Curiosity kept boy using internet account
 HOUSTON (AP) — The teen-age target of an alleged Internet seductress testified curiosity spurred him to continue using the woman's online account after she was arrested on a charge of sexually assaulting him.
 The now 15-year-old boy testified he used Tara Hulin's Internet account to read her e-mail and surf the Web for about two months after she was arrested in July for allegedly flying to Houston to have sex with him, the Houston Chronicle reported in Saturday's editions.
 The boy testified during a pretrial hearing Friday to determine if the electronic correspondence will be permitted in Hulin's upcoming trial later this month.
 State District Judge Jan Krockner in October ordered prosecutors to turn over copies of any Internet communications the boy made using Hulin's account.

Heavy turnout predicted Tuesday

By NANCY YOUNG
 Managing Editor

If the numbers of people voting early are any indication, there should be a heavy turnout of voters for Tuesday's general election.
 Gray County Clerk Susan Winborne said the early voting, which began Oct. 23 and ended Friday has been very heavy. As of 5 p.m. Thursday, 2,899 Gray County voters had exercised their right to vote early. Winborne said Friday afternoon, "Voting has been extremely heavy all day," she said.

Winborne believes the presidential election is the main reason for the extremely high voter turnout.
 Lipscomb County reported Friday afternoon over 246 voters out of 2,000 registered voters in that county have cast ballots in early voting.
 Wheeler County has had a record number of voters voting in early voting. A spokesperson in the office said, "well over 600" have cast early ballots. She said the previous record was 501 during early voting.
 Approximately 200 have cast early ballots and mailed in ballots in the General Election.

Hemphill County also reported heavy numbers in early voting. She said over 500 voters have cast ballots during the early voting, and the voting was heavy again Friday.
 Carson County has also had a very heavy turnout. A spokesperson said 449 voted in person and 75 had voted by mail through 5 p.m. Thursday.
 The presidential election tops the ballot as Texas' Governor George W. Bush is the Republican nominee and Vice President Al Gore is the Democratic nominee.
 Generating local interest is the 31st District Attorney race. Voters in five counties — Gray, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Roberts and Wheeler — will decide who the new 31st District Attorney will be. Richard J. (Rick) Roach, Republican, and Charles Kessie, Democrat, are both vying for the position.

 Incumbent John Mann was defeated by Roach following a special election held June 27. The race was the third in a bitter campaign involving Roach and Mann in the 2000 Election process. Mann defeated Roach in the 1996 General Election when Mann ran as a Democrat.
 Mann, Roach and Shamrock attorney Phil Pendleton met in the March 14 primary. Mann lead the voting with 2,408 (See TURNOUT, Page 5)

Pampa minister's Mid-East travels full of juxtapositions

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
 Staff Writer

A Pampa's recent trip to the Mid-East revealed a jarring juxtaposition between war and peace, Jew and Muslim, ultra-modern and ancient.
 On Oct. 2, Robin Gantz, an ordained Presbyterian minister, joined a tour group from Roswell Presbyterian Church near Atlanta, Ga., for a long-awaited trip to the Holy Land. Gantz had served as pastor of the church before moving to Pampa about five years ago. The congregation gave Gantz the money for a trip to Israel as a going-away gift. Unforeseen circumstances had kept her from taking the trip until a month ago, she said.

 "This year I decided it was my time to go," Gantz said.
 "I believed I was going to go see the historical context of how people of faith live together," she explained.
 Instead, Gantz saw armed soldiers, barbed wire, and tanks. She experienced the tensions that pervade a land where conflict has reigned for almost three thousand years.

Gantz took this photograph of a line of armored tanks blocking the tour group's entry into Egypt from Israel.

DBA gets in mood for holiday season Christmas lights going up

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas ... Well, almost.
 Once again, Pampa Downtown Business Association is decorating downtown with tree lights. This year the decorations will reach Highway 60 with the help of the City of Pampa.
 "Electricity will be put at the end of Cuyler, near Holmes Gift Shoppe so that we can add lights to the trees. Each year we have added a block or two. Next year, we hope to begin on the side streets," commented ReDonn Woods, DBA president.
 Each year the DBA spends approximately $65 per tree. The money provides new lights, added electricity, labor to put up and take down the lights as well as maintenance through the holiday season.
 "Last year several businesses and individuals made donations. We hope everyone will remember us this year as well," said Woods. This year the DBA has joined with the Pampa band to sell raffle tickets. Ten separate items will be given away Nov. 30 after the parade. Cost of the tickets is $2, with $1 to be donated to the band and $1 to the lighting fund.
 Prizes range in value from $25 to $200. To purchase a ticket or to make a donation, contact Woods at 669-2525 or Ronnie Holmes at 665-2631.

PHS wants more students to enroll in honors courses

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
 Staff Writer

Pampa High School (PHS) guidance counselors are concentrating their efforts on encouraging economically disadvantaged students to take honors classes, members of Pampa Independent School District's Board of Education learned recently.
 Karla Howell, PHS counselor, told the school board that she and her fellow counselors are acting on the recommendation of the consultants who came to PHS last year to evaluate the block class scheduling system.
 "After their evaluation, they met with our vertical team and gave their recommendations," Howell told the board. "They said we are 30-to-40 students away from 'exemplary' (Texas Education Agency rating)."
 "They said we need to target

Counselors met with 21 students and their parents to encourage them to sign up for pre-Advanced courses. Of those, only four actually enrolled, however.

the economically disadvantaged, especially the freshmen," Howell said. "They said we need to accelerate rather than remediate."
 A study of the grades and TAAS scores showed 19 students who were appropriate for pre-AP (Advanced Placement) classes, Howell said. "Not one was in an honors class," she added.

City split over living wage plan

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — It's little surprise that this seaside tourist resort, long a bastion for activist politics, will vote Tuesday on a living-wage initiative for lower-income workers.

What's odd is that the initiative is backed by business interests, creating a seemingly upside-down campaign in which labor and community groups oppose what otherwise would be a liberal crusade.

"People are totally confused. They think they're going to vote for a living wage that's actually the strategy of the hotels," said Sandie Richards, a minister and member of a grassroots group that has lobbied the City Council for a separate living-wage law. "It's big business trying to buy our town."

Last year, a coalition of clergy, labor activists and residents approached the council with a landmark idea. They wanted a minimum wage of $10.69 an hour for all employees of businesses along a two-mile strip of the city's tony waterfront.

Labor activists have been successful in recent years convincing city and county governments nationwide to pass living-wage laws applying to government contractors. The activists' approach in Santa Monica would be the first time such a law would apply to private businesses.

Hotel and restaurant operators responded with Proposition KK, which would raise the wages of between 62 and 200 employees of city contractors to $8.32 an hour.

However, the measure would also block the City Council from enacting the broader wage hike sought by activists without a public vote.

That so-called "coastal zone wage" would affect about 2,500 hotel maids, food servers and other workers who earn an average of $7 to $7.50 an hour.

If the $10.69-an-hour minimum wage were passed, businesses would be forced to cut jobs, entry-level positions would be lost, and costs would rise, business owners say.

"It's highly discriminatory to impose a tax on a group of businesses just to benefit a certain group of people," said Sig Ortloss, general manager of the Le Merigot Hotel.

Heading into Tuesday's election, both sides are locked in a heated campaign. Businesses have spent $900,000 on mailings, while opponents have spent about $200,000 and are going door-to-door in an aggressive attempt to defeat Proposition KK.

"This would be the new pre-emptive strike businesses would use to eliminate real living wage ordinances. If it passes here, we know this will be used everywhere," said Madeline Janis-Aparicio, director of the Los Angeles Alliance for a New Economy, a union-backed group that helped pass a living wage law in Los Angeles.

With 2.4 million visitors bringing more than $500 million to Santa Monica's economy, businesses should share the wealth, supporters of the higher wage argue.

A city-commissioned study found that certain businesses in the coastal area can absorb the wage hike to $10.69 an hour, which would lift some hotel and restaurant workers to or above poverty level.

The dispute comes at a time when tension is running high between hotels and workers agitating for unions.

Police report

The Pampa Police made the following calls and arrests during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Saturday.

Friday, Nov. 3
 Burglary of a motor vehicle was reported in the 1400 block of Charles. A cassette stereo and face plate as well as a camera were taken. The goods were valued at $950.

Theft under $50 was reported at Allsup's in the 300 block of North Hobart where gasoline valued at $24.42 was taken.

Thomas L. James, 27, 1144 Prairie, was arrested for the Potter County Sheriff's Department.

Saturday, Nov. 4
 Angela Burnley, 42, 1105 Neel, was arrested on warrants for failure to maintain financial responsibility, failure to appear and bail jumping. A backpack contain fireworks and four pocket knives was found in Central Park.

Some great truths to remember

I thought this was pretty funny and since I've been gumpy this past week it came at a good time for me. I certainly see many truths and imagine you will, too. Enjoy

Great truths about life that small children have learned

1. No matter how hard you try, you can't baptize cats.
2. When your Mom is mad at your Dad, don't let her brush your hair.
3. If your sister hits you, don't hit her back. They always catch the second person.
4. Never ask your 3-year old brother to hold a tomato.
5. You can't trust dogs to watch your food.
6. Reading what people write on desks can teach you a lot.
7. Don't sneeze when someone is cutting your hair.
8. Puppies still have bad breath, even after eating a tic-tac.
9. Never hold a Dust-Buster and a cat at the same time.
10. School lunches stick to the wall.
11. You can't hide a piece of broccoli in a glass of milk.
12. The best place to be when you're sad is Grandpa's lap.

Great truths about life that adults have learned

1. Raising teenagers is like nailing Jell-O to a tree.
2. There is always a lot to be thankful for, if you take the time to look. For example, I'm sitting here thinking how nice it is that wrinkles don't hurt.
3. One reason to smile is that every seven minutes of every day, someone in an aerobics class pulls a hamstring.

Kate B. Dickson
 associate publisher/editor

4. Car sickness is the feeling you get when the monthly payment is due.
5. The best way to keep kids at home is to make a pleasant atmosphere; and let the air out of their tires.
6. Families are like fudge . . . mostly sweet, with a few nuts.
7. Today's mighty oak is just yesterday's nut that held its ground.
8. Laughing helps. It's like jogging on the inside.
9. Middle age is when you choose your cereal for the fiber, not the toy.
10. My mind not only wanders; sometimes it leaves completely.
11. If you can remain calm, you just don't have all the facts.

Great truths about growing old

1. Growing old is mandatory; growing up is optional.
2. Insanity is my only means of relaxation.
3. Forget the health food. I need all the preservatives I can get.
4. You know you're getting old when you stoop to tie your shoes and wonder what else you can do while you're down there.
5. You're getting old when you get the same sensation from a rocking chair that you once got from a roller coaster.

6. Perhaps you know why women over fifty don't have babies: They would put them down somewhere and forget where they left them.
7. One of life's mysteries is how a two pound box of candy can make a person gain five pounds.
8. Every time I think about exercise, I lie down till the thought goes away.
9. God put me on earth to accomplish a certain number of things. Right now I am so far behind, I will live forever.
10. It's frustrating when you know all the answers, but nobody bothers to ask you the questions.
11. I finally got my head together, and my body fell apart.
12. There cannot be a crisis this week; my schedule is already full.
13. Time may be a great healer, but it's also a lousy beautician.
14. The older you get, the tougher it is to lose weight, because by then your body and your fat are really good friends.
15. Age doesn't always bring wisdom. Sometimes age comes alone.
16. Just when I was getting used to yesterday, along came today.
17. Sometimes I think I understand everything, then I regain consciousness.
18. Amazing! You just hang something in your closet for awhile, and it shrinks two sizes.
19. It is bad to suppress laughter; it goes back down and spreads to your hips.
20. Freedom of the press means no-iron clothes.
21. Inside some of us is a thin person struggling to get out, but they can usually be sedated with a few pieces of chocolate cake.

