CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S CLINIC TO BE HELD MONDAY

SURGEON OF OKLAHOMA IS COMING HERE

Dr. Earl McBride Has Treated Thousands of Cases

CLUB MEMBERS SPONSOR WORK

No Cost Attached to Service to Be Provided

Several additional crippled children have just been discovered by the Lions and Rotary club members, and these will be given the unusual opportunity of attending a free clinic.

Dr. Earl McBride of Oklahoma City, orthopedic surgeon, accompanied by Joe N. Coleman, executive secretary of the Oklahoma Society for Crippled Children, and his assistant, will arrive early tomorrow morning.

The crippled children will be thoroughly examined by the specialist and their parents or guardians will be told what opportunities there are for corrective treatment.

Work for crippled children in the Southwest was started first in Oklahoma several years ago by Dr. McBride, with the help of the Lions and Rotary clubs of Ponca City.

The work started with a clinic such as will be held in Pampa tomorrow. It grew as civic clubs in other towns took up the movement and secured the help of Dr. McBride.

This method was used for about two years, then the clubs succeeded in having a bill passed by the legislature appropriating funds for a hospital for crippled children.

The Lions and Rotary clubs of Pampa hope that all the crippled children in this territory will come to the clinic tomorrow.

Among those taking out licenses were: Monroe Robitt and Miss Kathryn Carpenter; R. A. Montgomery and Miss Stella Duke; Ben Browder and Miss Avis Byrd; Ernest Salts and Miss Mary Jackson; Shelby Gantz and Miss Nell Jones; and John L. Peak and Miss Ann E. Parley.

THE WEATHER VANE WEST TEXAS: Sunday and Monday fair—little change in temperature.

FINAL PERIOD OF BIG BONUSES IS HERE

With one whole week remaining of the big 100,000 extra bonus vote offer, contestants in the Daily News big $5,000 automobile and prize voting campaign are beginning to get busy with subscription votes in a manner which presages some interesting developments in the near future.

Contestants are now beginning to center their activities on building $20 clubs of subscriptions exclusively.

The prevailing opinion seems to be that effort during the coming week will turn the tide in one's favor. So many extra votes are given with $20 clubs this week that several contestants are planning to put everything else aside for the week and work on subscriptions exclusively.

A feature of the past week is the noticeable increase in interest in the campaign in the country. Many of the smaller communities are beginning to show a solidly behind their contestants, and indications are that city of Pampa contestants are going to have a stiff race to keep the Buick in town.

In the News campaign, one of the stars has been set aside for the county division, and this no doubt accounts for the spirited interest being taken, as out-of-town contestants realize that they do not have to work for their own particular car.

The preliminaries are now about over, and real work for the automobiles is expected to start in earnest. No more time will be spent in loafing or collecting free vote coupons by those who expect to win the cars and other big prizes.

There is still room in both districts for several more ambitious workers. If your name is not in the list, and you want to get busy for a car, see the Contest Manager at the News office tomorrow.

By entering now you will be able to get in some good ticks on the 100,000 offer, and there is no telling what you can accomplish until you try. Receipt books and full information are available. It costs nothing to try, either now or later.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Morse, landholders southeast of LeFors in the middle of oil production in the LeFors pool, have completed a royalty sale of interest.

The transaction between Mr. and Mrs. Morse and M. Reynolds, H. B. Hill and C. E. Engledow, each of whom have purchased a 1-384th interest in and under certain lands has just been recorded.

PRESIDENT WILL LEAD TENTH OBSERVANCE OF SIGNING OF ARMISTICE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(P)—High government officials, headed by President Coolidge, tomorrow will lead America into the world-wide observance of the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice.

Mr. Coolidge, accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, plans to go to Arlington national cemetery, early in the morning to lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier. He will speak as an observance of the day under the auspices of the American Legion tomorrow night at the Washington auditorium.

At 11 o'clock in the morning, ten-minute silence, observed all over the world on previous armistice days, will be observed in America. A bugler will sound taps over the grave of the unknown soldier to end the silence in Washington.

While the president is speaking Secretary Kellogg, who during the past year has been fostering the Kellogg-Briand treaty for the outlawry of war, will be addressing a peace meeting in New York.

Much of the day's observance will center about the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Scores of organizations plan to have representatives place wreaths on the White Marble slab, which during the year has received tokens of respect and honor from thousands, including the Bremen fleet and the Graf Zeppelin crew from Germany.

Five Persons Die in Louisiana Farm Tragedy Fleeing, Falls Under Train—Two Victims Alive

LAKE CHARLES, La. Nov. 10—(P)—A negro's mad lust to kill, believed to have been caused by fear of the consequences of his alleged attack on a daughter of Dupre Mallette, tenant farmer, led the negro, George Coleman, 40, to set on the entire Mallette family, killing the parents and three children and injuring the two other children, officers believed tonight.

Details of the carnage at the poor rice grower's home were told incoherently to Sheriff Isaac Fontenot, Jefferson Davis Parish, by a 16-year-old daughter of the Mallettes who escaped during the shooting and hid in a hay stack until it was over.

She said the negro came to the home and asked for a shotgun and some shells. Told that Mallette had none, Coleman shot the farmer who crumpled but revived and ran into the house, the negro at his heels. Here Coleman beat Mallette over the head with the butt of his gun.

Mrs. Mallette grabbed a pistol but was killed before she could use it. Coleman then felled five of the children, three of them dying almost instantly. The two others are believed to have been fatally injured.

The girl who fled the house, dazed and hysterical, was unable to give a connected account of the killings. As far as could be learned she did not discuss with police which girl assembled was ravished.

Coleman, officers later were told, in suited the young girl near her home Thursday by taking her into his arms and then releasing her. He seized her again before she had a chance to get away and threatened to kill her if she told anybody about the affront. Alesia was permitted to leave the spot unharmed.

