Poll Tax Receipt Is Worth More Than
Cost

By HERBERT B. RUMMEL,
Associated Press Staff Writer
DALLAS, Nov. 5.—(P)—With echoes of series of hot political campaigns that shook the state to its foundations still reverberating from sunny Gulf shores
to the tablelands beyond caprock, Texas voters were ready today to render their decision Tuesday on the claims put forth for Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith, republican and Democratic nominees, respectively.
Well worn stumps were deserted and quills had fallen over the land for a breathing spell of deliberation before the election gives its verdict and religion its overshadowing etalon sin legates politics to the background for a biennium.

Voters who handed over their $1.75
poll tax at the beginning of the year had nothing to complain about as a turbulent political season unprecedented
in the state annals drew to a close.

Hardly had planting of the state's big cotton crop gotten well under way when the turmoil started, and it has raged right on through the torrid summer to a bewildering autumn finish that finds political fences broken and tangled as never before. Cause for this unwonted commotion in Lone Star politics is laid principally to the spectacular rise of the political star of Alfred E.
Smith, Catholic and wet, from the sidewalks of New York to the governorship of his state and nomination for the presidency by the Democratic party,
with its dry and protestant elements.

Rum and religion are the principal issues about which the rank and file have argued, in total disregard of what the leaders on both sides may have been talking about. And not all of the discussion was carried on in whispers—far from it. On street corners and in cafes ad hotels the argument raged and little effort to cut down the vol-ubility of the politicians conclude their arguments and take a well earned rest, there is heard this year for the first time since the civil war murmurs of doubt as to the majority this Gibraltar
of democracy will give the party's nominee. Indeed there are some, with an air of confidence, predict he will fail to receive a majority at all. Many observers believe it will fall considerably short of the usual Democratic majority so nonchalantly reported in former years. First nomination for president by a major political party of ascendant pot etalon shroud etalon
new elements in Texas presidential
a Catholic, who is also a wet, injected
new elements in Texas presidential politics and observers have been perplexed in attempting to assay the im-brolio. That there is a revolt against the standard bearer in not denied, but his extent will not be revealed until the ballots are counted.

Many Leaders Belt
Notable events of the unusual political year included departure from leadership in the regular state Democratic organization of Thomas B. Love and Marshall Hicks, long powerful in national affairs of the party, the holding of a national convention for the

RANGERS SENT INTO HIDALGO Independent Ticket Said to Be Causing Trouble

AUSTIN, Nov. 5.—(P)—Governor Dan Moody today ordered Texas Rangers to Hidalgo county to preserve order
during the election there Tuesday.
He said he was complying with requests from representatives of both sides in the bitter political controversy which will be settled with election of county officers.
The governor instructed Adjutant General R. L. Robertson to send Rangers to Edinburg, county seat. He said he did not know how many would be needed. He said that they would be on hand merely to preserve peace and quell any outbreak should there be one.
It is claimed that leaders of the Republican party are cooperating with the regular Democratic administration in rebuking efforts of those favoring a slate of independent candidates.

Work Is Wanted for School Boy

George W. Brigg, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has issued the following call:
"I know of a boy 14 years old who is attending school here but who has to have work before and after school and on Saturdays or he will have to quit school and get work. If there is any business man or merchant in this city who can give this boy work, will he please call me at the Chamber of Commerce, phone 367.
"The boy is an energetic worker and capable. He has done some work for me."

Emergency Meals Subject of Lesson This Afternoon

Unusual interest and an initial attendance of 238 women featured the opening of the Pampa Daily News free cooking school this afternoon. The school will continue through Friday, with daily lessons being given from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock.
In a completely equipped model kitchen arranged on the stage of the basement assembly room of the Methodist church, Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig
this afternoon opened the Pampa Daily News five-day cooking school.
The large attendance of women at the demonstration indicated an unusual interest.

Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, who conducts the school, is a well known culinary expert. She gives her classes many valuable suggestions, and invites them to bring their "whys and hows" along and ask questions on the preparation and serving of meals. She has a pleasing personality and at once established a friendly, working relation with her audience.

In her opening class this afternoon,
Mrs. Ihrig demonstrated "Emergency Meals", a subject of interest to every busy housewife, but one of particular interest to professional and business women. She demonstrated the great variety of appetizing dishes that may be quickly prepared when one is crowded for time.

Mrs. Ihrig follows a flexible program rather than a set schedule, during the five afternoons of the school, acting upon the suggestions of her students
in her planning her demonstrations.
Classes are held from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock each afternoon. All women of the city and the vicinity are cordially invited to attend as guests of The Pampa Daily News.

A nursery has been arranged for the keeping of young children while their mothers attend the school.
Numerous prizes are to be distributed daily in connection with the classes.

Bids on Paving Three Alleys to Be Opened Tonight

Bids for the paving of three alleys will be received and opened by the city commissioners at their regular meeting tonight in the city hall. A petition asking the city to pave the commission two weeks ago. The alley running between Acheson avenue and Foster avenue and the alley between Foster avenue and Kingsmill avenue, on the west side of Cuyler street, and the alley connecting Foster avenue and Kingsmill avenue between Frost and Scoville streets.
The alleys will be 20 feet wide and bids will be asked on 6-inch plain concrete and 21-2 inch brick on a 4-1-2-inch concrete base.
Several bids have been received from local contractors and more are expected before the time of opening them arrives.

