Sirica Begins Listening To Nixon's Recordings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica said he would begin listening to "exact copies" today of President Nixon's subpoenaed Watergate tapes—in private with only a law clerk present.

Sirica said the tapes were "exact copies" of the White House originals turned over to the court but did not elaborate on how the copies were made.

The existence of the tapes was revealed in July during the Senate Watergate committee hearings.

After a long court battle, the White House said in October it would comply with a U.S. Court of Appeals ruling directing that Sirica be allowed to examine the tapes to see if they contain evidence needed by the Watergate grand jury.

Sirica said he would make no announcement about what he learned from the tapes after he finished monitoring them.

The judge decided to use earphones to monitor the conversations. He said the only other person present while he was doing so would be his law clerk, Todd Christofferson.

Sirica will resume hearings Tuesday into the cause of an 18-minute hum on one tape. Both White House and prosecution lawyers said they wanted to question Alexander M. Haig, presidential chief of staff, and his deputy, John C. Bennett, this week.

Watergate prosecutors consider the tapes their "most important" evidence and have asked for more of them.

A prosecution source said that, despite flaws in the tapes, "we still consider them the most important single piece of evidence we have to go on. That's why we've asked for more tapes. We hope the additional tapes will provide some of the information that's lost on the ones that have already been turned over."

Hwy. 70 Speed Limits Lowered By Construction

The speed limit on State Highway 70 from 20 miles north of Pampa to the Chicken Creek Bridge will soon be lowered to 45 miles per hour and not because of the energy crisis.

Traffic was slowed purposely beginning Monday when work was to start on repaving a five-mile section of the state highway, according to T.R. Kelley of Pampa, resident engineer for the Texas Highway Department.

Kelley staged a pre-construction conference last Thursday in his Pampa office with representatives of Gilvin-Terrill, Inc., of Amarillo, contractors of the near-$1 million project, and others.

Construction schedules were presented and methods of handling and routing traffic through the construction area, police protection and material supplies were discussed.

A spokesman for Gilvin-Terrill indicated construction progress hinges on the availability of diesel fuel. The project is expected to be completed by next July.

During construction, a temporary guard rail will be installed on Chicken Creek Bridge, which will be widened.

Highway Department crews and Gilvin-Terrill representatives agreed to share the responsibility of snow removal at the project site.

Joe P. Farrar of Pampa, a THD employee, will be chief inspector on the project. Barricades will be set next week and concrete work begun the following week.

Earl Wilson

Christmas is coming and the way it looks on Wall Street there not only won't be anything in the stocking, there won't be any stocking. The only man who got all his work done by Friday was Robinson Crusoe. The help problem is getting rough. One family I know brags that their old, faithful maid and hired girl has been with them for the past 20 meals. (For more laughs see Earl Wilson on Page 8.)

It was not clear just what additional tapes or how many were being requested. The White House has turned over to U.S. District Court seven taped conversations plus several master tape reels, which it says will show that two other conversations were never recorded.

Bennett will be questioned about his notes already introduced in evidence indicating he was unable to duplicate tapes of two meetings between the President and his aide, John W. Dean III, apparently because

VOTE FAILS AGAIN

Senate Filibuster Continuing Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate failed today for a second time to halt a filibuster over campaign reform legislation that has allowed the government's borrowing power to expire temporarily.

A third cloture vote was immediately scheduled for Tuesday with indications Democratic leaders would give up trying to halt the filibuster if cloture failed again.

Congressional leaders meantime made contingent plans to extend the old national debt limit briefly so the government could meet its obligations and pay its employees.

The filibuster is aimed at stripping from a new debt ceiling bill an amendment to finance presidential elections with public tax money, eliminating most private contributions. The old debt ceiling expired Friday.

The first attempt to impose the Senate's so-called gag rule to stop the filibuster came Sunday. The 47 to 33 vote fell seven short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

The Sunday session was the first Sunday meeting of the Senate in 112 years.

When asked how long he would try to stop the filibuster, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said, "Oh, at least one more day anyway."

Pioneer 10 Nears 'Deadly' Radiation

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Pioneer 10 encountered rapidly rising levels of radiation which threaten to destroy all its equipment as it neared its closest approach to Jupiter later today.

At 6 p.m. CST the nuclear powered space craft was 620,000 miles from the giant planet. Its speed was 39,400 miles an hour and rising fast towards its ultimate peak velocity of 23 miles a second when it will be an estimated 81,000 miles from Jupiter at 8:25 p.m. CST.

In the last 24 hours, the radiation rose 10 times. It was expected to reach its deadliest levels after 2 p.m.

This was the moment in its 620 million-mile journey that Pioneer would learn if it could survive, and man could reassess his hopes of exploring the outer planets of the solar system.

The extent of Pioneer's danger is still unknown. The

SHUTDOWNS IN EFFECT

Traffic Thinner On Highways

By United Press International Traffic was thinner on the highways Sunday, the first day of voluntary shutdowns by the nation's 220,000 gas stations.

Many motorists filled their tanks on Friday and Saturday, however, and it appeared that those most severely affected Sunday were long-distance travelers on the nation's superhighways.

"People really seem to be scared they're going to run out of gas," said a worker at a Texaco station in Greensboro N.C., where gas station operators said they pumped as much as twice as much gas as they would on a normal Saturday. "We've had some people drive in here almost frantic from searching for a gas station," he said.

the originals were of poor quality.

The two tapes, involving conversations Sept. 15, 1972, and March 13, 1973, are considered among the most important in reconstructing what Dean told the President about the Watergate cover-up.

"If this testimony is corroborated, it will tend to establish that a conspiracy to obstruct justice reached the highest level of government," former special prosecutor Archibald Cox said in court papers last summer.

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., and several conservative Republicans have waged the filibuster since Friday, refusing to allow a vote on whether to send a debt ceiling bill—to which campaign reform is attached—to a conference committee with the House.

The reform measure is intended by its sponsors to free presidential campaigns, including primaries, from the kind of reliance on big money contributions such as were described in the Watergate hearings. These campaigns would be financed instead mostly from the public treasury.

Allen and his supporters call this a raid on the treasury by politicians.

As a result of the filibuster, the government's legal debt ceiling automatically dropped from $465 billion to $400 billion at midnight Friday, cutting off its power to borrow money. That required the government to announce Saturday the halt of U.S. savings bonds and to plan other lending curtailments this week.

In theory the filibuster could bring the whole government to a halt, but most observers believe there will be some settlement before that happens, and they also note there are many possible ways of makeshift financing for a short time.

radiation could knock out some or all instruments and end the spindly space craft's communications with earth.

If Pioneer survives the radiation, it means man can proceed to investigate the far outer planets. If Pioneer fails, man may be blocked from substantial exploration beyond Jupiter.

Jupiter is the key because larger spacecraft need its orbital motions as a giant slingshot to shoot it on the way. Without Jupiter, outer planetary travel would be possible but more difficult with present technology.

At Space Agency Mission Control Center, NASA scientists were excited, but puzzled, about Pioneer's data. Hour after hour, they adopted and discarded theories about such objects as the shape and size of Jupiter's vast magnetic field.

Officials in Florida said traffic was off 60 per cent Sunday. The state police in New Jersey, where virtually every gas station was closed except those on the New Jersey Turnpike, said traffic was lower. Drivers on the turnpike were sold no more than $2 worth of gasoline. Toll tickets were marked with an X so drivers couldn't get another 5 gallons down the road.

The California Highway Patrol said there was unusually light traffic with no more than a few calls from stranded drivers. "People either stocked up on gas beforehand, or they are just not driving," said one officer. There were similar reports from highway authorities in Michigan, Illinois,

Love Decides To Resign As Adviser To President

BYPASSED — John A. Love, White House energy chief, has decided to resign, sources say, after he was bypassed in a reshuffling of administration energy priorities. Love and President Nixon reportedly differed over gasoline rationing views. (UPI Photo)

Gasoline Rationing Policy Serves As Dividing Point

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bypassed in a reshuffle of administration energy priorities by creation of a new agency, John A. Love and his chief deputy have decided to resign as presidential advisers, it was learned today.

William E. Simon, deputy Treasury secretary who served as the top energy spokesman in the administration for a time before Love and Charles DiBona were brought in, is to be head of the new Federal Energy Administration.

It had been reported that Love, former Colorado governor whose support for gasoline rationing apparently ran counter to views of Nixon and some of his other top advisers, would remain as a presidential assistant. But sources said both he and DiBona, his deputy, were resigning.

In other energy-related matters: —Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen said he had been assured of enough gasoline to deliver Christmas mail on time. But he predicted hundreds more airline cancellations today which "will have an impact on us."

—There was widespread compliance by gas station operators with Nixon's request that they close voluntarily on Sunday. In Connecticut, a California motorist became so incensed at being denied gas at a station that was open that he smashed his fist through a window of the place. He was put in jail.

