PAMPA-CHEYENNE RAILS REACH OLDEST PANHANDLE TOWN

TRAIN WHISTLE HEARD AT LAST AT MOBEETIE

Railroad Pushes Thru Frontier Site This Week

STATION WILL BE BUILT NOW

Completion of Line to Be Early Next Spring

For the first time in history, residents of the oldest town in the Panhandle heard the shriek of a train whistle from their homes this week. The occasion was the laying of steel rails into the new townsite of Mobeeite by the C. & O. W. railroad, now reaching toward Cheyenne, Okla., from Pampa.

Mobeeite has never had a railroad. The old town was established as an outpost to Fort Elliot, built in 1874 on the banks of Sweetwater creek. Since that time, Mobeeite has basked in its glory of being the oldest town in the Panhandle. Now that town has become also the newest. It was impossible for the new line to touch old Mobeeite, so the town will move to the railroad, a distance of about one and one-half miles.

Rail laying gangs reached the new townsite early this week and have completed the laying of switches and sidings. Now the work will go on toward Cheyenne, the eastern terminal of the new line. Work on the station, stationmaster's house and other necessary railroad buildings will begin immediately. H. W. Rochester, engineer in charge of construction of the line, announced yesterday.

With steel laid to Mobeeite, more than half the distance to the eastern terminus has been finished. More than 85 per cent of the grade has been completed and large gangs of men are rushing rail laying, and other operations. A bridge crew is at work building the first bridge across highway 33-A.

Work on the line begun last May and has been rushed forward with all possible haste. It is expected that the road will be completed early in the spring.

Negro Preacher to Speak Tonight

Dr. J. W. Bailey, negro, of Sherman, superintendent of negro missions in Texas, and one of the widely known negro preachers of the South, will speak at the First Baptist church at 8 o'clock this evening. He has recently toured Europe and will tell of what he saw. The choir of an Amarillo negro church will sing.

The Rev. D. H. Truhitte, pastor of the First Baptist church, urges all the negroes of the city to attend the service and invites all white people who are interested.

Says It's Fun

Getting votes in the Daily News big automobile contest is great fun according to Mrs. Josephine Sparks, of Lefors, who today jumped into the lead in District No. 2. Friends, not only in Lefors, but other parts of the county have been rallying to her support of late. That she will be dangerous contender for first honors in the finals is a foregone conclusion.

Mrs. Sparks was in Pampa a few days ago, and was observed in the Pampa Buick company showroom, honking the horn on the Buick.

"I just wanted to be sure it works," she told one of the salesmen. "I don't want to bump into anybody, you know!"

Mrs. Sparks teaches school at Lefors and some idea of her winning personality may be gained from the fact that everyone of her pupils is a booster for her. She's a regular 1928 school ma'am, and popular with everybody.

CONTEST WORK IS INTENSIVE

Home-to-Home Plan Used in Final Efforts

Honor, personal pride and supreme satisfaction in winning are now becoming potent factors behind the men and women who are daily nearing the end of their struggle to share in the Pampa Daily News great prize distribution, one week from next Saturday night. Every day since the last club and cash offer started has been one of unprecedented energy and the vote totals that are being amassed by contestants threaten to swamp the campaign manager. Present indications are that the remaining days will surpass by a noticeable margin the rapid work of the last few days.

Several candidates in Pampa have begun a systematic house to house canvass of residences in their neighborhood. One of these obtained a full $20 club of subscriptions within a radius of three blocks of her own home. This young woman asserted that her success in her own neighborhood was prompted her to make it a house-to-house affair from now on. Scores of homes in towns outside Pampa do not yet receive the Daily News regularly and the systematic canvass from one home to another without skipping any

WITNESSES SAY FARMER CHASED DALLAS BANKER

Two Shots Fired Into Prostrate Body, Assertion

BETTING FACTS EXPECTED SOON

Defense Contends Killer was Robbed, Then Threatened

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—Five state witnesses asserted from the stand today that V. Ray Adams, Bartlett farmer, on trial for the slaying here, Sept. 1, of Orville L. Mathews, Dallas bank employe, pursued the banker across a street intersection, pistol in hand, and fired two shots into the dead man's body as he lay prone upon the sidewalk.