J. M. McDonald and Baker Saus-bury will leave Wednesday on a deer
hunt in New Mexico.

Hoover Rests Case on Plea of Prosperity's
Safety

HOOPER TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO
PALO ALTO, Cal. Nov. 5.—(P)—Herbert Hoover approached the end of his last campaign trip today with his confidence in Republican victory strengthened by evidences of enthusiasm he found along the 3,000 miles of his journey from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast.

Ending his quest for the presidency
where he began it nearly three months ago the nominee, after his arrival at his home at Palo Alto, will deliver his last message to the country before the election tomorrow.
Hoover made his last purely political speech at Pueblo Colo., Saturday night, the fourth since he left his general headquarters at Washington last Thursday. In all of these he emphasized prosperity and the importance of the issue before the electorate.

The Republican standard bearer yesterday enjoyed his first full day of relaxation in many months. He spent much of the day in his private car reading, and at the points along the line where he greeted large crowds, his manner indicated a freedom from concern over political matters.

Election Weather

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—A variety of weather conditions is indicated for America's trip tomorrow to the voting booths.

For the Atlantic seaboard, the forecast is fair. Sunny skies are predicted, too, for the east gulf states and the Mississippi valley, with the exception of Western portions of Tennessee and Kentucky, where possible showers are predicted.

But the weather bureau is less optimistic with respect to the middle west. Clouds and probably rain are forecast for Illinois, Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, and Kansas, with generally fair weather prevailing in the Dakotas.
Showers are forecast for Texas.

The mountain and Pacific coast states, except for isolated sections have a prospect of good weather. The exceptions are the sections of Wyoming and Montana lying west of the Continental Divide, where light snow or rain is predicted, and Western Oregon and Washington where rain is forecast.

Marmon to Start Endurance Drive Next Wednesday

Dick Marmon, well known race driver, will begin his marathon drive from in front of the Culbertson-Smalling Chevrolet headquarters promptly at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, regardless of weather conditions. Marmon will drive 125-hours without sleep or food, with the exception of coffee and melted milk. Mar-mon will be chained to the wheel by Chief J. I. Downs, who will keep the keys to the handcuffs. The chief will unlock him at the close of the drive.
The drive will take in all towns
within a radius of 50 miles of Pampa.
Marmon will visit Pampa once every eight hours during the drive. He will be accompanied on the drive by a nurse and by local citizens.

In connection with the drive, a "Miss Chevrolet" will be crowned at the Rex theatre. The time has not been set but will probably be Thursday evening. Entries for Miss Chevrolet have been received from all towns through which the marathon driver will pass.

out of the campaign just by traveling.
Mrs. Willebrandt took her along on the campaign tour.

Says Hoover Is Opposed to Control of Exports

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(P)—Appealing
for support from the agricultural West Governor Smith today delivered another blow at Herbert Hoover's attitude on the farm question and declared a solution of this problem could be accomplished in but one way—by voting for the Democratic national ticket tomorrow.
Speaking over a coast-to-coast radio hookup from a studio of the National Broadcasting company, the Democratic presidential nominee again affirmed his belief that tomorrow's election would return him victorious in this campaign of campaigns and asserted the "industrial east joins with the Agricultural West in its desire for a restoration of Democratic government."

The governor said he agreed with former-Governor Lowden and Senator Norris, Republican Independent of Nebraska, that there can never be any satisfactory solution on the farm problem unless it is based upon an effective control of the sale of exportable surpluses with the cost imposed upon consumers.

He said this was the "Great fundamental, underlying principle for farm relief upon which Mr. Hoover and I differ absolutely."

Election Forecasts

By The Associated Press.
Governor Smith says a Democratic victory is clearly indicated.
Senator Curtis predicts "an overwhelming Republican victory." Senator Robinson believes "the Democrats will win."

The Republican national committee formerly predicts Hoover will receive largest vote ever given a Republican presidential candidate.

Chairman Work of the Republican National committee estimates that Hoover will receive 400 electoral votes.

Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee has "an abiding faith" that "an avalanche of votes" will be cast for Smith.

Ralph E. Williams, vice-chairman of Republican National committee, expects Hoover to win by electoral vote of 375 to 400.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, a Democrat opposing Smith predicts Republicans carry his state by 30,000 and win also in Virginia, Florida, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky, and West Virginia, and possibly in Alabama, Texas, Georgia and Maryland.

Josephus Daniels, Wilson's secretary of the Navy, expects South to vote solidly for Smith.

hospital in Rochester, Minn., is reported to be improving rapidly.

day in Vernon.

VERDICT WILL COME TUESDAY FROM PEOPLE

Last Oratory to Urge
People to Go

RELIGION IS HEATED ISSUE

Prohibition Turns Many Votes From Old
Channels

BY BYRON PRICE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

In quieter mood after weeks of agitation, the nation is taking final counsel today over its choice of new leadership in tomorrow's general election.
The long parade is almost ended.
Its greater and lesser figures have turned homeward, leaving in the lap of the voter the tangled threads of an epochal campaign.

Final words of the nation-wide debate fall to the two men upon whom its responsibilities have rested most heavily. From his home at Palo Alto,

Gray county voters will go to the polls with the national presidential election as their motivating interest. Little interest has been shown in the county contests, although the Republican side of the ballots shows Jot Montgomery of McLean opposing E. S. Graves for sheriff and Warren T. Fox opposing A. H. Doucette for county surveyor.

