COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT IS NAMED

Gray County Seat Fight Is Taken To Amarillo Appeals Court

SUIT HEARING WILL POSSIBLY BE IN OCTOBER

Notice of Appeal Is Given and Bond Arranged

PRECEDURE TO BE REQUESTED

End of Litigation Is Anticipated Before End of Year

Gray county's county seat election contest, has obtained legal status in the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals, where it will be ruled upon next fall.

The McLean plaintiffs have filed notice of appeal and made appeal bond in the Amarillo court. The Pampa bar, defending the legality of the election, will ask an immediate hearing when the court convenes, which will be in October.

It is expected that the Appeals court will uphold the election, and that the Supreme Court, if asked, will refuse a writ of error from the Amarillo court thus permanently ending the case.

Route of Highway 33 May Come Up for Action

Gibb Gilchrist, state engineer from Austin, will be in Amarillo today, according to a telegram received here this morning by W. A. Taylor, county commissioner. Mr. Gilchrist will probably visit Pampa and Miami tomorrow in an effort to decide the route highway 33 is to follow.

The engineer has delayed the highway 33 issue, but it is likely that some of the Pampa road committee will go to Amarillo today in an effort to have Mr. Gilchrist pay a visit here tomorrow.

PUP SURVIVES TWO WEEKS IN FREIGHT CAR

SPOKANE, Wash., July 9.—(P)—Two weeks ago a freight car loaded with automobiles was sealed in Detroit. Yesterday the car was opened here. Sitting in the front seat of one of the automobiles, lean and gaunt apparently having lived without food or water during the trip, was a small dog. A look of appeal about all that was left of him, touched the heart of the boss and the dog was taken to the show rooms of the automobile firm. Now he has a permanent home and a definite place in life as the company's mascot.

PARACHUTE STUNT FATAL

SEYMOUR, Ind., July 9.—(P)—Evertt V. 22, of Indianapolis fell 300 feet to his death here yesterday when the third parachute in his triple parachute leap from a balloon failed to open. His fall first into a field, the body being buried two feet in the ground.

Cal Goes Fishing—And Catches 'em, Too

OUT ON THE BEAUTIFUL BEULE RIVER, reward came quickly to Mr. Coahon. The richly stocked stream seemed full of trout eager to do honor to the chief executive's angling ability. He cast, yanked in his catches in a businesslike manner and let the taciturn guide take them from the hook. Here he is shown watching LaRoque complete the landing of a rainbow trout.

Pennsylvania Crude Prices Up

MARFA IS GOAL OF AIR TOUR IN FLIGHT TODAY

SAN ANTONIO, July 9.—(P)—All planes in the national air tour hopped off for Marfa today. Four of the slower planes, with The Pathfinder, left at this morning and the main body of the flyers got away at 8 o'clock, taking off at one minute intervals.

Death of Nobile Crew Member Is Denied at Rome

ROME, July 9.—(P)—The Stefani News agency which has been in constant touch with the Nobile expedition operations through the office of Di Milano announced today that rumors that Natale Cecconi, motor chief, had died from injuries received in the crash were false.

A dispatch to Le Matin of Paris from Virgo Bay, Spitzbergen, stated that Cecconi had died from his injuries and that the four remaining survivors of General Nobile's fatal trip to the pole, were seriously ill. These men are Lieutenant Alfred Vigliani, navigator; Professor F. Behounek, Czechoslovakian meteorologist; Giuseppe Biagi, radio operator; and Felippo Trotmann, engineer. If Cecconi is dead he is the second member of the airship crew to have been killed in the ill-fated journey. Vincenzo Ponzella, motor attendant, was killed in the crash, although General Nobile did not report the fact until after he had been rescued, leaving five companions in peril on the ice.

The eight other men aboard the airship are missing as are Captain Sors, who started overland toward the act-ways, and Roald Amundsen and five companions, who flew from Norway to join in the rescue work and disappeared.

The Rev. Henry Smith, retired minister residing in Amarillo, filled the pulpit at the Presbyterian church yesterday morning.

Six Grades Are Advanced From 15 to 20 Cents a Barrel by Leading Companies

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—(P)—Six grades of Pennsylvania crude oil were increased 15 cents to 20 cents a barrel today. New prices, posted by leading purchasing agencies, were:

NOTED RAILROAD MAN DIES OF HEART DISEASE

DENNIS, Mass., July 9.—(P)—Howard Elliott, noted railroad executive whose success in establishing public confidence contributed largely to the prosperity of three great lines, is dead.

The former president of northern Pacific and New York, New Haven, and Hartford railroads and vice-president of the Burlington, succumbed late last night to an attack of heart disease at the Cape Cod summer home of his daughter, Mrs. Frederick Wilson.

BAD WEATHER HALTS COURTNEY IN ATLANTIC HOP

HORTA, Island of Fayal, Azores, July 9.—(P)—Captain Frank T. Courtney, who attempted a trans-Atlantic flight last year and got no further than the coast of Spain, has failed in his first attempt this year.