Opinion

Columbian unrest targets Americans

The War on Drugs could put the United States in the way of harm.

As if a terrorist attack against U.S. forces in Yemen and violent outbreaks in the Middle East weren't enough, trouble has also broken out in Ecuador.

Six American oil workers and several others were kidnapped recently, apparently by left-wing rebels, and taken to rebel-held territory in Columbia.

The significance is that the United States has been slowly immersing itself in the Colombian conflict under the guise of the War on Drugs. But it's hard to distinguish between joint U.S. and Colombian efforts to eradicate drugs and efforts by the Colombian military to eradicate the rebels who profit from them.

It's getting dangerous down there. Which is why, according to published reports, European countries have reneged on promises to spend billions fighting the drug war in Colombia after respected aid groups did not want to get entangled in the anti-drug money.

"With the prospect of an infusion of American money, helicopters and military advisers joining the fray, peace talks have stalled, the fighting has intensified and civilian noncombatants are being murdered, kidnapped and terrorized by all sides," wrote the San Francisco Chronicle in a recent editorial.

The kidnappings in Ecuador simply point to the volatility and danger of the situation. As we see in the Middle East, when Americans are harmed, U.S. politicians call for stepped-up military actions. That always has the potential for immersing the United States deeply into a shooting war.

Same can happen in South America. It would be nice to be rid of drug trafficking and the profits that bolster the totalitarian-minded rebels. But the United States cannot fix every problem, right every wrong and send its advisers into every situation.

It's time to rethink U.S. involvement in Columbia before violent incidents involving Americans become more commonplace.

Feminists zero in on 'splash factor'

Quite frankly the behavior of some women has gotten out of hand, and it's because we men have become cowards and wimps. The more men take of double-standards, ridiculous demands and just plain nonsense, the more these women are going to give.

You say, "What do you have against the fairer sex, Williams?" I say nothing. While some of my best friends are women, I'm getting tired of all the sex-based nonsense. Let's look at it.

On "Today" show last November, Katie Couric suddenly deviated from her perkiest and asked a jilted bride, in reference to the groom who jilted her, "Have you considered castration as an option?" There was no storm of protest, and perky Katie remains on NBC's payroll. Fred Hayward, a men's rights organizer, told U.S. News & World Report writer, John Leo, "Imagine the reaction if Matt Lauer had asked a jilted groom, 'Wouldn't you just like to rip her uterus out?'" Matt Lauer would have been handed his walking papers.

Leo reports that up until recently the 3M company put out post-it notes with the printed message: "Men have only two faults: everything they say and everything they do." Hallmark went further with a greeting card that said, "Men are scum . . . Excuse me. For a second there I was feeling generous." Then there was the American Greeting Cards ad that says on the front: "Men are always whining about how we are suffocating them," with the inside punch line, "Personally, I think if you can hear them whining, you're not pressing hard enough on the pillow." What do you think would happen if a company had an ad that joked about killing women?

Walter Williams

Young boys aren't spared from the feminist attack. At a Boston area elementary school, nobody objected when girls wore shirts emblazoned with "Girls Rule" or when they taunted boys with a chant that goes, "Boys go to Jupiter to get more stupider; girls go to college to get more knowledge." But when boys donned shirts emblazoned with "Boys Are Good," there was protest. One of the teachers protesting sported a button saying, "So many men, so little intelligence."

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Nov. 5, the 310th day of 2000. There are 56 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Nov. 5, 1605, the "Gunpowder Plot" failed as Guy Fawkes was seized before he could blow up the English Parliament.

On this date:

In 1872, suffragist Susan B. Anthony was fined $100 for attempting to vote for President Grant. (She never paid the fine.)

In 1911, Calbraith P. Rodgers arrived in Pasadena, Calif., completing the first transcontinental airplane trip in 49 days.

In 1912, Woodrow Wilson was elected president, defeating Progressive Republican Theodore Roosevelt and incumbent Republican William Howard Taft.

In 1940, President Franklin Roosevelt won an unprecedented third term in office as he defeated Republican challenger Wendell L. Willkie.

In 1946, Republicans captured control of both the Senate and the House in midterm elections.

In 1956, Britain and France started landing forces in Egypt during fighting in Pasadena, Calif., completing the first forces around the Suez Canal. (A ceasefire was declared two days later.)

In 1968, Richard M. Nixon won the presidency, defeating Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and third-party candidate George C. Wallace.

In 1974, Ella T. Grasso was elected governor of Connecticut, the first woman to win a gubernatorial office without succeeding her husband.

In 1989, death claimed pianist Vladimir Horowitz in New York at age 85 and singer-songwriter Barry Sadler in Murfreesboro, Tenn., at age 49.

In 1994, former President Reagan disclosed he had Alzheimer's disease.

Ten years ago: Rabbi Meir Kahane, the Brooklyn-born Israeli extremist who campaigned to drive Arabs from Israel, was shot to death after a speech at a New York hotel. (Egyptian native El Sayyed Nosair was acquitted of murder and convicted of weapons charges in state court; he was later convicted in connection with the slaying in federal court.)

Five years ago: An endless procession of Israelis filed past the simple wooden coffin of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, who'd been assassinated the night before.

One year ago: U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson declared Microsoft Corp. a monopoly, saying the software giant's aggressive actions were "stifling innovation" and hurting consumers. Pope John Paul II began his first visit to India in 13 years.

Traditional American society under fire

Traditional American society is being systematically deconstructed. The question is, do traditional Americans have the grit to defend it?

The traditional family has been under fire for some decades by feminists and homosexual activists, not to mention the government, which penalizes families with its tax code. Now the traditional family is being battered by the entertainment industry and public education. Yes, public education will undermine the religious faith of your children, not to mention making it clear to children that they should not pay too much attention to their superstitious and out-of-date parents.

Families in the prime of their lives are forced not only to pay for their own children's education and health care but are also taxed to provide education and health care for the poor and health care for the elderly.

How do you suppose, for example, that Al Gore plans to finance his $240 billion prescription plan? It will come directly out of the paychecks of young and middle-age working men and women.

Now the attacks have been extended to the children. American children are bombarded with inducements to early and promiscuous sex by the entertainment and clothing industries and even some sex-education courses. They are bombarded with advertisements designed to make them

Charley Reese

mindless consumers of over-priced junk.

Now that the homosexual lobby feels that it has won its battle, there is apparently a move underfoot to sell the public on the idea that pedophilia — sex with children — is OK, too. In a pig's eye it is, but pseudoscientific articles that support that notion are already appearing in academic journals devoted to homosexuality.

Another component of traditional America — its history — is being rewritten to conform to current prejudices and myths that accompany the egalitarian philosophy. The Clinton administration recently instructed the National Park Service that the lectures and presentations at Civil War battle sites are to emphasize that the war was about slavery. Legitimate historians know that is not the truth. But history as propaganda is the order of the day.

If Americans wish to preserve a country that they will recognize, then the first step is to recognize the enemy. Public education is the enemy. The entertainment industry is the enemy. The corporate culture is the enemy. The advertising industry is the enemy. And most of the politicians in both parties are the enemy. An enemy is defined as anybody or any organization that is attacking the traditional beliefs of Americans.

Withdraw your support. Take your kids out of public education — it's beyond reform. Let it collapse for want of public support. Get real tough on the kind of entertainment you allow into your home. Trash TV and movies are not produced by inanimate forces. They are produced and distributed because particular human beings make particular decisions. These people are slimeballs, and it's time to call them what they are.

Charlton Heston stopped Time Warner from distributing a cop killer CD by some trashy rapper by standing up at a Time Warner stockholders meeting and reading the obscene lyrics, thus exposing the shabby morals of the corporate leaders who clearly were willing to sell anything, no matter how vulgar or vicious, if there was a buck to be made.

Americans who want to preserve their traditions will have to emulate Heston's courage. And it did take courage. Silence in the presence of an attack is consent. So speak up. Take action. As Stonewall Jackson said, "Fear God and no one else."

votes while Roach had 1,769 and Pendleton, 907. In a runoff between Roach and Mann on April 11, Roach lead Mann by six votes, 1,263 to 1,257. Roach said immediately following the runoff election he would ask for a recount, but instead filed a suit seeking a new election alleging voting irregularities. In a Roberts County District courtroom in Miami in May, Mann won a new election as the judge ruled in his favor. In the special election on June 27 Roach defeated Mann, 1,915 to 1,632, to win the Republican nomination and face Kessie in the General Election. United States Representative, District 13 Mac Thornberry, Republican, is being challenged by Democrat Curtis Clinesmith and Libertarian Brad Clardy. State Representative, District 88 Warren Chisum, a Republican, is unopposed in his bid for reelection. He is from Pampa. Several local public office holders are seeking reelection to office, but are not contested on the ballot. They are County Attorney Todd L. Alvey, Sheriff Don Copeland, County Tax Assessor-Collector Sammie Morris, County Commissioners, Precinct No. 1 and Precinct No. 3 Joe Wheeley and Gerald Wright, and Constables Precinct 1 & 3

James H. Lewis, Precinct No. 2 Chris Lockridge, Precinct No. 4 Frank W. Sparling. All are Republicans. Several statewide positions are contested with little campaigning being done in these races. Railroad Commission positions, justices on the Supreme Court, and Judges on the Court of Criminal Appeals are all to be decided by the voters. Area counties will also decide some important local races. Incumbent 100th District Attorney Randall Sims is being challenged by Republican Stuart Messer. Counties in that judicial district are Carson, Donley, Hall, Childress and Collingsworth. Wheeler County has several contested local races. Incumbent County Attorney Bobby C. Hill is being challenged by John E. Morrison. Precinct No. 3 County Commissioner Hubert Moore is being challenged by Mark Cadra and incumbent Precinct No. 2 Constable Jerry Bob Jernigan is being challenged by Bill Turnbow. All incumbents in contested races are on the Democrat ticket. On Tuesday, Nov. 7, General Election Day polls will open at all polling locations at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Winborne said no election results will be released until after the polls close at 7 p.m. Polling locations in Gray County are listed in today's edition on page 18 of The Pampa News.

Counselors met with 21 students and their parents to encourage them to sign up for Pre-Advanced Placement courses. Of those, only four actually enrolled, however. "We asked them why and they said their reluctance was because they were entering high school for the first time and they were afraid of failing and then they would have to make up credits," Howell said. Of the 23 sophomores also targeted, 14 enrolled in pre-AP, she said. Presently 20 freshmen and 62 sophomores are taking one or more honor courses. Counselors were surprised to find 17 juniors with no pre-AP background chose to take one or two Advanced Placement classes this year and six of these are economically disadvantaged. "I guess the others were listening to us as well," Howell commented. This year seniors are taking more strenuous course loads, she said. PHS had 114 or 43 percent of Distinguished Achievement Program (DAP) and Recommended graduates in 2000 and are expected to have 156 or 59 percent in the 2001 graduating class. Officials said the State of Texas goal for DAP students per school is 30 percent or higher, but only 15 percent of schools in Texas met this goal in 2000.