As usual, the Pampa Daily News
will be headquarters for election returns. Returns will be megaphoned and posted beginning soon after 6 o'clock.

Calif., after his trip across the continent from Washington, Mr. Hoover will speak over the radio tonight to the nation's millions of voters. Two such addresses were decided on by Gov. Smith—a noonday talk today to the farm country, and a valedictory tonight, both delivered from a radio
studio in New York city.

Otherwise, the day was set aside as a final breathing spell for candidates, political workers and voters, disturbed only by the repercussions which are peculiar to the day before election.

These included last-minute arguments here and there over registration and the policing of polling places, and the usual outpouring of predictions of overwhelming victory on both sides. All such predictions continued to point to inch-by-inch struggles for the east, the border, and the debated states of the farm country and the far west.

In a few places activity continued
among contestants for congressional,
state, and local office, for besides choosing a new president and vice-president, the country will elect tomorrow the full membership of the house of representatives, thirty-seven senators, thirty-four governors, legislatures in many states, and a host of city, county and township officials.

The issues of this national contest
remain, at the end of the campaign,
a patchwork of striking contradictions.
The Associated Press has asked hundreds of political leaders, editors, and prominent men and women in business and professional life, distributed through all of all of the states, for information as to the topics of campaign discussion which have been most prominent in their particular localities.
The results of this survey, summarized below, show how the issues have cut across party lines, and across one another.

Religion
Whatever is relative rank in terms of votes, the religious issue has provided the campaign with its most bitter ingredients. Every state in the union has debated it, sometimes to

Optimism

There is little political significance but considerable cause for optimism in the monthly business review just issued by the Dallas Federal Reserve bank.

September and the first half of October showed a slight slump in building permits, but construction on the basis of August permits was brisk. Business failures showed lower liabilities than for several similar periods in other recent years.

Range conditions, particularly in West Texas, have suffered owing to a dry spell of sustained duration, but lately good rains have fallen on wheat lands to bring optimism on that score.

The Panhandle enjoys sustained oil operations, though these are chiefly limited to manufacturing rather than production. Gray county has the most activity in the production line.

Texas is "not so worse". And his Panhandle children are going through the "quiet" period of oil development in good shape with activities not of the "boom" variety but brisk contracted with those of other sections of the Southwest.

Faithful Servants

Amarillo and the Plains have lost two valued citizens in the death of "Bill" Fleming, beloved of nearly all men, and the transfer of Supt. F. J. Mackie of the Santa Fe to a Pacific Coast division.

Mr. Mackie has belonged to the towns of the division he serves. He likes to drop into a town unexpectedly and to call informally upon the business men.

TWINKLES

Heard: Several say they had lost interest in the election because they considered their candidate beaten. But they should vote; it's no good policy to burn the bridges ahead of one because the road looks rough.

It's inevitable—Christmas is coming. Here's a free ad for the bankers. Line up with savings at the bank now and you can go through the reverse process with a smile during Christmas week.

Retail stores in all the bigger Texas cities are reporting huge seasonal trade receipts. It is significant, however, that they are putting aside a goodly amount of profits for advertising to sell more goods to make more profits.

Well, it does not appear that radio speeches have cleared the air of many issues.

Politically speaking, we have not heard much complaint against the younger generation. No other campaign in years has been so much directed at older folk and women.

A new vest is designed to make the stout look slender. It seems that the fat man just can't "laugh it off".

Mr. McNamee, who is going to try his hand (i. e. tongue) announcing election returns, may be able to make it emotional, but it will be unlikely if he is within range of any rabid members of the losing side.

But probably the most vicious whispering campaigns are over the coffee cups, and the election won't end them.

It is hard to tell, from news dispatches, whether the California earthquake was caused by an explosive political minority or by a football game.

It is really sad that politics takes so much of the life out of college demonstrations. Still, the presence of a good college yell leader at political gatherings would add a technique which no amount of hat throwing gives.

There are 1,300 kinds of face powder on the market—and 1,300,000 kinds of faces.

"The birth of the earth was a quiet affair", writes Dr. Chamberlain of the University of Chicago, author of the theory that it originated from the sun. Probably that wasn't a presidential year.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, is our gentleman. He recently spent a month in America, recovering his health, and not even the blindfold test people knew about it.

We haven't seen anything from the political candidates yet as regards their stand on the question of the saturation point for automobiles.

One of the great fears we've had about these talking pictures is that Bull Montana will be revealed with a tenor voice.

The headlines told of another tog war the other day and the lady next door wanted to know if there never was going to be peace among the ice men.

Lady Astor, American-born member of the House of Commons, was mentioned as a possible choice for a post in the British cabinet the other day. That's hardly possible, however—Lady Astor has a sense of humor.

President Coolidge has proclaimed a holiday of Thanksgiving for the last Thursday in November. It was nice of him to think of that.

Birthday Party Honors Miss Ruth Anne Mitchell

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Mitchell gave a surprise birthday party last evening honoring their daughter, Miss Ruth Anne. A four-course dinner was served at quarter tables, at which covers were laid for the following:

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Zahn, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Renshaw, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McNamara, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Myers and children, Catherine Anne and Howard, Jr., Miss Lillian Newton, Miss Mary Jo Harmon, Clifford Whitmore, F. F. Kennedy, the honoree, the host, and the hostess.

Each table was centered with a chunder of lovely rose buds, and the place were marked with decorative cards. Numerous attractive gifts were presented Miss Mitchell.

