Earhart Plane Wrecked

AMELIA AND FLYING MATES ARE NOT HURT

SHIP CRASHES UNDER HEAVY GAS LOAD AT HONOLULU

HONOLULU, March 20 (AP)—By a hair's breadth Amelia Earhart sidestepped disaster for herself and two colleagues today when she wrecked her $80,000 "laboratory plane" and her world flight plans during an attempted dawn takeoff for Howland Island, 1,532 miles out in the Pacific.

Tearing down the Luke field runway at 50 miles an hour in the half light, the powerful plane began swaying under its three-ton gasoline load.

The right tire burst. The plane veered to the left. In a flash Miss Earhart "gunned" the left motor in an attempt to level the ship.

Quickly and coolly Miss Earhart cut the ignition switches, and thereby saved herself and her two navigators from possible death in a pyre of gasoline-soaked wreckage. A single spurt of flame came from the hurtling ship. It spun to the right and stopped on its right wing.

Earhart unhurt. Miss Earhart's white face appeared at the cabin door, as horrified army ambulance men dashed up. "Something must have gone wrong," she said. She was unhurt.

The navigators, Captain Harry Manning and Fred J. Noonan, climbed out unscathed.

"Sure, I'm okay," said Noonan as he surveyed the broken plane.

A few hours later Miss Earhart, Manning, Noonan and Paul Mantz, technical adviser, sailed for Los Angeles on the steamer Malolo, determined to have their plane repaired at its southern California factory preparatory to resuming the projected 27,000-mile world flight.

Although Miss Earhart gave no outward sign of agitation as she first emerged from the sixth narrow escape of her aviation career, she seemed bedraggled and tired as she hurried up the gangplank to sail.

She wore several leis, somewhat the worse for rain, and still was attired in the brown slacks and leather jacket she wore when she started her world flight from Oakland last Wednesday.

"I'll be back," she said.

"I hope this is only a postponement," she added. "I talked with

MAN PINNED UNDER CAR FOR LONG TIME TODAY

Although pinned beneath his overturned car for an unknown length of time, Blane Doherty received no broken bones. Physicians attending him at Pampa-Jarratt hospital, where he was taken in an ambulance, feared internal injuries, however.

Doherty, employee of Ross Magill, drilling contractor, was enroute to his home in the south Pampa field when his car overturned on a curve on the Phillips camp road and rolled over several times. Doherty had been to Pampa to call on his sister to attend a sister's wedding.

Doherty said he lost consciousness and didn't know how long he lay beneath his car. A passing motorist, whose name was not learned, discovered the man about 6:30 o'clock. He was unable to remove the victim from beneath the car. After calling an ambulance, the man returned to the scene of the accident and assisted other motorists in freeing Doherty.

I Heard . . .

Visiting senators and legislators who were paying their first visit to this section of the state yesterday expressing astonishment at Pampa's stability and business activity. They also declared that Pampa and the Panhandle must have been the place where western hospitality began.

'Spring Has Come, Grass Has Riz, Don't Know Where the Flowers Is'

This is the first day of spring—and the winter of 1937 is history, according to the man who figured out the official calendar.

It all happened at 6:45 p. m. Saturday. In fact this is almost the second day of spring, if one wishes to get technical about seasons and such.

Yesir, it was at just a quarter to seven last night when in bobbed Mr. Vernal Equinox, unannounced, to step up to the mike and tell the world that the sun at that very minute had just crossed the equator—and some more history had been made.

Now, the Panhandle of Texas was one of the very few spots in these United States that had the kind of stuff that Spring is made of. Saturday was a lovely day in Pampa and the Panhandle. You have had the radio word of a score of legislators from Austin to prove it. And, even if you don't wish to take their word for it—really, it was a swell day.

There were the blue skies (mammy and sunny boy!) and the sun was shining bright in tiny old Panhandle home) and stuff. There was no need for top-coats, and pre-Easter finery was on parade.

Elsewhere in the nation, according to wire reports, there was little corroborative evidence that Spring is in our midst.

Snow, ranging up to three inches at Detroit, fell in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa. Skiing was the order of the day in Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire. Temperatures near or below freezing formed the rule in the Northwest. A chill wind moved across Missouri and Kansas. Nebraska also had snow.

In New York it was misting rain, and Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana also were mumbering over cold, biting rains.

But, ah-h-h!

Around Pampa and the Panhandle, it really was Spring when a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of marbles and roller skates.

McLEAN, MIAMI, PAMPA TEAMS WIN IN JUDGING CONTESTS

How would you like to win $10 in cash, merely for a three-word title and a suggestion for an unusual angle to Pampa's annual celebration to be staged the first week in June?

The $10 can be yours just as well as well as not.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce wants a name for the celebration and an idea. The name should be one that can be used each year.

And the Jaycees will pay $10 for that name.

Several have been suggested, but Jaycees would like to see several hundred titles and suggestions roll in.

The contest is open to anyone. There are no strings attached to it, name is wanted. You get the $10, if your suggestion is selected by the judges. Simple, isn't it?

Send along your entries at once. You may submit as many as you wish. Each must be accompanied by a letter of suggestions as to how the Jaycees can incorporate some unusual idea into this year's show.

Mail or bring your names and suggestion to the June Celebration Contest editor of the Pampa Daily News, Pampa.

17 Locations Are Staked In Plains Fields

Sixteen new locations, eight new oil wells with a total potential of 4,894 barrels, and three new gas wells with a total open flow of 122,849,000 cubic feet, was the history of oil activity in the Panhandle oil field last week.

Hutchinson county was decidedly in the limelight with four completions good for 2,636 barrels. Hutchinson county also led in new locations with seven.

One of the best producers of 1937 and one of Hutchinson county's largest wells of a year, was brought in by the Barnsdall Oil company with completion of its No. B-4, T. D. Lewis in section 7, block 23, BS&F survey, which was given a potential of 1,030 barrels from the line zone. The test is seven miles northwest of Skellytown and about the same distance southeast of Borger.

New locations filed with the local office of the Texas Railroad Commission were interesting, especially to Hutchinson county where two semi-wildcat tests will be drilled. The Phillips Petroleum company announced a location for its No. 1 Ray Ebling in section 18, block M-16, AB&M survey, on the Hutchinson-Moore county line. The test will be about seven miles north of Sanford in what is proven territory but where no test has been drilled.

Two miles south of the Phillips test, Dave Rubin made a location

Where 455 School Children Lost Their Lives

The architecture of the New London school plant and that of Pampa high school was identical, according to information received here. The explosion leveled the two wings and the front part of the building but did not completely raze the auditorium which was located similarly to Pampa's. The above picture shows a gaping hole in the portion of the structure that was not leveled. Other pictures of the explosion may be seen on page 12.

Pampa Gives Legislators Enthusiastic Reception

Group Is Largest To Visit Panhandle Section

Gray county farmers Saturday were receiving their first checks of the year for compliance with the federal government's agricultural conservation program.

Forty-two additional checks came in the mail yesterday, pushing the county's total received Friday and Saturday to 448 for an aggregate of $103,413.41.

John Turcotte, Gray-co farmer, and president of the Gray-co branch of the Texas Agricultural Association, received the first check handed out here by County Agent Ralph Thomas, in the postoffice building.

Mr. Turcotte also had the honor of receiving the government's first AAA benefit check delivered in Gray county back in 1933.

Notices were mailed out Saturday.

Officials Told Gas Regulator Too 'Dangerous'

NEW LONDON, March 20 (AP)—A military court of inquiry into the school disaster which took 455 children's lives today heard A. J. Belew testify he had warned school officials "it was dangerous" not to install a new gas regulator leading into the main building.

Dr. E. P. Schoch, explosions expert from the faculty of the University of Texas questioned Belew, representing James B. Clow and Sons company, while in nearby communities reverent thousands bowed in grief at the burials of the dead children in rich oil lands.

The court of inquiry adduced first evidence that the reputed richest school in the world had sought to save money by installing an unsafe heating system.

Dr. Schoch, who earlier had expressed a theory that an accumulation of gas caused the blast, asked Belew if he had told officials of the regulator fault. The salesman replied:

"I told Mr. Shaw (W. C. Shaw, school superintendent) that it was dangerous. I told him he would have to reduce the pressure."

Belew testified that a new gas regulator was installed in the main building some time after Jan. 1 and a change from dry gas to wet gas was made. He said he told school officials the regulator would not hold the increased pressure following the change.

"It's A Crime"

George H. Greenway, Dallas heating engineer and an unsuccessful bidder on the heating contract for the destroyed school building testified that "it's a crime to put gas steam radiators in public buildings. When you put in 72 such radiators, you have 72 chances for individual explosions."

Jesse P. Vaughn, an oil field worker, told the court that he and a companion who previously had theorized that the explosion was caused by nitroglycerin had changed their minds.

Dr. Schoch pursued relentlessly the question of efficient venting of heating appliances.

"The vents I inspected were all right," Belew told him.

"There were 72 radiators in the school," the chemist said. "Do you feel they were safe whether or not they were vented?"

"It would make no difference," the salesman replied, "if the vents were open or shut, or if there were no vents, so long as the adjustments were proper and equipment was all right."

Proper Venting Discussed

They engaged in a protracted technical discussion over the proper construction of flues, agreeing that they should have vertical shafts of considerable length in order to create a draft for disposition of unburned gas.

Now who should enforce proper venting? Dr. Schoch asked at the end of that exchange. "Who should be interested most except first the salesman?"

Belew contended he was principally responsible only for advising how to place the vents.

"The salesman answered 'no' to a question whether he had determined the condition of vents in the school building."

"What assurance would persons buying radiators under similar circumstances have that they would be safe?" inquired Schoch. "Somebody has got to make sure this won't happen again and kill more people."

"Is it established that the vents destroyed the building?" Belew asked.

"Well, we don't know," Schoch told him.

Previously a preliminary investigation, the scientist had expressed a belief the explosion occurred in chambers of the hollow tile walls filled with gas.

F. F. Waggoner, principal of the New London elementary school, gave

Delegation To Discuss Borger Road At Austin

A five-county delegation from the Panhandle will go to Austin on April 15 at the invitation of the state highway department to discuss the Pampa-Borger highway possibilities and other road problems of the area.

This was the announcement Saturday of James Collins, president of the Pampa Board of City Development, following the return of a Pampa delegation from a conference with State Highway Chairman Robert L. Bobbitt and Highway Commissioner Harry Hines in Lubbock Friday.

Members of the Pampa delegation who conferred with the state officials, in addition to Mr. Collins, were Garnett Reeves, BOD manager, Fred Cullum, county judge Sherman White, County Commisa graphic eye-witness portrayal of the blast. Cuts on the principal's forehead showed how close he was to the building when the tragedy occurred.

Captain Coombes began the questioning.

Q. What sort of an explosion was it as far as its sound was concerned?

A. Well, it wasn't a sharp report — just a dull boom.

Q. Did you see a flash or flame?

A. I did not.

Q. What did you see?

A. I saw a mass fly over my head.

Q. Did the debris seem to be coming more or less in a horizontal plane?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you notice the roof?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did the particles go to great height?

A. No, sir, it didn't take them long to come down.

Q. Did you notice the nature of the wounds of those who were trapped in the building?

A. Some had the tops of their heads blown off and others were mangled.

Q. Did the blows seem to be such as would hit them in a horizontal plane?

A. It appeared to me as though things had been blown through them. Some had holes in their legs or bodies.

Q. Those with their heads nearly blown off, how did they appear?

A. Their heads weren't mashed down.

Q. Describe the condition of the floor.

A. Everything was broken into pieces. The particles were scattered out from the building.

Q. After the school changed from dry to wet gas for its heat did you notice any change?

A. The flame would come up higher. Some of the pupils complained of headaches.

Q. What corrective steps were taken?

A. A regulator was put on and the following day the pressure was too low. We didn't have any more trouble, however, after the first week.

Dr. Schoch took up the questioning.

