Toral Says He Wished Life, Not Soul of Mexican

SAN ANGELO, Mexico, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Jose De Leon Toral, taking his defense into his own hands at his trial for the assassination of President-elect Obregon in July, described today terrible tortures which he said had been inflicted on him at police headquarters in an effort to force from him confession of accomplices.

He said that for six hours he endured in silence while being beaten, burned with matches, stabbed with pins, and hung by his thumbs and again by a restricting cord about his chest. His tormentors, he charged, threatened to subject his wife to the same treatment. Then he was thrown into a narrow cell in which he was unable to move and confined there for 24 hours. Finally, he charged, he was given no food for three days.

Demetrio Sodi, his attorney, demanded that the court investigate the story and punish the police responsible if it was substantiated. This was the first time that the charges of mistreatment had been made public although rumors of torture had led correspondents to question Toral in the presence of police officials a few days after the assassination. At that time, the prisoner said he had not been tortured.

It was General Obregon's life and not his soul that Leon Toral sought, he testified. He said that for a month before the assassination, he had offered prayers for Obregon and that all of his prayers since he had been in prison had been that the general's soul might go to heaven.

The court day ended after a heated exchange of words between the opposing attorneys, with the trial to be resumed tomorrow.

Alvin Moody Declares Voters Won't Be Dictated to

DALLAS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Texas voters will be spurred to show their independence in the election Tuesday as a result of a threat by D. W. Wilcox, state Democratic executive committee, to disbar bolting Democrats from the 1930 Democratic primaries, Alvin S. Moody, chairman of the Anti-Al Smith Democrats of Texas, said in a statement here today.

"The lash of chairman Dave Wilcox's whip, laid across the shoulders of free Texas Democrats in the interest of Tammany Hall, will only spur them to independence at the polls," the statement said.

"Wilcox must think we are living in Russia, instead of in Texas, founded and peopled by individualists and free, courageous lovers of good government."

"Chairman Wilcox ought to know that Governor Moody and his friends, through the newspapers, and otherwise, urged Anti-Al Smith Democrats in Texas to participate in the primaries and assured them that the primary pledge would, in no way, interfere with their voting for Hoover in November.

"This sort of thing is a fair specimen of Tammany politics. Let us rid the Democratic party of that 'damnable affliction.'"

McAdoo to Preserve Party Allegiance

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 3.—(AP)—William G. McAdoo will preserve his party allegiance in the presidential election Tuesday, he said today in a telegram to Thomas J. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle.

The telegram, which was in reply to one from Hamilton said.

"Replying to your telegram I am absolutely opposed to Governor Smith's position on prohibition and the 18th amendment, but I shall preserve my party allegiance. Am making same reply to similar inquiry from Stovall."

Pleasant A. Stovall, editor of the Savannah Press, had sent a similar inquiry to Mr. McAdoo.

Hutchinson Drops Still Lower in Scale of Producers

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Facing the last audience of his campaign, Alfred E. Smith tonight summed up in one speech all the charges he has hurled at Republicanism between Massachusetts and Montana and declared his opinion the time was at hand when the American people wanted a change in the administration at Washington.

The Democratic nominee, in his one and only speech prepared for delivery before an audience in his native New York City, said he was confident that a "reawakened sentiment of the American people will be reflected next Tuesday in a great Democratic victory."

Speaking in Madison Square Garden, where only a few weeks ago Herbert Hoover made a personal bid for New York's 45 electoral votes, Governor Smith fired back at his rival for the presidency and the party he heads.

He accused the Republican organization he charged with setting at "naught all great declarations of political faith," and with the sweeping aside of "all men and measures not in sympathy and in step with their narrow, bigoted ideas."

Further, he declared, it would be difficult to speak of the Anti-Saloon League without saying something about "its twin brother for the destruction of American principles and American ideas, the Ku Klux Klan."

"The Republican party has made feeble attempts," he continued, "to disclaim responsibility for some of the activities of the Klan."

He added this had been "laid bare before the eyes of the American people when Senator Moses, the Eastern manager of the Hoover campaign, mailed scurrilous literature to be published in the state of Kentucky, making an attack upon me because of my religious faith."

The governor in the sweeping roundup of his position on various issues reiterated a demand for a chance in prohibition and again promised to take this issue to the American people. He argued two duties with respect to the laws on this subject developed upon the president. These he set forth as follows:

"I would recommend change. The first is to enforce them. That I promise to do to the best of my ability. The second duty is to recommend the changes deemed advisable. I will recommend to Congress the changes I have indicated in accordance with my speech of acceptance."

At the outset of his speech, the governor ripped into Mr. Hoover for confining his utterances to "six or seven speeches in which he deals with the problems under discussion in the most general way." He added that Hoover, instead of entering into the debate had been represented in the discussions by "prominent members of his own party who acted as his spokesmen."

"That is exactly what the people of this country desire to get any from" the Democratic nominee declared.

Reaffirming his position on the tariff, the governor again emphasized opposition to a general revision of the tariff laws.

RIVAL CAMPS BUSY FIGURING OPPONENT OUT

Last Words Will Be Sent Over Radio By Nominees

REPUBLICANS ARE VERY CONFIDENT

Democrats Base All on "Solid South" Idea

BY D. FIELD BRITTE As'd Press Staff Writer

The advance partitioning of the country's electoral votes by those who think they know now is in full reason as the presidential campaign nears its end.

Always ready to put their best claim claim forward, they do so now with additional warrant since Herbert Hoover, en route home after speaking in Pueblo, Colo., last night and Alfred E. Smith, having delivered his Madison Square speech on his home ground, wait ready to send the last words over the radio.

About this date every fourth year it is customary for the party stalwarts to take their private inventories and announce victory with a grudging largess that permits the other fellow to "run second. Exceptional in many ways his campaign at its close is quite like its predecessors in that the total of votes claimed by both sides is almost double the 531 being fought for.

The fact that the true figures will come out of the ballot box Tuesday night and that either side will be joyously satisfied with the bare necessary 266, doesn't hamper the pre-election abandon with which the states are sorted out into the victory column.

Having sent Mr. Hoover to the tringe of Dixie to plead for support the Republicans are proclaiming annexation of some of the 114 votes at stake there. The Democrats, having dispatched Governor Smith to the farmer west for his first campaign effort, are announcing widespread allegiance there. The severest fight has raged up and down the eastern seaboard, and no quarter has been granted or asked. On the basis of the paper claims alone it appears that the Republicans are confident of gaining victory by sweeping the big states of the East, getting at least an even "break in the border strip, effecting a breach in the Solid South and rolling up a great majority in the Middle, North and Far West. The conflict in the calculations is emphasized by the Democratic expectation of the solid support of Dixie, the votes of at least half of the East and enough more to be picked up in the Western area to swell the total well above the required 266.

The South

In the South, Republicans have painted for themselves a pleasing picture with the colors of North Carolina, Virginia, Florida, Alabama and Texas in fact most of the Southern states appear in one or the other of the Hoover columns at headquarters. They pillow their hopes on the premise that Hoover has created a large personal following there; that the party has been revitalized and that anti-Smith sentiment will be a dominant factor. At Democratic headquarters all the 114 votes in Dixie are placed to Smith's credit at the outset, with no misgivings despite the anti-movements led by Democratic drays and churchmen. As never before the Democrats have waged an active campaign below the Mason-Dixon line and they declare they have only to get out the vote to win.

The East

He was released on $3,000 bond in the afternoon, although no date for the examining trial was set.

Manning, a carpenter as well as an officer, was on a step ladder, witnesses said, when the first slugs from his assailant's shot gun struck him. Manning fell; a second shot was fired and Manning staggered to his feet and ran as the shotgun was put in play for the third time.

DEMOCRACY'S ROLL OF ILLUSTRIOUS BOLLERS

The Greatest Democrats Have Bolted When Their Conscience Condemned the Action of Their Party.

Martin Van Buren

President Martin Van Buren, elected by the Democrats in 1836 as Jackson's successor—the choice of Jackson—bolted the Democratic party in 1848 and refused to vote the ticket.

Jefferson Davis

Jefferson Davis, one of the most distinguished Democrats of history, declared when he bolted the Charleston Convention of 1860, "I refuse to accept Douglas and the heresy of Squatter Sovereignty". With those emphatic words he left the stormy assembly.

John H. Reagan

John H. Reagan, one of the greatest Democrats of all time and United States Senator from Texas for many years, joined Jefferson Davis in the famous "bolt" of 1860.

William Lowndes Yancy

William Lowndes Yancy, an outstanding Democratic leader in the stormy days between 1850 and 1860 joined Jefferson Davis in the "bolt" in 1860. It should be recalled that seven southern states, the heart of the South, left the Charleston Convention, after that body had voted down a resolution which they sponsored.

Grover Cleveland

Twice elected President on the Democratic ticket and the absolute master of the party for 12 years bolted the Democratic ticket in 1896 and positively refused to vote for Bryan after the latter had been nominated by more than a two-thirds majority. His entire cabinet, with one exception, bolted the party with him.

Woodrow Wilson

Woodrow Wilson, who denounced Bryan in the early "silver" campaigns and expressed the hope that "Bryan would be kicked into a cocked hat". This eminent bolter was afterward made the Presidential nominee of the Democratic party and elected twice as its standard bearer. Evidently he was not considered disqualified because he was a "bolter".

Bourke Cochran

Bourke Cochran, noted Tammany Democrat, bolted the Democratic ticket in 1896 and made speeches against Bryan. HE WAS ONE OF THE FIRST BACKERS OF AL SMITH FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

John H. Kirby

Who in 1920 publicly declared his preference for Harding, the Republican nominee over Cox, the Democratic nominee, and who contributed heavily to the Coolidge Campaign in 1924.

John J. Raskob

General manager of General Motors Co., still a member of the Republican Club of Philadelphia, selected in 1923 by Alfred Emanuel Smith, Democratic nominee for the presidency, to be chairman of the Democratic party of the nation.

If Smith can catapult into the leadership of his party a member of the Republican Party, may not a private Democrat, in the exercise of a patriotic duty, for once in a lifetime, vote for a candidate with the character and record of a Hoover—though he be the nominee of Raskob's party?

What Can Al Smith Do About Prohibition?

The Volstead Act is the enforcement measure for the Eighteenth Amendment. The Volstead Act has been declared constitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States by A VOTE OF 5 TO 4.

The President appoints the members of the Supreme Court.

These Supreme Justices are appointed for life.

IF ONE OF THE FIVE WHO VOTED THAT THE VOLSTEAD ACT WAS CONSTITUTIONAL SHOULD DIE, then Al Smith WOULD APPOINT HIS SUCCESSOR.

HOW EASY IT WOULD BE TO APPOINT A MAN WHO WOULD VOTE WITH THE FOUR INSTEAD OF THE FIVE ON THE QUESTION OF THE VOLSTEAD ACT.

Taken from the editorial page of The Tulsa Tribune on Tuesday, October 23, 1923

A GUIDE FOR VOTERS

The next to the last week of the presidential campaign opens with the Tammany tiger charging its tail. Governor Smith's supporters do not know where they are. Chairman Raskob is frantically trying to prove that his leader is as good a Republican as anybody, and the Democratic politicians have so much explaining to do that they hardly know where to begin.

Governor Smith's speeches are responsible for the furor. He has approved McNary-Haugenism and refused to accept its mechanics. He has condemned the tariff and promised to keep it in force. He has made his bid for the support of voters in the big city slums by condemning the existing immigration quotas and tried earnestly to prove that his views on this issue were as good as Hoover's. He has even taken a position on each side of the one issue on which his views were already known by courts—the dry while proclaiming himself the leader of the wets.

The truth of the matter is that Governor Smith has tried to upbraid both major parties. He has enlarged on the efforts of the expediency-chasing Houston convention by declaring for the most popular principles of both parties. He has worked the platform over until it is unrecognizable. Every day he proves more clearly that he is not and has never been the candidate of the Democratic party. And his attempts to make himself a Republican have established only his ignorance of national issues, and made him ridiculous.

