LEADING SCREEN ATTRACTIONS TO APPEAR HERE DURING WEEK

CRAWFORD, MONTGOMERY, PONS, BARRYMORE, TRENT TO APPEAR IN FILMS AT THEATERS HERE

Sophisticated drama, adventure, comedy and thrilling action will be seen at local theaters this week through the medium of an impressive list of top-notch pictures.

At the La Nora theater, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" will open with Joan Crawford, William Powell and Robert Montgomery in the leading roles. Fans who saw Norma Shearer play the leading role in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" on the screen several years ago will be interested in seeing Miss Crawford's interpretation.

On Tuesday, the world's greatest soprano, Lily Pons, will be featured in "That Girl From Paris" on the Friday and Saturday attraction, "God's Country and the Woman."

Lionel Barrymore will be the star in "The Devil Doll" which will open at the Crown today. This mystery drama will find favor with all the Barrymore fans, as well as the mystery story addicts.

Many local people will go to the Rex to see John Trent in "A Doctor's Diary." Mr. Trent (not his real name) formerly flew the mail over the TWA route and doubtless has looked down on Pampa countless times. It is his first picture. Those who missed "The Devil Is a Sissy" will be glad of an opportunity to see it at the State Thursday.

Miss Crawford is cast as the "Mrs. Cheyney" of the story. Dressed "to the teeth" in some of Adrian's creations, she makes credible, amusing and decidedly intriguing the character of the American girl who has set her heart on being a "lady," and given the opportunity to do so, makes the most of it, with somewhat unexpected results.

To Powell is given the role of the butler, Charles, and this departure from the popular actor's recent portrayals gives fresh evidence of his versatility and the wide range of his acting talents. Montgomery's role might have been made to order for the jaunty, dashing and slightly cynical Lord Arthur Dilling is exactly the type of role in which this star is at his best.

M-G-M has given this production its usual lavish hand and treatment and has filled the supporting roles with players each of whom stands out with his and her particular contribution. There is, for instance, the ever-to-be-depended-on Frank Morgan as the indiscreet Lord Kelton whose revelations about his fellow society men, written in a letter to Mrs. Cheyney, plays an important part in the plot development. Morgan plays the role to the hilt and is responsible for a great number of the picture's gay moments. Others who stand out include the delightful Jessie Ralph, Nigel Bruce, Colleen Clare, Benita Hume, Ralph Forbes, Aileen Pringle and Melville Cooper.

LA NORA

The star triumvirate of Joan Crawford, William Powell and Robert Montgomery comes to the La Nora theater screen today for a three-day run in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's urbane screen translation of Frederic Lonsdale's stage success, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney."

CROWN

"The Devil Doll," new M-G-M thriller, opening today at the Crown theater, is spectacular demonstration of the limitless range of the modern screen.

The picture is based on the startling, fantastic novel, "Burn, Witch, Burn," by A. Merritt, distinguished author of mystery stories, from a screen play by Richard Schayer and Garrett Ford.

Directed by Todd Browning, sometimes referred to as "the Edgar Allan Poe of the screen," for his creation of "Dracula" and the late Lon Chaney mysteries, this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production stars a Lionel Barrymore in "The Voice of Bugle Ann"; Frank Lawton, who portrayed David Copperfield in matinee; Robert Gray, gargantuan comedian who is cast for the first time as a villain; Grace Ford, the Oklahoma dancing teacher who became a screen "find"; Lucy Beaumont, Arthur Hohl, Fred Warren and other accomplished players.

The story tells of a scientist, gone mad in his efforts to discover a means of shrinking the atom. He conceives the theory that if all living creatures might be reduced to one-sixth of their natural size the world food supply would be adequate for all. His fantastic dream brings into existence a weird laboratory where animals and human beings are reduced according to his formula. But, in the process, their brains are destroyed, leaving them treacherous morons.

A banker, convicted unjustly of a crime, escapes from prison and acquires the mad scientist's uncanny secret. Returning to Paris, the banker employs his knowledge to murder the schemers who had him unjustly imprisoned.

Barrymore portrays the wronged banker who sinks into Paris armed with his dreadful secret. He disguises himself as an old woman and pretends to operate a shabby doll shop.

The first of his enemies to become a victim is transformed into a tiny human "doll" who is used as a tool to paralyze another and eventually force a confession from the third.

As the result of a mishap in his plans to kill the third conspirator, the ex-banker arouses the Paris police. Disguising himself, he reveals his identity from a daughter who has grown up to despise him as a criminal. In the end he sacrifices his life that his name, now cleared, may remain so for the girl, her husband and their children.

The conflict which confronts a young doctor—duty to the woman he loves versus his devotion to the highest ethics, forms the plot of "A Doctor's Diary," an intimate portrayal of the inside workings of a large metropolitan hospital, which opens at the Rex theater today.

John Trent, former ace flyer, who makes his appearance in a leading role in this film, is a young doctor with refreshing notions on how hospitals should be run. He is kept from expounding them by his society sweetheart, whose father is head of the hospital, and by his fear of losing his job. His nurse, played by Helen Burgess, is dismissed when she criticizes the administration for neglecting a patient. When a charity patient in the person of a young violin genius loses his arm through neglect, Trent quits. His society sweetheart thereupon breaks their engagement.

It is not long, however, before the young doctor is forced back to the hospital. He is re-employed on condition that he testify falsely at a negligence trial. Made to realize that his duty is to the masses, whom he could best serve by continuing his quest for a paralysis cure, he accepts this condition. In a stirring climax he pays for the lie he is forced to utter but he sees the reforms for which he fought instituted at last. He also realizes that but the complications which bring about this final denouement afford the onlooker a full hour or more of laugh-provoking entertainment.

STATE

The test pilots, unsung heroes of aviation, are held up for well-deserving praise on the back and recognition of their various deeds in a film that is scheduled to open today at the State theater. It is Columbia's roaring drama, "Devil's Squadron," and it stars the square-jawed Richard Dix.

Dick Grace, one of the world's foremost aviators, who has come to the limelight for his hazardous stunts and crashing of planes for movies, wrote the story. Grace, a test pilot himself, is in an ideal position to appreciate the men who are the first to fly new planes, who try the out-thrusting, the flying dare-devils will be the first to come crashing to earth in them.

Test pilots do not take planes up for a gentle, level ride and then land easily. It is necessary for them to put the planes through the most difficult death-defying maneuvers—spins, rolls, power dives, etc.—so that every part of the plane is tested to the utmost.

Featured with Dix in "Devil's Squadron" are Karen Morley, Lloyd Nolan, Billy Burrud, Shirley Ross, Henry Kolson, Gene Morgan and Gordon Jones. Most of the players are either licensed or student pilots in real life.

According to the story, Dix and Nolan, two test pilots, fall in love with Miss Morley. Dix, because of an unjust stigma attached to his name and because he refuses to hurt Nolan, superintendent of the airport, who gave Dix his chance to make good again, is unable to tell Miss Morley that he loves her. But close association with death amid flaming planes and strained nerves, changes much, and the story goes on from its premise to a dramatic climax.

ACTOR VANISHES FROM WINE PARLOR ON SHIP

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—Scotland Yard sought tonight to pierce the mystery of the disappearance at sea of Frank Vosper, handsome British stage star, during a gay champagne party in the cabin of an English beauty queen.

A final "balcony scene" by the 37-year-old actor, who often had portrayed Shakespeare's Romeo, was believed to hold the answer to the mystery.

As the transatlantic liner Paris churned toward Plymouth in the early morning hours, Vosper stepped onto a darkened veranda off the cabin of his hostess, 23-year-old Muriel Oxford, the Miss Great Britain of 1936. He did not come back, said Miss Oxford, who was the last person to see him.

She rejected firmly tonight the suggestion he might have jumped overboard because she spurned his love. "We were only friends," she asserted.

She denied vigorously the statement of another passenger, quoted by ship officers, that he heard a man shout "marry me, or I'll jump overboard."

TANGEE, YOUNG PSYCHO-ANALYST, HERE TO HELP TROUBLED MINDS

LaNora theater patrons this week may avail themselves of an added service made possible through a visit to Pampa of Tangee, the Austrian psycho-analyst.

Tangee is a personable young man of 30, and he is no turbaned fortune teller with crystals and orientation. While in Pampa he merely will greet theater patrons on the mezzanine floor of the LaNora and offer them the advantage of his many years of character study.

There is no charge of any kind for the character readings and there is nothing to be sold or to be offered for sale. Anyone who stops for a talk with Tangee may feel assured that there are no strings attached to the interview.

In an interview Saturday afternoon Tangee stated that he has interviewed upwards of 50,000 women in the past eight months and he finds that the most common cause for these consultations is domestic difficulty.

"I have a very simple creed," he said, "to eradicate human unhappiness there are four negative factors which must be banished—hate, anger, fear and worry."