Dr. V. A. Miller, of Lake Arthur, parish coroner, tonight declared the five victims had met death at the hands of Coleman.

A verdict of accidental death was returned in the death of the negro. Mallette's surviving children were placed in the care of neighbors.

Screen Life Hollywood

By WADE WERNER
HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—William J. Locke, the celebrated novelist brought here to write a story for Norma Talmadge, finds Hollywood a pleasantly exuberant village.

"Everyone I see on the street wears an air of prosperity and enthusiasm," he says, "and even the architecture of the town is ebullient and bland. The Chinese theatre, for example, reflects in its bizarre design the spirit of a motion picture center, and houses and hosteleries and business establishments have a happy look. Elsewhere the same architectural effects might be terrible, but here they are in character."

Locke's only previous visit to Hollywood was in 1910, when the place was a lemongrowing residential community as yet undiscovered by the picture producer. Since then the movie industry has risen to a place of world prominence and developed a revolutionary offshoot called "the talkies." Even the talkies, however, do not shatter the British novelist's optimistic attitude toward Hollywood. Once the technical handicaps which hamper them are overcome he believes they may develop into a new art.

Golden Harmonies
 Be that as it may, the musicians who are fortunate enough to be playing in talking pictures are received in some cases as much, per note, as many outstanding successful writers receive, per word, for their writings. There is a bugler in the "Deert Song" who must be on the set to sound certain bugle calls according to the script. Only rarely is everything ready for actual recording of the dialogue in the midst of which his bugle call sounds. Meanwhile he draws the established wage of $10 an hour for time elapsed in production, an arrangement which no doubt in production will turn some former army buglers green with envy when they hear of it.

Costly Excitement
 Paying $10 a note for a bugle call is no extravagance, however, when compared with the cost of realism in an explosion scene. Samuel Goldwyn, coming to use a miniature in the big ship-explosion scene of "The Rescue," spent exactly $52,856.45 blowing up a real ship in front of the cameras and as many skeptical newspapermen as dared to be present. Elapsed time, 10 seconds.

ATTORNEY GENERALS ASKS INVESTIGATION OF SELF

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 10—(Special)—Attorney General Rush H. Knox in a letter to the Senate and House today requested that a joint committee be appointed to investigate certain charges made by Governor T. G. Bilbo in a message to the Legislature Friday.

The governors message sought to show that the attorney general had been requested by the state tax commission, during a former regime, to make certain income and inheritance tax collections where the amounts involved were large, and in this way to receive a commission of 15 per cent for cases he did not participate in.

Attorney General Knox branded the governor's message as containing "insinuations and not concrete statements and issued purely to injure me politically."

COOKING SCHOOL NEWS

To fry FISH without smoke or odor

1 Put Crisco into cold frying pan. To thoroughly cook the food (for example, a fish) without smoke or scorching, fry slowly, using enough Crisco to partly cover it. It will not require the constant attention frying does when only a little fat is used.

2 Put frying pan over low heat. As soon as Crisco is melted put in a small piece of bread. As soon as bread starts to brown put in the fish.

3 Cook slowly until fish is nearly done, then turn to brown the other side. With plenty of Crisco in the pan the fish is easily turned without breaking, if you wait until it is almost done.

4 Strain the Crisco into an empty can and use it for the next thing you want to fry. No one will know you have fried fish in it.

You taste your milk—
 You test your eggs—

NOW—
 taste your shortening!

Crisco's sweet flavor will delight you!

Harvester Third Teams Holds Deer to Scoreless Tie

Showing a complete reversal of form, the Harvester third team held the fast White Deer first string to a scoreless draw here Friday afternoon. They showed added strength in Benton and Thomas in the backfield. Thomas is a last-second man and will be eligible for football next year. He starred with Electra in class A football last year.

Benton will also be eligible for the first string next year. Don Tate, put into the game for a short time, showed up nicely. Lewter, captain of the squad, Ragsdale, Kahl, and Thomas were also effective in the backfield. The line held nicely and gave the White Deer squad considerable difficulty.

The visiting team outweighed the local squad fifteen pounds to the man. They made most of their gains through the Pampa line. The local boys gained on end runs and completed passes.

White Deer won the opening game of a three-game series from the local boys in White Deer last Monday 13 to 0. With another week of practice the local squad should come out on the long end of the score.

Wisconsin and Iowa Rivals for Big Ten Title

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Big Ten championship for 1928 tonight rested between Iowa and Wisconsin.

While Iowa zoomed to the top of the conference race by defeating Ohio state at Columbus, Wisconsin's big Cardinal team went into a virtual tie for leadership by routing its traditional enemy, Chicago 25 to 0, at Camp Randall. The two undefeated eleven clash at Iowa City next Saturday and barring upsets in their remaining games, the combat should decide the championship.

S. M. U. TO PLAY U. OF MISSISSIPPI ONE YEAR

DALLAS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Southern Methodist university athletic officials announced tonight they had signed a one-year contract with the University of Mississippi for a football game here next year. The game will be played October 26, replacing the Mustang's annual game with Rice Institute as a state fair attraction.

S. M. U. officials were given the option of renewing the contract each year.

Centenary's Streak Is Stopped; Team Had Won 14 Straight

By HAROLD BANKS (Associated Press Staff Writer)

DALLAS (AP)—After streaking across the gridiron firmament in much the same spectacular fashion of Centre's "Praying Colonels" of recent years, Centenary College of Shreveport, La., has seen its string of 14 consecutive victories broken by an inspired team which it was rated to outscore by a three-touchdown margin.

Baylor of Waco, Texas, a Southwest Conference representative, brought triumphs of the little Louisiana school to a halt with a decisive 28 to 7 victory over the eleven which was the only college grid squad playing a representative schedule last year with neither a loss nor a tie game to mar its record.