The Democrats have no presidential candidate except the one given them by the Republican convention. This campaign is between Hoover and Smith. The expansions and misrepresentations that will be made by Chairman Raskob and Democratic politicians during the next few weeks cannot change that fact.

The voter who tries to follow the arguments of Governor Smith's supporters during the closing days of the campaign will find himself in worse confusion. But here is a guide, arranged by Archie Rice, veteran news analyst, for those who have not yet decided between the two candidates:

Those facts about the lives of the two candidates are more eloquent than anything that may be said by the patronage-hungry orators of the senate. In one column may be found the biography of a poor boy who forced his way to the top of the list of the greatest professions, who trained himself to think in terms of service to mankind, and who, having made his own fortune, offered himself to the public. In the other column is the story of a poor boy who wisecracked his way into the good graces of a Tammany boss, who thinks in terms of Tammany politics, who has depended on Tammany to educate him, support him and carry the Democratic nomination for him. One of these candidates is in harmony with the traditions of the Presidency. He has done big things. He is a planner and a leader. The other fades into insignificance beside him.

PROHIBITION IS AN ISSUE!

Section 2 of the eighteenth amendment says:

"The Congress and the several States shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

The Mullen-Gave Act was passed by the Assembly of The State of New York so that the State might exercise the power granted in this section of the eighteenth amendment.

Why did Al Smith advocate and secure the repeal of this law?

What right have we to believe that Al Smith will keep his oath to support the Constitution of the United States since he TOOK SUCH AN OATH FOUR TIMES AS GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK AND NOT ONLY FAILED TO SUPPORT THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT BUT HAS DONE ALL IN HIS POWER TO NULLIFY IT?

Local Al Smith leaders tell us that prohibition is not an issue. James Young said it was settled. IF THE PROHIBITION ISSUE IS SETTLED WHY IS AL SMITH SO INSISTENT THAT THOSE WHO WANT THIS ISSUE RESUBMITTED AND RESUBMITTED TO THE PEOPLE VOTE FOR HIM?

Al Smith is making it an issue. It is true that it should not be, but AL SMITH MAKES IT THE PRINCIPAL ISSUE.

An Appeal To Labor

Al Smith has said that he wants to base the restricted immigration on a later census than those of 1890.

What would be the result?

Any later census would enormously increase the number of immigrants from Italy, Russia and Poland.

That would mean more Italian barbers, restaurant men, more Polish miners, laborers and mechanics, more competition for our good American workers.

DO YOU WANT THAT?

IF YOU DO NOT WANT THE RESTRICTIONS ON IMMIGRATION RAISED SO AS TO MAKE YOUR JOB LESS SECURE, then vote for the Republican Electors in the election next Tuesday.

New York Boy Admits Strangling Young Sweetheart

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Vincent Pace, 17, confessed today, said police that he strangled to death his 15-year-old high school sweetheart, Alice Joost, after he pulled her with his fist and held her head in her home in Fort Richmond, Staten Island, yesterday.

Through several hours of questioning by police the thin blond youth, six feet tall, maintained his innocence. He was taken to the Joost home and questioned at the scene of the crime. Then, police said, he broke down and confessed.

Frightened, Alice seized an electric extension cord and bound it tightly around her neck, police said. Her mother found the body when she returned home last night.

Detectives said they believe Pace hit the girl after she resisted his advances. Both were students of the Fort Richmond high school and had been friends for several months.

The girl, a sophomore in high school, was of a quiet nature and a student of music.

Robinson Tired But Happy at End of Drive

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A tired but happy and confident man ended one of the most ambitious campaigns in American political history today and turned homeward to believe that he will be the next vice-president of the United States.

That man was Senator Joe Robinson, running mate of Governor Smith, who for two months has carried the message of the Democratic party from coast to coast and from the Rockies to Texas.

He closed his campaign in this city, from which John W. Davis set out on his quest for the presidency four years ago, and the final meeting of his tour was among the most enthusiastic that voters have accorded him.

Love Says McAdoo Sure of Republican Victory at Polls

DALLAS, N. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—William G. McAdoo's announcement that he would vote for Governor Smith was interpreted here tonight by State Senator Thomas B. Loy, McAdoo leader at last Democratic national convention, as an indication that McAdoo expects a Republican victory.

Love at the Madison Square Garden and San Francisco Democratic conventions was a McAdoo stalwart when McAdoo sought the presidential nomination.

"No word of criticism of William Gibbs McAdoo can ever emanate from me," Love said. "Mr. McAdoo says he is going to preserve his party allegiance. We, the Hoover-Democrats, are going to preserve our allegiance to the Democratic party, and also our self-respect by voting for Herbert Hoover against the Tammany candidate, just as Mr. McAdoo preserved his in 1898 by voting for Theodore Roosevelt against the Tammany candidate for Governor of New York.

Unity of Purpose Is Teachers' Topic

The need of unity of purpose was stressed in talks given yesterday at an institute of the teachers of Pampa independent school district. Sup. R. C. Campbell, speaking at the general session in the auditorium of the Methodist church, urged members of the faculty to live up to the ideals of their profession.

Following the general assembly departmental meetings were held by the high school, the junior high school, the intermediate, and the primary divisions. Vocational guidance was the topic of the program given in the high school division. Phases of this subject were discussed by Miss Addie Lee Smith, Miss Bernice White, and J. L. Lester. Mr. H. Mohr was in charge of the division.

The junior high school group studied the correlation of English with spelling and reading. Miss Josephine Carrier and J. K. Burke made talk of various methods of teaching geography were the basis of the program given in the intermediate department. Mrs. J. A. Meek, Miss Jane Singleton, Miss Thelma Tynes, and J. A. Meek discussed various topics. Mr. Meek was in charge of the work for the group. Methods of teaching reading in the first, second, and third grades were discussed by Miss Mary Hall, Miss Della Beeter, and Miss Julia Mae Barnhart.

Stately Cotillion To Be Revived By Capital Debutantes

The cotillion, that stately dance of the gay nineties, will be revived this winter in Washington. Two parties for debutantes is another new idea. Miss Anne Carter Greene (left), daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis S. Greene, and Miss Adair Childress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Childress, will be so introduced.

By SUE McNAMARA (Associated Press Feature Writer) WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Turning completely away from the jazz of recent years Washington society this winter will revive the stately, old-fashioned cotillion as quite the latest and most correct thing in dancing.

Debutantes who figure largely on the season's calendar are eagerly planning lengthened frocks of frills and tulle to match the dignified figures of the cotillion. They are consulting hair dressers concerning false knots of curls to attach to their bobbed locks.

York. Favors, by which the men will find their partners, will eclipse anything seen in Washington for many a day. The older members of the Bachelors' club who are versed in the ceremonious etiquette of a former day when society shone in stately splendor instead of scintillating jazz, will lead the younger generation through the figures of the cotillion.

Not alone the cotillions, but the fact that many of the season's debutantes will emerge into the social limelight with not only one coming-out party, but two, makes this season unique. Heretofore one tea or one ball was deemed sufficient to give Miss Debbie her due, but now many of the younger set are demanding both.

Among those who are to be so indulged by their parents are Miss Anne Carter Greene, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis S. Greene, and Miss Adair Childress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Childress. Both girls will be formally presented to society with afternoon teas at their homes, to be followed shortly after with balls at the fashionable Chevy Chase club.

The launching of the debbies on the social seas will commence November 3 with an all debutante party given at the Mayflower hotel by Mrs. William Dunlop, Jr.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Henry J. "The circulation of this libel," Allen said "has been one of the most discreditable performances of the opposition in this campaign."

Fort Worth Bar Member Is Killed

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3.—(AP)—John W. Baskin, 58, well known Fort Worth lawyer, was killed today when the automobile he was driving collided with another on a narrow bridge near the city limits. Baskin's car was knocked from the bridge and fell into a creek 20 feet below.

The death of Baskin was the third fatality from automobile accidents here today. J. E. Malloy, carpenter, was killed about noon when the automobile in which he and his wife were riding was struck by an interurban. His wife died tonight from injuries received in the crash.

Baskin was county attorney of Tarrant county from 1910 to 1914.

CONGRESS MAY GET DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—A gain of not fewer than 30 and possibly as many as 60 in the Democratic membership of the house of representatives in next Tuesday's balloting, was predicted in a statement today by Rep. William A. Ooldfield, chairman of the Democratic national congressional committee.

This would mean Democratic control of the House of the 71st Congress by a margin of not fewer than 20 and possibly as many as 50 votes.

FARMERS ARE ADVISED TO HOLD CORN CROPS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Secretary Jardine in a statement today advised farmers to hold their corn and hogs, stating the opinion that market improvement "is likely before the end of the season."

The downward revision of the Rumanian crop estimates indicates that the European corn crop will be about 23 percent less than last year, he said, adding "this, together with comparatively high prices for Argentine corn should increase export demand for our corn at least until the New Argentine crop is available."

The domestic situation in the crop is similar to 1925, he said, but "it should be borne in mind that we have a very different foreign situation and that cattle are now much higher than they were three years ago."

SACCO-VANZETTI PARADE PARTICIPANTS ARRESTED

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Twenty-three men and women, including a 16-year-old girl high school student, were arrested here today while engaged in a Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration in front of the State House. They were charged with violation of city ordinances and later were released on bail.

The party, headed by Harry J. Cantor of Boston, candidate for secretary of state on the Workers' party ticket, had marched from Boston common where a meeting had been scheduled and, bearing placards, began a slow procession back and forth on the sidewalk in front of the capitol. State and municipal police, forward of the demonstration, were on hand and after permitting the demonstration to continue for ten minutes, arrested the participants.

THRILL SLAYERS

Held as slayers of two men and seven holdups committed for the thrill of it, these youths of Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Ga., are now awaiting trial. The boys, one of whom confessed, are Richard G. Gallogly (top) of Atlanta and George Harsh of Milwaukee. Harsh is said to have admitted firing the shots.

She Was on Zep's Return Hop

The only American woman on the homeward flight of the Graf Zeppelin was Mrs. Clara Adams, above, of Tannersville, Pa. Dozens of applications were received, but hers was one of the first six to be accepted. Fourteen of the original passenger list, including Lady Drummond-Hay, will return to Germany on the dirigible. Mrs. Adams is the wife of George L. Adams, retired merchant of Tannersville.

REPUBLICAN PROSPERITY DENIED BY JOHNSON

CORSICANA, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Closest his stumping tour, which has covered five states, here tonight Congressman Luther A. Johnson of Corsicana attacked the Republican party for its campaign arguments on prosperity and prohibition.

Johnson denied that the country was prosperous and quoted from magazine to support his contention that 50 per cent more banks had failed in the last eight years than in the administration of any recent president. He asserted that in the last eight years farmers had been subjected to a thirty-billion dollars loss in depreciations of land and machinery.

Governor Smith's enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the dry laws he declared could not possibly be worse than the enforcement of the country had known under Republican rule.

Held as slayers of two men and seven holdups committed for the thrill of it, these youths of Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Ga., are now awaiting trial. The boys, one of whom confessed, are Richard G. Gallogly (top) of Atlanta and George Harsh of Milwaukee. Harsh is said to have admitted firing the shots.

"YELLOW ICE" PUZZLING ENTRY ON DOCKET OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Police and interurban company employes can't understand why the name "yellow ice" is inscribed on the police blotter instead of a death certificate.

When an interurban car started a return trip to El Reno today, Mike Casey, station master, saw a man's foot sticking out from beneath the rear vestibule. He stopped the car and yelled for help.

RED CROSS QUOTA IS RAISED BY DIRECTORS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—James E. Flester, acting chairman of the American Red Cross today announced a budget of $4,798,000 for the fiscal year 1928-29, a substantial increase over past figures.

The increase is due to the enormous load of disaster relief work and to expansion of many branches of Red Cross service, Mr. Flester said. On the annual roll call to be conducted from Armistice day to Thanksgiving, a membership of 3,000,000 will be sought, an increase of virtually a million over the past year.

This total budget will be exclusive of all expenditures in the West Indies hurricane area, Florida and Porto Rico.