A packed court room, hushed with silence as the first details of the slaying were unraveled scarcely had time to breathe before defense counsel shouted: "You know these things, but you don't know that Mathews stole $2,000 from this man. told him to go back to Bell county, and threatened to blow out his brains if he didn't, do you?"

Started today after more than 20 hours spent in the selection of a jury, the fight being waged for the accused man's life and liberty, promised to extend more than a week before more than 100 witnesses to testify in the case had related details of election betting on a gigantic scale in Texas which attorneys contend led up to the shooting.

After flashlights for cameras had ceased booming, Adams was arraigned today and entered his plea of not guilty to an indictment charging the central Texas farmer with murder and the state's first witness, H. C. Vogel, a chauffeur, was summoned. The taxi driver told of having stopped for a signal light at the corner where Mathews was shot to death, of hearing the sound of a gun, and then of witnessing the bank employe fleeing across the street, closely pursued by Adams.

BORGER MAN SHOT

BORGER, Dec. 6. (AP)—Sam Frankel, 34, was found wounded, probably fatally, here today in a clothing store which had just sold. He was found by Ted White, advertising solicitor of the Borger Herald. A theory of attempted suicide was being investigated by officers this afternoon. He was formerly owner of the Hub Clothing store.

Acquitted Slayer of Son Is Killed By Nephew, Defense Trial Witness

"Black Damp" Is Blamed in Death of Prohibition Agent

HOUSTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—"Black damp" foul air which accumulates in a hole in the ground which has been sealed for some time, caused the death yesterday of Pat Sharpe, federal prohibition agent, Justice of the Peace J. M. Ray decided today after an inquest.

HOUSTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Because with a last breath their colleagues, overcome by fumes in an underground whisky distillery, shouted "Go back! Go back!" three prohibition agents lived today to investigate the possibility that Pat Sharpe, 40, died, not of noxious air, but a deliberate lethal trap.

Sharpe went down a ladder in a liquor cave yesterday, Victor Butthod, his chief, and two other agents following. Sharpe cried out his warning from the bottom of the cavern and was heard no more. Butthod rushed to aid him, collapsed and was dragged to the surface by the two other officers, who could not find Sharpe before they were forced back to the open air.

Sharpe, a veteran in the service, lay dead in the chamber for 30 minutes before Dr. M. C. Waltrip, a dentist, holding his nose, dragged out the body of the agent.

School Talent Is Heard by Rotary

Talent from the Pampa schools furnished the program at the Rotary luncheon at the Methodist church yesterday. With the completion of the new ward schools and their opening for use this week it was appropriate that school talent be used in yesterday's program, it was explained by C. P. Buckler, who had charge of the program.

Miss Ruth Abrahamson, Lewis Fannell, Lewis Hall, Howard Zimmerman, Miss Audrey Noel, Miss Clara Brenner, Thomas Fannell, R. B. Fisher and Mrs. Thomas Fannell furnished the program.

G. C. Malone, who has been absent on account of sickness, was present yesterday.

Club guests, other than those on the program included W. R. Kaufman, Tom Brabham, Mrs. Joe Farley of Panhandle, Fred Hobart, Frank Paul and Bill Hale.

Famous Peanut Sent to Smith

HARLINGEN, Dec. 6. (AP)—Bill Williams' peanut—the very same goober he started rolling 10 miles with his nose because Gov. Alfred E. Smith lost in the presidential race—was sent to the New York governor yesterday. Wounded with gold wire and encased in a silver box, the peanut, an inscription on the box said, was "from one good loser to another."

Officers Called to Alanred by Theft

Officers of the sheriff's department are investigating the theft of more than $250 worth of merchandise from the W. J. Ball department store at Alanred. Entrance was gained through a rear window and exit by the front door.

The officers believe that a car or small truck was backed up to the front door and the merchandise loaded. The entire loss has not been checked, but Mr. Ball has found numerous dresses, coats, shoes and other ladies' ready-to-wear garments missing, as well as some men's suits and shoes.

No one heard the robbers breaking in or leaving, investigation shows.

ALL OF MONEY IS RECOVERED

Offenders Identified as Living in Farming Community

KELLYVILLE, Okla., Dec. 6. (AP)—After a gun battle between bandits who robbed the Bank of Kellyville this morning and a posse of citizens and deputy sheriffs, both robbers were captured three miles south of here. One of the bandits was shot in the back and one of the posse received a slight flesh wound.