"We have 57 kids in pre-AP or AP taking 80 classes. At the end of the first grading period we have six A's, 43 B's, 28 C's, two D's and one F," Howell said. The highest ACT score for this year is 31 and 15 students have scored 26 or better, she reported. The highest SAT score is 1400 with 10 students scoring 1100 or higher on the college placement exam, she added. Foreign language classes have increased this year, she said. Biology AP classes have doubled from last year with 58 students. Chemistry held steady with eight sections, the same as last year. However, last year the course increased by two sections. Principal John Kendall reported that 131 of the 1,111 students enrolled at PHS qualified for the "A" honor roll and 389 were named to the "A-B" honor roll after the first nine week grading period ending Oct. 12. However, he said 140 students were reported as failing one or more classes during the first nine weeks. The total number of failed classes also includes 24 with incomplete grades, he explained. Kendall said they have identified eight drop outs. "That's more than we expected," he said, adding that two students were migrant workers who moved, and two were runaways. Officials said high school student enrollment increased by nine students during a recent week.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge threw out O.J. Simpson's breach of contract lawsuit against attorney Robert Kardashian, ruling that Simpson failed to prove his former friend and lawyer violated their attorney-client privilege. The case involves a CBS miniseries examining the defense strategies of the so-called "dream team" of lawyers that successfully defended Simpson against charges of killing his ex-wife and her friend in 1994. "We're very disappointed by the judge's decision," said Simpson attorney Adam Belsky. "We think it was wrong, both legally and factually." He said an appeal of the ruling, issued Friday, was being considered.

First Amendment rights." Simpson was acquitted in criminal court of killing his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman, but was later held liable in civil court and ordered to pay $33.5 million in damages. LOS ANGELES (AP) — A French filmmaker who made a documentary critical of Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein said he has been threatened with death. Joel Soler, 32, said he awoke Thursday to find that someone had splattered red paint on the front of his Hollywood home, set fire to a trash can and left a note in his mailbox that read: "In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate, burn the Satanic movie or you will be dead." "I was, like, shaking all day," Soler said. "I'm taking it really seriously. I'm not gonna sleep anymore in my house. I'm gonna leave now for a few weeks or a few months. Go into hiding." Police are investigating. Soler, a free-lance journalist, said he used tape smuggled out of Iraq to create "Uncle Saddam." The documentary is an unflattering portrait of the Iraqi president's personal life, including interviews with some of his inner circle. SEVIERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Lee Greenwood, best known for his patriotic theme "God Bless the USA," is leaving his music theater for other projects. Greenwood's manager Jerry Bentley said the singer will have fulfilled his five-year contract Dec. 31.

November Disability Arts Month in Texas

AUSTIN — The Texas Commission on the Arts (TCA), the state agency responsible for promoting art and cultural tourism across the state, has announced November has been proclaimed Disability Arts Month in Texas. Sen. Mike Moncrief of Fort Worth authored the proclamation promoting accessibility to the arts for all people, including those who are disabled.

"At the Texas Commission on the Arts, we live by a single motto — 'Art is for Everyone,'" said Brenda Tharp, administrator for Performing Arts and Accessibility for TCA. "Naming November Disability Arts Month for the state acts as a reminder for Texans that the Commission and many arts organizations statewide are constantly working to live out this philosophy through the promotion of accessibility to the arts for patrons, artists and performers alike."

Next month's designation as Disability Arts Month began in November 1999 when VSA Arts of Fort Worth-Tarrant County organized "Follow the Dream," a month-long celebration of accessible arts. Members of the Texas Association of Mayors' Committee on People with Disabilities attended the conference to focus on issues of general accessibility. Following the event, momentum built regarding accessibility to art, resulting in the Texas Senate proclaiming, in part:

"Of the more than 54 million American citizens with disabilities, 3.9 million are Texans. Many of these citizens are artistically talented and they produce thousands of works of art each year. The month of November has been chosen to celebrate the many artistic accomplishments of these citizens. During the month of November, artwork and events of the performing arts will be showcased in locations throughout the State in celebration of the many contributions people with disabilities make to the arts and to our culture."

"Art is a universal language that allows everyone the opportunity to creatively express the similarities, and differences that exist among us all," said Tharp.

Tharp added, "The Texas artistic community has come a long way in its efforts to make art more accessible to those who might not otherwise have the opportunity to experience our unique and thriving culture, but there is still a great deal to be done. We hope this proclamation will help spur more discussion, more ideas and more action to provide increased accessibility for everyone."

TCA wishes to recognize just a few of the hundreds of organizations that are making differences in the lives of those with artistic abilities:

—In Nacogdoches, a mayoral committee hosts a monthly "Arts on the Hill" event at Stephen F. Austin University where artists with disabilities are brought together to teach, demonstrate, motivate and inspire others.

—The Creative Wanderers group of El Paso has worked with Ysleta ISD to create arts classes for people with disabilities. The classes have been so successful that the program has extended into nursing homes and assisted-living centers.

—Illuminations, a performance art group based in Houston, has held multiple "shadow" performances whereby both a voice actor and a signing actor are on stage together, allowing audience members to experience the production and gain a unique experience as each actor has his or her own performance style.

—The Sculpture Garden of the Ellen Noel Art Museum in Midland offers a "sound garden" so that visually impaired patrons may listen to an audio guide that describes the plants and sculptures, and allows them to touch each item to enhance the experience.

Sybil Harrington endows UT fellowship program

AUSTIN — A $30 million endowment made possible by a gift from the estate of Sybil B. Harrington of Amarillo will be used to create an international fellowship program to enhance the competitiveness of the University of Texas at Austin in attracting talented faculty and graduate students, according to university officials.

The Donald D. Harrington Fellows Program will provide

"This magnificent gift will have a major impact on the University's ability to attract the world's best faculty and graduate students," said UT Austin President Larry R. Faulkner.

members and 16 graduate students each year. Candidates will be selected on the basis of their leadership qualities, originality and creativity of their work and their contributions to the global community. Fellows will be recruited from universities throughout the U.S. and around the world.

"This magnificent gift will have a major impact on the University's ability to attract the world's best faculty and graduate students," said UT Austin President Larry R. Faulkner. "All of us will benefit from the knowledge and accomplishments these talented individuals bring with them. We are grateful to Mrs. Sybil Harrington for her vision and foresight in establishing this international research program in Texas."

The program is named for Donald D. Harrington, who began his career as a landman during the oil boom of the 1920s and built one of the most successful independent oil and gas operations in Texas history.

Born in 1899, at Edinburg, Ill., Harrington served in the Army Air Corps during World War I. He moved west, eventually settling in the Texas Panhandle where he established highly successful partnerships with Texas oilmen Stanley Marsh Jr. and T.J. Wagner. He married Sybil Buckingham, the granddaughter of Amarillo's founding families, in 1935.

The couple enjoyed an international lifestyle, collecting valuable antiques and art on their travels. They also used their considerable wealth to support numerous philanthropic causes, particularly in the panhandle. They formed the Don and Sybil Harrington Foundation in 1951 to support organizations that have included the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, a medical center, scholarships at regional schools and universities, a Boy Scouts camp and an award-winning string quartet. The foundation also has funded research at the Deafness Research Foundation in New York and the Harrington Arthritis Research Center in Phoenix, Ariz.

After Donald Harrington's death in 1974, Sybil Harrington became president of the foundation and expanded its scope. Indulging in her love of music, especially grand opera, she became one of the New York Metropolitan Opera's most generous benefactors, personally underwriting 15 new productions, two gala concerts and 13 "Metropolitan Presents" telecasts. She incorporated the Harrington Foundation into the Amarillo Area Foundation before her death in 1998.

"Sybil Harrington set a new standard of philanthropy at The University of Texas," said Johnnie D. Ray, vice president for resource development at UT Austin. "In establishing this endowment as a permanent tribute to her husband, she single-handedly raised the profile of the University in the international academic community."

MID-EAST

Just before the tour group left, a shaky peace agreement between Israel and Palestine orchestrated by President Bill Clinton began to fall apart. A leader of a militant Jewish sect, Ariel Sharon, went against strict Jewish beliefs and walked upon the Muslim-controlled holy site Al Aqba — "the Temple Mount" — in Jerusalem, knowing the act would incite violence.

On the airplane ride to the Middle East, the Pampa pastor read a newspaper report about a child and his father being killed in the crossfire. She had a long and thoughtful conversation with her seat mate, a non-practicing Jew from California, who felt the Mid-East conflict was "barbaric."

The son of a Jewish rabbi from Jerusalem, the man told Gantz he had turned away from Judaism because he couldn't believe, as his father did, that God wanted his chosen people to fight, kill others, and die for Israel.

Gantz's tour group visited Nablus and saw Joseph's tomb, guarded by Israelis. Tension became so great the guards left the tomb. Soon after, she saw photographs of Palestinians looting the tomb, pulling out the contents and burning them.

"It is such a painful thing to see people doing that to each other," she said.

Megiddo, a military stronghold and administrative center for centuries, made a distinct impression, she said.

"Archaeologists have found 27 or 29 layers where the city has been overrun and then replaced with a new city," she said.

"All this began to redirect my thinking from the Holy Land as a place where Jesus walked, and taught, and healed," Gantz mused. "I realized what I'm hearing is war — people fighting each other."

"I'm hit with this clash," she said. "I expected to see others living as brothers and sisters, willing to accept a stranger. And I realize this has not happened and it's still not happening."

Gantz said these revelations rocked her beliefs. "I have based my whole ministry on grace, the healing power of Christ's forgiveness. I never focused that much on our sins."

An elderly seminary professor's description of the human race kept coming back to her — "frail and feeble and prone to sin."

Both sides (Israelis and Palestinians) have extremist factions who will fight to the death," said Gantz. She told about an article in the Jerusalem Post inviting Palestinian boys to a two-week course on guerrilla warfare.

"People don't understand that the children are being trained to go out there and throw rocks and start these riots," she said. "The children go out and throw rocks and yell, and the soldiers are standing behind them with their weapons."

"But most people I've talked to want to have a life — Jewish and Muslim," she added.

In fact, one of the group's tour guides was Muslim and the other was Jewish. Gantz watched as the two men worked together, despite their different beliefs.

She believes the two men, Sharif (she never learned his last name) and Yehuda Guy, worked together to help guide the group through dangerous situations several times.

But Gantz said it wasn't until she went to the Wailing Wall, at the base of the Temple Mount in Jerusalem, that she began to absorb the conflict around her.

A rabbi friend from Atlanta had given her a Jewish prayer to recite at the Wailing Wall, where thousands of Jews go daily to pray. The site is considered by the Jews to be one of the most holy places in the world.

Gantz went to the wall on the eve of Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of Atonement.

"You would think it would be wall-to-wall Jews," she said. "There were very few Jews and very few tourists."

Because of the escalation of violence in the area, the U.S. Embassy had been closed and the Israeli government issued a warning to all Americans, telling them of the unsafe situation.

Yet, Gantz and her tour group decided to stay.

Now she stood at the wall, a Presbyterian minister with a Jewish prayer about God holding God's people in God's hand — a prayer for peace.

"I go to pray and it crashes in on me. It was killing me, praying it," Gantz said.

Here she stood praying for peace and all around her are "pods" of armed soldiers, standing in threes, back to back.

Overwhelmed, Gantz walked away from the soldiers to sit on a piece of a broken wall until she could get the strength to go back to her room.

The next day she declined to go around. They drove through the Sinai Desert at night, an experience Gantz says she will never forget.

"This surely had to be where God came," she said. "I never saw such an awesome mountain range — the steep, powerful rock. I had seen a lot, but nothing like this."

