue for property left by the wife he killed. It is to be hoped Chicago will not permit any miscarriage of justice in Mr. Remus' case.

One of the Scotch delegates at Houston, when told by the hotel clerk that he could have a nice hotel room for $24 a day, asked what it would be without the cover charge, as he didn't think he'd need any.

In compliance with our custom of printing annually during the hot weather some terrible thing, we wish to report today that S. J. Risk is an insurance agent at Muskegon, Mich.

These red golf balls are bound to be a failure. What player ever would be able to find his ball after missing a two-foot putt?

TWINKLES

Personally, if we were a candidate for something, it wouldn't make us any more confident to receive a mite of a dog as a token of admiration.

A Houston parrot is in love with a girl. And that's the kind of love the Democratic party insists upon right now. However, another thing they call it is majority rule.

Golf may be an old man's game, but we read of a 28-year-old who dropped dead after making a hole in one.

What We Democrats need is more hate for Republicanism to overcome the prejudices that are being bandied about.

Both parties seem to be catching up on sleep before thinking up names to call each other.

Better have your picture made before the Fourth; you may never look the same again.

Prones Win Second Games of "Crucial Cellar Series"

By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer Philadelphia's bid for some other National league berth than the cellar has been staved off by Hornsby, Sisler and company.

The first two games of a "crucial cellar series" Monday found the Boston Braves twice victorious over the Quakers. At the close of the bargain bill the Braves were four games removed from the humiliating danger of sinking into the last place. As a matter of fact a lineup boasting such stars as Sisler, Hornsby and Bell had no business flirting so dangerously with the bottom of the standing. Complete collapse of what was regarded at the start of the season as a fairly strong pitching staff seems to explain the Braves' long residence in the depths of the second division.

The Phils. put up a gallant fight for both games, carrying each to extra innings before yielding. Lester Bell's scratch single with the bases filled in the 14th gave Boston the opener, 4 to 3. Bengie went the route to the Phils. Hollingworth, making his debut with the Braves, pitched the first nine innings. Delaney finished and received credit for the victory. The Braves won the nightcap, 5 to 4, in 10 innings. With the bases filled 1 nth the final frame. Walsh relieved McGraw. His first offering was a wild pitch that allowed Jack Smith to score the winning run. The Chicago Cubs returned to third place and dropped the Cincinnati Reds to fifth when Art Nehf left handed his way to an easy 8 to 2 victory over Kolb and Jablonowski. Five hits were all the veteran southpaw would allow. Hack Wilson drove in four Cub runs with three hits.

Babe Ruth's 31st home run of the year failed to save the New York Yankees from a 4 to 3 reverse from Washington Senators. Garland Braxton out pitched George Pipgras. Ruth's drive put him 25 games, 22 days and six home runs ahead of the schedule he followed to establish a new mark of 60 last season. The Philadelphia Athletics reduced the Yankee lead to a matter of 13 games by breaking even in a double header with Boston Red Sox. Lefty Grove had no trouble beating the Sox in the first game, 9 to 2. Rube Walberg failed in the second and the A's went down, 7 to 4. Six home runs were smashed out in the double bill. The Chicago White Sox surprised themselves and the St. Louis Browns by taking both games of a double-header, 7 to 1, and 9 to 8. Blankenship pitched great ball in the opener but it took the combined help of George Connelly and Ted Lyons to pull the second game into the Sox's winning column. The Detroit Tigers took many liberties with George Uhle's pitching and walked off with a 7 to 3 triumph over the Indians. Earl Whitehill pitched effectively for the Tigers.

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—The eight clubs of the Western league started all-square today on the second half of the season. Oklahoma City finished in front for the first half which was concluded yesterday, having won 51 and lost 29 games. Pueblo, Wichita, Tulsa, Denver, Amarillo, Omaha, and Des Moines finished in that order.

