Fairness to All

Advance warning has come from the postal department that the post office employees are going to get a Christmas holiday this year. We approve of the idea.

The Christmas period is one of hustle and congestion for the post office. Christmas Day should give a respite from the period of overwork. Letter mail is often urgent enough to demand immediate placing in the boxes, but Christmas packages may wait until the following day without especial harm or inconvenience.

The moral to the rest of us is, of course, to mail early. Those who mail their packages at the last minute and expect the hardworking postal employe to toil all-day long on Christmas will be justly disappointed. Nearly everyone gets at least one day off for Christmas, and many get a longer period. It is unfair to expect the post office staff to bear the burden of the season and forego even the pleasure of being at home with their families on the great day of the year.

And in mailing packages the public can bring pleasure to the postal crew by wrapping securely, addressing them legibly and completely, and reducing the time necessary at the window for mailing. Only those who know what it means to struggle with mountains of packages can realize what these seemingly insignificant details can mean.

The Christmas Seals

Sales of Christmas Seals in Texas are being conducted by the Texas Public Health Association and the 23 local associations.

The seals are small things, but their relative insignificance should not cause them to be overlooked. By securing the support of the Texas public at large, the association expects to raise more than $100,000—certainly not an insignificant sum. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, sums up the subject in the following words:

"The Christmas Seal sale of the National Tuberculosis Association provides the opportunity to place upon every communication of the holiday period a symbol of the spirit of good will between men. The anti-tuberculosis movement is one of constructive purpose and method. Dissemination of health information is the sure way to check the white plague and this may be promoted by buying Christmas seals."

"Every one contribute in accord with his ability and I hope that wage-earners will do their part."

"The association has put a special emphasis on preventive work among wage earners because of the highest mortality rate among our fellow workers. This is an added reason for workers to encourage the sale for 1928 by endorsement and by purchasing the seals."

In high, dry, healthful West Texas, the terrible menace of tuberculosis is difficult to realize. In the lower, damper sections of the country, and in the crowded, stuffy industrial sectors, the white plague has a more devastating hold than generally believed, despite the efforts of scientists and physicians. Indeed, school nurses have learned that the disease is prevalent among the young as well as the old, and county health units in many places are giving much of their time to work of preventing spread of the disease among students.

WASHINGTON—A secretary of the interior does not, usually, have much chance to become famous (if you overlook the case of Mr. Fall). Yet the cabinet member who holds that job is one of the most important officials of the government, and on his wisdom, energy and foresight depends much of the welfare of future generations of Americans.

The vast problem of conservation of our national resources comes under his jurisdiction. He is the man who must see to it that water power sites, timber lands, coal and ore deposits and prospective oil fields are husbanded for the future.

The department was established in 1849, when there was infinitely more in the shape of public domain to look after. But for a good many years nobody ever dreamed of conserving anything for the future. The entire west was just being opened and the population of the country, compared with today, was small. It seemed absurd to think that the country could ever run out of forest lands. Water power sites were only of minor interest, the coal fields of the east seemed utterly inexhaustible, the Lake Superior iron and copper fields looked amply large for the whole country, and nobody had much use for an oil pool.

So the government got rid of its public possessions—rapidly, lavishly. The Interior Department originally devoted much of its efforts to fact finding; it would make surveys, tell prospective settlers or prospectors where the choicest lands were to be found, advise mine speculators and timber companies what fields were best suited to their needs.

In the course of time, however, it became evident that something must be saved for the future. The policy of wholesale grants of lands and mineral claims gave way to a more thoughtful attitude as the limits of the public lands came to be realized. Thus, during the past 20 years, a new idea—the idea of conservation—has arisen, and the Interior Department is the department primarily charged with putting it into effect.

As one step in this program the department is now completing a vast inventory of all public domains. Forest lands have been sorted, classified and graded, and tracts to be set aside for preservation have been picked. Extensive examinations are being made of lands where the mining of coal, oil, gas, potash or phosphorus is possible.