Q. Did the children in the school show any signs of burns?

A. I saw one boy who looked like the hair had been burned off his head.

Q. In general was there any evidence of fire?

A. I don't remember seeing any corpses which were burned.

The hearing recessed for the night after the Waggoner testimony, planning to resume tomorrow in the hope of completing testimony tomorrow night.

Scores of the 455 victims of the nation's greatest disaster involving children were recessed into graves while the military court of inquiry sat in a rambling wooden structure only 50 yards from the demolished schoolhouse.

Captain Zachariah Coombes, Texas national guard, sat as judge advocate at the court and closely questioned witnesses who told of construction of the building and heating system, believed the cause of an explosion that turned the pretentious school house into a shambles late Thursday.

Boiler Planned First

Contractor Ross Madrox, called to testify concerning the heating system, told the court original plans for building did not call for a gas heating system, but for a boiler.

"The change to gas steam radiation was on account of cost, I presume," he said.

The contractor said the London school building committee carefully inspected various gas heating devices in other East Texas schools before deciding to install gas in its structure.

No state agency passed on the installation of the radiator system, said Madrox, who advised "it was done according to the code with no formal inspection."

Efforts to strengthen theories that gas accumulated in the hollow tile walls were seen when Senator Joe Hill of Henderson queried:

"If you didn't get a perfect mortar connection between the pieces of tile intended to convey the gas to the attic, the gas might escape, mightn't it?"

Graphic Description Given

District Attorney Stone Wells of Rusk county sat deeply interested and listened to testimony but said he "didn't think there was a possibility of criminal law violations."

Graphic, eye-witness account of the explosion was given by Frank Hodges of Henderson.

"I was stading at the northwest corner of the building, only about five feet away from it when the explosion happened. It made a muffled noise."

He was with two other persons, returning to the school house from the cafeteria, when the blast occurred. He was facing the building but said he turned and ran with the thought in mind "that the debris might hit me."

Hodges said it seemed the wall "was bursting towards me" but added he did not see whether the roof had been blown upward. Hodges, plumbing contractor on the school house, when asked if he found horizontal and vertical layers of tiles in the few times that he drilled holes for vent pipes, replied:

"Draft Every Time

"There was a draft every time I made a test. It's possible I didn't test all the holes."

Prior to the court hearing, Dr. E. P. Schoch, noted University of Texas chemical engineering professor and gas explosion expert, said he was convinced, from unofficial information, that a gas explosion caused the tragedy.

"One of the big probabilities," he said, "is that the walls exploded. The blast blew things too far to be a dust explosion. If it had been caused by gasoline vapors, the victims would have been burned. The victims in the main don't show scorching. It is just like they were shot to death."

Normally the largest and busiest petroleum sector in the world, the East Texas field today was silent except for only the imperative work. Workers deserted their leases and stood at graves. Business houses had front doors shades drawn and, crepe fluttered from the door knobs.

Everywhere was grief.

Relatives By Thousands

Relatives by the thousands moved into nearby Overton and at New London, called by countless telegrams and telephone calls that followed the explosion.

Piled high in telegraph offices were messages seeking to learn of the fate of relatives or friends; others of deep condolence.

Automobiles jammed the highways in a slow procession to the New London sector.

With it all, however, there prevailed a strange restraint of emotions. Only occasionally did sobs become audible. Tear-drenched eyes were many.

Soldiers of the national guard patrolled the school house sector — now only a leveled mass of brick and an occasional steel beam. Most of it was moved away by the heroic toil of a thousand oil field workers who clawed and fought their way through the debris for nearly 24 hours to reach trapped children.

Only a pitifully few were lifted out alive. Hospitals still housed nearly 100 injured and physicians' reports held out little hope for many of them. Fractured limbs and skulls were alarmingly dominant and attendants feared the youngsters would be maimed for life if they did live over the experience.

At Austin, Gov. James V. Allred recommended that heating installations in Texas school buildings similar to that at New London not be used until after careful safety examination. He acted after he had been informed that several other schools in East Texas are similarly equipped.

At the same time he set aside tomorrow as a day of mourning in Texas.

Guy E. Story of Dallas, representing a clay products manufacturing association, discounted the theory that the explosion resulted from absorption of gas by the hollow tile in the walls.

"Had the gas accumulated in the walls there would have been a series of little explosions, not one big one," he contended.

Senator Joe L. Hill of Henderson said the legislative explosion investigating committee might not take testimony.

"The military court is going into the matter so deeply that we may be able to formulate our policies from the record made here," he said.

Officials stated Saturday that much of the property has changed hands many times, and that in many instances buyers have become delinquent in their payments and in other instances no payments have been made at all.

W. B. Weathered, county school superintendent, has been busy checking over the delinquencies.

County Attorney Joe Gordon said Saturday at the next meeting of the Gray county commissioners' court he will ask for a requisition to permit the bringing up to date of the abstracts on the property in order that he can go ahead with the preparation of the petitions of foreclosure.

County Attorney Gordon said he expected to have available for the commissioners figures on how much is still owed to the county on the 30-year-old land sale.

Golf Season Will Open With Tourney April 4

Pampa's 1937 golf season will formally open on April 4, Del Love announced today. The pro at the Country club has arranged a team tournament of 18 holes for that day, with loser feeding winner.

Players wishing to enter the tournament will have to play 18 holes of golf and register their score with Mr. Love who will name a committee to select team captains and watch over the two leaders while they pair the players.

The night of April 1 will be deadline to enter the tournament. All scores must be in the hands of the committee by that date so that pairings can be announced.

Only charge will be regular green fees—and of course the price of the meal for the losers.

The course is in good condition. Recent rains have improved the fairways and the pro is at work on the greens.

WELLS CALLED BLAMELESS IN SCHOOL BLAST

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The oil wells weren't to blame for the New London school house blast, the safety expert of the American Petroleum Institute, Harry N. Blakeslee, said today.

This veteran of the oil fields stated that the 455 children who died in the explosion were theoretically just as safe as they would have been in any other building anywhere that natural or artificial gas is used.

Facts he obtained about the school's location and the type of its heating plant indicated, Blakeslee said, that the gas could have wrecked the building in only one way; by accumulating from an as yet undetermined leak in the school's fuel supply and being set off by an as yet unexplained spark.

Asserting this could have happened in any building where gas is used, he declared:

"I am convinced that the proximity of the schools to the oil wells had nothing to do with it."

The only responsibility of the oil fields in the disaster, he said, was one of simple ratio. The people in the oil fields use more gas for the same reason that the people in the coal fields use more coal.

Even if vapor was floating around the New London school—and he emphatically believes it was not—the safety expert said it would be eliminated as a cause of the explosion because when vapor is once set off the fire travels back to its source. The New London building just exploded with no fiery trail into the countryside.

Not only that, but the school was sitting on a hill and Blakeslee said the vapor does not haunt hills; it stays in hollows.

Blakeslee scoffed at one expert's published theory that the explosion might have been caused by gas infiltrated in the schoolhouse walls through vents from gas-steam radiators. He said such gases would include carbon dioxide, and could smother children if it escaped into the rooms, but it would not explode.

Blakeslee said "most credence" could be given the school superintendent's theory that the gas might have come from an improperly sealed pipe leading into the sub-cellar beneath the building, but that thorough investigation was necessary to establish the source of both the leak and the detonating spark.

Oil Allowable For Panhandle Cut Slightly

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—Texas oil operators received today what they had been apprehensively expecting for several weeks, a cut in their allowable production.

The state railroad commission set the allowable for April at 1,348,984 barrels daily, 50,450 barrels less than the basic schedule for March but 51,064 above the estimate of market demand for Texas' crude made by the Federal Bureau of Mines.

With the exception of the East Texas area, and after deductions for marginal production had been made, a horizontal slash of 15 per cent was applied, C. V. Terrell, commission chairman, said. Ernest O. Thompson, another commission member, said East Texas was excepted from the reduction because of strong demand for its product.

With the factor of 2.32 per cent of the hourly per well potential unchanged, it was estimated the allowable of the East Texas field on April 1, effective date of the order, would be 455,500 barrels, compared with 453,000 on March 1.

Other comparative district allowables were:

	March 1	April 1
Panhandle	75,510	72,150
Moore County	1,500	1,350
Osborne Area	725	709
North Texas	65,750	64,922
Foard County	650	655
West Central Texas	64,428	62,891
West Texas	188,463	175,947
East Central	74,479	70,202
Rodessa	39,400	38,454

Southwest Texas 227,426 209,430
Gulf Coast 297,923 185,953

Terrell said increase of crude oil storage and gasoline refining recently made curtailment of production desirable.

COFFINS STOP TRAFFIC.
NEW LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Coffins stopped traffic today in Overton, one of the grief stricken hamlets in the London school disaster area. When purchasers exhausted the stock in an undertaker's establishment, highway patrolmen halted bustling traffic on a state highway which bisects the town so that workmen could bring from across the road additional coffins stored in an automobile show room.

ILLINOIS PROPOSES GAS TAX

It has come to our attention that a bill has been introduced in the Legislature of the State of Illinois to place a tax of five cents per thousand cubic feet on the sale of natural gas in that state. Practically all of the natural gas sold in the state of Illinois is produced from the Panhandle of Texas and transported through pipe lines to the city of Chicago, and to points in southern Illinois. Approximately 140,000,000 cubic feet daily of the natural gas sold in Illinois is produced in Gray and Carson counties. A number of producers and many hundreds of landowners benefit from these sales. The royalties paid owners of land in Carson and Gray counties alone, on gas sold in Illinois, amount to several hundred thousand dollars a year.

Investigation reveals that this tax bill was sponsored and is being actively supported by an organization known as Southern Illinois Reciprocal Trade Association. Literature circulated by that organization shows the avowed purpose behind the proposed tax is to force natural gas out of competition with coal, in the interest of the coal operators and the railroads transporting coal. In other words, the proposal is based on the express purpose to destroy the Illinois markets of Panhandle natural gas owners.

Now, Texas is one of the good customers of many thriving Illinois industries, including such institutions as the packers, manufacturers of farm machinery, watches, glassware, chewing gum, not to speak of the enormous business of mail order houses and numerous other Illinois business enterprises. We wonder if it has occurred to the proponents of this tax, that its enactment might result in retaliatory measures on the part of the people of Texas that would operate greatly to the disadvantage of Illinois' industries and business enterprises.

There should be harmony and cooperation between two great states like Illinois and Texas, and it would be a very unhappy and regrettable situation should the industries and people of the two states engage in a trade war such as could develop from the enactment of such proposals as the Illinois gas tax bill.

The Texas Senate, on Feb. 9, took notice of this bill and passed a vigorous resolution, introduced by Senator Clint Small, protesting this proposed tax which would destroy one of the principal market outlets of Panhandle landowners and gas producers. It was a very timely resolution and should serve as a warning to the Illinois legislature.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER WASHINGTON—The United States and Mexico have signed a new migratory bird conservation treaty, and if it does any real good, sportsmen on both sides will be surprised as well as delighted.

A year or so ago a friend of ours returned from a prolonged stay in Mexico and being a scatter gunner of sorts he was sored no end on the way Mexicans treated the great game of duck shooting.

Our informant was invited to a duck hunt in the vicinity of Mexico City and stirred bellows of laughter among his sports-minded Mexican friends by appearing in the style of dress to which American duck hunters are accustomed. Then he was let in on how the duck is hunted there.

First there is a leisurely breakfast at a swanky clubhouse just out of sight and hearing of the duck pond. Then the fun begins. From blinds a couple of hundred yards from the pond the hunters may see thousands of ducks feeding in comparative peace on corn and rice showered into the water daily for months preceding the hunting season. The hunters have no guns.

At a signal a peon touches off a whole armada of guns ranged along one side of the pond and trained upon the ducks on the water. Hundreds of them never rise. But the flocks which do are met by another volley from an armada aimed to catch them when they are just clearing the water.

That is the end of the hunt. The birds are gathered by boatloads.

But the crime against wildlife is no less in the United States, for commercial hunters on Chesapeake Bay have the system worked down to an equally fine point. They have a similar battery along the shore overlooking shallow water to which the ducks have been lured by months of feeding. A dozen sections of one-inch water pipe, loaded with powder and shot can beat down a hundred ducks at a blast.