Verdict--

The accompaniment of egg beverages and legal proceedings, it has been talked of most openly in the South, particularly in Alabama.

Democratic leaders repeatedly have charged that Smith was the real force behind the southern lust for South. The Republican national organization has repeatedly denied raising the issue against Gov. Smith's Catholicism, and has charged that the Democrats sought to belittle the Quaker faith of Mr. Hoover.

Prohibition

Conspicuous for the first time in a presidential campaign, the prohibition issue is credited by political leaders of both parties with having turned ed many votes out of their normal channels. Gov. Smith's modification plan has been persistently attacked by prominent Republicans and by many ministers of the gospel, and was described by Mr. Hoover himself as "anti-law and State socialism."

Upon the comparative extent of the resulting shift there is no agreement. It is universally conceded, however, that to a degree the turnover in both directions have been country-wide, with the defection of Republican votes to Smith greater in such quarters as New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, Connecticut and Rhode Island, in the larger cities everywhere, and in scattered western states like Wisconsin, Montana and Nevada; while the defection of Democratic votes to Hoover has reached its maximum in the South and has been apparent also in many states of both East and West.

The Loyal Order of Moose, Lodge No. 1588 will give a BIG MOOSE SOCIAL Wednesday, Nov. 7, starting at 7:30 p. m. at their new home 359 South Center. A program of music, entertainment and lectures by men who know has been arranged. Plenty to eat—bring your appetite! All Moose and their families are cordially invited to be present and to bring a prospective member.

PUBLIC FORUM

Pampa, Texas
Editor, Pampa Daily News:
I am enclosing a copy of a poem printed in an Amarillo paper some few weeks ago. I would like to have this printed in your paper through the Public Forum.
Respectfully yours,
MRS. M. F. ROOHE.

"Why Can't I fill That Chair?"
Say, Daddy, won't you tell me the terrible news I hear?
I scarcely can believe it each cold and cruel word.
They say because I worship Christ and Catholic doctrines share,
I never can be president or hope to fill that chair.
You fought beneath Old Glory, in the last and terrible war,
And the shot and shell that rose and fell some Catholic heart it tore,
Both pain and desolation the Catholic home did share;
And if I serve my country, Dad, why can't I fill that chair?

You often speak of Grandpa, who fought in sixty-three
You have followed in his footsteps and expect the same of me.
I promise to follow Old Glory and my Country's troubles share,
And serving both God and Nation, Dad, why can't I fill that chair?

Wasn't Columbus, who found our Country, a Catholic by birth?
Wasn't Isabella's sacrifice a tribute to Catholic worth?
Wasn't Charles Carroll of Carrollton fit to fill that chair?
Didn't the Father of our country, to his men as he bade "Farewell,"
Speak to his Catholic soldiers who fought, and bled and fell?
He praised the Catholic Nation that helped sweet freedom there,
Then why keep the Yankee Catholic from filling the presidents chair?

Wasn't the Constitution, Daddy, written for one and all?
Won't the Stars and Stripes protect the one who answered every call?
Won't Catholic life and Catholic blood that always gave its share Convince the world that we're loyal and fit to fill that chair?

And far away in Europe, Dad, in many a silent grave
There rests the form of a Catholic boy, so noble, true and brave;
And they didn't tell him, daddy, as

Her heart responds to DAN HARVEY, his pilot, but Alester is interested in her fresh beauty and showers attentions upon her. Unable to borrow money to buy a new gown for a big party Alester invites her to Jerry's party way to the temptation to take a line into town the store where she works—intending to slip it back next morning. She enjoys the party until LEONTINE LEBRABBY, who is infatuated with Alester, taunts her into drinking, and dancing parties held to go camping with her roommate MYRTLE.
Dan appears and gets her out. He wants to take her home but Alester will not permit him to. Jerry is in a panic when she realizes what has happened to the dress. She decides to confess to the manager. He is kind but says he must discharge her.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Jerry," he said suddenly, "I want you to marry me."

CHAPTER XVII
JERRY could not blame Mr. Barlow. She had expected to lose her job, to have even a worse calamity befall her, but she had hoped against disaster. When the effect of the first shock had spent itself she told herself that there was no other alternative for the manager to follow. She had worked in Pampa's long enough to know that the stories of such experiences as hers often leaked out—even from the highest office.
But to be out of a job and penniless! Less than a week's pay in her pocketbook—and her room rent due on Saturday...
It was a dreary prospect. But she ought—she said to Myrtle—to be glad she wasn't behind the bars. And, besides, she had some decent clothes to wear while she searched for a new place.
"WELL, try and not look like you'd never be able to eat lollipop again," Myrtle advised her. "No one would give a job to a long mug like yours. And don't worry about the rent. I'll pay it this week."
"You're a brick, Myrtle," Jerry assured her. "I'll go out the first thing Monday morning to look for work. But what will I say was the reason I left Pampa's?"
"You'd better tell all interested parties that you got the gate," Myrtle said seriously. "And refer them to Pampa's for the reason. Mr. Barlow won't give you a black eye. It's in your favor that you laid your cards face up without being caught. But I'll bet that special dick gets a chance to park his 'dogs' on the carpet."
The last words came in a mumble. Myrtle was bent over, applying polish to her pumps. Jerry noticed a run in her stocking. She went over to the dresser and got out a pair from her drawer. They were the best she owned.
"Going to a dance with George, aren't you?" she asked.
"It was Dan's head."
"You'd better wear these stockings tonight," Jerry said and tossed the silken hose to her. The latter squealed with delight.
"You ought to come with us," she said a few minutes later. "Honest, George won't mind," she added, pulling a wide hat down on the side of her forehead.
"Thanks," Jerry returned; "I've got to press a dress and wash my hair."
Myrtle went without her. Sometimes she recalled her roommate's aloofness with George and the boy friend she had begged him to induce to Jerry. But she knew how Jerry felt tonight—that she hadn't the least desire to go out.