Lowenstein May Have Parachuted Safely Into Sea

LONDON, July 9.—(P)—The Exchange Telegraph company prints a rather startling dispatch from Dunkirk which gives a new theory on the disappearance of Captain Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian aviator.

A fisherman of the small village of Bray-Dunes, on the coast of France, says the dispatch is reported to have stated that he was certain he saw a parachute full from his skies, about the time the Lowenstein plane was crossing the English channel and alight a few miles from the place where he was.

He did not bother to investigate at the time as he saw a boat near the place where the parachute came down. There is no confirmation of this report, but in aviation circles it is asserted that, provided the door of the plane was open, it would have been quite possible for Lowenstein to leave the airplane without being detected by members of the crew.

ANTI-WAR PACT DOCUMENTS TO BE AGREEABLE

French Signature May Be Affixed July 14, Holiday

KELLOGG MAY BE AT PARIS

British Foreign Officer Says No Delay Is Expected

PARIS, July 9.—(P)—The pact outlawing war can be signed any time Secretary of State Kellogg wishes, official circles intimated today. The Fourteenth of July, the great French holiday, has been suggested in Paris, but there has been no discussion of this detail with Washington.

The impression is abroad here that Secretary Kellogg himself would come over for the ceremony, but the foreign office is unavary of any definite plans concerning this.

Motorists Who Hinder Firemen to Be Arrested, Fined

One of the great American pastimes is following a fire truck, and even though they have to pay fines, Americans will do it. And Pampa is no exception to the rule. The fire department received a call to South Pampa, yesterday afternoon and numerous cars beat the truck to the place from where the call was received.

The fire chief, who was at home at the time of the call, immediately left for the fire, but succeeded only in getting within seven blocks of the truck when he was held up by cars following a false alarm.

Paving Is Delayed For Short Period

Paving operations, which were to have commenced this morning on North Ballard street, have been held up for a few days because of the rain Sunday morning, and a broken crane.

The grade has been completed on the two blocks of Ballard street and on the block on West Kingsmill avenue, to be done first.

Marvin Jones to Speak Here July 18

Marvin Jones of Amarillo, candidate for re-election to Congress from the 18th district of Texas, will speak in Pampa Wednesday, July 18.

DALLAS—Mrs. L. W. Coleman, 73, widow of Rev. L. W. Coleman, and daughter of the late Dr. R. C. Buckner, founder of Buckner's Orphan Home, died after long illness.

Heat Is Blamed for Many Deaths

Rainfall of one inch, falling in a severe downpour early Sunday morning, came at an opportune time so far as the harvest was concerned, for a warm sun had dried out the fields by noon today and wheat cutting and hauling is in full swing again.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(P)—Eastern states sweltered in the grip of a heat wave. Twenty-one or more drownings occurred among the millions who sought relief Sunday in streams and at crowded bathing beaches. Two persons died from the heat in New York city.

In Washington the thermometer registered 98 and there were five prostrations. The highest recorded in New York city was 91.

The hot wave struck the east after three days in the Mid-west when it caused several deaths.

Ten persons were drowned in the metropolitan district, two deaths and two prostrations were attributed to the heat and one person was fatally injured in an auto accident resulting from the unusually heavy traffic. It was estimated that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 New Yorkers left the city during the day and of these 1,000,000 went swimming.

Drownings were reported from Westfield, N. J., Milford, Del., Philadelphia, Rochester, N. Y., Freehold, N. J., Oakland Beach, R. Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Watkins Glen, N. Y., Syracuse, N. Y., Milford, Conn., and New York.

Chicago with its massed millions had 15 deaths directly attributed to heat, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Kansas also reported fatalities either from drowning or heat prostrations.

JOHN HESSEY APPOINTED BY COMMISSION

Office Is Created on Authority of Supt. Marra

TAKES OATH THIS MORNING

First Official Went to County Schools as Youth

Prof. John B. Hesseuy today took the oath of office as superintendent of Gray county.

Upon receiving authority from State Superintendent S. M. N. Marra, the county commissioners immediately created the office, as it was mandatory upon them to do, and announced the appointment of Mr. Hesseuy.

Soon thereafter the appointee took the oath of office from Charles Tuck, county clerk, and made his bond. Mr. Hesseuy will leave Saturday for Austin, where he will spend two weeks in the department of education familiarizing himself with his duties in relation to that department.

The county superintendent will serve under appointment until January 1, when, through his stated election as a sole candidate primary, he will begin a Democratic primary, he will begin a two-year term.

Mr. Hesseuy came to Gray county in 1907 and attended rural schools six years. He was graduated by Alameda high school in 1918. During 1915, 1916, 1917, and part of 1918 he attended West Texas Teachers college at Canyon.

He taught school in Gray county six years, last term as superintendent of the Grandview district. He will build a home here soon, and until the new courthouse is built will share the office of the county judge.

DELIVERY BOY KILLED IN HOME OF THEATRE MAN

DENVER, July 9.—(P)—A. E. (Dick) Dickson, colored theatre owner, was held without charge here today after he admitted killing Herbert H. Powell when he found the 19-year-old youth with his wife at Dickson's home.

