"Your Honor" Aroused Over Trend of Affairs

PASTOR WILL STAY IN CELL

Women Workers Sent Back to "Baking" Saturday

DALLAS, July 7.—(P)—Puffing pleasantly at a black cigar and lolling comfortably in a cell banked with flowers, the Rev. J. Earl Anderson, pastor of the Fundamental Baptist church here, prepared to spend a quiet day tomorrow in the Dallas county jail.

The series of radio sermons which the minister had been preparing since his incarceration Wednesday for not heeding an injunction to discontinue construction of his new tabernacle were at his elbow, but they were not destined to go charging through the ether tomorrow as he had planned.

Judge Towne Young, about whom the controversy has swirled and eddied for the last week, gave orders today to Mrs. Julia Seale, Dallas county woman sheriff, that no form of radio equipment should be permitted to enter the jail. Judge Young, it might be added, is thoroughly aroused over the trend of affairs since he issued his injunction last Tuesday.

Building in Contempt

The tabernacle, itself, a sprawling structure, two-thirds completed after three days and nights of frenzied effort by the men and women of Dr. Anderson's congregation, today stood condemned by the city building inspector as unsafe. Warning signs stuck on the iron posts which serve to support the tin roof were as promptly torn down by church sympathizers.

Counsel for the church group petitioned Judge Young today that the restraining order be modified to permit workmen to place braces necessary to conform to requirements of the city building inspector.

Judge Young refused to consider the motion, declaring members of the church had worked on the building in defiance of his previous order.

Ten policemen were assigned to duty around the tabernacle to keep traffic moving and prevent any disorders. They joined a lone Deputy Sheriff, "Bud" Walker, who remained at the tabernacle throughout last night, armed with a blanket warrant for the arrest of all "persons" attempting to work on the structure.

The threatened arrest of the several score women who carried on the work for a day and night after all "men" had been enjoined from the premises, by Judge Young's first order, failed to materialize when the feminine carpenters decided not to return to work this morning.

Women Cease Work

They were advised by church leaders to stay at home today and "attend to their baking." Blistered hands and sunburned arms attested to their unusual occupation for two days. They remained on the job yesterday, until the rambling shed had been filled with benches, then went home and dressed for the evening service.

A hearing to determine whether the injunction shall be made permanent was set for Wednesday morning in Judge Young's court. Mayor R. C. Burt announced that the city would take no action in the case.

The Rev. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth, who has been conducting a revival here for seven weeks, announced that he would continue to hold services at the tabernacle, despite the fact that it had been condemned.

In a three-page letter to Judge Young today Dr. Norris notified the jurist that he would speak against him at Monday night's meeting unless the controversy was settled at once to the satisfaction of him and the church congregation. Judge Young made no comment on the letter.

Water, Light, Gas, and Sewer Connections Numerous for First Six Months of Year

Indications of Pampa's growth are best shown by utility statistics which are unusually steady and high as compared with other plains cities. Hundreds of new citizens are coming into the city every month and houses must be erected to meet the demand, thus giving Pampa building permits for the first six months of 1928 a lead over this period of the previous year.

Nominees Are Setting up Their Drive Machinery

NEW YORK, July 7.—(P)—During the coming week machinery will be set up for the national committee here its first meeting for selection of a chairman and other business. Both Gov. Smith and his running mate, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, will attend, and it is generally expected that when that meeting adjourns the strategy of the campaign will have been definitely settled.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(P)—Herbert Hoover moulded into shape today the organization in which he will rely in his campaign for the presidency.

James W. Good, former representative from Iowa, was definitely announced as head of the western campaign, and then Mr. Hooper's campaign manager, Hubert Work, went into conference on the eastern situation.

With his resignation now in the hands of President Coolidge and his organization taking definite shape, Mr. Hoover was about ready today to pick a definite hour for leaving the city for his home in Palo Alto, California, where he will receive official notification of his nomination. Some time next week is the nearest date now on his calendar for the departure.

Andrew Stark Is Winner of Bicycle

Andrew Stark, delivery boy for the Pampa Daily News since its beginning, is the proud owner of a $60 bicycle fully equipped with horn, lights and carrier, won in a subscription contest among the carrier boys. The contest opened ten weeks ago and closed yesterday when the prizes were awarded.

Second prize, $10 in cash, was won by Lawrence Stalcup, and third prize $5 in cash went to Calvin Dollar. The winner of the contest has built his route up to 115 customers in the east part of the city.

The boys wish to thank their customers for their support and co-operation in the contest.

"Toro" Wins Lincoln Handicap Saturday

LINCOLN FIELDS, Chicago, July 7.—(P)—Toro, ridden by Jockey Ambrose, won the third annual renewal of the $25,000 Lincoln handicap this afternoon, nosing out Sun Beau in a drive down the stretch. First Iron was a close third.

Toro paid $6.04 to win the $2 mutuels.

THE WEATHER

FOR WEST TEXAS—Sunday partly cloudy, probable showers in the Panhandle.

very few small houses are being built. Business buildings under construction at the present time include the Woolworth store, being erected by Curtis E. Clem; a large warehouse on South Cuyler street, and a store, being built by Jess Wayne, on Cuyler.

The contract has been let for the erection of two new ward school buildings, one in East Pampa and the other in West Pampa and a large gymnasium on the central high school campus.

Nearing completion is the large $65,000 Methodist church which will be opened August 28. Another big structure just starting is the Baptist church, which will cost approximately $100,000. The Catholics have also recently completed a church building. Permits for the first three months of the year totalled more than $250,000 and were mostly residences. The largest month on residences only was June, when the permits amounted to $50,000 with none costing more than $7,000, thus showing the building activities in the residential sections in the city.

Increased building means work for the water works department of the city and a check of that department places the new water meters installed since the beginning of the year at more than 300. This number is nearing the total for all of last year.

