Court to hear motions in tot's capital murder

By DAVID BOWSER Staff Writer

AMARILLO Pretrial motions were to be heard here while the neighbor's husband today in the capital murder case of Leland Milburn, 23, of Canadian.

Milburn is accused of killing 2year-old Brendan Tyler Brown in May, 1999, at the apartment young Brendan Brown dead. Milburn shared with Brown's mother.

District Judge Steven R. Emmert granted a change of venue and moved the trial to Amarillo from Canadian. The work at a tast tood restaurant in trial is scheduled to begin on Canadian about 6 p.m. and the Monday, Oct. 16.

The blonde-haired baby boy died between 11 p.m. May 24 and 8 a.m. May 25, of blunt force trauma to the abdomen, authorities said. Investigators said preliminary autopsy results indicate the baby was hit in the abdomen and bled to death internally.

Authorities said the baby's body was marked with bruises and burns. Family members said the baby had blood in his mouth - arrived home shortly after 10 and nose.

Neighbors said they heard the baby's 17-year-old mother, Caryn Lynn Brown, screaming for help shortly after 8 a.m., May 25. One neighbor called 911 tried to revive the baby and rushed him to the Canadian emergency room where Hemphill County Justice of the Peace Frankie Hill pronounced Officers, in trying to establish the final hours of the baby's life, said the child apparently was with his mother the afternoon of May 24. The mother went to baby was left with a boytriend's mother.

Milburn, her boytriend, told officers he picked up the baby trom his mother's shortly before 10 p.m., May 24, and took him to the apartment he shared with the baby's mother. He said the baby had a cup of red Kool Aid and tell asleep on the sota. Milburn said he put the baby to bed. He said the baby's mother

Citizen complaint

A 26-year-old man was in Gray County jail today awaiting a bond hearing after being arrested in a Pampa park on drug charges

Timothy Dion Jackson, 26, 512 Harlem, was arrested by Pampa police officers about 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Prairie Village Park and charged with possession of a controlled substance.

Authorities said today that officers were called to Prairie Village Park, 1100 S. Huff Road, about 7:30 p.m. Sunday when nearby residents said there was a man in the park with a handgun, mumbling to himself.

Officers arrived to find Jackson, dressed in a white tee shirt and khaki pants, in the park. Police said Jackson was cooperative when they talked to him, but denied having a gun. When officers searched him they found no gun, but they did find a 35-mm film canister containing what appeared to be seven rocks of crack cocaine. Jackson was arrested and taken to Gray County jail as a crowd formed in the park.

At the jall, officers said they found more of what they believed to be rocks of crack cocaine in one of Jackson's pockets.

Officers said today that they confiscated a total of 5.4 grams of what they think is crack cocaine.

Man charged ... For threats against officer, dog

A South Plains man was in Gray County jail today awaiting a bond hearing after being accused of interferring with a police officer.

Antonio Campos, 47, of Slaton, was arrested Saturday and charged with interferring with a public servant, assaulting a police officer and public intoxication.

Officers said they were serving a warrant in the 200 block of East Tuke about 3:30 p.m. Saturday when Campos approached them. Officers described the Slaton man as beligerent and confrontational. Police said Officer David Conner and his dog, Nick, were outside, blocking possible escape routes when Campos approached them.

Police said Campos threatened the officers and dog. Gray County Judge Richard Peet was expected to set bond for Campos later today.

Historic Texas murals undergoing restoration

DALLAS (AP) — Visitors to the State Fair of Texas can see history in the remaking as artists restore huge murals first created for the 1936 Texas Centennial.

Painted over in the early 1940s, the huge paintings are among the greatest art deco treasures at the city-owned complex.

"The murals are a huge part of the historical nature of Fair Park." said Scott Haskins of FACL, Inc., the Santa Barbara, Calif., company charged with the multimillion-dollar project. "They are probably some of the most important pictures for the state of Texas and one of the best art finds in the United States in this century."

The murals on the park's Centennial Building were thought to be lost forever until in the 1980s a maintenance man, sanding the surface for another coat of beige paint, revealed a portion of "Motion," one of 11 vibrantly hued paintings created by Italian-American artist Carlo Ciampaglia.

The rate dipped to 6.9 percent in fiscal 1998, down from 8.8 percent the year before, according to figures released by the Education Department. Collections on defaulted loans were up, to $4 billion in 1998.

President Clinton noted that the default rates fell to their lowest level ever, despite the fact that more loans were issued. "This is an amazing, amazing thing," Clinton said.

"This lesson of invest more, have more accountability, and have the programs work based on how the real world, the real lives of these students are http://www.ed.gov/offices/OSFAP/defaultmanunfolding, ... that's the kind of thing I think we agement/cdr.html should do in education generally," Clinton said.