Dickson told police he had been informed that Powell had visited Mrs. Dickson several times while he was out of town. He said after announcing he was leaving town yesterday, and had been accompanied to the station by his wife, he returned to a point near his home where he waited until he saw Powell enter.

On entering the house, Dickson said he found Powell with a pistol and that during a fight with his wife he (Dickson) carried two shots west fired. One bullet struck Powell in the shoulder and one pierced the youth's head, Dickson said he had no intention of shooting Powell.

The youth's mother, Mrs. Lynn B. Powell of Caruthersville, Mo., said Dickson had known Mrs. Dickson for several months and that a sister of the boy had asked Dickson to try to "bring the case to a quiet ending." Powell told his sister he met Mrs. Dickson while delivering groceries at her home.

City Officers Have Very Busy Week-end

City officers had one of the busiest week-ends in some time. Chief of Police Downs reported today. Twenty fines were paid over the week-end for traffic violations, drunkenness, an disturbing the peace.

PLAIN PRESS NOTES

The McLean News editorially counts the things for which McLean should be proud and lists the following assets: 7 dry goods stores, 5 grocery stores, 4 produce houses, 2 banks, variety store, 3 hotels, 2 tailor shops, 3 hardware stores, 3 lumber yards, 6 cafes, feed store, bakery, 3 drug stores, 3 furniture stores, 3 barber shops, 14 filling stations, jeweler, 3 lawyers, 4 real estate firms, 4 garages, grist mill, meat market, 3 cotton gins, abstract company, 5 fire insurance agents, newspaper and printing plant, 2 blacksmith shops, machine shop, 3 plumbing shops, 3 dry lines, 2 shoe shops, confectionery, 3 news stands, gas company, electric light and power plant, ice plant, water works plant, dairy, 5 wholesale gasoline dealers, theatre, 7 churches, 2 schools, 4 doctors, dentist, 2 tourist camps, 7 lodges, undertaker, 4 life insurance agents, music store, telephone exchange, pipeline supply house, railroad.

Pampa very much needs a commercial and industrial survey. Probably a city directory would provide the facts in the best manner. But first the streets must be re-designated and the houses numbered.

County Agent Parker D. Hanna of Hemphill county is helping gather exhibits for the 1928 Hemphill county fair. Since Gray county has no county agent, his advice will be of interest locally.

Each community ought to get samples of the wheat, oats, barley, and rye in bundles at this time, before it is all cut. This can be done in a short time, and even though the community should decide not to get up a community exhibit, these bundles could be shown by the individuals gathering them, in the general exhibit class.

Lions clubs are springing up all over the plains at this time. Follett, Miami, McLean, White Deer, Wellington, and Wheeler are getting clubs under way and the organizations already established are taking prominent parts by inter-city visiting. While not profound as a doer of great deeds, the Lions or other civic club is an important social institution, and it links busy business men in bonds of friendship they will never know otherwise.

The old time chataqua has all but disappeared from the average Panhandle city. It is of news interest, therefore, to note that the Redpath-Horner circuit has opened a week's engagement in Plainview. The chataqua guarantee went to route of most similar plans several years ago when the signers paid big deficits and the quality of entertainment seemed to be falling. Despite the desire for cultural uplift, those who were backing the projects felt that entertainment of the right kind ought to be self-supporting and that the chataquas ought to be willing to take the risks themselves. Since that time the radio has been perfected and the general broadening of cultural activities has been noteworthy.

The Canyon News reports that August 23 has been set as the date of the annual T-Anchor reunion. John Arnot of Amarillo is president of the association of the same name, and Miss Laura V. Hamner of Amarillo is secretary. Those eligible for admission to the big round-up must show evidence that they have been engaged in the cattle game, either as puncher or owner, up to and including the year 1925. It will not be an old settlers' picnic, and admission cards obtainable from the president or secretary must be presented at the grounds near Canyon.

It is interesting news to know that paving will connect the Amarillo concrete and Panhandle before winter. This connecting strip will be contracted for July 16 at a cost of approximately $26,000 per mile. Probably the next project to be authorized will be the Kingsmill to White Deer gap.

On Other Days Also
While the number of those who died Wednesday is most appalling, the imagination must be wild indeed that will ascribe all of those 205 deaths to Fourth of July causes. The spirit of the 'glorious Fourth' certainly had nothing to do with the death of the twelve who died from the heat, the three who were killed by lightning, and the four who died in the crash of aircraft. Nor is it easy to see how the spirit of the day could have been responsible for drowning of 106 persons. It is easier to see some connection between the day and the death of 54 who were killed in auto wrecks.

Probably there would have been just as many casualties if the millions who went out to forest, lake, and stream on the Fourth of July had gone forth on some other holiday or on the Sabbath. Scores died in the water because hundreds of thousands were in the water. Dozens died in motor car accidents because millions were out in motor cars. Those who were killed and those who were injured by the explosion of fireworks were, of course, direct victims of the day's peculiar spirit and celebration. On the whole, the amazing

WASHINGTON—Senator J. Boonboom McWhorter, who landed outside the platform committee room at Kansas City on his ear, now threatens to bolt the party. The reason Senator McWhorter landed outside the platform committee room on his ear was merely that he presented a platform which he had written himself and demanded its adoption. His unceremonious objection left him only with hopes of the presidential nomination, which hardly seemed justified in the light of subsequent events.

