GERMAN NOTE ON WAR PACT IS FAVORABLE

Nation Is Ready to Sign Agreement as Submitted

FRANCE WILL REPLY SOON

Fourteen Countries Are Recipients of U. S. Proposal

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Secretary Kellogg's revised treaty for outlawing war is entirely acceptable to Germany and a favorable reply from France is expected within a few days.

A note signed by Acting Foreign Minister Schubert at Berlin, detailing his country's attitude, was made public at the state department last night, while Ambassador Claudel called upon Mr. Kellogg to tell him of the forthcoming French reply.

This will probably be handed to Ambassador Herrick at Paris tomorrow he said, on the great French holiday celebrating the fall of the Bastille. The reply he described as an acceptance of the explanations and interpretations of the proposed pact as outlined by Mr. Kellogg in his note of June 23.

Germany's acceptance was sweeping and unqualified, and the note declared that the Berlin government was ready to sign the treaty at once in the form in which it was submitted.

A draft of the proposed pact was sent simultaneously to fourteen nations, including in addition to France and Germany, Great Britain, Japan, and Italy. Germany was the first to reply.

Under the proposed treaty the signatory nations would "condemn recourse to war" and "renounce it as an instrument of national policy." Further, they would agree to use only pacific means in seeking settlement of whatever disputes or conflicts might arise between them, regardless of their nature or origin.

Breckenridge Man to Preach Sunday for Presbyterians

The Rev. Henry C. Schneider of Breckenridge will occupy the pulpit at the Presbyterian church Sunday at both services. The Rev. W. L. Egan recently resigned the pastorate.

Rev. Schneider is a young college graduate of ability and is expected to bring interesting messages to the congregation. He has been the instrumental in doubling the congregation of the Presbyterian church at Breckenridge and comes highly recommended by the Rev. W. M. Baker, organizer of the Pampa Presbyterian church.

Sunday school will be at 10 o'clock as usual, with preaching services at 11 and 6 o'clock.

Gulf Bowers Well Is Partly Burned

Fire partly destroyed the derrick of the Gulf Production company's No. A-4 Bowers in section 89, block B-2, last night about eleven o'clock. At the time the well was pumping 50 barrels a day.

The cause of the fire is unknown. Only the quick work and presence of mind of the crew at work in shutting off the pump saved the derrick and well from being entirely destroyed.

Mrs. J. A. Cochran of Meridian, Texas, is a guest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Chafin. She will be in Pampa several weeks.

The State Races

By DAVID M. WARREN

"What are you going to do in regard to the state races?" That question has been asked members of the Nunn-Warren Publishing company many times during the past few weeks. J. L. Nunn and the writer have usually taken an active part in the campaign for state offices.

It has been customary for us to make our recommendations for state offices. These recommendations have not been made with the intention of attempting to dictate to the public whom they should vote for. These recommendations have always been made to what seemed to be the best interests of the public.

In the 1922 senatorial race, Mr. J. L. Nunn was owner of the Amarillo Daily News and the writer was editor of that publication. Both heartily supported Julien F. Thomas in the first primary. Mr. Thomas was eliminated and we gladly threw our support to Earle B. Mayfield in preference to James E. Ferguson in the run-off.

SIX CANDIDATES FOR SENATE Six candidates are in the race this year for United States senator. They are Senator Earle B. Mayfield, Tom Connally, Thos. L. Blanton, Alvin Owsley, Minnie Fisher Cunningham, and Jeff McLemore. We recommend the reelection of Senator Mayfield and believe that he should receive the endorsement of the voters. He has done effective work in Washington and on account of his seniority can be of far more benefit during a second term. Tom Connally is our second choice for this office. Tom Blanton, in our opinion, does not have the knack of working with his fellow representatives and we do not believe that he would be an effective worker as a senator. As there are other candidates so much better qualified than Mr. Owsley, in our opinion, we do not believe it would be necessary to specifically mention any of his shortcomings. Mrs. Cunningham and Mr. McLemore, it is generally understood, will not receive many votes in the campaign.

GOVERNOR MOODY IS DESERVING When a governor has made good Texas has nearly always reelected him to office. Governor Dan Moody has been a success in that office and we believe that he deserves reelection. Wm. E. Hawkins, Louis J. Wardlaw, and Edith E. Wilman are his opponents. We have little doubt but what Governor Moody will obtain more votes than all three of his opponents in the first primary.

J. D. Parnell, H. L. Darwin, Thos. B. Love, Jno. D. McCall and Barry Miller are candidates for lieutenant governor. Mr. Miller is completing his second term as lieutenant governor. Mr. Parnell is from Wichita Falls and is especially friendly to all of West Texas and the Panhandle Plains. The Panhandle was especially honored a few years ago when the late W. A. Johnson of Memphis was elected lieutenant governor after serving in the state senate. Mr. Parnell is capable and we would like to see West Texas give the Wichita Falls man its endorsement.

TERRELL HAS BEEN EFFICIENT S. H. Terrell is a candidate for reelection as state comptroller. He has been considered an efficient officer and we believe he should be nominated in preference to J. D. Jones, his opponent. W. Gregory Hatcher has announced for reelection as state treasurer and we believe should be elected in preference to G. C. Harris, who also has announced for that office.

S. M. N. Marrs is running for state superintendent of public instruction. Mr. Marrs had long experience in public schools of Texas before he became state superintendent and he is doing satisfactory work in that office. Based on his record, we are favoring Mr. Marrs over H. P. Davis, W. F. Garner and W. E. James, his three opponents.

J. T. Robinson is the veteran commissioner of the general land office and Texas would not feel right if he were not re-elected to that office. We are, therefore, favoring him over A. J. Britton, E. I. Flynt or Otis Terrell, his opponents.

LON A. SMITH SERVES WELL Lon A. Smith and Jefferson Smith are candidates for state railroad commissioner. Lon A. Smith was elected commissioner a few years ago after long service as state comptroller. He has been an efficient officer and we feel that he should be re-elected. As Lon Smith has 12 or 13 children, he usually uses that feature as another campaign plank.

W. C. Morrow is a candidate for reelection as judge of the court of criminal appeals. Judge Morrow has a wide following among the bar and we see no reason why he should not be re-elected. His opponent is Lee P. Pierson.