REPRESENTATIVE GARNER SCOUTS MORAL ISSUES

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Democrats have no cause to repudiate the old principles of the party because of a wet and dry issue congressman John M. Garner, of Texas, declared here tonight. Garner spoke in the municipal auditorium before an audience of 3,000.

He challenged the right of a voter to bolt his party on account of a religious issue and declared the constitution protected Governor Smith in his right to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience.

Campaign

York, 100 votes constitute the prize for which both sides have fought at close quarters. Hoover made three speeches in the region and Smith chose to end his campaign there in a driving finish. Enthusiasm has reached such a pitch that the Democrats claim outright New York's 45, Massachusetts' 18 and Rhode Island's five. They declare they have the better chance for Connecticut's seven, New Jersey's 14, Maryland's eight, New Hampshire's four and the eight of West Virginia.

Governor Smith himself has said he believes he will acquire the powerful 28 votes of staunchly Republican Pennsylvania, out that brings a smile at Hoover headquarters. As the Republicans see it, virtually the whole area is "in the bag" for Hoover. The only concession they make is that Smith gave them a flight in Massachusetts and Rhode Island but they insist they have the advantage there also, they are particularly anxious to sweep New York on the theory that without those 45 votes Smith would have no chance to win.

The wind-up of the nip and tuck race in the border states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Oklahoma finds the rival camps confident that the 33 votes there will be on the right side of the ledger. There again both candidates have had their say and there has been talk of waves of sentiment for one and then the other. Neither side is giving an inch of ground, and the more loudly the Democrats insist they will take at least three of the four, so do the Republicans counter with the same sentiment.

The Middle and Northwest The fres-for-all of the middle and northwestern farm belt, where both parties have been attentive to crumbling of discontent, would appear on the scratch pads at headquarters to be all over but the shouting. The figure experts have parceled out to their own satisfaction the 149 votes of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio, the Dakotas and Wisconsin.

Yes, Sir, That's My (Nominee, Manager)

The "happy warrior" and his campaign commandant here are shown on the latter's estate at Claymont, Del., where they planned the final Democratic drive through Maryland, New Jersey and New York. Al Smith, at the right, is without his brown derby, but National Chairman John J. Raskop is upholding the campaign tradition.

With the Hoover men appropriating nearly all of them and declaring that only a slight question now remained, has attached to Nebraska, Wisconsin and North Dakota, the Smith forces announce possession of or the better grasp on more than half the total votes of the eleven states. The 29 of Illinois lead the group and they with the 15 of Indiana, 13 of Minnesota, 12 of Nebraska, 11 of Wisconsin and five of North Dakota have received the keenest democratic attention. The endorsement of Smith by Nebraska's independent Republican Senator Norris is held up by the Democrats as a helpful influence throughout the whole territory, and it almost totally discounted by the opposition. The same ratio of importance has been attached to a similar endorsement by Wisconsin's Republican Senator Blaine.

The Far West In the Republican camp the expansive states of the far west are regarded as Hoover bulwarks, led by California with 12 votes, but there the Democrats have dug in and refused to be let out of the picture. They have made concentrated drives in the region and have been particularly hopeful of the three votes each of Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada, the four of Montana and the six of Colorado, there they are counting on Governor Smith's waterpower position in relation to Boulder Dam and the pulling power of Democratic senators up for re-election to give him victory. None of those states is relinquished by the Republicans, however. They insist they have unbreakable strings on them as well as the others of the group, Idaho with four votes, Oregon five, Washington seven and Wyoming three.

Democrats Predict Great Slide to Smith in Texas

DALLAS, Nov. 3.—(P)—Texas will give Governor Smith a larger majority than it gave Governor Miriam F. Ferguson in her race against Dr. Geo. C. Butte, W. A. Thomas, state Democratic campaign manager, predicted here tonight, basing his prediction on an assertion that there was a marked swing in feminine sentiment and among ministers to the Smith standard.

The Whole World Will Want to See "Lilac Time"

Because:

It is Colleen Moore's first super-special, the most popular box office star in the movies in the popular Broadway play.

It is the finest work of a great director, George Fitzmaurice, who made "The Barker", "The Dark Angel" and "The Night of Love."

It has handsome Gary Cooper, leading man of "Beau Sabreur" and "The Legion of the Condemned," as the hero.

It brings you a famous play from Broadway, by Jane Cowl and Jane Murnin.

It was put into continuity form by Carey Wilson, the man who did "Ben Hur" and "The Private Life of Helen of Troy."

It was produced by John McCormick, who knows more about producing box office pictures than perhaps any other one man on the West Coast.

It was made technically correct in its airplane fights by Lieut. Richard Grace of the Lafayette Escadrille, assisted by L. J. S. Scott of the Royal Flying Corps, and by Lieut. Robert de Couedic of the 114th French Flying Squadron.

See the picture at the Rex theatre and then buy the record at the Oden Music Shoppe.

ROUND OAK IS STOVE PICKED

Mrs. Lee Banks Owns First Gas Range Sold Here

The Pampa Hardware and Implement company, which is furnishing the Round Oak gas range for the Daily News free cooking school starting tomorrow, is proud of the fact that Mrs. Ihrig designated this stove for her demonstration work.

T. C. Lively, manager of the store was in Pampa when gas was first turned into the local mains. At that time he represented the distributors of Round Oak. He and R. B. Thompson, also with the company, sold the first gas range here. The satisfied owner is Mrs. Lee Banks.

When Mrs. Banks was asked about the stove, she said it looks today as good as new, despite the fact that it has been in constant use.

Health Hints

WASHINGTON (AP)—Young children in school are gaining distinct benefits from the increasingly careful health supervision exercised by education and public health authorities. Because of their close association with each other in large groups however they are unavoidably exposed to a number of communicable diseases which may prove more dangerous to younger brothers and sisters than to themselves.

Many parents, Public Health Service officials have observed, seem to look upon measles and whooping cough as necessary evils. Some, of course, know that these diseases are often fatal in infancy, but few appear to realize that, even after a child is two years old, an attack of either of these maladies may result in death.

Every mother and father, health authorities assert, should realize that it is not necessary to expose a child to the danger of death from diphtheria when protection is available through the simple use of the toxin-anti-toxin mixture or the toxoid preparation. Smallpox, they say, can be similarly prevented by vaccination, and means of controlling scarlet fever are being developed, while the use of serum obtained from convalescents is lowering the mortality rate from measles.

Children who have reached the school age have had time to develop greater resistance to these diseases than the youngsters of the two to five year group, but nevertheless continue to need a reasonable amount of protection for some years.

The precautions advised requires the aid of physicians, but the protection of restless little boys and girls from accidental injury rests largely with the parents alone. The tragedy of the small child burned to death or dying from poison left within reach falls annually upon more than 1,800 homes and 1,000 in the 2-5 year group are killed each year in automobile accidents, emphasizing the necessity for continuous vigilance on the part of parents in the care, training and protection of their youngsters.

It is the intention of the company to distribute Grayco gasoline, made by the Pampa Refining company here, within a radius of 30 miles of Pampa, or in the Pampa trade territory.

The company has a 400-gallon tank truck purchased and will begin operation immediately. Service stations will be developed to handle Grayco gasoline in the territory.

Company offices will be adjoining the Pampa Refinery two miles west of here on highway 33.

New Yorker on Schneider Staff

Henry Perrett of New York City has joined the clerical staff of the Schneider hotel, Alex Schneider announced yesterday.

Mr. Perrett's father was formerly one of the largest restaurant owners on Broadway. He operated the restaurant where Mr. Schneider, Jr., was first employed when he came to the United States from Switzerland.

It is a coincidence that Mr. Schneider has given Mr. Perrett his first job. He is a graduate of the University of Biel, Switzerland. Mr. Perrett wanted a taste of the west so came to Pampa. He is much impressed with the city and states he would rather be here than in New York.

Tom E. Rose left this morning for Dallas to join Mrs. Rose who will undergo an operation at the Baptist sanitarium in a few days.

Hints On Cooking Are Given by Expert Being Obtained by News

Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig who conducts the News Cooking School, Nov. 5-9 says:

To be master of the art of practical cookery, much study is necessary. Each year, it is well to invest some time in this study for cultural improvements.

Good cooks aren't born—they're made. Every woman can learn to be a good cook through a Cooking School in time to allow the legs to brown delicately.

Every woman who has to plan meals for herself or others needs occasional fresh inspiration for this important matter.

Knowledge of how to cook and what to cook is now a recognized science closely related both to happier life and to longer life. Every housewife solves so many of them for others and I am sure the News Cooking School will help you with yours.

Come to the cooking school and bring your whys along. All the above whys and many others will be answered and made plain, that she who comes may be the gainer thereby in money and time, health and comfort.

Rumania Torn by Loan Negotiations

BUCHAREST, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Rumania was thrown into acute political turmoil today in the sudden and drastic resignation of the Brihanu government on the eve of the conclusion of a $250,000,000 stabilization loan, in which American capital was to participate.

The crisis appears to have been precipitated by the regency council's desire that the National Peasant party, which constitutes 8 per cent of the voters in Transylvania, should participate freely in the celebrations Dec. 1 of Rumania's annexation of Transylvania.

The Peasants' party executives already had served an ultimatum on the regency that the party would have no dealings with the government in any form and would repudiate the stabilization loan if they came into power.

Attorney Doubts Burned Girl's Tale

LAKE BLUFF, Ill., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Doubt hung over the inquiry into the strange death of Elfrida Kudak today after the coroner's autopsy was completed and the seared body of the once attractive teacher and saleswoman was made ready for burial.

The story of self-sacrifice in a fire as whispered by the young woman in her dying moments was supported by the coroner's physician, Dr. C. A. Barnes, who announced the autopsy disclosed "no evidence of violence."

State Attorney A. C. Smith, however, was not convinced and said he would continue his investigation along the lines tending to show the young woman was either urged or aided by some one in the furnace room who witnessed or caused the immolation.

The McCauley family visited relatives at Spearman over the week-end.

Election Will Send New Faces to Senate for Next Congress

BY JAMES L. WEST
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Whichever way the political pendulum swings in November there will be a number of changes in the senate of the next congress, the seventy-first. One party or the other is destined to lose its floor leader, as both Charles Curtis, republican, and Joseph T. Robinson, democrat, are candidates for the vice presidency. So one must pass from active participation in legislative work on the floor to the more or less inactive role of presiding officer.

It is well qualified by a knowledge of the rules and experience in the chair for the job he seeks, but the mantle of silence probably would fit more snugly upon the shoulders of the phlegmatic Kansan than it would upon those of the fiery Arkansan, who dearly loves a scrap and who has demonstrated in many a rough and tumble debate that he can take care of himself in any argument.

Two familiar figures—James A. Reed of Missouri and George P. McLean of Connecticut—will be missing, voluntary exiles from the chamber where they have served so long.

Reed, feared in debate because of his withering sarcasm, and relentless prosecutor of many a senate investigation, elected to make his bid for the democratic presidential nomination. Having lost that, he will retire to his Kansas City home next March 4 to look after an extensive law practice which has made increasing demands upon his time in late years.

McLean, quiet, unobtrusive, seldom heard in debate, but nevertheless a power in the councils of the republicans, declined to become a candidate to succeed himself because of ill health. For the same reason at the opening session of the present congress he gave up the chairmanship of the powerful banking committee.

Two avowed drys—Charles M. Hay, democrat, from St. Louis and Roscoe C. Patterson, republican, of Springfield—are seeking the sea of the silver-haired veteran Missouri legislator who has been one of the most implacable foes of the Volstead act in the entire congress.

Frederick C. Walcott, republican, Norfolk, and Augustine Lonergan, democrat, of Hartford are the candidates for the seat which McLean's retirement to private life after the coming session will make vacant.

Besides the Missouri and Connecticut seats, 33 others are to be decided in the November elections in which will be decided whether the Farmer-Labor party is to retain its sole representative in the senate, Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota. He is opposed by Arthur E. Nelson, republican, and G. F. Cashman, democrat.