McWhorter took the position that the party candidate should be allowed to write the party platform. Senator McWhorter's Republican platform is presented, exclusively herewith:

"We, the Republican party, congratulate the country on eight years of prosperity under Republican rule, in the early stages of which it was snatched from the brink of ruin toward which it had been rushed by thieving Democrats. "We point with pride to the spontaneous rush of our party to oversubscribe the $160,000 fund raised by Senator Borah to pay off the party's debt to Harry Sinclair and to the prompt ousting of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and National Chairman Butler from their positions of trust as soon as it was learned that they had known of the Sinclair contribution to the party campaign chest and had failed to reveal it.

"Coolidge economy held its increase in national expenses this year below $300,000,000.

"The complete success of prohibition enforcement under Republican guidance furnishes a shining mark of law administration for the ages to shoot at.

"In the ensuing four years the Republican party promises to enforce this law impartially, without fear or favor. Voters who elect wet politicians are hereby promised strictly wet enforcement and voters who elect dry politicians are promised strictly dry enforcement. These long distance flights would be fine for vacations if one could be certain of getting back. A small town newspaper is one in which the editor casually makes the occasional remark that "considerable humidity has been mingled in the local atmosphere the last few days." The English have long disdained modern heating comforts; wonder how long it will take them to adopt the new fangled refrigerators. It is said every person should do something disagreeable to himself every day. We do—every time we "get up!"

mised strictly dry enforcement.

"We view with satisfaction the fact that there is now no unemployment and virtual! no prospect of any unless the country is silly enough to elect a Democrat. In case anyone cannot find himself a job during the next administration, new federal government jobs will be created.

"We join with the nation in giving thanks that the agricultural problem has been boldly and satisfactorily solved by Calvin Coolidge and that the farmers are now contentedly enjoying an unprecedented period of prosperity. As long as our party is in power, nothing is too good for the farmers.

"With the Republican support, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh blazed a new trail across the Atlantic ocean. This could never have occurred in a Democratic administration. This party unqualified endorses bigger and better trans-oceanic flights.

"The brilliant victory of our brave marines, guided by a Republican president, who overcame and captured the rebel Sandino in Nicaragua with such ease and dispatch knows no counterpart in military history since the World War. As a diplomatic victory, our pacification of Nicaragua is only excelled by our success in scaring the Mexican government out of its wits and forcing it to back down on all points at issue between the two governments.

"We join with the nation in paying homage to Secretary of State Kellogg, who bravely and singlehandedly solved the Nicaraguan, Mexican and Chinese problems and more recently has earned the undying gratitude of the world by causing war to be formally outlawed. Thanks to the Republican party, there will never be another war."

TWINKLES

If Pampa style indications come true, the 1932 platforms will likely have planks for the relief of down-and-out silk worms.

Clogging The Reportorial Machine

By O. B. KEELER
The evening of July 8th, 1926, was setting in a clear twilight over the golf course of the Seoto Country Club at Columbus, and the first round of the national open championship was all but over. Every competitor known to fame was in. Every typewriter in the press gallery, on the cool balcony of the club house, was clattering like a machine-gun. All the boys and girls were punching out rush copy, and the telegraph instruments were getting hotter as the "early leads" went clicking away to newspapers and press associations in every part of the country.

Substantially, the leads recited, plus the decorative fancies of the various reporters, that Wild Bill Mehlhorn led the opening round with a par-bustling 66; that the inevitable Bobby Jones was second, with a brilliant 70; that Al Espinosa and Joe Turness were tied in third place, with a fine 71 each; and that grand old Willie Macfarlane of Tuckahoe, the 1925 champion, was next with a card of 72.

Clickety-click went the typewriters; and clickety-click went the concomitant telegraph implements; and the leads all were "in", and everybody was happy, when here came a courier from the front, galloping up, buckety buckety, with the startling report that on the last tee stood one John H. Junior, of Portland, Oregon, and that the hitherto unheralded Mr. Junior needed a par 5 for a card of 70.

Panic broke out instantly. Another 70, or a 71, or a 72, especially by an unknown warrior, would utterly disrupt all the early leads. There were howls of wrath and dismay and frantic queries as to who was this John H. Junior, and why. Especially WHY.

"It ought to be John H. Jonah", was the clamorous verdict; and on the hapless and innocent head of the story-wrecker were discharged ornate epithets and horrid ambitions for his future state that would have appalled a thoughtful person who had not already filed the front part of his story.

Along the balustrade stood a gesticulating row of imprecatory journalists, chanting in chorus: "Hope he takes a ten! Hope he takes a ten!" There was nothing personally vindictive in this evil hope. Mr. Junior simply was wrecking a flock of stories. He had no business at all, unknown as he was, to come in with a 70, after all the mighty ones had finished, and smear a hundred thousand miles of telegraph wire with corrections and explanations and revisions.