The rate has dropped each year since a peak of who default on their college loans has dropped 22.4 percent in fiscal 1990. Clinton attributed the below 7 percent for the first time, the government ongoing decline to an increase in the amount of scholarships, tax credits and other financial assistance available to students; more affordable loans; better flexibility in repayment plans and efforts to better educate borrowers about their responsibilities

> Clinton said those reforms have helped save students and taxpayers a total of $27 billion since 1993. "That is very good news for the American people," Clinton said.

Robertson: Bush has not rallied conservatives base

AUSTIN (AP) — A day after George W. Bush's videotaped address to the Christian Coalition, conservative leader Pat Robertson criticized the GOP presidential nominee for not "swinging like a fighter" at Al Gore and said Bush risks losing the election. Robertson said Bush has taken the party's conservative base for granted with his attempts to appeal more to moderates. "It's a dangerous strategy just to ignore your base, especially to play like something you're not," Robertson said Sunday on CBS'

Face the Nation. "He's got to begin hitting Gore where Gore's vulnerable; the big spending, possibly doubling the size of government," Robertson added. "He's got to come out swinging like a fighter. And if he doesn't do it, if he continues this sort of, be-nice sort of approach, I think he's going to lose."

Bush spokesman Dan Bartlett said Robertson "obviously hasn't been closely following this election," in which Bush repeatedly says Gore's policies - from tax cuts to energy to education - shows he shows the trusts government more than voters on key decisions.

Polls show both candidates have overwhelming support from their base supporters and are focusing now on moderates and swing voters, who they believe will determine who wins.

Tensions between Bush and religious conservatives were high this weekend after he scrapped plans to skip the Christian Coalition meeting and addressed it videotape.

Robertson said conservatives are not energized. "They say, 'Why doesn't he get in there and start really hitting Gore," Robertson said.

The Bridge helps children in crisis

This article is one in a series of articles of profiles on the agencies and organizations supported by Pampa United Way. This information is being provided by Pampa United Way as part of its 2000 "Lead the. Way!" fund-raising campaign.

The Bridge Children's Advocacy Center began when a group of community individuals dreamed of a way to give area children in crisis situations a better chance for a future.

Since its inception in 1989, more than 6,800 children from across the panhandle have utilized services of The Bridge, which uses a multidisciplinary approach to tackling the investigative and prosecutorial aspects of child sexual abuse.

"Our staff provides videotaped forensic interview services to Pampa area children on a mobile basis through their rural outreach program," said Roxanne Carter, executive director of The Bridge. "Whenever a law enforcement or Children's Protective Services investigator calls, the mobile equipment is loaded and our interviewer travels to the child, eliminating the need for the child to travel to our office in Amarillo."

According to Carter, the United Way of Pampa, Inc., and Calvary Baptist Church are the two main organizations in Pampa providing resources to make this program a reality for children in the Gray Co. area.

"We began the outreach program in Pampa first because the largest number of rural interview requests come from the Gray County area, but we needed some help funding the program and a place to interview children."

The United Way in Pampa provides almost 30 percent of the funding necessary to keep this program active in the rural communities, directly corresponding to the percentage of children from the Pampa area who receive services through this mobile program. "Calvary Baptist Church also plays a vital role in the success of our utreach D providing the homelike and nonthreatening facility for the interviews," says Carter. "Without the

Debate rehearsal: Got to do it --but not overdo it

WASHINGTON (AP) - With briefing books and stand-in opponents, Vice President Al Gore and Gov. George W. Bush are rehearsing for their great debates - essential practice but not to be overdone, according to candidates who have been there before.

"If I had to do it again, I would not go through as much of that rehearsal stuff," said Michael Dukakis, the 1988 Democratic nominee, who faltered against Bush's father. "I think it kind of took away from my spontaneity."

Other debate veterans, Ronald Reagan among them, blamed overdone briefings for their worst moments. Bob Dole said his 1976 assertion that all the wars of the 20th century were "Democrat wars" was Republican boilerplate from a stack of briefing papers.

Neither Gore nor Bush is new at debating, but the vice president has the experience edge. He faced Republican vice presidential nominees in the 1992 and 1996 campaigns, in settings like those of the 2000 debates that begin Tuesday in Boston.

Bush debated Democratic rivals in the 1994 Texas gubernatorial campaign he won in an upset and before his landslide re-election in 1998.

Each nominee debated in-party challengers 10 times during the primaries.

But the stakes, the pressure and the audiences - expected to be well over 60 million Americans for the three nationally televised meetings between Bush and Gore - are different in these debates, when a single slip can become a fall.

Hence the briefing books and preparation sessions.

Bush has practiced debating with Sen. Judd Gregg of New Hampshire standing in for Gore.