Immensity of Wheat Crop Is Seen at Wichita, Where 513 Carloads of Wheat Were Received on Saturday

WICHITA, Kas., July 7.—(P)—A bumper crop from the Southwest flowed through Wichita today, convincing evidence that a major industry, the wheat harvest, has swung into action.

The first week of harvest drew to a close tonight with the last of the hottest eleven days this summer. The Wichita board of trade reported receipts for the week of 2,566 cars. Of these, 513 were received today, as compared to 235 for the corresponding day last year.

White Deer Will Have Lions Club

Many Pampa Lions are looking forward to making a trip to Miami soon for the charter night ceremonies of a club being organized there.

Bob McCoy is the temporary president of the White Deer group, and W. J. Miller is temporary secretary. The charter presentation is expected to be immediately after harvest.

The neighbor club will have about 22 charter members.

Special Trains Are Transporting Refined Products

Operating at full capacity, the Pampa refinery is turning out trainloads of products and adding to the already heavy freight traffic on the Santa Fe.

Saturday two trainloads of refinery products were shipped for export, one train leaving in the afternoon and one in the evening. The refinery is making gasoline, kerosene, the naphthas, gas oil, and fuel oil and is employing fifteen men. The plant is operated 24 hours daily, with shifts of 8 hours each.

Big Wheat Crop Hard to Handle

Long lines of wheat trucks continued to arrive at the grain elevators here after dark last night, in an effort to beat Jupiter Pluvius. In past years the elevators have not had such a run as they are in the midst of at the present time.

Indications of a bumper crop are causing no little concern among the elevator men of the city who are wondering if they will be able to obtain cars and storage space to meet the demand. The average yield per bushel the first week is more than 30, but will decrease as the late wheat begins to arrive.

Will Jarvis, with a large crop of wheat two miles west of here, averaged 47 1-2 bushels to the acre this far. His wheat is testing about 62. Other fields in the territory are opening at between 20 and 30 bushels to the acre.

John D. Here are four pictures showing him at different stages in his life. At the top is a picture taken this year. Just under it is Rockefeller as he looked at 65, just before he began to wear a wig. Under it is a picture of Rockefeller at 45, when he was just bringing Standard Oil to power. At the bottom is one of his few boyhood pictures, showing him at the age of 15.

Rev. J. S. Wonderly to Serve Catholics

The Rev. Father J. S. Wonderly of Huntington, Ind., has arrived to take the pastorate of the Pampa Catholic church. Services are now being held in the new church building recently completed.

Father Wonderly has become well acquainted with this territory, having been located in Amarillo since last March.

Mr. and Mrs. George Santrock left yesterday for Sanrock, Okla., where they will spend several weeks with Mrs. Santrock's father.

Panhandle Crude Is Off 875 Barrels for Week Ending July 5

Panhandle production took an 875-barrel daily decline for the week ending Thursday, although the total wells were but two short of normal.

The Panhandle total was 63,757 barrels daily from 1,438 wells. Production by counties: Carson—158 wells, 6,239 barrels daily.

Gray—229 wells, 20,820 barrels. Hutchinson—1,009 wells, 35,945 barrels.

Moore—3 wells, 173 barrels. Potter—One well, 25 barrels. Wheeler—36 wells, 951 barrels.

Wires of Nation Clogged; Aurora Borealis Blamed

NEW YORK, July 7.—(P)—One of the most widespread interruptions of wire communication service experienced in years was caused tonight by earth currents thrown out by the Aurora Borealis. Telegraph companies reported main trunks out of service, or functioning intermittently over a period of several hours.

The tie up put wires out of commission from New York to San Francisco, and points far south were seriously affected. Atlanta, Ga., an important relay point reported its main trunks adversely affected for several hours.

Operators at their wires experienced the rising and falling of current peculiar to the phenomenon of the northern lights. At one minute the wires would be entirely clear in the next the earth current would so clog the lines that wires would chatter as though the whole system had been picked up and shaken.

Magnolia Well in Bowers Area May Be Drilled Deeper

After deepening of fifteen feet into granite wash, or to 3,015 feet, the Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 2 Bowers in section 63, block B-2, Bowers-McGee pool, swabbed 120 barrels the first 24 hours. Swabbing will continue and if the flow does not increase the well will probably be drilled deeper.

This well was drilled to 3,000 feet with a rotary rig and then standardized. It was spraying 11 barrels a day at 3,000 feet, with very little gas.

The Tobias Oil company's No. 1 Taylor in section 10, block B-2, six miles south of the recent LeFors Petroleum company's gusher, was shot with 60 quarts but bridged. After cleaning out 300 feet of oil rose in the hole. It was then placed on the pump and is making 44 barrels of 39.9 gravity oil a day. Total depth is 2,940 feet.

North of the LeFors area, the LeRoy company's No. 1 Finley in the B. E. Chaney survey, swabbed 55 barrels in 24 hours with total depth at 2,925 feet. This well is in semi-wildcat territory north of production.

Many Seamen Die as Steamer Sinks

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 7.—(P)—The Army transport Angamos sank today in the bay of Arauco.

Only five of the crew were saved according to first reports of the accident.

The Ancamos was a single screw steamer of 5,975 tons and a speed of 14 knots. She was built in Scotland in 1890 and was refitted by the Chilean government two years ago.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 7.—(P)—Two hundred and ninety-one lives were lost when the transport Angamos sank today in the Bay of Arauco, according to information given out tonight by the ministry of Marine. Eighty of the victims were passengers. Only five members of the crew saved, according to early reports of the accident. The Captain committed suicide on the bridge of the vessel.

