BOULDER DAM BILL IS SIGNED HIGHWAY BOND ISSUE IS OUTLINED BY COMMISSION SHORTEST DAY OF YEAR IS FAIR HERE AS WINTER NEARS

NEW SEASON WILL OPEN AT 8:04 TONIGHT

Cold Weather Sweeping Over North, But Not Here

ROCKIES ARE GETTING SNOW

Predictions Scouted,
But Icy Christmas Is Probable

As if to hasten the coming of King Winter, the universe cut daylight to the shortest of the year on this the opening of the new season. Old Sol peeped over the edge of the plains at 7:51 a. m. today and he is scheduled to cast the last lengthening shadow of the oil derricks at 5:30 p. m.

The almanac predicts the arrival of the King of Snows at 8:04 o'clock sharp tonight, but his icy breath is reported by the reliable Associated Press as having swept over the Middle West north to Canada yesterday and last night. The Dakotas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and parts of Canada felt extremely cold weather. At Devil's Lake, N. D., for instance, it was 18 below zero, while at Bismark, N. D., the mercury dropped to six below. To Rocky Mountain section fell the temperature rise, but snow fell generally over that section.

"Friday fair in the Panhandle" said the prophets, and so it was. After another night of temperature hovering in the early twenties, the warm rays of an unobscured sun broke over the plains. Weather in the Panhandle in winter is not necessarily more disagreeable than in late fall; indeed, any oddtime can tell of wading snow and slush in September and of riding in shirt sleeves on Christmas day.

It is too early to hazard a guess on next Tuesday's weather offering. The barometer fell slightly today, and an influx of icy air from the north probably will arrive Sunday, unless there are mitigating factors meantime.

But cheer up; if winter comes can spring be far behind, as the bard said? And if fall has been like winter, winter likely will be like fall and spring may see skating in vogue. In the Panhandle, "you never can tell," and only the newcomers and Old Tack of Amarillo hazard predictions.

RAIDS IN TOM GREENE

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 21. (P)—Liquor raiders transferred their attention from Winkler county to Tom Greene county last night and this morning, raiding more than a dozen places and arresting more than 40 people. Liquor estimated to be worth $8,000 or more was seized. The raids were conducted by 11 federal men, assisted by state rangers.

Mrs. Jim White returned yesterday from Beloit, Kan., where she was called several days ago by the sudden death of her mother.

Attendance at School Here Is to Be Enforced

"The school attendance law will be enforced in Pampa after the new year," County Supt. John B. Hessey, announced this morning after an interview with Supt. R. G. Campbell. "There are dozens of children under the school age who are not attending and it is my intention to appoint an attendance officer after the new year."

Mr. Hessey says that it has been brought to his attention several times by local ministers, child welfare workers, and citizens of Pampa that children between the ages of 10 and 14 years are not attending school.

In some cases, those not attending are orphans or their parents are too poor to send them to school, Mr. Hessey says, but that he will endeavor to overcome that difficulty by asking the county commissioners to place money aside for the purpose of sending those children to school.

According to the state law, children between the ages of 8 and 14 years who do not have to attend school are: Those attending a private school; those bodily or mentally unfit to attend school; those blind, deaf or otherwise incompetent; those who live more than two and one-half miles

Amarillo Meeting Tomorrow Will Suggest Oil Litigation Measures

Pampa has been asked to be well represented at Amarillo tomorrow in a meeting planned to devise legislation affecting oil land litigation.

It is planned to urge passage of a law to provide that the State cannot claim land already decided, and that suits must be held in the county where the land sought to be recovered is

Gas Masks Needed By Local Firemen

Little damage was done yesterday afternoon when a line connecting a gas refrigerator burst in the basement of the new Strickland apartment. The fire department was called and by the use of chemicals soon had the burning gas under control.

The need of the department's possessing a gas mask was noted yesterday and steps will be taken to order one immediately, Chief Ben White says. It was necessary for the firemen to tie wet rags over their faces when they went into the basement with chemicals.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clayton returned yesterday from Wichita Falls, where they met their son, Tom, and Miss Elizabeth Corson, who are returning from Trinity university, Wazahachie, for the Christmas vacation.

Preston and Burnham Briggs, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Briggs returned home for the Christmas holidays yesterday. The two boys are attending Texas A. & M. college where Preston is a senior and Burnham a freshman.

GASOLINE TAX OF 3 CENTS IS HELD ADEQUATE

Amendment Necessary
Before Legislature
Gives Authority

SEVERAL LAWS RECOMMENDED

Licensing of Drivers Is Advocated—Also Patrol

AUSTIN, Dec. 21. (P)—Recommendations for a highway program that would include an active road building program financed by a $300,000,000 bond issue, will be given to the legislature, the state highway department has revealed.

The bond issue would be retired by a "reasonable" gasoline tax and would spread the first cost of the highways over a long period without burdening the taxpayers as heavily as the "pay-as-you-go plan" the recommendations say. A 3-cent gasoline tax is suggested in the report.

The commission suggests that it should have at least $35,000,000 per annum for the next two years for construction and maintenance, exclusive of federal and county aid.

