Former Pampan survives Taiwan crash

Escapes through a hole in side of burning plane

By NANCY YOUNG and KATE B. DICKSON

Pampa native Walter Lee Young narrowly escaped death vesterday when the Singapore Airlines 747-400 he was aboard crashed and burned on takeoff in Taipei, Taiwan.

There were 79 killed out of 179 people aboard the jumbo jet that may have hit an object on the runway before catching fire and 47 Americans on board, at least 23 were killed. (See related story this page).

Young, 44, is in a hospital in Taiwan suffering from first-andsecond degree burns on his arms and hands, said his mother, Blondine Young, who lives in Pampa. She said his right arm and hand burns are his worst injuries

Coble, who called him this morning, Mrs. Young said.

"He told her that he's going to call me later tonight ... that he's so tired," Mrs. Young said. Relating what Walter told sister Connie, Mrs. Young said her son is "having a hard time resting because so many people who can't speak English are in his room and won't leave. They keep trying to get him to eat." Mrs. Young, 71, said Walter was seated on the right-hand side of the airplane beside the wing when the accident occurred. "It blew that part off," she said of the plane that broke into three main pieces ... "and that's how he got out. The explosion knocked his glasses off. He picked them up then crawled through a hole in the plane and dropped 10-or-20-feet into a mudhole.

"When they were going down the runway Walter said he heard a pop and thought it was a blowout," she said. "The first thought that went through his mind was, 'Now, we're going to have to sit here another hour."

Mrs. Young she didn't know her son was out of the country on Tuesday. "I had received a letter from him telling me he was going to be based out of Gultport, Miss., for about fourand-one-half-months."

Dog, cat death story 'overplayed' woman complains

Tia Rowsey says the mauling deaths of her neighbor's pets by the Rowsey's dog is an "unfortunate incident" she doesn't want to minimize but said The Pampa News "overplayed" the story by putting it on the front page and by naming names -- something she said "embarrassed" her.

The incident to which she refers happened early on Oct. 24, when the dog Tia Rowsey says "actually belongs to my husband" (Joe Rowsey) was loose and came into the yard of Eric and Naomi Driggers at 934 E. Francis.

The Drigger's daughter, Mary Ann Driggers, 23, said previously, that her father had let the family dog, a poodle mix, out to "go potty"

PAMPA — The Salvation Army needs volunteers to sort canned goods received during its food drive slated to begin Dec. 18. Volunteers involved in this Christmas assistance program sort the canned food items prior to packaging and distribution.

Also needed are volunteers to man its kettle stands for Christmas. The bell ringing officially begins the weekends of Nov. 10 and 17 with the Kettle Kick-Off slated the day after Thanksgiving. It is during the Christmas season the Salvation Army collects the funds necessary to help the community year round. All monies support Pampa and Gray County. The bell ringing season will conclude Christmas Eve, Saturday, Dec. 23.

that morning. Her father, who had suffered a stroke, stayed on the porch to watch the dog. The family cat was eating food from a dish on the porch, also, she said.

Suddenly, the large dog from the vard behind the Driggers came into the yard and killed the cat by grabbing it in its mouth and shaking it. Despite her father's attempts to stop the dog, the animal then grabbed the little dog in its mouth and ran off with it," the Drigger's daughter said.

The larger dog then went back into its own yard while carrying the dead poodle which it dropped on the ground there, Rowsey contirmed.

All dressed up but a day too late

Police officers, investigating a report of man who had exposed himself to a woman at a local discount store today, found someone all dressed up – a day late for Halloween.

Deputy Chief Terry Young said a woman called police early today to report a man dressed in women's clothing had exposed himself to her at a Dollar General store here. Young said he did not know if the incident occurred at the downtown store or the store on Perryton Parkway.

"She didn't want to press charges or identify herself because she was so embarrassed," Young said.

Officers investigating the report stopped a 45-year-old Pampa man on a traffic violation, the deputy chief said. The man was wearing a floral woman's bathing suit, fishnet stockings and high heels, he said.

Police cited Mel Hanks, 45, 533 Doyle, for driving with expired registration, failure to prove financial responsibility, and failure to notify of address change on driver's license within 30 days.

Young said it is not against the law for a man to dress in women's clothing, "as long as he is not exposing himself."

Pampa High School mascot should be ready for dedication ceremonies by next year's Homecoming, David Gantz, president of the Pampa High School Class of 1956, told school board members this week.