WHEN YOU SEE IDLE MEN

In a town do not jump to conclusions—they may not wish to work, or may be wishing for a certain kind of job especially suited to their inclinations. Several local men and company officials have recently spoken to representatives of The News of the difficulty in obtaining men or groups of men when needed. One employer, wishing a few men to do ordinary labor, interviewed 40 idle men who were congregated on the shady side of a local street. Not one of them would accept "ordinary employment." Some specialized in one craft and some another, quite a few could not "do any lifting", and some would give no explanation of their lack of interest in the work offered.

No doubt there are men here who would have been glad to have done the work, but they were not among those interviewed. There are others who would work at their trade, but are unwilling to do anything else. This last classification brings up a problem, because in a city as widely known as Pampa the influx of labor-seeking craftsmen is often far in excess of the demand. Fitting workmen to the jobs at hand is the difficulty of any labor bureau. Were the old-time system of harvesting in vogue, there likely would be a serious harvest hand shortage right now.

Song Writers

Most any editor at times doubts that song writers are people. The thinking process by which they get that way is rather simple. Next to the poets, amateur song writers can ask the most foolish questions as to why their "stuff" can't be used. They cannot understand the mechanics of reproducing their efforts, and are equally unable to understand why a 50-50 proposition would not be pie for the publisher.

Song writers are poets that have a tune complex. A poor lyric writer is cuckoo or he would desist, and a good one is so brilliant he can't be human. It is often hard to distinguish between the two, hence genius sometimes gets a rough deal. A genius is worth a hundred songus nutae, hence it is worthwhile to encourage song writers. And this leads us to the topic in mind, which is a "song competition" sponsored by the Composers' club of San Antonio. A prize of $1,000 is being offered in connection with the contest.

Strangely enough, only present day Texas residents may enter, but no foreign language is barred. Manuscripts must be submitted to the Composer's club, Care of L. A. Mackay-Cattell, 311 Nacogdoches street, San Antonio, by October 7.

One of the latest outbursts of melody was written by Mary Dagget Lake, Fort Worth, for the Democratic convention. Here is the chorus: Have you ever been in Texas in the spring. When the breezes blow and the birds are on the wing. Where bluebonnets wave in the air, and there's friendship every-

The Friendship of God

By REV. MORGAN P. NOYES (Pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.)

HENRY DRUMMOND once remarked that "to make religion akin to friendship is to give it the highest expression conceivable by man." That is exactly what the Bible consistently does.

The Bible does not speak of religion primarily as a creed to be believed. Nor does it lay its chief emphasis on religion as a ritual to be followed. The Bible does not even describe religion exclusively as a way of life to be lived.

Religion, as the Bible pictures it, does involve all these things. It involves the use of the mind, and that means belief. It involves man's response to the Highest he knows, and that means worship. It involves an ideal for life, and that means a rigorous moral standard.

The Christian religion in action is simply friendship among men. The dynamic of the Christian religion has always been devotion to the Friendliest of Men.

Christianity stakes everything on its faith that at the heart of things is a Friendly God. It is the Christian faith that when you long for a new earth in which shall dwell righteousness, you are not flinging your desire out into an unfeeling void where nothing answers you, but you are linking up your life with the purposes of a God who is not hostile to your highest ideals but their Friend and Supporter.

Is there anything which our age needs more than a new experience of this friendship of God—to have all human life permeated with a new friendliness, inspired by loyalty to the friendly Christ, and sustained by a great faith in the Friendly God?

where. While the busy bees are humming and the banjos are strumming; Have you walked on velvet carpets in the spring. Made of flowers whose subtle odor memories bring; Have you seen those sunsets gay, as they glorify the day. Have you ever been in Texas in the spring? Not so good, do you say? Then write a better one.

CAPITOL News By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON — If the Democrats had a "farm candidate" in mind when they chose Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas as Al Smith's running mate, they picked a true man of the soil.

Senator Robinson was born Aug. 26, 1872, on a farm in Lonoke county, Arkansas. His father was an early homesteader and at various times was a physician and Baptist preacher.

The son recalls with a laugh that the elder Robinson was agile enough when past 70 to engage in a fist fight. Robinson knows how to use his fists, too, and is a commanding personality.

Joe Robinson—Arkansas will never call him by any other name—was one of ten children. When 12 years old he took up a man's work on the farm. His early education was in the country schools. He studied at night by candle light, after the last of the weary round of chores had been performed.

Joe Robinson's father was well educated and helped to instill in Joe the traits which are marked in the senator's character today. The elder Robinson was an adherent to the journalistic and political policies of Charles A. Dana, of the New York Sun, and waited eagerly for every copy of the Sun by post.

One day, reading the newspaper, Joe's father ran across a story of the heroism and sacrifice of two nuns from a Baltimore convent who volunteered for duty in the stricken city of Memphis during the yellow fever plague of 1878.

He read the story to Joe, and gave the lad a fitting little sermon on tolerance. That incident may have been the inspiration of one of the finest speeches the senator ever made—the plea for tolerance delivered in the United States Senate.

During the course of Robinson's dramatic sermon on intolerance, Senator Heflin arose and started to interrupt the speech.

A fleeting flame came to Robinson's eyes. For an instant it looked as though he were about to throw those fists of his. Instead he held up a hand that had "Beware" written all over it, and went on with his speech.

But once at the Chevy Chase Country Club here, somebody didn't "sit down" when Senator Robinson began to bubble up. The result was: Senator Robinson nursed a bruised set of knuckles for several weeks.

A member of a threesome that tried to "pass through" the senator's party were a black eye, and Senator Robinson was expelled from the club.

Senator Charlie Curtis and Senator Joe Robinson—rivals for the vice presidency, but the warmest of friends. They seldom fought their battles on the Senate floor. A short conference in the rear of the Senate chamber or one of the cloakrooms usually resulted in their coming to an agreement on the course to follow.

When the $32,000,000 flood-control bill came before the Senate, Robinson devoted hours to preparing a speech in its favor. A dozen other Southern senators also were ready to burst forth with oratory. It looked as though the bill would be lost to view under the deluge of eloquence.