"Careful calculation discloses that an aggregate bond issue of $300,000,000 could be retired, principal and interest, from the proceeds of a tax of 3 cents per gallon," the report states, expressing the opinion, however, that a constitutional amendment will be necessary before the legislature can authorize such a bond issue.

Other suggestions and recommendations include:

A law punishing those who deface highway department signs;

Laws to discourage the erection of advertising signs on or near state highways;

Some program to eliminate railroad grade crossings;

Compensation insurance for state highway employes;

Adequate quarters for the department;

Creation of a state highway patrol to enforce traffic law;

Provisions for the licensing of automobile drivers.

Amarillo Man Held for Having Too Much Money

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 21. (P)—Three men were arrested here last night and are being held for investigation because, police said, they had too much money.

The men, who gave their names as J. V. Campbell, R. R. Ragon and J. W. Callard, were arrested after police had received information that the trio had lost $3,200 in a game and still had $15,000 in the safe at the hotel.

Campbell and Ragon gave their home as Natchez, Miss., and Callard said he lived at Amarillo, Texas.

Attempt to Wreck Train Carrying $4,000,000 to Louisville Banks Is Reported—Switch to Siding Thrown

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 21. (P)—Detectives of the Pennsylvania railroad, aided by county officers of Indiana, today were investigating a reported attempt to wreck and loot a fast Chicago-Louisville passenger train, supposedly carrying $4,000,000 for delivery to Louisville banks, as it sped south from Indianapolis to Louisville, yesterday.

Both the engineer and fireman of the train reported the attempted wreck after the train reached Louisville.

Jacob Sehr, engineer, said that as the train was nearing Whiteland, Ind., about 40 minutes following departure from Indianapolis, C. M. Crooks, the fireman, saw right of way lights a short distance down the track suddenly shift from green to red. Sehr declared he quickly closed the locomotive throttle and applied the brakes, stopping the train just as the engine was passing from the main line to the siding.

Simultaneously, he said, an automobile parked on a nearby highway suddenly started and disappeared down the road, traveling at a high speed. Subsequent investigation of the switch revealed the lock had been broken.

INJUNCTION WOULD PREVENT MAINTENANCE OF NUISANCES

Judge Newton F. Willis of the 84th district court today granted a temporary injunction restraining four defendants from possessing for sale or selling intoxicating liquor, permitting general misconduct, and otherwise maintaining nuisances.

The defendants named were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wade and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kime, mentioned in District Attorney J. A. Holmes' petition, in which charges were made against the Ritz hotel and the Quaker rooms.

The district attorney asked that places be closed for one year unless bond is furnished under the injunction as provided by law. Judge Willis made the injunction so that it continues in force until further order of the court. A hearing was held this morning.

Collectors of Used Toys to Visit Every House and Residence Saturday; Gifts of Money Also Very Acceptable

Lions and Boy Scouts will canvass the city tomorrow from 9 to 12 a. m. to gather up used toys for distribution at the Community Christmas tree that will be held at the gymnasium Monday evening.

Trucks furnished by the Lions will be used in gathering the toys. Gifts of money are acceptable also, and will be used to buy toys and fruit with which to stuff the socks.

Final preparations to hold the Christmas tree were made yesterday at the Lions club luncheon.

Members of the club enjoyed hearing three grade children play instruments on which they have recently begun lessons. Prof. R. B. Fisher and T. A.

Fannell presented Billie Bratton, violin, Omarie Cower, melophone, and Glen Twiford, piano. Mr. Fannell said that a great orchestra for Pampa would be possible within a few years if all the children could receive musical instruction.

Mrs. A. H. Doucette sang vocal solos, and was joined by Mrs. Frank Elliott in duets.

Mack Graham, Walter Davis, Earl Powell, and Mickie Gibson were introduced as new members of the club. Visitors included Ralph Arnold, and J. A. Ashby, the latter of McLean.

The club expressed its appreciation of the Rotary gift of many toys for the Christmas trees.

Commutation of Death Sentences in Lebouef Case Recommended to Governor

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 21. (P)—The state board of pardons today recommended that the death sentence of Mrs. Ada Bonner LeBouef and Dr. Thomas E. Dreher be commuted to life imprisonment. The vote was 2 to 1.

Final decision in the case now rests with Gov. Huey P. Long who, under the law, is not compelled to follow the recommendation of the pardon board. He has announced that "under no circumstances, as I see it now, will I commute the sentences."

Mrs. LeBouef and Dr. Dreher were sentenced to death for killing James J. LeBouef, the woman's husband, near Morgan City on July 1, 1927.

Bids for Salt Creek Oil Rejected In Favor of Privately Made Sale

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (P)—Secretary West today rejected all bids for government oil from the Salt Creek field, Wyoming, because the highest bidder refused to make bond and give information requested by the department, and then entered into a contract with the White Eagle Oil & Refining company and the Texas company for the oil at a private sale.

The interior department announced that the sale of the oil to the White Eagle and Texas companies for 21 3/4 cents per barrel above the highest posted field price at a private sale was mandatory under the law by which the royalty oil contracts are made.

The highest of the bids submitted was by William L. Walls of Cheyenne, Wyo., 42 cents per barrel above the posted field price.