The bandits took between $800 and $1,000 in cash, locked Cashier Homer Harvey in the vault and fled. The bandits were identified as John Eldridge, 18, and Dennis Williams, 19, both Wya., a community about nine miles south of Kellyville. Williams is the one who was shot.

The stolen money was found hidden near the edge of town.

Harvey set the time lock of the vault for 8 a. m. He was met by the bandits, who forced him to turn over all money.

After securing the money, the bandits locked Harvey in the vault and fled on foot. Using a telephone in the vault, Harvey spread the alarm, and within five minutes a posse of citizens was on the trail of the bandits.

Deputy sheriffs and citizens here soon located the bandits in a wooded section three miles south of town. They were surrounded and captured by the posse.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 6. (AP)—Augustus Johns, Fort Worth pitcher, has been sold to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league, according to a telegram from Manager Jake Atz of Fort Worth, who is attending the national baseball meeting at Toronto.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Edgar S. Vaught of Oklahoma City was nominated today by President Coolidge to be United States district judge of western Oklahoma.

The Child's Rights

Prof. W. L. Hughes, president of the Texas State Teachers' association, made a statement of more than ordinary pertinence in addressing his organization at San Antonio last week.

The statement is being widely quoted, and it will be of interest to reproduce it here. The extract:

"I believe that every child is a future citizen of the state, asset or liability; that it is the obligation of the state to see that every child has educational advantages equal to every other child; that every child has the right to attend school every day during the school term, to go to school the same number of days as every other child, to be instructed by a trained and competent teacher, to go to school in a building sanitary and free from fire hazard, in a building located in a healthful environment; to be transported to school if distance for walking is too great.

"I believe every child should have the right to attend school where medical and dental inspection are available without charge, where organized play is considered a normal activity; where the love of home, the desire for its improvement and an appreciation for the beautiful and good are taught; where cooperation in activities is encouraged; where appreciation of society, its struggles and victories, are made clear, its challenge to the future made personal; where the selection of the life work of each individual is not left to chance; where the individual is trained for his life work; where the problems of the community, state and nation, are not altogether taught from books."

Prejudices

Professors of psychology are usually broad minded and, knowing intimately how impressions and prejudices are formed, oppose narrowness in all its forms. It is not a little surprising, therefore, to read that a Massachusetts professor says that every person must have three prejudices in life if he is to have consistent, stable standards.

These prejudices, he says are:

That he has the best mother in the world.

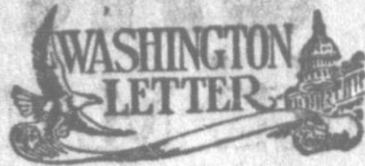

That he believes in and belongs to the finest church on the face of the earth.

That he belongs to the finest nation in the world.

It is true that these are popular conceptions, yet in them are rooted some of the most damaging narrownesses and bigotries. To reverse a good mother is one of the sublimest of feelings, yet even in this the intelligent person should be able to realize, without harm to himself, that no one is perfect, and that persons are to be judged on their merits, not upon set prejudices. There are some mothers who are not good, of course.

Belief in one's church and in one's nation is fundamental in the sense that confidence is necessary to produce a good churchman or a good citizen. Yet confidence grows out of contact with a thing, and we become adjusted and attuned to our church's creeds and our nation's benefits. Had we grown up in other environments, we would have been attuned to something else. Therefore, it is saner and safer to believe that our church and our nation are the best in the world—for us. And we can recommend both without attempting to tear down the ideals and conceptions of our neighbors.

WASHINGTON — Every worker in the United States is producing far more nowadays than his predecessor of a quarter of a century ago did; and this is one of the chief reasons for American prosperity.

This is brought out in the annual report of the Department of Commerce, which is a sort of guide-book to American prosperity as a whole.

The report sets forth some interesting figures. For instance: since the beginning of the present century, the population of the country has increased about 55 per cent. But during that same period, the output of minerals has increased 280 per cent, factory output has increased 180 per cent, and the volume of rail transportation has increased 200 per cent. Agricultural products have just about kept pace with population increase, going up 55 per cent.