Robinson conferred with Curtis of Kansas. He suggested that instead of talking it self out, the Senate vote. "See Wes Jones," Curtis replied.

Robinson found Senator Jones of Washington, who was in charge of the bill, ready to act. Robinson went about among the Democrats, quietly and persuasively.

In less than two hours the bill was passed. He threw his own speech into the wastebasket.

Ghost of Dallas Politics Withdraws From Participation

DALLAS, July 7.—(AP)—Dallas county's political "ghost," Miss Josie Buck, has withdrawn from the legislative race.

For over a month the county Democratic executive committee tried to locate the mysterious candidate. They finally had decided to scratch her name from the ballot, but she beat them to it.

In a letter to the committee she said:

"I wish you would please explain to the voters that I do exist. Me being a lady and this being my first venture into politics, I suppose I have made a mistake, and leave it to the two gentlemen to fight it out among themselves."

The letter was signed "Josie Buck" and said "the people of Dallas county will hear more about me when I get my law license."

The candidate, presumably a woman in her 31 assessment fee to get her name on the ticket but never appeared at any of the political meetings.

Tree-Lawn club, suggested by Jack H. Baker with the Galbraith-Foxworth Lumber company at LeFors, has been the name chosen for the new dance pavilion at LeFors operated by Mrs. Mattie Castlesberry of the Tokio club of Borger.

Dances are held at the open air club Monday, Wednesday and Saturday nights, and large crowds are enjoying the music furnished by the Dixie Serenaders' eight-piece orchestra.

CHICAGO, July 7.—(AP)—Record breaking loadings of newly-harvested wheat in the Southwest proved finally to be more than a counterbalance today for black rust developments northwest.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-2c lower, with corn 7-8c to 1-2c off, oats 7-8c to 1-4c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

KANSAS CITY, July 7.—(AP)—United States Department of Agriculture. Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit this week was featured by broad demand for fed steers and yearling with price upturns of 25 cents to $1.00.

A weak undertone, however prevailed on grass steers and several points on late sessions suffered appreciable declines on this continent.

Several large consignments of Texas cattle fed at Kansas City cleared from $12.25 to $14.50. Common to medium southwestern grassers sold within a range of 9.50 to 12.50. Total receipts of around 141,000 were 40,500 less than last week and 4,700 more than the corresponding week a year ago.

Decreased receipts and a broadening demand resulted in hog prices advancing 40 to 75 cents, light weights showing the full upturn. Closing trade was less active and part of the early gain was erased. Aggregate supplies of approximately 395,300 were 24,900 under last week and 18,700 short of the same period a year ago.

Lamb trade this week registered a general advance of 25 to 50 cents, a few markets showing as much as 75 cents gain. Aged stock ruled uneven.

The general undertone was steady but with some gains, enforced at different points. Receipts totaled around 170,400 as compared with 207,800 last week and 168,400 the same period a year ago.

State Physician Says Thin White Clothing Not Best

DALLAS, June 7.—(AP)—Thin white clothing, as many persons are inclined to believe, are not the proper garments for summer wear. Dr. Manton M. Carrick, director of the public health department of Dallas, pointed out in an article explaining the effect of summer weather upon the different shades and weights of wearing apparel. Coarse white goods deflect the heat of the sun, he explained, but the thinner quality allows the heat to pass through.

"Clothing serves the purpose of protecting the body against the heat of summer, the sunburn of the sunlight, and the dampness of the rainy day," Dr. Carrick said. "The essential feature of summer clothing is porosity. The meshes should be large and the weave coarse. White, gray or light colored clothing is better suited to warm weather, as it more fully radiates the light of the sun, thus protecting the body from absorption of external heat, as well as aiding in carrying off the heat of the body. No starched clothing should be worn during the summer."

"Black and blue garments are the most unsuitable for hot weather. These colors largely absorb the heat rays of the sun and transmit them to the body. They also absorb odors in a larger degree than light colors."

LOVE FOR TWO

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU WARD, as the eve of her wedding to ROD BRYER, receives a sharp-edged paper knife as a gift from LILA MARSH—the prettiest girl in town—who had turned Rod down because he was not wealthy.

The feel of the metal chilled her. And the thought that it was a dagger to pierce her happiness flashed across her mind so that her dreaming anticipation turned to miserable foreboding. But Bertie Lou courageously resolves not to be jealous of Rod's past love affair. His future is in her keeping.

She was beautiful in her wedding dress, but the joyful singing in her heart ceased just before the ceremony when Bertie Lou accidentally overhears one of her bridesmaids ask another if she thinks the bride likes being second choice.

Indeed she stands before the altar but when the words of the minister end and Rod whispers "My wife" with a world of wonder and admiration in his eyes, Bertie Lou knows that she would rather be second choice than to live his life up.

Then Lila comes up to offer congratulations.

"SURE go ahead," Rod replied good-naturedly to Lila's offer to help prepare the housekeeping rooms that he and Bertie Lou would occupy upon their return.

Others were pushing forward for a word with Rod. But Lila had not finished with him. Stung a trifle by Bertie Lou's failure to show any signs of annoyance, she said suddenly, with a high, tinkling laugh: "Well, I suppose I might as well take my last kiss now while I can get it."

Rod did not realize what she was about before she had flung both arms around his neck and given him a lingering kiss full upon the lips. "For the sake of auld lang syne," she added.

People stared as she moved laughingly away. Lila's behavior frequently shocked the townspeople but she had always stopped short of getting herself ostracized. But this, they thought, was going a bit too far. Right under Bertie Lou's nose! And the words that had made her and Rod one still echoing in the air!

BERTIE LOU took it like a thoroughbred. She acted just like a bride. Perhaps if nothing had happened to mar the occasion she would not have forgotten the mask of the flapper who wasn't really a flapper at all, but just a sweet girl who was trying to live up to what she thought was expected of modern youth.