Three special elections are to be held—one in Idaho to name a senator to fill out the unexpired term of the late Frank R. Gooding, one in Illinois to fill the seat made vacant by the refusal of the senate to seat Frank Smith, who was defeated in the republican primaries last spring, and the third in Ohio to fill the place once held by Frank B. Willis, who died suddenly while campaigning for the republican presidential nomination.

John Thomas, republican, and Chase Clark, democrat, are the opponents in Idaho; Otis E. Glenn, republican, and A. J. Cermak, democrat, are running in Illinois, while the opposing candidates in Ohio are Theodore E. Burton, republican member of the house who would return to the senate, and Graham P. Hunt, democrat, who was nominated over Cyrus Locher, whom Governor Doherty appointed to succeed Willis pending an election.

Of the 29 other senate seats to be filled in November, 18 are held by democrats and 11 by republicans, and since only five of the democrats are from southern states the republicans expect to make some gains. Even if they capture all the seats they claim, however, they would fall short of a working majority with the republican independents still holding the balance of power.

All five of the democratic senators from eastern states are up for re-election, and the republicans are making concerted drives to unhorse them. David I. Walsh is running for the full term in Massachusetts; Peter G. Gerry is offering for re-election in Rhode Island; Royal S. Copeland again is a candidate in New York; Edward I. Edwards seeks to succeed himself in New Jersey, and Thomas F. Bayard again is a candidate from Delaware.

Six democrats in far western states also find their seats in contest—Henry F. Ashurst, in Arizona, who is opposed by former Senator Ralph H. Cameron; William H. King, in Utah; C. C. Dill, in the normally republican state of Washington; John B. Kendrick, veteran from Wyoming; Key Pittman, another veteran from Nevada, and Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

Two democrats from border states, M. M. Neely of West Virginia and William Cabell Bruce of Maryland, also seek re-election against strong opposition. Those who would return from the south are Claude A. Swanson of Virginia, Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, Huert D. Stephens of Mississippi and Park Trammell of Florida. The fifth southern seat in contest is held by Texas, where Rep. Tom Connally, who defeated Senator Earle B. Mayfield for the democratic nomination, is opposed by T. M. Kenierty, republican.

On the republican side four of the republican independents are in the field—LaPollete of Wisconsin, Frasier of North Dakota, Howell of Nebraska and Johnson of California. The regulars who would return are Fess of Ohio; Vandenberg of Michigan, Greene of Vermont, Hale of Maine, Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Indiana and Cutting of New Mexico.

MRS. LEONA RUSK IHRIG

"It takes more than good cooking alone to make a happy family," says Mrs. Ihrig, national economics expert who will conduct the Daily News Cooking School here this week.

"Sanitation is one of the most important factors to consider when the health and happiness of the family is at stake. Clean clothes are essential, and it is very seldom that we find the modern home equipped to laundry clothes as they should be.

"While in Pampa I will send all of my clothes to the Pampa Laundry, and I can readily recommend that the women of this city will be well pleased if they become a steady customer of this laundry."

Harvesters Turn Back Wheeler in Hard Game Friday, 27 to 6, With Offensive That Falters but Once

The Harvesters eliminated the last team before going into the semi-finals, by defeating Wheeler 27 to 6 Friday. Due to a heavy field and the cold weather, the game was slower than usual but provided plenty of thrills for the fans just the same.

Roberts, although having to go out of the game shortly after half-time on account of injuries, was the big ground gainer of the local squad, advancing the ball a total of 98 yards over the line of scrimmage. Walstad played his best game of the season despite an injured hand and gained a matter of 52 yards around the ends for the local squad, while Chastain netted a good 50 yards over the line. Saltzman was good for 27 yards, mostly around end, and Jones, 19.

Although Jones' yardage was not great, it came just at the right time to get results, being responsible for 6 of Pampa's 27 points. Tracy played a good game in spite of a sore neck that gave him considerable trouble. The local backfield rolled up 237 yards from scrimmage to 87 yards of the visitors. Considering the condition of the field it speaks mightily well for the Harvester back-field.

Green was the big ground gained for the visitors, with Captain Roper a close second.

Kahl Loses Toss

Bob Kahl, Harvester captain, lost the toss for the third time out of ten tries, and Wheeler elected to kick off. Roberts returned the ball from his 35 yard line to the 47 yard line. Due to the slippery field, Tracy got caught behind the line of scrimmage and was thrown for a four-yard loss. Roberts carried the ball through right tackle for seven yards, and through right guard for 3. On the fourth down, Kahl punted out of bounds on Wheeler's 35 yard line.

Two plays through the right side of the line netted Wheeler 3 1-2 yards. Irwin was injured and required time out, stayed in the game. On the third down Beene made 4 yards through right tackle, and tried to repeat for no gain, Wheeler losing the ball on downs on their 42-yard line.

Chastain and Roberts hit the left side of the line for gains of 2, 4, and 3 yards respectively, and Captain Kahl punted to Wheeler's 16 yard line. Roper made 3 yards around left end, and Green lost two of them in an attempt to repeat the play, and Wheeler punted to their 49-yard line.

Roberts Gains Steadily

Tracy went through right tackle for 2 yards, which Roberts followed up with a 10-yard dive through the same place for Pampa's first down. Wheeler was penalized 5 yards on an offside, and Roberts went through tackle for 3 yards. A criss cross that sent the ball 8 yards up the field gave Pampa another first down. Roberts gained 4 yards over right tackle and 5 over left guard. An attempt to go through right tackle failed to gain, and on the fourth down Roberts found a hole at right tackle that a truck could drive through, and galloped 16 yards for a touchdown. Stalls dropped the ball nicely through the bar for the extra point.

Stalls kicked off to the 10-yard line. Roper recovered and returned it to the 35, and after a line buck that fizzled punted to Walstad on Pampa's 44 yard line, as the whistle ended the first quarter.

On the first play, Pampa was penalized for being offside. Chastain threw a pass that was completed, for a gain of 8 yards. Kahl punted to the 24 yard line where the ball stopped without a return.

Offsides Frequently

Pampa was again penalized for offside on the first play. Green lost 2 yards trying to punch a hole through right tackle, and Wofford gained one of them back in left tackle. Roper attempted a pass to Green but but it was intercepted by Tracy who ran the ball back to the 33-yard line. Walstad made 11 yards around right end for a first down, Roberts carried the ball through left tackle for 6 yards and Chastain through the same hole for 3 1-2. Roberts made a gain of a yard for another first down. Wheeler's line tightened up and Chastain failed to gain. Pampa was again penalized on offside and Chastain's pass was intercepted.

Roper lost 7 yards when he was caught behind his own line by Stalls and punted to his 41 yard line. After an end run by Walstad, Saltzman was put in for Tracy and Jones replaced Chastain. Saltzman squirmed through right tackle for 6 yards and a fake punt gained another 5 yards for a first down. Saltzman went around right end for 6 yards, and Roberts plunged through right tackle for 4 and 3 yards respectively, again gave Pampa downs. Walstad and Roberts again hit off left tackle for gains of 5 and 6 yards. With 4 yards to go, Stalls made 3 yards off right tackle, and Roberts took the ball over the line to bring the score up to 13-0. Stalls missed the kick.

Stalls kicked off into the end zone and the ball was brought back to the 20-yard line. Green made 4 yards through left tackle and Wheeler punted to Pampa's 28-yard line on the third down. Walstad was caught behind the line and thrown for a two-yard loss. Saltzman failed to complete a pass. Jones was called back for a pass which Kahl picked out of the air for a gain of 14 yards as the whistle sounded.

During the third quarter, Wheeler outplayed the Harvesters and kept them in their own territory most of the time, scoring their 6 points. Stalls kicked off to the 20-yard line and Green recovered and returned it to the 35. Beene made 2 yards over left tackle and repeated for a gain of 4 yards.

Green and Roper made 3 yards over left guard for first downs on the 47-yard line. Two line bucks and an incomplete pass made only 4 yards and Wheeler punted to 13-yard line. Roberts gained over left guard and sprung down the field for a gain of 20 through right guard, rushing the ball to the 34 yard line. Pampa was penalized for offside on the first down, and Kahl kicked to the 50-yard. Wheeler then started a march down the field, a 13-yard pass and a series of line bucks carrying the ball to Pampa's 3 yard line. A pass, Roper to Green, pushed the ball across the line. Green's attempt for the extra point was blocked.

Wheeler kicked off to the 12-yard line. Chastain tucked the ball under his arm and sprinted to the 51 yard line before he was stopped. Walstad and Chastain failed to make ground over the line. Saltzman's pass was incomplete and Kahl's punt was blocked, and Wheeler took the ball on Pampa's 43 yard line at the end of the 3rd period.

Two drives through left tackle netted 6 yards. Roper then threw a pass that went wild. He tried again and this pass was intercepted by Walstad on the 24 yard line. He returned it to the 27 yard line. Jones made a 6 yard over left tackle and Chastain 4 through the same place for a first down. Walstad sprinted 14 yards around right end for a down. Saltzman checked up a 9 yard gain around left end, and Chastain 5 off left tackle. A series of line bucks netted only 5 yards and Kahl was forced to kick, punting to the 5 yard line. Wheeler punted to their 40 yard line on the first down. Walstad received and returned the ball to the 30 yard. Wheeler was penalized 15 yards for slugging, placing the ball on Wheeler's 13 yard line in Pampa possession. Stalls went around right tackle for 4 yards. Chastain lost the ball, but Jones recovered it and fell forward for a 6 yard gain. On the third down Jones dove through right tackle seven yards for a touchdown. Stalls made the extra point.

Stalls kicked off to the 23-yard line and Roper returned the ball to the 28. An incomplete pass cost a down and another attempted pass was intercepted by Saltzman. Walstad made 12 yards around right end for downs, and straight line bucking took the ball down to within striking distance for another touchdown. With 8 yards to go, Chastain dove through right tackle

Ohio State and Princeton Fight to Tie, 6 to 6

OHIO STADIUM, Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Princeton and Ohio State fought out a bitterly contested six to six tie today in a game marked by brilliant end medicine play. The Tigers scored first at the close of the third period when Ed Whitmer plunged six yards for a touchdown after Princeton had driven from the 33-yard line where Ohio State fumbled.

The Buckeyes came back in the fourth period with an offensive that resulted in the tying score when Byron Eby dashed 13 yards on a run outside his own left end, culminating an uninterrupted drive from mid-field.

Teachers Fail to Worry A. & M. in College Station

Town Football Team to Have Practice Monday

The first regular practice of the newly organized town football team will be held tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 at Fair Park on the Miami road. All who have not been personally notified are asked to be at the park on time. Up to this time, 40 games have been handed in and many men who have not been seen are expected to be out tomorrow. Several members of oil companies here have not been seen yet, but are expected to be out for the opening practice.

At least 25 of those who have signified their intentions of being out are college graduates. Many are graduates of the local high school with enviable records with the Harvesters. The team expects to have a game here next Sunday afternoon.

Among the local men who will be out for practice are: Jeff Lewter, Roy Lard, Troy Maness, Elmer Hardin, Weldon Wilson, Carl Stone, Charlie Duenkel, Herman Platter, D. B. Jameson, Clarence Barrett, Clarence Kennedy, Jimmie Olson, H. Cooper and others.

Redman Hume Is Out Early—Knee Sprain Suffered

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Southern Methodist university of Dallas, working most of the game without the aid of its premier scoring threat, Redman Hume, defeated Texas university 6 to 2 today in a toughly fought passing duel, which, but for a stonewall stand by the Methodists line near the game's end, might have ended in a tie or victory for Texas.

Consistently effective work by Love and Reed, mostly a deluge of passes turned the trick, while Texas, except in a few brief flashes, was unable to capitalize its triple threat, Shelley, and the line smashing Rufus King. Hume went out of the game early with a wrenched knee. Toward the last, a Texas drive put the ball within two inches of the Methodist goal but neither Perkins nor King could budge the Mustang line. The victory practically clinches the Methodists' chances for the conference title.

Hope for An Undefeated Slate Ruined by Baylor

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Texas Christian university's hope for an undefeated march to the Southwest conference championship was dashed today when an inspired Baylor university eleven defeated the Horned Frogs, 7 to 6.