ELECTION PROPOSITIONS LOOSE

BRECKENRIDGE, Dec. 21. (P)—Breckenridge will not have a city manager, a tax supported Chamber of Commerce or a home rule charter. All three propositions were defeated in an election yesterday the vote being approximately 527 to 300 on each proposal.

MILLIONS FOR WORK ON RIVER

Flood Control to Be No Small Part of Project

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (P)—President Coolidge today signed the Boulder dam bill making effective the act providing for a reclamation, flood control and power project on the Colorado river.

The president affixed his signature before a gathering of proponents of the Swing-Johnson bill, brought to the executive office by Senator Johnson and Representative Swing, California republicans, who for years had led the fight for enactment of the bill.

U. S. to Sell Power
The measure provides that the government shall supply the $165,000,000 estimated as necessary to construct a dam and accompanying works in Black Canyon. The money is to be repaid under an amortization plan from proceeds of the sale of power.

The signature of the president was the last official act required in providing federal authority for the construction, but either Utah or Arizona of the seven Colorado river basin states must ratify the Colorado river compact for distribution of water before the act can become effective.

The bill calls for the harnessing of the Colorado river at the Black Canyon site by a dam nearly twice as high as any existing, to impound millions of acre feet of water which would be used to bring under cultivation wide expanses of arid southwestern lands. This dam would further provide electric power to miles of territory in several neighboring states.

The structure's reservoir would have an estimated capacity of 16,000,000 acre feet of water, and the power machinery on which this would be used is expected to develop approximately 1,000,000 horsepower of electrical energy. Upon this basis, it has been estimated that the entire cost would be returned to the government with interest within 50 years.

Must Protect Valley
After construction of the dam, the bill authorizes construction of modern flood control works around the rim of the Imperial valley. Following this, the bill stipulates construction of an all-American canal between the river and Imperial valley, which would be wholly within the United States. At present, the valley is irrigated by a canal branching off the Colorado river, which runs to a large extent through Mexican territory.

A most determined fight against the Boulder dam legislation had been waged in congress by Arizona since its inception, Senators Ashurst and Hayden, democrats of that state, and Representative Douglas, another democrat, bearing the brunt of all opposition.

Only yesterday the Arizona legislature passed a memorial addressed to President Coolidge requesting him to veto the bill. Just as Ashurst and Hayden had held in arguing against it, the memorial termed the bill unconstitutional "in that it attempts to allocate waters of the Colorado river belonging to the state of Arizona without the consent of Arizona."

"It's Like This"

ARTHUR BRISBANE differs from Henry Ford as to the place of saving in a young man's scheme of living. The essence of Ford's doctrine is "prepare thyself by spending income during early life for special training and experience"; of Brisbane's "no one will succeed without the ability to save."

Both are perhaps aiming at the same goal, and in a sense are saying the same thing. But one looks upon acquired ability as capital, while the other is thinking of what it takes to start a business or make use of an opportunity.

Ford is thinking of the young men who specialize in some phase of modern industry and achieve success in terms of high offices—executive positions. Brisbane, thinking more of the young man's entering business for himself, thinks of the needed capital and the possibility of improving oneself through the years.

But what is the essential difference? Merely of the particular end in view. Thousands of opportunities are open to the man with ability and no other capital but health and ambition; thousands of investment opportunities are open only to honest, ambitious young fellows with enough capital to launch a beginning enterprise. A happy medium of each is nearer the ideal, which is only saying that which is heard at every school commencement.

PRISON INMATES without gainful employment, and at least a small salary, are in an environment strange to approved modern criminology.

Texas has tried the prison farm experiment, with results not especially encouraging. Lack of proper supervision and the possibility of escape have resulted in much criticism. Governor Moody's plan of centralization of the prison system has the support of most people, and according to his statement yesterday of organized labor as well.

Prison labor is, in a sense, state Socialism, yet excusable in the governmental scope because of the peculiar need for employment. Organized labor recognizes the need and also the desirability of centralization. Competition with laborers in similar employment outside of the prisons is avoidable to a certain extent, and to the degree that workers are injured the general saving to laboring classes is an offsetting influence. It costs the state $300,000 a year to guard the prisoners under the present system—certainly no small item.

Texas needs a scientifically planned penitentiary in which vocational training can be made available to those imprisoned for the shorter terms and employment in creative activities for those not so susceptible to corrective measures. For the latter, class manufacture of cement for

With HOOVER in Latin America

Herbert Hoover has been making his way through the Spanish-speaking Americas as the high priest of his nation's new policy of economic rapprochement in this hemisphere.

Chosen to guide the United States through its next four years of industrial and business expansion, he has sought first to sow the seeds of permanent friendship in that field which offers the nearest opportunity for American manufacturers and American capital.

He has functioned as an advance agent, a contact man or as a visiting overseer of our vast investment and trade interests below the Rio Grande—whichever one cares to call it.

A Go-Between

Not the least part of his task is that of fixer. He has undertaken to show these countries that the United States harbors no wicked designs against them, and his attempts were well timed. Our pre-Morrow policy toward Mexico and Nicaragua advanced our interests in this hemisphere in no respect whatever. Hoover appears to have realized that, and Coolidge as well.

