

Al Henley, Killed in Plane Accident Well Known Here

Aviator Spoke at Lions Banquet Last Year —Made Suggestions About Local Flying Field

Al Henley, killed late yesterday at San Angelo in an airplane tragedy, flew to Pampa last year and while in the city did much to further the airport project.

Henley flew here from Fort Worth and remained overnight before taking off for Oklahoma City. Small, wiry, and reticent as many noted fliers are, he never-the-less was prevailed upon to address a Lions club ladies' night assembly. Henley surprised even himself by talking for ten minutes or more in animated fashion upon his favorite subject.

He discussed the present airport site in detail and made suggestions for its improvement. His theme, however, was the coming importance of aviation and the necessity for well marked airports in every city.

Henley, 33 years old, took up aviation in 1917. He was first to enter the famous Dole flight to Hawaii and failed only by reason of a series of mechanical difficulties which forced him back to the starting point. He formerly was an army flier, then became manager of airports at Waco and Oklahoma City. He is survived by his widow and small daughter, of Fort Worth, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Henley of Sulphur, Okla.

The fatal accident yesterday came unheralded in a gust of wind which threw the machine, a Ryan cabin monoplane, into a tailspin at low altitude. Henley had just "dipped" the new hangars at the San Angelo field while circling the airport he had planned and practically sponsored. Dedication of the field was scheduled as a part of the Oil Exposition just opening.

Henley's passengers, Donald Frazier and W. E. Shytle of Fort Worth, were also killed in the crash.

Plans were made today to take Henley's body to Fort Worth by airplane. This afternoon planes were to circle the municipal airport and drop flowers in tribute to the dead. Among them will be some from the third attack group, Galveston, an army unit in which Henley once flew as an enlisted man.

HOUSE HAS HOT DEBATE WHEN SEARCH AND SEIZURE BILL IS RECOMMITTED TO COMMITTEE

Stewart Asserts He Is Loyal to Best Interests of Firm

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. (AP)—A new statement reciting reasons he thinks entitle him to reelection as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana has been made public by Col. Robert W. Stewart.

The statement catalogues the progress of the company under the present organization since 1918; reiterates details of any personal profit from the Continental Trading company deal which was under Senate committee scrutiny; and answers several remarks made in a letter to stockholders by Thomas M. Debevoise, one of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s, lawyers.

"The board of directors, men who work with me daily and have for the past quarter of a century, say I am honest and loyal to the best interests of the company," the statement says. "There has been practically unanimous and spontaneous expression from the rank and file of the employees in favor of my retention as a director."

OIL EXPOSITION IS UNDER WAY

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 25. (AP)—The fourth annual West Texas Oil exposition in closing today turned its attention largely to the effects of court decisions and litigation affecting the oil business and the relation of aviation to the industry.

Death of three men in a plane crash late yesterday was not expected to alter plans for the aerial carnival in conjunction with the exposition. Sixty planes, including a score from army flying fields at San Antonio, were to participate in maneuvers and race over the city's new municipal airport.

The seismograph and torsion balance should be employed more extensively in exploring deep-lying strata. Dr. P. B. Plummer, associate geologist of the bureau of economic geology at Austin, said in addressing the convention yesterday.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (AP)—A complete revival of the Almee Sempie McPherson kidnaping case will be made by the district attorney's office if any heretofore unknown evidence is disclosed when the evangelist appears before a state legislative committee hearing here tomorrow, it was announced today.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 25. (AP)—Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, confidential secretary to Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor, was summoned today to appear at 4 p. m., today before the House Committee.

Hits Ape Idea

Dr. Austin H. Clark, noted biologist of the Smithsonian Institution, has started a new controversy over the origin of man by denying that man sprang from the ape. Man, he says, appeared suddenly just before the ice age in the same form he bears today. There is nothing to show that man is in any way connected with monkeys he adds.

PENDLETON WILL GO TO LOUISIANA IN ROBBERY CASE

EL PASO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Ace Pendleton, accused bank robber, arrested here Tuesday night, will be returned to Shreveport, La., to stand trial on a charge of attempted bank robbery, it was announced today by Chief of Police L. T. Robery. The prisoner waived extradition.

Pendleton was secretly removed from the jail yesterday in an automobile heavily guarded by officers armed with sawed off shotguns. His whereabouts was a mystery until today when chief Robey announced he had been left in the custody of Sergeant J. W. Fitzgerald to be turned over to the Shreveport authorities.

A bank cashier was wounded in the Shreveport holdup.

Deputy C. E. Pipes of Pampa was one of those seeking custody of Pendleton.

Parachute Fails to Open—Girl Is Victim in Movie

NEWHALL, Calif., Jan. 25. (AP)—The spectacular death of a girl parachuter in a 2,000 foot leap from an airplane here caused a temporary halt today in the production of a motion picture "thriller" in which Ruth Elder, ocean flier, and Hoot Gibson, screen star, were being featured.

A desperate attempt by Jim Granger, pilot of the plane from which Miss Yeta Wiehart, 23, jumped, to nose-dive under her and catch her in the cockpit of his ship failed apparently by only a few feet.