JERRY was thinking of Alester while she waited patiently for the small fatiron to heat on the gas plate. He certainly had been frosty because she had refused to "do" another roadhouse with him last night.
Suppose he remained angry? Jerry grimaced. After she had lost her job trying to impress him. And Dan was through with her, too, because she hadn't tried to play up to him. It looked as if she had been completely annihilated.
The telephone rang while she was pressing the dress she would wear the next morning. The door was partly open to provide air circulation. It was a warm night. She could hear the landlady take down the receiver and utter a curt, "hello."
"Miss Ray," she could hear the landlady announce upstairs. Jerry replaced the iron on the gas plate and turned the flame low. Her first thought strangely was that Dan was calling. No, she was sure he wouldn't... but it might be Alester.
She hurried down the stairs, her haste induced by nervousness rather than a desire to talk to Alester. She felt she was in no mood to be pleasant to him if he indicated a desire to prolong his ill humor of the night before.
"Hello," she said stiffly, and then barely suppressed an exclamation of pleasure when she recognized the voice at the other end.
"It was Dan's head."
"I'm just around the corner, in a cigar store," he told her. "My car is already parked in front of your place. I'd think I was the luckiest man in New York if I found you in it when I get back there."
"It'll be town in 10 minutes," she said breathlessly.
"She was true to her word, but in those 10 minutes she had found time to remind herself that Dan Harvey was a menace to her aspirations.
There was no denying it. Every time she saw him she thought she felt a little deeper in love with him... not enough yet to cause her to throw up all plans for the future she urgently desired but enough to rob that hoped-for future of much of its glamor.

"Was she, at last, on the brink of the chasm that had swallowed Doris and the rest of her friends? No, no, she must remember, no matter how much she might love Dan Harvey, that love did not last. What was that immortal wisecrack about the diamond bracelet? Well, that was true. It did last forever! But a kiss...
DAN wanted to know why she had not waited for him in the garden. This was her opportunity, Jerry saw, to let him know that Alester came first in her thoughts. Yet surely Dan must suspect that Alester hadn't as yet asked her to marry him—he wouldn't be here if he hadn't guessed that such was the case... perhaps Alester had told him, Jerry reflected uncomfortably.
Dan might know more about Alester's intentions toward her than she knew. The thought robbed her of all power to speak of Alester's priority rights to her affections.
"You were gone a long time," she said truthfully. "I was cold in my wet dress. Alester came along. He took me there so he thought he ought to bring me home," she added.
"I couldn't find your wrap," Dan explained. "I hope you didn't get chilled driving home."
Jerry wondered why he bent such a queer look upon her. It never occurred to her that Dan was seeking information. He wanted to know how and when she returned home. Knowing Alester as he did he half suspected he would try to make a tour of the roadhouses if Jerry insisted upon leaving the Rolling Stone Inn. He thought she had insisted last night, wanted to be taken to a roadhouse, and he had been a terrible shock to Dan to see Jerry there. Her presence revealed to him that Alester's interest in her was deeper than he had at first assumed it to be. His hope that Alester would forget her when she left Long Island was shattered then.
He, himself, had gone to Leontine's place because he knew Alester would be present and because he had promised Carstairs, senior, to keep an eye on his pleasure-loving son.
"Alester got my coat; it was upstairs in Leontine's room," Jerry answered his remark. "But I was a little cold coming home just the same."
THE relief Dan felt upon hearing her words was not unmitigated with a new apprehension.
What was she doing in Leontine's room? Leontine did not permit casual visitors up there.
"Good Lord," he thought. "This kid needs someone to look after her."
"Jerry," he said suddenly. "I've got something to say to you. I wish I didn't have to say it like this, in a car, but it means just as much to me here as any place else. Jerry, I want you to marry me. I want you to... more than I ever thought it could be possible to want anything like that."
Could this be the same man who had held her in his arms last night and kissed her so fervently—the man who did not even look at her when he asked her the most important question that can ever be put to a girl? Nothing but the timorousness of his voice was in keeping with the significance of that tender scene; it alone betrayed emotion.
"Oh, why did I come out with him?" Jerry asked herself.
He had already told her he loved her. She might have known that he would want to widen the scope of those words. Dan was that kind of man. Why had she thought she could ignore what happened last night? Now she must put an end to their friendship. And that she was reluctant to do... she didn't want Dan Harvey to leave her, never to come back.
But if she said yes! How could she know... Doris said Harry had promised her a nice little home. Dan hadn't promised anything. And she felt she didn't love him so much she couldn't live without him. He ought to ask her if she...
The lights ahead were turning red. The car came to a dead stop.

PROTESTANT AMERICANS MUST HAVE THE FAITH OF THEIR FOREFATHERS

These are tragic hours for the American people because the organized forces of evil are seeking to destroy our moral standards and set up in their stead an assault upon our homes and loved ones demands the most determined opposition on the part of those who really love our native land, who respect and revere the sacredness of the home, and who love their children and want to make their pathways full of joy and opportunity.