So that, in referring to Hoover as the high priest of our new economic policy, one does not picture Hoover as traveling with a concealed club. He is not dissatisfied with the political or military situation in Latin America. But he is profoundly concerned with America's future prosperity and expansion. In road building purposes has been suggested. If the state is to take over road building, this will be only an extension of its highway function.

But present equipment is inadequate and almost medieval compared with that of some other states. It would take a legislative session to go into all the needs of the Texas penal, judicial, and eleemosynary systems. But it would be worthwhile.

the recent campaign he avowedly assumed that burden. Trade, he made clear in a preliminary informal conference with correspondents, was not based on sentiment. In his opinion, the three essential factors for happy commercial relations between nations are Contact, Understanding, Escom.

Inasmuch as he is able, Hoover is acting en tour with these factors in mind. Freer intercourse, between the leaders and peoples of western nations, better communications between nations and wider interchange of news, views and culture, and reassurance as to the amicable motives of all concerned are some of the ways in which they will be more completely attained.

What Industry Faces

The future is inscrutable, but it is as certain as anything can be that the 20 Latin-American republics are bound to play an increasingly important part in our domestic industrial welfare.

The Department of Commerce, under Hoover, has repeatedly warned that American industry faced the stiffest competition it ever had from Europe; that desperate efforts would be made to retrieve economic domination. International cartels, sometimes financed by European governments, have been organized to fight us on all fronts. —South America, the Far East, Europe and even in our home market.

Germany, in some Spanish-speaking countries, already has regained all the trade she lost during the war. Britain is a hot competitor. The fight is distinctly on.

Meanwhile, it is highly significant that Europe is becoming more and more industrially self-sufficient again.

The United Kingdom, our biggest export market, bought $1,333,000,000 less from us—or 14 per cent—in the fiscal year 1926-27 than in the year previous.

French and Italian imports from the United States showed cuts of 13 and 16 per cent respectively. Germany bought $117,000,000—32 per cent—more from us in 1926-27, but that was a fortuitous circumstance.

Europe has always taken a larger share of American exports than any other continent, but that share has been less than 50 per cent for the last two or three years. European imports from America have dropped from 72 per cent of our total exports at the beginning of the century to 47 per cent in 1927.

Our imports from Europe have decreased similarly from 50 per cent to 30 per cent. Meanwhile, South America receives less than 10 per cent of our exports and provides 12 per cent of our imports.

The latest figures, those for 1927, showed that we provided 33 per cent of the imports

Compressors on Big Gas Line Are All in Operation

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Dec. 21. (Special)—New compressor stations at Higgins, Texas, and Corwin, Kan., have been placed in operation by the Cities Service Gas company. The completion of these two stations marked the close of the expansion program of the company's compressor station department for 1928 which called for the erection of the Higgins and Corwin stations with a capacity of 5,000 horsepower each and enlargements to the present compressor stations at Mooreland, Okla., Wichita, Kan., and Pampa, Texas, by adding 1,000 horsepower to each.

These additions to the system were necessitated by completion of the 20-inch natural gas pipeline from Pampa to Kansas City and the new stations will not only facilitate the movement of Panhandle gas but also will expedite movement of gas from the major fields of Kansas and Oklahoma which are tapped by the company's pipeline system.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Dec. 21. (Special)—Construction work on an 8-inch natural gas pipeline from Emporia, Kan., to the Cities Service Gas company's 20-inch Pampa-to-Kansas City line has been completed. This 8-inch line, seven and one-quarter miles long, gives Emporia a new outlet and ties it in with the main system of the Cities Service Gas company.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SADIE MORTON, cheap and common, had asked ASHTORETH to share her apartment. It is a small and gloomy apartment furnished to Sadie's tastes, at the expense of HOLLIS ART.

She is enormously wealthy and attractive, is Ashtoreth's employer. And Ashtoreth is a beautiful girl with exquisite tastes and high ideals. A little snobbish, perhaps.

She seems to have made a decided impression upon Mr. Hart, who suddenly he discovers that she and Sadie Morton, one old friend with that knowledge, Ashtoreth is the girl who has foisted her interloper.

In order to satisfy her curiosity, she goes to the apartment with Sadie, who accompanies her to her apartment and hears the complete story of an amazing "phantom."

That night Sadie Morton, because he felt sorry for her—and had a much more than it really did—made her interloper anyhow. When he tried to visit her, Sadie, pale as a ghost, threatened to sue him for breach of contract. But she has no money for such a suit, and not even an insubstantial lawyer can help her. Her only hope is as much as kissed her good night, as she sadly admits.

Finally, Sadie thinks she sees a way to keep the apartment which she is afraid she will lose. For she has saved her entire life's savings—she has Ashtoreth's "your mother'd love it, Ash," she pleads.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

"Oh, Sadie, we couldn't afford it," protested Ashtoreth.

But Sadie was not so easily discouraged.

"It wouldn't cost much if we split it three ways," she pointed out. "You and your mother and me, and then some other girl. Gee, Ash, I hate to give up a place like this. Be a good sport. We could have some swell times together. And think of your mother, Ash! Wouldn't she just love it, though!"