JONES EXPERIENCE VALUABLE Marvin Jones and J. Ross Bell are candidates for representative from the 18th congressional district. Marvin Jones has made an outstanding representative and has worked courageously and energetically in behalf of the citizens of this district. Seniority counts in putting through legislation and in working in behalf of the public through respective bureaus and departments. Nearly all sections of his district have benefited from his many years of labor at Washington and we would like to see Marvin Jones re-elected.

Claude Pollard for attorney general, Geo. B. Terrell for commissioner of agriculture Thos. B. Greenwood for associate justice of the supreme court, C. C. Small for state senator for the 31st district and M. J. R. Jackson for associate justice for the 7th court of civil appeals have no opponents.

Unless some unusual emergency comes up we do not feel justified in taking part editorially in any of the campaigns for county and the other district offices.

Nominees in Two Parties Uncertain

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Farmer-Labor party faces the problem of naming substitute nominees to replace the two men chosen Wednesday but who immediately replied that they would not run.

Bert Martin of Denver, national secretary of the party, said the executive committee had power to fill vacancies but that it would not act until official replies had been received from Norris and Vereen.

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP)—An insurance man and a farmer-salesman will head the national ticket of the Prohibition party this year.

William X. Varney, Rosville Center, N. Y., was nominated for the presidency on the second ballot at the party convention last night following a persistent attempt by a sizeable minority to nominate or endorse Herbert Hoover.

James A. Edgerton, Alexandria, Va.,

Pastor Is Jailed

Rev. Earl Anderson (top), Baptist pastor in Dallas, Texas, was jailed for violating an injunction against the building of his new tabernacle, which did not conform to fire and safety standards. Members of the church, including Judge "Tommy" Young (below) ordered work on the building stopped under penalty of arrest. The city building inspector condemned the tabernacle as unsafe.

Pioneers Honor T. L. Coffee, One of Their Number

WHITE DEER, July 13.—His old friends of the pioneer range are here this afternoon to do honor to T. L. Coffee, who died of heart disease Wednesday night.

Active pall bearers named are Cal Merchant of Clarendon, J. M. Sanford of Amarillo, J. S. Wynne of Pampa, Dave Lard of Miami, and Oscar McMorde and Sheriff "Skillet Billy" Johnson of Canadian.

Mr. Coffee was born at Columbus, Texas, November 26, 1857. In 1885 he married Carrie L. Straughn, who died in 1912. To them were born nine children, three of whom preceded their parents in death. He was married in 1916 to Mae Younger, who survives him.

When he came to the Panhandle in 1878—fifty years ago—the only towns were Mobeetie and Tascosa. During the first two years he was with a buffalo hunting outfit, which killed the animals chiefly for their hides. Several years were spent with a stage line between Fort Elliott and Fort Bascom, N. M. He trailed herd in 1891 and 1892. In the latter year he helped take to Montana one of the largest herds of cows and calves that ever was driven from the plains. There were 2,500 animals in the herd. This was an N-N outfit, but previously he had been with the Turkey Track and LX ranches.

Mr. Coffee and his family moved to a ranch 30 miles north of Pampa in 1897 and lived there until 1916, when he moved to White Deer. Honorary pall bearers named include R. P. Hutton, T. D. Hobart, W. D. Jordan, E. H. Brainard, P. C. Ledrick, H. L. Ledrick, A. J. King, J. J. Crutchfield, John Gores, Mannel Brazzil, Frank Owens, J. A. Whitesides, J. Henry, Jim Williams, W. T. Cobble, J. Stroope, Sr. John Cunningham, T. M. Cunningham, W. S. Carter, and H. E. Baird.

Deputy Sheriff and 2 Bandits Killed After Robbery in California

Four Officers and Same Number of Robbers Engage in Running Battle on Creek

EUREKA, Calif., July 13.—(AP)—Charles Carpenter, 40, a deputy sheriff and two unidentified bandits were shot and killed at Salyer creek, east of here, today, when four sheriff's deputies and four unidentified bandits engaged in a running gun fight following the robbery of a store in Willow Creek.

Poses led by peace officers from Humboldt, Shasta, and Trinity counties were hunting for the two bandits who eluded the deputies after the fight.

The four robbers in a small automobile appeared suddenly this morning in the village of Willow Creek about 25 miles east of here. They robbed a store and carried away a small safe. Four sheriff's deputies from Burnt ranch met the bandits at Salyer creek and opened fire. Carpenter was killed instantly and shortly afterward two of the robbers were shot and killed.

Iowa Bank Is Robbed NORTHWOOD, Iowa, July 13.—(AP)—Four men robbed the First National bank here today of about $6,000 in cash and an undetermined quantity of Liberty bonds. Congressman Gilbert M. Haugen is president of the bank. The robbers fled in an automobile.

THREE DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Palacios Disaster Is in Street—Fire After Fall

PALACIOS, July 13.—(AP)—Three men killed here today when a plane in which they were flying crashed from a low altitude and burst into flames on a downtown street.

The dead: EARL PARKER, Texas City, Pilot; MAX WEINBERG, Boston; RALPH GREEN, Galveston.

Weinberg and Green, roommates of Parker, were owners of a concession at the Texas National Guard encampment on the outskirts of Palacios. They agreed to make a flight with Parker before he started taking up passengers for a fee.

The biplane apparently was functioning properly when it took off from the temporary field, but after it had attained a height of about 250 feet the motor started missing. The pilot headed toward a vacant lot but was unable to reach it, and he plane fell into the street. It immediately burst into flames and bystanders were forced back by the heat.

The fire department was notified, but before a truck could reach the scene the flames had consumed the plane.

Justice of the peace Gus Sissons is to hold an inquest. Parker was single, while Weinberg and Green each is survived by a widow and one child.

Local Men Have Received Charter of New Oil Company

"The Turkey Creek Oil company, composed of local people and incorporated for $100,000, received its charter this week. The company owns 160 acres in section 15, south of the LeFors Petroleum company well, and is drilling at 478 feet.

The officers of the company are: J. M. Dodson, president; Chas. C. Cook secretary and treasurer; H. L. Holbrook, vice-president and general manager. George McPann of Shamrock, who drilled the Nabob well and several others in this territory, is drilling contractor.

