A Low Percentage

Of five murder cases docketed in Hutchinson county court last week, one conviction resulted. The lone conviction was of a woman, who was given ten years imprisonment after the jury had twice reported its inability to agree. There were two verdicts of "not guilty" and one dismissal.

Of this said the Borger Daily Herald: "Fixing the responsibility for the outcome of these cases would be a difficult problem. It may have been that indictments against the persons should not have been returned. It may be that the prosecution of the cases was not strong enough. It may be that it is hard to get a jury in this county which will bring back a verdict of guilty, and it might be that in the past month several unusual cases have come before the court."

"It is extremely difficult to trace the causes of the few convictions here, but we know that something is drastically wrong. The people should think these problems through and do all in their power to rectify the mistakes responsible for the reputation which Borger has received throughout the nation."

It is not entirely to Borger's discredit that such conditions exist. As the Herald says, the failure of juries to convict is the principal cause of the trouble, and poor juries are not confined to one county. The prosecutors have uniformly had difficulty in picking juries which would hue to the letter and spirit of the law. Unusual cases are short-lived in the hands of a competent jury, be the defendant guilty or innocent.

Action in the court is highly desirable, yet Hutchinson, and Gray too for that matter, are under the handicap of congested dockets. With hundreds of civil and criminal cases docketed, and with terms of court hearing half a dozen to a score only, justice cannot be and does not exist for many persons. The defendants who lie in jail waiting for a chance to appear in open court are suffering an injustice. The lawyers who have cases and are unable to try them are in difficulty. The persons who have civil cases which would give them redress are not getting justice.

The coming winter term of the legislature certainly will make special disposition of Hutchinson and Gray county judicial procedure, permitting longer terms in order that justice may be dealt out to all who seek it or who should receive it. The failure of our judiciary to be flexible enough to meet abnormal conditions such as exist here is one that should be made impossible.

We are not alarmed. The situation is clearly one of inadequate machinery. Borger in addition has local problems incident to her rapid growth, but these would be minimized were her courts no more congested than those of larger cities with special prosecutors, assistant prosecuting attorneys, and plenty of time to hear all demanding trial.

A Builder Dies

Arthur E. Stilwell, builder of railroads. The man is dead. Apoplexy cut off his career last week when he had attained the age of 68 years. He was a man who played "hunches," but they were hunches born in a fertile brain which foresaw development of raw materials and unbroken sod.

The Kansas City, Pittsburgh, and Gulf railroad, now the Kansas City Southern came of one of Stilwell's hunches. Between Kansas City and the Gulf he envisioned an agricultural empire. It is said he favored Galveston for a terminus, but had a "hunch" that Port Arthur was more protected from hurricanes. The railroad was premature and had financial difficulties, but it survived. The Orient was conceived and it too went into receivership, but the idea was right and the Santa Fe's acquiring of the property indicates belief in its future.

Stilwell was no James J. Hill of railroad romance, but in the Middle and Southwest he rendered a constructive service. He belonged to that class of empire builders who were not afraid to pierce the frontier and await the sure results of time.

WASHINGTON— There seems to be a serious lack of good campaign jokes. Most of those heard around here to date have been pretty awful.

Two samples: "What's the first thing Al Smith will say when he gets in the White House?" "Good morning, Mr. Hoover."

(That's the end of that one). "What's the most important letter in the alphabet?" "H. It's the beginning of Hoover and the end of Smith."

If anyone knows any worse campaign jokes than those, please send them in for publication.

The only other one your correspondent knows was pulled by a gent who wired in to a radio station the other night. "I'd rather be drunk with Smith than hungry with Hoover."

Senators Curtis and Robinson, the two vice presidential candidates, have both been heckled and both have fired back some hot shots, Curtis even lapsing into mild profanity.

Heckling is a nuisance to any candidate. There's always likely to be some shrewd old duck in the crowd who may have been plotting his trap weeks in advance. Even the best platform speakers sometimes lose in an exchange of repartee with hecklers. The recent Robinson and Curtis episodes have reminded some older members of this generation of Roosevelt's cropper during a Wisconsin speech in 1912.

A voice in the rear of the hall several times repeated loudly: "I'm a Democrat!" "Well, why?" Roosevelt finally demanded, after several interruptions.

"My father was a Democrat, my grandfather was a Democrat, my wife's father was a Democrat, my wife's grandfather was a Democrat, and I'm a Democrat."