An even better trick is to load an eight-foot section of three-inch water pipe with shot, shingle nails or what have you, mount it on a boat, cannon fashion, and in the dark of the moon float up to a flock of ducks and let go.

There is a mass of law against marketing wild game but plenty of fine eating places, supplied by these market hunters, will turn out a wild duck dinner at fancy prices for sportive folk who find it easier to buy a duck than hunt it. And neither the Mexican nor United States method of mass murdering of ducks will be much hindered by treaties as long as that kind of demand continues.

TEX'S TOPICS

The nation still was stunned today over the Texas school child disaster which claimed hundreds of lives in the New London blast late Thursday. It was one of those wholesale tragedies, snuffing out the lives of innocents—a happening difficult of understanding by mere humans, many of whom often engage in reflection as to why something so horrifying should be a part of our daily existence.

In this connection, one may recall the words of Victor Hugo when he said that Life seems to be a perpetual succession of events, to which man submits. We never know from which direction the blow will come. Misery and happiness enter and make their exits, like unexpected guests. Their laws, their orbits, their principle of gravitation, are beyond mere man's grasp.

Virtue conducts not to happiness; nor crime to retribution; conscience has one logic, fate another, and neither coincide. Nothing is foreseen. We live confusedly and from hand to mouth. Conscience is the straight line, life is the whirlwind which creates over man's head either black chaos or the blue sky. Fate does not practice the art of graduations. Her wheel turns sometimes so fast that we can scarcely distinguish the interval between one disaster and another, or the link between yesterday and today.

This day, Palm Sunday, ushers in Holy Week. Locally, it will be a week of religious reverence to be climaxed on Easter Sunday with rejoicing in the churches once more on the anniversary of the Resurrection. And so, it brings us to some facts about earlier Easters. The day originally was dated to suit the convenience of pilgrims who needed moonlight in their annual treks to the Resurrection festivities.

Footsore and weary, they plodded both day and night to reach sacred shrines for this observance. Hence it was decided that Easter shall fall on Sunday following the first Paschal full moon after March 21. The occasion may therefore vary over a period of 35 days, from March 22 to April 25. Lent, great period of fasting in Christian churches, grew from a 40-hour to a 40-day ritual as it came down thru the ages.

While most Christians commemorate Good Friday as the day of the Crucifixion, Mohammedans also celebrate it as the day of Adam's creation. Among ancient Germans, this date was sacred to the goddess-mother, wife of Odin. The association of Easter Sunday with the arrival of spring arises from a coincidence. The day occurs almost simultaneously with the ancient heathen Roman celebration of the vernal equinox.

Many customs have grown up around the Easter observance. In England, figs always are eaten on Palm Sunday to commemorate Zachaeus, the publican, who being "little of stature," climbed into a tree to see Jesus pass by the way through Jericho. Easter eggs and bunnies are traditions among the children of America at this season of the year. In Germany spring lambs are sold for the Easter feast. Here is inserted a reminder of the Pre-Easter noonday services for Pampa men which will be held daily through Friday this week from 12:40 to 1:10 o'clock in the club rooms of City Hall. There will be a different speaker each day.

And, now, with these rhyming lines from George du Maurier's "A Little Work," we shall call it another day:

A little work, a little play To keep us going—and so, good-day! A little warmth, a little light Of love's bestowing—and so, goodnight! A little fun, to match the sorrow Of each day's growing—and so, good morrow! A little trust that when we die We reap our sowing! And so—good-bye!

A Baxter, Tenn., farmer, who blows a bugle early every morning, boasts that he is still young at 47. It is strange neighbors should have let him reach that age.

A singer was marooned on the 12th floor of a Detroit hotel by a strike. An aria by the neighborhood soprano would have summoned a fire department.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY The first day of spring was clear but cold.

A special meeting of the chamber of commerce was a reception for W. S. Barcus of Sweetwater, new secretary, and a farewell party for M. A. Turner, retiring from the post.

The city council let a contract for two new water wells and extension of the water mains to cover the rapidly growing city.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY The first day of spring saw the ground covered with snow after a severe sandstorm.

A farm and home train from A. & M. college, touring the Panhandle, stopped here for several hours and was inspected by hundreds of Gray county residents.

Dr. R. A. Webb and Cecil Miller returned from an American Legion convention at Brownwood.

EASTER FASHION NOTES FROM ABROAD

Man About Manhattan By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The newest Kipling story on Broadway is that anecdote told by Hal Kemp about a smarty who wrote to the late R. K. and enclosed a dollar in the envelope. "I understand your stuff is retailed at $1 a word," he wrote, "and I wonder if you would be good enough to write something for me?"

That wasn't all, however. Several weeks later the author received this letter from his Yankee admirer: "I have sold your 'Thanks' for $2. The enclosed 46 cents in stamps is your share of the profit."

For all the things withheld you, I now grieve, wanting your litting voice, your mind to guide, needing your avid growth, your noisy ways. Knowing all love dies, I did not believe you could go, and all your little boy pride live on and on, haunting my weary days.

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

By ROBERT MONTGOMERY (Pinch-hitting for Robin Coerys) HOLLYWOOD—After a day of acting as a murderous bellboy, it's fun to turn honest by pretending to be a newspaperman. Maybe I ought to interview myself as a villain. It's been so long since I've had any character to portray other than playboy hero in drawing-room comedy that I scarcely recognize myself as a "heavy" in "Night Must Fall." I'm proportionately more interested, of course.

The young fellow I'm playing now is a sort of confidence-man killer. He's a great hand with the ladies and he doesn't kiss and tell. He kisses and kills. But he's such an inexperienced and uneducated bellboy that he is pretty much all thumbs as a murderer. He won't be important and it's just not in him to be more than ingratiating.

Cowboy Band to Tour Old Mexico

DALLAS, March 20 (AP)—Director General Frank L. McNary of the Pan American Exposition announced today the Hardin-Simmons cowboy band of Ambience had been selected as the "model band" to tour Mexico in May and June in behalf of the exposition.

The tour was arranged at a conference today between officials of the exposition and Hardin-Simmons. The band will bear the title of "The Swinging Vucqueros." Gene B. Sander is manager of the unit.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM O weep for the little children at New London for they are dead! They are going to feed the flowers that in May will surge odorously in blue and gold waves (O beautiful remembered eyes) over the tear-watered graves. O mourn you mothers and fathers of Pampa, for these dear-eyed tousel-haired children were beautiful and lovely, even as yours! And thank Providence that you still have yours! And weep softly, with pain clutching your hearts as you picture the mother at New London linger at the small grave, and hear her say:

I never reckoned that you could become so quiet, so still, and harassed by pain. Pain is for grownups who ages have lain resigned, sentiment of its delirium, not for you, so small, so meek to succumb unknown, and bravely to the quick drain of light from your bright eyes that not again open to laughter too soon numb.

For all the things withheld you, I now grieve, wanting your litting voice, your mind to guide, needing your avid growth, your noisy ways. Knowing all love dies, I did not believe you could go, and all your little boy pride live on and on, haunting my weary days.

SPIRIT AND POSTURE

"Buck up," says the average person to his good friend, bent by worry or discouragement. And to emphasize his counsel, he'll slap him on the back. Thus, Mr. Average Man reveals a full appreciation of the relation of spirits to posture. Low spirits mean physical dejection, bad posture; good spirits, the reverse. But also, as spirit affects posture, so posture can have its effect on the spirit.

Indeed, James together with Lange formulated the psychologic "law" named after them, the substance of which is that our bodily behavior determines our emotions rather than the reverse, as is commonly believed. Accordingly, then, we are sorry because we cry, and are afraid because we run. Slouch, and we are dejected in spirit; buck up, and the spirits mount.

This thesis must, however, not be pressed too far. The point to be made pertains especially to children among whom bad posture is widespread. And the point is that bad posture may be due to some emotional disaffection to which the child is subject. Such a child may not be persuaded or trained to improve its posture promptly and thoroughly by the ordinary means of rest and corrective exercise.

Such a child needs also good mental hygiene. The point is significant for this reason. If we neglect the emotional phase of bad posture, and stress the physical aspects, far from helping the child, we may intensify its suffering. A common cause of bad posture is fatigue. Fatigue in turn is influenced by the individual's emotional state.

The fact that I'm still on the payroll makes me confident that an actor who gives a conscientious performance can expect to be well received by those who like his work, no matter what role he takes.

I was telling Peter Lorre, that other Hollywood terrorifer, that when he sees my bellboy it'll scare him silly. But I hope I won't be scaring him twice in a row. And I hope I won't be shoved right back into a dinner jacket and a penthouse. I want the variety an actor should expect.

This, That and Everything By JESS KELLEY

Mayor LaGuardia's recent reference to Adolf Hitler as a "brown shirted fanatic" has brought the accusation of "insult" to Germany. Evidently the mayor was more frank than diplomatic in his speech. That brings to mind the question, "Which is more needed just now, a tactful phrasing of language that does not truly represent sentiment, or a positively candid expression of how we really feel about the matter?"

If nations would be more honest in the expressions of their attitudes toward the political ideas of each other, it would help to prevent complications resulting from a superficial pretense too often manifested. We have to admit, whether we like it or not, the political philosophy of Germany and that of the United States are hopelessly incompatible—and that to the degree that either may call the other "radical."

HANS LUTHER WILL BE REPLACED IS REPORT

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Diplomats heard today that Dr. Hans Luther soon will be replaced as Germany's ambassador to the United States.

One possible reason advanced in these quarters was that Luther's official position in Washington had been made difficult by the recent series of diplomatic incidents that followed Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's anti-Nazi speeches in New York.

Twice in the past three weeks, the envoy was called upon by the government to protest to the state department against addresses in which LaGuardia denounced Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

The German protests brought two apologies from Secretary of State Hull and in the meantime the United States made strong representations to Berlin against the press attacks on Americans.

GOVERNMENT MAY BUY MILLIONS OF ACRES

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20 (AP)—The Federal government, already the country's largest land owner, may acquire additional millions of acres under pending administration proposals.

Although the government has given away more than 280,000,000 acres to homesteaders and others in the past 75 years, it still owns about 430,000,000.

Four different federal agencies are urging expansion of this holding. Some of their proposals are over-lapping; others concern different problems and different types of land. The suggestions include:

1. Purchase of 95,000,000 to 110,000,000 acres of poor crop land, proposed by the farm tenancy commission. It said 2,000,000 to 5,000,000 acres should be acquired annually at a cost of about $4 an acre. The tenancy commission also favored extensive purchase of good farm land to be sold or leased to deserving tenants.

2. Purchase of 24,000,000 acres of submarginal land and 7,000,000 acres of land now in farms too small to support families.

WINNER OF KENTUCKY DERBY IS SELECTED -- UNOFFICIALLY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 20 (AP)—Somewhere tonight the gods of the animal kingdom gathered in solemn conclave.

From a list of 103 of the finest three-year-olds they selected the winner of the $50,000 added mile and a quarter Kentucky derby.

Their verdict will not be known until a few minutes after 5 o'clock on the afternoon of May 8 but between now and then thousands of persons will try to peer behind the curtain and select the winner.

From the list of derby nominations announced today by Col. M. J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, a selected 15 or more horses will go postward Derby Day for a try at the most coveted prize of turfdom—a victory in the Kentucky Derby.

An outstanding favorite is Reaping Reward. The brown colt owned by Mrs. E. D. Mars' Milky Way farms by Simkle out of Dustwhirl was selected as the best bet in a nation wide pool of turf experts by the Associated Press and the Louisville Times.

But in the east, Pompoon, Jerome H. Loucheim's leading money winner as a two-year old, and Col. E. R. Bradley's Brooklyn sire by the famous Blue Larkspur, are the best liked.

Mrs. Mars nominated the largest number of horses with five. In addition to Reaping Reward she has Case Ace, Jaw Breaker, Military and Murph.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED BY COUNTY JUDGES

LUBBOCK, March 20 (AP)—Unanimously choosing Abilene as next convention city, West Texas County Judges and Commissioners association concluded its 17th semi-annual convention here this afternoon.