An 80-yard run by Gilliland in the first quarter put the Bears in the lead and Potter's try for extra point hit an upright and fell through. The Horned Frogs counted in the second quarter when Toler dashed 95 yards through the entire Bruin defense. Atkins, Frog center, tried for a field goal from the 20-yard line but a Bear linebacker surged through and blocked the kick.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar T. R. White, and son, Todd, of Wichita, Kans., arrived Friday evening for an extended visit with Mrs. White's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Taylor.

MRS. IHRIG RECOMMENDS

Natural Gas

THE IDEAL COOKING FUEL

Modern appliances make natural gas the most flexible the most economical, as well as the most convenient cooking heat in existence. Natural gas can be regulated to the exact requirements of the cooking task in hand.

A clear blue flame is a clean and economical flame for cooking. By regulating the air shutter of the mixer, you can easily obtain this kind of flame—one that is steady and does not sputter or blow.

Do not permit your cooking burners to become dirty. They are easily cleaned, and clean burners mean a substantial saving both in gas and in kitchen drudgery—for it is dirty and improperly adjusted burners that cause cooking vessels to become black on the bottom.

The top of the gas burner should not be more than 1 1/4 inches below the bottom of your cooking vessel. A greater distance means loss of heat. A less distance means improper combustion and consequent waste.

Solid tops are wasteful. Let the gas perform its task without such interference. A solid top deflects the heat from your cooking vessel.

Remember that a gas flame is as hot the instant a match is touched to the burner as it is a half hour later. So do not light the gas until you are ready to start cooking.

When water has come to a boil, the fire should be turned down or the vessel moved to a smaller burner, and just enough heat should be applied to keep the water boiling. Water can not be made any hotter than boiling; consequently violent boiling does not hasten cooking. It merely causes needless evaporation of water and thereby wastes gas.

The Central States Power and Light organization stands ready at all times to cooperate with you to the end that you may use gas more efficiently and economically.

Varner to Meet Speedy Sparks in Thursday Tilt

The biggest boxing card of the season will be held at the Pla-Mor Thursday night when Walter Varner of Roxana and Pampa, meets Speedy Sparks, Lawton welterweight, in a ten-round bout. The battle promises to be one of the best of the season.

Varner and Sparks met three years ago and fought to a draw. They have both improved since then and are out to see which is the best. With victories over Jock Malane, Eddie Kline, and Tommp Burnes, the Lawton boy is liable to give Varner a surprise.

The local boy is as well known here as Jack Dempsey is in California. He has met and defeated the best, having two draws with Freddie Whittington to his credit. The winner of the Sparks-Varner bout will be matched with Whittington at a later date.

For a semi-final Speedy Snow is matched against Fighting Joe Lamb of Houston, who comes recommended as a good boy. Snow got a victory over Rusty Cahill, pride of Pampa, last Thursday night.

The other feature bout of the evening will bring together two negro boys. Calvin Jones of Fort Worth will meet "Dog Face" Ed, the local slugger.

Good preliminaries will open the evenings entertainment.

When Yale Saw Too Much "Red" Cagle

If Christian Keener Cagle has many more football exhibitions in his system like the one he gave against Yale recently, there won't be any keeping him off the All-American squad. Mr. Cagle was an All-American back last year and this action scene of the Yale-Army game shows he means to gain that honor again. Cagle is shown here, indicated by the arrow, on his first long jaunt around the Yale defense. This run was for 52 yards and touchdown. He made another later in the game for 73 yards and touchdown.

Milton Stock to Manage Steers in Coming Season

DALLAS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Milton Stock, former major league infielder and for the last two seasons pilot of the Mobile club of the Southern association, has signed a one-year contract as manager of the Dallas Steers at the highest salary ever paid a Texas league manager. President Fred McJunkin of the local club announced today. The exact sum was not divulged.

Stock, who spent 12 years in the major leagues, mostly at third base, will assume charge March 1 when candidates for the team assembled here for spring training. Definite assurance that he will pilot the Steers terminates a search that has been going on since Bert Ellison was deposited in the middle of the past season.

Grid Receipts at Kansas U. $5,000 Stolen Saturday

LAWRENCE, Kans., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Robbers entered the office of the director of athletics at the University of Kansas late today and escaped with between $4,000 and $5,000, proceeds of the Kansas-Nebraska homecoming football game here today. Howard Crutler, financial secretary of the University Athletic association and three of his assistants took the proceeds of today's sale of tickets from the ticket booth at the stadium to the athletic office between halves of the game.

Southwestern too Much for Rice, Winning 14 to 6

HOUSTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Southwestern Pirates defeated Rice here Saturday, 14 to 6. The Pirates, taking advantage of faulty punting by Owl backs, scored twice in the second period to wipe out a touchdown lead the Owls had piled up in the first period of play.

Roberts Out of Football—Rib Is Broken Friday

Skeef Roberts, star fullback of the Harvester squad, will probably be lost to his team for the rest of the season, according to his physician, Dr. R. A. Webb. It may be that he will get into the final games of the season. Roberts sustained a fractured rib Friday afternoon in a game with Wheeler. While carrying the ball in the third period, Roberts was tackled about the neck by two big Wheeler players who threw him to the ground and fell on him. According to Dr. Webb, who was immediately opposite Roberts at the time of the accident, he fell on the point of the ball breaking the second rib on the left side.

The star will be missed from the line-up, as he was the leading scorer on the Harvester team. In the ten games in which he has played this season, Roberts has scored 90 points for the locals and was instrumental in the scoring of 72 points.

Coach Mitchell will develop Chastain to fill Robert's place in the backfield. Although a freshman, Chastain has shown as much as any man on the team this season. He is tricky, fast, and hard to stop. He hits the line hard and squirms far before being stopped.

Gas Trouble Is Believed Remedied

Manager M. P. Donahue of the Central States Power and Light company announced yesterday that the gas situation of Friday had been remedied and that unless an unforeseen emergency arose no further trouble would be experienced this winter. The cold spell which struck the city during Thursday night and Friday morning caused a great shortage in gas pressure in the outlying additions.

Pressure has been increased and loose ends of mains connected to improve the service, and this morning gas was plentiful.

Great Run Wins for Arkansas Over Louisiana, 7-0

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Arkansas defeated Louisiana State university 7 to 0 here today, a spectacular 55-yard run for a touchdown breaking what apparently was a hopeless deadlock.

Dale, who usually confines his scoring efforts to kicking, pulled a Louisiana State pass out of the air just at the end of the third quarter and raced fifty-five yards for the only touchdown of the game. He added the extra point with the placement route.

"There is probably no one single industry in a city that can be as helpful as a modern-equipped machine shop. Many people do not realize that the modern machinery shops can be so helpful, but when a piece of machinery breaks it is to the machine shop we turn for help.

"I was indeed surprised to find a first-class modern shop in Pampa like the Jones-Everett Machine Co. Many times I have had occasion to point out instant relief to men and women who did not realize the importance of first-class shops.

Mrs. Hunkapillar Granted Temporary Release as President of A. A. U. W.; Is Succeeded by Mrs. M. A. Finney

Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, who has been president of the A. A. U. W. and Pampa College club since its organization last spring, yesterday was granted an indefinite release from her official duties by the club. Mrs. Hunkapillar had tendered her resignation through the executive board, because of ill health. In granting the release instead of accepting her resignation, the club accorded Mrs. Hunkapillar a rising vote of thanks for her inestimable service to the organization.

Mrs. M. A. Finney, first vice-president, became acting president upon Mrs. Hunkapillar's temporary retirement. She has served the club with distinction as chairman of the membership committee. She represented it at the sectional convention of A. A. U. W. in Fort Worth last spring, and was one of the delegates to the recent state convention in Amarillo. Mrs. Finney is a national member of A. A. U. W. and is a graduate of the University of Arkansas.

In the business session held yesterday in conjunction with the monthly luncheon, the club went on record as favoring two amendments to be voted upon Tuesday: The amendment to create a state board of education, and the amendment to make possible longer, overlapping terms for school trustees. The Texas division of the American Association of University Women, it will be remembered, has taken its major goal for the year the improvement of the standards of rural education in the state.

The luncheon program consisted of a lecture on Marriage and Career, by Mrs. James Todd; a humorous reading, The Wedding, by Mrs. Carson Loftis; and a report of the state convention by the secretary, Miss Wilma Chapman.

Mrs. Todd opened her interesting address by saying she believed that regardless of whether or not a woman had ambitions for a career outside the home, the natural desire and inclination for companionship should not be denied; that every woman should marry. She then discussed the possibilities of a home or a career; a home and a career; and a career in the home. She stressed the point that every woman should follow her natural talents in selecting her life work, and that if her talents are for home-making, she may have as distinguished a career in her field as does the woman who is highly accomplished and highly paid in a profession.

At the close of the program, year books were distributed to the members.

American Legion Auxiliary Installs Three New Officers

New officers of the American Legion Auxiliary were installed Thursday afternoon in an impressive ceremony at the Legion home. Mrs. J. A. Pearson, a past president, presided at the service, installing as president, Mrs. R. A. Webb; vice-president, Mrs. S. A. Burns; and chaplain, Mrs. Willard E. Taylor. Mrs. W. E. De Cordova, secretary-treasurer, who was absent from the meeting because of illness, and other officers who could not be present will be installed at a later meeting.

In a business meeting following the installation service, the Auxiliary made plans for work during the fall and winter months. On Saturday preceding Armistice Day, the members will sell poppies, it was decided. They will send a box to a local veteran who is in a hospital at Sulphur, Okla.

Plans were made for two benefit social affairs to raise funds for assisting disabled veterans and their families. One will be given shortly before Thanksgiving, it was said, and the other before Christmas.

BOTH PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEES WORKED WAY UPWARD

HOOVER'S DAD A BLACKSMITH

Both G. O. P. Leaders Orphaned Early, However

BY ROBERT TALLEY NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Nobody back in the tiny hamlet of West Branch, Ia., 50 years ago ever dreamed that Herbert Hoover, the barefoot little orphan whose father had been the village blacksmith, would ever be a nominee for president of the United States.

And likewise nobody back in Topeka, Kas., 80 years ago ever dreamed that 18-year old Charlie Curtis, another orphan, who had a good job as a hack driver and was studying law in his spare time would ever be urged for vice president of the United States.

Yet, soon these two orphans who fought their way upward in the world may be elected to the highest offices within the gift of the American people.

It is a story without parallel, a story of triumph, that is possible only in a land where freedom, equality and opportunity prevail—a story that is in keeping with the finest of American traditions.

The careers of Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis have been strangely alike—and strangely dissimilar.

Each was an orphan boy, bereft of both mother and father at a tender age; each fought his own way to fame with little aid; each mastered his opportunities, rose to every occasion, climbed the ladder of success by his own efforts.

Their goal was the same—but their routes thereto were vastly different.

The orphaned Hoover came up by a route that brought him a college education, a world-wide reputation as a mining engineer and wealth almost beyond the dreams of avarice.

The orphaned Curtis struggled his way from an Indian reservation through a career as a jockey, a hack driver, a self-educated lawyer, a county prosecutor, a congressman and a senator of slender means.

Curtis has spent almost a lifetime in politics; the first and only office that Hoover ever ran for was that of president.

The curtain rose on the life of Herbert Clark Hoover in a clapboard cabin on a scrubby farm in rural Iowa on Aug. 10, 1874. His father—a powerful bear of a man—was Jesse Hoover, a farmer, who also ran a blacksmith shop at the village of West Branch. Both of his parents were devout Quakers, sober of mien and stern of speech.

Before young Hoover was 10 years old both his father and his mother had died. For a time he lived with relatives on a nearby farm and then when he was 10, an uncle took him to Oregon. There, young Hoover worked on his uncle's real estate office, for the Oregon land boom was on.

Lured by the tales of a roving mining prospector who chanced that way when he was entering young manhood, Hoover decided to become a mining engineer. His savings were small but Leland Stanford University was just opening down in California so he went there and worked his way through. He waited on tables, collected laundry for fellow students, managed a college lyceum bureau and did almost anything else that would turn an honest penny.