The vice president had been doing the same with Tom Downey, an old friend, but the former congressman dropped that role after somebody mysteriously mailed him copies of briefing papers and a tape of Bush's debate rehearsals. The Gore campaign turned the package over to the FBI on Sept. 13, and the investigation continues.

Paul Begala, a Democratic campaign consultant and former political adviser to President Clinton, has taken over as the Bush standin in Gore's rehearsals.

This will be the eighth presidential campaign with televised debates; in the first, in 1960, only one candidate, John F. Kennedy, rehearsed and the other, Richard M. Nixon, suffered, in part because he was weary, ailing and looked it.

Nixon campaigned through the morning of the first debate, and said he had only that afternoon for uninterrupted preparation. Kennedy spent two days in briefings and rehearsals at a Chicago hotel, checked the TV set at a production meeting Nixon skipped, and looked as hearty as the vice president looked wan.

Rest and rehearsal has been the rule since debates resumed in 1976, after a three-campaign break — two in which Nixon was the Republican nominee and avoided them.

Dole made his "Democrat wars" claim in the first vice presidential debate, in 1976, against Walter F. Mondale, who said Dole had earned his reputation as a GOP hatchet man.

'It was boilerplate," Dole said in an interview for a PBS history of debates. "I had a stack of briefing notes about two feet high. That was in the briefing book ... I guess I should have exercised my own judgment.

A shot of prevention to eliminate tetanus trouble DALLAS — Although tetanus is extremely uncommon in the United States, that doesn't mean you should go without a tetanus shot, say doctors at UT Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas.

A toxin emitted when a wound is infected with a certain kind of bacteria causes tetanus, a serious disease that attacks the nerve cells in the spinal cord. The bacteria that cause the infection are found in soil and the environment in general, and they enter the body through cuts or punctures.

"Those at highest risk for tetanus include those with contaminated wounds, wounds with foreign bodies, wounds with pus or wounds with crushed tissue," says Dr. Paul Pepe, UT Southwestern's chairman of emergency medicine. "Still, tetanus is a serious disease that is often fatal, and we always take precautions to prevent the disease, even if you are not at highest risk.

If fully immunized as a child, you should get a tetanus booster shot every 10 years. If you were not immunized as a child, you will first have to receive the three-shot series of immunizations.

Radiation from mammography poses no danger

DALLAS - One in eight American women will develop breast cancer during her lifetime, and early detection with mammography can save lives. There is no reason to fear developing breast cancer as a result of mammography, says Dr. Ward Parsons, medical director of breast imaging at the UT Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas Center for Breast

"The radiation exposure from a modem mammogram is not a significant risk factor, especially when compared to the potential benefits of the procedure," says Parsons, associate professor of radiology. "The risk of developing breast cancer as a result of regular screening mammography is just too small to measure accurately."

Great outdoors just teeming with disease-carrying critters

Hunters, campers and hikers have a greater risk of exposure to diseases transmitted by ticks, fleas socks. and mosquitoes, many of which begin with flu-like symptoms such as fever, chills, headache and body aches. However, symptoms can worsen quickly and affect various systems of the body.

AUSTIN — Fall is under way and with it comes hunting season. Thousands of Texas hunters will take to the woods and fields to hunt deer, doves and other animals, and they won't be alone. Millions of critters that can carry diseases will be out there too, according to the Texas Department of Health.

Hunters, campers and hikers have a greater risk of exposure to diseases transmitted by ticks, fleas quickly and affect various systems of the body. For instance, in Lyme disease, which is the most frequently diagnosed tick-home problem in the U.S., there may be skin lesions or rashes and, if left untreated, severe damage to the joints, heart and nervous system. Hantavirus infection is spread to people by infected rodents such as rats and mice. A rodent may have the virus in its droppings, urine and saliva; from here, the virus can spread in the air on dust particles. "You can become infected by inhaling dust that contains the virus," said Bradley Hicks, a wildlife biologist with TDH's Zoonosis Control Division. # 'Bad' cholesterol tied to heart attack risk

By TROY GOODMAN Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) - People with high levels of a little-known form of "bad" cholesterol are 70 percent more likely to have a heart attack than those with lower concentrations of this lipoprotein in their blood, according to a recent study.

The obscure cholesterol particle - called lipoprotein(a) - is especially insidious because it's difficult for doctors to measure reliably and because its levels have little to do with the betterknown form of "bad" cholesterol, called LDL.

The elevated Lp(a) levels also had little to do with more conventional heart disease risk factors: smoking, high blood pressure and poor diet. It also cannot be directly linked to high cholesterol, or the kind whose levels can be altered through diet or drugs, said lead researcher Dr. John Danesh, of Oxford University, in England.

"This study suggests there is a clear association between Lp(a) and an increased risk of heart disease," said Danesh, who pointed out that more than a decade worth of research failed to link Lp(a) to increased risk of heart disease in the general population.