But Bertie Lou wasn't going to ignore Lila or passively let matters take their course. Kissing might be in order at a wedding. It was true, but Bertie Lou knew perfectly well that Lila's act meant more than a mere kiss. Whether or not it was to be followed by other overt assaults upon her happiness Bertie Lou could not foretell, but Lila must be put right about it at once.

BERTIE LOU lived through two honeymoon weeks of never-to-be-forgotten bliss with nothing to mar them but the shadow of a pre-terry ex-sweetheart that flapped ominously in the background of her consciousness.

Rod, as a husband, was flawless. He'd always been the finest looking boy in Wayville. But the best thing about him was his utter indifference to his good looks.

He and Bertie Lou thought they had everyone at the Lakeside Hotel fooled about their new status. But that was only because they were too self-contained to see the smiles that followed them everywhere—the revealing, yearning wistful, envious but good-will smiles.

They dropped the idiom of the younger set while they talked of the future.

"They had everything. Throbbing youth, rousing health, love of life, and love."

Bertie Lou even forgot Lila at times. There was that hour on the mossy bank, far back in the hills, under a clump of silver birches where they had lunch and drank from the brook.

Bertie Lou's eyes were like summer stars. Rod took her face in his hands. "Oh, Bertie Lou," he said.

Her head came to rest on his shoulder and Rod held her like some precious possession he feared to lose. Why, he didn't know it was going to be like this! He was actually blinking tears. Sappy! But he didn't care. He hadn't known what he was feeling at—why, a fellow who wouldn't fall off the sneer wagon at a time like this was dead.

He turned Bertie Lou's face up to his and saw that her eyes, too, were full of tears. They both smiled. "Whose girl are you now, Bertie Lou Bryer?" he said.

"With only one man in the world you ought to know."

"Bertie Lou Bryer, you're in love!"

"Well, the joke's on you, too," she laughed back at him. "You're just thrilled to death, Mrs. Bryer's husband."

"I know it," Rod returned with mock sheepishness, "but for goodness sake, Mrs. Bryer, don't peddle it."

"Perhaps I will . . . unless you tell me what I want to hear. You know your declarations have always been vague, Roddy. You've left a lot unsaid."

Rod released her. "Come over to that tree. I'm going to broadcast it."

It was a towering pine tree. They could smell the fresh spicy odor of it as they stood arm in arm and looked toward it.

"Bertie Lou, you're just a girl," Rod said softly. "I thought you were too advanced to want the old stuff, but I guess maybe you won't scoff if I tell you something that I've wanted to tell you lots of times before."

Rod turned and took her hands in his. "Bertie Lou, I love you more than anything else in the world."

They dropped the idiom of the younger set then while they talked of their future. Rod smoked a cigarette without offering one to Bertie Lou. She didn't notice the omission. There was something about the woods that was out of keeping with a cigarette-smoking, wise-cracking girl. The spirit of the place had got into their blood. Its peace and serenity. Bertie Lou forgot Lila.

But Rod's vacation came to an end and they left the woods behind them. Bertie Lou winked back a vagrant tear as she took a last backward look at the scene of her recent happiness. Then she laughed at herself. Why, she wasn't giving up anything! She and Rod were merely transferring their beautiful union from one locale to another.

It didn't work, however, her self-encouragement. She had to face Lila now—face people. Lila's kiss had told everyone that she wasn't through—that and her taking a hand in the fixing up of their new home. Bertie Lou would fight, but she didn't like to.

THEY were met at the station by a crowd and escorted to their new home over the grocery store. Rod had rented it before they were married and the proprietor had agreed to redecorate the rooms while they were away.

Bertie Lou's bridesmaids had promised to arrange the furnishings and hang the new curtains that Bertie Lou's mother had made. Bertie Lou was assured that the place was a dream, but her greatest joy was that Lila was not among those who met them. And no one mentioned her. Bertie Lou began to hope that she had ascribed a false importance to Rod's old flame.

RECORDS FALL AT YANK MEET

Strong Olympic Team Assured by Flashy Showing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 7.—(AP)—Uncle Sam served notice today that the Yanks are coming again.

Final tryouts deciding the makeup of the American track and field team that sails next Wednesday for Amsterdam, were completed this afternoon.

The most startling feats were turned in by Ed Hamm, Georgia Tech's famous broad jumper, who leaped to a new world's record of 25 feet, 11 1/4 inches and by Lloyd Hahn, the Boston Express, who shattered another world's record by winning the 800-meter final in 1 minute, 51 2/5 seconds.

These two world marks topped off an unprecedented succession of record feats in which one other world's record was equaled, two American records shattered and ten national A. A. U. championship marks either broken or established. To give further idea of the class of this American team it may be noted that the existing Olympic games' records were bettered in six events during the two-day meet and equaled in three others.

Hamm's amazing broad jump gave the crowds its first thrill of the afternoon. Charley Borah, the Southern California flier, furnished the final sensation as he romped off with the 200-meter final, bettering the Olympic record for the third time in a race that saw Charley Paddock, the blond California veteran, stage a comeback finish second and clinch his place on the Olympic team for the third time, along with his old rival Jackson Scholz of the New York A. C.

Hamm's mark was just a quarter of an inch better than the former record, set in 1925 by De Hart Hubbard Cincinnati negro, then wearing the colors of the University of Michigan.

Hahn, beating off challenges, first by Ray Watson of the Illinois A. C. and then by Earl Fuller of the Olympic club, San Francisco, in the final 800 meter race, broke the world's mark for this distance but failed in his additional attempt to shatter the 890-yard record. His time of 1:51 2/5 for the 800 meters erased the figure of 1:51 3/5, set by the famous German, Dr. Otto Peltzer, in London.