Tangee claims no super-natural powers. The shape of the head, various physiognomical indices and the general speech and mannerisms of his visitors are sufficient for a lightning quick—and surprisingly accurate—appraisal of the person as an individual.

The interviews will be conducted in a small booth on the LaNora mezzanine. Strictly private and informal, these interviews are said to be invariably diverting.

The booth will be open each afternoon, starting today, from 3 to 4 o'clock and each night between 8 and 9 o'clock. Tangee's engagement at the theater will run through next Saturday.

During his stay here Tangee will also answer questions through the columns of the Daily News. Only initials will be published to identify any letters which may be answered in this manner.

Persons wishing to have questions about their problems answered may do so by addressing them to Tangee, in care of the LaNora theater. There will be no charge for any service.

HER NAME IN LIGHTS

Chapter X

Larry Smith slipped his hand under the great collar of Daphne's coat and pushed it up around her ears. Then he whistled for a taxi. It was the tenth taxi he had tried to get. An icy wind tore through 53rd street but Daphne didn't feel it.

"Let's walk," she said, "we'll never get one with this theater crowd. My place is only a few blocks."

"You don't think I'm going to let you go home, do you? We're seeing the town, young lady, TAXI!"

Then, laughing because they had started across the slippery pavement to triumphantly capture the prize, they continued to laugh. They'd been laughing all evening, Daphne remembered, laughing over nothing. She laughed because he told her that when he was a little boy he had wanted to be a house wrecker when he grew up and had decided that was the beginning of his wish to be an architect.

And he had laughed because she confessed that she used to wear her mother's clothes and pretend she was a great actress. So they'd both gone on and now they knew enough about each other than any other person knew about either of them.

They'd talked so long over their pigs' knuckles and sauerkraut they'd been late for the theater and the next day neither of them could have told you what happened at the theater because, with their eyes on the stage, they'd been aware of nothing but each other.

Larry found her hand and swallowed it in his own.

"Having fun?" he asked.

She murmured something that sounded like "Umh." But he knew. They both knew something that needed no words. They needed nothing but to be together.

They went to the most expensive night club in town and sat looking into each other's eyes. She hadn't heard from him, he said, as though everything to her from now on, because he'd been off on a business trip. His uncle, in whose firm and whose footsteps he was one day to follow, was bidding for construction jobs in a midwest expedition.

"Do you often go far away for such a long time?" she asked and felt suddenly bereft, as though loneliness in the future was already weighing her down.

"Perhaps you'll be glad to have me away when you realize how much of you I want to see."

Her eyes denied it.

He said: "Look, we've got to arrange our program." He had already told her that the Smiths would like to stay on at the Hall; his "old girls," as he called them, refused to be moved unless Daphne wanted the place for herself. Daphne was only too glad of that extra money; it was helping to meet the new need for Jennifer.

"Are we going to have a program?" If anyone other than Larry had said that, she'd have dismissed the idea immediately. She was too busy—knew too many people—to permit any one person to assume that he had a right to make plans for her.

But Larry wasn't any one person.

"We'll have to discover what plays you want to see. And how you feel about winter sports—"

What she wanted!

Later Daphne would wrap herself in the warm comfort of what that meant, his complete regard for the things that would make her happy. Now she was content to listen.

"And what about hockey? And the six-day bicycle races?"

"Love them both, she responded promptly. But if he had said, "Do you like to stand for hours watching men excavating?" she'd have said it was her favorite pastime.

"We'll do them all. Let's begin with a new show on Saturday. Sunday, if it's clear, we might try skating and later we'll go—"

"Wait a minute," Daphne implored, laughing. "It's Thursday now, and Saturday and Sunday are so nearby here. Aren't you rushing me?"

"Certainly," he said, "but I'm twenty-eight years old and up to now my life has been misspent. I've got to make up for those years."

There was wonder in Daphne's eyes that looked back into his—and into the years ahead.

This has never happened to me before, Daphne thought. I must be careful because anything that can open such doors to my heart—this new feeling of coming home—can hurt me.

The years ahead unfolded before her and tempted her to gaze on what they could mean. Not just the early happy laughing years, but those good, quiet years rolling on and weaving a lasting tapestry of the lives of a man and a woman and their children.

It frightened her that she dared to think of them. That she, who had been trained to responsibility, to clear, conservative thinking, to guarding herself against thinking of her own future, should suddenly admit their temptation.

That this was her first time alone with Larry Smith and she could rush headlong into such conjecture, was a little frightening.

Later she would straighten it out with herself. Now, she could sip her drink and give herself to the moment.

"Saturday, it is," she said. She thought of Jennifer's method of "keeping 'em dangling."

Jennifer!

Daphne looked at the watch on Larry's wrist. It was 10 minutes past 2.

"Larry, I must call Jennifer. I told her I'd be home by midnight and she might worry about me. Do you mind? I'll only be a moment."

The telephone booth was out beyond the lounge at the entrance. Threading her way through the tables that crowded the edge of the dance floor, Daphne was contrite because she had neglected to telephone Jennifer. Because she was herself so happy she repented her severity toward Jennifer. She might have told Jennifer that she could go to the party with Tuck if she had promised to return early.

At first when her number didn't answer, Daphne thought that Jennifer was sleeping but when the buzz had been prolonged and repeated, she knew that Jennifer had deliberately disobeyed her orders. Why hadn't Jennifer defied her and said she was going anyway? Daphne would have preferred that to Jennifer's doing it under cover.

The floor show was on when she came out of the booth. The lights were dimmed save for the flood light on the dancing chorus. The white light threw greenish shadows on the faces of the guests, distorted them, yet at once Daphne saw Tuck Ainsley.

She withdrew into the shadows until the lights came up. Waiting to see who was with him. Waiting to see Jennifer yet not to be seen by her. She didn't want to spoil Jennifer's night.

But Jennifer was not with Tuck. It was obvious that he was one of a party of four which did not include Jennifer.

She quickened her footsteps and returned to her own table. She didn't sit down.

"Larry, I've got to go now. Our telephone doesn't answer and I'm worried about Jennifer."

He agreed they should leave at once.

Worry nagged at the back of her mind, the lusty delight of her happiness dissolved. The taxi-rider to her apartment was a silent one.

"Thank you, Larry, for a grand evening." She gave him her smile but her eyes were still clouded.

"I'll call you in the morning," he said.

Then he was gone. Hours later, as the light deepened and the night became morning, Daphne pacing the floor to the tempo of her rising fears, thought desperately, I need him. He'd know what to do.

Four o'clock. Five o'clock. Five-thirty. Jennifer was gone! Her evening wrap and the white satin frock were gone.

But where? With whom? Daphne asked herself over and over again and, at last, fell asleep.

At first, when she heard the imperative knocking at her door, she (To Be Continued)

REVENUE LEGISLATION DELAYED UNTIL JUNE

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—Congressional tax experts said today that revenue legislation probably would be delayed until June.

Speaking privately, they gave two major reasons for holding off a measure to continue the so-called nuisance taxes:

1. They believe that by waiting until shortly before these levies expire in June and July, they can put through extension legislation in a hurry without danger of long controversy over amendments touching other parts of the tax structure.

2. They want to scan March 15 income tax returns to determine whether they produce enough money so that some of the nuisance taxes, like those on admissions, furs and sporting goods, might be dropped or lowered.

The administration is counting on the nuisance taxes for $452,580,000 on the next fiscal year, with the gasoline tax supplying $190,000,000 of the total, automobiles $48,300,000, electrical energy $34,000,000 and tires and inner tubes $29,750,000.

SEA BISCUIT CAPTURES $10,000 ANITA CLASSIC

LOS ANGELES, March 6 (AP)—Sea Biscuit won the $10,000 added San Juan Capistrano handicap, closing feature of the Santa Anita racing season today. Grand Manitou ran a surprise second. Special Agent was third and Indian Broom fourth.

Sea Biscuit, owned by C. S. Howard of San Francisco, won by seven lengths and hung up a new track record of 1:48.4 for the mile and one furlong distance. The previous record of 1:49.2 was set by Time Supply two years ago.

The favorite, Sea Biscuit, paid $5, $4 and $2.80 across the board. Raoul Walsh's Grand Manitou paid $35 and $5.60 and Special Agent $2.40.

A total of $247,154 was wagered on the race and it appeared certain

RADIO MICROPHONE IS GIVEN AS CRASH CAUSE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6 (AP)—United Air Lines officials announced today that an investigation disclosed a radio microphone lodged between the control column and seat rail are too numerous to mention.

San Francisco plane last Feb. 9, with the loss of eleven lives.

Pilot A. R. "Tommy" Thompson was helpless to prevent the crash, the report indicated, because of the strange accident.

The big plane had swung out over the bay and would have landed within a few seconds had not the microphone jammed the controls.