—In nervous New England, where the heating oil shortage may create the worst problems this winter, weather forecasters had a favorable forecast: a warmer than usual December.

—A Louis Harris public opinion poll showed that by a margin of 78 per cent to 17 per cent (with 5 per cent having no opinion) Americans are opposed to higher gasoline taxes as a means of discouraging consumption. By a 71-21 margin, they reacted favorably to possible gasoline rationing, if necessary.

—Sen. William E. Proxmire, D-Wis., urged gasoline rationing in a Sunday broadcast described as the Democratic reply to Nixon's energy speech the previous Sunday. The President has said he is against rationing except as a last resort.

An administration source reported that John A. Love has been told he is no longer Nixon's chief energy coordinator because of a dispute over gasoline rationing, which Love says is inevitable. Love reportedly will stay on as an energy adviser.

City Planning Christmas Party For Its Employees

A service award Christmas party for nearly 200 Pampa city employees and their wives and husbands is scheduled for Tuesday night, Dec. 11, in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium.

The buffet dinner at 7 p.m. will be followed by the presentation of awards to 33 men and women who have been employed by the city for 5, 10, 15, 20, 25 and 30 years.

Two city officials, Police Chief Jim Conner and Tax Collector Aubrey Jones, will be honored for 30 years of service. Twenty-five year awards will go to Dennis Bryant and Elmer Darnell, city firemen, and Frank Christian, City Hall custodian.

Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon will be named to head a new Federal Energy Administration, which will run the government's energy program, officials said.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., in an interview Sunday with radio station KIRO in Seattle, confirmed that Love now will work in a different capacity from his past role. He said he did not doubt that the gasoline rationing issue was at least in part involved in the change but the reasons were "broader than that."

An administration source who declined to be identified said Simon and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz "concocted" Love's downfall and "eroded" his position with Nixon because they disagreed with his stand on rationing and felt it would hurt the economy and the stock market.

Nixon and Shultz have called rationing a "last resort," but nevertheless are mapping contingency plans for it.

—Amarillo reported snow shortly after 8 a.m. and Dalhart and Dumas reported accumulations of up to two inches.

After a high of 71 Sunday, the thermometer was expected to reach only the upper 30's later today after dropping from 40 this morning at 6 a.m. The temperature was 33 at 11:30 a.m.

Skies were expected to remain cloudy through most of the day with clearing and even colder temperatures tonight.

Winds were to remain northerly at 15-25 miles per hour today and tonight. The high tomorrow should be near 40 if the skies clear.

In UPI reports: A windy Pacific cool front, pulling light snow in its wake, surged eastward into Texas today with a promise of thunderstorms ahead of it and a sharp temperature drop behind it.

Cold air aloft was causing snow showers along the Texas-New Mexico border counties from Odessa to near Lubbock.

10 years — S.M. Chittenden, city secretary; Roger Scott and George Wallace, police department; Bedford Brown, fire department; Arthur Hernandez and Richard Langley, sanitation department; Jessie Austin, parks department; Mary Richardson, public utilities; and Joseph Doolley, water department.

5 years — Joyce Gray, library; Eugene Auffer, Roy Denman and Harold Grimes, police department; T.D. Snow and Wesley Stucker, fire department; Roy Underwood, public works; Norris Tollerson, sanitation department; and J.B. Lyons, parks department.

Certificates of merit will be presented to the five-year employees and service pins to all others. City Manager Mack Wofford said today an entertainment program is being arranged and will be announced later.

NEAR SAIGON

Rockets Destroy Petroleum Tanks

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops demolished a sprawling American petroleum complex with a rocket attack on the outskirts of Saigon today. The government, already hard hit by the Middle East oil shortage, announced major cutbacks in civilian petroleum and electricity use.

Nguyen Duc Cuong, minister of Trade and Industry, in a nationwide television address, tonight said the measures were approved at a cabinet meeting during the afternoon.

The new regulations would: —Prohibit the sale of gasoline on Saturdays and Sundays beginning this week.

—Set the maximum highway speed limit at 36 miles an hour. It presently is 50.

—Change the working hours of government employees to eliminate the three-hour noon "siesta" during which most workers used motorbikes or cars to go home for lunch.

Under the new schedule employees will work from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with an hour off for lunch.

—Ban blackmarket gasoline sales.

—Prohibit electric light sign advertising.

—Reduce the electricity in government offices by 15 per cent. Earlier, electricity in government offices was cut by 25 per cent so the effect of the new regulations is to cut power in official buildings by a total of 40 per cent.

The Arab nations have not yet prohibited the sale of petroleum to South Vietnam because it makes its own oil purchases using U.S. funds. However, officials said there is no guarantee South Vietnam will continue to be able to buy from Middle East nations and the country also is faced with the worldwide petroleum shortage.

Moreover, Vietnam has to face the permanent destruction caused by the Communists who today shelled and destroyed a number of fuel tanks at Nha Be, Cuong said.

In Cambodia, the government military command reported sharp fighting today around the encircled province capital of Takeo, 40 miles south of Phnom Penh.

Authorities ordered all of Saigon's gas stations closed with police posted in front after a barrage of 49 rockets blasted the Shell Oil Co. fuel tank farm at Nha Be, six miles southeast of Saigon.

A government spokesman insisted the "inventory" shutdown had nothing to do with the shelling, but police commanders said they did not get orders to close the stations until after the fuel depot was hit.

Officials issued conflicting reports on the shelling, but all agreed the rockets destroyed most of the Shell complex, made up of 50 oil tanks with 30,000 to 50,000 gallons of fuel in each one. The rockets also hit an oil tanker unloading at the Shell storage area.

Firemen fought throughout the day to keep the blaze from spreading to an adjacent Esso storage area.

he would ask Congress to ban the sale of gas in anything larger than a one-gallon container.

"People who try to travel anyway, in spite of the shortage, are endangering the lives of innocent people by driving around with fuel in their trunks," he said.

A woman in Tuscaloosa, Ala., ran out of gasoline on her way home from jail to have a friend sign a bond for the release of her husband, who had been arrested Saturday.

Most Service Stations Close For Sunday

Pampa and most Texas Panhandle gasoline service stations were closed Sunday — either in compliance with the President's request or a lack of business due to curtailed Sunday travel by motorists.

Not all stations closed down in Pampa but only two or three were open and they were hard to find.

Gasoline sales, however, were reported to be heavier than usual on Saturday and Saturday night. Station operators' figures motorists were filling up in preparation for any short trips on Sunday.

One Panaman who had to be in Dallas this morning filled up Saturday night and left Sunday afternoon on the 350-mile trip. He telephoned back that he found no gasoline stations open until he reached Quanah, where he replenished his gasoline supply and finished the trip to Dallas.

Highway travel Sunday was reported at its lowest level in many years.

There's a fine Italian hand in American men's fashions

By Helen Hennessy
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Antonio (Nino) Cerruti takes great pride in his name and acknowledges his talent without false modesty. He should. Many a man looks impeccably as well as comfortably dressed when he wears clothes created by this well-known Italian designer.

But the big news for men who are fashion aware is that his clothes are now being made in the United States as well as in his native Italy.

"It had to be a firm like Society Brands, Ltd., to ask that I design for them before I would accept an offer to work for an American company — although I wanted very much to do clothes for the American male. But it was important that the firm I joined had selected distribution," said the handsome 42-year-old designer.

Nino Cerruti is a man who has definite opinions on men's fashion.

"I don't want to make men's fashions that are influenced by women's fashions. So many men's designers do that. But I think it's ridiculous," Cerruti said. But he does know what he has been doing couture men's wear for seven years and no-so-couture for 20 years before that. "The men's wear revolution actually started in Capri," he said. "It was ten years later that it came to London's Carnaby Street. In Capri some men were even wearing a parakeet on the shoulder — absurd.

"My fashion theory is that clothes should be good looking but functional and comfortable."

Vests, he says, are really wanted by the young people. Pleated trousers, too. "They're both new to them," he said.

For young men Nino likes light and soft colors for winter to spring. Cerruti also designs his own fabrics. He began his career at the age of 11 when his father put him to work in his textile mill in their home town of Biella, Italy for half of his school vacation. His father insisted that he earn his summer holiday. When his father died in 1957, Nino opened a clothing factory in Milan as well as taking over his father's mill. Ten years later he opened his Paris boutique for men.

However, this talented man also designs women's fashions for the Paris couture collections.

"Elegance," Cerruti said, "is striking simplicity, planned for the right place at the right time." And his designs prove how right his definition is.

Oswald: "For many years George Coffin of Waltham, Mass., has been collecting and writing about interesting bridge hands. His newest compendium, entitled 'Bridge, Perfect Plays and Match Point Ways' includes some old timers and very new ones."