But that is precisely what Mr. John H. Junior did. Something evidently had gone wrong with his usual game, and he shot a shocking 70, and all the stories had to be recalled and rewritten and refiled.

The next round Mr. Junior was back on his game, and shot an 80, finally winding up in fifteenth place with a total of 318, some 25-strokes below the winning score.

But in Round 1 he was tied for second place with the great Bobby. And not a war correspondent at that tournament ever will forget the name of John H. Junior of Portland, Oregon—or the little lesson he imparted concerning the inadvisability of writing one's lead before all the returns are in, from Oregon, or China, or anywhere else.

Grading on South Road Near End

Grading of the oil field road from the city limits south five miles to connect with the road leading west to highway 28 is almost completed. The grading operations are within a mile of the city limits. All the culverts have been completed along the six miles to the Clarendon road. After the completion of the south road the contractor, J. Prater of Memphis, will commence on the cut-off leading to the Clarendon road. This is the first work to be done on the 41 miles of paved road in the precinct for which bonds were voted last November. The right-of-way is 88 feet and the crown 28 feet. The roadway is being raised at least four feet to allow for setting.

I LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 by NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BERTIE LOU WARD, on the eve of her wedding to ROD BRUCE, receives a paper knife as a gift from LILA MARSH—the prettiest girl in town—who had turned Rod down because he was not wealthy.

The feel of the metal chilled Bertie Lou and the thought that it was a dagger to pierce her happiness flashed across her mind as that her dreaming, satisfaction turned to miserable foreboding. But she courageously resolved not to be jealous of Rod's past love affair. His future is in her keeping.

She is beautiful in her wedding dress, but the joyous singing in her heart ceased just before the ceremony when Bertie Lou accidentally overheard one of her bridesmaids ask another if she thinks the bride likes being second choice.

Blissfully she stands before the altar, but the words of the minister and Rod whisper "My wife" with a world of wonder and adoration in his eyes. Bertie Lou knows that she would rather be second choice than to give him one.

She smiles sweetly and ignores the minister's words. She gives the paper knife to Rod and says "I'll give you my love and my heart. I'll give you my love and my heart. I'll give you my love and my heart."

They spend an ideal honeymoon and Rod almost forgets the shadow cast by the predatory ex-sweetheart until they return and find Lila in their new home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

BERTIE LOU approached her new home without a hint from the other girls that Lila had remained behind when they left to go to the station to meet the returning honeymooners.

Much to their dismay Lila had descended upon them in the flat an hour or two before train time and had insisted upon fulfilling what she called her promise to Rod.

She rearranged everything she could move unassisted. The girls argued and protested. But Lila had a way of coming out on top. She professed to know more about what Rod would like than anyone else possibly could.

Mrs. Ward's lips were drawn thin in suppressed anger. But she kept silent because she did not wish to make a scene and start people talking.

Her mind was busy turning over ideas for scolding Bertie Lou's discomfiture when she found Lila in her home. For Lila had announced her intention of staying to help with the curtains and Mrs. Ward suspected that nothing short of plain eviction would get her out.

Suddenly Bertie Lou lost her temper. "Suppose you come in in the morning and cook breakfast for us," she said sweetly.

WHEN the girls were ready to go to the station she told Lila that she really would need her help. It was useless, however, as she had known it would be. Lila refused to go with them. "You can never get those rods up alone," she declared with a great show of consideration. "In fact I think Marcella had better stay and help me."

"Oh, no," Mrs. Ward said quickly. "Marcella will want to go to the station." She thought if she was left alone with Lila she might find something to say to the girl that would make her conscious of her taste in coming to the apartment at this time.

But Lila had suggested Marcella's remaining because she suspected what was on Mrs. Ward's mind. Marcella was utterly unaware of being a pawn. "I really haven't finished putting the kitchen dishes back in the cupboard, Mrs. Ward," she said in an undecided tone. "I guess I'd better stay."

Mrs. Ward offered no further objections. If Lila was bent on making trouble she would make it. And all the more if she were put out.

The arrival of the bridal couple in front of the grocery store was heralded by laughing shouts and loud hollings. Mrs. Ward ran to see for herself that it really was Rod and Bertie Lou.

A swarm of friends piled out of the cars behind that occupied by the bride and groom and literally swept the young couple across the sidewalk and up the flight of stairs to the second floor of the new brick building.

Mrs. Ward hurried out on the landing to meet them. Marcella was before her but Lila had stayed behind. Bertie Lou saw her mother coming toward her and shouted: "Hey, Mamma, dig me out!"

Bertie Lou's friends made way for her mother and Bertie Lou rushed into the dear familiar arms like a homing bird.

BERTIE LOU reached up for a kiss. After it Mrs. Ward laid her cheek on Bertie Lou's—her lips buried in the girl's rich brown curls. "Honey, listen. Lila is here," she whispered.

Bertie Lou stiffened slightly. Then she flung her arms around her mother's neck, kissed her on the nose and broke away, apparently as happy as she had been a moment before. The boy of welcome swept her on into her new home.

"Isn't it lovely, Bertie Lou? We all helped Rod's mother pick out the rug. Too bad she isn't here!"