"In the case of every one of these four major branches of industry," says the report, "the increase in output since 1900 has been far greater than that in the number of workers. In agriculture, manufactures and railways the product of goods or services per worker engaged has increased from 50 to 60 per cent. For mining the increase per worker has been much higher, the difference, however, being due to the fact that the production of petroleum has multiplied several times.

Another change brought by the past three decades is noted. Although the total population has increased 55 per cent, the aggregate number of workers in these four branches of industry—mining, agriculture, transportation and manufacturing—has gone up only about 32 per cent. In other words, the number of Americans engaged in such pursuits is actually smaller, in proportion to the total population, than it was 30 years ago. What does this mean?

"Just as there has been throughout American history a relative shift from the oldest of all industries—agriculture—into mining, manufactures and rail transportation," says the report, "so since 1900 there has been a shift, especially during recent years, both from agriculture and from these other three branches into the mercantile, professional, and personal service pursuits. The numbers employed in these have increased much more rapidly than the total population."

The "white collar" class, in other words, is on the increase.

Then the report takes up the most discussed question of all—what is the United States prosperous? Here it indulges in some plain speaking.

"The present high prosperity of the United States is in no sense due to the World War," it declares. "As its foundation lie the rich resources of the country, not taxed by an excessive population, and the energy, intelligence, industry and thrift of the people. During the past quarter century the increase of productivity has been only in small part due to the opening up of the new natural resources, but has been chiefly attributable to what may be called human factors.

"The underlying causes of advancing efficiency of American industry translate themselves into a number of more specific and direct factors. Among these the most noteworthy are the advance in education, scientific research and invention; the rapidly increasing use of capital reflected in the greater employment of mechanical power and of automatic and semi-automatic machinery; the larger scale of production permitting greater application of mass methods and lowering of unit costs; the conscious and concerted effort to eliminate waste and improve methods of production and distribution; the high scale of wages resulting in general large buying power, and the comparative stability of prices and of credit."

If Santa really has much sympathy for the man who must pay for the day, he would have Christmas come in installments too.

Says the Higgins News: "The wisdom of the ages may be in the heads of folks today, but still there is much that is yet unknown." Sadly, we must deny your first premise; as one of the younger generation—some of us may achieve the wisdom of age, but how few the wisdom of the ages.

Boxing Stables Loom as Rich Become Managers

By EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—Two tiny French phones tinkled unheeded on the desk of "Tony" Biddle, wealthy son of a famous family, and the youthful financier needed neither phones, nor a "two-day market" that should have commanded his attention.

Instead he lolled in a soft desk chair, or rose to stretch his six feet of brawn and muscle as he paced up and down the carpet. The subject that lured this athletic scion of the "Biddles of Philadelphia" for hours from the manifold duties of a modern multimillionaire was boxing—a game that has fascinated and lured to its fold the male Biddles from the first "Nick" down.

At the moment "Tony"—you'll find him listed as Anthony Joseph Drexel Biddle, Jr., in "Who's Who"—is the center of the latest fistic sensation. A few days ago he paid $20,000 for the managerial contract of Rene de Vries, crack Belgian challenger for the midweight champion. Then Tony turned the baton over to Jimmy Bronson, chief second of Gene Tunney. He will advise and Jimmy will manage and between them they expect to land the blonde Fox of Belgium in the throne now occupied by Mickey Walker.

That is just a start, however. The Biddle millions are at the disposal of Bronson in the quest of the next heavyweight champion. Tony will purchase any boxer in any division upon whom Bronson places the stamp of approval. Furthermore they are considering the erection of an ideal training camp on the outskirts of the city, to be run without profit and provide perfect quarters for any boxers, trainers, managers or promoters willing to meet a nominal portion of the expenses. A "glorified boxing emporium," Tony calls it.

Big, democratic and affable, Tony frankly is "crazy" about boxing. He believes the entry of modern patrons of the sport to boxing "will add interest to our own lives and possibly strengthen the sport." With owners such as Biddle, there never would be the possibility of pushing a youngster ahead too fast because of financial necessity. "It wouldn't surprise me," he said as the stock ticker clicked in the next room and there was a flurry of excitement everywhere but in his chair, "if many others followed the same trail. Boxing stables may replace racing stables. Spruille Braden and Walter Chrysler already have bought Knute Hanses—by golly, I must call Walter and kid him about Knute's knockout by Christner in Cleveland."