BURGLARY ATTEMPTED

An unsuccessful attempt was made to burglarize the Quaker Drug Store, on South Cuyler street owned by Geo. Shuffield, last night. After breaking through the large plate glass in the front door, a lock was successfully unfastened, but a burglar device on the door baffled the would-be burglars, who left the scene without gaining entrance. Officers are working on the case.

FLORIDA CHILD NOW HELD FOR $8,000 RANSOM

Boy Taken From His Bed When Mother Is Away

WOMAN SEEN NEAR HOUSE

Wealthy Grandparents Are Warned Not to Tell Officers

MIAMI, Fla., July 13.—(AP)—Billy McAllister, four years old, who was kidnapped last night from the home of his mother here, was found unhurt in a Coral Gables vacant house today by persons living next door who heard him pounding on the door of a closet in which he was locked. The child said his kidnappers were a "fat man and a woman."

MIAMI, Fla., July 13.—(AP)—Kidnapers today were holding for $8,000 ransom the three-year-old grandson of Mrs. E. C. McAllister, wealthy Miami hotel owner, while police sought to solve an apparently well developed plot.

Billy, the child, was snatched from his bed last night while his mother, Mrs. May McAllister was away. The grandmother, answering his cries, rushed into his ground floor bedroom to find the bed vacant, and the screen propped up with a stick.

Early today a telephone call from the McAllister hotel downtown informed the grandmother that the child was unhurt, but it would not be returned until $8,000 was paid. The caller went so far as to give a telephone number for her to call about the ransom and a warning not to "repeat this message."

Sheriff Henry R. Chase, who personally took up an investigation, learned that a woman lookout stood on the McAllister porch while the kidnapers procuring a saw horse and a stick to facilitate speedy removal of the child through the window. The woman and one or more male companions escaped in an automobile which had been parked near the home.

An hour before the boy was brought home Mrs. E. C. McAllister, his grandmother, a wealthy Miami hotel owner, had completed arrangements for moved into their new home in the turn.

Her decision came after a second telephone call to the McAllister home from a man who said the abductors would return Billy to his home in an automobile provided $8,000 in cash was available for immediate exchange and police were not summoned to the vicinity.

CARRANZA IS UNHEARD FROM ON HIS FLIGHT

GALVESTON, July 13.—(AP)—Aviation officers at Fort Crockett, the United States government flying field here, "el" little concern over failure to sight Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexican aviator who took off from Long Island, N. Y., last night for a non-stop flight to Mexico City.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—No word came back to the Long Island flying fields today from Captain Emilio Carranza who slipped away quietly last evening on a non-stop flight to his home in Mexico City.

After the first few storm-marked hours the watchers hardly expected him to return but they were somewhat surprised when seventeen hours pasted without a report of his being sighted along his 2,400-mile route. They pointed out however, the intention of the Mexican god will flatter to follow a compass course which may have carried him away from most cities.

The young aviator's father, Sebastian Carranza, was the most anxious of those at the Mexican consulate here. The elder Carranza had great confidence in his son's ability but waited impatiently for some word of his flight. None had come to him up to noon today, although all South Texas was watching for him.

THE WEATHER WEST TEXAS: Tonight and Saturday generally fair.

RESPONSIBILITY plays an increasingly big part in our times. Is their inefficiency? Have an investigation and find out who is responsible. Is there graft? Let Reed and Walsh get to the bottom of it. Is there a big problem? Get a big man and make him responsible.

Democracy has learned the secret of efficiency slowly. The system was born nourished by hate of authority, and boards, committees, and bureaus have cluttered up our governmental structure ever since. It worked very well while the country was young and the machinery of the republic simple. County and city government, following the general idea, fell into decay early because the more particularized needs of the smaller units of government made it impossible for many men to know and agree about details. We have city managers, executive chairman, specialists in production, distribution, and a thousand other activities. The boards select and keep a close check upon the executive manager. He is a new vehicle of government in public life. He gives to municipal business something of the skill which the owner-manager gives to private business. He has personal reasons to make good—in his profession. He can show facts and cite tangible results.

There are many current examples of this trend toward developing skill and demanding responsibility. New Zealand, a leading nation in social and economic experiments, has state railroads. She has been running them under the direction of a board. Said some of her influential statesmen: Collective judgment ought to be better than one man's ideas. New Zealand has decided to the contrary. Her state railroads are going into the hands of an executive manager. She wants an expert. She wants results. She wants to check the responsibility up to someone who must deliver the goods or step out.

This is the way of modern democracy. Life and living are too complex for the old method of collective judgment to suffice. People now days are not interested in advising; they wish to check the responsibility up to an expert and pay him to make their decisions. The test of modern democracy and good government is the ability of the voting public to select men who will be or choose experts to transact the official business. Wise selection of skilled public men is the purpose of the ballot today. Appointment of a selected man is better than election of the best one of them that offer, in many divisions of government. The civil service is still better.

Group responsibility is nobody's responsibility. Crises arise and nobody acts. Get an expert and demand steps in keeping with the emergency. Skill costs more than some forms of board or committee management—but often less when results are measured. The expert is usually worthy of his hire. He has spent much of his lifetime learning one thing. He has sacrificed to learn how to serve well, and his proper remuneration is in connection with his work. He must, like the teacher, spend much to keep abreast of the times. His figures over a given period usually show where money losses alone, saved through his decisions, amount to many times his salary.

The responsibility idea is a good one. It should inspire the young to shun the bad habit of "just getting by". Being satisfied to meet the minimum demands does not satisfy the business world today. More and more young men of special training are being selected and encouraged to develop new ideas in the specific lines which make up present day science and manufacture.

Passing the well known "buck" doesn't go in a modern, efficient organization, governmental or private. Responsibility, pinned on an individual, becomes either an adornment or a warning badge of misplaced effort. But though fastenag of responsibilities never was so customary before, neither were opportunities so plentiful. Ask the man who distributes the personnel of any big corporation or read the biography of any successful executive.