Bertie Lou listened through it all, exclaiming, "How lovely!" Then she turned to her mother and said: "But to her mother's ears her voice rang just a shade hollow. Mrs. Ward watched the dining room door, dreading the moment when Lila should choose to make her presence known.

Finally, as they were about to lead Bertie Lou into the dining room, Lila appeared in the doorway. "Welcome home," she cried gayly and came up to kiss Bertie Lou.

The girls were watching Bertie Lou. She hadn't turned a hair when she saw Lila. She had let herself be kissed without any evident unwillingness and if she was not warm to Lila she was not cold either. Everyone was left guessing.

"I've started some coffee for you," Lila sang out to Rod as he moved away from her to follow Bertie Lou who had gone into the dining room. Mrs. Ward turned upon her. So that was what had kept her from showing herself! "Coffee," she echoed. "On a hot day like this?"

Lila replied that she intended to keep it. "Rod hates lemonade," she added, apropos of the refreshment Mrs. Ward had provided for the occasion. Mrs. Ward's eyes blazed but she was glad that Bertie Lou and the other girls were out of hearing. She resolved that there should be no coffee served, iced or otherwise, unless Bertie Lou so wished.

She went swiftly into the dining room and up to Bertie Lou. "Shall we make tea or coffee for Rod?" she asked in a strained voice.

Just then one of the girls opened the kitchen door and Bertie Lou caught a whiff of fragrant Morbis and Java. It was a gift from the grocer downstairs. She thought that her mother had already gone to the trouble of making it and was anxious to know if Rod would like it. "He'd love it, Mamma, if it isn't too much trouble." Mrs. Ward breathed a sigh of relief, thankful that Bertie Lou hadn't been in ignorance of Rod's taste for iced coffee. It would have been awkward to dispose of it if Bertie Lou had said no to it. Especially since Rod liked it.

LILA said nothing more about the coffee. She didn't much care whether the others knew anything about it or not. Her sole object in tormenting Bertie Lou was to bite on a sore tooth. She was half sorry for herself, half angry with Rod and half hateful of Bertie Lou.

The rest drank lemonade and continued to the last crumb the three colored marble cake Mrs. Ward had baked. Marcella suggested washing the glasses and plates but Bertie Lou's mother refused to let them. They ceased a nervous tension in her manner and it finally dawned upon them that a welcoming home party should be brief to be successful.

LILA was the last to go. "Coming?" she asked to Mrs. Ward. The latter answered with a curt "No."

"Oh, don't be a comic strip mother-in-law," Lila told her. Mrs. Ward ignored her impudence by turning away from the door where Lila stood and deliberately lingered to keep Bertie Lou awaiting, plashily tired and travel-stained.

Suddenly Bertie Lou got her temper. "Suppose you come in in the morning and cook breakfast for us," she said sweetly. "You're so willing and Rod's often told me how much he enjoyed your cooking."

Awful Tragedy of Ship Sinking Told by Survivor

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 9.—(AP)—Of some 300 persons aboard the army transport Angamos only four were alive today to tell how the vessel had pounded to pieces on rocks. The catastrophe occurred at Punta Chimpel, near the South Chilean coast town of Lebu, Friday night.

The captain, unable to avert disaster, committed suicide on the bridge. Eighty bodies were found on the beach near Coronel but the exact number who perished probably will never be known since after leaving Punta Arenas with 291 persons aboard the vessel made several stops en route picking up additional passengers. The ship had been loading material for the Chilean navy in the Gulf of Arauco when a storm broke late in the afternoon. The vessel left the bay to ride it out. For several hours she struggled against wind and wave and was badly battered. Heavy seas smashed the rudder. The ship started to drift toward the breakers. Frantic appeals for help were sent out. None came. At 10 p. m., the vessel crashed on the rocks about 300 yards from shore.

Frantic attempts to launch life boats were made. They capsized as they were lowered into the tremendous sea. Their human freight was tossed on the rocks by the breakers or drawn back into the angry sea.

Men, women, and children perished in the seas while others remained huddled on deck crying piteously and in vain for help.

Through the roar of the storm, the shrill blasts of the ship's whistle sounded continuously, calling for aid. Above the bedlam the sharp report of Commander Imsel Suarez' pistol rang out and he fell dead at his post on the bridge.

The vessel had filled rapidly with water and three hours after she struck was virtually buried under the waves. Then the ship broke in two and the few who remained aboard were thrown into the sea. One of the survivors, Pose Agulla, an army conscript, said in a hospital at Elen:

"My companions and I were saved only because God is great. The only thing I remember is that after being thrown into the water I clutched a floating timber. A huge wave raised me almost a rock. I do not recall what took place afterward. When I recovered consciousness, I found myself stark naked, sprawled upon the beach."

sailor, said he could not explain how he was saved. After being cast on the beach naked, he looked for the ship but could see nothing.

Carrillo made his way to the nearest house. He was refused admittance, the inhabitants thinking him a tramp. After an hour of argument he convinced the housewife that he really needed assistance. After a brief rest they set out in search of other survivors. They found three army conscripts, Agulla, Humberto Sepulveda, and Humberto Diaz, all naked.