The Oxford findings were published in Monday's edition of Circulation, a journal of the American Heart Association.

Data used in the study was gathered from 27 different studies tracking more than 5,200 people who had heart disease or survived a heart attack. The average age of the people involved in the study was 50, Danesh said.

The number of heart attacks suffered by individuals with the highest Lp(a) concentrations was compared to the number of heart attacks among those with the lowest Lp(a) readings. During a decade of follow-up, the highest group had 70 percent more heart attacks than the low-level Lp(a) study subjects.

The message here is physicians and cardiologists should be aware and it would be useful to know the Lp(a) levels in patients," said Dr. Angelo Sçanu, director of the Lipid Clinic at the University of California, who was not involved in the Oxford study.

Lp(a) was first pinpointed in the blood some 40 years ago, but doctors don't normally screen for this lipoprotein because no standardized screening exists and because even when the Lp(a) is known, very little can now be done to modify it. Unlike other kinds of cholesterol, Lp(a) in the blood is 95 percent determined by genes, so drugs and changes in diet have little effect on it, Danesh said.

Lp(a)'s exact role in the blood also is unknown, Scanu said, although researchers do know it's a fat-carrying particle that includes a protein that mimics the body's natural clot-busting properties.

Also, doctors know that blacks have two to three times the rate of elevated Lp(a) compared with whites, yet they do not have double to triple the prevalence of heart disease, Scanu said.

"Some people don't even view it as a risk factor," he said of elevated Lp(a) levels. "But it definitely is."

When is a medical problem an emergency?

DALLAS - With emergency rooms across the country more crowded and busy, you may wonder if your medical problem is serious enough to warrant a visit to the emergency room.

Dr. Ron Charles, assistant professor of emergency medicine at. UT Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas, says certain symptoms or situations should send you straight to the emergency room.

"If you are having chest pains, having trouble breathing or if you are experiencing a sudden change in vision, dizziness or weakness, especially on one side of your body, come to the emergency room," Charles says. "Problems like these are not something to wait on."

Other signs that warrant an emergency room visit include gaping wounds, sudden severe pain anywhere in the body, persistent vomiting, suicidal or homicidal thoughts, bleeding that won't stop after 10 minutes of applying pressure, confusion or dazed behavior accompanied by a fever that won't respond to medication, spinal injuries, major burns, or a drug overdose.

Shaking babies can cause serious injuries

HOUSTON - Shaken baby syndrome is a serious form of child abuse, primarily affecting young infants. There often are no visible external injuries.

Babies have weak neck muscles that cannot support rapid head movement. When a baby is shaken or jostled, the brain hits the skull causing bruising, swelling and bleeding. "Shaking a baby can lead to brain damage, loss of vision, retardation, seizures, developmental delays, neck and spine injuries, and death," said Dr. Deborah Hsu, an emergency room physician at Texas Children's Hospital in Houston. "Never shake or toss a baby up in the air," said Hsu. "Never leave your baby with someone who may not have the temperament to care for a crying baby. When your baby cries or is fussy, be patient. If you feel yourself becoming upset, immediately call a neighbor, friend or family member for assistance."

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, a mother of a disabled child sent you a moving essay, "Welcome to Holland." It became one of my most treasured pieces, but unfortunately I have lost my copy. Could you please reprint it for me and your readers?

A GRANDMA IN NASHVILLE

DEAR GRANDMA: With pleasure. I am frequently asked to reprint the essay written by Emily Perl Kingsley, a wonderful mother whose child had Down syndrome. October is National Down Syndrome Awareness Month, and this essay is dedicated to the parents and grandparents of all children who cope with disabilities.

WELCOME TO HOLLAND by Emily Perl Kingsley

I am often asked to describe the experience of raising a child with a disability - to try to help people who have not shared the unique experience to understand it, to imagine how it would feel. It's like this .

When you're going to have a baby, it's like planning a fabulous vacation trip — to Italy. You buy a bunch of guidebooks and make your wonderful plans. The Coliseum. Michelangelo's "David." The gondolas in Venice. You may learn some handy phrases in Italian. It's all very exciting.

After months of eager anticipation, the day finally arrives. You

HOUSTON (AP) - Jimmy Vasser, the longest of long shots to catch Gil de Ferran in the CART championship battle, isn't ready to concede anything.

After coming up with his first victory in nearly two years, Vasser found himself 36 points behind de Ferran, last among the eight drivers with at least a mathematical chance to win the title with two races remaining.

"I'm never going to give up until I'm out of it," Vasser said. "I've been doing the math every week and thinking, 'Man, somebody's going to have to step up and take charge of this."

He did his best to remain at least part of the championship battle by pulling away from Ganassi Racing teammate Juan Montoya in the waning laps of Sunday's Houston Grand Prix.