KIDNAPED MAN IS RELEASED WITHOUT HARM

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 6. (AP)—Fear because of widespread publicity and police activity today was believed to have caused "gentlemen kidnapers" to abandon an abduction plot and release Ed Alvey, 60, wealthy Louisville gambler and colorful figure of the racing world, after holding him prisoner nearly 54 hours. Alvey, none the worse for his long captivity, returned to his home shortly before 1 a. m., today, having been released without payment of ransom money. He had been kidnaped shortly after 6 o'clock Monday night, while out for a walk in front of his home, and was forced into an automobile by three unidentified men, one of whom covered him with a pistol.

ALLEGED KILLERS MOTIVATED BY DESIRE FOR REVENGE

TEKARKANA, Dec. 6. (AP)—Six men, alleged to have killed a witness who helped send some of their number to the Arkansas state penitentiary on liquor charges, were taken to Prescott, Ark., today for preliminary trial on charges of murder. The men are alleged to have killed P. C. Knotts, 60-year-old farmer, after an argument in which they blamed Knotts for their conviction on liquor charges.

WHEN STANFORD WALLOPED ARMY

Before 80,000 howling fans who packed Yankee Stadium in New York, the Leland Stanford graduates of California are pictured above in their victorious onslaught against the powerful West Panthers. You see here an excellent bit of action in the first quarter, when Coach "Pop" Warner's men opened a brilliant series of punter and passer against the cadets. H. H.

"One Big Day" Teams Received More Glory Than Some Who Won Majority of Their Games—Disposition Vital

By ALAN J. GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor. NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—Football teams that had one "big day" this year are more conspicuous than those enjoying a big season from start to finish.

Some, such as Georgia Tech, Florida, Boston college and Detroit, have been good all the way but most of the others were good only "when they had it."

The disposition has been to "throw out" the days when they didn't have it. New York university partisans still were busy "throwing out" the Georgetown defeat when along came Oregon State, which couldn't be thrown at all. Nevertheless N. Y. U. had its big day against Carnegie when the Violets impressed the critics as being as violent as any team in the country.

Only a guess can be made as to the ensuing stock if the violence of N. Y. U., as exhibited against Carnegie, had been tossed against the counter-violence of Stanford as turned loose against the Army. The Naval academy had two big days and both were at the expense of teams not otherwise defeated, Princeton and Pennsylvania. Carnegie had its big day against Notre Dame, Notre Dame against the Army and the Army against Nebraska.

Teams of the Big Ten and Southwestern conferences had a merry-go-round of big days, the object apparently being to take a pot shot at any team presumptuous enough to gain the lead.

Turning to more consistency, however, it is difficult to find a more impressive record in conference competition than that of the Armstrong's Utah Indians, who won the Rocky Mountain title by the simple but direct expedient of whipping all four of the teams that ranked next to them in the final standing. Utah experienced a pair of off days when the team was tied by Creighton and Brigham Young, but the Indians went on the warpath any time they met a real contender.

Party Line Has Its Annoyances, But in This Case It Helped A. P. Man Get Elusive News From Wink

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—The oft-berated "party line" which has enabled a large portion of Texas population for many years to attain an intimate knowledge of what has occurred or is about to happen in his or her neck of the woods, has at least found a defender.

It enabled an Associated Press representative at Dallas to get the facts on a shooting scrape in a small town 500 miles away after he almost had despaired of success through the regular channels.

There had been a difficulty at Wink, oil boom town, in which two men received charges from a shotgun. An early dispatch said their condition was critical. That much was correct, but their names as given were wrong, as it later was revealed.

A correspondent in another city noted the dispatch as it came over the wires. The name of one of the wounded men, he discerned, was similar to that of a former high school football star of his city who recently had gone to Wink to work in the oil fields. He asked Dallas to ascertain if the wounded man could, by any chance, be the ex-gridiron star. If it was, he pointed out, it would make a top line story for his section.

A long distance call to Wink elicited the information that the correspondent was out of town and the justice of the peace was decided upon as the next best bet.

"Justice," he was asked after the connection had been completed and the clicking of several receivers being taken from their hooks, "can you tell me the correct names of the men who were shot today?"

"I can," was the judicious reply. "The first man's name is spelled W-A-N—." That was as far as he got.