Public funeral services will be held at Concepcion on Tuesday. Flags of the provincial government building and the consulate were flying at half mast today.

East Is Battle Ground for the Political Bosses

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Republican campaign plans are concentrating on the East and it appears likely that Herbert Hoover himself will return to Washington in the fall to be near headquarters here in the final drive.

Another front porch campaign is in the making although in the case of Mr. Hoover it seems a more appropriate name for his prospective battle would be a back yard campaign. The spacious residence of the secretary on R. street here has a very insignificant front porch but the home has a commodious back yard.

The residence is just a few houses away from the place where Woodrow Wilson, the last Democratic president, spent his last days. Mr. Hoover has lived in this place almost since coming to Washington in 1921 as secretary of commerce.

But before he decides on his plans for the fall, Mr. Hoover must this week arrange definitely for his departure for Palo Alto, Cal., where he will be officially notified of his nomination early next month. An early definite announcement was expected today, calling for departure late in the week or early next week.

Henry J. Allen of Kansas, in charge of Republican publicity, is responsible for the statement that the party leaders believe the east to be the battle ground of the campaign with confidence on their part that the West will stay Republican.

An Eastern advisory council has been organized, with Senator Moses of New Hampshire, at its head, which will dictate policies for the drive in the Atlantic Coast states.

Smith to Meet Advisors to Plan Fall Campaign

ALBANY, N. Y., July 9.—(AP)—Governor Smith is shaping up his campaign plans in consultation with others.

Although he will have the final say both as to organization and strategy he is indicating that he has no preconceived ideas as to what should be done by seeking the advice of various party leaders.

Already he has gone over the situation with some of his close friends who attended the Houston convention, and has as his house guest Senator Pittman of Nevada, who served as chairman of the convention platform committee.

Today the governor looked forward to a chat here with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, his running mate. He had the assurance of Senator Reed of Missouri that he would come west to co-operate in campaign planning. He has arranged to be in New York City Wednesday to take part in the deliberations of the Democratic national committee. At that time it is expected that a campaign manager will be named and dates set for the official notification of both of the Democratic nominees.

Senator Robinson, on his way from his home in Arkansas to the New York committee meeting, advised Governor Smith that he would stop in Albany late today, and that he would have with him Jesse H. Jones of Houston.

At the session of the national committee Wednesday, Governor Smith not only have opportunity to meet the men and women members of the various states, but he plans, with their cooperation, to map out his campaign plans. A number of party leaders have been mentioned in connection with the post of committee chairman, but the nominee, who will really make the selection, has not indicated his preference. Senators Gery of Rhode Island and Pittman both have figured prominently in speculation.

Charley Paddock May Be Ruled Out of Olympic

BY ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Charged with professionalizing himself in a "personal appearance" motion picture tour, Charley Paddock today faced the prospect of losing his place on the 1928 American Olympic track and field team and the chance to seek world sprint honors for the third time in eight years.

The sudden and eleventh-hour demand by the Olympic authorities for a show-down on Paddock's status came as a climax to selection of the American team and furnished a sensational prelude to its departure Wednesday for Amsterdam.

Paddock met one of the severest tests of his career Saturday when he staged a sensational come-back to qualify for the team in the 200-meter dash finishing second to Charley Borah, after being shut out the day before in the 100 meters. But the blond California veteran, long a storm-center of athletics, faces an even more exacting test of eligibility before he can earn the unquestioned right to represent Uncle Sam at Amsterdam.

The court which held Charley's fate in its hands today was the registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, headed by Daniel J. Ferris, chairman.

Ferris and his committee, after a special hearing for Paddock scheduled today, must decide whether Paddock has violated the letter or spirit of the amateur code by making public appearances and giving talks in connection with an athletic film in theaters. If he is cleared, blond Charley will sail with the team Wednesday and run at Amsterdam. If he is ruled out and, as a result, professionalized, his place will be taken by Roland Locke of the New York A. C., former University of Nebraska star, who was fifth in the 200-meter final Saturday at Cambridge.

With or without Paddock, the squad of 82-track and field stars, selected as a result of a record-smashing series of final tests, is hailed as the youngest as well as the most brilliant ever gathered together in quest of world athletic supremacy. Coming from all parts of the country, this collection of speed and brawn will embark with confidence, representing ten other branches of Olympic competition.

Altogether, 288 athletes, outside of coaches, trainers and officials, are booked to leave on the President Roosevelt Wednesday at noon on an expedition costing about $250,000.

Is Slugger Sand Lot Tourney

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Margaret Gisolo, 15-year-old prima donna of the diamond, will be the main attraction in the district finals of the American Legion's state junior baseball contest here, July 9.

Margaret, a quiet, mild-mannered lassie, has become somewhat of a stormy petrel of the Legion's baseball tournaments because of the protests growing out of the presence of a girl on a boys' ball club.

Murmurs of disapproval developed into a storm of objection recently when Margaret repped out a home run to break up a 12-inning game and enable her team, the Blanford Cubs, to eliminate Clinton, Indiana, in the county tournament. It was the second game decided by Miss Gisolo's big bat.