Gantz and Richard "Dick" Dunham reported on the Class of '56 alumni project at a meeting of the Pampa Independent School District's Board of Education. Graduates began planning the project at the 40th reunion in 1996, Gantz said.

At the reunion, class members decided to erect a seven-foot, nine-inch statue of "The Harvester," Pampa High School mascot, and present it to the school as a gift at the 45th class reunion in 2001. They plan to display the statue on a four-foot base surrounded by a plaza consisting of 12-inch by 12-inch stones of pink granite quarried in Texas.

Gantz said the base of the statue will be shaped "like a pyramid with the top cut o.f." An essay, "Who is this Pampa Harvester?" will be

Mike Fraser, who is working with the group to incorporate the plaza with the school's landscaping, explained how the structure would look and where it would be placed on the east end of the front grounds of the high school.

Fraser said engraved stones can be added to the plaza almost indefinitely.

"This can be added to for years," Fraser said. "There's no obstructions around it, so we can go a long way."

Teacher's Loving Lesson Turns Girl's Fear to Fun tate their party platforms.

DEAR ABBY: My wife, our 7year-old daughter, Silvia, and I arrived in Los Angeles in June 1965. At the time, Silvia had less than three months of first grade and didn't speak a word of English. We enrolled her in elementary school in Alhambra, Calif., where she was placed in a class taught by an older, conservative teacher who had little patience. The teacher would yell at Silvia for not understanding English.

As you can imagine, taking Silvia to school each day became a Greek tragedy. She would cry from the time she got into the car and continued as she walked through the school's gates. She also cried at home.

Fortunately, our daughter was transferred into another class that was taught by a younger teacher, Miss Luke. Miss Luke didn't understand a word of Spanish, but she would wait at the gate for our arrival in the morning, take Silvia's hand and walk with her all the way to the classroom. She spoke English to her in the most loving way, in a sweet, soft voice. Within a week, our daughter was actually happy to be going to school. In a month, she was speaking with her new friends in English!

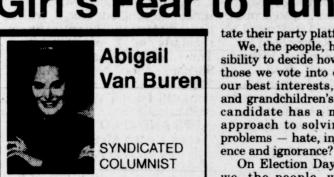

Miss Luke eventually married and became Mrs. Mertha. If she reads this, we want her to know that Silvia, who showed talent for both writing and art, decided to follow in her footsteps and become a teacher like her. Although Silvia

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) Alabama coach Mike DuBose has been told he won't be retained after the season, and the university is trying to work out a resignation agreement, according to reports Wednesday.

A university spokeswoman, Janet Griffith, confirmed that "a change in the leadership of the football program is under discussion." But she said it's not final yet as to "how the details will be worked out."

DuBose, 47, has a 24-20 record in his fourth year as coach at Alabama. The Crimson Tide, which entered the season with a No. 3 national ranking, are 3-5 and have lost all three nonconference games for the first time since 1955.

DuBose was Southeastern Conference coach of the year in 1999 after the Tide won the SEC crown. His contract runs through the 2003 season.

ATLANTA (AP) — The Super Bowl is going back to Houston and Detroit.

NFL owners voted Wednesday to award the 2004 championship game to Houston and the 2006 game to Detroit. Neither city had opposition.

Wrapping up their threeday fall meeting, owners were still considering where to play the 2005 Super Bowl. Miami, Jacksonville and Oakland made bids for the game.

Detroit's delegation was led by Mayor Dennis Archer and racing team owner Roger Penske.

Houston was represented by Mayor Lee Brown and Bob McNair, owner of the Texans expansion team that will begin play in 2002.

As part of his $700 million entry fee, McNair was promised a Super Bowl as soon as possible. It will come

BASKETBALL

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Mavericks did it with defense.

Michael Finley had 26 points, nine rebounds and eight assists, and the Mavericks clamped down on defense Tuesday night to beat Milwaukee 97-93 in their season opener, snapping a seven-game losing streak to the Bucks.

Ō

"They took away our pick-and-rolls and switching," Milwaukee coach George Karl said. "They took away our post-ups and double teams, and took away a lot of disrup-tion on our left side of the floor.'

Ray Allen scored 26 points to lead the Bucks, but his backcourt mate, Sam Cassell, committed five of Milwaukee's 18 turnovers. The Bucks shot just 39.8 percent from the field. "They did what we like to do to teams," Milwaukee guard Lindsey Hunter said.