By its victory, Baylor earned the plaudits of four other Southwest Conference teams who fell before the Centenarians, a name which believes their slaying, whirlwind offense. Just by way of making the end of its streak official, Centenary lost a second successive game—its first defeat by a member of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association in the four year organization. Chattanooga trimmed the Gentlemen by 21 to 14 in the Tennessee city a week after the Baylor uprising in Shreveport, and so became a favorite to take the S. I. A. A. title which Centenary held through three seasons—with some minor dispute from other undefeated eleven.

In 1927 Centenary scored 260 points to its opponents' 35 in a difficult 10-game schedule. Southwest Conference victims of Centenary were Southern Methodist, Baylor, Rice and Texas Christian. Southern Methodist was the Centenary attack, was injured, the beaten 21 to 12 in one of the greatest reports of the year. The Louisiana team eked out a 9 to 6 victory over Baylor and had no difficulty disposing of Rice by 33 to 7. Texas Christian was nosed out, 7 to 3.

Starting in this year where they left off when football togs were packed away last Thanksgiving Day, Homer H. Norton's team brushed aside the deserved triumph over Texas Southwestern of Louisiana and Daniel Baker in early season games, and then set the Southwest reeling with a well-deserved 9 to 0 triumph over Texas A. & M. last season's Conference champion.

Centenary's success was to be short-lived, however. Catching the Louisiana lads when Hanna, spark plug of Christian Southern Methodist was the Centenary attack, was injured, the

Blocked Punt Is Nearly Ruin of Methodist Record

DALLAS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Swarming over the Southern Methodist University defense for three touchdowns, Texas A. and M., today spiked dope forecasts when it held the vaunted Methodists passing attack to an equal score, the game ending in the last two minutes of play.

With the Ponies in the lead, 19 to 12, the Aggies cornered the Mustangs a few yards from their goal, and as Reed, on his ten-yard line, attempted to punt, Cuthrell, Aggie substitute tackle, broke through the Methodist line and blocked the kick.

Three line plungers put the ball four yards from the Mustang goal and another substitute, Mills, in the backfield, threw a pass to Zaratofnets for the tying points. The Aggies lost their chance for a win when Zaratofnets missed his try for the extra point.

Bears plunged and passed their opponents into submission.

Much of the Centenary's success has been credited to Norton, who heads all athletic activities at Centenary. Although he has been connected with the institution for nine years in an athletic way, it was only in 1926 that he became head football coach.

Texas Is Victor Over Baylor at Waco, 6 to 0

WACO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Perkins' 33-yard run for a touchdown in the first quarter enabled the University of Texas to defeat Baylor university and rout any championship hopes, 6 to 0 here today.

Baylor threatened late in the first period when the bears unleashed a passing offensive which carried the oval to the Longhorn 8-yard line, but the Bruins were unable to push the ball over and the scoring threat ended when Noble was thrown for a 10-yard loss on the fourth down.

This contest was the first victory Texas has won over Baylor in the Cotton Palace gridiron here.

Hoover Sees Alma Mater Win Game

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, president-elect laid aside all political cares today while he watched the football team of his alma mater, Stanford university, run rough-shod over Santa Clara to a 31 to 0 victory.

Accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, he sat among the crowd on the Stanford rooting side of the big stadium, but the student body from Santa Clara stole a march on their rivals by firing a presidential salute of 21 guns in honor of their distinguished guest.

The pistol shot, which reverberated around the vast bowl, were followed by three "Hoovers" from the cheering section of the visitors.

Besides Mrs. Hoover, the president-elect was accompanied to the game by his son Allan, and his secretary, George W. Akerson. As he appeared at the end of a long entrance tunnel, the crowd broke into applause.

Cooking School Ending Friday Is Great Success

With Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig's fifth excellent lecture on culinary science Friday afternoon, the Pampa Daily News free cooking school was brought to a successful close. Splendid interest of the women of the city; 100 per cent cooperation and a laudible spirit of generosity on the part of merchants and the public utilities officials; and Mrs. Ihrig's eagerness to give her classes the very best of her knowledge and experience, combined to make the school one of the outstanding projects of the year.

Attendance at the school was exceptionally good during the entire week with interest apparently growing from day to day. Total attendance for the five days, as indicated by the registration cards, was 1,336. The basement assembly room of the Methodist church was used for the school, and on the last afternoon it was filled to capacity.

Mrs. Ihrig gave her demonstrations in a completely furnished model kitchen on the stage. She offered valuable suggestions on many phases of the work which she did not have time to take up in detail, and graciously stopped at any point in her lecture to make explanations or answer questions of her class. She arranged her program to fit the needs and desires of her class, but covered rather completely all of the important departments of cookery.

On Monday afternoon, the first day of the school, she demonstrated "emergency meals" and broiling meats. Tuesday afternoon she discussed the value of waterless cookery of vegetables and demonstrated oven-cooked meals and one-piece luncheons. Salads and vegetables were demonstrated Wednesday. Thursday was "the sweetest day of all" for at that class Mrs. Ihrig made several delicious cakes and gave original recipes for other desserts.

A demonstration on meat cutting and cooking and cookery, given as the final lesson, seemingly created the greatest interest of the course, for the reason, perhaps, that most women feel their information on this branch of food preparation less adequate than on any other. John J. Colhoum of the Coffee meat market expertly demonstrated the various cuts of beef, pork and lamb, while Mrs. Ihrig gave instructions for cooking each.

At the close of each lecture, free prizes were given by the merchants of the city. All the prizes were attractive and were received with much pleasure by the women in the audience. Another special feature of the school was the nursery maintained by the News. Two

Vaccination of School Children Urged by Nurse

In the interest of public health, Mrs. M. P. Downs, nurse for the Public Welfare association, has issued the following statement:

"It has been discovered that there have been several families with small-pox in Pampa that have not been reported to the health authorities. It is known that one girl has been in school with it at a time when it was most easily carried to some one else, and it is highly probable that others have done the same. The only thing that can be done now to protect yourself and your children is to see your doctor about a vaccination if you have not been vaccinated in recent years.