Small Towns

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat

The small town is a factor of mounting importance in American life, says a Chicago University professor, Charles Thomas Hofman. He draws this interesting conclusion from a new book on "The Role of the Agricultural Village," showing that one-eighth of the American people, and one-fourth of all outside the cities, live in towns of less than 2500 population. These towns outnumber larger population centers six to one and they increased by 3000 between the census years 1900 and 1920 and are increasing by some definite trade or profession, but those ties of more than 2500 inhabitants.

We are glad that someone has put in a good word for the small town. It has been badly misrepresented. A few years ago a popular novelist arraigned it as severely as a keynote speaker censures the opposing party. Its faults have been too highly magnified, its great value to society at large too little appreciated. And now that automobiles and good roads have broken down the barrier between the rural districts and the cities, the deterioration of the small town is being prophesied.

But it is not declining. On the contrary, there are good reasons for believing, as Prof. Hofman believes that it is becoming a more important factor in American life. And it is fortunate for America if this is true, for the small town is one of the most wholesome influences in the life of the nation. Happily situated between the congestion of the cities and the thinly populated farming lands, neither crowded nor lonely, it is a very different community from that which it has been represented to be by sneering detractors. It enjoys the blessings of community life while escaping most of the evils that larger communities endure. It is usually a place of comfortable homes and shaded lawns, a friendly place, where children grow to manhood and womanhood in a natural, healthful atmosphere. Its people are good people who compare very favorably in intelligence, moral character and other virtues with people anywhere.

Instead of hurting the small town, good roads are helping it and are doing much to refute the unjust criticisms that have been directed against it. Tourists who, however, briefly, visit small towns can plainly see that they have many pleasing and charming features, with a liberal portion of the common joys of living, of which their critics are ignorant.

CAPITOL News

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON — Looking back to the events leading up to the Democratic convention, it seems obvious that the ease with which Al Smith was nominated was due to a belief among Democratic politicians that he had a chance to win and that anyone else they could think of did not.

As soon as this thought began to spread through the party it was useless for anyone else to promote his own candidacy seriously. The Democrats have been out of power eight years now and all but a tiny minority are more anxious than anything else to get back on the job.

The four years between conventions saw a relentless crumbling of the bulwarks of hate set up against Smith during and after the Madison Square massacre. The New York state election of 1926, when Smith gave the Republicans one more drubbing and again won the governorship, was one of the largest boosts the Smith candidacy received. The rest of it was largely a gradually growing conviction that to turn Smith down meant defeat and that to nominate him might mean something else.

For awhile, of course, predictions were common that the New York fight would take place all over again, perhaps breaking up the party. Either that or one of the candidates, Smith and McAdoo, must weaken. It was McAdoo who withered, faded away and finally withdrew. When southern leaders began to endorse Smith privately while opposing him publicly one began to realize that it was about all over.

No one arose to take McAdoo's place. The two-thirds rule looked like a hard hurdle for Smith for awhile, but no one appeared who could accumulate enough delegates to use the thing. The only question was whether enough favorite sons could scare up enough votes that could be held long enough to jam the convention into a deadlock. And all the exhortations of the organized drys, the Ku Klux Klan and a few very sore old McAdoo lieutenants couldn't do that.

The opposition couldn't even unite. A few prima donnas sprang up to work for themselves, but none of them had any strength away from home. Most of them finally arrived in Houston with delegations which cherished considerable sentiment for Al.

The two strong men of national repute and substance who contested the nomination with Smith have only given their best friends considerable pain. Senator Jim Reed of Missouri and Senator Tom Walsh of Montana are two great fighters, admired and respected by the party they have served so well. But both were only made to look a little silly when they mixed it with Smith and both suffered somewhat in prestige.

It was too bad that Walsh allowed someone, perhaps McAdoo, to persuade him that he could stop Smith and perhaps have the nomination himself. He was badly misguided. The result of the California primaries, where McAdoo expected to win for Walsh when the wet vote divided between Smith and Reed, was sorely mortifying. The fight Reed made wasn't Reed's kind of fight at all. In fact, it wasn't a fight, but just a hymn. Some of his advisers had urged him to sail into Smith instead of shadow-boxing with pillowed fists as others wanted him to do. Reed chose the latter course. In either event he was licked before he began. If Smith couldn't have had the nomination he wouldn't have given it to the man who blocked him.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: The Conversion of Saul.

Scripture Lesson: Acts 22:6-16.

6. And it came to pass, that it I made my journey, and drew nigh unto Damascus, about noon, suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me.

7. And I fell unto the ground, and heard a voice saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

8. And I answered, Who art thou, Lord? And he said unto me, I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest.

9. And they that were with me beheld indeed the light, but they heard not the voice of him that spake to me.

10. And I said, what shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise and go into Damascus; and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

11. And when I could not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of them that were with me, I came into Damascus.

12. And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, well reported of by all the Jews that dwell there.

13. Came unto me, and standing by me said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight. And in that very hour looked up on him.

14. And he said, The God of our fathers hath appointed thee to know his will, and to see the Righteous One and to hear a voice from his mouth.

15. For thou shalt be a witness for him unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard.

16. And now why tighest thou? Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on his name.

Time: Saul's conversion, A. D. 36.

Place: Damascus, in Syria, about 14 miles north of Jerusalem.

Golden Text: Faithful is the saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners—1 Tim. 1:15.

Introduction

"After he had purged the Holy City and her environs of the heretical pollution Saul's zeal remained unabated. He still breathed out threat and laughter against the disciples of the Lord. Tidings reached him that some of the fugitives had found an asylum in the old Syrian capital, the far northern city of Damascus; and he resolved to pursue them thither. So he obtained from Calaphas the high priest as president of the Sanhedrin, letters to the synagogues of Damascus, empowering him to arrest any that were of the way, whether men or women and convey them in bonds to Jerusalem for trial and sentence." David Smith.

Saul's Journey Toward Damascus, v. 7. "And it came to pass, that, as I made my journey, and drew nigh unto Damascus." Tradition, ever anxious to fix the exact site of every great event in history, tells us that the awful visitor which struck Paul blind, but at the same time opened his spiritual eyes came to him at the spot now called Esalehiyeh, where the umbrageous gardens of the magnificent city of Damascus first break upon eyes that have been tortured by sterile mountain and thirsty plains, and half blinded by the empowering Syrian sun. This view has always been famous and always will be, for no one can ride for days across this arid country and suddenly come upon one of the most beautiful oases in the world without being deeply moved.