Jim: "Here is a simple one called, 'The power of the pop up play.' Just look at the West and North hands and the bidding. We'll give you a clue to the proper play. You decide to open a heart and not your singleton ace of diamonds."

Oswald: "That is quite a clue because we feel that the ace of diamonds lead would almost surely be the best opening. Anyway you do open the eight of hearts and your partner proceeds to cash three heart tricks while South follows suit. You have to discard on the third heart. What discard do you make?"

Jim: "There is one and just one discard that will guarantee defeat of the contract. Pop up with your ace of diamonds."

Oswald: "This sensational discard will get your partner to lead a diamond. If South ruffs with the nine you will score your ten spot of trumps immediately. If he ruffs with a high trump you will collect the setting trick with it later on. Either way you get a plus score."

RELIGIOUS IN NATURE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Traditionally, Christmas carols are religious in nature. However, over the years, many songs of the season were adapted for Christmas use.

The secular carols include "Jingle Bells" written in 1855. Also, "Deck the Halls" which traces its ancestry to the traditional melodies of Wales. "The 12 Days of Christmas," first printed in 1780, and "The Boar's Head Carol," oldest of the secular carols. It dates from 1521 and was sung when the boar was brought into the hall on Christmas eve.

An office memo would clear up this problem

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I would like your advice concerning a problem I am having with a secretary who has been working for me less than six months.

At first she called me "Mr. B."—then a few weeks ago she started calling me by my first name.

I didn't approve of this first name business, but I didn't know how to tell her without hurting her feelings or getting her angry with me.

How can I get her to call me "Mr. B." again without making a federal case of it?

S. C. BOSS

DEAR BOSS: First, what do YOU CALL HER? If you are using her first name, start addressing her as "Miss" or "Mrs." and tell her you'd like her to call you "Mr. B." If you're already calling her "Miss" or "Mrs.," simply ask her to please call you "Mr. B." If you're yellow about telling her face to face—give it to her in black and white—in an office memo.

DEAR ABBY: After I die, I want to be cremated. Then I want my ashes to be placed in an envelope and left in a certain man's mailbox with the following message: "Howard, you always said I would wind up with you. I love you. Goodbye, Annette."

I went with this man for 17 years, and then he dropped me like a hot potato and married somebody else. How can I arrange to get my last wish?

A. D.

DEAR A. D.: There are strict laws concerning cremation and the disposition of ashes which may make your last wish impossible. You will have to get the final word from a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorcee, trying to support myself and three teen-aged children, but in order to be called for employment, I must have a reasonably clear telephone line—and that is my problem.

My next door neighbors complicate things. The wife runs up enormous telephone bills calling long distance all over the country, and when her husband gets drunk [which is often] they fight about her telephone bills, and he rips the telephone wires out of the wall. Consequently the wife [and her children, who are teen-agers] are over here asking to use my telephone when theirs is out of order. [This is the third time in a month.]

Worse yet, they have given my number to every Tom, Dick and Harry, so I've been acting as an answering service for people who call them. I ran next door six times last evening to call them to my phone.

The only glimmer of hope in this whole mess is that they all read DEAR ABBY, so please print this so they will realize what an imposition they have been, without my having to tell them. Thank you.

MRS. DINGALING

DEAR MRS. DING: Here's your letter. Let's hope the man next door doesn't rip up the newspaper.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, DEC. 4

Your birthday today: A let's-get-on-with-it mood runs intermittently thru the coming year. Efficient, closer coordination of efforts, is required. Other people tend to short patience with your pace, may not always wait. Today's male natives have much energy, many ups and downs in fortune. Today's women possess special personal charm, often beauty.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: It may seem that everybody is putting himself out to be obstructive, stubborn. Nothing is to be gained by showing irritation or frustration.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Today will find some friends and loved ones backing you, others not so. If you can stay out of the limelight, you may find a way of increasing your earnings.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: With so much being attempted on such slender resources, you ought to inquire how well people will be able to repay you or reciprocate whatever you do for them.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Enterprises encounter rough going which you hadn't bargained for. Simple procedures are suddenly complex, involve some longstanding differences of opinion.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Whatever area of daily living you've been skimming now requires much attention. Making-up for lost time is an illusion, but catching up backlogs is a real chore.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Being consistent in redeeming promises made in the past brings a sudden dip in your finances. Possibly, some commitments can be deferred longer.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Prepare for three days of relative adversity, in which enterprises take thrice normal efforts. Your natural urge for peace leads you to take strong measures to get it.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: What you don't get on the first suggestion becomes available on some other basis. In any case, you must make it worthwhile for the other fellow.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Changes of personnel sets off local competition. Unless you are completely honest with a workmate, you lose something you can never regain. Tell it as it really is.

Aussies Too Tough For US To Handle

CLEVELAND (UPI) — "The problem anyone would have is finding two people who can beat Rod Laver and John Newcombe when they have days like these."

Thus did Wayne Reid, president of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association sum up the 5-0 triumph of his forces over the United States in the Davis Cup final round which concluded here Sunday.

Newcombe and Laver played brilliant tennis from start to finish, but it was their explosive start that set up the final 5-0 count.

Newcombe, the Forest Hills champion, pointed out that in his opening singles victory over Stan Smith in Friday's exhaust-

It doesn't pay to look at the National Football League standings unless you have a degree in higher mathematics. That's how complicated they've gotten.

With only two weeks left in the regular season, only three division titles have been settled and in the wild American Conference, seven teams are fighting for three remaining playoff slots.

The Cincinnati Bengals and the Cleveland Browns took big steps toward a slam-bang finish Sunday when they pulled off major surprises. The Bengals crushed powerful Minnesota, 27-0, and the Browns rallied for two touchdowns in the final six minutes to tie Kansas City, 20-20.

With Dallas whipping Denver, 22-10, Oakland downing Houston, 17-6, and Buffalo upending Atlanta, 17-6, the American race shapes up this way:

Miami has won the East and that's the only sure thing. In the Central, Pittsburgh, which faces Miami tonight, holds a half-game lead over Cincinnati and Cleveland. A Steeler loss tonight would set up a three-way tie for first with the Bengals and Browns facing each other next week. Buffalo, second in the East, still is alive in the wild card or best runner-up category.

In the West, Oakland, the third team in as many weeks to lead the division, holds a half-game edge over Kansas City and Denver.

The National Conference picture is a little clearer. Minnesota (Central) and Los Angeles (West) have clinched and Washington, which overcame an 18-point deficit to defeat the New York Giants, 27-24, leads Dallas by a game in

SMU Stops Missouri To Open Cage Season

By United Press International
Southern Methodist's Mustangs have shown some of the talent people were looking for last year on the basketball floor, but a team's future cannot be too bright when UCLA is a part of it.

SMU opened its 1973-74 campaign with an impressive 77-73 win over Missouri last Saturday to share the early season Southwest Conference spotlight with Texas Tech — an 82-76 upset winner over 18th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas.

But for the Mustangs the victory celebration might be short. Not only does SMU have to face Kansas State tonight in Manhattan, but the Mustangs made it through the initial weekend of action unbeaten. Other than SMU, Texas A&M and Baylor won their only games.

Baylor will also have its hands staying undefeated since it meets Western Kentucky Saturday night after playing Tarleton on Tuesday. Texas A&M, however, could be 3-0 by week's end since it plays Tarleton and Southwest Texas.

The biggest surprise of the East. They meet next Sunday to settle their division. Atlanta is now tied with Dallas for the wild card slot.

In games with no effect on races, the New York Jets edged Baltimore, 20-17, New England whipped San Diego, 30-14, Green Bay rolled over New Orleans, 30-10, Detroit shaded

Outfielder Trio To Be Traded

HOUSTON (UPI) — It's enough to make a manager drool.

An outfield of Jimmy Wynn, Billy Williams and Willie Davis, and they're all available.

For the right price, of course. All three could have new addresses next summer, with Wynn the most likely of the trio to be wearing a different uniform.

It's no secret the New York Mets, who made it into the World Series despite a team batting average of .246, are coveting a power-hitting, right-handed batter, preferably one who can play center field. Wynn would fit the bill, nicely, and he could be a Met by the end of the week-long winter baseball meetings which begin here today.

The Mets will take Wynn only because they had no chance of getting young Cesar Cedeño over from the Astros. Cedeño, who will be 23 in February, is nine years younger than Wynn and batted .320 last season, 100 points higher than his older teammate.

But the Mets can't be faulted for not asking.

"Any chance of getting Cedeño?" inquired Bob Scheffing, the Mets' general manager.

"No," was the simple answer offered by Houston GM Spec Richardson.

"What about Doug Rader?" Scheffing asked, eyeing the Astros' veteran third baseman.

"Same answer," said Richardson.

So, the Mets may settle for Wynn in exchange for Southpaw pitcher George Stone who had his best season ever in 1972, posting a 12-3 record and leading the National League in winning percentage with a mark of .800. Another player probably will be thrown in with Stone because the Astros keep asking.