Norton May Take Texas Championship

SAN ANTONIO, July 3.—(AP)—Tennis enthusiasts who watched Brian I. C. Norton of San Antonio romp thru his first round match in the annual South-west Texas tennis tournament here yesterday believe that the former South African Davis Cup star is on his way back to the form that distinguished him as a Davis cup player. Norton defeated Joe Burney of San Antonio, 6-0, 6-2, without extending himself and won the right to meet Jesse McCarley, junior champion in last year's tournament, today. Lucien LaCoste, one of the few seeded players to see action yesterday was eliminated in the first round by Earl Taylor of Austin, who came back after losing the first set, to win 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. Clifford Hayes of Wichita Falls, another seeded player, failed to arrive and lost by default to Joe Kaufman of San Antonio, a high school player. Play today will start at 12:30 in the afternoon.

Bufs Hold Lead And Defeat Waco 4 to 0 Yesterday

(By The Associated Press)
The Houston Bufs are slashing their way thru ranks of the Texas leaguers in the way that led them to victory in the first half of the season. Showing their best Monday before thousands of feminine fans on ladies day, the Bufs defeated Waco, 4 to 0, and ran their string of consecutive wins this half to four. Their percentage is 1.000. Hallahan was in superb form as he held the Cubs to three scattered bingles, and fanned eleven to run his streak record for the whole season to 133.

Although he was nicked for ten safeties, including a double and a triple by Schuble, Caldwell pitched a good game and with better support at bat and afield from his mates might have fared differently. Dallas continued its threat for leadership by defeating Fort Worth, 3 to 0, mainly as the result of the great hurling of its new pitcher, Walter Newman, acquired from San Antonio over the week end in a trade for Lefty Schuman. John held Dallas to six safeties and pitched ball good enough to win many games, but was hampered by breaks that aided the Steers at critical stages. In the first, the Panthers filled the bases but failed to score, and in the second filled them again when Moore lined into a double play. Wichita Falls stayed in the fight for runner up honors by beating Shreveport, 15, to 3, in a game that reminded old timers of the slugging power of the Dixie champions last season. The Spudders drove out 21 hits while Cavenros was holding the Sports to six. San Antonio won easily from Beaumont, 10 to 2, when Cox proved a puzzle to the Exporters and two Beaumont hurlers, Phillips and Hanson, had nothing with which to stop the bears.

Elder Zbyszko Marries Again

UNION CITY, N. J., July 2.—(AP)—Woladek Zbyszko, polish wrestler and younger brother of Stanislaus, was on his honeymoon today with Miss Anna Stark, 18-year-old Broadway actress. They were married here Saturday by Mayor Charles Mohr. The bride promised to obey. This is Zbyszko's second venture into matrimony. His first wife was Miss Amelia Diaz, 100 pounds, of Havana. He divorced her at Portland, Me., in 1924 charging cruelty. Zbyszko has been one of the leading heavyweight wrestlers of the world for years. In 1922 when Stanislaus

WIVES OF PATRIOTS OF '76 PAID FOR HUSBANDS' GLORY

Invading British Wreaked Vengeance on Women Whose Husbands Signed Declaration of Independence

The same strokes of the pen which brought immortal fame to the 51 married signers of the Declaration of Independence, brought persecution, imprisonment and in some cases—death to their wives.

In all cases it brought weeks and months of loneliness and danger, for while their husbands were devoting their time and energies to the establishment of a new nation, the wives were left alone by their firebrands—cut off usually by long journeys from the scenes of their husbands' stirring activities.

From a historical standpoint, however, nothing that they were forced to endure during these times was so cruel as the forlornness which succeeding generations have accorded their memory.

Martha Washington, Martha Jefferson—yes, her name was Martha, too—Elizabeth Adams, and all the rest are seldom thought of as having played any significant part at all in the drama in which their husbands gained so much fame.

Martha Washington's Plight. Yet, Martha Washington lived "virtually alone at Mount Vernon for weeks in imminent danger of a raid upon the homestead which Lord Dunmore, who was heckling the settlement along the coast of Virginia at the time, openly boasted he intended to make to take Martha prisoner.

After she finally was rescued from her lonely home, Martha became an angel of timidity to the soldiers at Valley Forge and did much to keep their spirits from falling as low as the temperature during those bleak winter months.

Martha Washington, after the death of her husband, destroyed every bit of personal correspondence that ever passed between the two. Historians have sought to attach all sorts of significance to this rather natural act. Some modern writers have sought to draw from it proof for the assumption that the two were unhappily married. Others, that it proved the opposite—that they were extremely happy and that Washington shared with his wife his every hope, fear and ambition and that these were too intimately recorded in his letters to her to stand public scrutiny.