"It seems like an awful long time since the last one," the smiling winner said after the ninth victory of his career and first since the finale of the 1998 season in Fontana, Calif.

The Cowboys, winless in two games at Texas Stadium this season, picked up their second road victory Sunday, 16-13 in overtime against the Carolina Panthers.

"It seems like we play better on the road than at home, but maybe that's because we're getting booed at home," Emmitt Smith said.

Despite the victory, the Cowboys (2-3) likely would have been jeered for their performance had the game been in Dallas.

Dallas managed little offense - only 291 total yards - and Troy Aikman had a poor outing by going 15-of-23 for 131 yards with two interceptions.

The only bright spot was Smith, who rushed for a seasonhigh 132 yards and the 150th touchdown of his career. It was Smith's first 100-yard rushing game of the season.

The Cowboys got a 24-yard field goal from Tim ,Seder in overtime to beat the struggling Panthers (1-3).

"I don't know why we're better on the road, but I think the home thing will come," Aikman said. "This team is developing a personality like it had many years ago, and right now we feel we can go on the road and win some games."

The Panthers remained in the game despite a disappointing outing from Tshimanga Biakabutuka. Carolina's running back, who hoped to feast on Dallas' NFL-worst rushing defense, was held to 86 yards on 20 carries.

"I've been in a position to win a couple of races this year, but things just didn't go our way," said Vasser, looking for a new ride for 2001 after team owner Chip Ganassi bought out the last year of his contract. "I've had a lot of top-10s in the last few years and, if I stay in this series, I think I'll continue to get similar results."

While Vasser, the 1996 series champ, became the ninth different winner in 18 races this season, de Ferran moved closer to his first career championship with a third-place finish.

If he can add four points to his 19-point lead over runner-up Paul Tracy in the race Oct. 15 in Australia, de Ferran will clinch the title.

"With that in mind, the plan is the same as it was this weekend; attack from the word go," the 31-yearold Brazilian driver said.

De Ferran, who led 69 of the 100 laps on the tight, 1.527-mile temporary downtown street circuit, lost the lead when he made a late pit stop for a splash of fuel. But he still came away a winner after most of the contenders ran into problems.

After racing in the 90degree heat, de Ferran sat on the pit wall for several minutes, briefly overcome by the heat.

"I was OK until I took the checkered flag and then I wasn't sure I could get back (to pit lane)," de Ferran said. "I was running a qualifying pace throughout the race and, there at the end, I was really concentrating. It was very tense being the meat in sandwich there between Juan and Paul."

Tracy, who began the day fourth in the points, moved up with a fourth-place finish, just ahead of de Ferran's Team Penske teammate Helio Castroneves, Christian Fittipaldi, Adrian Fernandez, Shinji Nakano, Oriol Servia and Tony Kanaan, the last driver on the lead lap.

The big losers were oberto Moreno and Roberto Michael Andretti, who came into the race second and third in the standings, just nine and 11 points, respectively, behind de Ferran.

McLean rolls by Hedley

HEDLEY - McLean rolled to a 58-13 victory over Hedley in sixman football action last weekend.

It was McLean's first win of the season after three setbacks.

Brad Sawyer and Gabriel Vega proved to be the winning combination for McLean.

Vega scored four touchdowns and rushed for 201 yards on 11 carries. Sawyer added three touchdowns and 197 yards on 14 carries.

McLean's other TD came on a 32-yard pass from Chris Sparling to Adam Johnston.

McLean finished with 296 vards in total offense while Hedley had 155 yards.

Hedley falls to 0-4 for the season

Eagles rush past Falcons

PHILADELPHIA (AP) Donovan McNabb and Brian Mitchell were too much for the Atlanta Falcons.

McNabb threw for a careerhigh 311 yards and two touchdowns and Mitchell had a combined 290 yards as the Philadelphia Éagles beat the Falcons 38-10 on Sunday night.

Mitchell tied an NFL record with his 11th career touchdown on a return when he took a kickoff 89 yards for a TD in the fourth quarter.

Mitchell added an 85-yard TD run as the Eagles (3-2) moved into a three-way tie for first place in the NFC East.

Philadelphia is over .500 for the first time since the end of the 1996 season.

McNabb, coming off a 222yard, two-touchdown game against New Orleans, completed 30 of 44 passes — both career highs — to 10 different receivers. He also ran for 57 yards.

McNabb had touchdown passes of 70 yards to Torrance Small and 11 yards to Charles Johnson as Philadelphia overcame a sluggish first half marred by six penalties.

Duval captures Buick Challenge

PINE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (AP) - David Duval won't have to answer any more questions about his back injury. Or winning Playing for the first time in 10 weeks, Duval showed he might be ready to take a run at Tiger Woods, making birdies on three of the last four holes to win the Buick Challenge.