"Dr. Cole has consented to act as city health officer again and any case of suspected contagious disease should be reported to him immediately. There also have been cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever which have not been reported and no effort made to keep from spreading these serious diseases. All three of these disease have a high death rate, besides often leaving with various organs of the body impaired. When we have methods of protecting ourselves and others from these things it is nothing short of a criminal to neglect doing so.

"There are serums and vaccines that will keep a person from taking these diseases. Many object to the vaccine because they have known or heard of those who have had a very bad arm from a vaccination. This is not caused from vaccination itself but from carelessness in the care of the "take". If you will use the utmost care in seeing that the place is kept free from scratching dirt, and other contaminations, there should be no trouble from a vaccination. Go to your doctor the minute that it begins to "take" and care for the sore just as he tells you to do and there will be little danger from it.

"Mothers with small children, see your doctor about the test for susceptibility to scarlet fever and diphtheria. Your child deserves protection."

women were engaged to care for the infants and small children of the mothers attending the classes.

On the last afternoon of the school the members of the class presented Mrs. Ihrig a beautiful white gold wrist watch, set with blue sapphires and small diamonds, as a token of their appreciation of her efforts on their behalf and their sincere esteem for her.

Child Study Club Has Lesson on Animal Training

Modern Methods of training Animals and Their Lesson for Parent and Child was the subject of an instructive program Friday at a meeting of the Child Study club. Mrs. James Todd read an excellent paper on the subject and discussed securing obedience through sympathy and kindness. She also gave side-lights on trained animal shows.
Personal observation gave the discussions an added interest and made the program one of the best the club has had this year. Mrs. T. H. Barnard talked on Dog Conscience and Mrs. Purviance gave a delightful talk on Cats I have Known. How Animals Learn was discussed by Mrs. Floyd McConnell. Mrs. H. W. Johns gave some enlightening facts about the mental capacity of animals.
A round table discussion followed Mrs. B. E. Finley's talk on the Growth of Interest in the World at Large. Mrs. A. Cole very ably led the program. Two readings by little Miss Phyllis Smith gave the afternoon a pleasant variety. Six visitors from White Deer enjoyed the meeting, which was held in Mrs. Floyd McConnell's home.

Mrs. Ihrig Gives Luncheon for News Staff Members

Mrs. Leona Ruak Ihrig yesterday gave a delightful informal luncheon at the Hotel Adams for members of the Daily News staff who assisted her with details of the cooking school. Her guests were Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Fond, Miss Willette Cole, C. N. Milton, and Olin E. Hinkle.
Mrs. Ihrig left later in the day for Childress, where she will open a school tomorrow.

Miss Nell Jones Becomes Bride of Mr. Shelby Gantz

Miss Nell Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, and Mr. Shelby Gantz were married at dawn yesterday in a simple ceremony at the Christian parsonage. The Rev. James Todd officiated in the ring service. Miss Lou Jones, sister of the bride, and Herman Gantz, brother of the bridegroom, were the only attendants.
Mr. and Mrs. Gantz left immediately for Oklahoma City. After a week's visit in various points in Oklahoma, they will return to Pampa to make their home. Mrs. Gantz traveled in a smart tailor of navy blue flat crepe.
The bride is a former student of Pampa high school, and is a graduate of the Wilson, Oklahoma, high school. She has many friends in social circles of this city. Mr. Gantz is an employe of the Kees and Thomas men's furnishing store. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Gantz.

Emmett Le Fors made a business trip to Plainview yesterday.
Mrs. J. B. Pafford of Claude made a business trip to Pampa yesterday and was accompanied home by her son, E. J., who is spending today and tomorrow there.

Two Parent-Teacher Associations Meet

Two Parent-Teachers Association meetings were among the numerous events of Friday. Delegates to the State convention of the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations in Amarillo, Nov. 12 to 16, were elected at a called meeting of the Central Ward association. They were as follows: Mrs. E. A. Shackleton, delegate Mrs. Clyde Atterberry, Mrs. T. H. Barnard, Mrs. Joe M. Smith, Mrs. Tom Clayton, and Mrs. A. H. Doucette.

Mrs. Atterberry, president, appointed and Mrs. M. P. Downs a committee to Mrs. C. E. Hutchins, Mrs. Joe M. Smith, cooperate with local physicians in locating and quarantining small-pox cases. The members also made further plans for a rummage sale to be held in the near future.
The Baker School association met Friday evening, with Mrs. R. H. Lane presiding. A short business session was followed by an enjoyable program. Refreshments were later served.

Piano Pupils Give Students Recital

A student's recital was given Friday afternoon by Miss Madeline Tarpley's younger piano pupils. Other members of the class formed the audience for the program which was presented at the Tarpley home.

At the conclusion of the program, prizes for attendance and good lessons were given Mary Price, Byron Dodson, Margaret and Lois Bryson, Mary Dwyer, and Anne Buckler.
The program was as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Williams of Ferris are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Archer.

Mrs. Ihrig Says—

Courtesy is the foundation of all sensible rules of etiquette. And the height of the courtesy is the utmost consideration for the feelings of others. Look to the comfort and convenience of your guests and you need not worry about what is being done this season.

A cake pan should never be washed in scapy water.

Do not use Dover beater for whipping egg whites if you want them light and fluffy.

Cabbage is best when finely cut and cooked not more than eleven minutes.

These Pampa women are so friendly! The very first day of the school they simply got across to me and I have felt all along that they were working with me to make the school a success.

A piece of beef taken from near the top of the animal (if it were standing) is cooked at a high degree of temperature. The temperature is decreased and the time increased proportionately in cooking meat that is taken from parts nearer the ground.

A roast should be cooked uncovered and with no water added. It should not be salted until almost done.

The class that has attended this five-day school in Pampa is not only the biggest, but the best that I have had in any school this year. By the best, I mean the most interested, the most attentive, and the most appreciative.