It was, indeed, the sort of place poor Maizie would love. Family ties, reflected Ashtoreth, were such a joke. She disliked, instinctively, everything that her mother admired. She shuddered now, to think of Maizie, floating over Sadie's deep plush chairs and monstrous divan. Admiring Sadie's dreadful lamps. Exclaiming upon her ugly rugs. And all her tawdry objects d'art.

What would Hollis Hart think if he could know that Mrs. Ash had—tasted like Sadie's!

"You just don't want to get mixed up with me," hazarded Sadie abruptly. "You're trying to make a hit with the boss, and you're going to watch your step."

"Oh, my dear, I wish you wouldn't talk that way! I wouldn't talk that way to either Holly any more," she volunteered. "Send me a letter, trouble you. I told you I got a new boy. He calls me Stren, because he says I'm a scream. Gee, he's a wise cracker! You ought to know him. He's just like a guy in College Humor. Wears the latest styles. Honest, Ash—he's a riot. Know what he says? I am! A. V. S. A. girl—Universal Sex Appeal."

Sadie glanced for a glance in her Venetian mirror.

"Yes, ma'am," she said. "That boy thinks I'm the original red hot mamma."

"Then you're really going with Mr. Hart?" asked Ashtoreth eagerly. "I mean you're not going to try to get any more money from him?"

"Oh, I don't know," Ashtoreth laughed.

"Oh, Sadie, you're impossible!" she declared. "I always thought you were a modern, independent working girl. And what a gold-digger you turned out to be!"

"I'm modern," countered Sadie.

ASHTORETH adjusted her hat in front of the mirror. Tucked up a loose end of hair. And ficked the toes of her dull kid pumps with the back of her gloves. She looked like a society girl on her way to Sewing Circle, if society girls on their way to Sewing Circle look as society editors would have the public believe. Smart. Impeccable. And stunning, like an American girl on a Paris boulevard.

"I'll drop in and see your mother some time," offered Sadie.

"That would be lovely," murmured Ashtoreth politely.

"Yeah? Well, suppose you leave your address then."

"Here—write it down on the back of the phone book. I got some million-dollar stationery, but I ain't wasting it any more."

Ashtoreth scribbled obediently.

"I'll bring mother over some evening," she volunteered cordially. Sadie was frankly skeptical.

"You ain't kidding me a bit, Ash, will you please. Back to the grind. Me—I got a nice new magazine and a box of chocolates."

She walked with Ashtoreth to the door.

ASHTORETH bought the newest movie magazine for Maizie and a box of face powder and a book.

"And I'm independent as hell. Who wants to work?"

"Well, I do," announced Ashtoreth, and began to gather her things together. Black antelope gloves and a bag to match, and her little lace handkerchief.

"No hard feelings, dearie," she laid her hand on the other's arm.

"You look a million dollars, honey—and that ain't maybe."

Narrowing her big blue eyes, she contemplated Ashtoreth—humorously.

"And I bet," she added, "you're just as hard to make. Oh, well. God played favorites with us womankind. That's all I got to say."

ASHTORETH waited on the corner for a street car. One thought was paramount in her mind. To keep Sadie from telling Mr. Hart any further details of her childhood.

"Not that I'm ashamed," she told herself. "But being poor is like having funny relations. You just sort of keep quiet about some things. Everybody does."

She wondered how she should explain to Mr. Hart the details of her protracted visit with the Mortons. How tell him of her father's death? Or the miserable months when she and Maizie subsisted on the charity of neighbors? When Maizie went out working by the hour. "Accommodating," she called it. But for all her gay pretenses, Ashtoreth knew that she had scrubbed floors and washed a thousand greasy dishes.

There were many things that Hollis Hart must never know. Not that there was anything shameful about having been an errand girl in the five-and-ten. Of course these were! But neither was it anything a girl who looked like a heiress boasted about particularly.

"If he thinks I've antecedents, education and culture like the girls in his crowd, what a fool I'd be," vowed Ashtoreth, "to disillusion him."

She left the car at Park Street, and walked briskly down to State. Mr. Hart had left the office when she reached there, and she spent the afternoon copying a tiresome report assigned by Mrs. Mason.

Suddenly she became panty-stricken.

"Maybe he has another stenographer! Maybe he'll never talk to me again!"

At five o'clock, when she closed her desk, she was shivering inwardly. Half expecting Mrs. Mason to inform her, on the way out, that her services would be no longer required. To be given two weeks pay, in lieu of notice.

But Mrs. Mason smiled when she said good night.

"Mr. Hart wished me to thank you for him," she said.

"Thank me? What for?"

Mrs. Mason's lips twitched in a polite and efficient smile.

"I don't know," she admitted.

"But Mr. Hart spoke as if you would understand."

Ashtoreth powdered her nose and pulled her hat over her eyebrows, while her heart pounded madly in a transport of joy. She had not, then, forfeited his interest. Tomorrow, perhaps, he would ask her of Sadie's plans. And she would be able to tell him that she had advised Sadie to make no trouble. "I may be only a stenographer," she rejoined, "but I can do a millionaire a favor!"