Martha Jefferson died in 1782—a year after she was forced to rise from a sick bed and flee from invading British troops while her husband was governor of Virginia. She became steadily worse after this removal and Thomas Jefferson blamed her death upon the English. He never married again, in keeping with a promise he

Methodist Sunday School Celebrates Children's Day

A pleasant "Queen of Summer" and a short program were given by the pupils of the Primary and Junior Departments of the Methodist Sunday school at ten o'clock Sunday morning in observation of Children's Day. Flowers and allegorical characters figured in the program, and the children playing the various parts were appropriately costumed. The program was given at the conclusion of the program, and consisted of the following numbers:

Piano solo, Miss Dorothy Dodd. Reading, Miss Vivian Rodgers. Reading, Miss Frances Campbell. Piano solo, Miss Dorothy Doucette and Miss Drusilla Morgan.

The program and pageant were given under the direction of Mrs. H. F. Barnhart, superintendent of the Primary department, and Mrs. Fred Gray. A large crowd of pupils from all departments of the Sunday school, parents and church members were present. Children's Day is observed throughout the Conference for the benefit of Sunday schools.

Mildred Haggard Honored on Her Twelfth Birthday

Little Miss Mildred Haggard was honored with a party given by her mother, Mrs. John Haggard, Saturday afternoon. The occasion celebrated the honoree's twelfth birthday, and many exquisite gifts were presented by the guests.

A number of games and contests were enjoyed and fire-crackers were distributed to all those present. A white cake, topped with pink candles, was cut and served with an ice. Those present were: Mildred Haggard, Lorraine Noel, Grace Pierce, Hazel Nicholson, Grace Dwyer and Bonnie Lee Rose.

When A Girl Loves

RUTH DEWEY GROVES

"THIS HAS HAPPENED" VIRGINIA observed as she leaved with NATANIEL HANS, but she is a girl who is not easily frightened. She is a girl who is not easily frightened. She is a girl who is not easily frightened.

she pawns her jewelry and clothing. Her room is a shabby little room. She is a girl who is not easily frightened. She is a girl who is not easily frightened.

Her room is a shabby little room. She is a girl who is not easily frightened. She is a girl who is not easily frightened.

Now go on with the story CHAPTER XLV

PORT AU PRINCE, Hills rising back from the city. Coconut palms making a fringe where they reared against the horizon. A hot blue sky and a blue sea.

Finally the gangplank. Rushing feet. Virginia resisting this one and that as she had throughout all the planning of the days to be spent ashore in this port.

She was the last of those going ashore to leave the ship. She did not wish any reluctant contacts. Just before she departed, Francis, who also had lingered behind, came to speak to her. All morning he had sought her for a word in private, only to find her in such demand and so busy that she could not tear herself away to be alone with him.

"Should you like me to go with you to Lecher's?" he asked.

"Thank you. I'd rather go alone," she answered frankly.

"I thought so," he said. "Well, you know these natives speak mostly a strange dialect. They call it French, but I don't think they'd understand you if a Frenchman would. If they don't you can mix it up with a little English or English." Virginia smiled. "I'm getting one of the stewardesses to accompany me as a guide. She knows Port au Prince well. But thank you very much for your thoughtfulness. Mr. Francis, sorry to leave you here."

Under ordinary circumstances I'd be sorry to leave, but there's a welcome waiting for me as soon as I get home. I'm going to see for the first time. So I'll say good-bye to you. I'll be getting happy yet."

Virginia gave him her hand and congratulated him. She hoped he would find both mother and son doing well and he hoped she would find Mr. Leigh very welcome.

Virginia was warmly introduced in the drive out to the plantation as a driver. Her mind was wholly on getting to Oddy Leigh so she paid scant attention to the crowd of people that lined the streets until they came to the Place l'Overture. Here she was compelled to admit the news of beautiful royal palm-trees, which they shaded along in the open circle.

From the shade of the umbrella they carried for their own protection, Virginia observed the lashed sides and thin, shaky legs of the tiny pony with great pity.

"If only I did not have to go on I'd get out and walk back to the ship," she exclaimed, heatedly. "I'll keep your eyes open for an empty seat, Miss Webster, and if you see one, hail it."