A "cup of cream whipped" is a cup of cream; but a "cup of whipped cream" is only half a cup of cream.

Do not grease the sides of a cake pan.

If you want to be sure of having a cup of flour, sift the flour once and fill the cup with a spoon and then level off with a knife or spatula.

Rock the baking powder before measuring the powder, as it packs in the can and if measured while packed will be more than the desired amount.

In measuring one half cup of Crisco, fill a cup half full of water. Add enough Crisco to bring the water to the top of the cup, then pour the water off.

School Carnival To Bring Holiday To Gay Conclusion

Tomorrow is to be a gala day for students of Central high. The holiday will be brought to a close with an all-school carnival and selection of the most popular girl and boy in the school. Members of the four classes and various organizations have been very busy the past several days selling tickets to the carnival and soliciting votes for their candidates.
Each class and each organization will have a special booth and put on a stunt. Tom Thumb's wedding will doubtless be a solemn event, as staged by the seniors; but the bull fight and Spanish dancing numbers to be presented by the Spanish classes will provide excitement for contrast. Blue Beard's many wives may be seen, if not interviewed, under the auspices of the Green Jackets. Another butcher shop is being arranged by the Dramatic club. The central high building will be the scene of the affair.

Candy, confetti, pop corn, and other traditional impediments of the carnival may be bought "on the grounds" so to speak. All money derived from the carnival will be used in financing a year book. Miss Velora Reid is in charge of arrangements and is being assisted by other faculty members, as well as the entire student group.

W. T. Hayter is spending the week-end in Clarendon.

The Crippled Kiddies

The work that Rotarians and Lions are doing in bringing a great specialist to the city tomorrow to make free examinations available is a humanitarian move of much significance.

In the first place, it is a dignified step from the standpoint of all concerned. Orthopedic surgery is not available to families of average means, because it means a trip to the few physicians doing this work, followed by the expense of keeping the child in the sanitarium. Moreover, it is not very widely known that seemingly hopeless cases can be tremendously helped—that deformed limbs may be made straight, that withered limbs may be made to grow to near normalcy, and that children ever expected to walk often do, within a few months, quite successfully.

The growing life either tends toward normal development or abnormality. Nature's course is first toward the normal, but disease or congenital causes often start the wrong trend. While the child is growing, corrective measures get marvelous results. The crippled children's specialist is not a sentimentalist, but a scientist. His advice is frank, and he has no desire to waste time on hopeless cases. But the hopeless cases are remarkably few.

It is also true that there are scores of minor defects which can be corrected by orthopedic surgery, but which do not yield to ordinary hospital care. Helping cripples is an investment of inestimable value. The gratitude of a crippled child made well must, as he grows older, be one of the sublimest feelings that one could feel toward an individual or a club.

It is difficult to speak of crippled children's work in the Southwest without mentioning Lew Wertz of Ponca City, who has made countless donations of money and time and influence and who is a silent factor in the coming of Dr. Earl McBride of Oklahoma City and of members of the Oklahoma Society for Crippled Children.

Philanthropy is, at its best in the building of human bodies; living monuments surpass the most masterly work of the sculptors who work in other materials.

Oldest to Newest

Mobettie, the oldest town in the Panhandle, will become the newest when the Santa Fe's new line from Pampa to Cheyenne, Oklahoma, is completed. Grading for the station yard on the new townsite on the railroad is now being done. Old Mobettie has seen many stirring times and its fame as a frontier town has been made known by song and story. And for years the historic town has been linked with the progress of the Panhandle and the passing of the old cow men and the big ranches. The Indians and the white man fought for supremacy over the vast realm of the frontier and the white man won. But Mobettie lived in story and became the mecca of the pioneer who worshipped at her shrine. But now the railroad is coming and the old town will give way to the new. The history of the Panhandle will begin anew. Old Mobettie, the seat of government for years during the days when the Panhandle was on the edge of civilization, and the trading point for many miles, will not be forgotten. But the old pioneers are fast passing to the undiscovered country that lies beyond the end of the trail and the things that were will pass into history. Peace to your memory, Old Mobettie!—Higgins News.

Satisfactory Purebred Sales

The breeding of purebred livestock is dependent upon the ability of commercial producers to buy. The profits which have accrued to the breeders and feeders of commercial cattle are being reflected in the increased value of purebred herds.

Deflation following the World War was felt by producers, feeders and packers. The packing industry was reorganized and is now on a profitable basis. Feeders and graziers who had replenished their feed lots and pastures with stockers and feeders at ruinously low prices to producers recovered as prices advanced. Profitable operations enabled them to compete more vigorously with each other and to pay higher prices to producers for their supplies.

Those who operated commercial breeding herds were again in the market for better bulls, using their increased earnings to pay a premium to purebred breeders for individuals of superior type and quality. Increased values for bulls has finally been reflected in the demand for females. The entire cattle industry is again on a profitable basis. Aged steers are a thing of the past, but the demand for calves, yearling and 2-year-olds was never greater or prices higher. Range cows, either dry or with calves at foot, have doubled in value since the low point was reached.

Although purebred cattle have not fully recovered and are still low as compared with commercial grades, recent sales have been satisfactory. A herd of 2,537 purebred Hereford cattle was sold by A. B. Cook of Montana last week for $435,475 cash. Yearling bulls brought up to $580 and calves to $200 in carload lots. Fifteen show cattle sold for $13,000. The Shorthorn sale made by Frank C. Baker in Missouri resulted in a $2,000 top for a yearling show bull and an average slightly in excess of $400 on the entire consignment, a gain of more than $100 a head as compared with a similar lots sold in 1922. Other sales in Kansas, Iowa and Oklahoma indicate revived confidence in cattle values. All classes of market cattle have suffered a decline in the last month, resulting in heavy losses to speculative operators. Values are still at a level which insures profits to the producer who has avoided speculation.

Although recovery of the cattle industry is of prime importance to cattlemen, it has a much deeper significance. Agriculture as a whole has never been prosperous when livestock men were recording losses.