Despite his .220 batting average last season, Wynn did hit 20 homers and drive in 55 runs. His 20 homers were only yards for a second and Ken Anderson threw seven yards to Bob Trumpy for a third.

Greg Pruitt bolted 65 yards for one TD and Mike Phipps threw 51 yards to Milt Morin for another as the Browns came through with two scores in the last six minutes to tie the Chiefs. The TDs came after Ed Podolak scored on a one-yard run to apparently wrap up the game for Kansas City.

Roger Staubach threw TD passes of six and 27 yards to Jean Fugett to lead the Cowboys over Denver and snap the Broncos' six-game unbeaten streak. Staubach hit 14 of 18 passes for 240 yards as Coach Tom Landry returned to his old system of calling plays from the sidelines.

Ken Stabler's 21-yard TD pass to Fred Biletnikoff snapped a 3-3 tie and ignited the Raiders over inspired Houston. Marv Hubbard ran two yards for a TD to put the game out of reach.

Gimpy-legged Sonny Jurgensen completed 11 consecutive passes and engineered two last period TD drives that carried Washington over the Giants. New York led 21-3 when Jurgensen relieved starter Bill Baker and set up Larry Brown's six-yard TD run before throwing a 16-yard pass to Brown for the go-ahead score.

O. J. Simpson became the second leading ground gainer for a single season when he dashed for 136 yards to spark the Bills' upset of Atlanta.

Los Angeles clinched the NFC West crown as David Ray kicked three field goals and Jim Bertelsen and Les Josephson ran for scores. Elsewhere, Joe Namath threw 15 yards for one TD and set up the decisive field goal with a 63-yard pass as the Jets beat Baltimore and Steve Spurrier ran for two TDs and passed 28 yards for another to lead San Francisco over the Eagles.

The most interesting of the offers are coming from the world champion Oakland A's who might be able to satisfy the Cubs' current quest for young pitchers. One of the hurlers mentioned is Lefty Dave Hamilton but the Cubs have already indicated they'd want more than just Hamilton before they'd part with Williams.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, disappointed over their second place finish behind Cincinnati in the NL west, have also shown an interest in Williams and might be willing to part with Davis. Like Williams a 13-year veteran, batted .285 last season.

—The major league draft is the first item of scheduled business at the meetings today and probably the biggest name among those players available for $25,000 is former 30-game winner Danny McLean. Only three years ago, McLean was the key figure in an eight player trade between the Detroit Tigers and Washington Senators.

It has been downhill ever since for McLean, who will be 30 years old next March, and it's highly unlikely any major league club is willing to invest even $25,000 in his future.

Cuero Rips No. 1 Team
By United Press International
Cuero coach William Gilbreth has one of those nice problems. His two big backs, Arthur Wittington and Tanny Johnson, compete not only against the other teams but against each other.

So it was this weekend when halfback Whittington romped for 137 yards but fullback Johnson got all the touchdowns in Cuero's crucial 20-0 win over No. 1 Gregory-Portland. Coach Gilbreth called all three scoring plays.

"Arthur came up to me after the game," the coach said. "And said Tanny is hogging all the scoring. But of course they are both real happy just to win."

The convincing victory in the Class 3A quarter-final game could mean the state title for the unbeaten Gobblers. Gilbreth thinks that is rushing things a bit.

"No I sure don't think we have won the title with that win," he said. "Of course it was a big ballgame. But we still have three awfully good football teams in the state of Texas left."

The other three — Lamesa, Mount Pleasant and Henderson — romped into the 3A semifinals with only Cuero's upcoming opponent, Henderson, having any difficulty.

As the Lions edged Belton, 15-10, Lamesa blasted Monahans 26-7 and Mount Pleasant whipped McKinney 33-13 Friday.

As in the case of Gregory-Portland, previously unbeaten, it was not a good weekend for number one. Two of the three tri-champs in Class 4A and the undisputed kingpin of Class A lost.

The Cougars took an fourth-ranked North Carolina and lost, 97-74, while Arkansas opened its season with UCLA and came up with the predictable short end, 101-79.

Houston, which does not compete for the conference championship, still has troubles tonight when it faces Louisville, an upset loser to Cincinnati Saturday night.

Lakers Lose Lead In Pacific Division
By United Press International
After back-to-back losses to the Portland Trail Blazers and the Detroit Pistons, the Los Angeles Lakers are out of first place in the NBA's Pacific Division for the first time since Nov. 9.

And Bill Sharman, the mild-mannered Laker coach, is sizzling.

"I can accept defeat," he said after his club lost to the Pistons, 114-108, Sunday night, "but not when we're completely outdistanced as we've been the last two nights."

"There's no excuse for the way we're playing. They're just catching us flatfooted."

Before they lost by 19 points at Portland and then to the Pistons, the Lakers had won seven of their previous eight games.

But at 16-9, they're now .027 percentage points behind Golden State's 14-7.

Detroit was led by Dave Bing with 27 points and Bob Lanier with 26 while Gail Goodrich had 29 for Los Angeles.

Sharman called a special players' meeting for today "so maybe we can come up with some of the answers" before the Lakers' Tuesday night home game against the Phoenix Suns.

In the only other NBA games Sunday night, Houston walloped Cleveland, 130-104 and Capital edged Seattle, 98-96.

The Cavaliers not only lost a basketball game but they lost the services of veteran guard Lenny Wilkens for at least two weeks. Wilkens, who picked up three quick fouls in the first five minutes, was helped from the court after severely twisting

UCLA Edges Maryland, 65-64

By United Press International
What happens when the "UCLA of the East" takes on the real UCLA?

The real UCLA stands up. John Wooden's defending NCAA champions got their worst scare in 77 games Saturday night from Maryland, a team that bills itself as the "UCLA of the East." Right down to the wire, the Terps, though bothered by some cold shooting, lived up to their billing.

UCLA led most of the game but in the final minutes the Terps charged hard and gave the Bruins what Wooden called "a lesson" by closing the gap to one point before time ran out with UCLA ahead, 65-64.

Twice college Player of the Year, UCLA's 6-foot 11 Bill Walton scored 18 points and grabbed 27 rebounds — one short of Willie Naulls' UCLA record — while keeping Maryland honest in the pivot.

Keith "Silk" Wilkes, the Bruins smooth guard, had 14 points, but committed his fifth foul when the Bruins needed him most in the fourth quarter.

In other college games Saturday, third-ranked Indiana ripped Citadel, 74-55, fourth-ranked North Carolina downed 13th-ranked Houston, 97-74, sixth-ranked Louisville was upset, 65-58, by Cincinnati, seventh-ranked Marquette devastated St. John's of Minnesota, 91-45, eighth-ranked Notre Dame walloped Valparaiso, 112-62, 11th-ranked Kentucky beat Miami of Ohio, 81-68, 12th-ranked Long Beach State swept by Puget Sound, 84-55, 14th-ranked Kansas State edged Utah, 87-82, 18th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas was upset by Texas Tech, 82-76, 19th-ranked Arizona also suffered an upset, 100-76, at the hands of Southern California and 20th-ranked South Carolina dumped Toledo, 74-54.

Highland Park Ex-Teammates To Enter Hall

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. (UPI) — Doak Walker and Bobby Layne, who played together at Highland Park before gaining national fame in college and professional football, were among five persons to be inducted into the Texas High School Football Hall of Fame during today's ceremonies.

Ralph Welch, Billy Stams and Jerry Fouts were also to be inducted.

Welch was a running back at Sherman and played at Purdue in the 1920s. Stamps played at Corsicana and on the 1936 Rose Bowl team from Southern Methodist. Fouts was a star end at Wichita Falls.

H. N. "Rusty" Russell, who coached Layne and Walker at Highland Park, were to handle induction ceremonies for the pair.

Explaining Hardening Of Artery

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you explain in layman terms the true meaning of hardening of the arteries? Is this condition fatal? Does it affect the heart? My husband is 74 and has this condition. Doctors have explained it to him, but to me he says there is nothing serious, and he will not let me talk to the doctor. He thinks he is old enough to take care care of himself. I realize this sounds silly but it is true.

of the arteries earlier than others do. If the coronary arteries of the heart are severely affected, then yes, the action of the heart will be affected. But that is something that may happen, not will happen. Or, alternatively, let's say the arteries serving the legs may be involved more seriously. For such a person, the legs may tire much more readily than in some other patient. So, you see, I cannot really answer your question about the seriousness without knowing how severe the "hardening" is, or where it is. But by the age of 70 (and a good deal earlier than that), we can say that everyone has some hardening of the arteries, and the question then is whether it does or doesn't cause any trouble. What to do about it is a quite different matter. You've doubtless read reams of articles about cholesterol and triglycerides. The reason for concern is that these seem to play some part in hardening of the arteries, although there is a good deal that we still do not know about the process. Whether a person has remained reasonably active all his life also is probably a factor.

to try to undo what has been done. There are claims that certain foods or medications will "unharden" the arteries. We have yet to see any evidence that these claims are valid. Medications to encourage better circulation can help somewhat to increase blood flow a bit, but beyond that, avoidance of overweight and remaining moderately active are probably the most useful things you can do. I've tried to put this in layman's language, but trying to explain all the ramifications of hardening of the arteries just isn't easy. I do hope this has helped a bit.