He closed with a 7<sub>7</sub>under 65 and finished at 19-under 269, two strokes ahead of Nick Price (68) and Jeff Maggert (70), for the former Georgia Tech star's first victory in 29 tournaments.

Duval, who earned $414,000, has 12 career victories to become only the third active player with that many wins in his 20s. The others are Woods (24) and Phil Mickelson, who won 16 times before turning 30 in June.

Florida State No. 1, one spot ahead said. of Nebraska.

The Seminoles collected 42 firstplace votes and 1,745 points, while the Cornhuskers had 28 first-place votes and 1,731 points after a third consecutive harder-than-expected victory. Florida State defeated Maryland 59-7 Thursday night.

Missouri (1-3) gained nearly 100 yards more than any other team has against Nebraska.

Cornhuskers coach Frank Solich, who said his preseason vote in the coaches' poll went to Florida State, isn't worrying about the first poll of October. It's the December polls, which play a large role in deciding who will play for the national championship, that matter.

"I think it's still anybody's guess as to who the best team in the country is and. I think people understand that," Solich said Sunday. "There's a lot of games to be played."

Nebraska remained No. 1 in the USA Today/ESPN coaches poll, but another game like Saturday could cost the Huskers that spot as well most allowed by the Cornhuskers 23.

It's rare for a No. 1 team to fall after winning and Nebraska was the beneficiary one of the last times it happened. In 1994, the Cornhuskers won a national title after moving into the No. 1 spot late in the season when Penn State fell to No. 2 despite beating Indiana 35-29.

The last time it happened was 1997, when Penn State dropped from the top spot twice, once after a 57-21 win against Louisville (Florida took over), and again after a 16-15 win over Minnesota (Nebraska took over); and Nebraska dropped after an overtime win over Missouri (Michigan took over and won the AP national title in '97).

Last week, Nebraska had 39 first-place votes and 1,743 points to Florida State's 30 first-place votes and 1,732 points. In the new poll, Florida State gained 12 firstplace votes; Nebraska lost 11 firstplace votes.

in addition, Oregon State moved into the AP poll for the first time since Jan. 4, 1969. The Missouri was No. 90 nationally Beavers (4-0), who beat USC 31-21 in offense coming into the game for their first win over the Trojans with a 291.7-yard average. The after 26 consecutive losses to them Tigers' yardage Saturday was the in a 33-year span, are ranked No.

The New York Yankees are ready for a fresh start.

The two-time defending World Series champions are on a seven-game skid — the longest season-ending skid ever for a team headed to the postseason — after losing 7-3 at Baltimore on Sunday.

"If this happens in June, it's just a blink of the eye and nobody talks much about it," third baseman Scott Brosius said. "The fact it's in September, everybody around wants to panic a little bit. I don't think this team is panicking. We like the team that we have."

Fuel-stingy vehicles outnumbered in showrooms

WASHINGTON (AP) — While a handful of small cars are getting 40-plus miles per gallon, the vast majority of new vehicles coming into showrooms get about half that, the government's latest automobile fuel economy statistics show. For the second year, a hybrid gas- and electric-powered vehicle - the two-seater Honda Insight - topped the list of biggest fuel misers with 64 mpg combined city and highway driving among 2001-model vehicles. The luxury sport import Ferrari 500 Maranello was the biggest guzzler (8 city and 13 highway) fol-lowed by the Lamborghini Diablo (10 city, 13 highway). The huge popularity of sport utility vehicles again drove down the overall numbers of the more than 800 cars, trucks and vans listed in the annual fuel economy statistics released Monday by the Environmental Protection Agency. Bush and Gore rehearse for debates

WASHINGTON (AP) — With briefing books and stand-in opponents, Vice President Al Gore and Gov. George W. Bush are rehearsing for their great debates. Neither Gore nor Bush is new at debating, but the vice president has the experience edge. Gore faced Republican vice presidential nominees in the 1992 and 1996 campaigns, in settings like those of the 2000 debates that begin Tuesday in Boston. Bush debated Democratic rivals in the 1994 Texas gubernatorial campaign he won in an upset and before his landslide re-election in 1998. Bush has practiced debating with Sen. Judd Gregg of New Hampshire standing in for Gore.

Snoopy auction raises funds for Schulz memorials

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — An auction of Snoopy statues has fetched $823,000 to help fund memorials to "Peanuts" creator Charles Schulz. "Peanuts" fans from across the country paid $200 each just for the right to bid on the 40 statues sold by Sotheby's at the Mall of America on Sunday. The statues were among the 101 Snoopys created and designed by local artists that graced St. Paul this summer as a tribute to the late cartoonist and native son. At the direction of the Schulz family, the proceeds will be used for a permanent bronze sculpture in St. Paul featuring the "Peanuts" gang, an endowed chair of illustration at the College of Visual Arts in St. Paul, and scholar-ships to the Art Instruction Schools, a Minneapolis correspondence school where Schulz studied and taught.