Miss Wiehart was being filmed in a scene which was to have shown the heroine leaping to safety from the clutches of an aerial kidnaper. Her husband, Floyd Bowman, along with Miss Elder, Gibson and others in the cast, saw the girl plunge to her death in a canyon yesterday. The victim was making her 140th parachute jump. She and Bowman were married recently.

One State So Cold the Water Freezes in Fire Hose

With thermometers registering all the way from zero to 10 degrees above Pampa and the surrounding territory shivered in the coldest weather of the winter last night. The Santa Fe thermometer registered 10 above while some in the outskirts are said to have dropped to zero.

The cold was accompanied by a West wind which was no respecter of persons Tomorrow's forecast is fair and warmer.

Amarillo recorded 2 degrees above the zero point, and Lubbock with 10 Children with 11 were nearer the zero point than the freezing. Higgins reported 3 degrees above.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 25. (AP)—Fierce blasts from Arctic wastes lashed Rocky Mountain, Middlewestern and Southwestern states alike today with the sub-zero readings of the mountains and upper plains reflected in freezing temperatures along the Gulf of Mexico.

The severe weather, the coldest of the winter in several sections, was accompanied by snow, sleet, and heavy rains which doubly handicapped transportation and communications. Partial relief was in prospect by Saturday.

The upper Rocky mountain region experienced the lowest temperatures, but New Mexico, Oklahoma and Western Texas shivered in near-zero weather.

The mercury was expected to reach 30 degrees below zero in the San Luis valley of Colorado today. Miles City, Mont., reported 32 degrees below last night.

A passenger in a stalled bus on a snow-banked highway near Evanston, Wyo., was reported to have died.

Floods were expected in Southern Missouri, where 4 inches of icy rain fell yesterday to be followed last night with snow and sleet.

Snow fell in Northern Texas, while heavy rains in the region below the Panhandle continued. Relief from the cold wave was expected Saturday.

SAND POINT, Idaho, Jan. 25. (AP)—It was so cold at Samuel's, Idaho, 15 miles north of here yesterday, that water pumped through a fire hose froze before it reached the nozzle.

Consequently the $50,000 mansion of H. P. Samuel, coal mine operator and three times candidate for governor of Idaho on the progressive ticket, was destroyed by fire.

When the chemicals were exhausted, 2,000 feet of hose was laid to a creek and connected to a gasoline pump, but the water froze before it reached the nozzle.

Love Match

Here are new pictures of Helen Willis queen of the tennis courts and her fiance, Frederick S. Moody, young San Francisco broker. Moody whose father is a well known Pacific coast capitalist has traveled widely, as a sailor and with his parents. He met Miss Willis during her tennis games at the French Riviera in 1926.

CHIEF DOESN'T MEAN 'PERHAPS' ABOUT CANINES

Chief J. I. Downs was considerably incensed this morning after hearing comment that he was only bluffing about hiring a dog-catcher February 1 in an effort to exterminate stray dogs and prevent another outbreak of rabies.

"I have received 25 applications for the position of dog-catcher and believe me one of those applicants is going to start work the morning of February 1, in the earliest about this dog business, and anyone that thinks he can get away without having his dog tagged and vaccinated will be shy a dog some morning," he continued.

During the fall more than a score of persons were bitten by mad dogs and had to take serum treatments.

I love dogs as well as anyone in the city but the citizens of Pampa must be protected and it is my duty to see that it is done," Chief Downs declared.

Up to date, only eighteen tags have been issued. Last year 254 tags were issued, so the chief is expecting a rush in the later part of the month. He declares that there are more than 500 dogs running around Pampa and less than half of them have owners.

Four Teachers Added by Board

Four teachers were added to the list of regulars in the grade schools, at a meeting of the school board last night.

Teachers employed as regular were Miss Anita Cokrum, Miss Maxine Collins, Mrs. Cox, and Mrs. C. W. Stowell.

The board also purchased an electrically controlled program clock from the Standard Electric Time company at a cost of approximately $400. Bells in each room of the central high school building will be controlled from a central system.

The same system is being used in both Amarillo schools, at Panhandle and other new buildings.

DEATH CAME TO DEMOCRAT NEAR MIDDAY

Relapse From Hemor- rhage Ends Fatally at 11:15

HIS LEADERSHIP OUTSTANDING

Had Part In Some of Most Noteworthy Legislation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Former Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama, died at his home in Woodlawn, Virginia at 11:15 a. m., today.

Mr. Underwood suffered a cerebral hemorrhage early in December and later in the month was stricken by paralysis. He recovered, but a few days ago had a relapse.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bertha Woodward Underwood; two sons, Oscar Underwood, Jr., of Washington, and John Lewis Underwood of Birmingham.

One of the towering figures in congress during his day, Senator Underwood attained national prominence through unusual qualities of statesmanship and a marked capacity as a leader.