"That ain't right," came a high-pitched feminine voice. The justice spluttered indignantly and tried it again.

"I said the first man's name is spelled W-A—."

"And I said that ain't right," the voice said in immediate rejoinder. "All right," thundered the justice,

"if you know so darn much about it you tell him." His receiver clicked with an air of finality.

The helpful soul proceeded to do her stuff. She gave details of the unpleasantness that put the two men in a hospital and spelled their names in an authoritative manner. One of the victims was the former football star. The matter was cleared up then and there.

And that is the story of the "party line" habitus who made good.

Will Demand Free Draft Ruling at Baseball Session

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 6. (AP)—It was game time today for the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs meeting in annual convention, infield practice was held at the opening session yesterday, the day being given over to organization.

With the minors, big and little, sharply divided on the question of selection of players by the majors from the minors, the baseball stage was set for decision with the league presidents, players and umpires in attendance.

The leagues below class "A" were understood to be in favor of an unrestricted or unlimited selection, while the three class AA circuits and one class A organization—the Western—stood behind the modified selection which permits only players to be drafted who were sent to the minors by the majors, with a chance to gain a return ticket.

W. G. Branham, Durham, N. C., president of the South Atlantic association, Piedmont and Eastern Carolina leagues, leader of the forces fighting for a full and free draft, said before the convention opened that he would demand a vote on every section of a resolution proposing a number of amendments intended to make the selection laws more liberal.

A Big He-Man

Through nine hard games of a schedule that included New York University, Holy Cross and Lafayette, "Bernie" Crowl (above), center of the Rutgers varsity eleven, played without a relief. He is thought to be the only center who did not have to give way to a substitute during the season. Crowl weighs 180 pounds, he is a junior planning his first year of varsity football and lives at Ridgely Park, N. J.

Governor Smith Giving Many Pets Away to Friends

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 6. (AP)—Two important, though wholly unofficial duties, confront Gov. Alfred E. Smith before he hands over the gubernatorial reins to Governor-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt.

His 55th birthday, which falls on December 30, just the day before his final day as governor, must be fittingly celebrated, and his famous zoo at the executive mansion must be demolished. The ranks of the back-yard menageries are sadly depleted. Beasts ranging in size from monkey to elk have been or are about to be given away.

But there are exceptions, five or six of his dogs the governor refuses to part with. Jolie, one of a trio of monkeys, the parrots, the love birds, and the canaries will be kept. The dogs he will send to a kennel for the present. Jeff, the huge great dane pictured in newspapers from coast to coast, is staying.

Representative Parker Corning of Albany was presented with a magnificent 35-pound turkey, sent to Governor Smith for his Christmas dinner by friends in Texas. The governor "pardoned" the bird as too fine a specimen to be eaten.

One member of the governor's zoo didn't figure in the final roll call. That was Sammy Houston, the little burro sent to Governor Smith by Texas admirers at the time of the Houston convention. Sammy died, but Miss Gertrude Lathrop, an Albany sculptress, immortalized him in bronze, so Governor Smith may still look at him, long after the others have gone the way of all good pets.

Wife Witnesses Husband's Wedding to Wife No. 2

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—Herbert J. Leigh-Manuelle, 36, church organist and music teacher, who induced his wife to witness his marriage to a 19-year-old pupil, today was held without bail in the Suffolk county jail charged with bigamy.

Mrs. Leigh-Manuelle remained at their West Sayville, Long Island, home taking care of their three young sons, while Martha Van Wyen, his newest bride, was at the home of her parents in the neighboring village of Sayville.

The Leigh-Manuelles have been married 13 years. Mrs. Leigh-Manuelle explained to police that she became aware last summer that her husband was infatuated with his pupil but when she found herself unable to check this she resigned herself to the situation.

At the request of her husband she called at the Van Wyen home yesterday and asked whether Martha could accompany her to a dentist in New York. Permission was granted. At the station they were joined by Leigh-Manuelle.

The three went to the municipal building where a license was taken out and later Leigh-Manuelle and Miss Van Wyen were married with Mrs. Leigh-Manuelle as a witness.

Major N. H. Reed of New York City was a business visitor here yesterday. He has large holdings in Gray, Carson, Hemphill, Roberts and Hutchinson counties, also several town lots here.