Saul Sees a Great Light, v. 6. "About noon." It was (and is) customary for travelers in that hot climate to rest at noon and not to resume their journey till the declining sun mitigated the terrific heat; but Saul, in his impetuous zeal, was pressing on, in great haste to get at his wicked task. "Suddenly there shone from Heaven a great light round about me." The light was dazzling and literally blinding. It was brighter even than the fierce light of the Syrian sun at midday, as Saul testified before King Agrippa, Acts 26:13. It was the great light of deity, which in ancient days glowed above the mercy seat in the Most Holy Place, and which was manifested in many crucial events during Bible times.

not taken food for three days. His heart went out to him, and his fear instantly vanished. Laying his hands on him, as Saul in his vision had seen him doing, and calling him "Brother," Ananias told him of the message that had come to him from the Lord (Acts 9:17). "And in that very hour I looked up on him." Scales fell from his eyes, as Luke tells us in his account (Acts 9:18), using medical terms common in that day. It was a marvelous cure for that day. It was a marvelous cure for that day. It was a marvelous cure for that day. It was a marvelous cure for that day.

It was a marvelous cure for that day. It was a marvelous cure for that day. It was a marvelous cure for that day.

Saul Hears a Voice, v. 7. "And heard a voice saying unto me." We are not told definitely that Saul had not met Jesus in the flesh and heard him speak, but this is clearly implied in the narrative. It is supposed that during the three years of Christ's public ministry Saul, having finished his theological training, had returned to Tarsus and there served as a rabbi, afterwards going back to Jerusalem and becoming a member of the Sanhedrin and active in the persecution of the Christians. If he had met Jesus during his life on earth, Saul's career up to this point might have been entirely different.

"What Shall I do, Lord?" v. 10. "And I said, What shall I do, Lord?"

This question is most characteristic of Saul the energetic. As son of his terrible mistake was made evident, he wanted to set about correcting it. As soon as the true way of life was presented to him, he was ready to set out upon it. "And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Damascus." There in the great city where Saul intended to work against Christ, he was now to work for him. For the same reason, later he went to Jerusalem, that he might testify for Christ where he had so often spoken against him. "And here it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do." It was made clear to Saul from the hour of his conversion that his life was part of the plan of God, that his new master had a definite work for him to perform, one that no one else could do so well.

Every Christian should know this same thing to be true of himself. Saul Comes into Damascus, v. 11. "I came into Damascus." The beauty of Damascus, situated between barren mountains and the desert has been sung by many a poet. The Barada breaks through the Anti-Libanus range, and, dividing itself up into several branches, two of which were the Abana and Pharpar mentioned in the Old Testament, transforms a district thirty miles in diameter into a scene of fertile beauty before it runs itself dry in the desert. The sterility of the desert and the barrenness of the mountains and the additional charm of contrast to this country of waving trees and refreshing verdure, in the midst of which lies Damascus, one of the most ancient cities mentioned in the Bible. The city on the border of the desert is forever associated with the story of the Israelitish maid who was instrumental in bringing about the cure of the Syrian warrior, Naaman, who was afflicted with leprosy 2 Kings 5:1-27. This ancient city suffered many bombardments at the hands of the French just after the world war, in execution of their mandate over the region, and was in great part reduced to ruins and its beauty destroyed.

The Blinded Saul Receives sight, v. 13. "And standing by me said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight." Ananias was evidently moved by the sight of the blind man, for Saul was probably pale and worn, for he had recovery would have been. Saul's Baptism, v. 16. "And now why tighest thou?" According to the narrative in Acts 9:15 the message of Ananias had already proclaimed the gift of the Holy Spirit to Saul, and the favor of God had been shown in the recovery of his sight. So the question of Ananias becomes parallel to that of St. Peter in the house of Cornelius: "Can any man forbid water that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we" Cambridge Bible. "Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on his name." Saul was to be baptized because Christ had commanded the use of the sacred rite (Matt. 28:19, etc.) as a testimony before men of faith in Christ, and of the removal of sin through the faith in the name of Christ, which baptism signified. Saul, like his Master, must "fulfill all righteousness" (Matt. 3:15.) The word "conversion" means, literally, a complete turning. "Christian conversion is a turning from sin to the Saviour, from opposition to Christ to entire surrender to him, from the service of Satan to the service of God, from a life dominated by the spirit of this world to a life dominated by the Holy Spirit of God. Conversion is perfectly illustrated in its essence by that of Saul, though the manner of conversion varies in different lives. In some it is a sudden change, like Saul's; in others it is quiet gentle. The immediate agency of conversion differs likewise; it may be a vision, or a sermon, or a book, or a letter, or a conversation, or the warning of another life, or the noble example of another life, or some happening which seems to be quite casual. It may come in a revival, or in a Sunday-school class, or at home, or in school, or in solitude. The Holy Spirit is not limited to one mode, but works diversely; but always back of every human instrumentality, conversion to Christ is his work. Ananias is only an instrument.

Introduction
"After he had purged the Holy City and her environs of the heretical pollution Saul's zeal remained unabated. He still breathed out threat and laughter against the disciples of the Lord. Tidings reached him that some of the fugitives had found an asylum in the old Syrian capital, the far northern city of Damascus; and he resolved to pursue them thither. So he obtained from Calaphas the high priest as president of the Sanhedrin, letters to the synagogues of Damascus, empowering him to arrest any that were of the way, whether men or women and convey them in bonds to Jerusalem for trial and sentence." David Smith.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 BERTIE LOU WARD, on the eve of her wedding to ROD BRYER, feels a premonition of trouble when she receives a dangerous paper knife from LILA MARSH, who has turned Rod down because he is not wealthy. But she courageously resolves not to be jealous of Rod's past love affairs since his future is in her keeping.
 Bertie Lou receives a second blow to her pride when she accidentally overhears one bridesmaid ask another if she thought the bride liked being second choice. The main in her heart fingers until Rod whispers "My wife" with a world of adoration in his eyes.
 They spend an ideal honeymoon in a mountain resort, and Bertie Lou almost forgets the shadow cast by the predatory ex-sweetheart until they return and find Lila acting as dictator in their apartment on the ground that she knows what Rod likes. Both the bride and her mother resent Lila's efforts to annoy, and MRS. WARD advises Bertie Lou to try to avoid meeting her in the future.
 Entertainment and the demands of hospitality cripple their budget and the newlyweds decide they will have to return. They are invited to the hotel to dine with the FRASERS, from New York, and Bertie Lou is delighted when TOM FRASER offers Rod a position in the city.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VIII