Concededly one of the ablest men of his party, his name was brought forward repeatedly for the democratic presidential nomination, but geographical boundaries were regarded as barring the way despite the fact that he received much of his support from the North and East. Although born in Kentucky and reared in the Northwest, he was wholly associated with the South since all his public service had been as a representative and senator from Alabama.

Unlike those of some of his contemporaries, his career was marked by little of sensationalism but his long public life nevertheless was not wholly without its dramatic moments. He was the first of the young democrats to break lances with William Jennings Bryan when the commoner still was a commanding force in the councils of the party. Their differences arose over the Underwood tariff, and the stand taken by Mr. Underwood required a courage which again was demonstrated a few years later when in the prohibition south he met and vanquished for the Senator Richmond Pearson Hobson, a leader of the dry cause and a national hero of Merrimac fame.

The senator's friends declared it was this same courage that led him to publicly denounce the Ku Klux Klan in 1924 when he was seeking the presidential nomination.

First elected to the house of representatives from the Birmingham district of Alabama in 1894, Mr. Underwood assumed leadership of the democrats there when they took control of the house in 1911 and on the record he made within a year his friends advanced him for the presidential nomination at Baltimore. Mustering nearly 100 votes, he remained in the fight until the forty-sixth ballot when his name was withdrawn without either his knowledge or consent and his strength thrown to Woodrow Wilson.

Refused Vice-presidency

Refusing to be considered for the vice-presidential nomination with Wilson, he continued his service in the house and through his parliamentary skill and his tact of leadership he contributed very materially toward making Wilson's first four years of administration a period of far-reaching legislation. At the same time he brought country-wide recognition to himself as the author of a tariff bill which supplanted the famous Payne-Aldrich act.

After 20 years in the house, he moved over to the senate. His fame had preceded him and with the death of Senator Thomas Martin of Virginia, he

"It's Like This—"

COUNTY JAIL conditions are such as to arouse close study. Although the new courthouse is under construction, and its jail arrangements will be more adequate, the fact remains that present quarters are inadequate.

Jail cases have had difficulty finding their way into district court, with the result that the "permanent" boarders are numerous enough to occupy much of the space. There are numerous instances of "drunks," "vags," and other misdemeanors.

The cost of feeding a jail full of men is considerable. Perhaps some of the vagrants could be released and told to get of town. That would be of some relief.

The question of how long it takes to "lay out" a fine recently arose when habeas corpus proceedings were instituted to obtain release of a prisoner.

"We, therefore, are of the opinion that a prisoner confined in jail is entitled to a credit of $1 per day on his fine and costs," says an opinion from the attorney-general's department.

The opinion also says that "the prisoner is to be imprisoned in jail where there is no workhouse." In short, Gray county prisoners who cannot pay their fines are going to have to "lay them out" at the rate of $1 per day.

This situation constitutes an emergency. In the interest of economy, perhaps nothing should be done about it; in the interest of justice, common comfort, and humane treatment of human beings, it may be necessary to take some remedial steps before the new jail is completed.

OKLAHOMA'S state government is in a snarl, still, but the evidence being uncovered is of unusual type. Mrs. Hammonds, quoted as saying that the governor was "incompetent" and that state affairs would go on the rocks without her, has earned a permanent place in governmental annals of the Sooner state.

In the desire to impeach Governor Johnston his enemies are urging action on the basis of evidence that is embarrassing to the state but, in some cases, of doubtful legality of impeachment gravity.

The Tulsa Tribune, in pleading for a fair hearing for Johnston, puts it thus: "The house investigating, as concerning Governor Johnston, had only one duty; to determine if there were evidence enough of impeachable offenses to warrant his prosecution before the senate."

"The duties of the investigators, as concerning the rights of the people, are not ended with the indictment of Governor Johnston. Chairman Head and others of the committee have very properly held that the investigation must proceed until every fault in the state government has been traced to its source.

The same comment might apply as well to investigations at Austin. Probes for political reasons or to incriminate an official are of little lasting influence unless remedial legislation is adopted.

It's easy to start at the bottom, as a general rule, if dad it at the top pulling.

So the Yanks will wear numbers next season. Is that a concession to the ladies, or the boys from the sticks?

Fourteen million Turks are hunting suitable family names. We might suggest Hollywood as a source, or Reno.

Some practices become so habitual as to be almost professional in character, as in the cases of Pendleton, Walker, Nave, et al. The public, however, will urge their classification as professional prisoners.

TWINKLES

It's a peculiar thing, but few of the he-man bandits ever plead insanity.

Japan has eight new war vessels. And our navy department says "ditto for us." A merry race, but it touches our pocketbook.

Whiteman will broadcast a series of concerts under auspices of Old Gold, the cigaret, and woe betide the musician who coughs a cough during those hours!

It is claimed that sawdust, potatoes, and coal produce gasoline under a new process. Then this oil country must have been inhabited by a bunch of pre-historic Irishmen.

In Jugo-Slavia, bachelors over 30 have to pay a tax in token of their single blessedness. Probably on the theory that they do not realize their good fortune unless they have to pay for it.

BARBS

Maybe if New York would arrange to remove unemployed actors from the streets the traffic situation wouldn't be so bad.