Tomorrow we are to decide whether America will remain free and dry, and its sacred institutions safe and secure, or it will surrender to foreign power and ruin. Politicians of either party may tell you otherwise, but the TRUTH is that this is the all important issue before you. The future of your religious faith and the sanctity of your home is at stake.

Thomas Jefferson's words to Gen. Lafayette: "If the liberties of the American people are ever destroyed, they will fall by the hands of the Roman Catholics." The Fellowship Forum.

"My desire to be altogether fair and wholly in the 'clear' prompts me to say that Roman Catholics bitterly deny that the assassins of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley were Romanists. Their explanations may be and possibly are satisfactory to themselves. Our Romanist brethren have a way of explaining everything that may happen to be detrimental to their cause and of denying outright what they cannot explain. This belongs to their system." - Bob Shuler.

I can well say with Bob: "As I have said before, I am a Romanist."

C. O. BUSHY, City Secretary, City of Pampa, Texas. 30-15

of Pampa Government and came to America where they could worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience.

There is still a task for the would-be pioneer. No one denies that there is yet room for the statesman, but the events to our government—we have enough. The Old World was intolerant and America became an asylum for the persecuted Christians.

Providence gave us Washington, and he was not a bloodless Cromwell or a steel engraving, but a man to whom applied the Roman poet's words: "I am a man and deem nothing foreign to me which relates to mankind." Providence gave us this man to be our Joshua to lead our fathers out of Great Britain (Roman Power) to the Canaan of American liberty. He is immortally great because he made a country of the colonies, secured a country's freedom by the sword, upheld that freedom with a constitutional government, fashioned to make liberty and union one and inseparable.

The welfare of our country demands our service, the future of our homes and loved ones are entitled to this kind of support. May God help us not to grow weary in this work, for we shall reap if we faint not.

May I not suggest to each of you new after reading this message, that you pause long enough to breathe a quiet but earnest prayer for God's help in the morrow? The fervent effectual prayer of the righteous availeth much. God has been with us during this fight. He has opened thousands of eyes to the truth. He has quickened the minds of multitudes so that they could sense the true situation, and He will watch us or tomorrow if we only seek His help.

Their only hope lies in following the people. They are crying "intolerance" from the house tops, but right in New York City, where they sit on the "throne," the meanest form of intolerance is being practiced by them. By brow-beating and threats of boycotts, they are making life miserable for any Baptist or Protestant who dares to stand up for America. This is only a small sample of what is to follow if Alfred E. Smith happens to walk into the White House.

The Christian Reformation has more of Christians and the spirit of Democracy are akin and the Reformation than a religious significance. The spirit was the development of One Democratic spirit. It was the plea for the emancipation of the individual. And that spirit found no equal in the old world. Our Fathers sought political, as well as religious, liberty on this side. The spirit early showed itself. "Taxation without representation is Tyranny." And they threw out the political yoke.

Pampa to Play Next Game on Coming Monday

One week from today the Pampa Harvesters will be seen in action again, this time against the winner of the Perryton-Follett game to be played Wednesday afternoon. The two teams battled to a scoreless draw Saturday afternoon on Follett's field. The game was one of thrills and a meeting between two evenly matched teams. Coaches Mitchell and Fox witnessed the game and returned ready to put the Harvesters through one of the hardest weeks of the season. With Skeet Roberts out of the game it is going to be a hard job for the locals to pull a win.

Lard will be back in the line-up and with Chastain to fill Robert's place in the backfield the coaches will have a week to re-arrange their plays. It will be the toughest game of the season and will mean much in the way to the semi-finals the following week against Memphis.

Coach Mitchell will endeavor to bring the game to Pampa, but will not know until the latter part of the week. Follett played here last year but Perryton defeated.

Barnard will be back in the game next week, and also Lard. Lard has been out with injuries, while Barnard has been confined to his home by illness. With these two stars back in the game the team should show its old fight.

With the exception of Roberts, who sustained two broken ribs in Friday's battle against Wheeler, the team is in excellent physical condition. New plays will be completed and an open attack planned for the game Monday.

Startling Upsets Saturday Point Out Big Teams

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Football returns are coming in slowly but surely to indicate the drift of championship aspirations. Sharply educated by a Saturday of startling upsets, the field of contenders is likely to be whittled down a lot more by the end of the week.

Where Michigan, Navy, and Notre Dame hit the skids early in the campaign, to pass out of the title picture it took the first November flurry to remove from the vanguard such stalwart arrays as New York university, Stanford, Illinois, and Colorado college, not to overlook Texas Christian University, Clemson and a few others of major or minor degree.

If the schedule-makers had been notified before-hand they could hardly have turned out a better job than this week in bringing together outstanding contenders for championship honors.

The three major arrais in as many different sectors find West Point staking its national championship hopes against the invasion of Notre Dame at the Yankee stadium, Iowa and Ohio battle for the Big Ten leadership at Columbus while Georgia Tech meets Vanderbilt at Atlanta in the big battle of the Southern conference race.

Four of these teams—Iowa, Army, Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech—have been neither beaten nor tied. Ohio state has a tie with Princeton as the only blemish on its slate, while Notre Dame, after early reversals, is moving along at a rate to give the Army something to worry about.

Georgetown, fresh from its upset of New York university, runs smack into another undefeated contender for eastern honors, Carnegie.