The value of lands adaptable only to grazing is absolutely determined by the use which can be made of them by cattle and sheep. The value of corn is fixed not by the central markets but by the ability of hogs, cattle and sheep to convert it profitably into a product which can be consumed by human beings. Hay has no value except as feed. If the livestock industry can be maintained on a profitable level it will result favorably on the one-crop grain farmer. It will also result in an increased demand for land.

Livestock serves as a governor of other crops. An increase in production takes out of competition lands which would otherwise be devoted to competing grain crops. The grain farmer should rejoice because of the recovery of the livestock industry. It presages greater demand for his products in the future.—Kansas City (Weekly) Star.

TWINKLES

We have taken our mind off the election, and we regret that it is necessary to mention the subject to tell our customers so.

Schools for the blind are having football games. Some coaches probably have players they would like to farm out to such institutions for a while.

Ye that hark back to the forefathers, hearken unto this latest invasion of science: the common plow is being electrified to kill insects as it moves. Why leave the farm to tinker with the unusual?

Physical education is reaching into all fields, so why not have lessons in our new gym on the best way to jump out of the way of speeding cars at intersections.

Jazz architecture may be fine, but we do not wish to stand under much of it.

Pampa's cooking has surely increased a few calories, if that is the proper term.

A reader complains that school teachers do no longer create character in their pupils. If he has any certain ones in mind they should be "fired" instantly. The example of every good, normal, decent man, school teacher or not, is creating character, and the other kind of individuals are destroying character and should certainly not be allowed in our schools.

Among certain Indian tribes it is regarded as improper for a woman to speak to her daughter's husband. And they call these savages wild!

Statesmen at Geneva propose the men who start the wars be made to serve in the front ranks. That would end the possibility of anybody ever winning any wars.

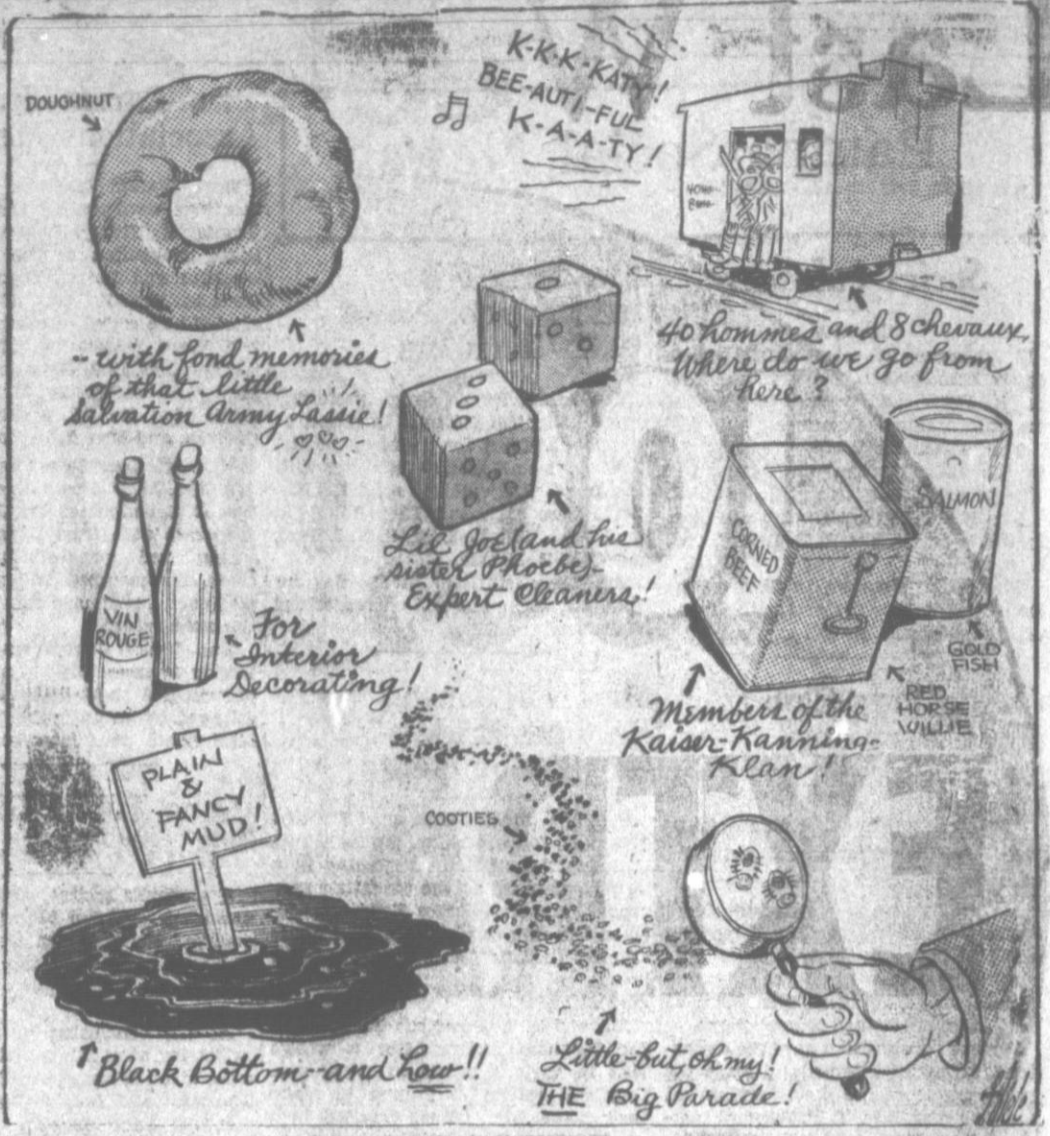

Since Gene Tunney didn't care about all the cheap publicity the cameramen wanted to give him when he got married, he must have been some one. Gene Tunney who endorsed a vegetable oil the other day.