Good Pitching Is Unable to Stop Rampaging Buffs

WACO, July 7.—(AP)—Masterful pitching by Caldwell did not do anything this afternoon toward stopping the victory rampage of Houston. Caldwell outpitched Barnes, who also turned in a brilliant game but Houston got the most scores. The final count: Houston 3, Waco 1.

ROOKIE WINS GAME

WICHITA FALLS, July 7.—(AP)—Rosta, Spudder rookie, clouted two homers today to win for the Spudders, 6 to 5, over Shreveport. The two clouts accounted for four of Wichita Falls' runs, the last one breaking a tie after Hayworth's homer in the sixth had evened accounts.

SAN ANTONIO, July 7.—(AP)—But for an error and hit batter Leslie Cox would have shut out the Beaumont Exporters in the second game of the series Saturday when the Bears battled two pitchers for 12 hits, including a home run by Chapman, to win, 11 to 2.

Blanford Cubs Bank on Girl Star

Pretty little Lisa Lindstrom is only 15, but she's the world's fastest woman swimmer in the 220-yard backstroke classic. Lisa is pictured above poised on the edge of the pool at Rockaway Beach, N. Y., where the women's national A. A. U. championships were held. Here the New York girl established two world records. Inset is Josephine McKim, of Homestead, Pa., who broke two records in the 890-yard and the 1-mile free style events.

California Crew Wins Over Yale in Rowing Event

BY F. G. VOSEBURG (Associated Press Sports Writer) PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—(AP)—A great, all-conquering California crew added a glorious victory over Yale to its remarkable record of successes on the Schuylkill river this afternoon and still unbeaten, turned its prow toward Amsterdam.

stretch of placid water the Golden Bears from the Golden Gate beat of the challenge of Yale's fine crew to win by a quarter of a length in the final try-out for the right to represent the United States in the Olympic games.

The barest heart-beat of time—single second and one fifth—separated the flying prows at the finish line and they were never farther apart than a half length. For the first quarter-mile they were bow for bow and stroke for stroke. Then at the trolley-bridge California gained a half-length lead and was able to hold a slight advantage through one of the most stirring stretch drives ever witnessed here.

Never before today had this Yale crew lost a race and before they were finally beaten the Eli's gave the Californians the toughest test they have had.

Champion of a nation, now the eight from California will uphold its standard in a bigger battle for international honors.

Another band of college oarsmen will split the honor of representing their country abroad, as a Harvard four-oared crew came through in the final today by defeating the second of two strong club quartets.

Helen Wills Wins Singles Title in Final Struggle

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 7.—(AP)—In a victory that developed dramatic possibilities unlooked for when Helen Wills is riding the courts, the Queen of American tennis today conquered Senorita Elia de Alvarez, of Spain, in the women's singles final of the Wimbledon championships to gain the crown for the second straight year.

The American youngster, not as curate as usual and somewhat off form generally, beat the Spanish girl in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, but not until Senorita Alvarez had led 3-0 in games in the final session.

Miss Elisabeth Ryan, former Californian, won the mixed doubles partnered with P. D. B. Spence of South Africa, but the British claim her victory because of Miss Ryan's long residence in England.

First honors in this Wimbledon tournament must go to the rising tide of France's court stars, Rene LaCoste, Henri Cochet, and Jacques Brugnon, who ran away with all honors in the men's division. LaCoste won the singles crown from his Davis cup teammate, Cochet.

Longhorns Pass and the Contented Cows Take Their Place

ABERNATHY, July 7.—(AP)—Texas Longhorns which sold on the ranges for approximately $10 a head have passed into history, and where the thundering herds of yesterday were heard, today pure bred Herefords and Jerseys are grazing. Pure milk from "contented cows" now is the slogan of the plains district, according to the Texas Panhandle South Plains Dairy association, which has just completed a survey showing this country ranks among the best for dairy herds. The greatest assemblage of high production and pure blood lines of the most noted sires in America is the boast of the South Plains, the survey shows. Under the direction of the dairy association this section has breeding stock second to none in the country. The association uses a system of cow testing which discloses exactly what improvements have been made in grade herds as a result of better sires. It is the plan of the organization to have a tester in each county of the district. The question of elimination of the poor producers and the introduction of higher producers at a more economical cost is of vital importance to the industry, according to the survey. It has been recommended that more provision for silage must be made and more small grain for fall grazing must be sown. "Our section is as well adapted to the dairy industry as any in the country from the standpoint of soil, crops, climate and markets," the report said. "In feeds we have a dependable supply grown on our farms which includes sudan, grain sorghums, cotton seed products and small grain."

Honk! Honk! Mr. Gershwin Tries a New Symphony

PARIS, June 30.—Writing music to the tune of automobile horns is the astonishing expedient resorted to by George Gershwin, famous American composer now in Paris. When admirers here called at Gershwin's hotel they found him hard at work. Within reach of his hand were about a dozen varieties of automobile horns. "I am working on a new symphony to be called 'Americans in Paris,' and these are some of my working tools," added the composer of the "Rhapsody in Blue." "I get inspiration from the noises they give. I believe they are more useful to me than to the man who drives a car." This came rather as a shock because automobile horns, especially those of taxicabs, make such a clamor in downtown streets that there is now a determined movement to have the tooting controlled and softened. But Gershwin says he wants to give his new symphony the proper Paris atmosphere and he has chosen the horns. Other equipment with which he works are a piano and portable phonograph life and surroundings in his work.