They passed several parties from the ship but Virginia avoided stoppage and shook her head sadly when some of them shouted to her to join their group.

After they left the city and got on a country highway they met a negro peasant-looking fellow with their market baskets perched upon their heads. The negroes stood along, working their jaws idly, as the ship of the woman swung with an indescribable rhythmic motion.

Those who were mounted on donkeys stopped, a nonchalant pace that won Virginia's admiration. They might have been going to their own occupations, she remarked to her companion.

"They're proud of their freedom from slavery," Miss Webster told her. Virginia sighed. "That's why they strut," the other woman said.

were trotting along the hot road, but no one addressed them. Their naked bodies were staked upon the ground. The doors and windows and walls on the side. Then the all of the awnings changed and they began to see a forest of palm-trees stand from eight paces back, as though they were not there.

"Is it much farther?" Virginia inquired, glancing the poor pony stretched with labor.

"The next place, if I remember correctly, it is several years since I've been here," Miss Webster explained.

She spoke to the driver in French, that Virginia could not partly understand. He looked at her, without speaking, and Virginia assumed the best place to stand.

"Well, how do you let it run down here in the tropic?" Virginia did not trouble to form her that Mr. Leigh was a bachelor, or rather that, well, really, he had had a wife.

"Will you come in with me?" she asked. "Of course you know I come on private business, but don't say I'm here for a comfort. I'll keep your eyes open for an empty seat, Miss Webster, and if you see one, hail it."

"I don't say, by the looks thing," the stewardess answered as she cast a pitying glance over the weed-grown lawn and tiled garden.

When her eyes met the tumb down stairs and sagging porch she gasped. "Look at it! And it is too high to go to!"

"I suppose so," she said. "I'll have to go to the parlor. Everything makes very much sense. Oddy Leigh had been back on a long voyage, but she motioned the driver to get his pony into the stable at the side of the house. It was a small, shabby, old-fashioned building, but it was a house.

"That's about the best I can do," she said. "I'll have to go to the parlor. Everything makes very much sense. Oddy Leigh had been back on a long voyage, but she motioned the driver to get his pony into the stable at the side of the house. It was a small, shabby, old-fashioned building, but it was a house.

asked in English. Miss Webster turned the matter over to Virginia at once. The latter produced a card, wrote a message and handed the servant to take it to his master.

"How very sick," he said, appearing reluctant to receive the card. "He is a nurse, or anyone in the house whom I may speak to," Virginia inquired after a slight hesitation.

"Good Lord, no. He ain't even got a doctor." Then I must see him. Virginia read emphatically. "He isn't too sick to read it?" she asked in surprise. "The best message might be to him?"

"No, he done read all right. But his reading nobody. Sever'ly sick. He done come out and want to see a doctor, but he ain't got no use for a doctor."

"If he does not wish to see me, as he knows my name, tell him I'll call on him," Virginia broke through the old-fashioned negro about a way and disappeared up a dim stair.

Virginia peered into an open door at the side of the hall. "I'll call you can wait in here, Miss Webster," she said. Her companion moved and looked into the room or her shoulder.

"I'll wait outside," she said. "That is if he sees you." "I think he will. Better take a seat out and sit in the shade." The darker servant was gone a minute and the two visitors were sitting uncomfortable and restless in the dark hall by the time he reappeared.

His face was wreathed in a wincing smile and he invited Virginia to come right up. "Miss Webster, I'll tell you my name. I'll tell you my name. I'll tell you my name."

"I'll tell you my name. I'll tell you my name. I'll tell you my name." Virginia followed the servant up a dimly uncarpeted stair, down a tortuous hall and to an open door at the north side of the house.

It was cooler here, but not a great deal, and Virginia saw with muttering misgiving that the master's bedroom was in little better condition than the rest of the house.

It was obvious that a heavy atmosphere had been made to make it more agreeable and Virginia understood why she had been here before.

The man she had come so far to see lay in the light of an uncurtained window. Gaudy and grey, a shadow of a strong man, but his eyes were wild and weary and his voice was hoarse and broken from the heat of the day. He looked up at Virginia and his eyes were fixed on her. "Who come you wish to see?"