"Suppose," shot back Roosevelt, "your father, your grandfather, your wife's father and grandfather had each been a damn fool—what would you be?"

The colonel must have thought that was going to end it, but before the crowd could laugh the heckler shot back: "A Bull Moose!"

Chairman Raskob showed good sense in hastening to repudiate talk about Candidate Hoover's drinking. Hoover has been one of the few high officials in Washington whose name is not mentioned in discussions of drinking in high places. He has seldom if ever been seen at drinking parties here and it is common report that he has not served a drink in his house since he entered the cabinet. One hears that the Republican candidate can remember how many drinks he has had in his entire life, which, if true, means not very many.

TWINKLES

Our idea of getting away under cover would be to rob a bank and speed away in a cloud of dust as we have encountered lately.

We suppose it is state loyalty which makes Oklahoma officers turn bank robbers loose rather than see them get into trouble over here in Texas.

With several tickets in the field, it does seem that Herbert and Al are getting too much of a monopoly on the publicity and oratory. There's Henry Ford, nominee of the Home Progressive party, running after Will Rogers.

Our idea of too much tempting posterity is to leave a full cellar of pre-pro stuff, as a New York man did.

Heard: A number of lodge members criticizing that Austin fraternity for rough initiation methods.

A Chicago woman has her third divorce from the same man. That's an idea for Hollywood.

England and the U. S. may go to war over oil, but chances are Gray county will never be a "front" on any war.

Oil is a nice treasurer, because it comes and goes slowly and bandits cannot grab it and fun.

BARBS

Roger Babson lists 70 ways to make a million dollars. And doesn't even mention the invention of a disappearing receptacle for used razor blades.

President Coolidge has received a great deal of favorable criticism for his speech at Bennington, Vermont, the other day. Well, he's John Coolidge's father, you know.

An organization for the improvement of divorce laws suggests that loneliness be made sufficient grounds. As an added starter we recommend the quotation, "My mother said that father never contradicted her."

A mechanical man as a street car motorman is being experimented with in Cleveland. It looks feasible. Many street car riders for years have been the most mechanical of people.

Present Day Russia Topic of Study Club's Program

Members of the Study club of the A. A. U. W. and College club, meeting yesterday afternoon in the Schnelder hotel club room, took up the second topic in their series of programs on international relations, a study of Russia since 1914.

The Fall and Decline of the Russian Empire was discussed by Mrs. Justin Devine, who traced the growth of social unrest and told of the conditions that finally led up to the downfall of the monarchy in 1917.

Mrs. W. A. Duerr gave an interesting talk on Bolshevism and Americanism, comparing the Russias of the past decade and a half, the Russia of revolutions and experiments in communism, with America in her formative period. Americans, she said, should view the struggles of the Russians to form a free government with a peculiar sympathy and understanding, since their own nation in its infancy was looked upon by the nations of Europe as anarchistic and hopelessly radical.

Mrs. George Wolfe sketched the characters of Russias two great leaders, Trotsky and Stalin, and explained the effect these two men have had upon the development of the new Russia. In the course of her talk upon present day Russia, she briefly reviewed the accomplishments of some of the business Russia has given the world.

The Study club is spending three months in the study of international relations. Most interesting programs have been arranged by a special sub-committee of the calendar committee, and out-of-town speakers of note have been secured for several of the meetings.

All members of the A. A. U. W. branch and College club are eligible for membership in the Study club and have a cordial invitation to any meeting.

WHIRLWIND BY ELEANOR EARLY. THIS HAS HAPPENED SYBIL THORNS, Boston society girl, has scandalized her little world by having a baby, and falling in love with a factory hand. Her husband, RICHARD MUSTIS, was a fascinating adventurer whom Sybil met on a trip to Havana. The marriage lasted two weeks. Sybil's baby is born the following morning in Boston, and Sybil sends Bennett rather excitedly by post to her mother to accept the story of her adventure.

WHIRLWIND BY ELEANOR EARLY. "Well, of all the hardbodied women!" She turned appealingly to Mabel. "Did you ever hear of such a thing in all your life?" Mabel was blandly indifferent.

NEW YORKER AT LARGE BY G. D. SEYMOUR

NEW YORK—Your lifelong New Yorker may be an utter stranger at apt as not to answer with an unblinking negative if you inquire whether he has seen Grant's Tomb from the inside. He may know but vaguely that the Aquarium is full of fish.