After graduation Hoover worked as a day laborer in California mines to gain experience and then went to work in the office of Louis Janin, a famous mining engineer. Janin recommended him to a London firm of mining engineers and, in 1897, the latter sent him to Australia to take charge of its gold mines there.

A couple of years later, on one of his brief trips to the United States, he married Miss Len Henry, who had been a classmate at Leland Stanford. They were the first and only sweethearts each ever had.

Entering business for himself, Hoover began developing mining properties in China, India, Burma and other far-away lands. Fortune smiled on his enterprises and he became a man of tremendous wealth.

The outbreak of the World War found Hoover as his office in London. The story of his career from that day on is too well known to need repetition in detail here.

Briefly, it is the story of a genius who organized the Belgian Relief Commission that fed eight million homeless souls through weary years of war that spent $17,000,000 a month employed 50,000 workers operated its own ships, flew its own flag and issued its own passports.

Briefly, it is the story of the man whom President Wilson called home in 1917 to become food administrator of the United States—who imposed "Meatless Tuesdays," "Wheatless Wednesdays" on a free people and, what is more, made them like it.

It is the story of a man who, in the trying days just after the war, conquered famine in devastated Europe by feeding whole nations and spent more than $600,000,000 for supplies at an overhead cost of less than one-half of one per cent.

It is the story of a man whom President Coolidge called to take charge of relief operations in the Mississippi Valley in the spring of 1927, when 600,000 were made homeless by floods.

It is the story of a man who, as secretary of commerce, has saved American industry many millions by standardization of manufacture and other economies.

His constructive achievements stand out as among the greatest ever accomplished by one man in all history.

Of less magnitude, but even more colorful, has been the career of Senator Curtis, the next vice president.

Of Indian ancestry on his mother's side he was born on an Indian reservation in Kansas in 1880. Before he was three his mother died, and his father—Capt. Orren A. Curtis, a trader who had come west from Indiana—died soon after.

For a time young Curtis lived with his father's parents in Topeka, but at the age of five he went back to the Kaw reservation, 60 miles away. There he lived with his Indian grandmother in her tepee, played with the Indian boys and attended an Indian mission school.

He might have been an Indian yet if, one day in 1888, a band of marauding Cheyennes had not attacked the reservation of the friendly Kawas.

Young Curtis, then eight years old, was a fast rider and could speak both English and Indian, so the beleaguered Kawas chose him to gallop to the cavalry post at Topeka for help. He slipped through the Cheyennes' lines and summoned the soldiers, who chased the raiders away.

Curtis didn't go back to the Indians. Instead, he made his home with his father's people for a time and then became a jockey, riding at Kansas race tracks before he was 10.

When increasing weight finally ended his days as a jockey, he sold candy and peanuts around the railroad station at Topeka and later worked in a livery stable. Next, he got a job driving a hack.

It was while he was a hack driver that Curtis studied law, often reading his lawbooks by the light of the oil lamps on his cap as he waited for fares. A sympathetic lawyer finally took the youth into his office.

At 21, Curtis was admitted to the bar and at 25 (in 1888) he got his first political job when he was elected as a county prosecutor. In 1892 he was elected to Congress and served seven terms. In 1912 he was elected to the Senate, in 1914 he was re-elected and has since served there. He was named Republican floor leader upon the death of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

Such is the story of the two orphans, Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis, who have struggled their way upward through lean and bitter years in two offices that the nation can bestow.

It is an epic of personal achievement, proof of the real opportunity that beckons to the young men of every generation in a land where all men are born equal; it is thoroughly in accord with the finest traditions of America.

Business Conditions in U.S.A.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Trade and industry generally moved at an accelerated pace during September and the early part of October says Frank Greene in his monthly review of business conditions in Nation's Business Magazine, published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Cooler weather and the practical fruition of good crops without frost damage were the two main factors contributing to this improvement.

ests which had reaped profits from a jump in prices in mid-September, this including marketing in excess of needs were forced to accept heavy cuts ranging, by early October, from $1.00 to $2.50 for cattle and hogs with lower prices also for lambs. Heavy cuts in dressed meats, especially in pork loin, which fell to 17 to 24 cents from 25 to 35 cents per pound. Dressed lambs were also noted also fell.

"In foreign trade the feature in August was the small gain, one per cent in export all of this due to increased exports of manufactured goods, automotive lines, agricultural implements and other machinery leading. Exports of foods, especially grain, showed lessened totals while crude materials, mainly cotton, also moved in reduced volume and value.

"September failures fell 4.8 per cent from a year ago but this has not greatly affected the year's total which is still slightly in excess of a year ago. Liabilities showed a perpendicular drop, mainly because the stream of bank failures seems to have dried up as compared with recent years.

"Following two advances and two declines in the four preceding months commodity prices declined one per cent in September from August, and about the same extent from October 1 a year ago and from October 1 five year average, with weakness in live stock prices, about offsetting advances in grain, the big feature.

"The situation in world's wheat supplies does not see anything in interest with the passage of the month. What is said to be a record high aggregate of world production, certainly a new high United States and Canadian output, has resulted in a new high aggregate of visible supplies for the two countries combined."

CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN CHURCH "What Do You Believe, And Why? or The Creeds of Christendom In The Light of Scripture" will be a series of lectures beginning tonight at 7 o'clock. The creed of the Roman Catholic church will be discussed tonight, and that of the Lutheran church next, that of the Episcopal church, and each in order as the various leading creeds and confessions of faiths came into existence.

There is much discussion throughout the world today concerning the possible uniting of dividend Christendom. In order that this may be brought about a better understanding of the differences must be had. To this end this special Sunday evening lecture course has been planned, and all who are interested are cordially invited to attend. A kind and friendly spirit will be maintained throughout the course of lectures.

Possibly no other faith is discussed as much and as little understood as that of the Roman Catholic church. As all of the religious bodies of Christendom are an outgrowth of the Roman Catholic church it is logical to discuss first the Creed of Trent to night.

The church school assemblies promptly at 9:45 this morning with departments for the entire family. The morning service is at 10:45, and the minister will be in the pulpit at the hour with a timely and helpful discourse from the Word of God?

The three young people's meetings are at 6 o'clock, also the monthly meeting of the official board. The evening service begins at 7:00 o'clock throughout the winter months. JAMES TODD, Jr., Minister

NEWSBOY NOW PARTY'S LEADER

Smith Fought Obstacles Long—Robinson Was Plowboy

BY ROBERT TALLEY NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—It's a far cry from the sidewalks of New York to the cotton fields of Arkansas, but there began the careers of two men who may be elected to the two highest offices in the nation.

It is the story of the newsboy and the plowboy—the story of Alfred Emmanuel Smith and Joseph Taylor Robinson.

Their triumph is one almost without parallel in American history and in full accord with the nation's glorious traditions of equal opportunity for all men born within its borders.

Not even a fiction writer in his wildest dreams would have imagined that timber for president of the United States could be found in the teeming swarms of humanity that lived under the shadow of the Brooklyn bridge on New York city's East Side in the '70's.

South street, flanking East river, was lined with dirty wharves and piers where ships from all over the world discharged their cargoes. There were sailors' boarding houses, saloons flourishing on every corner, lines of washing fluted from tenement windows then as now.

Of equal improbability was the chance of anyone looking for a future vice president in the backwoods section of Lonoke county, Arkansas.

Cotton plants raised their fleecy heads between mite-muddy furrows, driven with a single plow and led through which the mules had been commanded to "gee" and "haw." A stranger was in object of curiosity and the infrequent visit of a one-ringer wagon on a circuit to the river bottom country was an event long to be remembered.

It was on the fourth floor of a tenement house at 174 South street that Al Smith was born on Dec. 30, 1873. His father was Alfred E. Smith, Sr., a teamster, a brawny lion of a man, poor in money but rich in riches. His mother was Catherine Mulvehill, recently come from Ireland, who had a brother on the fire department.

Family finances were much too lean, so by the time young Al was big enough to be trusted out alone he was New York's East Side. It was during these years that he got the scant education he obtained, for the press of family finances forced him to quit St. James' parochial school when he was 15, and seek a job. He never went back.

From office boy in an oil company's office, young Smith passed, at 18, to a clerk in the old Fulton fish market. There he scolded, cleaned and sold fish for 12 hours a day for $12 a week.

In those days, as now, Tammany Hall flourished. Tom Foley, ward boss, attracted by the young man's remarkable ability as an amateur actor at church theatricals, took him under his wing. And thus began the political career of Al Smith.

When he married Miss Catherine Dunn in 1890 she was already on the city payroll as a subpoena server at $75 a month.

Three years later Foley groomed him as a candidate for the New York assembly—or legislature. Elected, he left New York city for the first time to go to Albany with his pasteboard suitcase, a brown derby, a loud suit and a louder tie.

Smith served through various terms with increasing distinction until he was finally elected speaker of the assembly. Republican victories in 1914 forced him out, but in 1915 he became sheriff of New York county—a fat fee job, said to have paid $150,000 a year. There is a rumor that Tammany Hall demanded half of this amount, but it is unprovable. He served two years and profited handsomely.

In 1918 Smith was elected to the first of his four terms as governor of New York. With the exception of the two years during which he was forced out by the Harding landslide of 1920, he has continued to hold that office.

The first mention of Smith's name as a presidential possibility brought cheers at the Democratic convention in San Francisco in 1920. Four years later Smith and William Gibbs Millard engaged in the historic deadlock at Madison Square Garden. Last summer, when the Democrats met at Houston—PARTY'S LEADER, pg. 3

Unnecessarily Busy

Beginning tomorrow, the "force" of the Daily News will begin work at 7 a. m., daily in order to put the paper on the street earlier.

The "force" thought it entitled to some praise from local business men, in addition to cooperation, since an earlier paper means more circulation for the ads.

His idea is that early rising makes for thrift, gives one more leisure time, and encourages keeping of saner hours.

It is true that Americans spend too much time in their routine affairs and devote too little to hobbies, personal recreation of the healthful sort, and give too little attention to the cultural pursuits.

The nation would be better off if most of its residents gave half a day each week to recreation in which everyone would have a part.

It is also true that the average American business man thinks too much of his own recreation, and because his relations with himself, his associates, and his customers, are strained.

But, since these observations started with mention of newspapers, perhaps it is just as well to add that newspaper men will continue to work tirelessly for the public.

The Vigilante Idea: Banditry constitutes a grave offense against society and justifies the hostility of every law-abiding citizen.

Speeding in residential districts constitutes a dangerous offense against society, but its importance does not usually bring about the vigilante phase.

Down in Dallas, however, traffic vigilantes are being recruited for work in districts which the cops rarely penetrate.

A committee of 250 men and women is being organized under the direction of Police Commissioner Clarence S. Parker to observe and report traffic regulations. When a driver has been reported several times by the vigilantes, his name will be given to police, who will watch until they catch him red-handed in traffic violations.

Some will call it spying, and others will agree that it constitutes a very proper participation of citizens in their own public affairs.

Robert Lansing

Robert Lansing, war-time secretary of state under Wilson, who died this week, was a very great student of the Bible, a brilliant lawyer, and an able and courageous diplomat.

As a cabinet member, however, he was very nearly a total loss.

Not from any lack of brilliance or ability, it is true; but he couldn't cooperate with his chief. When Wilson lay sick, and rumors of his impending death were floating about, together with a lot of whispers about the president's mental condition—when Wilson reached the very depth of his physical and spiritual travail, his secretary of state, instead of standing by his chief and fighting off the enemies of the great man—instead of protecting his stricken boss from the "slings" and arrows of outrageous fortune—Robert Lansing called a meeting of the cabinet, without color of authority.

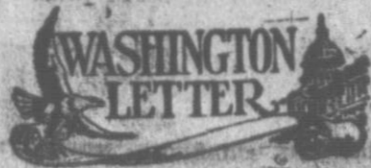

That was the breaking point. Wilson, in the language of the street, told Lansing where to get off. And Lansing got off.

A great man, Lansing, but lacking in one quality which is inseparable from true greatness—the ability to take orders and remain loyal, no matter what happens.