Note to Mrs. N.B.: Authoritative source of information for prospective kidney donors is the National Kidney Foundation, 315 Park Ave. South, New York, N.Y. 10010. Although cholesterol has been implicated in heart attacks and other circulatory troubles, it is also vital to human life. For this reason, Dr. Thosteson has entitled his booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly." For a copy write to him in care of Publishers - Hall Syndicate, 401 North Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope. Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. Copyright 1973 Field Enterprises, Inc.

—M.E.H.
"Hardening" of the arteries may not have been the most descriptive term for this condition, but it has been in use so long there's no likelihood of changing it now. As we grow older, our arteries accumulate plaques, or deposits, in the inner walls. Over the years this reduces the size of the interior of the arteries, just as, over the years, lime or other sediment accumulates in the water pipes of a house. In a house, the flow of water is reduced. In the body, the flow of blood through the arteries is reduced. You ask if this "is fatal" or if it can "affect the heart." The answer depends on the extent of the "hardening" and the location of it.

This process of hardening goes on all our lives, but not necessarily at the same rate or in the same parts of the body. Just as some folks get gray hair earlier than others, some have more "hardening" or clogging of the arteries earlier than others do. If the coronary arteries of the heart are severely affected, then yes, the action of the heart will be affected. But that is something that may happen, not will happen. Or, alternatively, let's say the arteries serving the legs may be involved more seriously. For such a person, the legs may tire much more readily than in some other patient. So, you see, I cannot really answer your question about the seriousness without knowing how severe the "hardening" is, or where it is. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 10 years old and have a mole on my left hip. It keeps getting bigger. Do you think it could be cancerous?

—J.K.
At your age I doubt it—but if it really is changing in size, better have your folks take you to the doctor and make sure.

Henry Silva Tries For New Stardom

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Clint Eastwood and Charles Bronson did it—they went to Europe as virtual nobodies in American movies and returned as international film stars. Eastwood made the grade in spaghetti westerns. Bronson, the international box-office champ, succeeded playing hard case tough guys.

Now Henry Silva is following the success formula: See Europe and thrive. Henry is an austere looking man of Italian-Spanish heritage who appeared in 32 Hollywood movies and countless television shows without distinction. In another era his would have been a long career of playing character men, mostly heavies. But he had no chance for top parts against Paul Newman, Steve McQueen, Robert Redford and other collar-ad actors.

"I couldn't get any kind of a job here three years ago," said Silva on one of his visits to Hollywood. "But in the past two years I've starred in eight movies in Europe."

"Each picture rested on my shoulders. And I only played heavies in two of them. The rest of the time I was a leading man."

None of these movies has been shown in the United States. But his most recent, "Monday," is scheduled to be released here one day soon.

"Hundreds of pictures are made in Europe and are never seen in this country," Silva said. "It doesn't really matter because the box office abroad is more important than in the States."

"People still flock to the movies in Spain, Italy, England, France and Yugoslavia. That's what keeps me in business."

"The only place they stay at home like they do in America is West Germany. That's because television is more advanced in West Germany and color sets are common."

"Most of the people in the other countries can't afford television sets, and damn few of them are color. So they go to the movies."

"As for me, I'm a big star in Europe, Asia and South America. Here at home I'm a man with a gun. America has an old-fashioned preconception of what a hero is, what a hero looks like."

Henry is aware he is not the prototype hero. He is dark visaged, menacing in appearance and by American standards he looks foreign. But then so does Peter Falk.

The African violet is not a true violet. It belongs to the gesneria family.

Wolf-Pack Approach

You may have seen some of those nature movies in which a pack of wolves attacks a moose. The moose usually runs into the woods. There he tries to face the pace with his back to a tree. At this point the wolves divide into two groups. One band works at the head and the other at the rear. The object is to keep the moose moving so that he exhausts himself, counterattacks in a charge, thus exposing his flanks to the wolves lurking at the rear.

But the wolf-pack principle is not limited to wolves. Americans are witnessing the same kind of game going on in Washington today. The battle is over gasoline rationing. From World War II experience, both Democrats and Republicans understand that gasoline rationing will not be popular. The game is how to bring it on so that the other side gets blamed for it.

Senators Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and William Proxmire, D-Wis., are playing the role of the head wolves. They are demanding that the President impose rationing. As majority leader, Mansfield is apparently a shoo-in for re-election. Proxmire is immune from rationing critics because his state is a fuel importer and a large consumer of fuel oil for home heating; so if some of his constituents detest gasoline rationing, they can be tole it was necessary to hold stove-oil costs.

At the President's heels are two other wolves, not yet personified in the Senate. One is the possibility that some plants will shut down because they haven't been able to contract for fuel supplies. And the other is simply that spot shortages will bring an outcry from stranded motorists and will be cited as proof by Mansfield and Proxmire that Mr. Nixon was negligent in not heeding their advice for rationing.

Of course, the gentlemen from Montana and Wisconsin neglect to tell the world that both of them are old enough to know that rationing would bring a debacle more severe than any temporary difficulties of which they now complain. If Congress Democrats really believe that the nation cannot weather a peacetime problem without war-time controls, they have all the votes they need to impose rationing outright. Why didn't they do that, rather than just authorize the President to do it? Why hand a dirty job to someone else?

It's a little hard to believe that just two persons out of 200 million would make things inconvenient for the rest. But there is it. They do it because they can get by with it.

OUTRIDER

Mr. Agnew Goes To 'Work'

By GARRY WILLS - The President, in his Disneyland act, denied that he ever made a profit out of public office. That is very odd, since he just admitted that he had made over $200,000 a year in his law practice because there is a demand for ex-Vice Presidents. Now $200,000 is clearly a profit, and the vice presidency is clearly a public office; but logic must be different in Disney World.

One might have thought the demand for ex-Vice Presidents would abate in Spiro Agnew's day. But it all depends on what friends one has made. Frankie stood by his pal, and went with him to visit Clement Stone, the philosopher's stone of all Republican alchemists. The shame of recent politics is not so much that Spiro was the hardhats' hero, as that Sinatra was Agnew's hero. Middle America deserved something better than the "new morality" in one of its oldest practitioners. Sinatra proved too gamey, even. Of the swinging Kennedys, how cruel that he took Agnew off from the "work ethic" crowd to smother him in sleazy California luxuries.

Even a fallen Vice President is bound to have friends. Eva Gabor, for instance. She flounced with her list of bosom and lisp of "Dahling" to Agnew's Baltimore "Salute." Some Maryland politicians just took their sentencing for the way that gala was rigged. Even with Hope and Sinatra and Gabor, they had to paper the house. The polis are left with their rap, which the rats pack on to bigger parties.

Eva's husband just came through for Agnew, giving him a job. Spiro is now a consultant of foreign trade. I guess that comes from knowing the ways to slip cash over the District line from Maryland contractors to a federal officer. Mr. Gabor (also known as Frank Jameson) is quite a card - he would have hired Al Capone as an agricultural adviser because he knew something about hops.

Mr. Jameson's stockholders would do well to count the spoons after any board meeting Agnew attends. A lone stockholder finally got the story of Agnew's groceries out of the Food Fair chain. Agnew's weekly delivery - charged off to customer relations - came to about $22 a shot. The man who authorized it had to come up with six thousand dollars of his own to recompense the chain (and its stockholders and its customers). Agnew has a gift for leaving others holding the bag.

It was chicken feed, of course - to anyone but you or me. To Food Fair or to Frank Sinatra. But that is the point. Agnew was not above chiseling pennies. A guy who will go on the take for some cabbage and peas will hardly be safe around the spoons. I wonder if Sinatra has checked all his gold faucet

Cause Of Moral Decay

Carl Schuber of Oak Lawn, Illinois, states in the "Christian Crusade Weekly," "I have just finished reading the book 'Love Story' and I have had to ask the Lord to forgive me for reading it. It is the most immoral and disdainful book I have ever read."

"The name of the Lord is profaned and desecrated at least 80 times, every cuss word in the cussers' vocabulary is used, that much-talked-about four letter word is used at least six times, immoral words and immoral insinuations over and above the cuss words in at least 47 instances, and contemptible parent irreverence in at least 14 cases."