The lines' statement declared that steps already have been taken to prevent any recurrence of such a situation, "which could have happened only under unusual combination of circumstances."

In a statement released through S. A. Stimson, district traffic manager, United officials revealed the evidence which prompted the investigating committee to make a unanimous report as to the cause of the accident.

HIGH-FLYING DOG HAS 1,000 HOURS IN AIR

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—"Skipper," a cross-breed collie and St. Bernard dog, is a veteran flier.

In three and a half years the dog, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Ace Corbin, aviation enthusiasts, has spent 1,000 hours in the air. Corbin estimates "Skipper" has traveled 100,000 miles and says the animal likes nothing better than sticking its head out of the cockpit window into the rushing wind.

TWINS 'BEAN' SQUIRRELS WEATHERFORD, Okla.

CRIMINALS ARE ACCIDENTS

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Julian A. Schoen, for 35 years a deputy warden at the Atlanta U. S. penitentiary, observes: "Most criminals are just human accidents. I have no faith in heredity. I believe environment molds the man."

She quickened her footsteps and returned to her own table. She didn't sit down.

He agreed they should leave at once.

Worry nagged at the back of her mind, the lusty delight of her happiness dissolved. The taxi-rider to her apartment was a silent one.

"Thank you, Larry, for a grand evening." She gave him her smile but her eyes were still clouded.

WHY FORD USES ONLY

V-Type

8 CYLINDER ENGINES

FORD CARS have always been built around a basic idea. The Ford became famous because it filled a fundamental need—"Dependable, economical transportation."

As roads and cars improved, Ford kept ahead. In 1932, a new fundamental step was taken—the introduction of the V-type 8-cylinder engine in a low-price car.

The V-8 engine was not new. It had been used for years. But always in large, expensive cars. Ford found the way to produce this really superb power plant in a really low-price car.

Today, more than three million owners are enjoying brilliant Ford V-8 performance on the road. Their cars are set apart from other cars by a fundamental principle—the V-type 8-cylinder power plant—not merely the temporary styles and fancies of the day.

Eight cylinders give smoothness, performance and flexibility that a lesser number of cylinders, naturally, cannot give. And V-type is the most advanced power-plant construction—on land, water, or in the air.

Still pioneering, Ford provides for 1937 a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engine sizes. 85 horsepower for top-notch performance. 60 horsepower for rock-bottom economy.

Each is built into the same big, roomy car, with the same modern features. Each will prove to you, in its own way, how much the modern V-8 engine helps to make the Ford V-8 THE QUALITY CAR IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD.

BORGER'S BIRTHDAY

Neighboring Borger will have a birthday tomorrow, and Pampa is going to help her celebrate the occasion.

Borger will be 11 years of age Monday. Pampa's Board of City Development has been busy this week arranging plans to send a large delegation of Borger to take part in the anniversary celebration.

Every Pampa man who can go is urged to join the group which will leave the City Hall at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The local band and marching unit will be in the parade, scheduled to move through downtown Borger during the forenoon.

Pampa feels a great amount of pride in the growth of Borger whose public and civic officials have given such full-hearted cooperation in the many projects which the two Panhandle cities have in common.

So, from Pampa go felicitations to Borger on the event of an anniversary celebration—And may there be many more happy birthdays marked by progressive milestones.

OPPORTUNITY, OR ANNOYING

If an individual is complacent and seeking ease and comfort, any question that is in conflict with his established method of reasoning is annoying to the individual.

If he really is interested in the truth, any question that is in conflict gives the individual a real opportunity to correct his errors and be of greater service to his fellowman.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The neutrality law which Congress will pass may close several roadways along which this nation might stumble into the next European war.

But there will be in it no guarantee of peace, such as might lead toward shaving off a little of the 1937-38 budget provision of a billion dollars for the army and navy.

The adamant senators who emerged from service on the Senate Munitions committee determined to have peace at virtually any price, became reconciled to the neutrality bill brought out by Chairman Key Pittman of the Foreign Relations committee.

The Pittman bill has more mandatory features than the bill introduced by Chairman McReynolds of the House Foreign Affairs committee, and it is believed probable these added mandatory items will appear in the act as finally approved by both houses.

Under the Pittman measure, no arms, ammunition or implements of war may be exported to belligerent nations after a state of war begins to exist.

In the last war the Germans found their troops being killed by American shells when, at the same time, they couldn't get American food because of a blockade.

In case of a civil war, the President would be authorized to decide whether the situation was dangerous enough, with regard to our neutrality, to declare a munitions embargo.

No American citizens would be permitted to travel on the ships of belligerent nations. (Remember the Lusitania?)

The Pittman bill gives the President power to list materials, in addition to munitions, which American ships would be prohibited from transporting to any belligerent.

It lays down a drastic "cash and carry" principle by forbidding export of any materials whatever to belligerents unless all ownership and interest therein has been transferred to the foreign purchaser before the materials leave the country.

A baseball team was organized, with Elmus Gober as manager, to play in a semi-professional league.

The senior class enjoyed a party at the home of Elizabeth Courson, playing Mah Jong for entertainment.

Many Pampans attended the first birthday celebration of the city of Borger.

National Business Women's week was proclaimed as the Business and Professional Women's club, with Clara Lee Shewmaker as president, announced a week's program.

Ralph Budd of Chicago, president of the Burlington System; W. P. Kennedy, president of the Great Northern, and Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific, were here inspecting work on the Denver Northern.

G. P. Buckler and Will Wilks donated to the city several lots adjoining the Sam Houston campus for a playground.

The Groom Livestock show was in progress, and a number of Pampans were among the 3,000 persons attending the barbecue.

when Winchell's small daughter lay dead in New York City.

She had died the night before Bernie's regular broadcast. . . . The battle of the air between these two famous radio names had been unusually heated in the weeks just ended, Winchell landing a stiff punch on Sunday nights and Bernie retaliating two nights later, with the score about even. . . . But with the spectre of Death over the Broadway columnist's home on this particular Tuesday night, Bernie came onto the air with as great a tribute as could be paid from one man to another in a time of great sorrow. . . . His words, heard by millions, brought a heart-jerk to admirers of these two top-notch radioers everywhere. . . . Ben Bernie meant what he said that night. . . . And he spoke for all the lads.

Winchell was in turn a vaudeville hooper and a newspaper syndicate salesman before he went to the pinnacle with an original idea that made his gossip column a top-salary puller in the newspaper world. . . . Winchell used to chat in newspaper offices back East when he was making his regular rounds as a syndicate seller. . . . He was then conceiving the idea for his column which soon made its first appearance in the New York Graphic, and Winchell's traveling salesman days were over.

Fight as they do over the radio, Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie are the best of friends, just as Jack Benny and Fred Allen are friends. . . . It is a bit of acting that they do, and the public likes it. . . . There is psychology in the thing which causes radio listeners to watch each succeeding program, all curious to know what the radio stars will have to say next. . . . It is a trick of the trade, and a mighty good one.

And, speaking of friends. . . . Sometimes you meet a friend too late. . . . That is to say, you meet someone whom it would have been splendid to know in years that are gone. . . . It is a friendship, perhaps, that makes you feel as if there is much that you have missed because this friend is new instead of old. . . . Friends are few, old acquaintances may be many. . . . A friend is someone to be cherished, someone who deserves your personal application of the Golden Rule.

Cast of "The Week In Review" Saturday afternoon KPDN radio feature, went into action before the news camera at the end of their regular broadcast yesterday. . . . Mel Marshall, who produces this weekly show, prepares a tasty Italian spaghetti, fit for Mussolinic consumption.

We listened yesterday in a courtroom as a man and woman laid bare domestic troubles and dragged family skeletons into the open and rattled them around for public edification, if any. . . . Few there are who do not have a family skeleton of some kind, if you care to take the time to search for it. . . . We didn't listen very long, but went away with the thought that how much better it would have been for all concerned if the messy business had been settled out of court and in privacy.

Somebody has said there is a time and place for everything, but the world still is filled to overflowing with things decidedly not in their right places. . . . The job seems to be to try and get them as nearly into a proper setting, as is humanly possible. . . . And, so we go rambling along, sounding a bit preachy perhaps—and we do not intend to be—these merely being thoughts that bob into mind and drop off the fingers as we sit here at the typewriter, groping and grasping for something that may be of some benefit to somebody somewhere. . . . All the while realizing that we probably are not equipped sufficiently to make the effort anything but futile.

And, this being the Lord's Day, we shall end these lines with a Bible quotation which should be called the "chief end of man." . . . It is from Psalms 39:4, 5: "Lord, make me to know mine end, and the measure of my days, what it is; that I may know how frail I am. Behold, thou has made my days as a handbreadth, and mine age is nothing before thee; verily every man at his best state is altogether vanity."

Talks to Parents

By Brooke Peters Church

There was a time when children learned how to get on with others through contacts in the home. The only child was rarer than now, and even a family of two or three was considered small.