Part of this job consists of mapping and classifying agricultural lands. More than 290,000,000 acres of land on the eastern slope of the Rockies and in the great plains have been mapped to show irrigated lands of various grades, land suitable for dry-farming, land suitable only for grazing, and so on. This data is made available for the use of the Department of Agriculture and western ranchers and homesteaders.

On top of this, the department is reckoning the country's future supply of energy. It is making a national inventory of the tons of coal, barrels of oil and second-feet of water power that will be available to American workers and industrialists of the future. In this work, the tabulating of water power resources takes an important place. The department estimates, for instance, that undeveloped water power sites in the public-land states have an aggregate potential capacity of 15,000,000 horsepower.

Byrd's Expedition to Establish Base on Antarctic Ice

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Dec. 3. (AP)—The advance guard of Commander Richard E. Byrd's expedition sailed southward today to establish a base at the edge of the Antarctic ice barrier. Fifty men and Commander Byrd were on the supply ship Eleanor Bolling when it left Dunedin towing another ship to the South Polar regions.

Dr. Vaclav Voutech, young Czechoslovakian geologist, whose original application to join the expedition was refused, won a place in it by persistence. Not content with the refusal, he made his way to Wellington, arriving soon after Commander Byrd. He renewed his plea and was promised a place on the Eleanor Bolling on her second trip.

'SUNNY JIM' RECEIVES AWARD AS BEST IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

The world is filled with sunshine for 'Sunny Jim' Bottomley today, for he has been presented with $1,000 in gold for winning the most valuable player award in the National League.

By JAY R. VESSELS (Feature Sports Editor) NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Jim Bottomley has smiled and batted his way into the hearts of the committee choosing the National League's most valuable player for 1928. His reward is a trophy and $1,000 in gold.

Bottomley's selection, announced recently, brings new honors to the Casey Cardinals first baseman, who was a big factor in the two pennants his team has won in the last three years. Presiding "Sunny Jim" heard for the award was Fred Lindstrom. Bottomley received 70 votes, and Lindstrom 70. Bottomley was within four points of the nearest possible total, but if any one of the eight committees had made a decided change in his ballot Lindstrom would have won out.

The committee, consisting of eight baseball writers, voted before the last world series. Burt Whitman of Boston, president of the Baseball Writers' Association, announced the result. Twenty-one other players received votes as follows: Grimes, 53; Benton, 47; Critz, 37; Traynor, 28; Hack Wilson, 21; Hogan, 17; Jackson, 16; Maranville, 14; Vance, 13; Hafey, 11; Hornsby, 10; Hartnett, 6; P. Season of Unusual Upsets Ends With Exception of Few Games—Army-Notre Dame Crowd Was Biggest

By ALAN J. GOULD (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Except for a few sparkling decisive tests in the South and far west, the 1928 college football season has closed an unprecedented and meteoric course. Its chief developments have included record-smashing attendance and gate receipts for the fifth straight year, an extraordinary succession of upsets featuring the downfall of champions and teams rarely out of the top flight—in short, a bewildering whirl climaxing by three crushing triumphs for the far west over legions east of the Mississippi.

From the spectacular viewpoint, the early season crowd of 122,000 that witnessed the Navy-Notre Dame game in Chicago was the high spot. New marks in attendance also were set in the east and southwest, while every other section contributed to an outpouring over the country from September to December approximating 25,000,000 to 30,000,000.

From the angle of sheer playing accomplishments, representatives of the Pacific coast and the South take the major share of the season's laurels, a situation that will find its appropriate climax in the New Year's day engagement between two of the foremost teams of these areas, California and Georgia Tech. in the Rose bowl at Pasadena.

The golden west has a double armlock and half Nelson on intersectional glory as a result of the sensational victories of Stanford over the Army, Oregon State over New York university, and Southern California over Notre Dame within a three-day period. Whatever claims the east hoped to stake in the scramble for national title honors were wiped out by the crushing setbacks administered to the Army and N. Y. U., on the same gridiron by teams that came 3,000 miles to rip up everything in sight.