WAYVILLE gave them a great sendoff. Everybody they knew came in to say goodbye to them and turned the occasion into an excuse for a party. Rod began to feel important. And Bertie Lou was the envy of all the girls.
 They stored their furniture in Bertie Lou's old home and left money to pay for having it packed when the time came to send it to them. "We'll find a place in a day or so," Bertie Lou told her mother.
 Rod was over at his mother's, having a long talk with her. She was opposed to his going away and Rod knew she blamed Bertie Lou for his decision. He was trying to talk her out of that.
 "Why, Ma, I'd be a fool to let this chance go by. Look at Tom. Wayville's proud of him. It won't be long before I'll be coming back home on a visit and having a brass band meet me at the depot."
 "I don't know, son. I don't know," his mother said weakly. She'd not been well all summer and was much less fleshy now than she had been when Bertie Lou hid a treacherous tear on her bosom the day she was married.
 Rod's heart ached at parting from her. "Seems to me you were pretty well fixed with Meeker and Son. You had a nice home, even if it was only a rented flat. And you could have come here to live if you'd wanted to," she added.
 Rod did not tell her that living with relatives was one of the things Bertie Lou had said firmly she would not do. "The flat was all right," he said. "A fellow ought to have a home of his own, though. We'll build in New York, I hope. Tom's paying me well. We'll be able to save a lot of money in no time on $65 a week."
 "It sounds like an awful big salary, son. But you and Bertie Lou aren't the saving kind. I'm afraid. She spent more than she should on parties and such like. I tried to tell her once . . ."
 "I know," Rod broke in; "but she couldn't help it, Ma. That's one reason why we'll be better off out of Wayville. We know half the people in this burg. We thought we could settle down and live our lives as we chose, but we found that our bunch still expected us to be among those present when anything was doing. Bertie Lou's been working too hard, too, cooking and keeping house. It'll be good for her to cut out the entertaining."
 "Well, you haven't been married very long. All that might have changed. But Bertie Lou had her heart set on going to the city, I guess."
 Rod looked at his watch. "Time to go over and get her. All right to take the car?"
 HE found Bertie Lou ready to come back with him and say goodbye to his parents. Then they returned to the Wards for their suit cases before going to the station.
 "Wouldn't it be great to live near the water? Tank swimming makes me sick. And we could get an apartment in a tall building, a nice cool one. Molly says rent is high in New York, but with the salary Tom offered you we wouldn't be paying any more than we are here. It takes a fifth of what you make for this place. And for a fifth of $65 a week we ought to get a swell apartment in New York."
 And so it went, far into the night. In weariness Rod gave up. After all, it wasn't a bad proposition. A lot of fellows he knew would be tickled to death to get it.

ROD looked helplessly over at Bertie Lou. Her eyes were filled with an eagerness he could not mistake. Still, he hardly knew what to say. The proposition had been shot at him with disconcerting suddenness, and life didn't move that way in Wayville. He supposed Tom had acquired the manner in New York.
 "You sure are speedy in the big city, aren't you?" he said, seeking time. Then it occurred to him that he'd have to talk the matter over with Bertie Lou in private before he gave Tom an answer.
 "That's how we get there," Tom snapped back at him. "Suppose we go up to our rooms after dinner and I'll tell you what's on my mind while the girls and Lila have a game of bridge."
 That suited Molly; that is, with certain modifications. She decided to show Bertie Lou and Lila her French underwear instead of muddling through with the rules on "normal expectancy" and "quick tricks." The men could have the sitting room.
 The dinner was finished in an air of subdued excitement. Bertie Lou could hardly sit still in her chair. But Rod, she knew, was undecided. She could see doubt in his face. She felt a little like shaking him. Couldn't he see what a wonderful opportunity Tom was offering him?
 Lila sat in silence. The food tasted of ash. She'd never been quite so sorry before that she'd turned Rod down.
 New York! Her father flatly refused to support her if she went to the city. And Lila preferred not to toll. But some day she'd meet a man . . . a traveling salesman probably, who would take her away to the land of skyscrapers. It was a little galling, though, to have the one man she'd least expected to make the grade getting there ahead of her, and taking another girl with him.
 But then, on second thought, what would Rod amount to in New York? Tom couldn't have so much to offer him. Lila perked up. Let him go. And she'd come along later with her moneybags, whoever he might be, and show them she hadn't been left at the post.
 She was unusually gay the rest of the evening. Which puzzled Bertie Lou, who was not accustomed to exaggerated flights of fancy.

"But my future here looks pretty good," Rod told him. "I hope to have a junior partnership with Meeks and Son some day."
 Molly spread out her finery on the bed, and while her guests exclaimed over it and admired her taste until she was perfectly satisfied Tom went into the details of his offer to Rod. Mr. Stiles had excused himself.
 The salary was, of course, better than he was receiving at present. Rod was impressed by it. There was some small doubt of his ability to take over the duties of accountant in Fraser's firm, but Tom thought he could work into it all right. Tom was a real friend. He'd always liked Rod and wanted to give him a chance.
 "But my future here looks pretty good," Rod told him. "I hope to have a junior partnership with Meeks and Son some day—or go into business for myself—certified accountant."
 "H'm, in Wayville? Well, suppose that turns out to be what you really want to do, won't you be better off with a little city experience? A fellow doesn't know life until he's shaken the home soil off his shoes."
 "Anyway it's fine of you to make me the offer," Rod evaded. "I appreciate it, Tom. Let me think it over a while, will you?"
 "I'm going back to New York day after tomorrow," Tom replied. "Have to give me an answer before I leave. The man in the job now quits on the first; if you turn it down I'll have to promote Markison. He'll be under you if you accept. Don't be afraid of it, Rod. You'll make good, and we'll know we've got an honest man working for us. Everybody will be happy. Bertie Lou especially. Warned up to it plenty, didn't she?"
 But Rod couldn't be stampeded. He'd never thought of leaving