As they traveled through the desert night, they were startled by the flickering of televisions in Bedouin tents. The same people they had seen riding camels during the day, sat in tents and watched television at night.

When they entered Egypt, Gantz was struck with the ultra-modern air of Cairo, compared to the archaic atmosphere of Old Cairo and other small communities nearby where shepherds dressed in robes still herded goats and sheep down the streets.

"It was incredible to see such a time span of history," she said.

A scene from a walk through the Jewish quarter of Jerusalem summarizes the juxtapositions Gantz encountered in the Holy Land.

"It was so sweet. Hasidic Jews were walking, holding hands with their little children to buy food before Yom Kippur. We came upon a tiny playground and the children were playing and laughing and the birds were singing. I kept seeing children throwing water on the rock (pavement) and sweeping. I don't know if they do this everyday or if they were just doing it to get ready for the holiday. They were chattering and laughing. They would wave at you." Gantz smiled at the memory.

"And then you turned the corner and there were those soldiers. Such a counterpoint."

To: Republicans of the 31st District

From: Janet Parnell
Former Hemphill County Republican Party Chairman

Re: Race for 31st District Attorney

Friends, like you, I am a proud and active Republican. I believe in the American values we stand for and in the programs and candidates we offer in support of those values. However, this time I fear we are going to make a big mistake if we support our party's candidate for 31st District Attorney. I believe Rick Roach has neither the experience nor the proven commitment to community and family to equal that of the Democrat nominee, Charles Kessie. I know both of these men, and I am voting for Charles.

The Republicans of the Panhandle stand strong for patriotism, family, and morality. Charles Kessie is the embodiment of these virtues. His integrity is unquestioned. The new District Attorney will be our full-time lawyer. Please don't put the wrong man in that office for the next four years. That's too long to have to live with a mistake.

It's not a matter of Party this time — it's a matter of Character. The top of our ticket does not guarantee the quality of all the candidates on down the ballot. We Republicans have come a long way; we have come so far that we can even vote for a Democrat if we honestly believe he is the right man for the job. Let's do the right thing and go with the opposition candidate on this one. Vote with me for the "Right Man Running", CHARLES KESSIE.

Texas Cattle Feeders Association holds convention

AMARILLO — The Texas Cattle Feeders Association held its annual convention recently in Oklahoma City, Okla. The theme of the convention was "Partnering for Progress."

During the convention, new officers and directors were named for the coming year. Jim B. Waterfield of Canadian is chairman of the board; Paul F. Engler of Amarillo is chairman-elect; and Scott Keeling of Hereford is vice chairman.

Cattle feeders elected to one-year terms on the board of directors are David S. Delaney, Michael Engler and Jim Lowder, all of Amarillo; Doñ Oppliger of Farwell; James M. Peters of Quemado; and Jim B. Waterfield of Canadian.

Elected to two-year terms are Tommy Bell of Dalhart; Paul F. Engler and Byron N. Gossett, both of Amarillo; Rex McCloy of Morse; Dan McWhorter of Hereford; and John Rakestraw of Boulder, Colo.

Directors chosen to serve three-year terms are H.P. "Bo" Brown of Lubbock; Scott Keeling of Hereford; Perry Kirkland of Vega; Bill Kruse of Dalhart; Bill Robertson of Amarillo; and Wm. H. "Bill" Shaw of San Angelo. In addition, the two immediate past chairmen serve as members of the board. They are Paul H. Hitch of Guyton, Okla., and Jim Schwertner of Schwertner.

Keynote speakers at the convention included George Hall, president of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, and Dr. Brad Morgan, meats scientist at Oklahoma State University.

Hall's address focused on the partnership between NCBA and the Texas Cattle Feeders Association which, according to Hall, has yielded positive results.

Hall told cattle feeders that one of the biggest issues where sticking together has had a big impact has been the death tax. "For two years running, we've urged Congress to support complete repeal of the death tax — and won. But the President has vetoed the bill each time."

This year, death tax gained a lot of momentum and there was strong bipartisan support for repeal, he said. "Working together with you, we'll take up the fight again next year. With the progress we keep making, we hope to see relief soon."

The international marketplace is another area where strong partnerships are necessary, he said. "Only 4 percent of the world's 6 billion people live in the United States. And our population is growing at a slower rate than those of other countries," he reminded cattle feeders. "If we're going to be

And that, Morgan said, is causing the entire industry, from the retailer all the way to the ranch, to adapt to new and changing situations. "I compare this to when we went from car-

Hall said it's critical for cattle producers to have a presence in Washington. "And I think it's critical that we work together as partners to get things accomplished. We're proud to have TCFA as a partner in making it happen."

successful as an industry over the long term, we must open up the markets in other countries to our beef."

On the U.S. front, NCBA and TCFA have partnered to work on several important issues. "There are forces within EPA that are pushing to require more livestock producers to acquire permits. We're pushing and fighting back," he told cattle feeders.

EPA received heavy criticism from lawmakers and others in Washington, as well as from a broad coalition of citizens, for its handling of the Total Maximum Daily Load issue, Hall said. "So it's our hope that they'll lean this time toward common sense and science as they approach the (CAFO and AFO) rule."

On the consumer front, NCBA has made great gains by partnering with others. "On behalf of both consumers and the industry, we're working closely with USDA and the Department of Health and Human Services to assure dietary guidelines are scientifically developed and properly promoted," he said.

NCBA implemented a two-year strategy during the development of the Dietary Guidelines 2000 that were released last spring.

Hall said it's critical for cattle producers to have a presence in Washington. "And I think it's critical that we work together as partners to get things accomplished. We're proud to have TCFA as a partner in making it happen."

Dr. Morgan spoke on the consumer demand for case-ready beef. "We're going through a huge transitional change in the beef industry right now. Consumer demand for convenience is spurring a move toward branded, case-ready products—it's definitely the trend of the future."

cases to boxed beef. We're going through a similar transition right now from boxed beef down to case-ready beef."

The industry transition is causing packers and processors to scramble to find the right product to fill case-ready specifications. "Most of the carcasses going into case-ready systems are YG 1 and 2 Select or Low Choice," he explained, "and there are only so many of those produced."

And since it's likely that the demand for high yielding, high cutability carcasses will continue, producers will need to take a hard look at how they can produce cattle to fulfill those needs, he added. For example, he described a recent agreement between a packer and a retailer for case-ready products. "In order to fulfill those obligations, the number of YG 1 and YG 2 cattle will be about half their daily kill. That's more YG 1 and YG 2 Select or Low Choice than we ever dreamt of in our life."

While case-ready, branded beef is certainly the trend in the industry, Morgan said a certain segment of consumers still want to buy and cook their food instead of heat it in a microwave. But even there, changes are underway that will affect everyone in the beef chain.

"People are trying to figure out how to make beef foolproof but still keep it as a piece of beef. There's a tremendous amount of research and a lot of gearing up as we figure out how to enhance beef to make it foolproof," he concluded.

Les McNeill, chairman of the Cattlemen's Beef Board, updated convention-goers on the progress of the Beef Checkoff program.

"This year we are producing a record supply of beef and selling it at a higher price.

Consumers are expected to spend an all-time high of nearly $53 billion on beef this year, a $3.6 billion increase over 1999," McNeill reported.

The reasons that is happening are several, McNeill said, not the least of which are a healthy economy and the resulting increased consumer buying power. "But if those were the only reasons for a return to beef, then there'd be increased demand for other proteins as well — and that is not the case."

McNeill, a former TCFA president, admitted to a little bias because of his association with the beef checkoff, "but you and I are making a difference by investing our beef checkoff dollars in programs that address major demand drivers. Eighty six percent of our checkoff dollars are focused on the demand drivers of convenience and new product development, nutrition, food safety, palatability and eating quality, and exports."

One of the biggest checkoff success stories in recent years is the boost that cattlemen's dollars have given to new and convenient beef products. "As a result of our new product development efforts, more than a hundred new beef products are available on grocery store shelves or at your favorite restaurant. And a number of innovative products are on a fast track to convenience-oriented consumers right now."

That's been a recent and very welcome trend, he reminded cattle feeders.

However, he cautioned cattle feeders that the checkoff's work is far from done. "Our promotional efforts focused on convenience and health will continue. Efforts to develop new markets around the world, to improve the safety and wholesomeness of our product, to help our children — and their moms — understand the role of beef in a healthful diet will continue."

Just as the rise in beef demand has captured industry headlines recently, the effort to force a checkoff referendum has garnered plenty of attention, too, he said.

"It's the Beef Board's moral and legal responsibility to make sure that every producer who wants information about the checkoff can get it." He admitted that he'd prefer not to spend more checkoff dollars on producer communications over the next several years, "but there has been so much misinformation published and aired that we have no choice but to provide producers with the facts as directly as we can."

TCFA represents cattle feeders in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, an area that produces 30 percent of the nation's beef. For more information on TCFA or the checkoff program, contact the association at (806) 358-3681.

CONCERNED ABOUT YOUR DRINKING WATER?

There has been a lot of concern about Pampa's municipal water supply. In our opinion Pampa has done a good job in treating the water. Drinking water must meet very strict safety standards and in the event that they slightly exceed the maximum levels ... the water is still safe.

If you are concerned about improving your water then consider bottled water or an approved drinking water system, the Culligan Drinking Water System will remove most of the THM's* from the water and best of all makes it taste as delicious as our famous Culligan Bottled Water.

Pampans should hang together and be proud

To the editor;
Pampa positive ...
I moved to Pampa in September of 1998. I live at the Pam Apartments which is one of Pampa's assets.
Most of us who live in Pampa Apartments are elderly. We look out for each other. We have crafts here and quilting and games of different sorts, dancing on Thursday night for those who like to dance, Sunday school on Sunday morning at 9 a.m. How positive can we get?
There are good honest people in Pampa and good Christian people. The ones who run Pampa down should go some place else. Pampa has good churches, a good hospital and good doctors for a small town. We have good eating places. We have good grocery stores — we have Albertsons, Homeland, Frank's and United grocery.

My son worked for the first United grocery that opened in Mangum, Okla. The people who own United grocery are real good people.

Pampa has good pharmacies, good filling stations, a pretty park, a rodeo ground, a golf course, a number of good dentists, the Meredith House, the Hospice, Shepard's Crook Nursing Agency, two nursing homes, a newspaper, veteran's clinics. I think Pampa should be proud of all this — also good banks.

Those who run Pampa down should take a look at all this and realize what Pampa has and help to keep it and help one another when the need arises.

Yea! Pampa let's all hang together and make Pampa the best place to live.

Nell Derr
Pampa

Pampa has great emergency personnel!

To the editor,
On Sept. 1, Labor Day, my husband and I were enjoying what we thought would be a leisurely day. As he went out to pick up the morning paper, he bent over and felt a strange sensation as he raised up.

He felt something terrible was happening to him. He made his way into the house and asked me to call an ambulance. He thought he was having a heart attack.

I went quickly to call an ambulance. The response was, "where do you live, what does he look like?" So many questions that I thought were unnecessary, but as she told me to stay on the line, I could hear the ambulance coming. They wanted to know the medicine he was taking, etceteras ... I didn't know it, but she was relaying this information so they could be prepared to help him when he arrived at the hospital.

The ambulance crew came running in our home to help Ralph. The firemen were close behind. They immediately went to work and were all so professional. The firemen brought the defibrillator and everything was being done to help him. In a few minutes, they were prepared to go to the emergency room. I knew we were in serious trouble.