Had his loyalty to Wilson been greater than his seeming willingness to listen to Wilson's enemies, he might have gone down in history as one of the truly great statesmen of his time. As it is, his chief claim to fame is his remarkable grasp of the Bible and his "Bible student."

When those Wheeler boys passed through our Harvesters for a touchdown and threatened to repeat, we were not shaking merely with the cold. But it was a g-r-r-a-a-n-d and g-l-o-r-i-o-u-s feeling a few minutes later when our scoring machinery got to working.

The Graf Zeppelin hit a bad storm going back over and nearly gave its passengers a bath. So we suppose we can class that stowaway as an adventurer.

WASHINGTON — Regardless of betting odds and straw votes, there can be no certainty of the election result on Nov. 6.

The Republican habits of the country give Hoover the edge, but the cross-currents developed in this campaign that prediction becomes impossible.

Smith may win, though not by any large majority. If there is a landslide this year Herbert Hoover will be found riding on top of it. Most of the signs favor Hoover. But the trustworthiness of the traditionally accepted signs has never been so doubtful.

Thus Republican confidence of victory is found to be a nervous sort of expectancy. The Democrats, who started with little more than a whispering hope, are not confident of victory but are convinced that by election day they will have an even chance.

The result will be counted in electoral votes, of which there are 531. Between 175 and 200 of these are now allocated by most impartial estimators to Hoover. It is generally thought that Smith is sure of the 114 votes of the solid south. The election will be decided by those states which may be broadly classed as doubtful.

Obviously, Smith's task has been far more difficult than Hoover's. Hoover needs only half as many votes among the states of which neither candidate is sure as Smith must have to win. Many forecasters have figured that the indications, if any, appeared to give Smith no better than an even break in a group of states which appeared to be "leaning" one way or the other.

Smith's opportunity may perhaps best be described as an excellent fighting chance. Except for Wilson, he has the best chance of election of any Democrat since Grover Cleveland, in the opinion of the keenest political thinkers. Most of the others, of course, now appear to have had no chance at all. And it is important to point out that they were regarded as beaten before they started not only in many of the states now considered doubtful, but in others which Smith is expected to carry. Bright or dim, the existence of Smith's opportunity is best demonstrated by the fact that so many states this year are "doubtful".

It seems safe to give Hoover for purposes of this story, California, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Washington and Wyoming. He probably will also carry Colorado, Illinois, Utah, New Hampshire and West Virginia. That would give him 208 electoral votes, 58 short of election. If he loses any appreciable number of those 208 votes it will be evidence of a decisive trend toward Smith which cannot now be discerned.

The other states, outside the "solid south" are Connecticut, Kentucky, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, New York, Tennessee, Rhode Island, New Mexico, Maryland, Arizona, Delaware, Massachusetts, Missouri, Montana and Nevada. A large field from which Hoover has to get his 58. He could get them from Massachusetts, Missouri, New Jersey, and Nebraska if he carried those states among the 19 named.

There are other combinations of states which might be suggested, showing that in these so-called doubtful states Smith must make a real clean-up in order to win.

Today's simile: He acts like the kind of man who will listen to a good joke without laughing, then tell it to some one else and laugh louder than his listeners.

It is perhaps fortunate that few judges of beauty or taste judge others by themselves.

Party's Leader...

ton he was re-elected overwhelmingly. Less colorful but equally dramatic in the vice-president nomination. He was vice president of the party.

One of a family of 10 children, seven of whom are still living, Senator Robinson was born Aug. 26, 1872, on a farm near Lonoke, Ark. His father was Dr. James Robinson, who had come down from New York state.

Like other boys of his age and time Robinson toiled long hours on the farm. The muds that dragged the plow through the cotton fields were splashed on his shirt and not unblinded until they were ready to be ridden back to the barn at sunset.

In winter after the crops were laid by, he attended a one-room country school. An apt student, he was teaching in a country school himself by the time he was 17. The family purse was strained to send him to the University of Arkansas for two years and then to the University of Virginia for two years more, where he graduated at law in 1894.

Politics beckoned to him immediately, and the same year he was elected to the Arkansas legislature. The following year he married Miss Evilda Gertrude Miller and began the practice of law.

In 1902 he was elected to Congress and there he served until 1913. He retired when elected governor of Arkansas, and less than a fortnight later the Arkansas legislature elected him as United States senator. He resigned the governorship and went to the Senate where he has since remained. When Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama retired several years ago he became the Democratic floor leader.

Physically the biggest and strongest man in the Senate, Senator Robinson is an ardent golfer, hunter and outdoor enthusiast. His courage in unexplored territory is a high one; he once knocked down a prominent Washington physician after a brief argument on a golf course. He has never dodged a fight, either physically or oratorical.

One of the most heated moments in Robinson's career came last winter when he made a speech defending the Catholic church against the bitter onslaught of Senator Tom Heflin, Alabama. It was one of the most dramatic episodes in the long history of the Senate featured by one of the greatest speeches in behalf of religious tolerance that the historic chamber has ever heard.

Friona Seeking County Seat of Parmer County

PARWELL, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Friona citizens, attempting to have the county seat of Parmer county moved from Farwell, have presented a petition bearing 300 names to the county judge asking an election to determine if the site shall be changed.

Farwell, on the western line of the county, has been the county seat for a number of years. Since neither Friona nor Friona are centrally located a two-thirds majority vote will be required to make the change.

Herbert Hoover, Cotton Grower, Is South's Friend

COMMUNIZED Texas Democrats, frightened because hundreds of thousands of real Democrats have refused to follow Al Smith in his bolt from real Democracy, are spreading the most ridiculous charges about Herbert Hoover. One of them is the charge that the election of Hoover will depress cotton prices and ruin the cotton farmer.

These frantic politicians did not know that Herbert Hoover is a practical and successful cotton grower, that he is helping to solve cotton problems and is as interested as any Texas cotton raiser in a fair price for cotton.

Here are three pictures of the famous Hoover Farm, near Bakersfield, California, where Herbert Hoover actually puts into experiment and success his plans for farm relief.

The views show cotton being raised on the Hoover Farm. Hoover is a successful cotton raiser and will help the South solve the cotton problems in which it is interested.

HERBERT HOOVER is the friend of the South, whose genius is solving the age-long flood menace on the Mississippi and other rivers; who marvelously organized the production of America that American and Allied soldiers might have food and the peoples of the world might live; who stood by Woodrow Wilson and the nation in war and has served his country in peace as well.

In Herbert Hoover, Texas has its first chance to vote for a practical cotton grower for President of the United States.

Guiding Your Child

BY MRS AGNES LYNE

Some conscientious mothers try to fix habits of punctuality, orderliness and cleanliness by standing over their children daily and never once allowing them to slip from perfection in these matters.

The theory is that if children are made to go through the proper motions again and again, these will become set as a part of their behavior.

Old fashioned educators had the same idea. "Practice makes perfect" was written in the copy book three hundred times. But, alas, the scrawl at the end was generally worse than the first attempt. For practice alone will never make perfect.

It is a recognized fact of psychology that the feelings which accompany any action which the act itself makes on the individual's mind. It is equally true that experiences which are pleasant are remembered and repeated, while those which are unpleasant are forgotten as speedily as possible.

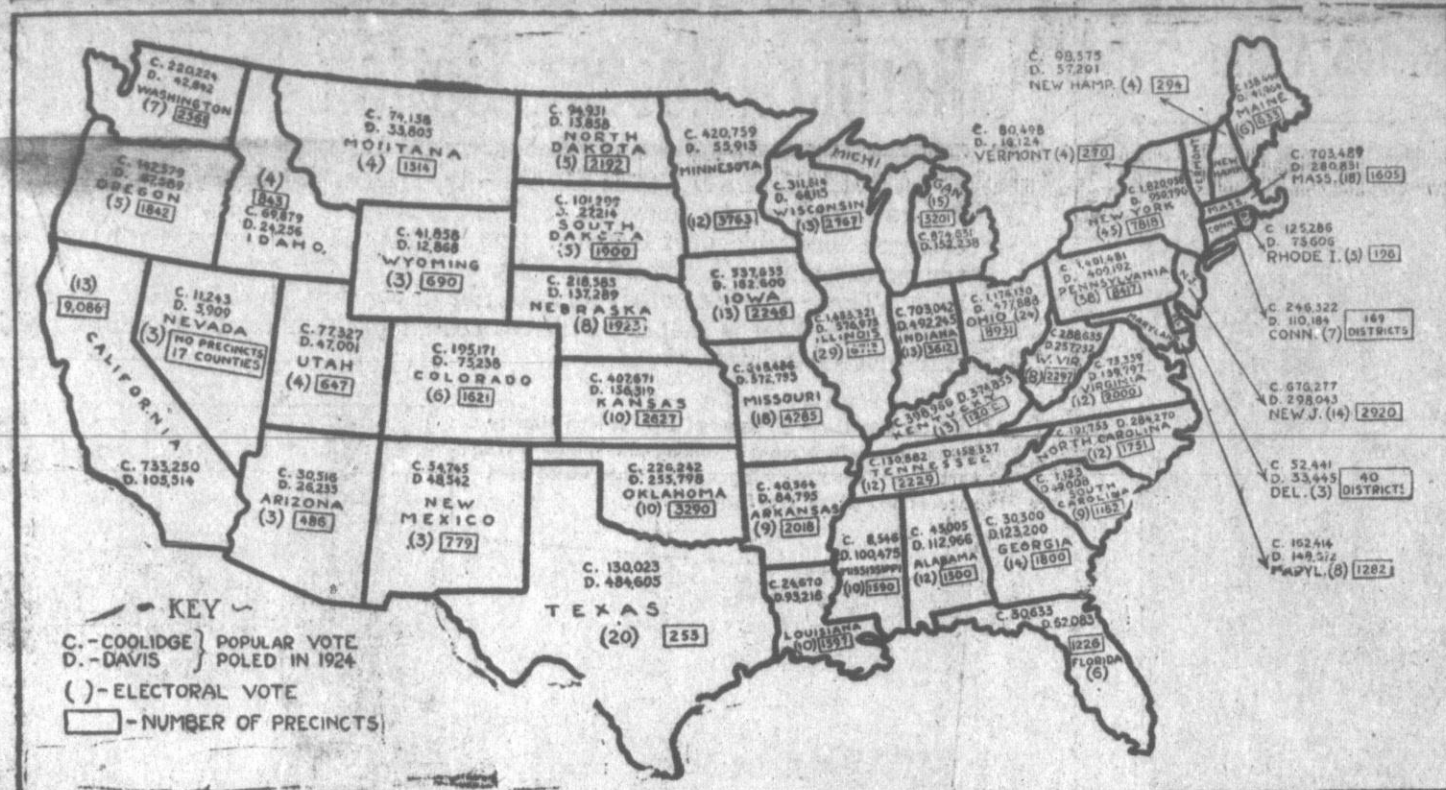

The mother who insists on the performance of certain tasks without trying to make the child enjoy either the tasks themselves, or the good results they bring in achievement and parental approval, will reap no harvest for all her painstaking effort.

In a certain reformatory the girls were made to keep their rooms in a state of inhumanly shining cleanliness, habits which would make good wives and housekeepers of them later on. Unfortunately the polishing and scrubbing was done under such unhappy conditions of discipline and restraint that the moment these girls went out into the world the only sort of life which attracted them was one free from all domestic duties. For them cleanliness and orderliness in living had become the symbols of frustration and drudgery.

When we try to teach our children good habits we must be sure that with our insistence on regularity of performance there goes the joy of approval and accomplishment.

NEW YORKER AT LARGE

BY G. D. SEYMOUR

NEW YORK—A retired Boston business man of means desired to respond in an unusual way to the felicitations of his friends upon the eighty-fifth anniversary of his birth. So he came down to New York on his birthday and delivered a brief speech at a phonograph company. Records were made of it, and one was sent to his friends in acknowledgment of their good wishes.