Nebraska after riding rough-shod over three "Big Six" rivals in the Missouri valley sector, has a chance to clinch the championship by beating Oklahoma.

The Southern conference atmosphere not only will be cleared by the Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech struggle but also by the clash of Florida and Georgia at Jacksonville. All four of these teams are unbeaten and among the outstanding conference title contenders, but in the play at far Tech and Florida bulk more formidably.

Southern Methodist, having upset the University of Texas while Baylor was opening over the previously unbeaten Texas Christian eleven, romps into an old rival the Texas Aggies, this week S. M. U. not only hopes to gain another notch in the title fight but obtain revenge for the defeat by the Aggies last season.

Utah, with three successive victories that have put the Tigers into undisputed leadership of the Rocky Mountain conference parade, journeys to Omaha to play Creighton in a non-conference game.

With Stanford knocked out of the running, to the surprise of most critics, by Southern California's Trojans, main interest in the Pacific coast conference centers this week in the California-Washington game at Seattle.

There should be some consolation between the navy and Michigan. Both prize for the highest at Baltimore behave rather after getting away to the worst starts they have ever known. Tee Navy has won three in a row after dropping three straight while Michigan, after four successive setbacks, staged a big comeback Saturday to knock over Illinois, the 1927 Big Ten champions.

The visiting boxer is fresh from a victory over Tommy Burns and a ten-round bout with Dave Shude, the champion. Sparks has victories over some of the best middleweights in the Southwest notably Jack Malone, Warren Smith, Jimmie Mahoney, Leonard Fox and many more.

He is an aggressive boxer, a hard hitter, and a match for the best in his class. Varner is well known here and always puts up a real battle. He will have to be at his best to win from the Lawton wildcat.

The first semi-final will be between two colored boys of some prominence in the mist game. Calvin Jones of Fort Worth will meet "Dog Face" Ed, local negro boxer.

Cut-Away Buick Will Be Shown Here Tomorrow

An unusual exhibition has been secured for residents of Pampa and vicinity by Pampa Buick company in the famous Cut-Away Chassis of the new Silver Anniversary Buick, which will be here tomorrow. The chassis will be exhibited at the show room.

The Cut-Away Chassis was designed by Buick engineers to make clear every detail of Buick construction and operation. Mr. Underwood explained, discussing the exhibit. It consists of a complete new chassis, embodying the latest refinements in the Buick six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, torque tube drive, cantilever springs and numerous other exclusive Buick features, with the exterior partially cut away of such parts as the crankcase, water jacket, cylinder head, transmission and differential housing to reveal the operating units within. Buick's famous counter-balanced crankshaft with torsion balancer, the Buick differential, and other mechanical units of the Buick car also are presented separately to facilitate an understanding of them.

The entire mechanism of the chassis is set in slow motion by a concealed electric motor, making it possible for the watcher to grasp the interrelated movements of all the numerous parts without difficulty. Pistons, crankshaft, camshaft, valve assembly, oil

In many towns, high school classes in physics have attended the exhibit in a body, to see the chassis and hear automobile design, operation and maintenance explained by the expert in charge. (Continued From Page One) first time within the state, split in the party after the nomination of Governor Smith, and defeat for renomination of the last office holder elected in the heyday of the Ku Klux Klan, United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield.

For the first time in a quarter century, Hicks this year was not included in Texas' delegation to the nation convention.

Selection of Texas' forty delegates to the national convention was the first dish served up for the delectation of those enjoying their politics. An interesting angle for this phase of the campaign was the break between Governor Dan Moody and Tom Love, destined to have an important bearing on future events. It occurred after Moody's address at a meeting in Dallas, where were present a number of irreconcilable opponents, in contrast to the more moderate attitude of the governor. On Moody's return to Austin, he issued a statement denouncing Love and characterizing the latter's efforts as "base and insincere." This led to an open break between them and eventually the two led opposing actions at the state convention at Beaumont. Friends of the governor charged the Dallas meeting had been arranged to embarrass him. Today Love is supporting the Republican nominee while Moody has announced his loyalty to the Democratic ticket.

Three Cornered Fight

The Love and Moody factions were expected to fight it out for Texas' 40 delegates when the state convention assembled at Beaumont, but when the delegates assembled it became evident that the New York governor had considerable support. The struggle thus became a three-cornered fray, with no side holding a majority. This situation gave rise to one of the most dramatic incidents of the year, when Governor Moody interrupted a roll call to plead for the defeat of a resolution he feared might jeopardize fulfillment of the mandate imposed at county conventions and possibly lead to Texas' votes going to Smith. The plea had its effect, and the resolution was defeated.

Assisted by the Smith forces, Moody and his adherents gained control, and to the young governor fell the honor of heading Texas' delegation to the national convention.

Love, one of the immortal forty who held out for Woodrow Wilson at Baltimore in 1912 until success crowned their efforts, was swept aside for another leared.

Moody's Fight Fails

Then came the Democratic national convention at Houston where Moody made his memorable fight for inclusion of a strong prohibition plank in the national platform. His efforts failed when other dry leaders accepted a plank calling for strict enforcement, with neither praise nor censure for the eighteenth amendment.

The next fight on the year's card was the first and second primary, usually the main attraction in Texas' political shows. Out of the smoke and fire emerged Moody an easy winner in the first primary Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller won the renomination when Senator Love withdrew after the first primary, and Congressman Tom Connally decisively defeated United Senator Mayfield in their run-off campaign.