Georgia Tech. But there are others to consider, Southern California, Utah and Tennessee have been tied but unbeaten, California has bowed to no college for although tied by Stanford and Southern California, Stanford lost to Southern California but gave an exhibition of attacking power Saturday against the Army that has not been surpassed this season in big league competition.

Every eleven in the Big Ten met at least one defeat during the season, so keen was the competition, and Chicago was beaten no less than seven times. Every member of the new Big Six conference, as well as the Southwestern conference, also suffered at least one reverse.

Champions were overthrown in five of the major fields of action. Stanford shared the Pacific coast last year with Southern California, but the Trojans occupy the top alone this season. Utah displaced the Colorado Aggies in the Rocky Mountain conference and Texas ousted the Texas Aggies from the Southwest conference title. Nebraska won the first Big Six crown in a group that was led by Missouri last year. Boston colleges finished with the best eastern record when Yale and Pittsburgh shared the 1927 leadership. Illinois, in a race decided on the last day, successfully defended the Big Ten championship. Georgia Tech appears likely to stay at the top of the Southern conference, even if forced to share the leadership with Florida or perhaps Tennessee.

Vexing Problem of Having Furniture for Guests Solved by Local Store

"I just must tell you about our Thanksgiving dinner and how near we came not being able to take care of our guests," said a prominent Pampa housewife to one of her neighbors a few days ago. "We had all the turkey and the trimmings that one could want to make the meal complete and the day one of the most enjoyable we had ever had. But the furniture that was necessary to care for our guests—well, we didn't have it."

"We were surely worried. We had let the buying of our furniture go so long that we just knew we couldn't go buy it and get it delivered and set up in time for Thanksgiving. It was Wednesday afternoon before we had time to go select it and I was worried sick for I didn't think it possible to get it delivered and set up in time for entertaining the next day."

"Anyway, we went to see what we could find. We had quite a bit of old pieces but it wasn't nearly in keeping with a big dinner that we were going to have. Then we had planned to spend about $1,500 or the things we needed and such a large order as that, we thought, would surely require the dealer to order some from Amarillo, Kansas City, Wichita or St. Louis. "But we were surely surprised. We went to the Pampa Furniture company and the task of selecting was so easy. There was a variety in every line. We picked out the things we wanted and kept wondering if we were going to get them within the $1,500 that we had to spend. I had asked the prices as we went along, but hadn't kept the totals up. I expected to have to go back and select something cheaper. But do you know that when Mr. Cassidy figured up the total it came to a little over $900."

"Well, we had our Thanksgiving dinner, served on a new dining room table, our guests sat on new chairs, we used a new living room suite, and all had one of the nicest times that day that you could imagine."

Her friends were not satisfied, for she

Oklahoma Takes Livestock Judging Contest at Chicago—Canadian Boy Places in Wheat Division There

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Beans and peas, grain exhibits, boys and girls clubs, and home economics having gotten the 29th International Livestock Exposition off to a roiling start, the real pluck of the show—the livestock—were led to the center of the ring today.

Champions have been chosen in the intercollegiate livestock and crop judging, and in some classes of the grain exhibits, of several classes of cattle, sheep, swine, horses and grain called forward a new group of contestants today.

Oklahoma set a new point record to win the intercollegiate livestock judging honors for the third time, thus gaining permanent possession of the bronze trophy. A member of its team, Quentin Williams, was high individual.

North Carolina, which three times previously has won the crop judging contest, again emerged first in that event, with E. H. Floyd of the victorious team taking individual laurels.

Montana's "Wheat King," C. Edson Smith of Corvallis, won the championship for the best sample of wheat with his specimen of hard red winter wheat, repeating his 1927 triumph. Herman Trelle of Wembley, Alberta, also prominent in previous shows, won the reserve championship. He showed hard red spring wheat.