Thirteen resolutions, the majority of them involving proposed legislation, were presented to the association, which adopted 11 of them.

Attorney General William McCraw was principal speaker at the closing session, which also heard Mrs. Viola Perkins, assistant director of relief.

Establishment of a hospital for the insane in West Texas met with unanimous approval. No effort was made to suggest a location for the institution.

One resolution, endorsing the proposed state welfare act of 1937 was approved, was placed before the association a second time on the motion of Commissioner Hal Burnett of Pecos county, and was approved 26 to 20 finally. Burnett opposed the resolution.

SUPPLIES DONATED

DALLAS, March 20 (AP)—E. B. Germany, mayor of Highland Park, and Bruce Twitty, superintendent of Baylor hospital, went to New London today with an automobile load of supplies for hospitals and Red Cross stations. Twitty said they would leave any supplies needed and order more from Dallas if necessary. They planned to visit the hospitals at Tyler, Overton and Kilgore and the Red Cross station at New London.

STRIKING STUDENTS TO RETURN, SAYS OFFICIAL

HOWE, March 20 (AP)—Charlie Wheat, president of the Howe school board, said today the strike of students over the naming of Rev. J. Roy Williams as superintendent, was unimportant and he believed the children would return to classes Monday.

Students had expressed dissatisfaction over action of the board in electing Williams to succeed W. L. Mitchell, recently resigned. Seventy-five of the 140 students had elected to stay away from classes until the board rescinded its action.

"I believe the children will return to school Monday and the matter will be settled," Wheat said. "If the students persist, the board will act."

Williams attempted to stop a petition bearing 300 names to L. A. Woods, state superintendent. Jack Bradley, senior class representative, said "the board and Williams will soon find out how far we will carry a joke. There will be no more school until we get a new superintendent."

The strikers are seeking a downtown building for headquarters.

CURIOSITY SEEKERS ASKED TO STAY AWAY

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—Chief L. G. Phares of the highway patrol tonight appealed to prospective visitors to the New London disaster area to stay away and "allow the bereaved parents to bury their dead without adding to their grief."

When the roadways became clogged with sightseeing motorists who blocked funeral passage this afternoon, Phares was forced to call highway patrolmen, who had worked 48 hours straight, back on the job only a short time after they had been allowed to return to their homes.

There is nothing to see there now," Phares said, "and there will be nearly 200 funerals tomorrow."

FOUR LOCAL THEATERS FEATURE COMEDY PROGRAMS THIS WEEK

THEODORA IS RUNNING WILD HERE AGAIN

VICTOR MCLAGLEN TO SWING FAMOUS FISTS

The Rex and the State theaters take the spotlight this week with the showing of "Sea Devils" with Victor McLaglen and Preston Foster at the former and "Theodora Goes Wild" with Irene Dunn at the latter.

REX

Riding the swirling waves of adventure and romance, Academy Award Winner Victor McLaglen as a Chief Bos'un's Mate in the U. S. Coast Guard and Preston Foster as his rival score a bull's eye in a stellar entertainment in RKO Radio's stirring drama, "Sea Devils," which opens at the Rex theater today.

Sharing spotlight honors with McLaglen and Foster in this thrilling vignette of an amusing but heroic branch of the government service, is Ida Lupino with Donald Woods heading the supporting cast.

Foster is about the last man in the service McLaglen would choose as a son-in-law, but it happens that his daughter has a mind of her own, so McLaglen initiates a bitter feud with the sailor.

"Fertile combats between this pair of Titans vie with thrilling rescues from storm-battered ships as dramatic highlights of this action-cramped photoplay.

Using the United States Coast Guard Cutter Tahoe and its crew, a perilous rescue of passengers from a burning vessel is effected, and other lives are saved from a hurricane-grounded boat, in which full beach equipment, including surf boats, a life gun, a breeches-buoy and other apparatus, is brought into play in a revealing demonstration of life-saving technique.

CROWN. "Let 'Em Have It," the new Reliance thriller glorifying the Federal operatives in their current war on organized crime, comes to the Crown theater today with one of the season's greatest casts.

Richard Arlen, Virginia Bruce, Alice Brady, Bruce Cabot, Harvey Stephens, Eric Linden, and Gordon Jones, the sensational new football star-film "find," head the cast which also includes Hale Hamilton, J. Farrell MacDonald, Dorothy Appleby, Barbara Pepper and a score of other popular names.

Joseph Moncure March and Elmer Harris wrote the story which presents Arlen, Stephens and Jones as three fearless Federal sleuths who pit science and brains against machine guns.

Cabot is seen as Joe Keefe, a chauffeur who starts his shocking career of crime by engineering the attempted kidnap of his society girl employer, played by Virginia Bruce. Paroled, he grows more and more daring, finally becoming "Public Enemy No. 1."

The relentless pursuit and final spectacular capture of Keefe by the three buddies makes for one of the most exciting adventures the screen has ever shown.

Virginia Bruce and Richard Arlen provide the romance, while Alice Brady provides the comedy.

"Let 'Em Have It" was produced by Harry M. Goetz and Edward Small for release through United Artists. Sam Wood directed the film.

LA NORA. "Ready, Willing and Able," a comedy with music made by Warner Bros. from the Richard Macaulay story of the same name that ran in a national weekly magazine last year, will be presented as the feature attraction of the La Nora theater today.

Co-starred are the twinkling-toed Ruby Keeler, and the famous young eccentric dancer Lee Dixon. The songs are by Johnny Mercer and Richard Whiting, and one especially "Too Marvelous for Words" promises to be a nation wide hit.

The delightful Louise Fazenda has an eccentric role well fitted to her talents as a comedienne and torch singer. Winifred Shaw is cast as a British musical comedy star. Other notables in the cast are Allen Jenkins, Carol Hughes, Hugh O'Connell, Teddy Hart, Addison Richards, Ross Alexander, Shaw and Lee, the "piano-movers" from vaudeville, E. E. Clive and Jane Wyman.

Something altogether new in the way of a "number" is a typewriter 30 feet high, on the keys of which dancing girls spell out a love-letter dictated to them by Alexander. The girls were directed by Bobby Connelly. The story part of the picture was guided by Ray Enright. "Ready, Willing and Able" is said to have a much more substantial and coherent story than most musical films have. It was adapted for the screen by Jerry Wald. Sig Herzig and Warren Duff, and is one of the Warner's most pretentious offerings for 1937.

STATE. Being burned at the stake is no joke, even if the stake is just "movie" prop and the blood-thirsty Indians are merely Hollywood Redskins.

If you don't believe it, ask Randolph Scott who had to undergo this ordeal for one of the final scenes of "The Last of the Mohicans," Reliance Pictures' filmization of the James Fenimore Cooper classic, currently at the State theater. As Hawkeye, the heroic Colonial scout familiar to the countless readers of the book, who was tied to the stake by the Huron Indians and rescued in the eleventh hour by the British troops headed by the gallant Major Duncan Heyward, Scott lived through moments of such realistic horror that he swore off burning stake scenes for life.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Stocks tumbled over a rough terrain in today's market.

Cross-currents prevailed throughout the list from the start and trends were indefinite at the close.

Chrysler just on a last-minute rally for a gain of 3 1/2 points at 127. The related run-up was attributed partly to short covering on the thought the company's strike might be settled over the weekend.

A few steels, led by Bethlehem with an uptick of 1 1/2 at 96, did better, along with a handful of rails, oils, utilities and specialties. But declines were in the majority.

As in the past week upssets in the ranks of labor proved the market's principal handicap. Business developments were fairly cheerful. Another release of U. S. Government securities tended to accentuate nervousness.

It was the slowest session since Jan. 2, last, transfers totaling 718,000 shares compared with 1,128,070 last Saturday. The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off 1 of a point at 72.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 20 (AP)—An early dip was followed by a nominal advance today that carried cotton prices up around 20 cents a bale.

Poor foreign markets and an accumulation of overnight selling orders caused temporary ease at the opening. But soon a good volume of trade buying cropped out, more than absorbed the weekend liquidation in the market and carried prices forward.

It was a comparatively active market for the entire trading period, but the bullish operations on the part of speculative interests played a small part.

The main news item of the day was the final ginnings report for the 1936-37 crop. The government placed the total at 12,857,008 bales, or approximately 20,000 bales under the crop estimate of December 1, 1936.

DEAD BURIED AMID CROWDS AND GRIEVING

BY RALPH HILTON.

NEW LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Funeral processions jammed the country roads of Rusk county today.

The homes and family churches of the 453 victims of the London Consolidated school explosion Thursday sent a steady stream of hearses and attendant automobiles into the highways.

Texas highway patrolmen were ordered out on the roads as traffic early in the afternoon came to a complete standstill in many places.

A tie-up in the vicinity of Pleasant Hill cemetery, where scores of burials were planned for the day, had automobiles stopped at times for more than a mile.

Processions ready to move from churches and homes waited in the bright sunshine for an opportunity to enter upon the highways, already burdened with hearses, trucks and automobiles.

The ministers did not know when the need for their services will end. Many burials will take place Sunday and plans are still indefinite in several homes.

The services were all short today. Weeping mothers and grief-stricken fathers, accompanied by friends and relatives, filed into the churches, sometimes behind a single coffin, often behind two or three.

Most of the little coffins were gray. Many had a single floral wreath upon the top, while some were heavily banked.

After the pastor had spoken his compassionate words, the groups departed and others, waiting patiently outside, filed in to hear the divine words of mercy tenderly spoken by their spiritual leader.

In some of the churches men and women sat all day, watching the stream of coffins coming into and leaving the buildings.

They were the fortunate men and women whose children escaped the blast. It was impossible to visit all the homes of their friends who were smitten by the tragedy of Thursday. So they waited inside the churches to extend their sympathy.

Hysterical grief, apparent everywhere Thursday night, was seldom encountered today. It seemed that parents, who had kept long vigil beside the collapsed school building and in emergency hospitals and morgues, were wearied beyond audible expression.

The processions upon the highways included automobiles of the newest, most expensive make, and the oldest, cheaper types that are seldom seen in use.

DENVER SAFEWAYS UPSET PHILLIPS OILERS 43 TO 38 IN AAU TOURNEY

Skelly and White Deer Will Send Teams to Meet town and White Deer schools will send track and field teams to Hopkins for an invitation meet of Hopkins. It will be the first meet of the year.

The meet will be held at the new Hopkins field which has a fast track and plenty of room for field events. The three teams have been working out for some time.

BARTLESVILLE QUINT HOLDS LEAD AT HALF

HIGHLY-TOUTED CLUB NOSED OUT BY HOME TOWN TEAM

DENVER, March 20 (P)—The Denver Safeways, the "team that beat the jinx," won the national A. A. U. basketball championship tonight by defeating the Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., 43-38 before 6,500 joy-crazed fans.

Beaten back at the quarterfinals of four previous national meets, the Denver Safeways team came up with the spurt that carried it to the final win. Before that neither team had held a lead of more than five points and most of the time only a desperately-earned point or two separated the finalists.

The Kansas City Trails defeated the Hollywood Stars, 47 to 42, tonight to take third place in the national AAU basketball tournament.

The Kansas Citizens, who lost to the Phillips Quintet of Bartlesville in the semi-finals last night chiefly because they missed many free throws, tonight were accurate both from the floor and the charity line.

They were never headed after taking a lead in the opening minutes. The stars climbed into a brief tie in the second period, however.

Virtually reversing their free throw record of last night, when they made only five of 22, tonight the Trails missed only six out of 21.

A schedule of games, in which each team in the association will play the other, will be made up with opening games on April 2 and the final game before May 15 at which time a league or leagues will be organized.

Eleven teams have formally entered the league and one or two others are considering entering play.

TO TEST LINES

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 20 (P)—Thirty miles of Oklahoma City natural gas pipelines will be subjected to terrific water pressure in a hunt to detect possible disaster-dealing leaks. F. G. Baker, city manager, said tonight.

BOXING MATCHES POSTPONED.