SANTA RITA, Dec. 6. (AP)—The world's deepest oil producer, Group One Oil corporation's (Texas) No. 1-B University continues to improve. Yesterday the well flowed 402 barrels of 52.9 gravity oil. This is only one-tenth of a degree lower than the highest gravity produced in Oklahoma. The well is more than a mile and one-half deep.

Hidalgo Fight Not Ended by Recent Hearing

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (AP)—Indications that the factional political fight in Hidalgo county had not been pacified by the recent hearing which the house campaign expenditures committee held in McAllen were seen here today in the court action which a defeated candidate has taken to obtain a judicial record.

Gordon Griffin, independent republican candidate for the district bench, who lost by 14 votes after apparently having won the first count, yesterday obtained a temporary injunction restraining secretary of state, Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, from canvassing the vote for the 93rd judicial district.

The injunction prohibits destruction of the ballots or tampering with the returns and orders all of the returns for the district presented in court here January 8.

between will produce results which will be both surprising and pleasing.

Some New Ones

Reports which trickled in yesterday were to the effect that several of the candidates in the list who had been practically inactive started out determined to make a whirlwind drive from now to the finish. Rapid rises on the part of the late starters have been a feature of the past week and there is a likelihood that the present week will be similar in its surprises. All predictions as to ultimate winners have been knocked helter skelter by sensations some of the new ones have been springing.

No candidate who now occupies first or second or third place can rest assured that she will remain there. Every indication points that the race will be a close one. There are too many hearts set on the big Buick to permit any candidate to "walk away" with the prizes.

9 p. m. Saturday.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the point of getting subscriptions in before 9 o'clock Saturday night. After Saturday there will be no more club offers and no more cash offers and the final week of the campaign only the final vote schedule will prevail, so it behooves every one to do their best NOW. Changes are most every new subscriber you have already secured a subscription from for the six months period will now be glad and willing to extend that subscription to a year, possibly two years, and YOU GET THE DIFFERENCE IN VOTES. The amount collected applies towards a $20 club.

Make Next Few Days Count

At this juncture of the campaign it behooves every candidate to look well to their position in the vote columns so that no seemingly inactive candidate may lose her formidable standing. Because of a slight relaxation in vote getting several candidates who were the leaders when the last offer closed are fast losing the prestige which they had gained.

Keep right on the job. This is no time to hesitate or to temporize. Don't forget that extra votes are given for each $20 club and that any candidate may overcome ANY advantage that has been gained by just a little effort. And that is just what is happening. The real cause, perhaps, is the proximity of the finish. There is real enjoyment in watching the wonderful energy, the spritely enthusiasm and the grim determination with which these late starters are progressing. Negotiating the distance from top to bottom is becoming an every day occurrence with some of those energetic ones will drive automobiles at the close of the campaign.

Second Pays Count Big

One of the most fruitful fields for votes now is the "second payment." Short term subscriptions taken earlier in the campaign may now be extended and the extension will receive the difference in votes. For instance a yearly subscription now extended to three years counts either 35,000 or 45,000 depending on whether it is a carrier or mail subscription. It makes no difference what the amount the first

Miss Mary Maness, Bride-Elect, Is Honoree of Party

Miss Mary Maness, bride-elect of Mr. Carl Lawder of Fort Worth, whose marriage will take place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Maness, some time this month, was honored last evening with a prettily appointed party and a miscellaneous shower, given by Mrs. Alta Stahard, Mrs. G. Cravey and Miss Dorothy McKinney at Mrs. Stahard's home.

Christmas crystals and silver gilt rope were used in a distinctive decorative scheme for the affair, and baskets of yellow chrysanthemums gave the house a further note of gay color. After several delightful games, especially planned for the occasion, had been enjoyed, the honoree was presented a miniature Christmas tree on which the gifts were hung. When these had been opened, the hostesses served a dainty refreshment course.

Those who attended the party were as follows: Mrs. James Todd, Mrs. T. F. Smaling, Mrs. Kate Vincent, Mrs. C. L. McKinney, Mrs. Jack Shirley, Mrs. Elmer Hardin, Mrs. Roy Sullivan, Miss Edna Ballard, Miss Evelyn Cravey, Miss Lulu Hutchins, Miss Hazel Campbell, Miss Floy Stahard, Miss Lessie Cobb, Miss Deva Dean, Miss Opal Johns, Miss Catherine Vincent, and the guest of honor, Miss Mary Maness.