WARMLY grateful to life and its largesse, she stopped at a confectionery on the way home and ordered for Maizie a pound of assorted bonbons and caramels with nuts. She bought the newest movie magazine. And a box of face powder, highly scented, and pink as tender watermelon. Then she stopped at the circulating library and procured a copy of Edgar Wallace's latest. It was Maizie's little joke that Mr. Wallace keeps more women awake nights than any man living.

Maizie had roast beef hash for dinner, and a cottage pudding for desert.

"Let me drop an egg for you, honey," she wheedled. "Six country eggs. A dollar and ten cents a dozen."

She deposited a quaking mound of yellow, surrounded by an aura of quivering white.

"There! Don't that look nice! And here's real cream for your coffee. No top of the bottle tonight, dear."

Ashtoreth frowned.

"What's the celebration, Mother?"

Maizie wiped her hands on her apron.

"Monty English is coming over," she said. "I saw him on Tremont street this afternoon. I got in just a few little things. I thought maybe you'd like to give him a little snack, honey."

She smiled ingratiatingly.

Ashtoreth threw up her hands.

"You're just naturally bound to marry off Mrs. Ash's daughter, aren't you Ma?" she teased.

Beneath her banter there was a shade of annoyance.

Monty makes love after the most approved manner. Spends a few hours with him and Ashtoreth—in the next installment.

ABILENE EAGLES FAVORED TO WIN TITLE

Ten Thousand to See Classic Today on Parramore Field

ABILENE, Dec. 21. (AP)—This city was the mecca for Texas pigskin enthusiasts today as the Port Arthur Yellowjackets and Abilene Eagles prepared to clash in the deciding battle for the state high-school football crown.

Climaxing probably the most hotly contested race since the schoolboy league was organized in 1920, today's game was expected to draw more than 10,000 spectators to Parramore field at Simmons university. Hotel lobbies have been filled with visitors since yesterday, and today there was a constant stream of automobiles converging on the battle site.

Cochs Dewey Mayhew's powerful Abilene club has been established almost an overwhelming favorite to down the Stingers from the Gulf, but there was little doubt it would be a spectacular combat. A few of the more enthusiastic Eagle supporters were predicting a four or five touchdown margin of victory. Others, cognizant of the frailties of football dope, were content to forecast a less sizeable score.

While Port Arthur's season record does not compare with that of the huffy Eagles, who trampled undefeated through what admittedly is the toughest football section in the state this year, the Yellowjackets have become recognized as fighters of the last ditch variety. Coach Tom Dennis' youngsters are totally unawed by the formidable record of their opponents. "They can't play but 11 men at a time," one of the Jackets was heard to remark.

A comparison of the trails of the two eleven into the finals reveals that the Yellowjackets have been defeated three times and tied twice, while Abilene has only a 19-19 tie with Ranger to mar its record. Port Arthur lost to Lake Charles, La., 13 to 7, to Shreveport, La., 7 to 0, and to Sam Houston high of Houston, 13 to 7. On the other hand, they defeated South Park of Beaumont, 31 to 0, Bryan high 24 to 7, Beaumont, 19 to 7, and Jeff Davis of Houston, 19 to 0, for the district title. In bi-district play the Jackets were tied by Main Avenue of San Antonio, 6 to 6, but advanced on the flip of a coin. Last week in the semi-finals, they clinched with Marshall in a scoreless affair, but reached the finals by penetrating the Mavericks' 20-yard line three times.

Abilene started slowly with a 7 to 0 victory over Anson, then in order defeated the Daniel Baker reserves, 13 to 0, Coleman, 79 to 0, and Eastland, 19 to 0. In their first conference game they tied Ranger, 19 to 19. After that came their victorious march over Breckenridge 31 to 6, Haskell 89 to 6, San Angelo 25 to 0, Cisco 19 to 13, Amarillo 28 to 21 and Cleburne 20 to 6.

The present Abilene machine is not as versatile as that which was defeated by Waco in last year's finals, but its heavy line and hard driving backfield have enabled it to drive relentlessly towards a state title.

Maloney to Meet Con O'Kelly Tonight

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—Jimmy Maloney and Con O'Kelly meet in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Maloney has staged a sensational comeback in recent weeks, outpointing Johnny Risio and stopping Andy Mitchell in his last two starts. O'Kelly, who came to this country recently from Ireland, has made two starts here, defeating Al Friedman and Jack Gagnon on points.

Both Teams of Central Will Be in Action Tonight

Central high school girls will play a return game with the Miami, high school team tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the local gymnasium.

Fifteen members of the Harvester basketball squad left this morning for Canyon where the local team meets the Canyon Eagles in two games today. The first game has been called for 4:30 o'clock and the second game for 8 o'clock. The boys will return following the game tonight.

After a hard practice last night, Coaches Mitchell and Fox pronounced themselves well pleased with the work of the squad. Henry Ayres, football end of no mean ability, has proven the surprise of the week. He has shown up so well in practice that he will be used on the first-string today.

Charles James is another boy who is showing several of the boys a clean pair of heels. When the newcomer gets the ball he knows what to do with it. Other members of the team are also getting the eye on the basket and shooting some pretty field goals from all angles.