Bad weather caused postponement of the scheduled boxing matches in Wheeler Friday night when Moebette, Alanreed, Shamrock, Wheeler and Kelton were scheduled to compete. Coach Bob Clark announced that the invitation meet would be staged in the Wheeler gymnasium on the night of March 30.

Joe DiMaggio And Lou Gehrig Sign With Yanks

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20 (P)—Lou Gehrig is all set to do $36,000 worth of first-basing for the New York Yankees this season.

With Joe DiMaggio, young outfield star, sharing the stage with him, Gehrig brought down the curtain on his holdout drama today by signing his 1937 contract with the world champions of baseball. The stipend calls for $36,000, making him the highest paid player in baseball.

Gehrig also received a personal check for $750 from Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, as a "gift" for affixing his signature to the document.

DiMaggio, who came to terms last week, signed with Gehrig. The young outfielder will receive $15,000, a raise of $6,500 over his 1936 salary. DiMaggio's new contract is believed to be the juiciest ever signed by a recruit player for his second season in the majors.

Gehrig's 1937 salary is an increase of $5,000 over what he received in 1936.

Gehrig intends to continue his streak of consecutive games with the Yankees which already has passed the 1,800 mark.

"I'll be in there for 154 more ball games this year," he said. "I never felt better in my life."

SCRIMMAGE TO BE PLAYED ON TUESDAY AT 4

DUSTER NECESSITATES POSTPONEMENT OF GAME

Friday's duster necessitated postponement of the scheduled scrimmage between the Harvesters of 1937 and the ex-Harvesters still in school. The game will be played at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Harvester field, coaches announced yesterday.

The delay will give Coaches Odus Mitchell, J. C. Prejean and Bob Curry another day with their inexperienced charges and will also give crumpled additional time to get over injuries and sickness.

The scrimmage on Tuesday will be the last practice for the football prospects for about three weeks. All boys interested in track and field will be called to practice Wednesday afternoon in preparation for invitation meets, the district meet and the regional gathering. The district event will be staged in Pampa, April 17.

Following closing of the track and field season, football prospects will be called out for another session according to plans.

Harvester coaches were unwilling to name a starting lineup following a blackboard "practice" yesterday afternoon. They have made their minds up, however, to give several newcomers to the team a chance on Tuesday.

The exes are reported to have held a secret workout Thursday afternoon when they cooked up something new to throw at the Harvesters.

VENZKE WINS.

NEW YORK, March 20 (P)—Gene Venzke, the former Pennsylvania runner now competing for the New York Athletic club, found the going easy tonight without Glenn Cunningham and Archie San Romani around, and won the mile event of the Metropolitan A. A. U. track and field championships in the slow time of 4:21.3.

WOMEN'S CAGE TOURNEY WILL START MONDAY

WICHITA, Kas., March 20 (P)—The women's national A. A. U. basketball tournament will get under way here Monday with a burst of action that provides opening round encounters for all but three of the 29 teams entered.

Tournament pairings were announced today by Dr. Joseph A. Reilly, acting president of the Missouri Valley A. A. U.

The defending champion, Tulsa Stenos, aiming at a fourth consecutive title—and a new A. A. U. record—were given an opening round bye and a chance to meet the seeded Des Moines A. I. B.'s in the quarter finals.

Jacksonville, Fla., and Oakland, Calif., drew the remaining two byes. Pairings include:

Houston, Texas, vs. Kansas City Flashes; Alva, Okla., Boosters vs. Nashville, Tenn., business college; Celeste, Texas, vs. Galveston, Texas, Anicos.

Lower bracket: Wichita Thurstons vs. Emory, Tex., Kittens; Oklahoma City Blue Birds vs. Detroit Tigerettes.

WOULD RESTRICT EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, March 20 (P)—Officials reported today that foreign demand for American scrap iron and steel had brought suggestions that scrap exports be restricted. They said that some steel producers, contending that continued heavy scrap exports may pinch domestic steel production, have sounded out administration authorities on the advisability of government action.

The benefits are given out by the government to farmers who have signed up to follow out the federal soil conservation program in crop diversion and in contouring and terracing farm land.

Some will buy feed and supplies and pay off their local debts with it. Plains farmers will use the money to repair machinery for the wheat harvest and to buy oil and fuel with which to do their spring farming.

Some of it will go for doctor bills and the necessities of life. One farmer told Mr. Thomas that the money came in just at the time he was faced with a large expenditure for a vital operation for his child.

"The money is all going into beneficial channels right here in Gray county," Mr. Thomas said.

of the house and former speaker, declared that "the law making body of our state should be familiar with conditions in all parts of this vast empire" and that "today many of our party are getting their first glimpse of the vast Panhandle and are being sold on the section and its people."

"Some may condemn this trip as a waste of time and money but I believe such visits are beneficial to citizens and law makers alike," declared Senator Manley Head of Stephenville.

Tribute was paid by all speakers to the men sent to the legislature by the Panhandle of Texas.

Pampa was especially pleased to welcome several men who did much for the Panhandle in recent sessions. Rep. Augustine Celaya of Brownsville was one of the leaders in the fight to stop wastage of gas in the Panhandle. Rep. Fred Harris of Dallas was a member of the gas waste committee of the 44th legislature.

all-important Panhandle highway. Mr. Stinson, of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce highway committee, presented the oil field angle of the needed improvement to the commissioners.

Each county also presented its argument for an early start of the road paving.

Chairman Bobbitt was highly impressed by the maps and photographs and other datum which was presented by the Gray county group and by the representatives of Carbis Roberts of Stephenville, Wilburn Collier of Eastland and Representatives Bob Alexander of Childress, Augustine Celaya of Brownsville, Travis Dean of Hamlin, Merritt Gibson of Longview, Sam Hanna and Fred Harris, both of Dallas, B. T. Johnson of Fort Worth, Joe Keith of Sherman, Fred Knetsch of Searin, Homer Leonard of McAllen, O. A. McCracken of San Antonio, A. T. McKinney of Huntsville, Emmett Moore of Houston, Coke Stevenson of Junction, E. H. Thornton of Galveston, Arnold J. Vale of Rio Grande City and Eugene Worley of Shamrock.

Mr. Hines, of the commission, had familiarized himself with the needs and with the set-up on a recent tour of the oil field district along the Pampa-Borger road when he was here on a speaking tour two weeks ago.

"Much encouragement was received at the conference," Mr. Collins said. The conference lasted for more than an hour in Mr. Bobbitt's hotel room at Lubbock Friday afternoon.

Collins, Reeves, Hill, De Cordova and Stinson returned to Pampa Friday night. The others remained over in Lubbock where they attended yesterday the final sessions of the annual meeting of the Texas County Judges and Commissioners association.

SHOPPERS CROWD CITY ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Downtown Pampa was thronged with pre-Easter shoppers Saturday night, crowds in the stores equaling those of the Christmas week buying surge.

Springlike weather and a feast of new spring merchandise were attributed as the reasons for the trek to Pampa Saturday by officials of the Merchants' Association.

Both automobile and pedestrian traffic were the heaviest of the year, police said.

Ensembles Answer Co-Ed's Easter Style Quiz

It will be easy to tell the co-ed who is both smart and fortunate when she goes back to the campus after her Easter holidays because her trunk will be crammed with ensembles—at least a campus ensemble, a weekend travel outfit and an informal dating ensemble—each with its appropriate jacket, bolero or cape.

For classroom and general knockabout wear, a plaid suit-dress like that at right, with two skirts (the extra one is black and gored, the plaid one pleated), get the call. Her hat is a college girl favorite—a bellboy cap of mustard yellow wool, and her lowheeled shoes are black suede with square toes. She pulls on capeskin palm-suede black gloves—chic yet practical.

Pictured, too, is a week-end suit that she can wear when whizzing along country roads or lurching with out-of-town friends on Sundays. It poses a dramatic three-quarter cape of mustard wool over a neatly fitting saddle stitched jacket, with clever ball buttons. Note the slight flare at the hem of her skirt. Her Suzy hat is a bit clerical in inspiration, with a wide flat crown and a wide rolled brim.

Balanced Diets Is Subject for Bell H. D. Club

"For health's sake, know your foods and delight your family," advised Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, home demonstration agent, in a demonstration on balanced diets to Bell club Wednesday at the home of Mrs. C. McKnight.

"Women as homemakers must be come informed so we can feed our families adequate meals that are balanced to care for every part of the body, and that at the same time please their tastes."

"One avenue to a balanced diet is a garden to bring fresh vegetables to your table all year. A cold frame garden will supply early vegetables."

Mrs. Kelley described an easy way to subarrange a small vegetable garden. No 2 tin cans with both ends cut out. Lay these to form pipes in trenches 12 inches deep and place a layer of paper on top to keep the dirt out, she said. This improvised pipe will carry the water where it is needed.

The hostess served a delicious dinner to the 11 club members and two visitors, Mrs. S. S. Taylor of Kingsmill and Mrs. Dollie M. Frazier of Houston, mother of Mrs. G. P. Bradbury. Mrs. Taylor joined the club, bringing the membership to 14.

TWO YEARS OF WAR COST U. S. A MILLION DOLLARS AN HOUR

By ALEXANDER E. GEORGE, AP Feature Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—When Uncle Sam stepped off the deep end 20 years ago this spring, the giant young republic of the west began the greatest mobilization of potential resources in the world's history.

From April 6, 1917, to April 30, 1919, the United States spent $21,250,000,000, more than $1,000,000 an hour, exclusive of the $9,500,000,000 loaned allied nations.

When war came there were 200,000 men in the American army, one-third of whom were national guardsmen on federal duty along the Mexican border. Nineteen months later, at the signing of the armistice, the United States had an army of 4,000,000, of whom 2,986,000 had been transported 3,000 miles across submarine-infested waters and 1,390,000 had fought in France.

"Cottie-Killing" Underwear. In the same 19 months this country shipped to France 7,500,000 tons of supplies ranging from locomotives, giant guns and airplane to woolen socks and home-made candy for the doughboys.

Love-lorn maids pinned sentimental notes in the toes of socks sent to soldiers they had never seen. An Iowa woman invented "cottage-killing" underwear.

The war industries board commandeered plants for war supplies, allocated orders for war supplies, fixed prices, limited the styles and fabrics of clothes for civilians, and restricted supplies of metals, rubber and paints for ordinary commercial products.

Thousands of skilled laborers toiled in long shifts to turn out munitions. More than 200,000 workmen were employed for the duration of the war in building factories and warehouses for the storage of supplies.

The army shipped 26,994 standard-gauge freight cars and 47,000 trucks to France. Trucks were being sent overseas at the rate of 10,000 a month when the fighting ceased.

Meatless Tuesdays. Some 68,000 horses and mules took "the big ride" to France, and all nations threatened with a food shortage were shipped enormous quantities of wheat and meat. Hundreds of steel and wooden ships were built to transport these supplies and in March, 1918, the government ordered a general rationing of all foodstuffs.

Control of the country's railroads. Billions of dollars were subscribed for Liberty bonds, and hundreds of millions invested in war savings and thrift stamps. A war tax was placed on luxuries ranging from infant's talcum to automobiles.

Herbert Hoover, food administrator, inaugurated meatless Tuesdays and wheatless Wednesdays for private homes, hotels and restaurants. Bakers were licensed, and the nation was put on a war bread ration made after a prescribed formula to conserve white flour. Millions of backyard and vacant lot gardens grew foodstuffs for home consumption.

50,000 Americans Killed. When the United States entered the war the army had 55 airplanes and the navy 54 seaplanes. When the war ended the American forces in France had 740 planes at the front, the nation had turned out 18,000 engines for training planes and 9,500 training craft, while the navy had 2,127 planes.

The average soldier who went to France had six months' training in this country before sailing and two months' intensive training in a quiet sector overseas before entering the battle line. American troops were in 13 major engagements, the largest being the Meuse-Argonne, in which 1,120,000 Yanks participated and suffered casualties of 120,000.

American casualties for the entire war were 30,000 killed, 212,000 wounded. About 62,000 died of disease. It was estimated 1,700,000 Russian soldiers, 1,600,000 Germans, 1,300,000 Frenchmen and 900,000 British were killed in battle.