"This book is being used in our grammar schools as recommended reading material. I cannot in my wildest imagination imagine an educator in his or her right moral mind recommending this book as appropriate reading even for an adult, let alone for school children."

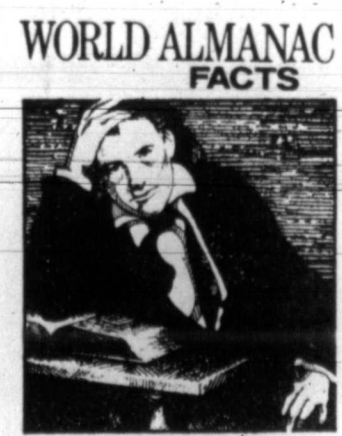

Mr. Schuber properly concludes, "with this kind of immoral filth being fed to our children in our public schools, we need not go looking up some blind alley for causes why so many of them go wrong. One cannot help but wonder how many of these parents who gave permission for their own children to read this book are really aware of its contents."

Look up these scriptures and read what God says about training for our children. Deut. 6-8, Luke 1:52, Phil 2:5, Rom. 12:1-2. The more our country turns to secular education the more heartaches, crime and suffering we can expect. We cannot ask God to bless something that He is not a part of.

Just Who Is Bluffing Here?

By VICTOR RIESEL - NEW YORK - One crunch deserves another. American waterfront leaders harassed by chain-reaction reports of energy shortage unemployment have been warning the very highest circles in the White House, the State Department, the Pentagon and the Labor Department.

No rhetoric, this. The word inside labor's maritime high command was "go" on the shutting of virtually all U.S. ports to Arab and Soviet vessels.

And the word was "go" for the night of Monday, Nov. 26. Such a boycott by American longshoremen could cripple Soviet and Arab international trade. Only last-minute intervention by the Pentagon and Labor Department halted American dockside counteraction Monday morning.

Such a dockside reposit by the New York-based International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA), long threatened by its president Teddy Gleason, would launch a crosscriss trans-ocean cargo war. And it would implement AFL-CIO policy as outlined in a letter dispatched recently to Congressman Harley Staggers, chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

"We insist that boycotts can be and should be a two-way street," said the communication. "We insist that America must move swiftly and surely to deal with blackmailers."

Behind the "go" and fail-safe Monday night moments is a series of secret Washington sessions and almost endless phone conversations. At lunch Wednesday, Nov. 14, in the Pentagon, while discussing another matter relating to waterfront work by civil service employees instead of ILA men, Deputy Secretary of Defense William P. Clements, Jr., casually asked Ted Gleason if he was seriously threatening to boycott Arab and Soviet ships.

And, could the U.S. dockers chief make good his frequent threats and actually close American ports to freighters of the Soviet-Arab coalition?

Gleason assured Clements he could shut down the whole thing. The Deputy Defense Secretary then urged the waterfront labor leader to hold off. An American delegation would be in Saudi Arabia, the oil monarchy, the week of Nov. 26. Clements disclosed why not wait for the results of the discussions?

Gleason agreed to wait. But exactly one week after the luncheon his colleagues reported that four American freighters were "stuck" out in the Pacific without oil for the return voyage. Singapore and Philippine refineries were rejecting their requests for sufficient fuel for the home trip. The Irish reared up in Teddy. He hit the ceiling and the phones. And several Cabinet members, figuratively.

If those American freighters didn't move from the Pacific for lack of fuel, "nothing" Soviet or Arab would move in or out of U.S. Great Lakes, Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

Monday he was told by Washington that Singapore would fuel the four U.S. craft. So he gave the fail-safe signal - but only for the moment. Gleason knows he has a powerful weapon in the counterboycott which could cripple the starved and creaking Soviet economy.

This past week, for example, specialists of the Soviet ministries of merchant marine and foreign trade were here discussing "shipping contacts." They scoured the whole port. They looked at the piers at which they expected their freighters would soon begin to take on vital American cargo. The ILA could smash those expectations in a few minutes.

As for the Arabs - they can't drink or eat their oil. In fact, Saudi Arabia's buyers are in town seeking some 59,000 tons of corn oil - one of their staples which is mighty scarce everywhere except in the U.S. And they also want over four million tons of rice. I'm told that the U.S. rarely has exported more than a million tons. Rice, too, is scarce the world over.

Further records disclose that the Saudis have purchased some $432 million in "hardware." Some of it can simply be flown over. Aircraft, for example. But much of it is in electronic machinery, heavy industrial equipment and items such as parts.

And this accounts only for one, albeit a vital, monarchy using oil for political weaponry. They buy here because they have to. What we sell them the U.S. could easily sell elsewhere. In fact, we give some of it away.

So Gleason and the other maritime leaders say they will not permit the Soviet-Arab alliance to fuel up their stomachs and consumerist industries while running ours into the ground for lack of some 15 per cent of our energy needs.

Gleason says he's set to go. The Pentagon says hold it, perhaps there'll be no need. Henry Kissinger hints at counteraction. Who knows who's bluffing. But somebody will call somebody's hand soon enough.

Question Box

QUESTION: You mention the Liberty amendment which would abolish the income tax and have government divest itself of all its holdings. If we put this amendment in our Constitution, couldn't we use the added value tax as an alternative to produce governmental revenue for our defense and other essentials of government? Wouldn't it then be up to the Congress and administration to truly promote the general welfare (general prosperity) by encouraging the production of goods and services not only for domestic consumption but for export as well, making our goods more than competitive and tilt the scale in the opposite direction in the balance of trade?

ANSWER: In the first place, the Liberty Amendment does not propose to require the national government to divest itself of all its holdings. It proposes to require the disposal of unconstitutional business enterprises over a period of years. There are a large number of holdings which do not violate the Constitution. In the second place, the Liberty Amendment does not propose to eliminate all income taxes. It does propose to limit personal income taxes, but does permit continuation of corporate income taxes.

If the amendment were adopted, we believe it would be possible to adopt a value added tax as suggested. However, we should note that advocates of the Liberty Amendment have claimed that no additional taxes would be needed if their amendment were to be accepted. They contend that money received from the sale of unconstitutional business enterprises would retire a large part of the national debt, and thereby reduce some of the cost of debt interest (a major amount). This also would end the cost of government tax financing of the multitude of government business. There is no question that considerable savings in tax money would result, but we are unable to say that the figures of the Liberty Amendment committee are accurate. Their arguments are certainly persuasive to many of us.

If the value-added tax were to be adopted, we presume it would be necessary to conform to the constitutional requirement that "all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States."

We cannot see where any tax could encourage the production of goods and services. It is true that if government income were based on money derived from sales, the government spender would have an incentive to promote more sales. But if the added cost of the tax made costs production so high that products were priced out of the market, there still would be the inhibiting factor of the taxes. The VAT still could make it difficult for American products to be sold in foreign markets which did not have such costs appended - if there are any.

The VAT has one advantage that we can see. As with any other sales tax, it is possible for persons, to a quite limited extent, to avoid the tax by not making purchases, by "making do" with their old cars or other personal property instead of buying new items. Other taxes seem almost impossible to avoid, unless one has a tax shelter like a politician getting an exemption for giving his political papers to some non-profit agency as has been done by all presidents in the past 40 or more years.

We continue to hold with those who contend government can best promote the general welfare by getting out of the way of productive individuals who will seek their own self best interest and thus help everyone else. As the late R.C. Hoiles use to remind his staffers at Freedom Newspapers, "The gain of one is the gain of all in a free market."

Need Controls to Curb 'Back Door' Spending

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON - Those frequent and vociferous demands in and out of Congress for economizing and holding down government spending are just so much idle talk - as long as nothing is done about curbing "backdoor" spending.

Such "mandated" or "nonappropriated" expenditures will amount to a breathtaking $2.5 billion this fiscal year.

That's the authoritative estimate of Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., veteran chairman of the mighty House Appropriations Committee, and without peer in Washington on the lowdown on the federal budget.

In his well-founded judgment, total federal expenditures by next July 1, end of the current fiscal year, will reach a stupendous $273.2 billion.

That means "busting" the original budget ceiling by some $5 billion.

The budget proposed by President Nixon last January came to $268.7 billion - an $18.9 billion increase over the previous fiscal year. Last month, the President hiked this initial budget to $270 billion - to take care of various congressional increases, aid to Cambodia and Israel etc.

But Chairman Mahon foresees additional unbudgeted expenditures of several more billion by the end of this fiscal year - for a likely final total of $273.2 billion.

Reason - inadequate and ineffective budget control. Says the able Texan:

"Responsibility for our fiscal situation must be borne jointly by the executive and legislative branches. Congress continues to approve budgets badly out of balance, and the executive continues to approve congressional initiatives in excess of the budget."

"The issue clearly points up the necessity of better congressional control of all spending, especially so-called 'backdoor' spending. Hopefully a large part of the answer will be found as Congress pushes through enactment of budget control legislation."