Today families are generally small, the only child is by no means the exception, people move from place to place so fast that they have no time to become part of any community, and the child has become the center of the stage.

Today families are generally small, the only child is by no means the exception, people move from place to place so fast that they have no time to become part of any community, and the child has become the center of the stage.

To offset these conditions the nursery school has been invented. Its object is to give the toddler a chance to meet and play with other children.

Unfortunately, the nursery school, though better than nothing, is generally not like the world. It offers too much guidance and oversight.

The ideal would be something less formal, perhaps merely a group of children gathered together in some busy home and treated like members of one family, even taking their part in the ordinary routine of daily life.

How's Your Health?

Edited by DR. IAGO GALDSTON for the New York Academy of Medicine

SIMPLIFYING PSYCHIATRY. Despite the fact that many psychiatric terms are being used in everyday language, the average person has but a thin and oft-times erroneous idea of psychiatry itself.

To many it is a mysterious practice. The psychiatrist is frequently pictured as a shaven Svengali, who, if lacking a piercing eye, certainly has an all-knowing intellect, and an esoteric knowledge of the mysteries.

The psychiatric patient, too, is frequently pictured as one if not always insane, certainly is always queer.

Actually it's otherwise. Psychiatry is no more mysterious than the science of immunology, though it is granted both are sufficiently involved.

Psychiatric patients, save those who suffer from the more serious forms of mental disease, differ but little and oft-times are not to be distinguished from those treated for organic diseases.

Good psychiatry is very frequently practiced by those who hold themselves out to be only general practitioners. And many patients served by such physicians carry away a small prescription in their pocket and a large dose of psychotherapy in their person.

The doctor need not be a specialist, a psychiatrist. It is best to begin with one's family physician. If the case requires more expert help than he can render, he will refer the individual to a specialist.

Hundreds Attend Walstad Funeral

Oldtimers from over the Panhandle came to Pampa Thursday afternoon to pay last respects to one of their number, Mrs. Marian Walstad, 89, who died at her home here Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Walstad came to the Panhandle more than 50 years ago. In 1908 she came to Pampa and since then the friendly city of the plains had been her home.

Surviving Mrs. Walstad are seven daughters, 50 grandchildren, 80 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren. Three sons preceded her in death.

Burial was in Fairview cemetery under direction of the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral home.

Joe Smith was dismissed from Pampa-Jarratt hospital Friday.

LET'S KNOW TEXAS AND TEXANS BY WILL H. MAYES.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. As evidence of good faith inquirers must give their names and addresses, but only their initials will be printed. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. What prevented the Texas commissioners to the United States in 1835-36, from having the success they expected? A. They found interest keen, but money lenders exacting as to terms, and hesitant to make loans until independence was declared and a government set up with which to deal; defeats at the Alamo and Goliad weakened confidence in the Texas Army; Houston's retreat from Gonzales aroused fears of the final outcome; the Texas government failed to communicate with its commissioners; and no official reports were sent them. Austin afterward said that if such documents had reached them before leaving Washington, he believed they would have brought official recognition.

This, That and Everything By JESS KELLEY

Great lessons be about us in some of life's most uneventful experiences. It requires a rare type of genius to spy the valuable lessons from the ordinary routine of daily affairs. Often these lessons go unnoticed and unnoticed until some poet comes along and rescues those great truths from the realm of obscurity and gives them dignified publicity through the medium of song. We find it true that a moment's consideration of the most common-place things has taught the world's greatest philosophers, scholars and poets their greatest lessons and gave them practical themes for their masterpieces. Such an insignificant thing as a dandelion taught James Russell Lowell to "deem more secretly every human heart." The chambered nautilus was able to stir the soul of Mr. Holmes to due consideration of a sublime spiritual truth.

No one's life is so uneventful, nor is his daily routine so commonplace that nature has no deep and significant truths to reveal if he only has the gumption to see them. Surely the extent of our education is not determined entirely by the standard of scholastic achievements, but the most important phase of education is acquired by constant vigilance of all life's experiences.

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—Portrait of an actor earning his salary:

Spencer Tracy, looking like somebody else because his hair is curled for "Captains Courageous," is about to make an "added scene."

In the long shot taken at sea, the mast of the ship We're Here collapsed in a storm, carrying Tracy to fatal injury, according to the scenario, in the seething waves.

Today's scene, a close-up, is to match that. The setting is the studio "tank," but the camera on a crane focuses on the square of placid water in which Tracy and the broken mast are resting. In a skiff to one side the microphone man swings his boom; in another skiff Director Hal Rosson crouch in preparation for the "storm." A couple of nurses in uniform wait on the deck of the battered facsimile of We're Here.

Hollywood Storm

Tracy, with a philosophical grin, slips down from the mast, gets himself entangled in the floating mast ropes as ordered, and waits. At a signal the storm begins, and what a storm! Huge paddles churn up a frothy sea, clouds of spray fly with a roar from a towering wooden reservoir, and a huge funnel batters Tracy's head with "wind." The waves rise higher, higher, engulfing him, knocking him about as he yells his dialogue. "Rescuers" are John Carradine—just up from the flu—Dave Thursty and Jack Stirling, all of who get nearly as drenched as Tracy.

And they do the scene three times. Before the last take, he tumbled, emerged in his art if ever actor was, catches me leering on the sidelines and jeers: "You like to try it? If you've got to laugh, you might stay out of my line of vision!"

But another wave breaks over him before I can explain it wasn't laughter but an expression I always wear when wondering whether Metro is trying to drown Tracy.

After he has changed in the heated tent nearby, I learn he's rather wondering about that himself. At least, he said he planned to go to bed for three weeks after his picture—if he were still alive after this picture. . . .

Bette Davis To Sing

Bette Davis will sing, for the first time on any screen, in "Kid Galahad." . . . Why didn't she sing before? No one ever asked her, and never the thought of suggesting it. . . . Writer Clemence Dane's real name is Winifred.

Everything's been done before now: Vladimir Sokoloff, Russian actor, arrived to play in "Danton," now temporarily shelved. . . . But he was a newcomer and important, hence the studio sought information on his career. . . . Only to learn that in 1931 or thereabouts Sokoloff had his screen baptism on that same lot, playing in foreign versions. . . . As inconspicuously as, about the same time, Charles Boyer did the same.

Archer and Wharton, who were then near Washington, on the way there, he appointed George C. Childress, and Robert Hamilton to go there for that purpose, and before they reached there, Childress and Hamilton were superseded by James W. Collingsworth and Peter W. Grayson.

CAREY WINS STATE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP OVER GOBER 26 TO 18

POLYTECHNIC TAKES THIRD IN TOURNEY

CHILDRESS QUINTET IS CLASS OF TEAMS IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, March 6 (AP)—The brilliant Carey Cardinals from the Panhandle tonight vanquished a fighting band of plowboys from Gober of Northeast Texas to win the state high school basketball championship by a score of 26 to 18.

In a furiously-played game, marked by a phenomenal middle-of-the-court goaling, the Cardinals, taking advantage of experience gained last year when they finished fourth, clearly outplayed the stubborn Gober team.

Polytechnic of Fort Worth won third place, with a 43 to 27 victory over the Livingston Lions.

The Parrots flashed sterling form to submerge their smaller rivals whose previous adroit passing and goaling game collapsed.

The plowboys, featuring fast-breaking plays, leaped to a 6-2 lead in the first quarter but were held scoreless in the second while the Cardinals, solving the baffling Gober defense, piled up 10 points to a 12-6 advantage. The end of the third period found the count 16-10 with Carey still in front and the hectic fourth saw the plowboys creep within three points of the agile Panhandle giants only to drop back in the closing moments.

Foust, a forward, and Gresham, center, shared high point honors for the champions with seven each and H. Middleton pressed close with six. Center Claxton and Guard Todd of the runners-up totaled six each.

AUSTIN, March 6 (AP)—Unofficial all-tournament teams, chosen by sportswriters who covered the state high school championship tourney from the eight teams entered, were as follows:

First team: Forwards—Carroll Foust of Carey and Winifred Battise of Livingston.

Center—Fate Gresham of Carey. Guards—G. W. Todd of Gober and Mike Ball of Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio.

Second team: Cecil McClung of Polytechnic of Fort Worth and W. J. Redwine of Carey.

Fight And Fire Of Football Prospects Please Coaches

Center—Albert Klosters of Dublin, Guards—Foster Bullock of Livingston, Harbour Middleton of Carey and David Nifnecker of Polytechnic of Fort Worth.

AUSTIN, March 6 (AP)—The Panhandle's husky Carey Cardinals and the Gober plowboys from Northeast Texas were matched in the state high school basketball championship finals here tonight.

The contest, regarded as a toss-up, featured teams of equal ability and size, with sharp-shooting goalers and clever ballhandlers in a supreme effort for the title.