My neighbors took me to the hospital and my brother and his wife met us there. I was told I couldn't see Ralph, as they were busy working on him. In about 20 minutes, they came to ask me to sign some papers so he could be air-lifted by Life Star to Amarillo. The firemen and ambulance crew were still standing by.

When Life Star landed, I have never seen people move as quickly and work as well together as they all did. The emergency room doctor made several decisions that saved Ralph's life.

Ralph was in Amarillo in a short amount of time and a wonderful surgeon, Dr. Dillman, was waiting for him. He did exploratory surgery and found blood clots in his legs, lungs and head. The doctor called in four other specialists and today the clots are all gone. With God's help and all the doctors, Ralph is doing very well.

I want Pampa to know that we have the facilities to care for traumas and the people who are capable of responding.

The out-pouring of people here in Pampa has been unbelievable. People from several churches have expressed their prayers and concerns for us. If you need them, Pampans are there!

First Ag Credit stockholders approve four-way merger

LUBBOCK — The stockholders of First Ag Credit, FCS, Ag Credit of Texas PCA, Wichita Falls PCA, and El Campo PCA, overwhelmingly approved the merger of these agricultural financing institutions to form First Ag Credit, Farm Credit Services.

The four Farm Credit Associations (Land Bank and Production Credit) have been operating under common management for the past 18 months in pursuit of the merger and resulting benefits to association stockholders.

"The main focus of the merger is to continue to provide our borrowers with extremely competitive interest rates and high-quality services in strategic locations throughout Texas," said Terry Dane, CEO.

The new entity, to become effective Jan. 1, 2001, will provide all types of agricultural and agribusiness loans to over 8,000 borrowers totaling nearly $700 million in loan volume.

First Ag Credit, FCS have 42 offices in 113 counties in Texas providing borrowers with local and convenient service including farm and ranch real estate loans, agribusiness loans and operating, equipment and livestock loans. All current lending offices of the four associations will remain with each office being able to offer a full line of long-term and short-term credit services.

"The board of directors spent countless hours studying this merger and its current and future benefits," said Dane. "Agriculture continues to change and in recent years, has suffered tremendous economic downfalls."

"The boards agree that by combining these associations, First Ag Credit, FCS will continue to be positioned for the future of agricultural lending and the benefits to its stockholders," Dane concluded.

Amarillo artist Faye Killough to exhibit at Square House

PANHANDLE — The exhibit "Inspired Heritage" by Amarillo artist Faye Killough will be showcased throughout the month of November at the Carson County Square House Museum in Panhandle.

Killough's father, a self-taught artist, encouraged her to explore the world of art at an early age. After her children were grown and she and her husband moved to Fairbanks, Alaska, she began to work in ceramics. Upon returning to Amarillo, she enrolled in art classes and workshops led by professional artists and local art instructors.

Killough has participated in local and tri-state juried shows, receiving numerous ribbons and awards, and is currently vice president and program chairman of Lone Star Pastel Society (LSPS). She belongs to Amarillo Fine Arts Association and has also served as secretary and editor of the LSPS's newsletter and was president of the Tri-State Artists Association for two years.

A reception will be held for the artist from 2:30-4 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 12 in the Square House Gallery of the museum. For more information, call the museum at (806) 537-3524.

I am a Senior Citizen, been there & heard it all. I am so tired of politicians telling me and all Americans what they really want. I'll tell you what this American wants. I want prosperity but not at the price of killing babies, letting homosexuals force their life style on other people. Brain washing our children thru the schools and letting the president & his Supreme Court appointees rule according to their interpretations of the constitution, taking away our right to free speech and a million other things. No government can rule the people & have a free country. The only freedom I know is in the principles that God set forth where in man can walk right before God & inherit his blessings. When Christians humble themselves, pray & seek his face & turn from their own greedy selfish ways. Then God said "I will hear from heaven, forgive your sins & heal your land." Jesus is the answer. Pray and vote.

FOOTBALL

AMARILLO — Pampa defeated Tascosa Red 35-8 in 9th grade football action Thursday night.

The Pampa freshmen have an 8-1 record and are tied for first place in the district standings. Pampa can clinch the district title with a win over Hereford next Thursday.

Johnny Moore and Jesse Tarango led Pampa with two touchdowns apiece.

Moore scored on a 45-yard run and also caught a 50-yard touchdown pass from Andrew Curtis.

Tarango caught a 5-yard TD pass from Derek Lewis and scored on a 40-yard interception return.

Pampa's other TD came on a 10-yard run by Mac Smith.

Dannie Meza scored a safety for Pampa when he tackled the Tascosa quarterback in the end zone.

Quentin Ellis led the defense while Ryan Carter and Jerrod Carruth were impressive on the offensive line.

BASEBALL

CLEVELAND (AP) — Manny Ramirez wants to be the first $200 million man in sports. The free-agent outfielder has asked the Cleveland Indians for that amount as part of a 10-year contract that would make him the highest-paid player in baseball history.

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Chambliss, who failed to get managing jobs with Arizona and Los Angeles, was fired as batting coach of the New York Yankees.

BOSTON (AP) — The Red Sox have created a new job for former Jim Rice, who was fired as Boston's hitting coach last month.

The former Red Sox star hasn't decided whether to accept the position, in which he would work at the team's major league spring training camp, serve as a roving instructor in the player development system and be a community relations liaison.

HOCKEY

PHOENIX (AP) — Strong goaltending has been the key to the Phoenix Coyotes' great start.

Sean Burke had 30 saves, and the Coyotes got the scoring they needed from Trevor Letowski and Jeremy Roenick to rally twice for a 2-2 tie with the Dallas Stars on Friday night.

The tie extended Phoenix's unbeaten streak to 7-0-4, a string in which the Coyotes have been out-shot 10 times.

In this game, the Stars had a 32-17 edge in shots, including 14-4 in the first period when they got one of their two goals.

"We were giving up a lot of shots, but they came in spurts," Burke said. "I don't know if they were quality shots or not. I have to stop them all anyway."

Shaun Van Allen and Joe Nieuwendyk scored for the Stars.

The Coyotes almost got the win when Chris Joseph hit the crossbar in the final minute of overtime, but they were unable to score with a man advantage for the fourth straight game since power-play leader Joe Juneau injured his shoulder, going 0-for-3 in the game and 0-for-14 without him.

Harvesters blank Randall, keep playoff hopes alive

PAMPA — With a show of force on both sides of the ball, Pampa had no difficulty disposing of Randall 31-0 Friday night in Harvester Stadium.

With help from the defense, Pampa scored on its first three possessions for a 21-0 lead before the first quarter was over.

Armando Tarango scored two of the three first-quarter touchdowns on a 9-yard reverse and a 45-yard pass from quarterback J.J. Roark.

Terrance Lemons had scored Pampa's first TD on a 7-yard run. Pampa's defense forced seven turnovers and limited the visiting Raiders to 82 total yards. Tristan Perry had a fumble recovery and a pass interception while Ryan Nash had a pair of pass interceptions. Andy Schroeder and Tanner Dyer had fumble recoveries. Roark also got into the act, picking off a Randall pass while playing in the defensive secondary in the fourth quarter.

Pampa added one more touchdown before halftime on Roark's 9-yard pass to Luis Salazar.

Tim Kettingring polished off the Raiders with a 34-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Thomas Long and Lemons led Pampa's ground attack with 84 and 78 yards, respectively. Roark completed 10 of 18 pass attempts for 136 yards and three touchdowns.

The win kept Pampa's playoff hopes alive as the Harvesters improved their District 3-4A record to 3-3.

Randall is 1-5 in district and 3-6 overall.

Hobbled Hill plays 36 minutes in loss to Philadelphia

By The Associated Press

Grant Hill played 36 minutes in Orlando's loss to Philadelphia, hobbling through the last few on his surgically repaired left ankle and missing six of his last seven shots.

If Hill is unable to play Saturday night in Atlanta, his next stop may be the injured list.

"As the game progressed I got worse and worse ... It's not good not being yourself," the five-time All-Star said after the Magic lost 87-80 to the 76ers. "The time of the game I enjoy most, the fourth quarter, the time of the game when games are won and lost, I didn't feel like I could do the things that I know I can do. That was pretty frustrating."

And that's bad news to the Magic, who were counting on a new start behind their two biggest offseason additions — Hill and Tracy McGrady.

McGrady was ejected against Philadelphia for slapping Eric Snow of the Sixers. Allen Iverson scored 29 points, seven of them after McGrady was ejected midway through the fourth quarter as the 76ers outscored the Magic 19-8 the rest of the way to overcome a 72-68 deficit.

In other games, Charlotte beat Miami 83-79, New York beat Washington 80-76, Boston beat Toronto 93-91, New Jersey beat Chicago 92-82 and Sacramento beat Detroit 100-93.

Magic coach Doc Rivers said before the game that he planned to use Orlando's games against the 76ers and Atlanta to determine if Hill should rest for perhaps as much as a month to give the ankle a chance to heal.

"If he shows any signs of just being really sore, I think we have to do something," Rivers said. "He could play these two games and look great, and then the discussion's over. That's what I'm hoping for."

Hill played 33 minutes in Orlando's season-opening win over Washington on Tuesday and had nine points, 10 assists and five blocks. But Hill wasn't available for action the next night in Miami, where the Magic lost by 26.

"I've just never seen a guy get healthy by playing," Rivers said. "I've never seen it."

Knicks 80, Wizards 76

At Washington, Marcus Camby scored 20 points and carried the Knicks through the first half. Allan Houston scored 12 of his 18 in the second half, and the Knicks' defense compensated for the team's 39 percent shooting.

"When you shoot as bad as our main guys are shooting right now, that's OK if you play defense like that and compete that hard," coach Jeff Van Gundy said. "And we really competed hard."

Mitch Richmond led the Wizards with 18 points. Howard had 15 points and 12 rebounds. And, notably, the effort under new coach Leonard Hamilton was enough to keep the usual boos and hisses from the home fans to a minimum.

Celtics 93, Raptors 91

At Boston, Paul Pierce scored 30 points and Antoine Walker added 20 as Boston sent the Raptors to their third consecutive loss.

Vince Carter scored 33 points and had a chance for some late-game heroics, but his late 3-point attempt hit the front of the rim. Tony Battie rebounded the ball, then Randy Brown drew a foul and sank both free throws to make it 93-88 with 2.8 seconds left. Morris Peterson hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer.

Nets 92, Bulls 82

At Chicago, Stephon Marbury scored 33 points in New Jersey's first victory in Chicago after 10 straight losses. Rookie coach Byron Scott got the game ball afterward.

"He could have scored 50," Bulls coach Tim Floyd said. "He just toyed with us. He took the basketball where he wanted to take it, when he wanted to take it."

Kendall Gill added 18 for New Jersey and Evan Eschmeyer grabbed 13 rebounds.

Kings 100, Pistons 93

At Auburn Hills, Mich., Chris Webber scored 31 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to ruin the Pistons' home opener.

The Kings led by 11 with 5:05 left before Detroit went on a 10-2 run to cut the deficit to 96-93 with 1:08 to go. The Pistons could not get any closer as they turned the ball over twice in the final minute.

Eagles say they're ready for the return of Cunningham

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Now that the pomp and circumstance of Randall Cunningham's return to Philadelphia as a starting quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys is in full hype, the Eagles only concern is winning the football game on Sunday.

"I don't care about the hype," cornerback Troy Vincent said Friday. "I just want to win this game, get to 6-4 and move on. I wish Randall well, but ..."