Such measures are pending in Congress, but neither the Senate nor the House has acted on them. If and when they will get around to doing that is highly conjectural.

Nonappropriated Spending - In pinpointing "backdoor" spending as a major factor in large-scale budget "busting," Mahon cited a number of striking instances. Following is a potentially telling partial list.

	(Millions)
Food stamp amendments	$724
Repeal of "bread tax"	400
Federal employee pay raise, Oct. 1, 1973	358
Welfare-medicaid amendments	122
Unemployment benefits extension	116
Veterans' national cemeteries	110
Social security-liberalized income exemption	110
School lunch amendments	100
Says Mahon tersely:
"There is a great deal of talk in and out of Congress about getting a better handle on government spending. That's fine, as far as it goes. But nothing effective will be accomplished until the key problem of mandated or nonappropriated spending is dealt with. The principal remedy of budget "busting" lies in better control of nonappropriated spending. That's where the stupendous leakage occurs."

So-called "mandated" or "nonappropriated" spending is due to permanent programs and activities that automatically require funding. Once something gets into the "statutory" category, it becomes a regular part of the budget and is annually provided for.

Mahon, 73, one of the least known but most powerful men in Congress, was born in Louisiana, moved to Texas with his family as a boy, graduated from Texas University, later attended the University of Minnesota. A district attorney for several terms, he was elected to Congress in 1934 and became chairman of the Appropriations Committee 30 years later - in 1964.

Natty and quiet-spoken, Mahon is highly and widely respected personally and professionally. He doesn't say much, but when he does talk, he is carefully listened to because he unflinchingly demonstrates he knows what he's talking about.

H. L. Hunt Writes

BUREAUCRATIC BLOAT

New data just published by the U.S. Census Bureau and analyzed by Harvard Business School Professor Richard Rosenboom show staggering new increases in government employment. Significantly, the greater part of these increases are no longer in Federal employment, where we are accustomed to looking for them, but in the payrolls of state and local government.

There was a time when local government, apart from public schools, was considered a single entity. Now, special local government districts proliferate enormously in numbers, cost and staffs, so that there are actually 78,269 governmental units of all kinds in our country today. These employ a total of 13,600,000 civilians, sustained by the productivity of the taxpayers.

Professor Rosenboom shows that industrial productivity has been approximately doubling every 25 years during this century. But the total number of persons employed by government has more than tripled in the past 25 years. Three million more persons are expected to be added to civilian federal, state and local payrolls by 1980.

None of these include members of the armed forces, who are necessary to the defense of our country during these troubled and perilous times. State and local government payrolls have increased from $30 billion to $85 billion per year in only 10 years. This is the principal reason for recent sharp increases in local taxes. By comparison, government employment and pay scales for Germany and Japan, with their prosperous, booming economies, are much lower. We must call a halt to our own bureaucratic-bloat before it bankrupts us.

Brotherhood is the very price and condition of man's survival. - Carlos P. Romulo, first President of the Philippine Republic.

TV In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—One of television's top Western stars, Lorne Greene of the old "Bonanza" show, has had his new video series canceled. And now another of video's leading Western headliners, James Drury of the old weekly entry called "The Virginian," also will try his hand at a new series set in modern times.

Greene's current weekly hour, "Griff," which arrived this fall and offers him as a private eye, is one of ABC-TV's upcoming midseason cancellations. Drury, meanwhile, will arrive at midseason on the same network as the star of a half-hour entry titled "Firehouse," playing the captain of a group of firemen who comprise an engine company. This series is drawn from a previous, 90-minute ABC-TV teleplay that starred Vince Edwards and Richard Roundtree.

The latest national video ratings indicate why ABC-TV not only canceled "Griff" last week, but also the series "Room 222," "Adam's Rib," "Love, American Style" and "Temperatures Rising." In the list of 62 programs that were ranked statistically, "Griff" came in 49th. "Temperatures Rising" 50th, "Room 222" 59th, "Adam's Rib" 60th and "Love, American Style" 61st.

Why They're Taking a Chance
That same national ratings survey, by the way, indicates why ABC-TV is taking a chance on a new half-hour midseason replacement series bowing in Feb. 6, titled "The Cowboys," based on the John Wayne movie of that name. The movie was broadcast by ABC-TV Nov. 13 and came in sixth among all shows.

When you look at what ABC-TV is planning for its almost immediate future—the allotment of weekly air time to new shows like "The Cowboys" and "Firehouse," while Dick Cavett's series is being cut back—you have to wonder about some of the weird thoughts that circulate in network executive suites. Cavett is expected, as of midseason, to start a schedule in which he would have roughly 26 programs over a year's period. That means one show about every two weeks.

While ABC-TV has been hassling Cavett, one of its genuine quality stars, the network has also managed to find weekly slots for these other upcoming midseason replacement series:

"Chopper One," a half-hour about "two young policemen who combat crime from a specially equipped helicopter" and "The Six Million Dollar Man," an hour that inexplicably impressed ABC-TV with its past periodic outings that offered video's most absurd hero—"A test pilot who, nearly killed in a crash, is re-created by means of futuristic, cybernetic medical science with a superhuman body. With incredible powers of strength, speed, sight and endurance, he is given special government assignments."

Two Others
Two other ABC-TV midseason replacement series have provocative themes. One, "Doc Elliot"—A worthy program, also seen periodically in the past—is an hour that stars James Franciscus as a physician who gave up a career in New York City to open a practice in a remote area of Colorado. The other, a half-hour comedy entitled "Happy Days," is described as a nostalgic show about a family "the now innocent" years of the 1950s and early 1960s.

The treasurer of the United States is the custodian of public moneys.

WORRY CLINIC

Mary is typical of millions who could become ecstatically happy by means of "Cupid's Computer." It is used by the SMF to match congenial people on 10 basic factors that produce HAPPY marriage. It is not a mating but a sincere marriage organization!

CASE Y 585 Mary G., aged 54, offers a sex challenge to society.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I am so lonely I often wish I were dead!"

"For I lost my husband 5 years ago, after almost 30 years of a wonderfully happy marriage."

"And though I have a married daughter only 50 miles away, I just dread coming home at night to a man-less house!"

"Oh, I attend church regularly and work as a secretary."

"The office staff is congenial but all are married."

"And I have several women friends in my church group."

"I have a nice home but without somebody to share it with me, I have very little interest in it anymore."

"Dr. Crane, as I view maybe 25 years of loneliness ahead of me, I grow panicky!"

"Aren't there cultured men in the 50 age bracket who are also lonely and eager to have a devoted wife?"

"If so, how can I meet them tactfully?"

CUPID'S COMPUTER

Because I have been overwhelmed with such requests as Mary's, I urged the churches to create an ecumenical Scientific Marriage Foundation.

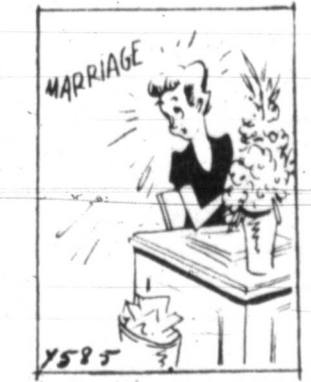

It could then introduce congenial and certified men and women with a view to romance and happy marriage.

Finally, in 1956, we organized the Scientific Marriage Foundation and recruited about 2,500 priests, rabbis and ministers to serve as our "grass roots" Counselors, who spend 30 minutes in a private interview with every Applicant.

Dr. Peale, Rabbi Samuel Silver, Bishop Kennedy, Monsignor Ward and a dozen other outstanding clergymen constitute its Advisory Board.

Remember, this is not a mere "mating" organization, like so many others in the U.S.A. which are lewd, pornographic and abet wife swapping, as well as homosexual and lesbian affairs.

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Our SMF is established to help bona fide Americans, of good moral standing and attractive personalities, meet eligible members of the opposite sex with a view to happy marriage!

We now boast of 10,000 splendid successes and far less than a one percent divorce rate!

Contrast that with the 30 percent national average and you will see why the SMF is unique.

Our Applicants include airplane stewardesses, nurses, teachers, secretaries, widows, divorcees, movie actresses et al.

The men are—business executives, Army officers, doctors, teachers, scientific farmers, editors, clergymen et al.

They are good looking, above average in culture and job status, but merely need a chance at a wider range of possible marriage choices.

For a charming school teacher, aged 30, in a small town of 800 population, finds that most of the eligible men aged 30, are already married or gone to the big cities.

So we offer a wider selection of congenial prospects, both to young adults and also those past the age of 50.

Send for the "Marriage Questionnaire," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, for it will be mailed in a plain white envelope.