Steve Nash scored 20 points, and Dirk Nowitzki added 16 for the Mavericks, who never trailed.

"We played pretty well early, and that was big for us because that gave us some confidence," Nash said. "Our new goal is to be a good defensive team. It was important for us to get off to a good start, and I think we did that. We held them to a low shooting percentage early."

Karl said his team forced some shots and appeared frustrated.

"One more pass or one more movement of the ball gives you a softer, easier defense to play against. We seem to want to force it all the time," he said.

shareholders care only about the bottom line.

Callaway has been among the most innovative manufacturers in the business, but the ERC II marks an ominous step forward. Look past the usual hype about growing the game or making it more enjoyable. More telling is what Edwin Watts, owner of a chain of golf shops bearing his name, said about Borger for the season's final Lady Patriots struggled through the club: "This driver will be matches. the shot in the arm the golf to win this skirmish. Bowa expected to be new Phillies' boss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) Former Philadelphia Phillies shortstop Larry Bowa has been hired as the team's manager.

The Phillies will hold a news conference to announce the hir-, deteriorated. ing at noon EST Wednesday, team spokesman Larry Shenk said.

Bowa, a third-base coach with Seattle last season, replaces Terry Francona, fired on Oct. 1. Bowa gets a second chance at managing 12 years after compiling an 81-127 record with the San Diego Padres.

Philadelphia general manager Ed Wade interviewed nine candidates, including former Phillies catchers Bob Boone and Darren Daulton. Boone, who managed Kansas City for three seasons, played with Bowa on the 1980 Phillies team that won the franchise's only World Series title.

Daulton was a serious candidate even though he had no managerial or coaching experience.

Bowa, 54, is a fan favorite with Angels for three years. deep ties to the organization. He was Philadelphia's third-base coach from 1988-96, but his relationship with the Phillies then with the Chicago Cubs for the Bowa criticized team management last spring, then skipped a celebration honoring the 1980 club because of a long-running feud with former team president and current chairman Bill Giles.

Wade said last week that he addressed those issues during his interview with Bowa, and felt comfortable that everything was cleared up:

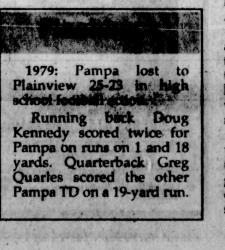

Bowa played 16 seasons in the major leagues and was one of the game's premier shortstops in the 1970s, when he was a five-time All-Star with the Phillies.

He is known as a fierce com-petitor with a fiery personality that sometimes got him in trouble as a young manager with the Padres.

Before joining Seattle last year, Bowa coached with the Anaheim

Francona was fired after posting his fourth straight losing season. The Phillies finished tied worst record in baseball at 65-97.

Among the other candidates to interview for the Phillies job were Lloyd McClendon, hired as Pittsburgh's manager last week, Yankees third-base coach Willie Randolph and John Vukovich, the third-base coach under Francona.

Spurs down Pacers in NBA opener, 98-85

Reggie Miller scored almost at will, he was the only consistent force in the Indiana Pacers' open-

With new coach Isiah Thomas and four new starters joining Miller on Tuesday night, the Pacers lost 98-85 to the San Antonio Spurs.

Although Miller had 27 points and eight rebounds, he missed the help of Jalen Rose, the team's top scorer last season. Rose broke his wrist in the preseason and will be out at least another month.

Thomas, a Hall of Fame player with the Detroit Pistons who took over for Larry Bird, tried to guide the Pacers to victory despite the absence of three other starters from a team that made

DOG

Animal Control Director Sandy Burns said it appeared from its injuries the little dog died "instantly." Rowsey said she did not see any injuries on the small dog but acknowledged it "was dead.

Rowsey was cited for allowing an animal to run loose, no vaccination, not wearing tags and for being a nuisance, chasing and molesting, animal control officials said.

Rowsey said their dog escaped "apparently sometime during the night" from their back yard at 853 E. Kingsmill. She said the dog — Grizz — is a Labrador retriever mixed breed, and not part Great Dane as was reported by Burns.

Rowsey said she smelled "skunk" during the night — something she thinks may have prompted a chained Grizz to break his collar and escape from the yard that is enclosed by a six-foot-high chain link fence.