Pittsburgh says goodbye to Three Rivers Stadium

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates said goodbye to their home field and a 70-win season after their last game at Three Rivers Stadium. Shane Andrews hit a two-run double off Scott Sauerbeck as the Chicago Cubs rallied in the eighth inning Sunday and beat the Pirates 10-9. The Pirates finished 1,324-1,080 at Three Rivers, the site of Roberto Clemente's 3,000th hit and home of two World Series championships, in 1971 and '79. The Pirates will move less than a quarter mile East across a parking lot next year to PNC Park, now almost done. Steelers and University of Pittsburgh football games remain for Three Rivers, which will be demolished early next year. Three Rivers opened in 1970. Initially praised as a multipurpose stadium, it lost favor because it had poor sight lines, lacked swanky lux-ury boxes and had tens of thousands of empty seats for many baseball games.

Pampa hosting first WRCA Rodeo

By NANCY YOUNG Managing Editor

Cowboy Up! The Top O' Texas Rodeo arena and surrounding grounds will be brimming with all sorts of new and exciting activities on Friday and Saturday for young and old alike.

The association will host a first in Pampa. It will be a full weekend of family activities in the first Working Ranch Cowboys Association sanctioned Ranch Rodeo to be held locally. Local residents and those from the surrounding communities are invited to attend the First Annual High Plains Fall Classic WRCA Ranch Rodeo. Performances are at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights.

Ranch teams will compete in five events in the High Plains Fall Classic: ranch bronc riding, team doctoring, wild cow milking, wild horse race and team penning. The ranch rodeos provide an opportunity to showcase the skills and knowledge of the working ranch cowboy and reflect more accurately life in the pasture between early dawn and late twilight.

Teams from Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas are already entered in the competition.

Ranch rodeos are a relatively new experience for many people, but they are the fastest growing team sport in America today, said' Top O' Texas Rodeo Association office manager Jane Jacobs. She said many people prefer the ranch rodeos to a professional rodeo.

Headquartered in Amarillo, the Working Ranch Cowboys Association sanctions rodeos throughout the United States and Canada. The non-profit association was established with the goal of promoting the ranching way of life, preserving the ranching legacy, providing scholarships for the cowboy or family members and providing a cowboy crisis fund for ranch families in times of need.

Ranch rodeos provide an opportunity to showcase the skills and knowledge of the working ranch cowboy and reflect more accurately life in the pasture between early dawn and late twilight, said Jacobs.

The winning team in each of these events will receive prizes donated by several businesses including Pat Helton Well Service, Gray County Veterinary Clinic, Carter Sand & Gravel, and Larry Baker Plumbing, Heating and Air.

The overall winning team will receive buckles and other prizes for their outstanding efforts and will be eligible to represent Pampa in the World Championship Ranch Rodeo in Amarillo on Nov. 9, 10 and 11, 2000.

A pair of handmade boots will be presented to the winner of the Top Hand Award and a custom made saddle will be given to the winner of the Top Hand Award and a custom made saddle will be given to the winner of the Top Horse Award. These awards are donated by M&H Leasing of Pampa. Other major sponsors of the High Plains Fall Classic include Budweiser Distributing of Amarillo and Culberson-Stowers, Inc. of Pampa.

Also to be featured in the activities will be a colt starting and reining demonstration, a WRCA Junior Ranch Rodeo, a chuck wagon dinner and a cowboy breakfast and cowboy church service sponsored by the Fellowship of Christian Cowboys.

Buster McLaury, a well-known local cowboy, will demonstrate a colt starting and reining demonstration at 12:30 p.m. at the Top O'Texas Rodeo area on Saturday. Immediately following the demonstration, Pokey the Clown will hold a WRCA Junior Ranch Rodeo at 2:30 p.m.

This rodeo features teams of children ages three to 16 competing in events such as Pony Express Race, Steer Doctoring, Wild Cow Milking and Calf Branding. Instead of "real livestock," Pokey uses special handmade wooden livestock in all events.

The winning team in each age division will receive custom designed belt buckles donated by Romines, Topper and Romines and The First State Bank of Miami. The winning team in each age division will also be eligible to represent Pampa at the WRCA Junior Ranch Rodeo World Championships in Amarillo in November.

Following the Junior Ranch Rodeo, the Top O'Texas Rodeo Association will be hosting a Chuck wagon Dinner on the grounds near the Top O'Texas Rodeo Arena. The chuck wagons will serve meat, potatoes and gravy, beans, bread and drinks for everyone to enjoy.