A battle for third place, staged before the main affair went on, brought a clever Livingston quint composed mainly of Alabama Indians, against the hard-playing Polytechnic Parrots of Fort Worth.

Carey's young giants advanced to the finals in a walk-away 27-10 tilt with the Fort Worth team, their amazing goaling and impenetrable defense blocking all efforts of the Parrots. Foust, Redwine and Gresham hit the basket with monotonous consistency.

The plowboys were pushed to the limit by Livingston's Lions before breaking into the championship clash. The troublesome Indians, most colorful quint of the meet, toted 33-26, mainly because of superior height of the Gober five.

In the first round, Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio lost a 32-30 decision to Gober, Carey clubbed down a scrappy Dublin quint by 31-26. Livingston bewildered Fort Stockton into 28-17 defeat, and Polytechnic overwhelmed Harlingen 28-12.

Training Camp News

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 6 (AP)—Frankie Frisch sent his St. Louis Cardinals through their first competitive baseball of the spring training season today, the "Mickey Owens" defeating the Pepper Martins, 8 to 0, in a seven-inning practice game.

The coaches were well pleased with the fight and fire of their charges. Nearly every boy in uniform got a chance to play during the scrimmage. Missing, however, was Tippy Reynolds, outstanding end prospect. He accompanied Coach Mitchell, Dick Dennard and Chester Hunkapiller to Austin. Absence of Reynolds gave Harry McMahan a chance to show his stuff and it was plenty good.

NEW BOYS PROMISING
A newcomer to Harvester football ranks, James Dewey threw a scare into backfield prospects with some shifty running which resulted in a touchdown. Bobby Carr, another newcomer, also gave notice that he will be hard to beat out of a place in the ball carrying department. He displayed mighty promising blocking ability in the game. Still another ball toting threat was Claude Heiskell who showed up exceptionally well as a ball carrier, punter and on defense. Backfield weight should be slightly better than last season.

The line, with more prospects than in recent years, also showed a couple of new prospects in Kenneth New and Leonard Dull, at couple of fairly heavy tackles. Their knowledge of football is naturally limited but in scrimmage they showed a willingness to learn and signs of ability. The line weight will also be greater than last season, but not much.

Only two or three veterans available, coaches will have to take a comparatively green squad again this season. Consistent starters back from the 1936 squad include Captain J. W. Graham, J. P. Mathews and John Henry Nelson. They looked in mid season form during their time in the scrimmage. Other boys back from last season include Norman Cox, Harry McMahan, Tippy Reynolds, Lalofo Watts, Junior Williams, Melvin Turner, Arthur Harding, Bill Stiles and Don Smith.

FIGHT FOR POSITIONS
Smith appears to have a halfback job in the sack instead of being a guard position where he worked last season. Turner, who played in the backfield last season, has been turned into a center where his defensive work stood out in scrimmage. He will battle Harding, last season's reserve center, for the right to fill Noble's position.

Taking a look at former Guerriers, who had a successful season under Coach Curry, the railbirds found Freeman, Hubert, Leavitt and one or two others with ball toting ability. In the line the work of Solomon, Coshow, Brown, and others stood out. From Junior high ranks Coach Tom Herod presented Jack Wear, full-back prospect, Pete Dunaway and a couple of other bright lights.

Next week is expected to see the battle for positions narrowed down to a few boys. In the limelight for ball toting action are Graham, Smith, Carr, Wear, Williams, Dunnaway, Hubert, Heiskell, Dewey, Freeman and probably two or three others.

At ends the fight should be among Reynolds, Cox, and McMahan. The tackle situation finds Nelson, Solomon, Brown, New, Dull and a couple more in the swim while a couple battle is settling down to Mathews, Stiles, Coshow, Watts with Harding and Turner, battling at center.

Several others, however, may crop up to give the favorites plenty of trouble.

PAMPA NETTERS SPLIT TENNIS MATCHES HERE

Despite yesterday's rain, two tennis teams appeared here to compete against Harvester racketeers. Games were played in the high school gymnasium with Pampa's singles entry winning from Canadian and Canadian taking the doubles from Pampa. Canadian's singles player defeated a LeFors entry, 6-4, 6-4, but lost to Bobby Childers of Pampa, 6-0, 6-0, 6-1 in the finals.

Howard Buckingham and Joe Isbell of Pampa defeated the LeFors doubles players, Hall and Carruth. In the first round and had won two games from Canadian when they faltered and let Canadian win the final three games. Scores were for the Canadian, 3-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

A girls' invitation tournament will be played here on March 20. At that time it is hoped to play a boys tournament as well.

Softball Managers Will Meet Tuesday

Managers of teams in the Pampa Softball association will meet at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night in the chamber of commerce rooms in the city hall to discuss plans for play during the season. Temporary Chairman E. W. Voss will preside.

Every team in the Pampa area believing they can play ball in fast company is urged to have a representative at the meeting. There are 16 teams already registered.

It is planned to have every team in the association play each other before May 1 when a league or leagues will be organized. If some of the teams cannot meet the test they will be placed in a Class B league. Managers will be the judges, it is planned.

MANY PAMPANS WILL ATTEND BORGER FETE

The Dallas cagers eliminated the favored Brown Paper Mills of Monroe, La., 32 to 27 in the semifinals. Slaton beat out Hamilton Motors of Dallas in a close battle, 41 to 34.

Sammy's held at 16-15 lead at the half, but Bryski, able Brown Paper guard, shot two quick field goals and two free throws to put after the second quarter. The semifinals, Slaton beat out Hamilton Motors of Dallas in a close battle, 41 to 34.

The talkative Slaton cagers ran up a quick lead on Hamilton Motors but Dewell, Blanton and Norton, Southern Methodist cagers, made it nip and tuck battle until the last few minutes. Crews of Slaton and Dewell each got 16 points.

The losers will fight it out for third place prior to the championship game tonight.

RAIN DELAYS SCOUTS

A slow downpour of rain delayed the return yesterday of 25 members of Boy Scout Troop 80 from the Hoover-Strader ranch 14 miles south of Canadian. The boys intended to return yesterday, but it was decided that it would not be advisable for them to return in an open truck in the rain. The boys stayed in the comfortable log cabins on the ranch. 'Chief' in Borger Parade

One of the attractions in Borger's tenth birthday anniversary celebration parade Monday will be the Santa Fe Railway's miniature train, "The Chief," shown here. Traveling in a special car, the train left the company's Topeka shops this week and will arrive in Borger Saturday. Since its construction several years ago, the train has traveled extensively and has appeared in hundreds of parades and celebrations in Santa Fe territory, including both Chicago and Los Angeles. It consists of a locomotive and five cars, and was built by employees of the Topeka shops on their own time. M. A. Benson, who supervised its construction, will pilot it in the parade at Borger Monday.

DIMAGGIO AND FELLER NAMED BEST ROOKIES

TAMPA, Fla., March 6 (AP)—Baseball managers are not in doubt as to the most interesting rookies in the big time this year.

They unhesitatingly nominate Vincent Dimaggio of the Boston Bees and Robert C. (Bob) Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

Those interviewed so far on the whirl around the Florida grapefruit league agree this pair of colorful kids will be the center of all attention and will have a toothhold on the spotlight during the early weeks of the campaign, anyway.

They believe Feller, who looks like one of the best pitching prospects in the game, and Dimaggio, an outfielder touted from the West Coast as a coming hitting great, both will make the grade in their freshman years.

In fact, they say Feller, the most publicized rookie in baseball, can convert the Indians from a fifth place outfit into a full-fledged threat for Yankee pennant laurels if he can just make a fair-sized stab at maintaining the pace he set in the closing weeks of last year's race.

Over in the national league, Dimaggio, blown east with a mighty California ballyhoo, isn't expected to out-do the feats of his younger brother Joe, who burned up the American league with the Yankees last season, but National league fans, particularly those in the Boston district, count on him to prove Joe isn't the only ball player in the Dimaggio family.

TRAINING BEGINS

DALLAS, March 6 (AP)—The crack of bats, silenced for five months, will resound again Monday in the Texas league as six of the eight clubs open training camps.

Raymond of Union Hill was high scorer of the night with 14 points. McCain of Mobette paced the guards. The third and deciding game was scheduled to be played in Tulla Saturday night.

Two years ago the money-mailing craze, started on a send-a-dime basis, reached epidemic proportions.

Mail service was severely crippled under a flood of letters and before the fad died, nearly every family in the city was involved, despite warning from federal officials the chains violated postal laws.

William E. Guthner, manager of safety, said today police have taken cognizance of the rebirth of the chain letter here within the past few days.

He called the scheme "a sucker's game that is as crooked as anything could be." Guthner said he and District attorney John A. Carroll would confer Monday on steps to combat growth of new chain letter operations.