"I'm not trying to minimize this," Rowsey said. "I feel terribly bad about it ... [but] it was a pretty big article. We don't allow our dog to run loose. He was chained in the yard and was behind a six-foot-high chain link fence."

She said the 8-year-old Grizz has "never been in trouble" except for one time when the canine was young and he killed a "stray cat ... he hates cats.

"I think the reason he killed the little dog was because it looked like a cat ... a lot of dogs hate cats," Rowsey said.

Rowsey and her son, Nick Newman, who is visiting from Georgia, both took issue with the Drigger's daughter's published comments that she fears for the safety of her 3-year-old son who her parents babysit and who plays outdoors.

Newman said it is "kind of a leap" for Mary Ann

Driggers to go from Grizz's attack on the cat and poodle to thinking the dog could attack her son.

"Grizz is very gentle with people," Rowsey said. "He plays with children. We've never had a problem except for the cat when he was young. He will try to get out and run around ... that's why we have the fence and have him chained."

Rowsey also took issue with Burns' statement saying there had been complaint calls regarding the dog's barking. Rowsey said no one ever told her there were such complaints saying, "[...the complaints] might have been about a dog we used to have.

"We know Eric and Naomi and we went over to say we're sorry but he (Eric Driggers) was so hys-terical we couldn't [apologize]," Rowsey said. "If we could have done something to stop it we would we did not even know Grizz was out ... but the article made it sound like [Grizz] had been a problem."

Rowsey said the fact the incident was reported in the newspaper "made the whole incident worse for me ... It made us look bad ... my name was in there

She also was critical of The Pampa News because it did not send a reporter to her door the morning the story was written in order to get her side of the comments. Lacking that, she said she should have been sent a letter.

A reporter did try to get a telephone number for the Rowseys that morning which was noted in the article but none could be found in the telephone directory and city directory. Rowsey said later she does not have a phone.

"It's not to say that people can't love their pets," Newman said while wondering aloud why it is that sometimes incidents involving animals draw more attention and get more news coverage than does the death of a person.

STATUE

Class members commissioned Don Ray of Channing, one of the country's foremost Western sculptors, to design the statue based on a photograph of a harvest crew displayed at the White for $200 and includes a lycra reproduction of the Deer Land Museum, Gantz said. The $60,000 statue is presently being created at a foundry in Oklahoma City, he said.

"We have committed to pay-as-you-go," Gantz explained. He said although funding for the project was offered, the class agreed to pay for the project as money was raised.

Approximately $8,000-to-$10,000 has been donated for the granite stones, Dunham told the school board.

Gantz said the stones, all one-foot by one-foot program," he said.

"One stone may have three families on it," he explained. A a 4-inch-by-12-inch spot with two engraved lines on it goes for $50. In addition, the Class of '56 has copyrighted a specially-designed logo for the project. All proceeds from the sale of hats, shirts and other objects with the logo will go to finish paying for the project, Gantz said.

Church to host 31st annual big bazaar and garage sale

Christian Women's Fellowship of First $4.50. Christian Church of Pampa (Disciples of Christ), 1633 N. Nelson, is sponsoring its 31st annual bazaar and garage sale Saturday, Nov. 4.

Beginning the days events, church members, will start serving it's traditional breakfast of homemade cinnamon rolls and hot coffee at 8 a.m. for a $1 donation.

Among the bazaar's many features will be a Country Kitchen stocked with homemade jellies, jams, breads and baked goods. The Arts and Crafts booth displays artwork and crafts created by church members. Handmade wooden items are the hallmark of the Men's Booth. And as always, the church-sponsored Boy Scout Troop sells sacks of pecans.

A giant garage sale will be taking place at the same time as the bazaar in the Family Life Center, next door to the church.

First Christian's annual bazaar is a wholechurch project first started in 1969 by the CWF to help pay off the building debt for it's new building at 1633 N. Nelson. At that time, 10 percent of the profits were sent to missions. When the building was paid off, CWF members agreed to divide the profits, 50 percent to building maintenance and upkeep and 50 percent to local and foreign outreach.

In the past, the bazaar has funded donations to Disciples of Christ's Basic Mission Finance, a mission in Aguas Caliente, Mexico; Inman Christian Center in San Antonio, as well as local support to such programs as Tralee Crisis Center, Community Day Care Center, Samaritan Counseling, Good Samaritan Christian Services, Pregnancy Support Center.