The protest was carried all the way to National Legion headquarters, Meanwhile, the state Legion athletic director had suspended Margaret but telegraphic communication with Dan Sewers, national director resulted in a quick reinstatement.

This permitted Margaret to take her regular part at second base and help the Blanford nine win the Miller county championship and qualify for the district tournament here.

In this game she proved her value as a fielder by halting an enemy rally with a diamond-studded double play. Margaret grabbed a fly back of second and then doubled up a runner trying to advance on what had appeared to be a safe hit.

Washington Is Releasing Players Who Won't Do

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Bucky Harris has started house-cleaning at Washington. It's a little late for such operations but Bucky probably feels that his Senators can't do much more.

Horace Lisenbee, sensation of the league last season, is the first to feel the keen edge of the official axe cutting. The young right-hander, unable to get started this season, was sent on option to Minneapolis of the American Association. He won eighteen games against only nine defeats in 1927 but this year won only two and lost six. Lisenbee finished only three of the nine games he started.

Just as Pittsburgh Pirates are the big disappointments of the National League so are the Senators in the American. Along with Philadelphia Athletics, they were picked to make it exceedingly difficult for the Yankees to repeat their runaway triumph of last season. But mid-season finds the Senators going nowhere rapidly. There's been slight improvement in the last few weeks but not enough to discount a disastrous start that had the Senators in the undignified position of cellar occupants for a while.

Lisenbee pitched the last innings of the Senator's crushing defeat at the hands of the Chicago White Sox Sunday, 13 to 7.

He was the fifth Senator hurler to see action and was no more effective than his predecessors, giving three bases on balls and three hits out of which the Sox fashioned their last three runs.

After losing seven of their last 8 games, the St. Louis Browns came to New York eager for revenge. They got it. The Yankees took it on the chin in both games of a doubleheader, 10 to 4 and 5 to 3. Alvin Crowder registered his ninth successive victory in the opener in which Campbell, Shealy and Thomas were pounded to a wreckage by the Browns. The second game was a battle of home runs in which, strange to say, the Yankee came out second best. Circuit drives by Lou Blue Schulte, and Blasholder and Babe Ruth and Tony Lazzeri accounted for all the eight runs scored.

The Babe was his 32nd of the season and put him 19 games, 18 days and five home runs ahead of his pace of 1927. The St. Louis Cardinals pulled away to a three and a half game lead over the National league field by defeating the Boston Braves twice, 7 to 4 and 12 to 8. Roger Hornsby hit his 15th home run of the season in the closing encounter, a slugging affair in which 33 hits were pounded out.

Gallagher's triple with the base loaded in the ninth gave the Cincinnati Reds the edge over the fighting Phillies, 6 to 5.

The Chicago Cubs, in fourth place dropped back one and a half games behind the Reds when they bowed before the puzzling left handed pitcher of Jess Petty and an effective offensive by the Brooklyn Robins. The score was 6 to 2, Petty granting only six hits.

Young Shortstop Attract Magnates, Fall Sale Likely

Major league clubs needing new and better shortstops have their scouts camping on the trail of the Louisville and Indianapolis clubs of the American Association. Olivares of the Colonels and Warstler of the Indians are the shortfielders causing the commotion. Their sale at big prices is foreseen.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Big league scouts are making no bones about their intentions in hovering over two American Association ball clubs. They have spotted "Rabbit" Warstler and Jose Olivares shortstops of the Indianapolis and Louisville teams, respectively.

When the inevitable late-season bidding begins the owners of these two clubs probably will be able to name their own figure for their star shortfielders who are serving their first season in the Association.

opener in the northwest Texas city, 5 to 3, but Shores, sharing his first game for the 1927 Dixie champs, held the Shreveport batters in check in the aftermath, Wichita Falls winning 3 to 1.

Loose fielding by the San Antonio helped Beaumont win both ends of a doubleheader in the Alamog city, 5 to 3 and 2 to 1. The first tilt, in which three Exporters hurlers outlasted Christian, went 13 innings. Holdhauser of Beaumont and Fillingim of the Bears hooked up in a slug duel in the second encounter.

Waco did its best to placate the home town fans in the first game of a doubleheader with Houston. The Cubs came from behind to force the game into extra innings and then made two runs in the eleventh. The score was 10 to 8 and Houston had little difficulty in taking the second 10 to 4.

Intuition Found Correct as Women Doubts "Death"

COBALT, Ont., July 9.—A woman's intuition, which caused her to refuse to believe a report of her husband's death although she had no proof that he was still alive, was justified today when it was established that the dead man was not her husband, but another man of the same name. When a prospector named Jack Monroe was found dead in a cabin near Rouyn several days ago the word went out that it was Jack Monroe famed for having stood up to Jim Jerries when the latter was champion of the world. His wife, however would not believe her husband was dead, although he was out prospecting and she had not heard from him recently. Today it was definitely determined that the dead man was "Little Jack" Monroe, the coincidence of identical names and the same occupation accounting for the first mistaken report that "Big Jack" had died. The two Jack Monroes were not related.