Three drafts were taken for the American army. Some congressmen who opposed conscription predicted there would be riots and bloodshed such as occurred in New York City during the civil war, but there were no major disturbances.

Hundreds of wives, mothers and sisters wrote to the war department asking exemption for their men but others recommended that their husbands be drawn for service. One woman said in a letter to Provost Marshal General Crowder, in charge of the draft, that her husband didn't want to go to war but he had no good reason for staying home so the army might better make a soldier out of him.

MODERN MENUS

Over a field of yellow daffodils, linen as white as snow, baby lambs gambol with succulent glee. For your Easter dinner there's nothing more delicate. Not just spring lamb, remember, but BABY spring lamb.

It's pretty scarce because it's so popular, so be sure you can trust your butcher. Otherwise he may try to sell you spring lamb, good in its own way, but not the same as baby lamb. Be firm in the cause of astounding tenderness.

A whole baby lamb will not weigh more than 20 to 22 pounds, and one leg will weigh about four pounds. These are from lambskins not more than 5 to 6 weeks old, and being scarce at Easter time, and also one of the most delectable of the spring's blessings, cost plenty. But remember, every mouthful will convince you that it is cheap at any price.

An Enjoy of Lamb
Odd as it may seem, a ruddy, stern looking restaurateur in New York is probably the all-American expert on baby lamb. Billy the Oyster Man speaks with emotion. "This dish outshines all others for Easter popularity. The shoulder of baby lamb is delicious, but because it has a great deal of bone, perhaps you'd better

EASTER MENU
BREAKFAST: Grapefruit and orange in grapefruit shells, omelet with garden herbs, grilled bacon, popovers, jam, coffee, milk.

DINNER (for Easter): Fish cake, clear green turtle soup, roast baby spring lamb, roasted new potatoes, gravy, fresh asparagus with Hollandaise sauce, new peas, dandelion salad, French dressing, strawberry shortcake, coffee, milk.

SUPPER: Cream of asparagus in cups, molded cream cheese salad with tomatoes, hot biscuits, apple jelly, chocolate brownies, tea, milk.

use the leg for your family. For a family of from 6 to 8," he says. "I'd advise a brace of baby lamb legs. That's not too much, because there is some shrinking in cooking."

His subject gentle, his manner brisk, he continues: "There is only one way to cook it and that is to roast it in the pan. Surround it with new potatoes (new ones from Cuba are in the market). I myself don't mind seeing a little pink in the meat to prove it is not too thoroughly cooked, but some people object to this, so the state of 'doneness' will depend on the taste of your family."

Roast Leg of Genuine Baby Lamb (6 to 8 servings)
Two 4-pound legs of baby lamb, 1 carrot, 1 onion, salt, pepper. Season legs, which usually come with a wrapping of suet around them, place in roasting pan with small quantity of water, carrot and onion, and of course the new potatoes. The carrot and onion take away the natural wild flavor and they add flavor to the gravy. If you prefer, they can be removed after the lamb is cooked. Place lamb in hot oven (375 to 400 degrees F.) and cook one hour, basting well and turning every 15 minutes. Remove lamb and potatoes, place roasting pan over flame, add 1 tablespoon flour and bring to boil. Strain gravy in separate hot bowl. From then on Happy Easter!

LACINGS FOR EVENING.
PARIS (AP)—Lacings fasten a number of day and evening frocks. The thicker the lacing the smarter it is. A Heim frock in black and white print has a bodice laced up the front with red crepe. Matching red crepe is inserted in the front of the skirt in a diamond-shaped godet simulating a petticoat.

PURE HIKES WAGES.
HOUSTON, March 20 (AP)—An average six per cent wage increase was announced today by the Pure Oil Co. for its field employees in the Gulf Coast producing division, which includes the Texas and Louisiana gulf coastal area. The increase will be effective April 1. The Pure announced an advance in wages earlier in the week for workmen at the Smith Bluff refinery near Nederland.

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS MOURNING FOR KIDDIES
AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—Governor James V. Alfred today proclaimed a state day of mourning Sunday in memory of the boys and girls who lost their lives in the New London school catastrophe.

"This terrible tragedy," the governor said, "reached and horrified every home throughout the land. When the lives of boys and girls in the full flush of inspirational youth are blasted and snuffed out as happened at New London, it is almost unbearable.

Let us reconsecrate ourselves to the death of our fathers and highly resolve that no such disaster shall ever again be visited upon any community or any home."

Churches prepared memorial services while the flags on state buildings for a third day will remain at half-mast.

The governor approved the suggestion of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Sexton and Randolph Field, San Antonio, that a monument be erected to the memory of the victims and said he would forward all contributions to the Parent-Teachers association at Overton.

A warning that heating installations similar to those used in the New London structure be inspected before used was issued by the governor after Dr. E. P. Schoch of the University of Texas said accumulated gas caused the explosion.

STEEL GIRDERS HINDER BLAST RESCUE WORK

Heavy steel girders added to the difficult task of clearing the wreckage at the New London school. Here, several of the massive rafters can be seen as workmen prepare to cut them away with acetylene torches. These girders were in the auditorium high in the ceiling. Now they lay on the ground floor, dropped there when the walls were blown out from under them. Extreme right, a workman stands ready with a blazing torch, set to begin whitening at the steel rafters. Center, rescuers pass chunks of concrete out in "bucket brigade" fashion. Foreground, curiosity seekers crowd close to the yawning pit from which many mangled bodies were removed.

Texas Solons Will Try To Hike Sulphur Taxes

CAPITOL JIGSAW
By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, March 22 (AP)—Produce canned in Texas soon may carry a label to designate that fact.

A bill by Rep. Augustin Celaya of Erownsville would require such cans to bear the label "Texas."

Celaya said Texas growers of grapefruit, oranges and vegetables of many varieties, especially in the lower Rio Grande valley, were putting out very superior products and the label would enable buyers to know what they were getting and register their preferences.

"The chief opposition emanates from some canners who claim my proposal would hurt the standard label," he said. "I think the benefits would easily offset the disadvantages."

"Texas products have acquired a reputation because the producers for a long time have been striving to build up quality. This is especially true of grapefruit and oranges, which are known not only throughout this country, but also in foreign countries, for their quality."

In this connection, Celaya observed the canning of grapefruit and orange juice was increasing by "leaps and bounds" in the lower valley and promised to become one of the main factors in the prosperity of that region.

Canning takes care of surpluses and eliminates dumping on the market at any price. Not only celled fruit but also much of higher grade, is disposed of in that manner. Further development of this outlet is expected as the public is educated to the desirability of canned grapefruit and orange juice.

Celaya said the opening of Port Isabel, giving the valley easy access to deep water, was proving of enormous benefit. Recently 40,000 cases of canned products were dispatched by boat to the eastern seaboard. Much also goes to Europe.

"The benefit is plain," he said. "From the Valley to New York by rail the rate is 80 cents per 100 pounds, while by boat it is 23 cents. "Until we had access to deep sea water eastern producers could undersell us in some of our Texas markets. Baltimore tomatoes could be delivered in Houston by boat cheaper than we could deliver ours, by rail."

HER NAME IN LIGHTS

Chapter XXII

Daphne lifted her vanity and looked into it with her head thrown back and the fingers of her other hand deftly touching her hair.

"Just which man are you going after tonight?" Jennifer inquired shortly.

"Must I be after a man?" Daphne asked, snapping the enamel case.

"Aren't you usually?" Jennifer got up and greeted Anne briefly. Then she went into the bedroom and closed the door after her.

Daphne took off the cape with a gesture of hopelessness. I wonder if really we do hate each other, she thought. And then instantly she was sorry that she had permitted herself that small question. She knew that she loved Jennifer. Wasn't she doing this for Jennifer?

"So far, so good," Anne said from the window. "I'd call that test No. 1. And here comes our second victim. The Carterets are arriving."

Daphne called through the closed bathroom door. "Jennifer, the Carterets are on their way up and we've got to go on immediately. Shall I ask Jules to return for you?"

"Don't bother," Jennifer said. "I want to rest. I'll be along about 11:30."

In the Carterets' car on their way to the Hammer apartment, Daphne said, "I wish I had asked an extra man. I'm afraid we're going to be one short." She didn't say that man was Larry.

Jules said, "If you mean that, I know a gentleman who would be charmed, Douglas Lockhead is at our apartment right this minute longing to meet beautiful girls."

"Please go and get him, Jules," Daphne was afraid that with a man short, she would have little chance to work out her plan.

They had to stop for cocktails with the Hammers and Daphne pleaded with them to hurry. She was having three guests who were to join them at the Flamingo and she didn't want to be late.

Daphne with her guests, the Hammers, Kit Carteret, and Anne, arrived at the Flamingo to find that Jules and the other men—Daphne counted them again—Lockhead, Frank Roesler and Gordon Herzberg, had not yet arrived.

Her table was in a corner not too near the orchestra. The candles were lighted and the chama lot. For a cigaret account," she offered.

"Oh, that's splendid." Daphne was conscious of the inanity of it all but the furious pounding in her throat seemed to block off her mind. She couldn't think of anything to say. She couldn't even ask him about himself. She would have found herself bleating something about his looking well and he wasn't.

The doors to the rear swung open to let in an icy blast and a radiant Jennifer with a man.

"Oh, darling, there you are." She went right to Larry and took his arm. "Daphne this is Mr. Herzberg. My sister, Gordon."

Daphne gave Gordon Herzberg her hand and a smile as radiant as Jennifer's. She was glad to see that he was young; that gave her a line of attack.

"I'm so pleased that you could join us," she said and, taking his arm, led the other two with nary a backward glance, back to her table.

"I'm monopolizing you," she said, "Mr. Herzberg, you're going to sit at my right."

"How did you know that was where I wanted to be? I've heard a lot about you, Miss Brett. Your sister tells me you are a very interesting person and that you know a bit about the theater yourself."

"Do you mind talking about the theater? I want you to tell me so much."

Jules Carteret, Douglas Lockhead and Frank Roesler arrived at the same time and for a few minutes Daphne had no opportunity to pursue her course.

But when the others had gotten up to dance — Larry and Mrs. Hammer were the last, she said to Herzberg, "We can dance later. I want you to tell me about yourself and your new play. The theater was my first love, you know. Do you mind?"

He didn't mind. There were few men who could resist the flattering attention, the intelligent response that Daphne had to give him. He found himself returning eagerly to her side to go on with their conversation.

"Will you dance with me, Daphne?" It was Larry. All evening she had avoided looking in his direction. Now there was no escape. But there was. The lights were dimmed. Carita, the Spanish sensation, was going into her dance.

"Sorry," she said to Larry sweetly and returned her attention to Herzberg.

"Would it . . . would it be asking too much to let me read your new play?"

"I'd be charmed," he said. "I'll send it over to you in the morning. I'd like to know what you think of it."

"If you really mean that," she said softly, "I'll ask you to tea with me on Sunday."

"At four?" he asked.

First Pictures of School Tragedy Depict Scenes of Horror

A night shot of the tragedy. At the left is the school auditorium in which scores of children died.

The building on the right is one wing of the school. The demolished structure formed an E in the foreground of the picture, connecting with the wings which remain. The photographer made this unusual picture as he stood on one of the oil field trucks which were used to pull the wreckage apart in the search for bodies.

Nurses and doctors rushed to New London immediately after the school catastrophe. Here, in one of the nearby school buildings unaffected by the blast, a youngster is given first aid while nurses and doctors discuss his miraculous escape. The lad suffered minor cuts.

With its walls partially blasted out, one of the New London school buildings hangs precariously as workmen begin the task of tearing down the wreckage. Here, two workmen work with a hook as a policeman stands by to hold back morbidly curious. Below, the two men and in the background, may be seen another rescuer handling a spotlight.

Yesterday these ghastly shapes were living children, who laughed and played. The house in the background is an emergency embalming room. As bodies are prepared for burial and moved out, others laid on crude wooden boxes outside are taken in. At the right is one of about 75 undertakers who are working day and night.