J. D. Dickerson, Gallatin, Tex., exhibiting five single ears, took first place in the grain and hay show. Woodrow Huggins, Denison, Tex., was fourth and J. H. Huggins, Pottsville, Tex., fifth. Parker D. Hanna, Canadian, Tex., was nineteenth in the hard red wheat contest.

Winners in the girls' club contests, attracting entrants from almost every state, included: National canning contest, Miss Florence Dressell, Logan county, Okla.; sewing contest, Sybil Herring, Fulton county, Illinois. Michigan dominated the field bean section.

MEXICAN WORKERS STRIKE

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Dec. 3. (AP)—Three thousand workers were on strike today against the Di Giorgio fruit corporation of New York in the high banana region. The workers claimed the management failed to comply with its contract as to the selection of the administrative personnel and chosen men outside the workers' syndicate. The management asked the authorities to intervene.

CONTEST—

come is rife, but the finish is, of course, impregnable. A few contestants have laid down—apparently quit cold at a moment when they actually had victory within their grasp. It is only those who buffet the waves of adversity during these next five days, and through the final week who can expect to ride away in the big Buick, the Chevrolet and the Whippet. Rumors of tremendous vote totals being polled by this and that contestant should be taken with large grains of salt. At this stage of the race it is only natural that such tales should get started. Where they come from goodness only knows and they don't have to travel far before they attain large proportions indeed. Wise contestants, of course, are beginning to reserve some of their votes to withstand the surging battle of the final days, but so far, no one has accomplished anything that anybody else can't. It's all a question of the energy put forth. Next Saturday, 9 p. m., will not only mark the close of the last club offer, but will also be the last day upon which new entrants will be accepted. After Saturday, no new entries will be allowed to come in. Contestants should not overlook the tremendous possibilities of three-year subscriptions. A three-year order brings 50,000 regular votes this week, as well as extra votes, and a few of them will make a big difference when the official judges and auditors meet to make the final count when the race is declared closed on the night of December 15. Effort this week will be the deciding factor. Those who cast aside everything else, and let the thought "votes" be uppermost in their minds every day from now until Saturday are the ones who will move into the king row when the final gong sounds. If you want to win in the campaign, DO IT NOW. What you have been planning, you MUST do—and quickly.

Important Hearings on Bus Permits to Be Heard Soon DALLAS, Dec. 3. (AP)—Hearings concerning motor bus routes between Houston and Dallas, Eastland and DeLeon, Eastland and Waco and Kansas City and Laredo are docketed for the meeting of the Texas railroad commission here this week. Today the commission is to hear application of the central and West Texas coach lines for cancellation of the Harvey Brothers line from Houston to Dallas. Tuesday Frank Robinson's application for additional schedules between Eastland and DeLeon, and Black & Sons' application to operate between Eastland, Comanche and Waco will be heard. Members of the Oklahoma railroad commission will sit with the Texas commission Wednesday in a joint hearing on the application of Charles Connor to operate from Laredo to Kansas City.

Safety Measure Costs One Life HOUSTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—A safety measure, taken by four hunters near here yesterday, cost the life of Leonard Corydon Abercrombie, 19, Rice Institute student. Abercrombie was shot as the four were unloading their guns preparatory to returning to Houston. A charge from one of his companions' guns struck Abercrombie and he died in a Sweetwater hospital.