The Eagles say they've prepared all week as if Cunningham was starting. Not until late Thursday afternoon was it official that Cunningham would make his third start of the 2000 season in place of the injured Troy Aikman.

Cunningham, a star for the Eagles from 1986-95, presents some challenges for the Philadelphia defense.

"We have to stay disciplined," cornerback Bobby Taylor said. "Randall can still make plays. I don't know how old he is, but he is still very dangerous."

The media buzz in Philadelphia since the announcement that Cunningham is starting has been constant, and continues to build.

But for the Eagles, it's business as usual. Only Taylor, defensive end Mike Mamula and injured defensive end Greg Jefferson were on the team in 1995, when Cunningham last played for the Eagles.

Groom shuts out Hedley

HEDLEY — Groom romped past Hedley 48-0 in a District 2-1A six-man game Friday night.

The Tigers improved to 9-0 overall as they limiting Hedley to only four yards total offense.

Grant Weinheimer led the Groom offense, throwing for touchdown passes of 50, 43, 16 and 1 yards. Cody Bivins also scored on runs 69 and 11 yards.

Grant Weinheimer threw scoring passes of 50 and 43 yards to younger brother Hugh. He also threw a 16-yarder to Clay Ritter and a 1-yarder to Garrett Britten.

The Tigers amassed 347 yards in total offense. They led 34-0 at halftime.

Hedley is winless in eight games.

Flashback

1964: The Pampa Rebels beat Dumas 5-3 to clinch a tie for the North Zone championship of American Legion, District 18.

Outfielder Ricky Goodwin hit a two-run homer and winning pitcher Jerry Garrison struck out 13 in seven innings on the mound.

Top Of Texas Bassmasters compete in tournaments

PAMPA — Top Of Texas Bassmasters members entered fishing tournaments during September and October.

Danny Hathcoat and Maxine Stauffacher were first with a catch of 12.31 pounds at the Lake Meredith Tournament in September. Steve Stauffacher and Maxine Stauffacher were second (10.72 pounds), and Bill Crook-Rodger Watson were third.

Steve Stauffacher won the Big Bass award with a 2.85 pound catch.

Rodger Watson and Bill Crook took first at the Baylor Lake Tournament in early October. Steve Stauffacher and Maxine Stauffacher were second.

Steve Stauffacher was the Big Bass winner with a 3.72 pound catch.

The Wal-Mart Texas Tournament Trail (Wal-Mart TTT), the newest entry in the highly competitive world of tournament bass fishing, debuts in Feb. of 2001 and offers a potential payout of more than $1 million.

Open to all anglers, the Wal-Mart TTT consists of four one-day, regular-season events and a championship, each with a pro-angler and co-angler division. The inaugural tournament is set for Sam Rayburn Reservoir near Beaumont.

Entry fees will be $300 per tournament for pro-anglers and $100 for co-anglers. Registration forms are available at participating Ranger Boat dealers in Texas or online at www.rangerboats.com.

Wal-Mart TTT events will also be featured on the television program, Fishing Texas, which can be seen on Fox Sports Southwest affiliate stations. Check your local cable listing for dates, times and stations.

For additional information on the tournaments, contact Heather Peth at 870-453-2222.

Duval gets another shot at Tiger

ATLANTA (AP) — David Duval put to rest any questions about his back, his game and his desire.

After scrambling for an unlikely birdie late in the second round and cleaning up a 2-under 68, Duval had a one-stroke lead in the Tour Championship. Not long after he walked off the course, he was told he would play in the final pairing Saturday with Tiger Woods.

"Good," Duval said. "It should be a good day. I hope he gets used to hitting first."

He was kidding — sort of. Duval knows he can't hit the ball farther than Woods and that he probably will be the first to hit his approach shots into the green. But he also believes he has plenty of game to challenge the No. 1 player in the world.

"He's the standard right now by which you're comparing your golf," Duval said. "I want to go out and play good golf and show him I can play, too."

Duval was at 7-under 133 after two trips around East Lake Golf Club, one stroke ahead of Woods and Chris Perry.

Woods got off to a slow start once again, 2 over after the first six holes, but played inspired golf the rest of the way. He made a 20-foot eagle putt on the 15th, and answered a bogey with a 10-foot birdie on the 17th.

It all added up to a 66, his 41st consecutive round at par or better on the PGA Tour, and very much within range of Duval.

"I'm right back in the tournament," said Woods, who is trying to join Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan and Sam Snead as the only players to win at least 10 times on tour in one season.

There's big changes in college hoops

By JIM O'CONNELL
 AP Basketball Writer

New coaches, new officiating, new NCAA tournament.

Changes are expected in college basketball, of course, but the 2000-01 season offers some of the most startling in recent years.

Bob Knight lost his temper one time too many, then lost his job as coach of Indiana after 29 seasons. And Bill Guthridge surprised North Carolina by retiring as coach after 33 years on the Tar Heels' sideline.

That's not all. When the season tips off Thursday, referees will begin calling games tighter to try to crack down on rough play. Some schools will be in different conferences, while others will have new coaches with familiar names. And the 318 Division I schools will all try to become part of the NCAA tournament's expanded field of 65.

Knight's reign at Indiana ended Sept. 10 after three national championships, 11 Big Ten titles and one broken zero-tolerance policy. His final run-in was with a freshman whom Knight grabbed and lectured for addressing the coach only by his last name. With 763 victories, 116 behind career leader Dean Smith, many believe Knight will return to coaching, but if he does it will be as the same old Bob Knight.

"I've always felt I've got to be me, I can't be something that someone's trying to construct," he said after being fired. "I try to be fair, try to be honest. My philosophy and approach to things is just different than some people and situations."

He was replaced by assistant Mike Davis, who steps into his first head coaching job trying to prove he's not Knight.

"One thing that's not going to happen this year is we aren't going to lose games in the last five minutes," Davis said. "In five of our nine losses last year we looked tired at the end. That's not going to happen again."

When Guthridge unexpectedly retired on June 30

Stacie Nicole Ferguson and Ryan Wade Smith
Ferguson-Smith

Stacie Nicole Ferguson and Ryan Wade Smith plan to wed Dec. 9 in First Baptist Church of Amherst.
The bride-elect is the daughter of Kenneth and Dortha Ferguson of Amherst and is the granddaughter of Winston and Martha Ferguson of Amherst, Mary Demel of Lubbock and the late Conrad Demel of Pep. She is a 1998 graduate of Amherst High School and is currently employed by First State Bank of Amarillo.
The prospective groom is the son of Gearry and Patty Smith of White Deer and is the grandson of Lee Ledford of Skellytown, A.J. Ledford of Pampa and the late Jesse and Luetta Smith, former Pampa residents. He graduated from White Deer High School in 1997 and is currently employed as a paramedic with Baptist-St. Anthony's Health System in Amarillo.

Julie Anne Noles and Ensign Stig Sanness
Noles-Sanness

Julie Anne Noles of Pampa and Ensign Stig Sanness were wed Oct. 28 in Pauline Chapel in Colorado Springs, Colo., with Dr. Edwin M. Cooley, of First Presbyterian Church of Pampa, officiating.
The maid of honor was Meredith Hite of Lubbock. The bridesmaids were Kelli Jones of College Station, Emily McGuffey of Houston, McKinley Quarles of Athens, Ga., and Emily Meyer of Dallas.
The best man was Eirik Sanness of College Station. The groomsmen were Ensign Will Hodge of San Diego, Calif., Rob Harper of Omaha, Neb., Ensign J.S. Hall of Pensacola, Fla., and Cris Franklin of Houston.
The ushers were Micah Cobb and Owen Hurt, both of Houston. Registering the guests was Lacy Franklin of Houston.
Music was provided by vocalists Laura Johnson and Cullen Allen, both of Lubbock, and organist Loralee Cooley.
A reception was held in Broadmoor Hotel Golf Club.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Noles of Pampa. She graduated from Pampa High School in 1996 and from Texas A&M University in 2000, receiving a degree in English literature. She will begin graduate school in the spring at the University of Richmond at Richmond, Va.
The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Torstein Sanness of Tonsberg, Norway. He graduated from Texas A&M University with a degree in chemical engineering and is currently an ensign in the United States Navy. He is presently stationed at Little Creek Amphibious Base in Virginia Beach, Va.
The couple intend to make their home at Virginia Beach.

Brian Brauchi

SNYDER — Pampa native Brian Brauchi was recently awarded a scholarship in the amount of $500 from Southwest Turfgrass Association during the association's annual convention and trade show held recently in Ruidoso, N.M.

Brauchi is a sophomore at Western Texas College in Snyder where he is a member of the Golf and Landscape Technology program.

OKMULGEE, Okla. — Kevin Crawford, Jerry Dyson, Clinton Lewis and Austin Smith, all of Pampa, and Nicholas Ruth of Skellytown are among 2,401 students enrolled for the fall semester at Oklahoma State University in Okmulgee.

Crawford and Dyson are enrolled in continuing education and Lewis, Smith and Ruth in natural gas compression service technology.

LAKE FOREST, Ill. — Educational Communications, Inc., recently published the 23rd

Annual Edition of The National Dean's List, 1999-00, the largest recognition program and publication in the nation honoring high-achieving college students.

Students are selected for this honor by their college deans, registrars or honor society advisors and must rank in the top 10 percent of their class, must be on their school's dean's list or have earned a comparable honor.

Students named for publication in The National Deans List include: Adam Davis, Dean A. Fields, Trey Ford, Jennifer Frogge, David K. Gamblin, Phillips B. Gentry IV, Heather D. Herndon, Grayson J. Lewis, Sarah A. Maul, Dianna McCoy, Tiffany L. McCullough, Ashleigh B. McWilliams, Katie L. Miller, Erin Mulanax, Geri D. Shaw, Mindee M. Stowers, Jackie Furnish Sublett, Jill Trollinger, Jonathan D. Waggoner, Aubrea Ward and Cal A. Ferguson, all of Pampa.

Caleb Ashley and Lori M. Royle, both of Canadian; Curtis J. Whatley and Dara D. Whatley, both of Groom; Rachel Galley and Melissa D. Krueger, both of McLean; Cara Swart of Miami; Jaime Denelle Loyd, Sterling G. Seward and Jesse White, all of Shamrock; Lucas Chaney and Jeanette M. Scott, both of Skellytown; Kara L. Emmert of Wheeler; and Lenzi Jo Diggs, Amanda S. Freeman and Kimberly N. Warminski, all of White Deer.

Listed students are eligible to compete for $50,000 in scholarship awards funded by the publisher and may also use a referral service for future employment opportunities. More than 2,500 colleges and universities nationwide use the publication to recognize their academically qualified students.

ABILENE — Jessica Conner and Daniel Kirkpatrick, both of Pampa, participated in the award-winning Freshman Class performance during Hardin-Simmons University's 40th annual All-School SING held recently during Homecoming weekend at HSU.

The Freshman Class performance, titled "Downstage," received awards for Best Vocals and Best Choreography and tied with the men's fraternity Theta Alpha Zeta for the top honor — the Sweepstakes Award.

COLUMBUS, Ga. — Army Private Brandon D. Mitchell, 1999 Pampa High School graduate, recently completed One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Columbus. The training consisted of basic military training and advanced individual training (AIT).

During basic training, the trainee received instruction in drill and ceremonies, map reading, tactics, military customs and courtesies, physical fitness and first aid. The recruit developed combat skills and handled various weapons available to the infantry soldier.

During AIT, the soldier received instruction to serve as an infantryman using light and heavy anti-armor weapons, indirect-fire support and mechanized operations while assigned to a rifle or mortar squad.