The post-primary convention in Dallas saw the so-called "bolters" finally banished from the councils of the regular Democratic organization. The half-dozen or so anti-Smith contesting delegations were heard then firmly waived aside, and the convention proceeded harmoniously to endorse the national convention's nominees and platform.

This, thought the electorate, was the end of the show, but soon came the rumblings of another battle. It grew in volume until a surprised state found itself in the throes of an unaccustomed late summer and autumn strife, with the irreconcilable foes of Governor Smith ranged on the side of Herbert Hoover and the "regular" Democrats striving to keep the state in line.

A hot fight has been waged right up to election time, with both sides bringing heavy artillery into the fray. Besides the local leaders ranged on one side or the other, such notables as United States Senator Morris Sheppard, author of the Eighteenth amendment,

Shoe Shop Has Unusual Machine

A machine said to be unlike anything previously brought into Pampa has been installed at Mack's Shoe Shop. Its function is to cement soles on shoes, making unnecessary the use of sewing or tacking. While working perfectly on either men's or women's shoes, it is considered a particular boon to women in that it keeps a shoe in perfect shape while being repaired and eliminates all bumpiness or roughness in either the inner or the outer sole. This feature is of particular value to those who dance or otherwise spend long hours on their feet. The machine is made in England.

campaigning for Smith and United States senator William E. Borah, speaking for Hoover, have joined in the struggle.

Now it is all over, the arguments are all in, and the weary commonwealth awaits the verdict. Whatever the outcome will take the result philosophically, will take the result philosophically. Cattle, hog and sheep prices have been good, and as the old man fondles the huge bankroll he receives for his five million bales of cotton, he seems able to survive easily any shock the election may bring forth. It has been a hot summer, politically and otherwise, but withering leaves and chill breezes from the north remind him that the woodshed must be filled, that hog killing time is at hand.

scriptions yield a similar number. Contestants are asked not to confuse the "points" with the regular votes, which will be issued as usual. The winning of the special $25 cash prize in no way conflicts with the winning of an automobile or any other regular prize in the list, but it just something special, to encourage more activity. While you are scoring "points" this week to win the special cash prize, you are also getting votes towards the automobiles. The special $25 prize also does not affect the 100,000 extra vote offer for $20 clubs of subscriptions. Actually, subscriptions this week count three ways (1) Regular votes (2) Extra Votes. (3) "Points" towards the $25 prize.

This special offer, as already stated, is made by the Contest Manager wholly to stimulate activity on subscriptions. Altogether too many contestants have been chasing those little free vote coupons, and leaving the subscriptions to get later. New contestants who will enter this week have the same chance to win the $25 as any others, because only what is done between Monday and Saturday at 7 p. m. counts on the $25 cash offer.

It is predicted that the special offer will cause a little increased action.

Also, it gives to someone, an extra $25 for their work this week. Twenty-five dollars will buy a lot of things—a new winter bouret, for instance, or a lot of Coca-Colas. It's yours for the effort!

Every contestant who expects to compete for this $25 prize should get busy right now, and start after subscriptions.

One week to win the $25—two weeks more of the 100,000 extra vote offer November 10—7 p. m., and November 17, 9 p. m., are the important dates and hours for contestants to keep in mind.

Incidentally, December 15, which though it is still quite a ways in the distance, is beginning to look closer and closer. Just FIVE WEEKS from next Saturday night the contest closes, and then the Buick, the Whippet and the Chevrolet and all the beautiful diamond rings and watches will be given away. Time is flying in this contest, and it will not last forever although from effort evidenced by some contestants to date one would think so.

New nominations made this week still count for 2,000 free votes. And the "First subscription Coupon" is good for an additional 10,000 when you turn in your first subscription order.

Start today—if you're not already in—win the extra cash, win the extra votes, win an automobile. Somebody will—why not YOU?

What Will the Other Driver Do?

If the driver behind knew what the driver ahead was going to do, automobile accidents would greatly decrease in number.

A set of "Driver's Signals", standard the country over, is doing much to prevent accidents on city streets and country highways. The use of these hand signals, as illustrated below, promotes safety and adds to the pleasures of motoring.

Just as you are certain to appreciate a signal from the driver ahead of you, so is the driver back of you certain to appreciate a signal from you.

These signals should be given far enough in advance to amply warn the other driver of your intended course. To give a signal only at the moment of turning or stopping is no warning at all. The price of safety is in your hand—use it.

To make this signal, extend arm straight out from body and point to left. See illustration above.

TURNING TO RIGHT
To make this signal, extend arm nearly upward, as if pointing to sky. See illustration below.

COMING TO A STOP
To make this signal, extend arm downward, at an angle shown in the above picture.

Make Every Week Safety Week

Every 24 hours, automobile accidents in the United States claim an estimated average of 2,360 persons killed or seriously injured, an astounding total of 850,000 casualties a year. Enough people to populate a city of metropolitan size!

Care in driving and walking, as suggested in the annual observance of "National Safety Week", must be observed at all times, if this huge loss of life, limb and wealth is to be reduced. Most accidents are caused by discourtesy, carelessness, inattention and violation of traffic laws. The peak hour for accidents is between 5 and 6 p. m. daily.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company, with its 15,000 employees and hundreds of trucks and automobiles, is vitally interested in reducing the number of accidents. Every Magnolia employee and driver, to this end, makes it a practice to observe every week as "Safety Week."