Industrial Activity in October Set Record for All Time, According to Survey by National C. C. Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (Special)—New records for all time were established by a number of industries during October, as pointed out by Frank Greene in his monthly review of business conditions in Nation's Business magazine, published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. "Lines related to the metal trades, and especially the automobile trades," he says, "showed remarkable activity for so late in the season. The October output of cars and trucks while slowing down from the high peak of August, was still large enough to insure a new high peak total for the year. At the same time, tires moved freely at lower prices, this coincident with the formal ending of the British Colonial rubber export restrictions set up some years ago. "Buying of cotton fabrics for the tire and other branches of the auto trade were apparently helpful in swelling the volume of cotton goods buying, which was reported to be far in advance of that recorded a year ago. Curtailment of consumption with enlargement of export trade in the raw material aided in keeping down production in this line. "For the third quarter of the year there was recorded a new high output of cement. A similar record-breaking production and sale of radio and kindred materials was announced. Agricultural implement and machine tool makers were busy in October and the railroads bought rails, cars, and other equipment, with the possible exception of locomotives. One of the country's leading railroads announced a far-reaching change in the equipping of some of its eastern lines with electric power as an operating medium. "Colder weather, bringing heavy rains or snows, particularly in western areas, supplied much needed moisture to winter wheat and quickened buying of heavy weight clothing. In the latter there was something like a shortage in immediate supplies of wooleens adapted to the making of overcoats, while knitted wear sold in large volume. The settlement of soft coal trade disputes resulted in an increase in production of both household and industrial fuel. A large accumulation of coal, on railway tracks, unbilled, resulted. "Fuel oil sold better, while gasoline, after a record production in the early autumn, quieted down with a slight easing in prices. "One result of the high prices ruling for cattle in the late summer and early autumn was an apparent large take-off of hides which brought about an easing in leather prices and some reduction in shoes. The latter branch of manufacture tended to ease off in production. "Prices of cattle and hogs went off rather sharply in October and to some extent in early November. "The developments in agricultural happenings included some slight revisions downward of corn crop estimates in October and November and a slight upturn in estimates of cotton yield, accompanied by a larger gain of that crop than was recorded a year ago. Crops as a whole turned out larger than a year ago, cereal yields being 9.5 per cent greater than a year ago and only 3 per cent below the 1915 record. "Potato yields proved to be of record size with resulting very low prices. Grape prices indicated that stimulation of production in recent years has had its natural result in very low prices. The arrival of Pacific coast grapes in eastern producing regions reduced quotations to a point where it was asserted that it did not pay to pick them. "In the wheat trade liberal yields in Europe and reports of possible large crops in the southern hemisphere plus record visible supplies in the United States and Canada proved a weight upon prices. Despite a slight enlargement in export trade the shipments from the United States for four months of the current year were little more than half those of one and two years ago. Holding of wheat by western farmers was also said to have affected country collections. "Exceptions to the generally heavier yields of staple crops were noted in parts of the southeast where the storms of September reduced the corn, cotton and tobacco yields. "Reports as to employment pointed to an increase in workers in factories and mills in September, although the chief gains were in the metal, vehicle and related lines. Employment at Detroit reached its peak in the third week of September. "Building permitted for in October showed a gain over September and a fractional increase over the previous October with a good-sized decrease noted at New York as against a smaller percentage of gain in the rest of the country. For 10 months a small decrease in value from 1927 with large decrease from 1926 and 1925 was noted. "Car loadings seem to have reached their peak in late September. The October total was well above last year's, though a shade under the same period of 1926. "October failures were the largest in number since May and also the most numerous reported in October since 1921. Liabilities were the heaviest since June and the largest in October since 1924. There were fewer failures in the South than a year ago in October, but a considerably larger number of bank and other large failures noted in the southeast, especially in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina. These were responsible for the swelling of the liabilities total in that area in October."

District Court to Convene Monday

The December term of the 84th district will open at the courthouse here next Monday with another large docket. Judge Newton P. Willis of Canadian will preside. This will be the last term of the 84th district court here under the present arrangement. The 84th court was inaugurated for a two-year term, which expires in January, unless renewed by the legislature. Action will be taken at the next term of the legislation in session this winter in Austin. A petition is being circulated to have the present district divided, with Gray, Carson, Wheeler and Roberts making up one district and the other five north Panhandle counties another. Fifty-one new cases have been filed since the last term of court, which convened here August 20. More than 100 continued and old cases are on the docket to make it one of the largest since the opening of the court.