Going over to West Forty-second street to see the liner put into port at the American terminus of its trans-Atlantic circuit is one of the diversions for which most New Yorkers, once a year or oftener, find time.

The liner halts in midriver and a covey of puffing tugs takes her in tow. The smaller barks pull and steam and fume like black ants around the carcass of a horse, noising the big liner into her berth.

Census Bureau Gives Amarillo 39,200 Persons

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—City populations of the United States, estimated as of July 1, 1928, were reported today by the census bureau. Five American metropolitan centers, headed by New York with a total of 6,017,800 persons, were credited with more than a million residents; Chicago with 3,157,400; Philadelphia with 2,094,200; Detroit with 1,378,900, and Cleveland with 1,010,300.

A growth in population was indicated for nearly every one of the cities in the 30,000 population class reported through one of the most famous city centers, Manhattan borough, of New York City, was actually estimated to have lost 200,000 people between 1928 and 1925, when the state enumeration was made. The census bureau explained that its 1928 estimates were based in part on calculations of population growth rates indicated by the 1920 federal census, by the results of intervening state census returns, and by studies of local conditions. Notwithstanding, in the case of a few cities the bureau refused to make a 1928 estimate because of annexation or because of "exceptional conditions of growth," or because of indicated population loss.

After the leading five cities, the estimates showed a large group of American cities, possessing more than a half million people, the list including St. Louis, 848,100; Baltimore, 650,400; Boston, 789,200; Pittsburgh, 678,800; San Francisco, 585,600; Buffalo, 668,800; Washington, D. C., 652,000; and Milwaukee, 544,200. No estimate was given for Los Angeles, which in 1927 had a population of 578,873.

In all, the 1928 report listed 26 American cities having more than 30,000 population in 1920, and for most of them gave the comparative estimate of their total in 1928. In the case of states such as New York, Iowa, Florida, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island, which conducted a state census in 1925, the 1925 figures were used instead of the 1920. Following is a list of cities and the 1928 estimate of their population:

Texas—Amarillo 39,200; Austin 45,133; Beaumont 56,300; Dallas 219,800; El Paso 117,800; Fort Worth 170,600; Galveston 50,600; Houston, no estimate; San Antonio 213,100; Waco 46,600; Wichita Falls, no estimate.

DRAMATIC WORK STRESSED AT CLARENDON COLLEGE

CLARENDON, Oct. 2.—(Special)—The department of speech of Clarendon Junior college under the director of Miss Rita Foster is sponsoring an active program in dramatic work this year. The dramatic club presents three-act plays each week, and one three-act play each month. Students this year are showing much interest in acting, and are furnishing whole-sale entertainment for the people of Clarendon. Miss Foster, the director, was chosen the best actress in the Little Theatre contest held last year in Dallas.

Enrollment at Clarendon Junior college is ten per cent larger this year. Students are showing a great interest in commercial work. Two full years work to business, being offered. The outlook for the college this year, according to L. B. Cooper, dean, is bright.

MOUNTAIN FEUD TAKES 3 LIVES IN TENNESSEE

KINGSFORD, Tenn., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Garner's Valley, a rural community near here, was recovering from the extreme excitement today, caused by the slaying of three persons and the injury of two others yesterday as a climax of a bitter mountain feud which originated in a controversy over a cow.

Three members of one family were killed, a fourth was struck by a shotgun charge, and Miller Horn, who is reported to have caused the tragedy, was wounded by a shot said to have been self-inflicted.

SENATOR SHEPPARD IS ATTACKED BY BISHOP

DALLAS, Oct. 2.—(AP)—United States Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas will see the time when "the baby" will vote against him Bishop James Cannon, Jr. of Virginia declared here last night in discussing the national political campaign in an address here.