Captain Troy Stalls will lead his team in its first game of the season away from home. The boys are anxious to defeat the Eagles and no doubt will play their best of the season.

Those making the trip: Roberts, Stalls, Kahl, Walstad, Saulsbury, James, Tracy, English, Willis, Ayres, Culverhouse, Lard, Thorn, Seitz and Oash.

Protested Match Set for Tonight

CHICAGO, Dec. 21. (AP)—Two great shot-makers, Ralph Greenleaf of New York and Frank Taberski, the "Gray Fox of Schenectady," will replay their disputed match in the world's pocket billiard championship tournament tonight at Orchestra hall.

The match, ended abruptly Wednesday night when Taberski refused to continue on a charge that Greenleaf had violated the rules, was ordered replayed by the National Billiard association, promoter of the tournament.

STARS TO COAST

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—The metropolitan district is sending two more stars into the winter golfing wars. Bobby Cruickshank, pro at the Progress club, left for the Pacific coast yesterday to join his brethren who have been in that sector for weeks. George Voigt, one of the leading amateurs, announced he had filed entry in the Miami and Miami Beach pen championships.

Intersectional Idea Has No Appeal to Manager J. McGraw

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—Agitation for a change in major league schedules whereby the opening series would be intersectional in character finds no proponent in John McGraw, pilot of the New York Giants.

For years, the major leagues have opened their seasons with intra-sectional games, that is, East against East and West against West. McGraw dubbed a change "impractical."

"For the Eastern teams to open in one of two things would have to happen," he said. "Either the traveling team would have to journey right back home after a short series on the road, which would bring about a rather heavy overhead expense, or the traveling teams would have to keep right on traveling and complete a regular sectional invasion."

JINGLE, BELLS---JINGLE!

SANTA'S BELLS JINGLE AND ON THE CHRISTMAS TREE THEY JINGLE

Our hearts jingle and tingle. Bubbling over with fun the children clasp in their hands the gifts from mother and father and from Santa Claus.

The older folks join in the merriment for there's nothing more sacred than pure joy.

No better way could we celebrate this Christmas Day than to be happy.

Glad tidings of a new hope for the world was the joyful news of twenty centuries ago when the Christ Child was born. Today, we, in all sacredness, remember that day and rejoice.

"Sole Owner" is joyful, too, the same as You on this Christmas Day of Joy

John Heydler Is Not Convinced His Plan Is Poor

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—John Arnold Heydler, president of the National league, believes in the old saying, "if at first you don't succeed, try, try, again." He has not abandoned his idea of having a batsman for the pitcher and thinks that eventually his proposal may find a place in the game of baseball.

"I still think it's a good idea," said President Heydler, "and I'm not alone in this position, either. I have had a basketful of letters endorsing the suggestion."

"Innovations are slow to catch on, I remember that there was a tremendous uproar when an order went out that the pitcher must keep his foot on the rubber. The pitchers had been starting their deliveries away round to one side of the pitching rubber, giving a cross-fire effect to every pitch."

"Pitchers said they could not pitch if they had to stand on the rubber and one would have thought that the game would be just about ruined. The late Harry Pullan, president of the National league at the time, said the order would stand and if experience in the spring exhibition games showed that it would not work, it would be rescinded. When the plan was tried it was found simple and no effort has been made since to have the pitcher hop all around the infield."

"As a time-saver alone, the plan of having the pitcher relieved of batting responsibilities would be worth while in my opinion. Now a pinch hitter is sent in for the pitcher, and may be if he is a lefthanded batsman the opposing manager will decide to counter with a lefthanded pitcher. This takes both the pitchers out of the game. If the relief pitchers are warming up in a corner of the outfield as they do in some parks, the new man has to be summoned, sometimes with a wild waving of arms and shouting. The pitcher is finally brought in and the game resumed."

Many Expected at Brownsville Game

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 21. (AP)—Although no championship is at stake, several thousand South Texans are expected here today for the post-season football game between Brownsville high school, Valley class B champions, and Depaul academy of Chicago, parochial champions in that city.

The Chicago 11, with 13 supernumeraries and a number of rooters, arrived yesterday and had a brisk workout.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE CRESCENT

It is safe to say that there will be no adverse comment on the actions of German officer characters in Fox Films "Four Sons" when it appears on the screen of the Crescent theatre commencing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. And for good reason. Every man appearing in these interpretations is a former member of the German army.

Following director John Ford's stay in Europe, during which time he spent several months in Germany, it was decided that only ex-soldiers would be considered for these highly important atmospheric bits.

Numbered among those players is His Royal Highness, Archduke Leopold of Austria, whose first screen appearance is made in the new Ford production, and Captain Carl von Haartman, former member of the German Air Service.

In the important roles are Margaret Mann, who plays the stellar role of the grandmother, and Earle Foxe, noted screen comedian, who huris his comic mask to the winds in his characterization of Von Stomm, villain extraordinary.

MRS. TOWNSEND DIES

MARLIN, Dec. 21. (AP)—Mrs. W. J. Townsend, 45, wife of former State Senator Townsend of Wichita Falls, and a daughter of Judge S. P. Willson, chief justice of the sixth Civil Appeals court at Texarkana, died here today.