School where 700 were trapped. The Consolidated school building which was wrecked by a terrific explosion Thursday that trapped

700 students. There were 455

Memory has mercifully spared 16-year-old Ruby Lee Wooten the haunting picture of yesterday's disaster. As she lay in bed today she said: 'I was on the second floor, in English class. All at once there was an awful jar. I don't seem to be able to remember what happened.'

Here is another survivor—10-year-old Billy Williams, a sixth grader. Billy, who suffered only painful cuts and bruises, is still dazed from his experience. 'There was a crash,' he said, 'and then everything went black.' Billy was among the first children rescued.

Here's another view of what remains of the New London school building. Center, the wall standing is that of the auditorium. To the right may be seen oil derricks within a few feet of the buildings. Right, in the foreground, may be seen the cranes on the heavy duty oil field trucks which were used in dragging debris clear of the wreckage. Left, foreground, is the corner of a little iron fence.

Thousands attracted by the explosion, ganged around the building and hindered workers in their rescue work.

Willis Family Experiences In Early Days Are Related

BY LULA MAE FARLEY.

One of the most distinguished pioneer families of this section is that of the Willis's, which has given a triumvirate of illustrious barristers to Panhandle benches.

This brilliant family of lawyers had its inception in the Panhandle country in 1881 when Frank Willis, Sr., was appointed district judge of the newly created 35th judicial district (now the 31st) composed of 26 Panhandle counties and Greer county, now in Oklahoma. He was on the bench when the United States Supreme Court gave Greer county to Oklahoma.

In 1876 Willis was a young attorney in Independence, Kas. Stories about the new lands being settled in West Texas floated into town each day and stirred young men's imagination with desire for adventure and new horizons. Willis was one of these; so with his young wife he set out for the unknown country. He went to Montague county and established a law partnership with W. H. Crosby, who later came to Mobeetie. Crosby's brother, J. M. Crosby, was later county judge of Gray county and still later judge of Ochiltree county.

Lived in Montague. While the Willis's were living in Montague their son, Newton P. Willis, was born in 1879.

Montague county was sparsely settled and not exactly the place for a thriving law firm. In 1881 the Texas legislature created the 35th district which included Wheeler, with Oldham, Donley, Collingsworth, Hall, Childress, Briscoe, Swisher, Castro, Farmer, Deaf Smith, Randall, Armstrong, Gray, Carson, Potter, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Hansford, Sherman, Dallam, and Greer counties attached to it for judicial purposes. In June of that year Gov. O. M. Roberts (for whom Roberts county was named) appointed Frank Willis as first district judge of the 35th district.

In July the little family set out for their new home in Mobeetie. They came by buckboard and carriages. The little family was accompanied by Mrs. Willis' father, Newton Boles. They stopped at the Huseley hotel when they arrived in Mobeetie.

Recalls Early Days. When interviewed last week about his arrival at Mobeetie at the age of two, Newton P. Willis, prominent Pampa attorney, smilingly recalled those early days.

"The first thing I remember in my entire life was getting into Mobeetie," he stated. "It was hot and generally disagreeable. I shall never forget what we had to eat for our first meal in the Panhandle. It made quite an impression on me. Our first meal was breakfast, and we had jackrabbit and watermelon."

The first home of the Willis's was the historic rock house down on Sweetwater, southeast of Mobeetie. It was here that Frank Willis Jr. was born in 1882. Later they moved to town and lived on a corner lot southeast of the old jail which still stands in Mobeetie. The house was a four-room frame structure. It was considered a magnificent house in those days as most of the houses were two-room picket affairs.

Three County Seats. Shortly after their arrival the first term of court was held in the Panhandle country. There were three county seats at that time. The most important one was at Mobeetie, the oldest town in the Panhandle. The other judicial centers were at Tascosa in Oldham county and at Mangum in Greer county. A little bit later court was opened at Old Clarendon. Judge Willis and the lawyers went to these towns by buckboards and carriages. A number of well-known lawyers practice at Mobeetie in the early days. Those on the list other than Judge Willis, were Temple Houston, a brilliant defense lawyer and son of Sam Houston; W. H. Woodman, W. B. Pierson, for whom the original county seat of Hutchinson county was named; J. M. Browning, who later was lieutenant governor; E. M. Baker, and L. D. Miller. This imposing array of legal talent was rather unique in so small a pioneer town.

Judge Willis, an imposing figure weighing 250 pounds, was the source of many colorful bits of legend and lore about pioneer days in the judicial system of the Panhandle. His keen sense of humor and a ready wit provided many a clever anecdote which is still repeated today.

Unusual Trip Told. One of the most delightful stories told on Judge Willis is the one about a rather unusual trip across the Canadian river. There was no bridge, and it was necessary to ford the stream. There was quite a torrent at that time. A rider went ahead feeling the way trying to escape the quicksand. Then the party waded across as it was easier to escape the quicksand that way than in the buckboard. The lawyers rolled up their sleeves and waded in. They had one volume statute of 1879 which W. H. Woodman was carrying. Judge Willis was following behind. In his stentorian voice Willis said: "Woodman, uphold the law." Woodman replied that he would. The water became deeper and whirled in eddies around the lawyers. The quick was more treacherous. The water became so deep that it was necessary to swim. Willis was not an expert swimmer and handicapped by heavy clothing his predicament became serious. His deep voice boomed across the water to his associate: "Woodman, drop the law and save the court."

Hays Incident Recalled. Another mirth-provoking incident told on Judge Willis involved Mose Hays who now lives in San Antonio. Hays was a member of the grand jury and failed to appear one morning. Jurors were often a bit late because of the great distances they sometimes had to come. Judge Willis grew tired of the increasing hardness and told the clerk: "Assess a fine of $75 against the absent juror." Another man was pressed into service and court procedure continued. About noon Hays came in. When court adjourned, he went around to talk to the judge who impassively informed him he had been assessed a $75 fine. Hays protested the fine was too much. Judge Willis moved unconcernedly away from Hays following him protesting the high fine all the way. Judge Willis sternly informed him: "Mr. Hays, we will take that up in the regular order." They were approaching Tom Kelly's saloon and Hays said: "How about a little drink?" Willis turned and surveyed him and solemnly said: "Now, Mose Hays, you've said something." Nothing else was said about the fine.

It was very hard to get a jury at Old Clarendon as the law provided that the juror had to be a householder or a land owner and practically all the men there were cowboys. At one term of court only one more juror was needed and no qualifying person could be found. A man named Sterling P. Buster who was a small land owner was brought into the court. He was found to be a little bit under the required 21 years. It looked as if the court proceedings were blocked. Judge Willis would not be stumped by adverse circumstances and raised his gavel and said: "I hereby declare you to be of necessary legal age." Buster was sworn in and court proceeded.

Other Stories Told. A couple of stories told on other legal lights of Mobeetie concerned W. Woodman and Moses a Wiley, an imposing personage with a small raven black hair, was considered by his associates to be a genius. One day he was arguing a case and needed a book to prove his point. He sent a cowboy to his office to get this certain book. Everyone was somewhat astonished for they all knew that Woodman had no library. The cowboy returned and reported that he couldn't find it. Woodman arose and said: "The man is undoubtedly a prevaricator; for I have only one book and it is lying in the window."

The other story concerns a clever attack made by Moses Wiley to get a point across in a case involving Stroker and Clamptit. A witness on the stand told some things which Wiley was certain were untrue, but he could not prove that his testimony was perjured. With his next witness he attempted to impeach the testimony of the first witness. "Have you seen and heard Hays?" he was asked. "The answer was in the affirmative." "Have you told them?" The answer was again in the affirmative, and he added, "I am an experienced liar." Then you should be able to speak with authority on Hays. "What is your opinion of the previous witness?" "He is the biggest liar I ever heard," was the convincing reply. "Mobeetie was quite a town in those early eighties when we first went there," Newton P. Willis continued his reminiscences. "There were more people there than there is either town (Old Mobeetie or New Mobeetie) now. Besides the citizens of Mobeetie there were 2,000 soldiers stationed at Ft. Elliott, this included between one and two hundred captive Indian scouts who were stationed there."

'Golden Days.' "Everyons who lived there in those early days consider them the golden days. It was an era of prosperity, generosity, hospitality, and freedom. Everyone cheerfully and liberally helped those in distress. It was definitely a period of liberalism and freedom.

"We didn't have the dust storms then as we have them now, but the wind was much higher. Covered wagons, small houses, and windmills blew over—it was no uncommon sight. I remember that one house blew over, caught fire and burned and a woman was burned to death in it. When I was nine years old, I had pneumonia. One day when I was ill, my father had great trouble in closing the door because the wind was so high. And he was a large, strong man. The wind we have today is tame and gentle in comparison with wind in those days.

"Mobeetie had a very nice society. Many cultured and refined people were living there. They had very nice parties. There was an operatic organization in town, and they put on plays and dramas. W. C. Polk was the Beau Brummel of the little community. He dressed well, and his Chesterfieldian manner charmed the women. Most of the women coveted him. One girl in particular liked him but she couldn't make much progress with him. One day she said: 'I wish there were two Billy Polks.' I suppose she thought she would stand a better chance of getting one of them."

Meaning of BPW Club Membership Told by Chairman

By GRACE M. POOL.

Membership chairman, BPW Club. What membership in the National Business and Professional Women's Club means to the individual member:

A closer contact with business and professional women throughout the world, through national and our international organizations. Warm friendships are formed between local members. Lasting friendships are also formed between our club members and other club members through district, state, regional and national conferences and conventions.

Our national magazine, the Independent Woman, keeps us informed on problems women are facing, and their activities, throughout the world. It is interesting to know that one of our members, Judge Florence E. Allen, is being mentioned as a prospective member of the supreme court, should President Roosevelt have the privilege of increasing the membership of the court. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is also a member of our organization and has a keen interest in our activities.

The national federation has set a goal of 100,000 members in 1944 and has asked each local club to help by securing five new members this year.

Our club collect gives us a standard, with a broad understanding and a spirit of helpfulness. The collect is given below:

"Keep us, O God, from pettiness; let us be large in thought, in word, in deed."

"Let us be done with fault-finding, and leave off self seeking."

"May we put away pretense and meet each other face to face, without self-pity and without prejudice."

"May we never be hasty in judgment, and always be generous."

"Let us take time for all things. Make us to grow calm, serene, gentle."

"Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid."

"Grant that we may realize that it is the little things that create differences; that in the big things of life we are as one."

"And may we strive to touch and to know the great common woman's heart of us all. And, O Lord, let us not forget to be kind."

STURGEONS HAVE SON. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Sturgeon of Paris, former Pampans, a son, yesterday morning in Worley hospital. Mrs. Sturgeon is the former Miss Marie Bastin, daughter of Mrs. Stella Bastin here.

CORRECTION. It was inadvertently stated in a re-printed article in Thursday's Pampa Daily News that the "Home of Love," rescue home, on S. Ballard-st. is a church.

Stern Transferred To Midland Office

C. T. (Jack) Stern, production superintendent for the Shell Petroleum Co. in the Pampa district, has been transferred to Midland. Mr. Stern left yesterday for Tulsa on a business trip.

A farewell party for Mr. Stern was given Friday night at the White House Lumber Co. More than 100 Shell employees attended the affair.

F. O. Olson of Tonkawa, Okla., has already arrived to replace Mr. Stern here. Mrs. Olson and family will arrive here soon. They will reside at the Shell camp three miles west of Pampa.

BONHAM, March 20 (AP)—Mrs. M. A. Taylor of Bonham, president of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, started a movement today to raise funds for a memorial to New London, scene of the school explosion. She asked those desiring to contribute to send their funds to Governor James V. Allred.

One of the most delightful stories told on Judge Willis is the one about a rather unusual trip across the Canadian river. There was no bridge, and it was necessary to ford the stream. There was quite a torrent at that time. A rider went ahead feeling the way trying to escape the quicksand. Then the party waded across as it was easier to escape the quicksand that way than in the buckboard. The lawyers rolled up their sleeves and waded in. They had one volume statute of 1879 which W. H. Woodman was carrying. Judge Willis was following behind. In his stentorian voice Willis said: "Woodman, uphold the law." Woodman replied that he would. The water became deeper and whirled in eddies around the lawyers. The quick was more treacherous. The water became so deep that it was necessary to swim. Willis was not an expert swimmer and handicapped by heavy clothing his predicament became serious. His deep voice boomed across the water to his associate: "Woodman, drop the law and save the court."