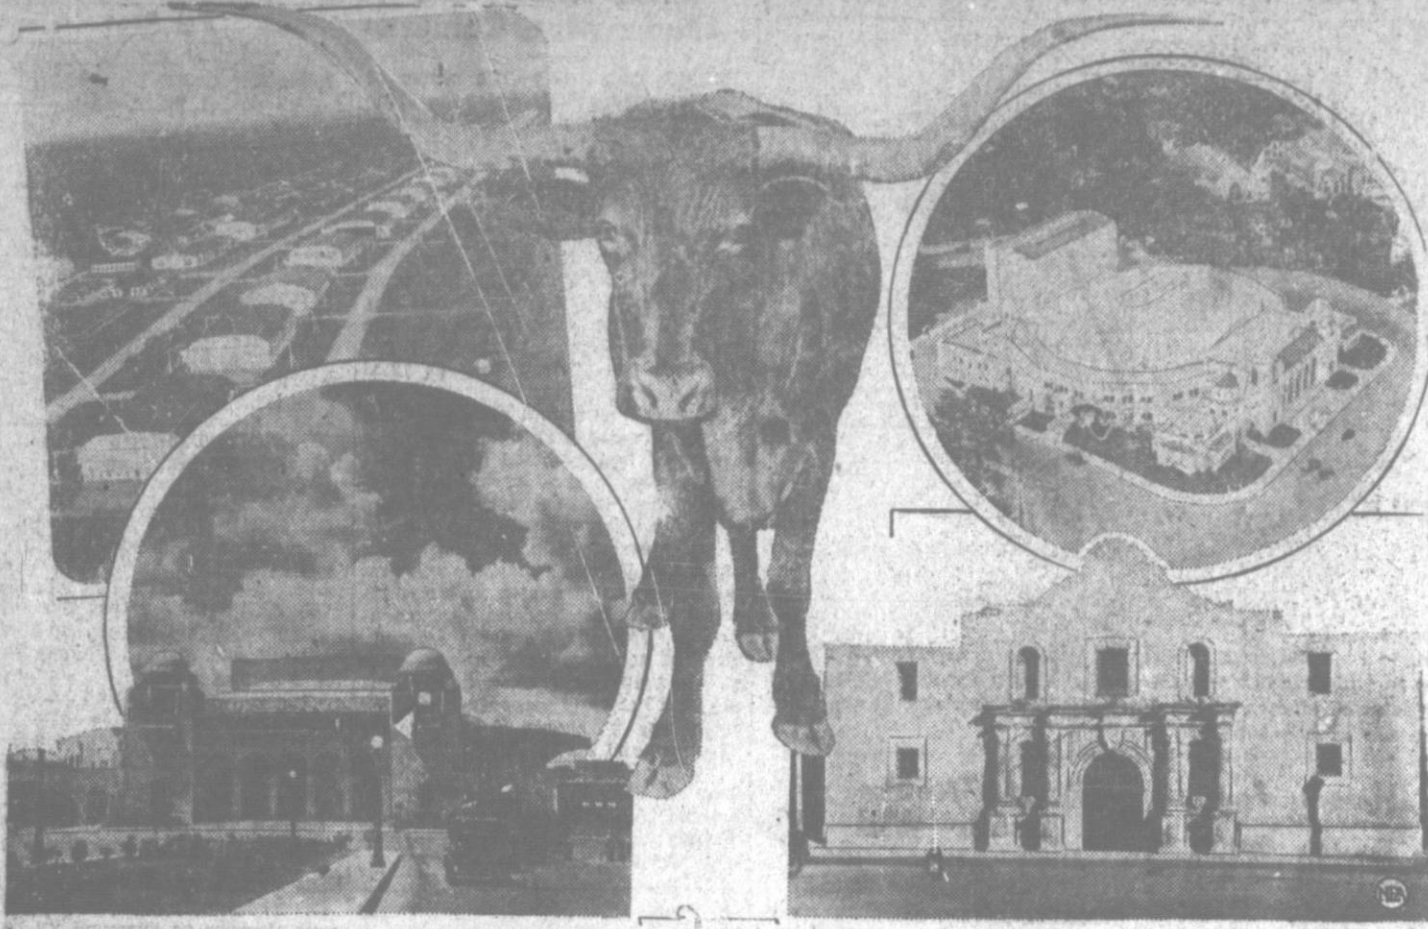

Bishop Cannon was referring to a cartoon in which Sheppard, author of the eighteenth amendment was feeding his baby, the amendment, to a tiger.

"He cannot dispose of it that way," Bishop Cannon declared, "all he has to do is leave it on the doorstep of mothers of this country and they will take care of it. That baby will be old enough to vote some day and he will hear of it then."

(Officer arrests him.)