Alienists testified that a college boy who killed a man in a holdup was suffering from an inferiority complex. Oh, well, all right!

If Hoover is really in earnest in finding out what is wrong with the prohibition situation, he ought to appoint a committee of alienists. They can find out almost anything.

It won't be long now until we know what Hoover eat for breakfast, and what time the clock is wound and the rat kicked downstairs.

One western newspaper, in a headline over a story about the birth of a fourth set of twins to the same parents, said "Deuces Wild."

King George may visit this country, says a London dispatch. Maybe we'll find out now that his majesty smokes five different brands of cigars.

The British scientist who says that science soon may be able to create a living robot is a trifle out of date. Muggsy McGraw has been doing that with the New York Giants for years.

A New York woman has insured a cat for $25,000. And if it sings nightly on the fence that isn't a bad investment at all.

Tax Paying

This is tax paying time, and many of the people are going before the collector and making their annual contribution to the government. We must pay to the state and a portion to the county, and another portion to the highways, and the schools, and after all of this has been paid, then there is the federal government that comes along for a per cent of what you make, in order that the Federal Budget may be met.

However, if we did not have our government from the Federal Government down to the most humble form of local government we would have to forage ourselves as did the Indians of many years ago. The main thing is to have such public officials that we are reasonably certain of getting our money's worth when we pay taxes.

The important part about this is summoned up by being a full fledged citizen. Pay your poll tax so that you will be in position to vote when the time comes, on all matters pertaining to government, whether it be the election of officers, or whether it be a school bond, or a municipal election, an elect for good roads, state, national or county. The important thing is to provide yourself with the needed authority to cast your vote, and you will be doing your duty toward yourself, and your children, and your children's children.

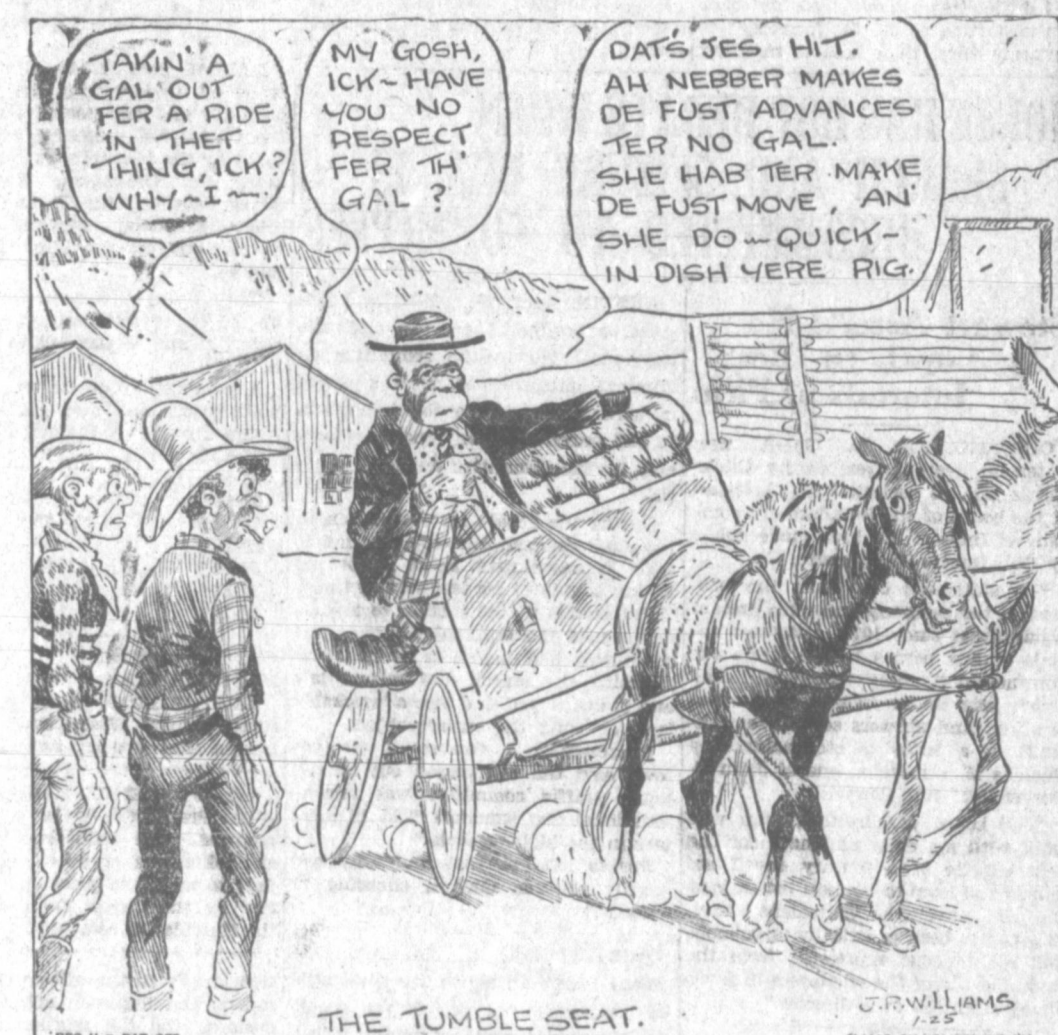

You will need it before the year is over.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Newspaper Office Scen of Powerful Screen Melodrama

Amid realistic background of a busy newspaper office with clicking typewriters, ringing telephones, clamorous presses, bustling reporters and noisy copy boys running back and forth to make an edition, Columbia pictures has woven a powerful dramatic masterpiece of love and intrigue, entitled "The Power of the Press" which will be shown at the Crescent theatre on Saturday.