School Children Deserve Comfortable Light

Growing school children need plenty of glareless light for their studies, in order that their eyes may develop normally.

Insufficient light or glaring light may cause irreparable injury. In fact recent studies show that one out of five children in grammar school has some defect in vision.

The new I. E. S. lamps are comfortable. The first one was made for a school girl by her father. Just read under one of these new lamps for a few minutes. It will be easy to see how much it will help your children. Not only will they be able to see more comfortably but they will be able to see faster after you give them a student lamp.

THE FINANCIAL WHIRLIGIG

By LOUIS SCHNEIDER

REASONS

The dumping of Treasury bonds started early last week. Several reasons are given. One was that commercial banks sold to obtain cash for meeting income tax payments which were due March 15. Another was that banks sold in anticipation of the firm boost in reserve requirements which takes effect May 1.

Government bond dealers say there was another reason for the selling. At one time about 80 per cent of such transactions were handled in the over-the-counter market. These transactions are now being executed in the Stock Exchange. With inflationary trend there is no investing demand.

Your correspondent traced the bulk of the liquidation of it to banks and dealers. Insurance companies did not sell in volume. The big buyer was the Federal Reserve Bank.

HIGHER

With inflationary thought running wild higher price levels are being discussed by executives in many industries. Due to increased labor and raw materials costs automobile prices are due to be lifted. The same is now being said about shoes, tires, gasoline, cigarettes and wearing apparel. The household furnishing industries, too, are preparing to increase prices.

The fly in the ointment is the possibility of public buying resistance. Should a buyers' strike sweep the country it would throw a damper on the price-surge movement. To offset this corporate executives plan to raise prices gradually so that as little attention as possible will be attracted.

ODDS AND ENDS

McCall Corporation—publishers—increasing its job printing facilities. . . Radio-Keith-Orpheum will spend over $1,000,000 on a picture—The Toast of New York—which involves Wall Street during 1936. . . Ward Baking is looking around anxious to absorb small companies. . . Continental Motors has a new fueling induction for automobile engines—large automobile manufacturers are reported interested. . . United Air Lines to run a one plane service from New York to Mexico City. . . American Cyanamid's fertilizer plants are operating at full capacity. . . A Canadian coast-to-coast air service—capitalized for $50,000,000—will be owned and operated jointly by the two Canadian railway systems.

PROMOTION

There are stock traders who watch for shares in line for "promotion" from the Curb market to the New York Stock Exchange. The latest discovery is Consolidated Aircraft. Company's unfilled orders are now the largest in history. In order to keep pace with the new business the management is considering plant expansion. That means new findings.

The belief of speculative interests is that in order to give the company a wider market in the financial world the shares will have to be "promoted" from the Curb to the Big Board. History shows whenever such a move is contemplated the price of the shares spurts to higher levels.

COMBINATION

Speculative interests are again active in the liquor shares. On a price-to-earnings ratio this section of the list is said to be lower than others. The bullish enthusiasm was furthered by a Schenley Distillers statement that American bonded whiskey supplies don't warrant a price reduction. Trade reports are current that bonded Canadian whiskey will be reduced $5 a case.

The Schenley statement is temporarily true. But Treasury Department figures disclose that only one out of every four gallons being produced are withdrawn from warehouses. It increases the inventory position of aging liquor. Trade insiders say it can't be long before bonded American liquor prices will have to be cut to meet reduced prices of imported liquor.

PROSPECT

Bullishness on merchandising shares has waned. This despite the fact that sales figures are constantly making new high marks. The inside reason is possible labor difficulties. Department stores in Akron, Detroit, St. Paul, Chicago, Providence and Omaha have already been given a taste of what sit-down strikers can do. Now New York City stores are feeling the labor whip.

With prices higher and some buying resistance already noticeable, increased labor costs would reduce the margin of profits. That's why these shares aren't responding to the excellent 1936 earnings being made public. Market prices discount prospects not realized.

REPORTS ARE THAT:

March industrial improvement will run 25 per cent ahead of last year but under that of February. . . Buying of American Tobacco done only on dips and traced to chartists who see a minor rally due after recent sharp price decline. . . Briggs Manufacturing suffers because of Chrysler labor difficulties—and its own. . . Consolidated Film Industries $2 preferred held as a speculative risk. . . Trading interests active in Seaboard Oil are running wild in spreading tips—how about it, S. E. C. F. . . Standard Oil of California has wealthy following. . . Utility men afraid of Bonneville power developments. International Salt held for income purposes and not speculative possibilities. . . Louisville flood damage accounts for low financial report. . . Marshall Field now benefiting from its management change made many months ago. . . American Water Works reported to have a book value of $35 a share. . . Only reason speculative interest in American Power & Light is because of reports company owns oil properties—where? . . . Because of strikes and increased operating costs 1937 financial reports for a good many corporations will not run so high as those of last year. . . Zonite Products strong financial position but small stock market following. . . An investment trust switched blocks of American Telephone into Allied Chemical—when operation was completed Allied dropped sharply. . . And, that many corporate executives fear inventory positions are growing too large—would be just too bad if inflation psychology ran into a snag.

Better Be Safe

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles on safety written by high school journalism students in connection with the Kiwanis club's safety campaign.)

By IDABELLE WAGNON

"Oh, my God! What have I done?"

Did you ever see an expression that told such words as these on one's face? Did you ever see a small child killed? If not, we wish to keep such sight from your eyes. Such deaths as these are caused by the recklessness of drivers. The picture of some one getting killed in an automobile will stay with you, as long as you exist, even if you weren't the "hair-brained driver" that was trying to show off in front of some friends, and caused the tragedy.

Naturally no person in his right mind wants to harm anyone, or they don't expect such misfortunes to turn their way, when they "try to have some fun." But accidents will happen.

If you are a careful driver nothing of this sort will ever happen to you. Why not obey your traffic rules of the city, and persuade your friends to do the same thing? If this is done, there won't be so many accidents around Pampa.

Pamphlets are issued on the subject of automobile accidents—do you have time to read them? Or are you going to continue to drive from 60 to 80 miles an hour just outside of the city limit, and driving fast on the inside of the city limits? And, maybe have something terrible happen to you.

The law to stop behind a school bus, deserves more than a fine when not observed. Children jump off the bus and scatter hither and yonder. There is too much danger not to stop, because you might kill a child.

A big per cent of the people killed in automobile accidents last year were children. Can you imagine the futures you have ruined? Will you drive safely and save the children?

Not only the children should be saved, but the older people as well. It is a drastic thing for young people to be killed or crippled for life in car wrecks.

Deaths are very frequent on the highways. Young people drive quite a way to a show or a dance and they like to cut up and have fun. Many things could happen, such as a cow in the road and the car hits it. The result usually is people scattered all over the road and the car upside down in the ditch and the driver being dead by the way.

Do you want this to happen to your children?

George Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, Va., is said to be the most popular point of interest in the United States among paying sight-seers.

NOTED WRITER TO TALK AT HISTORICAL EVENT

CANYON, March 20 (AP)—Walter Prescott Webb, noted author of "The Great Plains" and "The Texas Rangers" from which was filmed one of the outstanding pictures of 1936, will speak at the annual banquet of the Panhandle-Plains Historical society, which will be held here at the West Texas State College on April 16.

The annual meeting of the Historical society this year promises to be one of the greatest in the history of the organization. Already the news has traveled down the grapevine telegraph to business men who love ranches, and ranchers who admire the scholar-business man type, and to all lovers of the great southwest that the man who is internationally known for his authoritative writings on this region will be in Canyon on April 16.

W. L. Vaughn, treasurer, and L. F. Sheffy, secretary of the Historical society, are already receiving reservations for the banquet although it is almost a month away.

UNITY OF SALVATION ARMY IS ONE OF NOTED CHARACTERISTICS

(Editor's Note: The following is one of a series of articles on the Salvation Army by Captain Herman Lambrecht, in which he interprets the aims, methods and activities, also the plan of organization and administration of the Army. Captain Lambrecht is head of the local post, Salvation Army.)

By CAPT. K. G. LAMBRECHT.
Unity of thought, method and purpose is an outstanding characteristic of the Salvation Army throughout the world—the work in Johannesburg, for example, being administered in detail as it is in New York, Denver or Pampa. In a movement which has penetrated so many strange and dissimilar fields, this is a fact of exceptional interest. It is explainable partly by the simplicity of its mission and its direct method of approach; but largely it is due to the element of military discipline as the controlling force in an ingeniously devised plan of organization and administration.

In obedience to this general plan, the Army has divided the United States into four territories, with headquarters in Atlanta, New York, San Francisco and Chicago. These territorial centers, each under the authority of a commissioner, are responsible directly to General Evangelist Booth.

Each territorial headquarters is divided into departments directed by officers of high rank. All activities are under the immediate direction of the chief secretary, who, as second in command of the territory, is responsible to the commissioner for their proper and harmonious co-ordination. These departments are: The Field Department, Men's Social Service; Women's Social Service; Finance and Audit; Property; Editorial; Young People's; Bureau of Information; Statistics and Inspection; Supplies and Purchasing.

The unit of activity in the religious work, whose officers are under the Field Department, is the local Corps, which is comparable to the individual congregation in the denominational organizations. The Corps is the group so frequently seen in street-corner meetings. It is commanded by an officer according to his or her ability and length of service, and is responsible directly to a divisional headquarters. A division includes between 20 and 30 corps, usually within a radius of 300 miles of the divisional center and is commanded by an experienced officer with a rank ranging from major to lieutenant colonel, and reports directly to territorial headquarters. In the organization of the Men's Social Service Department within the territory, the unit of work is the individual institution, such as an industrial home for men or an Evening Home for the Aged. The Industrial Homes, which form the bulk of responsibility of this department are responsible directly to the head of this department at territorial headquarters.

Quite apart from its own system of government and organization, the Salvation Army in the United States must be seen as a corporate entity operating under the control and protection of the laws of the land. The certificate of incorporation issued by the State of New York in 1899, from which the general purposes of the organization were quoted in the first installment of this series, sets up a Board of Trustees for the custody and control of revenues and property. This board is subject to the supervision of the state in that it is required to make an annual report of property holdings as well as receipts and disbursements, and to seek the permission of the court for any property transfers it may contemplate. The charter makes it clear, of course, that it is a corporation without dividends or any other kind of profit for anyone concerned.

While the New York certificate provides for a blanket charter, authorizing the organization to operate as a religious and charitable corporation anywhere in the United States, it has been found advantageous, in the interest of property holdings, to incorporate in several of the states individually.

Each territorial headquarters is divided into departments directed by officers of high rank. All activities are under the immediate direction of the chief secretary, who, as second in command of the territory, is responsible to the commissioner for their proper and harmonious co-ordination. These departments are: The Field Department, Men's Social Service; Women's Social Service; Finance and Audit; Property; Editorial; Young People's; Bureau of Information; Statistics and Inspection; Supplies and Purchasing.

MERCHANTS PUSHING COLLECTION EFFORTS

Pampa merchants are concentrating efforts on collections rather than credit sales, according to a monthly bulletin just issued by the Credit Association, which reveals that this city in February had the greatest decrease in credit sales of any city affiliated with the association throughout the nation.

The decrease in credit sales here last month was 22 per cent, the report shows.

The figures also reflect that money is flowing much freer in the district and that there is a greater percentage of cash business being transacted by mercantile houses. Collections were up 20 per cent here.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.
James G. Coffey and Miss Clara Ballard, both of Pampa, Riley Davis and B. Davis, both of Pampa.

OVERALLS VISITING HERE.
Harry and John D. Overall of Los Angeles are here for a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Overall, and sisters, Mrs. Tom Duval and Miss Mildred Overall.