McLean Lions to Sponsor Boy Scout Work of City

McLEAN, Dec. 3. (Special)—After listening to an address by Executive I. E. Jolly, McLean Lions voted to sponsor the Boy Scout movement in this area. A committee of eight Lions will represent the club in the scout activities.

A large crowd attended the crippled children's benefit program given recently at the high school. Miss Ruby Cook and Mrs. McMillen supervised the entertainment.

Miss Catherine Corum of McLean and L. S. Calloway of Alameda were married recently at Shamrock. The couple will be at home in McLean, where Mr. Calloway is employed by the gas company.

Says the McLean News: A self-styled cripple was in the office last week and offered a minor article for sale, insisting that he was not begging, but that it was purely a business proposition. But when taken at his word and the business proposition turned down for lack of interest, he proceeded to "blow up" and tell the editor what was likely to happen to him in the judgment of refusing aid to a cripple. When a professional beggar acts in this manner, it always makes us feel glad that we did not fall for his habit and give him something to get rid of him.

Conspiracy Cases Called to Trial

AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (AP)—The cases of J. E. Dumas and Carl F. "Red" Woods, indicted for murder and conspiracy to murder following an investigation by Frank Hamer of the Texas Rangers that there existed a "ring" to collect rewards offered by the State Bankers' association for "dead bank robbers," were called on the docket of the criminal district court here this morning. One hundred veniremen and 40 witnesses were on hand, but preliminaries incident to presentation of motions were expected to take up the day before the actual selection of a jury is begun.

In Congress

By the Associated Press

MONDAY: Congress convenes at noon, vice-president Dawes and Speaker Longworth calling Senate and House to order. Chaplains offer prayer in both houses. Both chambers swear in new members and appoint committees to notify president congress has convened. House ways and means committee meets to consider proposed bill to revise tariff.

Saloons in Colorado Haven't Heard of the Volstead Law

LEADVILLE, Colo., Dec. 3. (AP)—Hell-raising old days of this colorful "Cloud City" mining camp, federal dry agents claim, are not as passe as would be supposed under the Volstead act, and a federal grand jury at Pueblo has summoned nearly the entire city administration to testify regarding the alleged present conditions. The investigation was to get under way late today or tomorrow. Eighteen subpoenas served by the United States Marshall called for the appearance of the entire city council, county sheriff, city attorney, a police captain, and owners of several alleged saloons.

Boy Husband and Bride, 50, Cause Annulment Efforts

BOSTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—A 50-year-old bride, formerly assistant pastor of First Christian church in Lynn, and her 21-year-old husband and former Sunday school pupil, were on a honeymoon today. Leonard Clarke Wade of Swampscott and Mrs. Theresa Eliza Deane Wade made no comment on criticism of their marriage. In Swampscott, Wade's parents were endeavoring to find some grounds for annulment, but without much success since both principals had complied with legal formalities. The marriage was performed late Saturday night at West Newbury by the Rev. Glen Morse, who occasioned momentary confusion by failing to identify Wade as the bridegroom and by addressing his opening remarks to the comparatively elderly best man, Samiel D. Trombley of Salem. Mr. Trombley's wife attended the bride. Mrs. Wade is a widow, with two adult children.

Swallow Airplane Is Reported Stolen

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Seized within 20 minutes after it had landed at the Southern Airways flying field, a Swallow airplane, the property of W. C. Maus, and reported stolen at Corpus Christi Sunday, was held Monday by the sheriff's department. A message stating that the plane had been stolen and asking the Bexar county sheriff to look out for it, was received from Sheriff Ben D. Lee of Corpus Christi. When Deputy Sheriff Joe Flores reached the Southern Airways field, he found the plane but learned that the flier who had brought it here had already departed for the city.

SAN ANTONIO CHOSEN HOUSTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Rabbi Henry Merfeld of Fort Worth was re-elected president of the southwestern branch of the Jewish Chautauqua society at the final session of the fifth annual assembly here yesterday.