The screen story relates the adventures of a cub reporter on his first big assignment and shows how his story incriminates the daughter of a candidate for mayor for the murder of the district attorney.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., portrays the part of the young cub reporter, while Jobyna Balston enacts the role of the girl, Del Henderson. Mildred Harris, Robert Edison, Wheeler Oakman, Edwards Davis and Charles Clary complete the cast in this thrilling drama.

Frank Capra directed. His deft handling of many of the situations strongly bring out the great dramatic strength of Frederick Thompson's popular story which was adapted by Sonya Levien.

"Pa" Stribling to Scout Christner Sharkey Battle

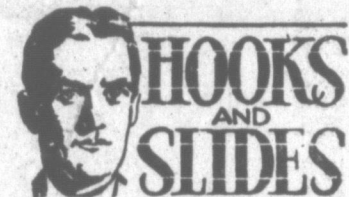

By EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Sports Writer.
NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—A chubby little fellow with the soft drawl of the Southland is peeping out from under the brim of his black derby today at things fistic in the big town. Tonight he will sit at the ringside in Madison Square Garden and turn his entire attention on Jack Sharkey's efforts to bruise K. O. Christner—and vice versa.

The little fellow with the slow smile is "Pa" Stribling who raised his boy to be a fighter of such proportions that Little Willie is now one of the leading heavyweights, one of the principals in the Battle of the Palms Tex Rickard planned for Miami Beach on the night of February 27.

"Pa" came all the way north from the Florida resort to scout Sharkey. If the fates are smiling on the late promoter's plans, and Christner, if necessary.

"The South," he said, "is just finding itself athletically. We had the greatest football team in the country last fall in Georgia Tech. Bobby Jones and Wats Gunn have thrilled the section with their golf and Ty Cobb made baseball fans of thousands. Now Young Stribling has come along to take his place as the foremost Southern representative in the boxing world.

"The Sharkey-Stribling match will be one of the biggest sport events in the history of the section and the boy must uphold the prestige of his predecessors."

HOOKS AND SLIDES
The gentlemen who have been commissioned to crown the new heavyweight champion by presenting him the Tunney-Muldoon trophy have ruled that the name of Tommy Burns shall not appear on the trophy as a former champion.
It is their ruling that Burns never won the championship in the accepted manner and that during the period between the time of Jim Jefferies' retirement and his return to the ring, there was no other champion.
The idea of appointing a committee to name a heavyweight champion of the world is a silly one and the committee is making its assignment sillier by ruling Burns off the list.
If proper succession to the heavyweight championship can be determined only when a champion is defeated in the ring by another fighter, how can the name of the new champion be engraved on the trophy unless the new champion knocks off Tunney?

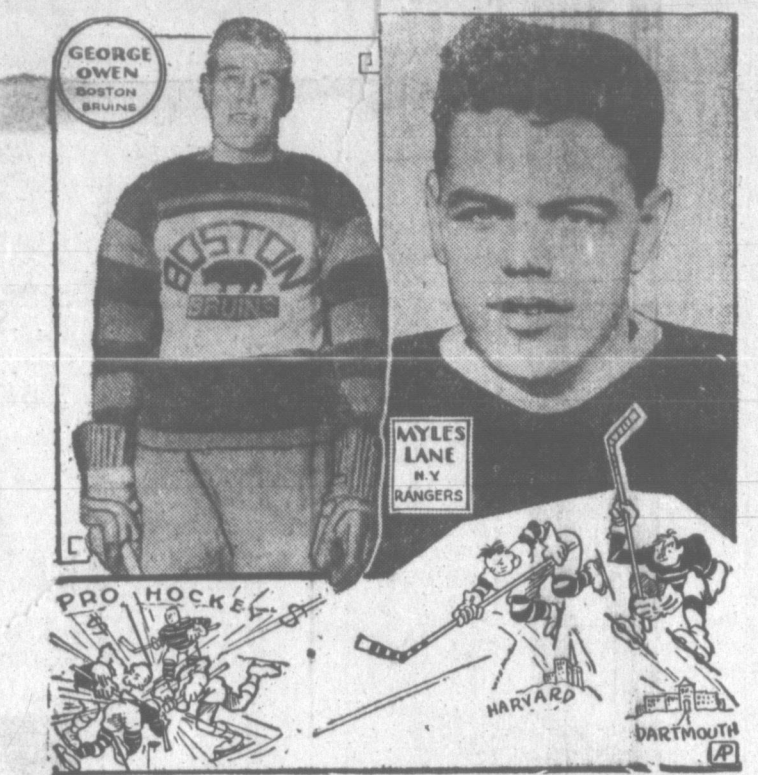

THERE WAS PRECEDENT
The gesture that Tunney made in offering the trophy is the same one, in principle, that Jefferies made when he said that Hart was the new champion and the same one that Jack McAuliffe made when he retired undefeated and turned over his belt to Kid Lavigne.
To be technically correct, McAuliffe did not turn over the belt to Lavigne but he said that he was the champion and he gave him the hock ticket for the belt.