The training included weapons qualification, tactics, patrolling, navigation, field communications and combat operations; engagement in infantry combat exercises, battle drills, land mine locating, neutralizing and extracting and survival operations during a nuclear, biological or chemical attack.

Mitchell is the son of Candy Neasbitt of Sadler, Texas, and is the grandson of Bob Anderson of Pampa.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Mary G. Fields of Pampa was recently awarded a Presidential Scholarship to Rhodes College in Memphis. The scholarship covers $7,500 of the annual tuition to Rhodes.

Fields graduated from Pampa High School in 2000.

LAKE FOREST, Ill. — A select group of America's teachers are being honored by their toughest critics... their former students, in the sixth edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 2000.

All of the approximately 114,000 teachers being honored were selected by their former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students or The National Dean's List, publications which recognize five percent of our nation's high school and college students respectively.

The students were requested to nominate the one teacher from their entire academic career who "made a difference in their lives" by helping to shape their values, inspiring interest in a particular subject and/or challenging them to strive for excellence.

Many of the students commented about the enthusiasm and knowledge their teachers demonstrated in the classroom, and many praised their teachers for their ability to relate to youngsters on a personal as well as a professional level. One student wrote about her teacher saying, "she made education something pleasurable, instead of a dreadful ordeal by letting me spread my wings and showing me the best way to fly."

Local educators honored in Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 2000 include: Judith Kitto Auwen, Wanetta Bayless Hill, Martha Ann Porter, Austin Elementary; Kirtley Bell, Lawrence D. Bell High School; Wanda N. Cotter, Linda L. Forman, Dana Cabbiness Ketchersid, Jeanna Beth Miller, Randy V. Milligan, Roger Z. Myers, Debra Trone Weaver, Pampa Middle School; Tamar Thomas Diggs, Lamar Elementary; Raynetta Covalt Earp, Jordan Unit School; Laurie Salmon Daugherty, Lefors School; Elizabeth Dale Glaeser, Jonetta Reynolds Crain, Carolyn A. Rapstine, White Deer High School; Jackie Barnard Wyatt, White Deer Elementary; J. Jan Haynes, Clarendon College-Pampa Center; John Dwayne Hiemstra, Canadian High School; Jimmy Lee Hannon, Jacquelyn Gillispie Riley, McLean School; Melissa L. Shaver, Miami School; Jackie Furnish Sublett, Frank Phillips College; Elizabeth Manning Wiley Boring, Michelle Wiggins Schafer, Wheeler School.

Texas Farm Bureau to hold state meeting in Waco

WACO — Farm policy is likely to be a hot topic as farm leaders from across the state convene Nov. 6-8 at the Texas Farm Bureau headquarters in Waco to review proposed resolutions from county Farm Bureaus. The resolutions that eventually become Texas Farm Bureau policy will guide the activities of the state's largest farm organization during 2001.

The committee will consider resolutions on international trade, national policies, property taxes, farm programs and numerous other issues affecting agriculture. The committee will meet against the backdrop of a Texas agricultural crisis as producers are suffering from both drought and low commodity prices.

"The United States must continue the search for a sound, long-term national farm policy, and Farm Bureau will continue to propose various elements of such a policy," said Delmas McCormick, TFB vice president, who will chair the committee. "Farmers and ranchers must be able to make a profit while providing our nation's food and fiber."

The committee members will edit and consolidate the many resolutions into a policy development packet, which will be considered by the TFB convention delegates on Nov. 26-29 at the TFB State Convention in Arlington. State resolutions approved there will become official policy of the TFB for 2001.

Donald Patman, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, said the organization devotes a great deal of time and resources to policy development.

"It's one of the most vital things a farm organization can do," Patman said. "We are confident that the results of this process is what Texas farmers and ranchers want their Farm Bureau to get done. The resolutions committee is a vital link in that process."

The resolutions committee is comprised of the TFB Vice President and District II Director, Delmas McCormick of Floydada, who will serve as chairman and the Chairman of TFB's Young Farmer and Rancher Advisory Committee, Beth Wingham of Bellevue.

Three farmers and ranchers from each of TFB's 13 districts were named to the committee by Patman. TFB District 6 Director Kenneth Dierschke of San Angelo will be vice-chairman and District 8 Director Hope Huffman of McGregor will serve as secretary.

Yearbook staff to hold 'Mr. She-Man' fund-raiser

WHITE DEER — The White Deer High School Antler yearbook staff is hosting the first annual "Mr. She-Man" Pageant at 7 p.m., Nov.

Johnna Birkes, yearbook adviser, said. "The guys have been trying to find the perfect dress and wig. It's really going to be a show."

Female yearbook staff members will serve as emcees and escorts, and White Deer teachers will be serving as judges.

Contestants include Shawn Line, Bryan Coats, Brad Britten, Ryan Connell, Thomas Kotara, Michael Friend, Drew Hodges, Ricky Davis, Nick Ball, Dustin Harper and Aaron McKean.

According to Mrs. Birkes, the event is a fund-raiser for the yearbook staff. Staff members hope to raise enough money to attend the Interscholastic League Press Conference State Convention at Austin in April.

"This is the first year the yearbook staff has traveled to state conventions, and I think it's important for them," she said. "We attended the Texas Association of Journalism Educators State Convention in San Antonio ... and the students learned quite a bit. The Austin convention will only help in improving the quality of the yearbook."

Admission to the Mr. She-Man Pageant is $3. For more information on the event, contact Mrs. Birkes at (806) 883-6411.

6 in the White Deer High School auditorium. Modeled after Pampa High School's "Woe-Man Contest," the Mr. She-Man Pageant will feature the junior and senior boys at their best, according to yearbook staff members.

Pageant contestants will model formal wear, perform talent routines and dance to the tunes of Aerosmith and other famous music groups.

"Staff members have been working all week to choreograph a dance routine for the guys," Mrs.

PUC cuts Texas Universal Service Fund assessment

AUSTIN — Texas phone customers will get a 10 percent decrease in the Texas Universal Service Fund (TUSF) assessment as ordered by the Public Utility Commission.

An increase in telecommunications revenues and a reduction in bad debts from telephone providers make the rate cut possible. Effective Jan. 1, 2001, the TUSF rate will drop from 3.96 percent to 3.6 percent. A notice explaining these changes will appear on local and long-distance customer phone bills in Texas beginning next year.

TUSF charges are assessed on all Texas local, long distance, pager, wireless and other telecommunications services. The 3.6 percent fee is assessed on telecommunications providers who may choose to show the assessment on customer bills.

The TUSF helps provide basic telephone service for all Texans by keeping the cost of phone service affordable in the high cost, rural areas of the state. A small portion of the TUSF supports service to low-income customers and Texans with a hearing loss.

Before 1999, TUSF charges were hidden in long distance costs. To enhance competition in telephone service, federal and state lawmakers have directed previously hidden access fees should be spelled out on customer bills. The TUSF pays for the following programs that have served Texans for many years:

- Texas High Cost Universal Service Plan, which helps provide affordable phone service in high-cost rural areas served by large phone companies.
- Small and Rural Service Plan, which helps provide affordable phone service in high-cost rural areas served by small and rural phone companies.

- Lifeline, which reduces local monthly rates for low-income customers by $10.50.
- Link Up, which reduces installation charges for low-income customers.
- Tel-Assistance, which reduces basic local phone rates by 65 percent for low-income customers.
- Telecommunications Relay Service, which allows customers with a hearing loss to communicate over the public phone system.
- Specialized Equipment Distribution, which reduces costs for customers with a hearing loss.

Nurse Burdened With Grief Had Good Reason for Bad Attitude

DEAR ABBY: I am a registered nurse employed in a hospital. My daughter passed away in December from breast cancer. I worked up until two weeks prior to my daughter's death.

During that time, I made no mention to my co-workers about my daughter's grave condition. It was just too sad. Three weeks before my daughter died, my supervisor called me into her office and told me I had a "bad attitude."

I admit that I had kept my feelings to myself, and of course my demeanor reflected a sad expression, but my attitude was never "bad." I quickly responded to my supervisor, in my defense, that my daughter was dying and asked her how I was supposed to act. She told me there were other nurses who had gravely ill children, but they didn't behave the way I did. I replied that she should walk a mile in my shoes. She reiterated that I had a "bad attitude." I responded that since she seemed to be such an authority on behavior and dying children, perhaps she could enlighten me on how to "act"—because I really didn't know.

I have since returned to work, and I now have a strong dislike for this person. I see her daily, and she has the nerve to speak to me after that unpleasant encounter. Abby, how do I get past this? She has apologized for her comments, but the damage has already been done.

FURIOUS R.N.
IN THE NORTHEAST

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR FURIOUS: It's unfortunate that your behavior was misunderstood, but since your colleagues had no way of knowing what you were going through at the time, your supervisor was only doing her job.

Please accept her apology and find it in your heart to forgive her. If you cannot, professional counseling to help you rechannel your grief and anger may be in order. Life is too precious to harbor resentments.

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing about your response to "Disappointed in Seattle" regarding security in marriage. You above all should know that marriage does not necessarily mean security. You have printed enough letters from victims of marriages to have responded differently.

Abby, there are con-men, gamblers, alcoholics, abusers, and people who just abandon mates and children. Finding security in marriage is like catching a feather in the wind—some catch it, most don't, no matter how hard they try. Want security? Get your own job, open a bank account, and earn some self-esteem and confidence. Don't rely on someone else for your security.

DEAR JOAN: While I agree that a marriage certificate is not a one-way ticket to easy street, the kind of security to which I was referring were rights of inheritance and, should illness strike, the authority to instruct doctors about each other's wishes.

DEAR ABBY: This is just for you: Do you know the difference between a sewing machine and a kiss? A sewing machine sews nice seams, but a kiss seems so nice! You can credit my sweet, late mother, Tillie M. Brehl, with that one.

DEAR ILENE: Many thanks for the witty ditty. Your mother was a sweetheart, and so are you.

For everything you need to know about wedding planning, order "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Sit back and let others play their cards. You might question what is happening, but you'll get your answers through observations. Adjust plans accordingly if need be. Information coming toward you could be faulty. Review a decision carefully. Tonight: A long-overdue discussion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 Just when you thought you were on cruise control, someone lets you down. This person might not want to do his share financially. It could cost you. Keep your prime goals in mind and don't steer in a different direction. Others respond later. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Assume your power. Others need your sense of direction and control. You might be stunned by another's reactions. Emphasize work and success. Refuse to get into personal issues. Support a boss or associate, even though you might think you have too much to do. Tonight: In the limelight.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Though you would prefer to work on a mental plane, you must deal with certain facts professionally and emotionally. Restructure your work life with an eye to the future. Use this as an opportunity to take stock of your health and eating habits. Schedule an appointment for a checkup. Tonight: Catch up on calls and e-mail.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

 Deal with others on a one-on-one level. Excitement marks your day, but you might not be too pleased by a loved one. Look to the long term. Friends surround you and help you. Tonight: A cozy night at home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 Others dominate your plans and work. Though you know what you want and need to accomplish, the boss or an associate has a different idea. You could easily be overwhelmed if you respond to each request. A family adds to the testy atmosphere. Say "enough." Tonight: Listening to a suggestion doesn't mean agreeing with it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 Plunge into work, with an eye to what you could accomplish. Someone tests your limits. Establish boundaries. Screen calls and avoid unneeded breaks. You can and will accomplish a lot if you keep your goals in mind. Spend some money on yourself. Tonight: Off to the gym.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 You might need to put your foot down with spending, even if you can bail yourself out. Your tendency toward excess comes into play. Establish limits, with an eye to possibilities. Your sense of humor and enormous creativity open doors. Tonight: So what if it is Monday?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

 Make an effort toward another.