Meeting of Bridge Club a Pleasant Event of Yesterday

Wreaths of evergreen, branches of holly, and other Christmas decorations added to the charm of Mrs. J. D. Sugg's new home in the Cook addition, when she entertained members of the London Bridge club and other friends yesterday at one of the most delightful club affairs of the season. Card-table accessories repeated the Yuletide motif.

The game closed with Mrs. F. M. Culberson holding high score for special guests, while Mrs. P. O. Sanders held high for members. Mrs. Charles Thut and Mrs. Jarrell Smith made top and low cuts. Attractive favors were awarded, after which a refreshment plate was passed.

The guest list was as follows: Mrs. W. E. Coffee, Mrs. W. T. Fraser, Mrs. P. O. Sanders, Mrs. H. H. Hicks, Mrs. F. M. Culberson, Mrs. M. B. Davis, Mrs. Clarence Barrett, Mrs. Charles Thut, Mrs. Henry Thut, Mrs. J. M. Dodson, Mrs. Frank Catterton, Mrs. C. H. Garner, Mrs. Ralph Arnold, Mrs. Jarrell Smith, Mrs. R. Earl O'Keefe and Mrs. Porter Malone.

Surprise Party Given Honoring A. D. McNamara

Mrs. A. B. Zahn and Mrs. A. D. McNamara entertained last evening with a surprise birthday party honoring Mr. McNamara. Their home, attractively decorated for the holidays, made a gay setting for four tables of bridge. At the close of five games "white elephant" favors were distributed from a Christmas tree to Mrs. T. E. Simmons, Mrs. F. W. Baird, Miss Lucille Keim, Martin Muench, F. W. Bird and William Gould. Score favors were given Mrs. Simmons, high, and Miss Keim, low. A gift was presented to Mr. McNamara. Delicious refreshments were served. Following is the guest list for the evening: Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hiske, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. William Gould, Miss Ruth Anne Mitchell, Miss Lucille Keim, F. P. Kennedy and Martin Muench.

Friendship Class Enjoys Holiday Party Thursday

One of the most delightful affairs of the week was a Christmas party given yesterday for the Friendship class of the Methodist Sunday school. Mrs. George Eads, Mrs. Frank Elliott, Mrs. Robert Morris, Mrs. J. E. Gilbert and Mrs. O. W. Ferguson were co-hostesses, entertaining in the prettily decorated classroom at the church.

Games were enjoyed and small gifts, exchanged by members of the class, were distributed from a lighted tree. Dainty refreshments were served at the tea hour.

Mrs. I. H. Kimbel of Oshkosh, Neb., who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. G. Twiford; Mrs. C. A. Norris and Mrs. Nathan Jones were special guests of that occasion. Other members who were present included: Mrs. L. P. Duvall, Mrs. W. F. Moss, Mrs. J. M. Turner, Mrs. J. B. Kidwell, Mrs. Roy Bourland, Mrs. T. J. Underwood, Mrs. Edwin Vleas, Mrs. Lee Gray, Mrs. C. W. Alexander, Mrs. E. F. Caughy, Mrs. H. G. Twiford, Mrs. C. M. Fearn, Mrs. Carson Loftus and Mrs. C. S. Boston.

Miss Mattie Belle Tharpe and Homer Smith Married, 19th

In a simple but impressive ceremony at the parsonage of the First Christian church, at 5:50 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Miss Mattie Belle Tharpe became the bride of Mr. Homer Smith of Stratford. The Rev. James Todd, Jr., pastor of the Christian church, officiated in the ring service.

The only guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ora Tharpe and Miss Ruth Williams. Immediately after the ceremony, the bride and groom left for Stratford, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Tharpe of Stratford. She has been a nurse in Dr. A. Cole's office the last three years, and during her residence in this city she made many friends. Mr. Smith is a farmer.

Faulty Indictment Found in Court

Charges of theft against Gerald Meroney were dismissed in 94th district court yesterday afternoon when it was found that the indictment was faulty.

Meroney was charged with entering the residence of R. E. Johnson, owner of the Johnson hotel, and stealing therefrom. It was proved that the defendant did not steal from Mr. Johnson.

Meroney is being held on a charge of theft of money from Tommy Hammond, blind peanut vendor, whose room was entered and money stolen. Judge Ben S. Baldwin is representing the defendant.

AWARDED DAMAGES
ABILENE, Dec. 21.—Although he was divorced from his wife a year ago and had since married again, E. D. Grambling was awarded $7,500 by a jury which heard his suit against Ira J. Ely, Abilene oil man, yesterday. Grambling charged Ely with alienation of his wife's affections and asked $25,000.

Grand Jury in Recess to Jan. 3

Three more indictments, one for possession of intoxicating liquor, one for theft, and one for forgery, were turned in by the grand jury yesterday before recessing until January 3. In all, 27 indictments have been returned by the grand jury since it went into session December 10.

The jury has had a busy period and has not yet completed its work. Investigation in several cases is still under way and a report is not expected before the closing week of court.

Among the lawyers from out of the city who attended court here yesterday were John T. Buckley of Borger, E. F. Ritchie of Miami and A. A. Ledbetter of McLean.