SMART WORDS, DUKE!
Mr. Muldoon, the iron duke of the New York commission and the head man of the selection committee, said a few words recently that caused a howl from his associates on the committee.
"Why waste time in executive sessions?" he asked. "Why discuss so many plans for finding the new champion? Dempsey is the champion and he has been since the night in Chicago when Tunney got the long count."

HURRAY FOR DEMPSEY
If they write Dempsey's name on the trophy and crown him as the official champion, Tunney may become as glassy-eyed as he was on the floor in Chicago but the public probably will second the motion.
But that doesn't alter the contention that the name of Tommy Burns ought to be on the trophy if it is to mean anything serious.

WHAT WAS BROKEN?
The master minds of the Western Conference are shooting at the A. A. U. again and a lot of folks are trying to figure out what all the shooting is about. The master minds apparently are not quite sure of themselves. Their main point seems to be that they want to be the boss of something or other.
There are some important points too, involved for the fan to figure out or to care about.
Something happened about some Western Conference swimmers at Major Griffith, the head man of the conference athletic department, announced that his organization had broken with the A. A. U.
Dan Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U. was told about it.
"They have broken, eh?" he inquired. "Well, what did they break? They had nothing of ours to break."

Two Basketball Games Tonight in Central's Gym

The hard games of basketball are scheduled for tonight in the local gymnasium. The Central high girls' team will meet the Miami sextet at 7:30 o'clock, to be followed by the boys' teams for the same schools.

Both local teams have hit their strides and are likely to play some fast basketball. The girls have won their last two games after starting out with four losses. The Harvesters' last victory was over Miami, but tonight's encounter is likely to be a tough one.

Coach Odus Mitchell announced this morning that the gymnasium would be comfortable, as all available stoves had been lighted this morning.

With additional entries being received daily for the big basketball tournament here next week, it may be necessary to start play Thursday night instead of Friday morning, Coach Mitchell said this morning. He has received 19 acceptances and expects three more.

Strangler Lewis to Wed Pianist in Near Future

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Miss Elaine Tomaso of Glendale, Calif., daughter of the late Salvatore Tomaso, director and composer, will be married soon to Ed Strangler Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, she announced last night. Date of the marriage was not revealed.

Miss Tomaso, who is a pianist and accompanist, arrived from the west coast yesterday with her mother and sister. Lewis was due from New York today. He has a match with Marin Plestina here next Tuesday night.

Lewis, who has been twice married and twice divorced, met Miss Tomaso in Los Angeles last fall.
Miss Tomaso is 25 years old, a tall brunette. She is a graduate of the Northwestern university school of music.

(Feature Service Sports Editor)
NEW YORK (AP)—Pro football held no lure for George Owen and Myles Lane, but pro hockey proved to be a different attraction altogether.

These young men who scaled the heights of athletic brilliance in eastern college circles, especially in football and hockey, are now swinging sticks in the National Hockey league.

Owen, a graduate of Harvard, after resisting overtures made by the pro football moguls, needed four years to make up his mind not to resist the hockey offers.

Lane was action personified in snapping up a pro proposition. He joined the majors immediately after finishing his college course last year.

Owen, one of the crimson's greatest football and all-around stars, is with the Boston Bruins, while Lane, a former Dartmouth athletic luminary, wears the colors of the New York Rangers. Both are defense men.

Owen who broke into the pro game two months after Lane's entrance, is a regular. Lane, younger and less experienced than the old Harvard hero, rates as a spare with the Rangers.

Owen has been more than just a player with Boston and his consistently good work has helped the Bruins set a warm pace for the leading Rangers.

Lane has been "coming along," as the hockey critics say, but his chief claim to fame still is that of being the first player to jump direct from college hockey to the big league.

The two former simon pure blade specialists are in line for company from the college ranks. The schools are turning out more and better players each year, and pro hockey is spreading, with consequent increased demand for talent. So another year and several young men, now playing for glory, will be getting paid for their disc shooting.

Western Fighter Much Bigger Than Young Stribling

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25. (AP)—The giant western scrapper, Ralph Smith, will have it over W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia heavyweight championship contender, in their fight here tonight in height, weight and reach, but the other measurements give Stribling the margin.

The comparative measurements show: height, Stribling 6 feet, 1-2 inch; Smith, 6 feet, 5 1-2 inches; weight Stribling, 186; Smith, 225 pounds; reach, Stribling, 71 1-2 inches.