Tickets for the dinner are available in advance at the rodeo office or will be available at the dinner which begins at 5 p.m. Ticket cost is $6 for adults and $4 for children 12 and under.

During the dinner, entertainment will be provided by cowboy poets and musicians from around the Panhandle area. Tickets for Saturday events include the Colt Starting and Reining Demonstration, the WRCA Junior Ranch Rodeo, and the Saturday night performance of The High Plains Fall Classic. The price for those events is $6 per adult and $3 per child 12 and under. A separate ticket for the chuck wagon dinner must be purchased.

The Fellowship of Christian Cowboys will be hosting a cowboy breakfast and cowboy church service at 8 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 1, at the grounds. rodeo Additional information regarding the Sunday activities may be obtained by contacting Kathleen or Jim Greene at 665-8067 or Keven Romines at 665-8547.

For additional information regarding the High Plains Fall Classic Ranch Rodeo and accompanying activities, contact the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association at 669-0434.

McLaurys to present colt starting and reining demos

Buster McLaury will be presenting a colt starting and reining demonstration along with his wife, Sheryl. at 12:30 p.m. Saturday at the Top O' Texas Rodeo Arena.

A lifelong horseman, Buster was born and reared at the famed 6666 Ranch located at Guthrie.

He has worked for all the big outfits in that part of the country. He said he always tried to work for someone who ran several thousand cows because he figured the more cattle they had the more cow work there was to do, and that left less time for that "general ranch work." He says, "I never minded doing any king of work- as long as I could do it horseback."

The second de de gage a

McLaury has been foreman of the JA Ranch, Clarendon, and general manager of the Johnson Ranches headquartered at Alanreed.

He won the Top Hand Award in 1989 and the Top Horse Award in 1992 at the TexasRanch Roundup in Wichita Falls.

A lifelong horseman, Buster has been studying the old, California vaquero style of horsemanship since 1984, when Buster and wife, Sheryl, now travel the country conducting horsemanship and colt starting clinics. Buster says their goal is to "help horses everywhere - one person at a time."

Buster and Sheryl have two daughters, Tiffany, , a student at Sul Ross State University, and Misty, who is also at student at Sul Ross.

The couple will also present cowboy poetry during the dinner.

Veteran rodeo announcer McSpadden to emcee first Pampa WRCA-sanctioned event

The familiar voice of veteran rodeo announcer Clem McSpadden will be heard at the Top O' Texas Rodeo Arena in Pampa this weekend.

He will lend his talents to the first Ranch Cowboys Working Association-sanctioned rodeo as the First High Plains Fall Classic WRCA Rodeo gets underway Friday and Saturday.

He has served as anchor for the Lazy E Arena Rodeo and roping events since its opening. He also has announced rodeos throughout the United States, Canada, Hawaii and Mexico. The Agriculture/Ranch Exchange program between Mexico and Oklahoma was led by McSpadden.

McSpadden is well-known throughout the western rodeo circuit. He served as General Manager of the National Finals Rodeo for 18 years.

Among his many contributions he has made to the rodeo world are president of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, a member of the executive committee and currently on the Humane Advisory Council.

In 1975 McSpadden began hosting the "World's Richest Roping and Western Art Show" which benefited the American Heart Association, Chelsea Public Library and scholarships. In 1983 he brought pasture roping to Oklahoma.

McSpadden served two consecutive terms as president pro tempore of the Oklahoma State Senate during his 18 year tenure.

He was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives and named to the prestigious rules committee. He was co-author of the rural caucus. McSpadden formed McSpadden & Associates governmental relations and consulting firm in 1983. In 1995, he was joined by his son, Bart.

McSpadden is a graduate of the University of Texas and Oklahoma State University.

A native Oklahoman of Cherokee descent, he was reared on the ranch of his great-uncle, Will Rogers. He is a Navy veteran. His interests inc include government relations, ranching, real estate development, public speaking and sports announcer. He has appeared in several movies and does radio and television commercials.

McSpadden is an inductee in the Oklahoma Hall of Fame, the Oklahoma Western Heritage Center Rodeo Historical Society and Pro Rodeo Hall of Fame.

In 1998 he was the recipient of the first Ben Johnson Award presented by the Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center. Clem and his wife, Donna, live Pokey the Clown will be presenting a WRCA Junior Ranch Rodeo at 2:30 p.m. Saturday during the High Plains Fall Classic WRCA Ranch Rodeo weekiend. Pokey introduced the concept of a junior ranch rodeo for children in 1997. He wanted to teach them about team work with children of different ages. It is designed for the children to have fun while learning about the actual jobs of a working ranch cowboy.

Pokey the Clown to perform at junior rodeo

Pokey the Clown is a familiar face at rodeos across the area. Each year "Pokey", who is also known as Doug Smith, spends many, many hours on the road.