"We have learned four chains spring up this week," Guthner said. "There will be 44 next week if something isn't don't to stop them. These things are worse than mushrooms."

ered over and was open at the back where we took our products out. We didn't sell much to Ft. Elliot as they usually raised their own stuff and put up their own ice. Occasionally an officer who happened to be in town would come out to the wagon and buy a small bunch of vegetables and carry them home in his pocket.

"We did a mighty fine business with our ice. Mobeette had eight well-patronized saloons, and they used a lot of ice. We cut the ice off Adobe creek. It was a beautiful broad creek then with the loveliest clear water—it is only a very small stream now. The ice was very good, and we had very little wastage. Our ice house was in a dugout, and it was the coolest, nicest place imaginable in the summer. The building was 36x24 and about seven feet deep. In the center of the floor was a drain where the waste water from the ice was carried away. We spread a layer of hay on the floor and put the ice on it. Then we packed hay all around the ice. It kept very well and we had very little wastage.

"We continued our market garden for about two years and the ice business for three or four. After that I worked on ranches for about six years.

"I worked on the U Bar U ranch with headquarters five or six miles northwest of McLean. Then I worked on the Circle Heart ranch with headquarters northeast of Clarendon. In that day and time most of the ranches ran from about 1,000 to 20,000 head of cattle. There were no fences and the herds were kept on or near the home range by the cowboys. There was always a range boss, wagon boss, and from five to twenty cowboys in an outfit.

"Most of the ranchers left their families in Mobeette. Usually there were from 50 to 75 cowpunchers from surrounding ranches in town every day. The town was very quiet. In fact it was often called the quietest frontier town in Texas. Most of the houses were made of pickets, but some were of sod. I suppose there were about 750 people there at that time. A majority of the people engaged in ranching, but there were some who made their living by hunting. Back in the early and middle seventies the hunters were after buffalo, but when the buffalo were gone, they hunted deer and shipped the hides. On the ranch we raised some feed, but not much.

"The rancher owned very little land in those early days. He usually owned no more than a quarter section and grazed the open ranges. Later when the country was more settled and the open ranges more scarce, it was necessary to lease land in order to have large ranches. Land in order to have large ranches."

Improved the vast properties until her death in 1925. In her will she left the residue of the estate in a trust to be handled 10 years by the trustees (also named in the will). It was on this trust estate the Atwoods asked an accounting. The property was divided two years ago upon the expiration of the trust period and the trustees—Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., Caesar Kleberg, Congressman Richard Kleberg, Richard King, Jr., Samuel Ragland and John D. Finnegan, continued management of the ranch.

Fisher declared the estate was petitioned in the absence of the Atwoods and that no books were kept to show the transaction. At the time of distribution in 1935, Fisher told the court, "the trustees didn't have sufficient funds to meet debts of the trust estate." He added that a "debt of $3,000,000 to the Humble Oil and Refining company was secured by ranch lands of the estate, which trustees were unable to pay."

"I know it will be a big job," he said, "but we want it accounted for."

NO. 6 —

The pretty little Geisha girls to see whom tired American business men have been known to travel half way round the world, seemed successful tonight in their sit-down at Osaka, Japan. The ladies went into a post a week ago because their bosses wouldn't let them organize a union. Tonight they were back with smiles and their songs, with the police in charge of mediation proceedings.

Detroit's five-and-ten cent store girls were saying "may I help you, please?" to customers, having sat

SURVEY INSTRUMENT TO BE DEMONSTRATED HERE

A stratigraphic survey instrument which will log formations in the open hole or behind casing has been invented and its function will be explained when M. T. Montrose of the Lane-Wells company of Oklahoma City speaks at the regular monthly meeting of the Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute Tuesday night in the city auditorium. The meeting will open with a musical program at 8 o'clock.

Besides demonstrating and explaining the new recording instrument, Mr. Montrose will present a paper on gun perforating of casing. The Lane-Wells company specializes in the work which allows gas to flow through casing.

Mr. Montrose will give an illustrated lecture on the two subjects. It had not been learned here up to yesterday whether he would show pictures or demonstrate with the equipment.

A report on the recent Mid-Continent division convention in Tulsa will be made. The Panhandle chapter landed the 1938 convention which themselves down to a wage boost settlement of their difficulties with the F. W. Woolworth people.

TENTH WEEK OF COURT WILL OPEN IN CITY

Gray county district court will enter its tenth and final week of the January term Monday.

The week is scheduled for the handling of non-jury matters, according to attaches in the court clerk's office, and the docket will be light.

Saturday Judge W. R. Ewing was engaged in listening to testimony from jurors in the motion for a new trial in the case of W. M. Agey against C. B. Barnard, et al, a try title action.

Motion for the new trial was based on alleged irregularities in the jury room at the first trial of the case several weeks ago.

Condition of Mrs. W. L. Campbell of McLean who has been seriously ill was greatly improved in Worley hospital yesterday.

P-TA OF HIGH SCHOOL ELECTS MRS. SCHULKEY

Other Units Are To Name Officers This Month

Mrs. C. H. Schulkey was elected president of High School Parent-Teacher association for next year, at a meeting in the new school auditorium Friday. This election was the first of a series scheduled in all Parent-Teacher associations during March.

Mrs. Schulkey and other new officers will take up their duties at the start of next term. She will succeed Mrs. N. F. Maddux, who will become second president. Mrs. Earl Eaton was elected first vice president, Mrs. Cyril Hamilton secretary, Mrs. J. E. Ritchie treasurer, Mrs. Roy Kilgore historian.

In addition to the business meeting, an interesting program was included Friday. Subject for discussion in a symposium was Young Lives in a Modern World. Kenneth Carmen spoke on Character-Forming Agencies in This Community; R. A. Selby on Effects of Motion Pictures; Judge Sherman White on Legislation Affecting Youth.

Music included a piano solo by Pauline Stewart, and songs by a quartet; Ethel Wilder, Colleen McMahan, Charles Hickman, and Gene Finkbeiner. Mrs. Schulkey was in charge of program arrangements.

Hurry-up Meals Demonstrated at Priscilla Club

"Serve your meal with a smile; even though it is not all you would like, your glad hospitality will make your unexpected guests happy to be with you," said Mrs. J. M. Daugherty to Priscilla Club members at a demonstration club Friday at her home.

She showed an emergency shelf stocked with many varieties of canned foods, menus and tried recipes ready to be used for these quickly prepared meals.

Each club member brought an article for the emergency shelf, to form the display. Mrs. D. C. Davis led a round-table discussion when each told her favorite way of serving the food she chose. One recipe given was for oyster omelet: Drain juice from a large can of oysters and chop fine. Add four well beaten eggs, about eight crackers rolled fine, half cup of milk, butter size of an egg, pepper and salt. Fry in two tablespoons of hot fat, stirring constantly like scrambled eggs.

An assembly Friday evening closed the training school conducted at First Methodist church last week. Certificates will be presented to members of the church who received credit at the morning session today. Mrs. John E. Eldridge of Floydada and the Rev. Joe Strother of Miami were teachers in the course.

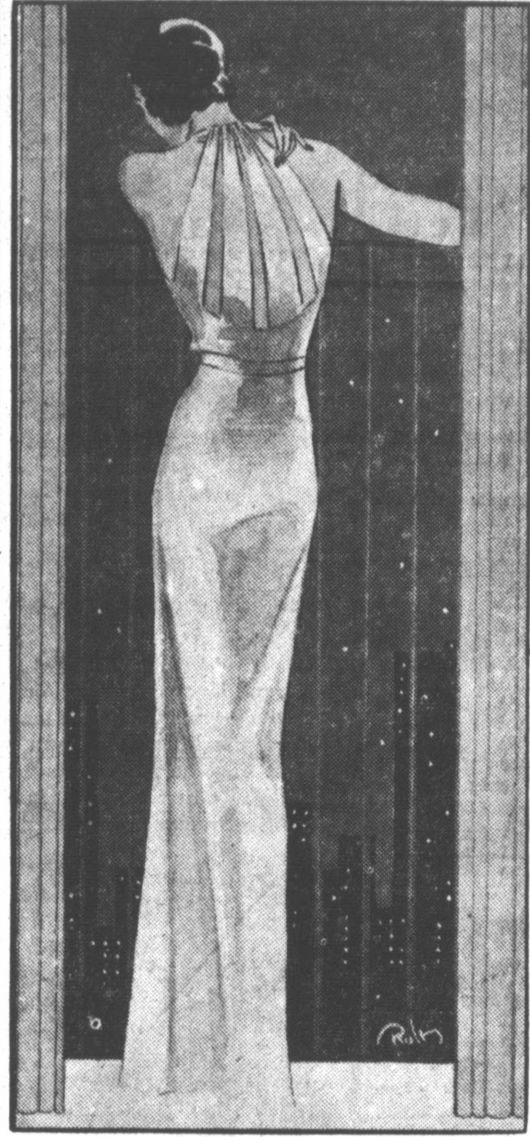

The Rev. Will C. House, pastor, presided at the assembly. He has been ill of flu, but will conduct services today and will speak on the Ministerial Alliance program over radio station KPND this afternoon at 2. Lester Aldrich will direct music for the broadcast.