Walter Johnson Will Not Pitch While Manager

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 25. (AP)—Walter Johnson, for 21 years star of the Washington pitching staff, will not appear in the box this season for two reasons—Clark Griffith, owner of the team has turned against the player-manager idea, and he believes "Old Barney" is through.

"If Walter pitches while managing the club it will be against my wishes," said the Washington prexy, here on a vacation. "I signed him as a bench manager, not as a player."

"The player-manager has about run his race," Griffith said. "Its all right when the team is winning, but when it is losing you don't know how the player-manager wishes he could hide in the dugout."

W. T. C. C. Officials Waging Fight for Important Bills

STAMFORD, Jan. 25.—Ever mindful of the protection of the rights of the people of West Texas, President Bourland of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is thoroughly aroused as to the importance of the group of bills introduced in the senate by Senator C. C. Small of Wellington, that seeks to remove the clouds from the titles of land not especially West Texas, but in all Texas.

He is very impatient with men who are utilizing these technicalities of the law in order to deprive the real owners, and actual settlers of their rights and to cloud the titles of their land. Mr. Bourland opened his campaign in Throckmorton Tuesday and addressed a mass meeting at Albany that evening. Wednesday he spoke in Balingier and San Angelo. Wednesday afternoon he spoke in Metzton and San Angelo. Thursday he speaks at Fort Stockton at 10:00 a. m., and at Alpine at noon. Other points in West Texas will be visited on that day.

January 25, President Bourland will be at Marfa where he will greet Gov. C. A. Caravea of Chihuahua, and will confer with him upon Mexican national participation in the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in El Paso May 13, 14 and 15.

Mr. Bourland declares the land title validation bills are the most important single pieces of legislation to confront the people of Texas in the last half a century. Many Texans who for 30 years have thought themselves secure in the titles to their land, have recently discovered that when the old-time land maps and surveys are checked by modern instruments that errors are found which make vacant strips in the middle of many of the best farms and ranches in the state. This is not peculiar to West Texas, but is more apparent because oil development has made West Texas lands in certain sections of great value, and has made them more alluring to the land grabber. Instances have actually occurred recently in which farmers have found the very land upon which their homes, barns and wells are located affected by this matter, and one farmer in Coleman county had to buy back the land upon which his home had stood for years.

The old statutes defining navigable streams also are playing havoc with titles. These statutes define navigable streams as being any stream with a cut-bank of 30 feet regardless of water flow. If this interpretation is held correct, practically every dry creek in the state can be called navigable and the title to the creek bed reverts to the state. This is not serious except in case of oil discovery, in which event every owner of land through which a small branch or creek flows will find himself menaced by a strip of land running through his holdings over which he has no control. Wells can be drilled in these creek beds and he will have no claim to royalty, although these wells plainly draw oil from under the land which is admittedly his.

This situation now grips certain sections of West Texas in which active oil fields are not located and will confront every section in case oil or other minerals are located there. The Small bill seeks to validate the titles to lands held by the present owners, or to give the adjacent property owners prior rights to the purchase of "vacant" land when located. This will discourage operations of land grabbers. It is sought to do away with the ridiculous claims that dry creeks are navigable and to forever eliminate this uncertainty to pioneers and other land owners who have for years thought themselves protected by state patents to the land they have held.

Mr. Bourland will also discuss the water priority measures introduced by Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman. The water question became acute last year when it was discovered that certain alleged power companies had secured grants to the entire water flow of West Texas streams, and that municipalities, farmers and others could not secure use of water flow and flood waters of streams without purchasing the right from power companies. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce successfully defended West Texas' interests in the first round of this fight, but must now secure remedial legislation to guarantee water rights to West Texas towns and land owners. The Woodward bill would give priority to the use of water to municipalities and for domestic use first. Then would come irrigation and industrial use exclusive of hydro-electric power, then would come power usage of water and after that other uses. Stiff opposition has cropped up against the Woodward bill. The chamber is staunchly backing this bill and President Bourland will appeal to public sentiment throughout the state for this measure.

In beginning his campaign, Mr. Bourland will be joined by Homer D. Wade, manager of the regional organization. He will be accompanied throughout the campaign by E. H. Whitehead, publicity manager. He plans to throw all his energy and time into this campaign and will make one of the most strenuous campaigns ever undertaken by a president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