When A Girl Loves CHAPTER XLVIII VIRGINIA was awake when the telephone rang. It might have rung at any hour of the night or early morning and she would have been awake to answer the call. She hobbled stiffly over to the instrument, still from her long held, rigid position. "She took down the receiver and put it to her ear. She almost expected like an exploded balloon when she heard the voice of the man who had called her. Mr. Leigh! He was coming right over! Would he be down as soon as she could see him? Virginia promised. Confidences were seething in her head like a whirlwind. Too many questions to put into the form of words. In half an hour she was downstairs, held in the arms of a giant and roughly kissed. "Thought you couldn't get down, didn't you?" he teased. "Just as if I never saw a man or animal. One of a doe. After that I step on toes. They'd have been glad to see me." "What are you talking about?" Virginia exclaimed when she got her breath. "Oh, you don't know how glad I am you've come, that you're well enough to be here. I need a friend now," she added weakly and flew back into his arms to sob there. Fortunately it was too early for anyone to be sharing the news with them, but Virginia did not even think of the possibility of witnesses to the scene. "Let's sit down and confide in each other," he suggested, leading her to a davenport. "I knew something was wrong," he went on when Virginia hesitated to begin her story. "No I cabled up here to a lawyer I know. You see, Virginia, I had troubles of my own when I heard of your father's passing on, so I didn't do what I should have done. I ought to have found out who was handling his estate and told them of Richard's interest in my sugar plantation." Virginia squeezed his hand. "Father considered that only an expression of his gratitude to you for saving his life," she said. "That's no reason why he should not benefit from it as I have. The sugar people have bought me out. I'd have let go before if I'd known that Richard left you penniless." Virginia smiled sadly. "I hope you haven't sacrificed your plantation for my sake," she said. "You see I am going to marry a very rich man—tomorrow, I presume." Leigh noticed her eyes expand with terror and a tremor pass through the hand that lay in his. Virginia had sought to speak calmly, dreading to have him know that nothing could make her happy. The poor thousands that he had sold his lands for were, like her own, useless to her now. "Won't you tell me all about it?" Leigh urged tenderly. "I know that you're hiding something that's eating your heart out. If money can't buy you I've brought you your father's share of the sale, and you're welcome to mine, too. All together it would make a tidy sum. It was a poor man you'd rather marry." He spoke with a little lessening of the warmth in his voice. The idea that Richard Brewster's girl could marry for money did not sit well on his mind. And it looked as if that were the case. "Two young people ought to get along pretty well on $150,000," he added lamely. Virginia was stunned. But only for an instant. Then she literally threw herself at him, grasping him by the shoulders and shaking him while tears of joy and excitement streamed down her cheeks. "Do you mean it? Do you mean it? Have you really got all that money? Really and truly?" Oddy Leigh was shocked, and presently Virginia perceived that he must think she had gone out of her head. Then she told him the story—told it in detail, between spells of laughter and sobs. "I'd like to have that man in Haiti," Leigh remarked absentmindedly. "The sharks are especially fond of yellow dogs. It will be some satisfaction, though, in getting the money and ramming it down his neck." But Virginia preferred to arrange it differently. "I don't trust him," she said. "Let's make him come to Mr. Gardner's office and take it before witnesses. Then he can't deny that we paid it. A check will do." And so it was. Gardner sent for Frederick Dean. They called in Dr. Meyerling also. Virginia wanted him to be present because she surmised he might know something of what had passed between her father and Dean. He was her father's confessor, she remembered. They were all gathered in Mr. Gardner's sumptuous, private office when Dean arrived. He looked with curiosity and a touch of apprehension at the unsmiling group that greeted him. "Is this a wedding party?" he asked, striding over to Virginia. Instead of answering Virginia handed him a certified check made out for $100,000, payable to her and signed by Mr. Leigh. "Is this a joke?" he laughed. "There was a united gasp from Gardner and Dr. Meyerling. Both had seen the check. They had been told that it was Richard Brewster's share of the sale of Leigh's plantation, but Virginia had resolutely refused to explain in advance her reason for wanting Dean there. She had merely said that she wished to repay a debt he said her father owed him and that he was her father's enemy. "Turn it over," she directed. "I've endorsed it. There is the price of your silence."

Bridge Party is Given at Home of Mrs. Wynne, Friday

An outstanding social event of the summer was the bridge party given by Mrs. J. S. Wynne, Mrs. C. L. Thomas, and Mrs. De Loh Vicars, at Mrs. Wynne's home on Friday afternoon. Vases and bowls of garden flowers added to the charm of the beautiful home and emphasized an attractive green and white color scheme, which was followed in the table appointments and in the refreshments. Lunch was served throughout the afternoon, and an ice course was enjoyed at the conclusion of the games.

A surprise was furnished in the award of the favors which were given to the players making low score, holding a hand without a trump, going out without a face card, holding a doublet bid, taking the first trick with a ace and remaining at one table throughout the afternoon. These favors, which were by way of "hope revivers," were presented to Mrs. Ivy Duncan, Mrs. H. H. Hicks, Mrs. Allen Clark, Mrs. Floyd Bennett, Mrs. Edwin Vicars, Mrs. Woods and Mrs. C. M. Carlock. Motorcade Route Is Changed After Recent Conference

STAMFORD, July 7.—Following a conference with President A. M. Bourland, Vernon, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Manager Homer D. Wade has announced several changes in the tentative itinerary of the third annual motorcade.

The route from Junction will not be determined by the motorcade party, as was first announced, but will officially lead the caravan to Sonora, where the annual Ranchmen's Round-up will be attended during one of the two days session, August 14 and 15. From Sonora, the travelers will go to San Angelo where inspection of the scenic city will be made. This routing had not been decided upon fully at the time of the first report.

According to present plans, the motor caravan will break up at Brownwood, Texas, late August 16, culminating a ten days tour covering many hundred miles.

The vacation land expedition will set forth from Snyder, Seary county, the morning of August 8, and will reach its first destination point, Carlsbad, New Mexico, that evening. Following attendance at the Mountain District Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in the famed Carlsbad Caverns, 850 feet below the surface of the earth, the party will journey to McKittrick Canyon. A drive will be made around the peak which is 9,500 feet high. From this canyon, the route will take the company between the Diablos and Delaware into the salt flats and into Var Horn.