A cornet maker who is himself a trumpeter of ability has records of his own rendition of songs made at each holiday season to send to his customers with his Christmas greetings. A woman Spiritualist leader of Pennsylvania helps to record the teachings of her faith by making phonograph records containing hymns and talks. Four or five thousand such records have been disseminated among Spiritualists all over the country.

These are a few instances of "personal record making" which has become an important sideline at several laboratories in and around New York where phonograph records are manufactured. Several smaller recorders have made a specialty of it, and have made it possible for anybody who wants a permanent record of his own voice to have it made for him at a cost which in some instances is as little as $30.

Objective Listening

A number of metropolitan music conservatories bring their pupils at regular intervals to recording laboratories to sing or play. The records that are made are used primarily by the pupils themselves, so that they may listen to themselves and be enabled to correct mistakes. Often, too, the pupils have copies of the records made and use them as gifts.

It has become the custom for society women who take frequent part in musicals to have records made of their singing and to take them to social gatherings, where they sing one selection themselves and then play several records they have made.

Mrs. Myra C. Taylor, whose husband is chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation, has sung for eight records, and has had a dozen copies of each made for her own record library and for those of her friends. Mrs. Florence Wessell, New York music teacher among whose pupils are the children of a number of distinguished families, makes records of her own singing for the parents of her pupils and helps the children to make records their parents may keep.

Ballad Of Tragedy

Most phonograph companies have personal record departments, even if they do not specialize in such work and do not make records in quantities of less than 500. Many firms want several thousand records made for advertising purposes, to send to branches and dealers all over the United States.

Occasionally, too, there is a local dealer who knows he could sell in his community hundreds of copies of a special record which would have no interest elsewhere. Such an instance arose in New Haven, Conn., where an Italian girl shot a fellow-countryman in the lobby of a neighborhood theater. A bard of the Italian colony wrote a ballad about it which was set to music, and a dealer of the same nationality had it recorded. He sold more than 5,000 records.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlon Howard left Friday evening, taking their young son to Fort Worth for medical treatment.

SOUTHALL, the HATTER

Texas Aggies to Have Big Rodeo

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 3.—Lively lunge cadets of the A. & M. college of Texas will take a brief respite from selling encouragement to their Texas Aggie football team to indulge in such eras as "Hide 'em cow-boy" and "Hold that steer" when the tenth annual rodeo and pageant of the Saddle and Siroin Club of the college is staged at the animal husbandry pavilion here Nov. 16. Bronco busting, fancy riding, roping, bulldogging and other such events will be included on the program. This annual affair, given by juniors of the animal husbandry department to raise funds to send the senior livestock judging team to Chicago for the international competition, is usually an event of much interest in the student body and plans are under way to make the rodeo this year the best in the history of the club.

The following students are members of the rodeo and pageant arrangements committee: R. W. Howe Seymour, ringmaster; N. K. Farmer Junction, social secretary; J. E. Tatum, Dublin, decorator; George E. Love, Jr., De Rio, business manager; L. B. Ferguson, Brandon, advertising manager.

The pageant feature will be staged under the direction of Mrs. C. W. Mitchell Bryan. Girls selected by the cadets will appear in this event, the program for which will be announced later.

The Big Parade GOES ON!

October 100% ahead of last October

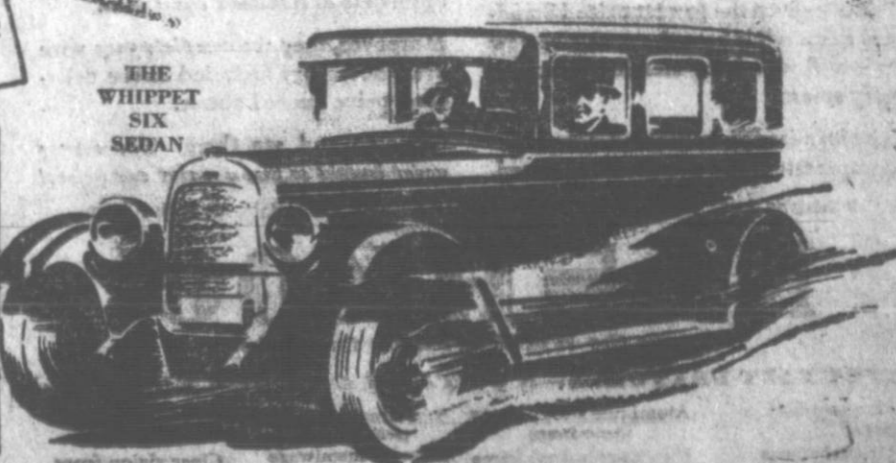

And now the tenth successive month in Willys-Overland's record-breaking year—October, with sales of Whippet and Willys-Knight motor cars showing a gain of 100% over sales for October, 1927. The chain is still unbroken—each month of 1928 has set a higher sales figure than its corresponding month of the preceding year, from January right through October. This dramatic advance is conclusive proof of the sound quality and full value of the Whippet Four, the Whippet Six and the Willys-Knight Six—low quality and value are the up-bottom essentials for such sweeping nationwide success.

PUBLIC FORUM

Editor, Pampa Daily News: Our attention has been called to a contribution appearing in your issue of October 28th in the Public Forum column containing certain charges against the Catholic church. We give this statement reluctantly and only to rebut the inference which might arise in the public mind that by remaining silent we admit the truth of your contributor's charges. We desire to quote from the issue of October 28, 1928, of "Our Sunday Visitor" published at Huntington, Indiana: "Since controversy seldom accomplishes the benefit sought, while money does, this paper has had a standing reward covering a period of fifteen years for proof of any one of the common charges directed against the Catholic Church and especially for proof of any one of the following charges: Since the charges below are the main ones which anti-Catholic speakers and authors make against the Church we offer $1000.00 REWARD for proof of any of them. 1. The assassins of Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley were Catholic; 2. Lincoln's "Dark Cloud" utterance is genuine; 3. The Catholic Hierarchy controls a political machine; 4. Catholics are forbidden to read the Bible; 5. Catholics worship images and statues; 6. Immorality is common in monasteries or convents; 7. The Jesuits teach "The end justifies the means"; 8. The Knights of Columbus take the so-called "Alleged K. of C. Oath"; 9. The Jesuits take the "Jesuit Oath" circulated by their enemies; 10. Girls are forced into the Sisterhoods or retained in them against their will; 11. Catholics seek to destroy the public schools; 12. The Catholic Church refuses to acknowledge as valid the marriage of Protestants; 13. Catholics are given undue government patronage; 14. Our country would be benefited by closing the parochial school; 15. Catholics cannot be loyal to the United States Government for they owe temporal allegiance to the Pope; 16. The Pope interferes with American politics; 17. Catholics believe that the Pope should rule in a temporal way over the world." We desire to quote further from the same publication: "NO PRESIDENT WAS KILLED BY A CATHOLIC" Ex-Priest Chiniquy started the legend that President Lincoln was assassinated by the Jesuits, employing as their tool John Wilkes Booth, a convert to the Catholic faith. This legend has marched along, nevertheless, taking on additions, like many another myth; for if people will believe that Booth was a Catholic, why not impose it upon them that all the assassinations of American Presidents were Catholics? So we find anti-Catholic lecturers asserting that Charles J. Guiteau was a Catholic, and so, also was the anarchist who shot McKinley. As a matter of fact, none of these miscreants were Catholics. Guiteau and Czolgosz were haters of Catholicism, and in that respect especially eligible for membership in the secret prospective societies. No church or creed is to be held responsible for the crimes these men committed. John Wilkes Booth, born in Maryland in 1839, was a son of the eccentric English actor, Junius Brutus Booth, who came to this country in 1826. The Booth family were Anglicans. He was scarcely twenty-six years old when he formed the conspiracy to murder Lincoln. His body is interred in the Booth family lot in Greenmount, a non-sectarian cemetery at Baltimore. The trial of Guiteau is fully reported; and the summary, printed in Appleton's annual Cyclopaedia, 1881, informs us that he was for five years a member of the peculiar sect known as the Oneida Community; that he joined the Young Men's Christian Association. His brother-in-law testifies that Guiteau was strongly prejudiced against the Catholics. We subjoin his statement: "I am a brother-in-law of Charles Guiteau, the slayer of President Garfield. Was Guiteau a Catholic? Well I should think not. Charles Guiteau hated the Catholic Church with all the hate that was in him. He was a Protestant, converted by Moody. He told many a time that God inspired him to kill Garfield. He was insane on that one subject. This is absolute truth and I would take my oath to that effect." (Given at St. John's, Mich., Sept. 17, 1913.) "CHARLES G. WHITE" Leon Czolgosz was the son of a Polish-born father, who resided at Cleveland. We find the press reports as to his identity reprinted in Tyler's "Life of McKinley." "He (Czolgosz) said he had been studying these doctrines (anarchism) for some time, that he did not believe in government, the church, or the married relation" (P. 463). While acknowledging himself an anarchist, he did not state to what branch of the organization he belonged. He declined to see a minister or priest of any denomination. He died without religious ministrations." (Pp. 513-17.) "I—The Dark Cloud" Fake Ever since the time of Pastor Chiniquy, who was ousted from the Catholic Church about seventy years ago, the words ascribed to Lincoln have been exploited by lecturers without any attempt at proof. What will surprise the reader is that even Tom Watson declared the quotation to be a forgery. In the Columbia Sentinel of Thompson, Ga., we read the following: Nelson's Perpetual Loose-Leaf Encyclopedia New York City, Nov. 30, 1920. Honk Thos. E. Watson. Dear Sir: A question has arisen over a quotation upon which I think you will be able to set us right. The question is—did Abraham Lincoln say: "I do not intend to be a prophet, but though not a prophet, I see a very dark cloud on our horizon, and that cloud is coming from Rome?" Did President Lincoln make or write the above remark? If so, in which of his writings and what edition of the same will I be sure to find it? Thanking you for whatever information you can give me in this matter, I am, yours very truly, Wm. A. MEYERS. Thompson, Ga., Dec. 11, 1920. Mr. Wm. A. Myers, 381 Fourth Ave. New York City. Dear Sir: Yours of November 30th received, and would have been answered sooner had I not been absent in Florida. For the last thirty years the alleged quotation from Abraham Lincoln has been in circulation. He is said to have made the prophetic remark during his second term, after the profiteering corporations of the Civil War had accumulated such vast fortunes, and were exerting their power over Congress. Those who claimed authenticity for the statement of Mr. Lincoln asserted that it appeared in a letter which he wrote to a personal friend in the West. I do not remember the alleged name of this friend, but I distinctly remember that no such letter was ever published. I had no confidence in it myself, and never used it in any of my speeches or writings. My opinion is that it was fabricated after Mr. Lincoln's death. Yours truly, THOS. E. WATSON Note, however, what President Lincoln did say: "I am not a Know-Nothing, that is certain. When the Know-Nothings get control it will read: 'All men are created equal, except negroes, foreigners, and Catholics.' When it comes to this, I should prefer emigrating to some country where they make no pretense of loving liberty—where despotism can be taken pure, and without the base alloy of hypocrisy." Abraham Lincoln, "Recollections of Abraham Lincoln," Lamon. In order to substantiate the above offer, there is $1,000 on deposit in the First National Bank of Huntington, Indiana, confirmation of which is in the First National Bank of Pampa, that can be had by anyone giving legal proof of any of the above statements. We earnestly trust that this may prove enlightening to any one who has been misled or misinformed with reference to the above matter. Respectfully submitted, Church Committee, Holy Souls Parish, Pampa, Texas. $100 REWARD REWARD FOR EVIDENCE OF VIOLATION OF ELECTION LAWS I have received reports from some counties that officials are threatening not to count the split ballots marked for the Hoover Electors and the Democratic State and Local Candidates in next Tuesday's election. The Attorney General has held that this is a violation of the law. The Federal Courts have held that any threat or intimidation intended to prevent a lawful voter from casting his ballot at such an election is a crime under the Federal Laws. Out of funds contributed for that purpose, I hereby offer a reward of $100 for evidence resulting in the conviction of any election officers or other persons, violating the Federal or State Laws protecting the Presidential Election to be held in Texas on next Tuesday, November 6th, 1928.