In Mrs. Simpson's Easter Wardrobe

The wardrobe (estimated cost: $4,000) with which Mrs. Wallis Simpson will dazzle Riviera admirers in the weeks before her expected wedding to abdicated King Edward VIII of England, includes a smart Molyneux Spring coat (right) with fitted beltless waist and full skirt. The neck is collarless and small revers as well as the front opening are edged with loops of silk cord braiding. The evening gown (left) selected from the Molyneux collection is of Mrs. Simpson's favorite silver-gray cast blue satin, made on sheath lines to below the knees, where it widens into fullness. The lowest back is joined to the halter bodice by bands of the satin. (Both costumes sketched from radiophotos transmitted exclusively to NEA Service).

BPW Club Sponsors Program for a Review

Civic accomplishments of Pampa clubs will be reviewed at the second annual School of Citizenship luncheon on March 15, when each club is invited to send representatives with a concise report. The date was set when a committee named at the first luncheon last year, headed by Mrs. F. E. Leech, met recently.

Sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club during national Business Women's week, the luncheon last March was attended by a large group and proved an interesting clearing house of club aims and accomplishments. Those present voted to make the occasion an annual one.

On the committee in charge are Mrs. L. R. Hartell, Mrs. Charles Hughes, Charlie Maisei, Dick Hughes, and Mrs. Leech. They are assisted by the legislative committee of the Business and Professional Women's club, Mrs. Ruth Walstead and Mrs. Finis Jordan.

Miss Mildred Overall of the women's club has been named toastmaster. Program details are to be planned the first of the week.

SPRING STYLE SHOW PLANNED BY A. A. U. W.

An Easter style show will be presented on the evening of March 19, sponsored by the scholarship committee of the A. A. U. W. Proceeds will go to the scholarship fund which each year helps a girl graduating from Pampa high school to continue her education.

Models for the show will be selected soon by the participating shops. Attractive stage arrangements and lighting effects will be used, and musical accompaniment will add to the entertainment. The style show will supplement the usual motion picture program. The film scheduled for that evening is Maid of Salem. Claudette Colbert's latest.

Art Exhibit Is Visited by Club

A visit to the art exhibit in Horace Mann school auditorium closed a program of the Parent-Teacher study group there Friday, when 25 women were present. Mrs. John Andrews was guest speaker on art, and round-table discussion followed her talk.

She stressed that aside from pleasure, the study of art has a cultural value, opening paths to literature, history, and other subjects and touching life in many places. Cultivating the ability to see beauty in art helps to show the beauty that lies in nature and in everyday things, she added.

Dog, Teacher's Pet, Refuses Promotion

DECATUR, Ga. (P)—Higher education can go to the bow-wows as far as Dynamite is concerned.

He has a crush on Ruth Beggs, sixth grade teacher.

His classmates say that is why he is a repeater in her class even though he has a promotion card.

At any rate, Dynamite refused to enter the seventh grade after he and his master, Forrest Jones Jr., 12, were promoted.

That hurt Forrest, who had hoped Dynamite would go on and graduate with him.

Takes Old Seat.

But when the school bells pealed last fall Dynamite started back to school and took his old seat.

Mrs. Roselle Martin, principal of the Ponce de Leon school that Forrest and Dynamite attend, considers the collic a model scholar.

She says there isn't a tardy mark to his record and that he obeys all the rules, even to falling in line with the children when recess and dismissal bells ring.

Arithmetic Bored Him.

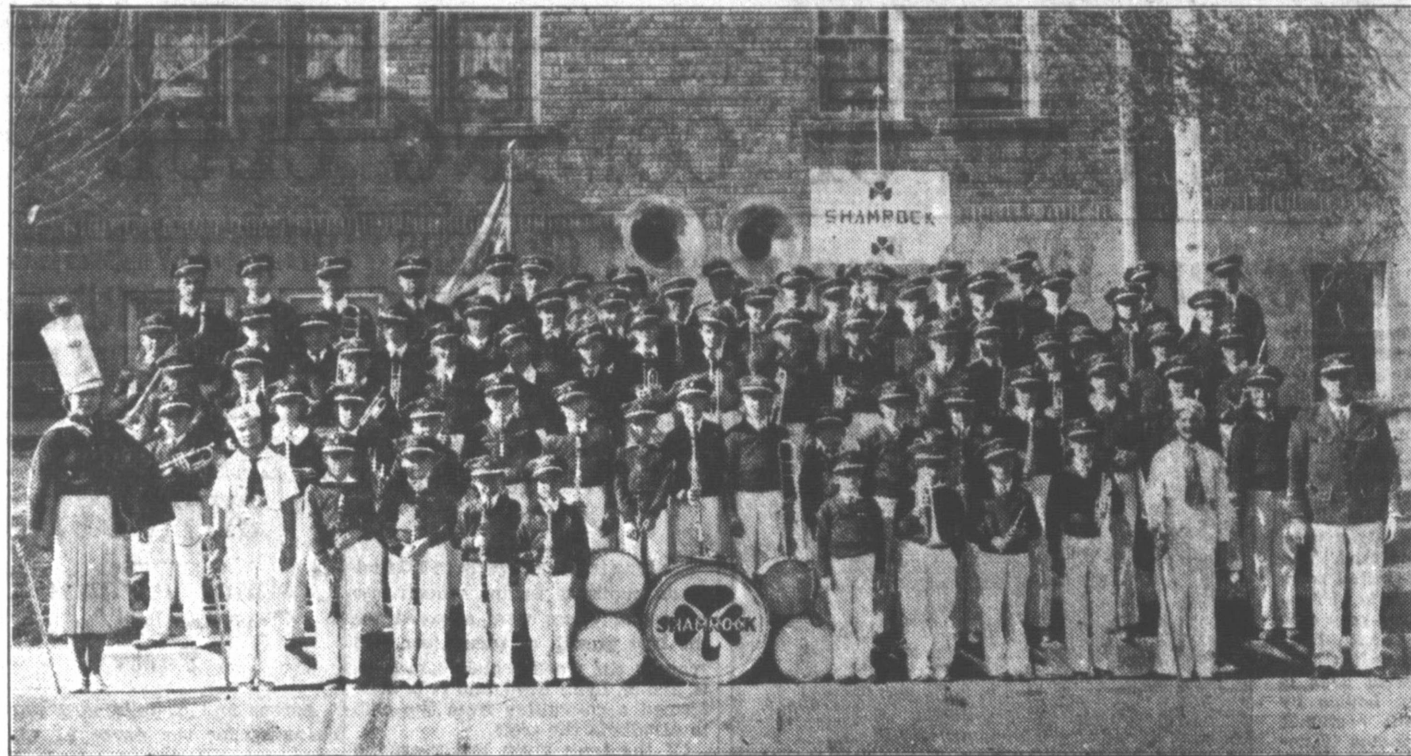

"We had to mark him 'unsatisfactory' in department one month," Mrs. Martin concedes. "He created such a stir when another dog followed one of the pupils to school."

Dynamite appears bored when the class is studying arithmetic and the like—but usually he is interested.

Forrest says the dog "took up" with him three years ago and they have been pals ever since.

THE FINANCIAL WHIRLIGIG

By LOUIS SCHNEIDER

BARTER.
American industrialists, bankers, and others interested in arranging barter deals now have in hand a 120-page confidential offer from Germany. The report was received only last week. It records what Germany will ship to the United States in exchange for raw cotton. The list includes cement, leather, gloves, chemicals, machinery, coal and coke, beer, wines, imitation and semi-precious jewelry, steels, steel pipes, toys and a long list of other merchandise.

At the present time Germany is badly in need of cotton. Your correspondent has been confidentially informed that if the barter transactions work out favorably other American products will be accepted. It is expected that oil, tobacco and meat products will later be added to the barter list.

Due to political difficulties in Germany no definite moves are being made. The German government wishes to barter only if foreign funds remain in her favor. This American exporters refuse to allow. They say that the transactions must go on a dollar for dollar exchange. If that can't be arranged then all barter negotiations will end.

FOODS.
There's a reason for the dull tone which recently developed in the foodstuffs markets. The hold-off attitude is due to the trade's belief that unusually heavy crops will develop this year. Because of such expectations trade insiders expect lower price levels.

The fly in the ointment is that unfavorable weather may not bring about the expected results. Sudden or severe frosts could cause serious damage to the early growing. Due to such a possibility some of the trade are carrying "necessity" stocks while hedging on futures.