You could feel off kilter. Deal with your mood and do not unload it on others. You might discover that associates can be most sympathetic if you express what is going on. A family or domestic matter takes priority. Tonight: Clear the air.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

 Another might not agree with you, but he still offers solutions or alternatives. Brainstorm with this person. Communication flourishes as long as you aren't reactive. Join friends and get together with others. Tonight: Hang out with your friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

 Deal with others in terms of business and financial gain. You could be easily distracted. Curb socializing for now, with an eye to where you are heading. Another gives you important feedback about a work idea. Teamwork enhances your success. Try not to be a loner. Tonight: Put in the extra hours you need.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 Your personality emerges as a strong force both at home and at work. Keep a strict schedule and accomplish all that you must. A family member or roommate does all he can to distract you. Explain priorities. Deal with a boss with kid gloves. He is out of sorts. Tonight: Whatever makes you smile.

One sailor's account of pivotal battle in Pacific

EDITOR'S NOTE — Veterans Day is Saturday, Nov. 11 — a moment to remember the sacrifices made by millions who have worn this country's uniform. Each has a story to tell.

By JERRY SCHWARTZ
AP National Writer

METUCHEN, N.J. (AP) — Chuck Welsh doesn't remember writing the letter. World War II was a long time ago, and he wrote so many letters then — letters to the beautiful woman he loved and the children he'd left behind.

Fifty years passed. The children grew up and had their own children, the beautiful woman died and left him alone. The pictures of his young family have faded.

The letter has returned — an account of life aboard ship during 1945's battle for Okinawa, a reminder of what it was like to be a part of the massive war machine that routed the Japanese and abbreviated Germany's thousand-year Reich.

As if he needed any reminder. He was 32 years old then. For 15 years, he had worked as a reporter and editor for newspapers around Pennsylvania, then at The Associated Press. Given his age, his marriage to Betty, his young children and the security clearance he'd received for his coverage of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, he was "pretty much draft-proof," he says.

He wanted to fight. "I don't really have an explanation," he says now. "It was just something that I felt I should do. And Betty, always Betty, said, 'If you feel you need to go, go.'"

So he shopped around for a draft board that would accept him, finally going to Altoona, Pa., for induction into the Navy in March 1944. He was assigned to the San Francisco, a heavy cruiser, in September.

As a gunner's mate, he helped fire the ship's anti-aircraft guns. As a trained journalist, he put out the mimeographed daily newsletter.

On July 4, 1945, as the San Francisco steamed away from three months of battle at Okinawa, Welsh sat down at his typewriter and wrote more than 2,000 words.

Okinawa was the beginning of the end game in the Pacific war.

The Allies considered the island, Japan's southernmost province, the last Pacific stepping stone. The Japanese sent in 100,000 troops to make a stand.

The eventual invasion was enormous: The Allied armada comprised 1,457 ships carrying more than 180,000 assault troops, more than twice the number of U.S. troops who'd landed at Normandy the year before.

The 82-day battle was the war's bloodiest — 12,000 Americans dead and 35,000 wounded, about 100,000 Japanese civilians and soldiers killed. Kamikaze attacks by Japanese suicide bombers sank 30 U.S. ships and damaged 368, including 10 battleships and 13 aircraft carriers.

Early in 1945, the San Francisco fought at Iwo Jima. In late March, the cruiser moved on to Okinawa, beginning a week-long bombardment in anticipation of the landings that began April 1 — Easter Sunday.

Welsh's letter is not the stuff of "Saving Private Ryan." It's a portal into the real lives of long-ago servicemen.

His letter complete, he sent off two copies — one to Betty, another to his old neighbors, Harley and Mary Smith. And he forgot about it.

The war came to a close. His service ended early — his father died and he was discharged. He worked at the AP for almost 32 years more, covering political conventions and sports, heading bureaus in Pittsburgh and Louisville, Ky., before moving to New York City.

He retired in 1977. Betty died in 1994; at 88, he lives alone in this leafy New York suburb. The kids are spread around — Charles III in southern Virginia, Francis in Boynton Beach, Fla., Elizabeth here in Metuchen. There are nine grandchildren, 10 great-grandkids.

Half a century after Okinawa, Welsh got a package from Mary Smith.

Inside were the pages he'd last touched when he was a much younger man and the world seemed a far simpler place.

There are few overstrikes and nothing crossed out. "That's straight-away typing. There's no editing," he says. Sections were cut out by the military censor, but the gist is there.

By CHARLES A. WELSH
Associated Press Writer

Probably because it was my first full picture of invasion, Okinawa was fascinating to me. Of course, it was a fearsome sort of fascination, something like a bird must feel under the eyes of a snake, but that part slides into the background with time and the other picture stays sharp and clear.

Always before we had operated with the big, sleek, new battleships, carriers, cruisers that were only somebody's dream put down on paper when the Japs struck Pearl Harbor. This time we joined the pre-war fleet, much of it that the same Japs thought they smashed forever at the same Pearl Harbor.

The island itself was fresh and green; a rim of sandy beach giving way to gentle hills rising toward the middle where the higher ridges lay. It was interlaced with roads that looked surprisingly smooth and wide as they wandered among the fields and over the hills. And everywhere you looked closely were little hamlets of a half-dozen clustered-together houses. In those days we saw no people. Later there were a few but I never was quite sure whether they were civilians or Jap troops.

All that week we bombarded, patrolling slowly up and down our sector by day, fighting off air attacks morning, noon and night.

Bombarding soon becomes a bore-some task. You stand long watches, get little sleep; the roar of the big guns rings in your ears day and night and often, when you must stand too close, the concussion of the guns is like a physical blow. Sometimes it felt as though I were being struck sharply on the throat.

Where the shells land you see only grey-brown blobs of smoke and shattered earth. Curiously, the snapping crackle of the five-inch guns I found more annoying than the deeper rumble of the eights. Sometimes from a distance we felt the jarring thud of the 12-14 and even 16-inch battleship guns, heard the ghostly rustle of the shells overhead.

But there are, sometimes, little incidents. One was the day we wrecked the lighthouse.

The lighthouse stood on a promontory of rock at the entrance to Naha Bay ... an excellent observatory from which Jap binoculars could chart our moves, and eventually it might be an easily defended fort. So the eight-inch guns went to work.

The first salvo was over; we could see the brown dust and rocks fly from the hillside beyond the target. The second was a little short and a corner of the rock crumpled into the sea. The third was to right and a portion of the house caved in. Fourth salvo was "on target."

We went on to other targets. On the airfield were the gaunt steel skeletons of two hangars, either never finished or else burned out. We left them alone. And we left alone, too, some realistic-looking dummy planes the Japs had left on the airstrip. We blew the hell out of some underground hangars and neatly demolished a couple of real planes the Japs thought they had hidden.

All that week we bombarded methodically. ... Saturday night we steamed away from the desert island. Sunday morning before dawn hundreds of ships were there. Then began the real bombardment and for an hour shells of all sizes rained on the beach and the adjoining hills.

Slowly and deliberately, while we shelled, the little landing craft circled, loaded, circled again and then in lines moved toward the beach. With them went the rocket ships and as the warships fell quiet the little fellows went to work. It's awesome to watch flight after flight of rockets spring upward from the little ships; first an arrow with a tail of fire, then nothing until the shattering showers of death and destruction on the beach.

The sound came out to us — whoosh, whoosh, whoosh; then a solid roaring as they struck and exploded. A great cloud of dust covered everything. The troops went ashore.

The first day the fate of Okinawa, the course and ultimate outcome of the battle, were signed, sealed and delivered to us. The soldiers and Marines swarmed onto the beach; we watched them race almost unopposed up the hill, and by nightfall they held Yontan and Kadena airstrips.

Through that first week the carriers and pilots of Task Force 58 stood between us and Japan, covered us with an aerial umbrella that enabled most of the kamikaze to attain their divine objective of death for the emperor with comparatively little trouble. And as we held and began to use Yontan and Kadena the pressure gradually eased.

Not that it was easy, or pleasant. It's my recollection that we were under air attack for 18 or 20 consecutive days and nights. The bugle seemed to be blowing almost hourly, and we gripped and lost sleep — the Japs lost planes and pilots.

We kept on bombarding, moving with the troops toward Naha, watching through field glasses a little of the fighting — tanks, men and guns streaming along the Okinawa roads, past burning houses where the war had touched, through fields cratered by shell and bomb.

Star shells, some silver and gold, ours and the Japs', outshone the moon in lighting the nights. Yellow and ruby-red arches across the night sky were the tracers of the big shells. (Ernie Pyle wrote of "red hot shells, visible 10 miles at night," but he really was seeing these same tracers.)

Ernie wrote, too, of one nighttime AA (anti-aircraft) barrage that I saw and never will forget. Hagushi anchorage was jammed with ships, hidden under a dense cloud of artificial smoke, when the three planes came in quite high. Searchlights, long fingers of white probing up into the night, reached for them, found them and then found them again and again as the battle went on for more than an hour.

Each time a shaft of light caught and held a silvery dot of plane all the other lights would swing to it until the plane became a fly caught in a basketweb lacing all the sky ... And each time the lights caught and held, the guns below would open up, spouting red and gold tracers in a rainbow curve that, too, seemed to hold the plane at its apex. Eventually the planes were shot down or went away. I tumbled into bed.

(Section deleted by censor.) There are two other things I shall always remember about Okinawa, the planes and the little ships. You couldn't forget the fliers, when you knew that day and night they kept watch above us. And they were attacking, too, bombing, strafing, rocketing day in and day out.

It was at Okinawa that I saw for the first time one of our planes shot down. Four fighters were attacking a gun emplacement; four went in, only three came out. It seemed to all of us watching that we had lost a friend.

It would be hard to forget the little ships, the gun-toting pickets that warned us of the approaching enemy. We of the big ships think we ARE the Navy, but those little guys are Navy, too; theirs is lonely, hard duty, and we know and appreciate it.

When we left Okinawa the troops had moved down to ... the Shuri line. Behind them were green fields and hills, little wooded patches and towns. Ahead of them the constant rain of shells ripped away the green of tree and grass, leaving the ugly yellow dirt and rock where the Japs holed up.

Okinawa is not the ugly nightmare that Iwo left me. Perhaps that's because it was green — and if there had been neon signs spelling out BEER I might easily have thought of civilization!!

SALES REPRESENTATIVE

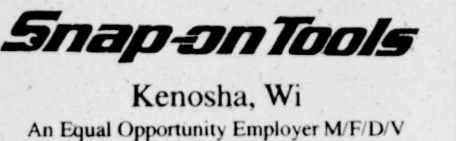

Here's a vehicle for riding with the automotive tools and equipment leader. We're offering a time-limited employment opportunity that could get you on the road to owning America's premier home-based franchise.

As a short-term employee, you will earn a salary, commission and benefits. In addition, you will receive top-drawer training and coaching, plus personalized field support.

In less than a year-based on your successful performance you will be eligible for generous financial assistance in converting to a franchised Snap-on Dealer. You'll be in business for yourself, but not by yourself.

If you qualify as an entrepreneur, seeking a self-directed career, not just a job - fax or write to: Snap-on Tools Company, Bob De Laurentis, 67 Melrose Ave. Bergenfield, NJ 07621; Fax: (800) 376-0967.