There's no maybe so about it: We, Us and company of Pampa have got to back the Harvesters to win Monday. The best way to do it is to be on the sidelines.

Miss Gladys Baker of Lubbock arrived Friday to become chief operator of the local telephone company.

ARMISTICE DAY!

BREAK faith we shall not! Holding high the sacred torch—the torch of heaven-sent liberty—we shall "carry on". We shall value it as we value an Eternal Principle.

Americans we are, all of us; the very name holds in it something high and noble: The uncompromising integrity of a Washington; the trenchant wisdom of a Franklin; the humane charity of a Lincoln, fused by that firm adherence to Justice and Freedom which has earned our nation the respect and gratitude of the Hearts of the World.

Break faith we shall not! Loyalty to the community, loyalty to the country, loyalty to an ideal sternly beckon us onward and upward, ever bearing aloft the Torch whose flame shall be immortal. Not all of us can be statesmen, not all of us can be heroes. But All of us—every one—can be true Americans, worthy citizens of the greatest commonwealth that dwells in the memory of Mankind.

Break faith we shall not! Is not the onward path clearly marked? Honest endeavor, industrious efforts, scrupulous faith to the duties of good citizenship—these alone can qualify us to receive the Torch from the hands of heroes in Flanders fields.

There is implied in it also that even though this is true we are unworthy of such assurance with boldness. Sin condemned us unto an eternal hell. THIS HAS HAPPENED

ERIC introduced JERRY RAY, a stranger to society ALISTER CAUSTAINS who he craves his sympathy into the camp who is staying with her roommate, BERTIE. Her heart responds to his plier, DAN HARVEY, but Alister is struck by her beauty and showers attentions upon her. A letter from her mother revealing poverty and illness strengthens Jerry's determination to try to marry money.

Unable to buy a gown for the party Alister has invited her to Jerry yields to the temptation to take one from the store—intending to slip it back next morning. At the party LEONTINE LEBBY, who is in financial straits, is responsible for the dress being ruined. She confesses to the manager, who discharges her. She seeks another job, and is surprised one evening when Dan calls. He proposes and she tells him love is a mystery for money. He leaves after trying to warn her.

Alister wishes that he has a surprise, and takes her to the deserted summer camp where he has a servant attend a fencer. He gives her archery and a ring—with a proposal which stuns Jerry. She repulses his hand and she sends her in his arms. She is attracted and she leaves Dan's white lie along the beach.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXII

"Why, hello!"

The words were spoken in pleasant surprise. Dan Harvey stood on the steps and greeted Alister and Jerry so. But his eyes flickered keenly about the scene before him.

Jerry sat quietly on the hammock, seeking enough self control to enable her to speak to him calmly when he asked her to come in as casual: "Oh, hello, Dan. What brings you here?"

"Well," he said, "I happened to hear you tell Marsh to leave these things here. I was out in the cab, amusing myself around the point, when I thought I saw a light over here."

"Nonsense," Alister broke in rudely, "we haven't had a light."

"Thought it might be a tramp," Dan went on evenly, taking no notice of the interruption. "Must have been the reflection of the sun on the windows."

Alister scowled at him.

"We've plenty of watchmen," he said shortly. "If necessary I'll send one over to guard the place."

DAN seemed not at all impressed with the curtness of his employer's words.

"There was another reason why I came," he said, and Jerry noted a change in his voice. "I telephoned Miss Ray's home to inquire if she had suffered any ill effects from her... immersion. . . and someone told me she had gone out."

"It occurred to me, this being the first Sunday since they left, that she and Miss Crane might have come back to get something they'd forgotten. People often do a few things," he added, with full appreciation of the absurdity of his words.

He knew by Alister's scowling expression that he appreciated it, too. He hoped Jerry would understand also. She did. And the understanding brought the red of shame to her cheeks.

Dan was still chaperoning her! He didn't think she could take care of herself! She forgot, for a few seconds, how she had welcomed his whistle not more than five minutes ago. Then she remembered, and her eyes turned away from his.

"At any rate I'm glad to know that Miss Ray is safe," he said, with a seriousness for which Alister could have choked him had it been possible. Jerry said nothing. She was jamming her hat down over her eyes in haste, fearful lest Dan leave before she could use his presence to compel Alister to take her home.

RUTH DEWEY GROVES AUTHOR OF "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" "LOVE FOR TWO"

Dan seemed not at all impressed by the curtness of his employer's words.

TAKE her home! Would he? Might he not insist upon driving to the Tolling Stone Inn or some other place? That was a chance she must take, for nothing short of abject fear of him could cause her to appeal to Dan for further protection. Once they were on the highway she would be safe enough.

Jerry left without saying more than a bare "good night" to Dan, but halfway to the gate she turned suddenly and waved her hand at him. If he wanted to take it as a gesture of gratitude, let him. She'd have liked to thank him . . . but she had made her feel so cheap the night before, when he had hinted at just what had come to pass . . . she had feared about wanting his help, too.

Dan waved back.

"Why don't you throw him a kiss?" Alister said angrily.

"I ought to kiss his shoes," Jerry snapped back.

Alister's laugh broke off short.

"I don't suppose you'll ever forgive me," he said and Jerry was surprised by the unexpected humility in his voice.

Alister had been driving fast; now he slowed down to 12 miles an hour.

"I know all you feel like saying to me," he declared in tones of genuine self-reproach. "A mere apology won't win forgiveness, I know. But you've got to remember that I took it for granted that a girl of your class doesn't expect to marry into mine. That's brutally frank, but I can't help it; it's what I've learned from the world."

"Your world, you mean," Jerry corrected acidly.

"Yes," Alister admitted; "my world, but that's my excuse—I was trained in a world of people who know that money can buy nearly everything. I made the mistake of thinking it would buy everything."

"You weren't in any more danger with me than you would be with any other man who loved you as I do."