ESTIMATES.
Almost without exception the retail organizations of the country reported substantial gains for 1936 over those of 1935. A few reported the best nets since 1929. In three instances 1936 income beat all previous records. Retail executives predict that 1937 will better the figures of 1936. The estimated $100,000,000 sales figures of last year are expected to be bettered by 10 per cent. The 1935 net profits of $5,000,000 are expected to move up to $6,000,000.

On a per share basis private 1937 estimates run as follows: Woolworth, $3.83; Kresge, $2.27; McCrory, $2.09; G. C. Murphy, $6.73; McCrory, $2.09; W. T. Grant, $4.32; Hebebery, $7.25; H. L. Green, $4.18; Goodie, $6.07; McLellan, $2.04; Sears Roebuck, $6.75; Montgomery Ward, $4.30; J. C. Penney, $8.95; R. H. Macy, $3.85; Federated Department Stores, $4.40; Allied Stores, $2.16; May Department Stores, $4.55; Gimbel Bros., $3; Associated Dry Goods, $2.45; National Department Stores, $3.25; and Interstate Department Stores, $4.50 a share for 1937.

The estimates were calculated on the sales and income expectations stated above and on options of what earnings would be for those companies which have not already issued 1936 financial reports.

RUBBER.
Speculative buying is the reason for the recent sharp advance in crude rubber prices. Armament plays a large part in the demand. Rubber stocks in London and Liverpool warehouses are at the lowest levels since late 1929. It is doubted whether the British government will permit shipments.

It is also doubted whether the Dutch East Indies can increase output on a broad scale while a labor shortage exists. Due to these factors commodity traders continue bullish on crude rubber price prospects.

CHARTS.
The general estimate is that 75 per cent of the country's stock trading fraternity may be classified as chart students. The majority of these follow the Dow theory. These trading interests have assumed a cautious attitude because of the action of railroad shares.

The Dow theory is that when the industrial averages advance the rail averages must confirm. That hasn't been the case over the past few months. Every time the rails rally dip—history shows a 55-point spread between the shares. And, that American Sugar's 1936 financial report—due soon—will show $2 dividend was covered by $1 and not by $3 as dope sheets had tipped.

MEETS FATHER FOR FIRST TIME AT AGE OF 32.
SHAWNEE, Okla. (AP)—Thirty-two-year-old Ray Webb, a civil engineer, saw his father for the first time in his life recently.

And the father, Hugh Webb, of Knox City, Texas, got acquainted not only with his son, but with his grandson, four-year-old Stanley Dean Webb.

Father and son struck up a correspondence after locating each other in 1930. The two finally met, looked at each other and laughed. They look remarkably alike.

SEES INCREASE IN TENANT FARMERS.
DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—B. H. Hubbard, University of Wisconsin economist, told a group of farm owners here he believed the recent small gain in the number of owner-operated farms in some sections of the country is "only incidental and temporary."

His theory is that the farm owners moved back from town to the country because their usual landlord's income has been depleted. He thinks that with better times they will be looking for tenants again.

ALL RED SIGNS BILL TO MEND LIQUOR LAW

AUSTIN, March 6 (AP)—Governor James V. Alfred signed a bill today authorizing search and seizure warrants to enforce the State Liquor law.

The governor had advocated a number of measures to tighten enforcement and the court of criminal appeals recently stated absence of authorization for search warrants was hampering officials, especially in dry territory.

With the Legislature in week-end adjournment and many members on a trip of inspection of Buchanan Dam, part of the lower Colorado river development project, great interest centered on the ultimate fate of legalized horse race betting in Texas.

The Senate furnished the high-spot of the Legislative week by taking a long step toward repeal of the betting law enacted in 1933, a step already taken by the house.

It engrossed a repeal amendment to a track employes regulatory bill previously passed by the House and further and possibly final action was slated for next Wednesday.

A complicating factor was a hearing before a Senate committee scheduled for Tuesday on a House out-right repeal bill.

Other action of the week included Senate passage of a teachers retirement bill and House approval of a six-per cent per barrel tax on

14 Locations In Panhandle Field Filed During Week

Fourteen first intentions to drill in the Panhandle field were filed with the local office of the Texas Railroad commission last week with Gray county out in front with five, followed by Hutchinson with four, Moore county with three and Carson county with two.

Among the locations was one by Cree and Hoover on the W. E. Melton lease in section 5, block B-2, HGN survey, south of the Bowers pool. Magnolia Petroleum company also made a location on the Catlin lease in section 64, block 3, I&GN survey, east of Pampa.

Intentions to drill:

Southern Petroleum Exploration Co., Inc., J. S. Baird No. 6, 330 feet from the west and 990 feet from the north of W 1/2 of NW 1/4 of section 127, block 3, I&GN, Gray county.

GOWN NAMED FOR LILY.

NEW YORK (AP)—An evening gown called "Menaphar" (French for water lily) was featured in a fashion show held recently by Helen Johnson. The skirts of the dress was made of numerous yards of light yellow chiffon which fell in soft folds to the floor. The neckline, which was shirred and very high in front, was draped into a low decollete in back. A group of white water lilies was clustered at the waistline in front. A three-piece cape of chiffon in complementary colors of yellow and green was used as a wrap.

WALKS TO LIVE.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—In 1930, 69-year-old George A. Wade started "walking to live." He says that since then—when he was on the verge of a breakdown—he has walked 19,992 miles.

"Aw, Chuck, don't go away mad! Do you want the neighbors saying we've pfft again—and our romance has iced and I'm carrying the torch?"

Chiff Vincent at LePors by that time, also.

Woodrow Wilson P-TA at Pampa entertained the Gray County Council Saturday with a luncheon at 12 for the representatives of the various units in the council, and a program at 1 o'clock which was open to all members. County Supt. W. B. Weathered led a panel discussion, assisted by other school superintendents.

TELLS HOW FARMERS CAN WHIP DUST STORMS.

MANHATTAN, Kas. (AP)—Prof. R. I. Throckmorton of the Kansas State college agronomy department believes dust storms virtually would be eliminated if farmers in affected regions would follow several approved practices.

These, he says, include returning plant life residue to the soil, using implements in cultivation that leave small clods on the soil surface, avoiding pulverization of soil by excessive cultivation, strip cropping to avoid a wide sweep of barren soil, and cultivating fields at cross-angles to prevailing winds.

TEXAS STUDENT CLAIMS HE'S UGLIEST MAN.

FORT WORTH (AP)—Joe Frederick, a ministerial student, claims the title of ugliest college man in Texas. He has challenged all "Beau Uglies" in the state's colleges to compete in a contest to pick the homeliest student. Frederick has a head start. Last fall he was voted by fellow students the "ugliest man on the Texas Christian university campus" and thereby won a free football trip.

Frederick is not sure how babies will react at christening after he dons ministerial robes.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. May an unmarried woman go on a trip with a man where there are over-night stops?
2. Does the seasoned traveler demand the conveniences of home?
3. For traveling across country are trousers suitable wear for women?
4. Is it correct to sign a hotel register "Miss Mary Jones"?
5. If a woman staying alone in a hotel has a suite with a private sitting room, may she with propriety entertain a man caller?

What would you do if—

You are making plans to take a motor trip with friends in their car? They have not mentioned the matter of expense.

(a) Wait until the end of the trip and ask to pay your share?
(b) Make a definite arrangement before you start about the sharing of expense?
(c) Wait for the owner of the car to suggest an arrangement?

Answers

1. No.
2. No. A good traveler does not make a fuss over inconvenience.
3. No, not if she intends to walk on city streets or eat in public restaurants.
4. Yes, this is one of the few times when a woman writes "Miss" before her name.
5. Yes, but not if she has only one room.

Best "What Would You Do" solution—(b). Be sure to decide whether you are to share the expense of possible repairs as well as running expenses.

Details of P-TA District Program Being Arranged

By BETTY PEARSON HODGES, Publicity Chairman, 8th. Dist. P-TA

Dr. Carlton Washburn, Superintendent of schools of Winnetka, Ill., will be the main speaker at the Parent-Teacher luncheon which will be given March 12, during the annual Northwest Texas Conference for Education at Canyon. All teachers, administrators and members of the Parent-Teacher associations are invited to attend the luncheon, from 12 to 1:15 at Randall Hall, girl's dormitory at the West Texas State Teachers' college.

Arrangements for the luncheon have been made by Mrs. Dan Sanders, president of the Canyon P-TA. At the afternoon session of the general conference, Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, eighth district president, will give an address on "The Why of the Parent-Teacher Organization." Two district and state officers, Mrs. J. E. Griggs and Mrs. J. M. Crain of Amarillo, will be present at the conference and speak at the luncheon.

Panel by Superintendents

Announcements of the panel topics to be discussed by the school superintendents at the P-TA Spring conference in Perryton, on April 2 have been made by Mrs. J. M. Crain who will preside at the panel.