Klan Is Brought Into Trial of Texas Farmer

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—After three days spent in the selection of a jury, the stage was set today for the trial of V. Ray Adams, Bartlett farmer, indicted for the slaying Sept. 1 on a downtown street corner of Orville L. Mathews, bank employe and purported stake holder in a $2,000 election bet between the accused man and Ben C. Richards. The latter is claimed by defense attorneys to have headed activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Dallas county.

The task of finding 12 men to determine whether Adams was justified in firing the bullets that snuffed out the banker's life while the surrounding streets were thronged with employes on their way to work was ended late yesterday after more than 135 talesmen had been questioned regarding politics, their membership in the Klan, belief in the death penalty and attitude toward the Texas suspended sentence law.

From its quizzing of prospective jurors the defense outlined clearly its legal battle tactics—they will seek to prove that the Central Texas farmer who came to Dallas to collect the wager said to have been owed him shot only when he believed he was in danger at the hands of the bank employe.

Scores of persons including sheriffs and peace officers of at least four Texas counties where Adams once resided, are to relate their part in events that led up to the shooting.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Mrs. Paul Dubonnet, the former Mrs. Jean Nash, has abdicated. Sometimes called the best dressed woman in the world, she said on arriving from France that she no longer was in the running. Also she remarked: "Skirts are getting terribly long."

MARLBORO, Mass.—Chief Brown of the fire department wants high heels forbidden to high school girls because of the danger of catching in fire escapes. He asked the school board, the board referred it to the faculty, and the faculty passed the buck to the parents.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—The girls seem to be putting on weight. In 1924 the average height of those entering the University of Iowa was 63 inches and the weight 113.9 pounds. Latest figures 63.5 and 119.

LOS ANGELES—Mrs. Violet Merchant's story is that she agreed to a divorce on condition that her husband remarry her when certain property matters had been settled. He married another. Mrs. Merchant is suing for $50,000 for breach of promise.

TAXIING AROUND THE AIRPORTS

Jackson, Miss., with a population of 45,000, now has an airport built through a $75,000 public bond issue. The new port, which is well equipped and laid out, was dedicated November 10.

New Orleans is laying plans for a combined land plane and seaplane airport, with a tentative site on Lake Pontchartrain already selected. The site is of ample size for land planes and provides an excellent anchorage for seaplanes. It is situated on a paved road leading into the heart of the business district.

Atlantic City is preparing to redevelop Bader Airport as the first step in attracting the establishment of a regular air line between the New Jersey resort and the larger Atlantic seaboard cities. City officials claim the new air line will be started as soon as the airport is ready.

Matamoras, Penn., located in an area lacking airport facilities or emergency landing fields, is planning a municipal airport to be named for Merrill and Ronne, two young aviators who crashed to their deaths a few miles from the site of the new field.

Believing that air traffic will increase at a rapid pace within the next few years, officials of Oklahoma City are considering an extensive enlargement of the city's airport.

Twenty-two cities in southern California, working in co-operation with the Southern California Development association, are having preliminary studies made of their cities preparatory to establishing airports.

The Newark municipal airport at Newark, N. J., is fast becoming the center of New York City's air traffic. The new field, which is the closest one to Gotham, has already been named by post office officials as the New York terminus for air mail.

Danville, Ill., is contemplating the establishment of a municipal airport in the hope that Danville will be designated as an air mail stop on the Chicago-Atlanta airway.

Springfield, Vermont, has undertaken a comprehensive program for the improvement of its airport. The Springfield port was the first municipal venture of its kind in the Green Mountain state.

Luman Jury Is Out Deliberating

LAMESA, Dec. 6. (AP)—The jury which heard the trial of Will Luman, 40, charged with the murder of Marvin Breeding slept on the case last night. The trial was completed at 8:30 p. m.

Conflicting testimony as to whether Breeding made a "hip-pocket movement" was given the jury. One witness testified Breeding made a motion toward his pocket, as he left a theatre at Post with Luman, and that Luman shot him. Other witnesses said they saw no such motion and that Breeding had never owned a pistol.

Luman took the stand and told the jury that he had shot in self-defense after going to the theatre to make Breeding apologize for an insult to Mrs. Luman.