Wayville. All his plans for the future centered in the little place. His parents—Bertie Lou's. The people they'd known all their lives. All were hands that could not be easily broken.
 At home Bertie Lou coaxed. She would not let him sleep. Her head nestled on his shoulder, and now and then she kissed him, swift little caresses, more potent than words. She pictured life in the city as one big, happy thrill.
 "It isn't that I'm tired of Wayville, Rod, boy," she explained. "But we can't get ahead here. You know that. Look at those accounts. Why, it will be years and years before we can have enough money to build on the Heights. And this flat is . . . well, it's hot, and it's noisy and dusty. If they'd pave the cross street . . ." She paused to kiss the lobe of his ear.
 Rod was silent. An Indian summer night made the room close. Bertie Lou ran a hand across his damp forehead, brushing back his hair with a touch as light as this-dew.
 "Wouldn't it be great to live near the water? Tank swimming makes me sick. And we could get an apartment in a tall building, a nice cool one. Molly says rent is high in New York, but with the salary Tom offered you we wouldn't be paying any more than we are here. It takes a fifth of what you make for this place. ### CHURCHES

CHURCH OF CHRIST

(C. C. MERRITT, MINISTER)
The church is located five blocks east of the High school building. Since the congregation is for its first time enjoying the benefits of having a regular minister on the ground and preaching every Sunday at both services, we want to do all we can to let our presence in Pampa be known. We want to make it known to one and all that each has a hearty welcome to our meetings.

We especially urge all parents in our locality to attend our Sunday school and bring your children. Class rooms are being added to the building and we plan to take care of all who come. Be present at 9:45.

The Sunday morning subject is a special selection and every man and woman who will be urged to be there for that sermon. Subject: "Affire With God." Sermon for Sunday night is "And Not to Me Only."

A special invitation is given to all ladies who will attend the Ladies' Bible class which meets at 3 o'clock each Thursday afternoon. No matter what church you belong to, or if you belong to none, we give you an invitation to come.

Wednesday night meetings are specially interesting. Our aim is that these meetings shall not be "dry" and sleepy. They are not draggy and colorless. Come. Test the mout. This is our challenge to you.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Wednesday 8 p. m.
Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.
Public is cordially invited to attend the services.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

A change has been made in the hours of the morning services.

The Bible school begins promptly at 9:45 a. m., instead of 10 o'clock, and the preaching service begins at 10:45 instead of 11. This provides sufficient time for all departments of the Bible school and a more convenient hour for closing. The evening service begins at 8:30 o'clock.

The attendance and interest are good throughout the summer months. A special invitation is extended to strangers and visitors in the city.
JAMES TODD, JR.
Minister.

Bank Deposits Increase $600,000

Bank deposits in Pampa have increased more than $600,000 since the first of the month, according to statements from the First National and Gray County State banks.

The wheat crops in the territory have been more abundant than pre-harvest estimates thus assuring the banks of extra heavy deposits.

BOY SCOUTS MAY NOT HALT WOMEN'S SMOKING

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—Use of Boy Scouts in a campaign to halt smoking by women, as proposed by the Cleveland Boy Scouts council, has been repudiated by the executive board of Boy Scouts of America. The Cleveland council recently adopted a resolution condemning advertisements tending to induce women to smoke cigarettes, and the Scouts were urged to adopt another "daily good turn" the creation of sentiment against smoking by women.

Yankees Break Even But Retain Their Leadership

BY HERBERT W. PARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
There's mathematical proof that the New York Yankees have yet to clinch the American league pennant. But alleged contenders in that circuit are coming day by day to the realization that it will take a miracle to head off Babe Ruth and company from their third successive appearance in the world's series.

For a month the champions have done little better than break even yet they lead the procession by ten and a half games. Their closest competitor, the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Browns, have done no better over the same period.

Although the Yanks have won only four more games than they've lost during this period, they have increased their advantage by one percent point over the second place Athletics and by 30 points over the Browns.

The Athletics lost a chance yesterday to put deeply into the Yankees' lead when they split even with the Chicago White Sox while Detroit was losing out to the Yanks at New York.

Three runs in the ninth spelled victory for the Tigers. Henry Johnson, the young right hander, hit a home run but offset this with no fewer than seven walks, most of which were damaging.

Redfern's single scored Cissell, who had doubled, with the run that gave the White Sox a 4 to 3 decision over the A's in the first game. Eddie Rommel was in good form in the nightcap and gave the Athletics an even break on the day, 5 to 2.

The Browns bunched hits off MacFayden in the sixth inning to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 1. Alvin Cromer, chalking up victory No. 10 against one defeat.

Burns' single in the tenth sent the Washington Senators down to a 2 to 1 defeat at the hands of the Cleveland Indians in a tight pitcher's battle between George Uhle of the Indians and Garland Braxton and Fred Marberry.

In the national league, the St. Louis Cardinals increased their lead to five and a half games by trimming the New York Giants, 11 to 1, in a five and one-half inning engagement halted by rain.

Adolf Luque and Ray Moss hooked up in a pitchers battle at Cincinnati, rain ending hostilities in the last of the ninth with the score tied at precisely nothing for the Reds and the same amount for the Brooklyn Dodgers. Moss gave up only three hits and Luque six.

Charlie Root shook a seven game losing streak when he pitched the Chicago Cubs to their third straight win over the Boston Braves, 4 to 1.

Craving For Bananas Held Only Drawback To Indian's Victory

If Jose Torres, Tarahumara Indian runner (extreme right upper and lower), were not a banana addict, his Mexican countrymen would feel certain of his victory in the 10,000 meters Olympic race. But Jose likes the monkey fruit so well he might be lured from the straight and narrow path he must run to win. Left to right upper and lower are: Aurelio Terrazas, Jose Torres and another runner.

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

DALLAS (AP)—The 10,000 meters race in the 1928 Olympics is over so far as the winner is concerned unless some one bribes Jose Torres with a banana and induces him to quit.