The afternoon drive from Van Horn provides observation of the famous little Southern Pacific Station, "Lobo" which consists mainly of a huge stone hotel. The structure was the culmination of one of the first "blue sky" land deals. A realtor sold land supposedly located near a fine mountain resort hotel. Buyers on visiting the sector discovered the deceit, and filed charges only to be outwitted by the sharp who borrowed money from relatives and superintended building of the hotel that today stands alone with the mountains back of it and the steel rails at its side for company.

Passing through Valentine, the towns of Marfa, Fort Davis, and Alpine will lure different members of the assembly. August 9 will find the group gathered at Fort Davis, the famed Mile-High-Town for the Big Bend District convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. This stop provides for scenic drives, and trips to camp grounds and noted ranch houses.

Leaving Alpine, home of Sul Ross Teachers College, the motorcade will set forth for Devil's River, Del Rio, and Junction, and to points mentioned in the revised route.

Austin and Amarillo are among the latest cities to write in for additional information on the motorcade and indications are that the limit of 150 members in the party will be reached easily.

General Formation of Izaak Walton Leagues Planned

SAN ANTONIO, June 7.—(P)—The establishment of a chapter of the Izaak Walton League in every town of Southwest Texas before the rich game, fish and forest resources of the region are exhausted, is the object of a campaign which C. A. Wheatley, president of the Texas division, has launched.

New chapters have already been organized at Bandera, Boerne, New Braunfels, Kerrville and San Antonio and chapters at Junction, Mason, and Comstock will soon be installed.

"Game in Pennsylvania, 20 years ago reached the vanishing point", Wheatley said, "but the introduction of an educational program has reconstructed the wild life of the state until this year the kill of deer in 30 days was 15,000."

"Pennsylvania is approximately one-sixth as large as Texas and has twice as large a population, proving beyond a doubt that game can be saved. Texas, third among the states in forested area, appropriates $48,000 annually for forest protection while Pennsylvania spends $750,000 and is contemplating a $25,000,000 bond issue to be used for reforestation."

"Texas is 50 years ahead of the eastern states in wild life and outdoor natural beauty. This makes it essential that we go to work immediately to save it and keep our advantage. These chapters of the league organized in the heart of the game country, will be on the job the year around, watching conditions and fighting activity to conserve our wild life and scenery."

Vacation Time Increases Danger of Child Deaths

CHICAGO, July 7.—(Special)—Chances of accidents to children are increased over one-hundred per cent during the summer months, according to James S. Kemper, president of a local casualty company.

This is due to the school vacation season which doubles the play time out of doors for hundreds of children, and also to the touring season which greatly increases the number of motor vehicles on the highways.

"Twenty per cent of the serious injuries to children from automobiles were cases of children running out from behind parked cars, according to a survey just completed by our Automobile Safety committee," states Mr. Kemper. "Thirty-three per cent happened to children walking, running or playing in the street. Twenty-three percent occurred to children crossing the street, this proportion probably including practically all of the cases wherein the child was legitimately on the road, crossing properly at an intersection."

"Nearly ten per cent were accidents to children hitching on vehicles, or begging a ride. Seven per cent were to children on bicycles and roller skates. Three and one-half per cent were coasting accidents. About that same percentage were private driveway accidents—these usually happening to very small children, and including cases where a parent was at the wheel. Accidents to children are always being trending. Twelve per cent of those under consideration were fatal.

The greater activity and adventure some spirit of boys is reflected in the fact that seventy per cent of the serious and fatal accidents were to boys, 30 per cent to girls."

AUSTIN, July 7.—(P)—To make his position clear, D. W. Wilcox, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, said in a statement at Georgetown Saturday that he personally is not supporting any of the "bolting" candidates and does not think "any Democrat should vote for a candidate who is not willing to support all Democratic nominees from president down the line."

As for Love and the other bolters, William E. I am vigorously supporting Smith and Robinson and, both personally and officially, will do everything I can to see that Texas gives them the usual overwhelming majority."

Pampa Cleaners in Modern New Plant

The Pampa Cleaners, master cleaners, have moved into their new quarters on Ballard street, and have one of the best equipped places in the Panhandle. New equipment to handle all kinds of work has been installed and the former cleaning plant is also being maintained to do the part of the cleaning.

The plant has been in operation here since April, 1927, and has rapidly grown to be placed in the master cleaner class. Among the new equipment installed in the new home is a set of fluting irons containing five different sizes. Formerly dresses had to be sent to Amarillo to have this work done. Also a complete set of pleating forms have been purchased capable of doing accordion, box, knife, and two different types of sunburst pleats.

A staff of ten experienced men and women assists R. E. Gilbert in the work of the new master cleaner plant.

New Paving Will Be Started on Monday

Monday morning at 8 o'clock will bring the commencement of the new paving program in Pampa. The new type of vibrothitic pavement will be first laid on Ballard street from the corner of Kingsmill avenue, where it connects with the brick paving. Twenty-seven blocks of paving has already been authorized and it is expected that more will be ordered.

Curb and gutter is being completed on Somerville street and the grading was completed last night on Kingsmill avenue, ready for the concrete.

Vibrothitic paving was first endorsed in Dallas, and has become one of the outstanding types. The type being laid in Pampa by the Stuckey Construction company is six inches thick.

A six-inch coat of ordinary concrete is first used. Over this concrete an inch coating of hard rock is placed. The rock is covered by a wooden mat and the vibrators placed on top of that mat. The vibrators have a 750-pound impact and drive the small rock into the paving, squeezing out surplus water and filling in air pockets, leaving the concrete 6 inches in thickness.

H. C. Mitchell, superintendent in charge of construction, is from the American Vibrothitic company with head offices in Des Moines, Ia.