Act. 2: Courtroom. De Simon, Judge added, bailiffs and merry villagers in postulant seats.

Judge: What did you mean by telling the officer he could not arrest you? Are you a member of the 'I gotta drag' club, or something?

De Simon: I am a comedian of the stage, your honor. I was just having my little joke.

Judge: Pay the clerk $5 and costs. Now laugh, paginact, laugh.

(Exeunt merry villagers, hilarious.)

Carnes' Loot to Be Sought Before Return to Georgia

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The assistant solicitor general of Georgia and a deputy sheriff from Atlanta were here today with extradition papers seeking the return to Atlanta of Clinton S. Carnes, indicted former treasurer of the Southern Baptist Convention home mission board.

The officers are not expected to return to Atlanta with Carnes immediately. When he was arrested here a search of his room revealed only $2,000 and it is the theory of police that he has other cash or assets concealed in safe deposit boxes either here or in Chicago or Milwaukee, where he is believed to have hidden before coming to Canada. It was believed by local police officials that the Georgia men might stay here a few days to make a further investigation.

Senator Robinson Goes to Oklahoma

EN ROUTE WITH SENATOR ROBINSON TO CLAREMORE, Okla., Oct. 2.—(AP)—After running nearly the whole range of issues in a one-speech invasion of Kansas, Senator Joe Robinson was headed today for Oklahoma, where his rival for the vice-presidency, Senator Charles Curtis, preached a Republican doctrine only last week.

Mr. Robinson proposes to deliver four prepared addresses in the state, as well as a number of extemporaneous speeches from the platform of his private car. He is expected to center chiefly on religion and farm relief which along with prohibition constitutes a part of the many subjects fired upon by him in Kansas soil at Wichita last night.

BROCK AND SCHLEE WILL TRY AGAIN

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Balked by a leaking gasoline tank in their effort to bring the world endurance flying record back to the United States, William Brock and Edward Schlee have announced plans for another attempt soon.

The fliers, who several months ago made a record breaking trip around the world by ship and airplane, were forced to give up their endurance flight at 6:10 p. m. yesterday when an exhausted gasoline supply forced them down after 59 hours and 30 minutes in the air.

TEX BLOCKS RIVAL IN MOVE FOR CONTROL OF NEW ARENA

Another theater-drama crisis in the Rickard-Fugazy feud has been avoided by the ascension of Jess McMahon, Rickard's old associate, to the management of a new metropolitan arena, seating 32,000. This deprives Fugazy (left) of the place he needed to crowd Tex (right) for promotion supremacy.

By EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK.—The business of battling Tex Rickard, when the master of Madison Square Garden is in a battling mood, is getting tougher every day.

With high hopes of forcing the fall of the Italian giant, a thumper of parts and Fugazy's one genuine at traction, wanted to fight Knute Hansen, the man Rickard hopes to steer into the vacant heavyweight championship, for charity with the boxers donating their services.

Rickard flinched that one with a reply that Hansen was a poor boy and really couldn't afford to fight for nothing. But Tex's dander was up. The showdown came rapidly and ruined the one real chance the Italian signor had of breaking Rickard's monopoly of boxing in New York.

For months, now, Fugazy has been engineering a break into the indoor field dominated by Rickard from September to spring with the Garden, seating 20,000 fans—sometimes. He wanted the place to be known as the New York Coliseum under erection at Starlight Park in the Bronx, an arena seating 32,000 customers and opening its doors in November.

Tex wanted that building, too, but since he already had one, and the acquisition of the only other big indoor arena would look too much like the snuffing out of competition, the Garden impresario was stymied.

Actors in Indecent Play Are Arrested

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Miss West, actress and author, who served ten days in jail last year for taking part in an indecent performance, was again arrested today after police raided the Broadway premiere of her latest play, "Pleasure Man."

Fifty-five men and women comprising the play's cast were loaded in patrol wagons at the close of the evening's performance and taken to a police station a block away where after several hours they were released on bail.

Miss West, who is author of the play but not a member of its cast, was arrested at another theatre where she is starring in "Diamond East." She posted $500 bail for a hearing. All were charged with producing or taking part in an indecent performance.

Addresses vigorously assailing Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York as a menace to the morals of the Nation, by Alvin Moody, Houston, Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, Georgetown, and Mrs. J. O. Ross, Houston, were loudly applauded at the annual banquet of the Union here last night.