Remember, the SMF is an eleemosynary (non-profit) foundation and all our Board Members donate their time to help promote marital happiness.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Republic Bldg., Madison, Indiana 47901. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents in cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

ARGENT...reaching highwater mark

By KURT LASSEN

"In Deep" usually means being in trouble, but to Argent in their musical career. For this British rock group it is their fourth album and by far the most successful to date. In talking to them one gets the feeling that after four years together they still believe they're just getting started.

For the veteran Rod Argent, the group was a big, big gamble. "My original group was the Zombies. Our hits were 'She's Not There,' which sold a million. 'Tell Her No' and 'Time Of The Season,' which sold over two million after the group had broken up."

"They came to me in 1968 and offered me a million dollars to get the group back together again for a tour of the United States. I just didn't believe in moving backwards. I'd moved in a different direction musically so I turned it down. People said I was crazy, but I have never regretted it."

When one considers that Argent was formed in 1969 when "Time Of The Season" was number one on the United States charts it must be recognized that either Rod was really crazy or he had great faith in his new group.

"With the Zombies we had gone about as far as we could go musically. If I'd say I'd reform the group I wouldn't be into the kind of music we're doing now," Rod told us.

After the Zombies wrap-up, Jim Rodford (bass) and Rod put together the first version of Argent.

"We weren't satisfied with that either," said Jim, who is Rod's cousin. "We scrapped it and started all over again. We knew what we were looking for, but we just hadn't been able to find it musically."

At that time they added Russ Ballard on lead vocals and guitar and Robert Henri on drums. The result was a group considered one of the most creative bands in the new British breed. Three United States tours, tours on the continent and a constant striving for a better version of their music have gotten them rolling.

Their "Hold Your Head Up" sold over a million and they climbed the charts with "God Gave Rock and Roll to You." Their "All Together Now" and "In Deep" albums clicked and rang the cash registers while their earlier works "Argent" and "Ring of Hands" are falling (or climbing) into the collectors' item category.

"People tell us that rock is fading," said lead-singer Russ, "but it certainly doesn't affect us. We keep working together, experimenting and trying to grow. We're in a way like one when we play, but we each seem to have something to put in when we get a new number together."

In talking to the group, one finds it easy to recognize that while they all contribute, Rod is the driving force, the motivator and the perfectionist. From the time he was seven until he was 12 he took piano lessons and then continued on his own. His keyboard has traces of rock, blues, church, classic and a dynamic drive.

"You've always got to better yourself and build up some sort of drive."

Knight Crusading For Energy

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Terry Knight, a millionaire at 30 though he's a simple country boy from Michigan, is suing the Grand Funk Railroad rock group for $56 million in manager's commissions in 30 lawsuits in 25 cities — and you'd think that'd keep him occupied.

"I'm on a traveling campaign to convince the kids there's a real energy crisis," he said in his 5th Av. office.

"You can explain to young people that due to the vinyl shortage, they won't have as many records. Whammo—that they understand. I drive home on the Merritt Parkway and I see a lot of kids driving slower."

"But I'm infuriated with some of these big Manhattan buildings blazing away at night. Why don't they turn those lights off?"

Having invented "Grunk Funk Railroad" in a song he wrote, and given it to the Flint, Mich., singing group that he took over, he's now coined the term "energology" and is lecturing on it in colleges. His own alma mater, Alma Mich. College, will have a course in it.

"I made millions for the group and for myself and as a tax shelter I went into oil and they very heavy into natural gas," he said.

"I have about 200 wells in West Virginia, Louisiana, Ohio, Texas, Oklahoma and North Dakota. I tell young people, 'As an oil man, I could make more money telling you to leave your lights on, but I'm telling you the opposite.'"

He talks candidly about the Grand Funk Railroad sending him a one-line "We terminate our contract" letter which left him shell-shocked.

"We're all from near Flint."

They still live there and farm... weekend superstars. We were on the same plane recently... with their new manager. It was quite a trip.

"I begged jobs for them. I borrowed $500 to start them... but listen, there's nobody as big as they were."

"Historically, my group still holds the record for a single performance—three men earned $306,000 for one 60-minute show at Shea Stadium on July 9, 1971. That's $4,266 a minute."

"But there's no excitement in music today. No discipline. I wouldn't take the Beatles if they walked in here. And David Bowie... I'm sorry, I'm a country boy from Michigan."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL
Elizabeth Taylor, out of the hospital after a check-up, must return for doctors to decide whether she'll require minor stomach surgery. Scheduled to have gone to Hawaii, she'll go to the hospital instead...

Sir Charles Forte & Lady Forte come here in January in connection with the Hotel Pierre becoming part of the Forte group, including the Paris George V.

Paul McCartney said in Paris that "it's possible" the Beatles will get back together and he likes the idea...

David Frost flew to an Italian hill town to see Liv Ullman who was filming scenes in "The Abdication" with Peter Finch. Reviving rumors of a romance...

Paul Anka, who lives in Las Vegas, rushed over to Caesars Palace and subbed for Steve & Eydie when Eydie got sick...

The Americana Hotel's maitre d' in the Jockey Club is actor Raymond Serra. He was just tested for 20th-Century Fox's picture "Death Wish," starring Charles Bronson, and got the part.

Secret Stuff: Producer-playwright Fred Finklehoffe in his memoirs is telling of his sub-rosa romance with Judy Garland and how his wife Ella Logan found out about it...

Ava Gardner agreed to read a script for a B-way show submitted by Cheryl Crawford but nobody believes Ava'd ever tie herself down to a stage show...

Ans. to Friday's Real name of Phil Silver's Sgt. Bilko show: "You'll Never Get Rich."

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Red Skelton was watching construction on a new Las Vegas structure and inquired,

"What are those statues up there?" The hotel builder replied, "Those aren't statues. They're carpenters."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Eddie Schwartz, who publishes those crazy cards, has this one: "No matter how busy you are you're never too busy to stop and tell me how busy you are."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Miss Tawney Apple is confined to her home by a swollen dresser drawer." — Abe Martin.

EARL'S PEARLS: Nowadays some people only feel good when their pep pills force ahead of their tranquilizers.

Remember, says Charles Jepson, when we used to say, "Eat all you'll Vegetables and be a good boy and you may grow up to be President!"

That's Earl, brother. All Rights Reserved.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Monday, Dec. 3, the 337th day of 1973 with 28 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

American portrait painter Gilbert Stuart was born Dec. 3, 1755.

On this day in history: In 1818, Illinois was admitted to the Union as the 21st state.

In 1833, Oberlin College in Ohio opened with an enrollment of 29 men and 15 women—the nation's first truly coeducational school.

In 1948, it was disclosed that microfilm of secret American documents had been found in a hollow pumpkin on the Maryland farm of Whittaker Chambers, a former magazine editor, allegedly for delivery to a Communist power.

In 1972, a chartered jetliner crashed in the Canary Islands, killing 155 persons, most of them German vacationers.

A thought for the day: British writer Jane Austen said, "It is a truth universally acknowledged that a single man in possession of a good fortune must be in want of a wife."

The flag of the Sultanate of Muscat and Oman is the only national emblem entirely of one color—red with no symbols.

Salvation Army Letter Bombs Seeking Needs Alerts Issued For Christmas After FBI Tip

The Pampa Salvation Army is in the midst of taking applications for Christmas baskets and toys through Friday, Dec. 14, according to Lt. Phil Murphy.

The Postal Service said Sunday it has notified all "possible targets," but officials said it was only a "precautionary" measure and they had no direct knowledge that any letter bombs actually had been mailed.

John D. Young, Sr., 540 Crawford, pleaded guilty to charge of aggravated assault on a law officer, fined $50 and costs.

Mass Killer Loses Left Eye In Attack

VACAVILLE, Calif. (UPI) - Convicted mass killer Juan V. Corona has lost his left eye in an attack by fellow inmates who stabbed him 32 times with the two-inch blade of a prison hobby shop knife.

Four suspects were interrogated today at the California Medical Facility, a state prison, while the 1,950 other inmates were placed under a strict general lockup.

Corona, 39, was rushed to the facility's hospital where his left eye was removed during three hours of surgery, said T.C. Clannon, superintendent. The right eye was not injured but the eyelid was torn and doctors sewed it shut.

Two other wounds penetrated his abdomen, requiring surgery to sew up punctures in his small intestines. The other wounds were superficial but left scars on his chest and around his eyes.

He was listed in "serious but stable condition" today. After visiting with Corona Sunday, his attorney, Luis Garcia, said his client remembers only two inmates, whom he recognized, entering his cell before the stabbing occurred.

Corona's cell was located on the first floor in the workers' section and was left unlocked most of the time. Some 45 prisoners were in the section at the time, said Lt. Gordon Stevens, watch commander.

The thing that distinguishes this particular assault is that the motivation is obscure, said Clannon. "There appears to be no personal motivation."

The stubby knife apparently had been taken from the hobby crafts shop at the prison. "They could have killed him if they had wanted to, but they didn't," said Garcia.