This is the contention of members of the contingent of Tarahumara Indians of Mexico, who passed through Dallas en route to Amsterdam.

Torres, member of a half-wild band of Tarahumaras, has an insatiable craving for bananas. In winning the 20-mile run from San Antonio to Austin last year, he almost drove his trainer to distraction.

The Indian runner whose tribe rates as having the world's supreme marathons simply cannot reject gifts of the tropical fruit. As a result playful spectators tormented him throughout the race.

He ate most of the proffered fruit and still won the race. But the competition will be keener at Amsterdam, so members of the squad of 12 have been cautioned not to let Jose pass a fruit stand after he gets to Amsterdam.

Torres' compatriots may be athletes fully capable as he, but there can be none so colorful. The other members of the Mexican team have lived in civilization all their lives and have had the full benefits of athletic training while Jose learned to run long distances in order to eat and live.

The appearance of Jose on the track at Amsterdam will be an apt demonstration of what athletics have done to civilize this world. Here is a bobbed haired, besandaled little brown man who a few years ago was almost as wild as the buck deer that roam the Tarahumara mountains about his home.

Bears Are Gaining Rapidly on Buffs in Texas League

(By The Associated Press.)
Distance between Houston, leader of the Texas league, and San Antonio, most persistent challenger for first place, is narrowing rapidly. The Bears cut the Buff's lead to half a game Thursday by defeating Shreveport 1 to 0, while Houston was losing to Wichita Falls.

The Bear-Sport game saw a great hurling duel between Messenger and Dickerman, and although victory went to the former pitcher, there was little to choose between the work of the two. Messenger allowed four hits, while Dickerman gave up two. In the second round, a base on balls to Chapman followed by Meyers' double accounted for San Antonio's run.

The hard hitting of Tut Jenkins combined with good hurling in the pinches by Spudder pitchers enabled Wichita Falls to defeat Houston, 3 to 2, in eleven innings. In the ninth, Jenkins tied the score by hitting a home run with a man on base, and in the final frame he parked the ball again to win the game. The victory sent the Spudders back into third place in the loop standing. Watkins and Lapan tangled in a fistie battle in the eleventh inning.

Fort Worth continued its drive for the first division by defeating Beaumont, 2 to 1, and chalking up its fifth straight win. After nine straight defeats, Waco beat Dallas, 13 to 6, in a game featured by the hard hitting of both clubs. The Cubs got 17 hits and the Steers 11.

Tom Heeney Has Developing Left Observers Learn

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 13.—(AP)—Most of Tom Heeney's preparations for his shot at the heavyweight title on July 25 are based on the development of his southpaw punching apparatus. His right hand, Heeney is pretty well satisfied with. He has used it effectively for years shooting jolting straight punches under the heart. These body punches have been the Anzac's best offensive equipment.

Now he's developing his left hand so that it won't feel slighted when he takes it along with his right into the Yankee stadium ring in two weeks. Heeney has used his left hand to a great extent, of course, in all of his fights in the country but there's been little or no dynamite in it. Persistent practice in sparring matches here are beginning to show results. The challenger now has a left hook that calls for some respect from the critics as well as his sparring mates.

Friday 13 Is Used for Resting by Gene Tunney

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 13.—(AP)—Friday the Thirteenth was a holiday in Speculator, where Gene Tunney is training to defend his heavyweight title against Tom Heeney, the rugged New Zealander on July 25 at the Yankee stadium. The day's rest, Tunney's handlers believe, will keep the champion, who now weighs 196 1/2, almost his fighting weight from reaching the peak of condition too early. The day of idleness it was explained, would put about five pounds on him, a margin he will find useful during the days which are yet to come before he defends his crown.

Woman at Zion City Says Curse Upon Property

WAUKEGAN, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Mrs. John Edgar, Sr., of Zion, Ill., staunch follower of the late Dr. John Alexander Dowie, founder of Zion City, believes "the curse of God Almighty is upon her land Voliva has sold to Bartlett."

William Lumsen was killed while at work on the Bartlett sub-division yesterday. Mrs. Edgar said Lumsen was the third man to be killed there since the land was sold.

These deaths, she said, show the existence of a curse on the property.

Favorite Defeated at Junior Golf

HOUSTON, July 13.—(AP)—One of the most startling upsets of the Texas Junior Golf association's championship tournament today put Jimmy Morgan of San Antonio, one of the two outstanding favorites, out of the running for the title. Morgan was eliminated in the quarter finals by Earl Gammaro, Houston youth, 1 up in 20 holes.

The other contender, Joe Greenwood of Houston, worked his way to the semi-finals with a 3 to 2 win over Bill Drake, young Austin golfer. Dick Gregg, also of Houston, the third player of hitherto conceded championship calibre, went out in the quarter finals to D. W. Graves, of Mexia, 4 and 2.

Man Struck by Truck Improving

J. C. Mote is in the Pampa hospital suffering from cuts and bruises about the head received late yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a truck. His injuries are not serious, according to hospital reports this morning.

The truck that ran into Mote was driven by W. C. Bradford, local trucking contractor, who was making a turn off Foster avenue to Frost street. The elderly man was crossing the intersection and apparently became excited when he saw the truck approaching. Mr. Bradford applied the breaks, but they apparently slipped, the truck knocking Mr. Mote to the pavement but not running over him. He was rushed to the hospital by ambulance.

The law provides that a ballot may be obtained not more than 10 days nor less than three days from election day, July 28. The ballot may be obtained from the county clerk, who will explain the method of absentee voting.

Voters who have already left the county and who will not return in time for the election may obtain a ballot 20 days before, and not less than 10 days preceding the fourth Saturday in July. Their application must be made before a notary public, who also will supervise the steps necessary to vote away from the resident county.

East Is Not Only Hoover Battle Field

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Although the situation in the East is admittedly their first consideration, directors of Herbert Hoover's campaign for the presidency are finding time to prepare for mailot drives, in the Middle West and on the Pacific Coast.

Conferences are planned with the party leaders of each of these sections, the first to be held in Chicago early next month and the second at San Francisco on August 13, after Mr. Hoover has been officially notified of his selection by the national convention.