"As you do," Jerry repeated meaningfully. "That's just it, Alister. You've criticized me for not believing in love; well, I'd rather not believe in it at all than abuse the word as you have done. Anyway, I don't want to talk about it," she continued hurriedly as Alister started to speak. "I've got to think about tomorrow. You've caused me enough trouble already. I lost my job because . . ." she broke off, sorry she had said so much.

"But it was too late. Alister pled her with questions until he had the story of the tunic from her unwilling lips.

"You've got to let me do something for you," he exclaimed when she finished. "I'll give you $1000."

Jerry said no, very firmly.

"Do you enjoy making me feel like a cad?" Alister reproached her.

"You might ask yourself about that," Jerry retorted. "I can't help it if you feel natural!"

"Just the same I'm going to do something about it," he returned. "Oh, not with money," he added quickly to forestall an expected protest. "But I have some influence in a field where you ought to be able to make a name for yourself if you have any talent at all."

JERRY looked at him inquiringly, skeptically. He saw that she did not trust him.

"There's no catch," he assured her. "I just happen to have a friend in the theatrical business, the producing end of it. Filled him out of a hole last year and he hasn't forgotten it. So far I've not asked any favors for my help but I'm going to see him about a place for you in his chorus. He's putting on a new show this fall."

"But I don't know anything about the stage," Jerry exclaimed.

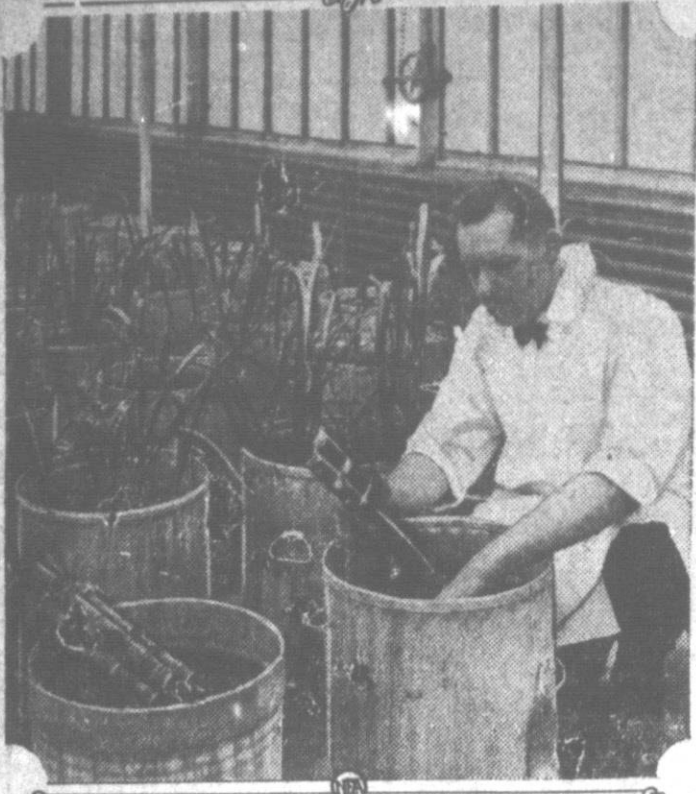

"You don't need to, for the chorus," Alister replied encouragingly. "You've got the appearance, and I know that you can dance. If you can sing too you'll get a real chance, but at any rate this will be a better living for you than you got from the lace counter."

Jerry was thrilled. She wouldn't let Alister see that she was and of course, she couldn't think of letting him do anything for her—he would be certain to demand something in return, but the stage . . . so many evenings in a dress trimmed with so early morning alarm clock!

"You're not going to say no, Alister begged. "Give me a chance, Jerry, to win your forgiveness."

Sugar Cane From Tropics

Uncle Sam is determined to revive the sugar cane industry in this country. For this purpose Dr. E. W. Brandes, of the Department of Agriculture, has returned after an adventuresome trip in New Guinea with 221 tropical varieties of sugar cane and has begun introducing them experimentally here. He is shown above planting some of the varieties in a government hot house.

Homer George and Jimmie Lane from Phillips camp were in LeFors Wednesday.

Misses Faye Joyce and Aymie Hancock visited Mrs. Alton Sears in Borger Saturday.

Miss Miriam Wilson has moved back to LeFors.

Leland Cayton of Canyon was in LeFors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Davis have gone on a two-week vacation to San Angelo and other points south.

L. D. Lonsdale and Dr. E. L. Thomson were in Borger Wednesday attending to business.

J. M. Mullin of Sanford has opened a new cafe on South Main street in LeFors. The "Moon Mullin" Cafe is modern.

Duke Shaw, Cecil Rowden, and James Cunningham have moved to LeFors.

Mrs. Clyde Fatheree and Mrs. T. D. Hchart were in LeFors Friday.

Tuesday
"Ragtime" with Marguerite De la Tote answers the call of "Oh, what a mama you'd make."

Wednesday - Thursday
"Driftwood."

Friday
Adolphe Menjou in "Private Life" is a Paramount picture.

Saturday
Rod la Roque in "Captain Swagger" is a thrilling story of the air service.

REX
Sunday - Monday
The breezes blow and smoke rolls

when Lillian Gish steps out in "Wind" Tuesday

More than one crime has been hidden, more than one murder has been committed, more than one sneak thief has been protected by "The Shadows of Night."

Wednesday - Thursday
Most of the big troubles are traceable back to minor things, but here is a mysterious problem, all traced back to a "Woman Disputed."

Friday - Saturday
Three acts of big time vaudeville will be on the stage both Friday and Saturday. "Buck Privates" will furnish the entertainment on the screen.

Ten Years After ARMISTICE DAY

Turn back ten years in the Annals of Time . . . a white storm of torn paper . . . hysterical crowds . . . booming anthems and waving flags . . . screaming headlines . . . AND . . . "Over There" deep in foreign fields those who had made possible this wild rejoicing of a people triumphant. Today . . . just for a minute . . . let us think of them, too . . .