THIS HAS HAPPENED ASHORETH ASHE, returning from a trip to the West Indies, has gotten herself engaged to her former employer, HOLLI'S HART, rich beyond a poor girl's wildest dreams. Her happy homecoming is almost ruined. Before she has a chance to tell her mother, MAIZIE, of her engagement, she learns that MONTY ENGLISH, who used to be her sweetheart, is flying over from New York to see her. Hollis is also flying over. Ashoreth is alarmed, but they travel together—her fiancé and her ex-sweetheart. There is no telling, of course, what might be divulged under such circumstances. There is, also, the unpleasant suspicion that they may arrive at her flat together—and that would be decidedly awkward. But, worse than Monty's dreaded appearance, is the fact that Maizie has befriended a common little adventuress named SADIE MORTON, who was formerly in Hollis Hart's employ. Sadie has already secured money from Hollis. Now she announces her further intention of blackmailing him. Ashoreth is horrified. Of course neither her mother nor Sadie realizes that Hollis is her fiancé. But Maizie protests, as a matter of common decency, and Sadie turns to Ashoreth. "Do you blame me, Ash?" she demands. "A guy as rich as him—" honorably! Besides, you signed an agreement to leave him alone." Maizie looked puzzled. "An agreement?" she said, frowning. "What do you mean, Ashoreth?" Sadie crimsoned, and shoved her chair back from the table. "That's right!" she jeered. "Spill the beans!" "Doesn't mother know the whole story?" Ashoreth abandoned all pretense at eating. "It's your own fault, Sadie, if I've given something away. I'm sure I don't know what you've been telling."

"Why, she told me," began Maizie hesitantly— "But Sadie cut in sharply. "Oh, let's talk about something else!" "You began it," pointed out Ashoreth. "Yeah. Well, we'll drop it now." Maizie rose to take the dishes away, scraping them at the table, and gathering up the silver. "If you'd rather have apple pie," she instructed, "keep your forks. We got some lovely chocolate pudding, with whipped cream. I think maybe you'd rather have that. The pie's just a little doughy-looking. Maybe the oven was too slow. . . . Who'll have another cup of coffee? There's a whole half jar of nice heavy cream left."

ASHORETH took her mother's hands, and held them tightly. Her own were like ice. "Don't you worry, dear. I got Sadie under my wing now, and she's not going to get in any trouble. What that girl needs is a mother's eye on her. The trouble with you young people," pronounced Maizie, "is you forget your mothers know it all before you. Sadie now—she thinks I'm an old fogey, and innocent as a babe unborn. Talking with a girl like her wouldn't do any good, so I just took things in my own hands, and acted accordingly."

"What No—this is J. No, there's nobody here by that name." Ashoreth's insides rose and fell, and rose again, in that peculiar fashion of insides, when their owners are in great mental distress. "I guess you got the wrong number," concluded Maizie affably. . . . And Ashoreth's stomach was curiously soothed. She put her hand on her heart, and decided it would probably slow down in a minute. Her stomach fell like an empty cavern, but it had stopped churning. And that was something. "I thought maybe it was Monty," said Maizie, smiling all over, and standing near Ashoreth lovingly. "I wonder what time he'll get here."

"Monty?" shrilled Sadie. "Is Monty coming to Boston?" "He's flying over," announced Maizie proudly. "Gee, I wonder how much that costs? There's a guy that don't count his pennies," approved Sadie. . . . SHE smiled at Ashoreth. "Guess he must be crazy about you, Ash." But Ashoreth could not return the smile. She looked at Sadie coldly. "You don't really mean," she demanded, "that you are going to sue Mr. Hart?" "I certainly do!" Sadie laid down her knife and fork, clatteringly. . . . "And what's it to you?" she inquired. "But, Sadie, it would be so dishonorable! Besides, you signed an agreement to leave him alone." Maizie looked puzzled. "An agreement?" she said, frowning. "What do you mean, Ashoreth?" Sadie crimsoned, and shoved her chair back from the table. "That's right!" she jeered. "Spill the beans!" "Doesn't mother know the whole story?" Ashoreth abandoned all pretense at eating. "It's your own fault, Sadie, if I've given something away. I'm sure I don't know what you've been telling."

"Oh, mother! mother!" "Why, Ashoreth, what's the matter, honey?" "But he never did, Mums. I know he never did." "Of course he didn't, honey." Maizie comforted her child, caressing her absently. "You feel about it just like I do, don't you, dear? . . . You and mother'll take care of Sadie. She's a foolish little girl, and she needs someone like us to sort of watch over her. . . . Sh! Maizie lifted her hand warningly. "Here she is now, dear." Ashoreth sprang to her feet. "Maybe it's Monty," she said. "Maybe it is." Maizie smoothed her apron, and put her hands to her hair. . . . "I'll run out, and turn the gas on under the coffee pot. I'll bet he feels just like a good cup of hot coffee. And some brownies—Monty loves my brownies."

"And he was in the kitchen, when the door opened." (To Be Continued) Real tragedy in the next chapter. A dreadful, dreadful thing happens.

PUBLIC FORUM

Editor, Pampa Daily News: Will you please print this night letter in answer to "A Layman." "Old Panatic" and Mr. Layman did not sign their names to their articles so I have no way of knowing who either of the contributors is.

Now Mr. Layman I did not gather any such things as you seem to think Old Panatic meant to imply in his article. I only thought when I read it about to pass to the Great Beyond—of One who would guide us up the great and narrow path. This wonderful program you speak of seems to consist these days in a large measure of what any second rate musician would call jazz music—an insult to musical airs much less Christian airs. Imagine "How Firm a Foundation," that said and dignified tune, in syncopated time? Can you beat it, using language of the day? But we have it and therefore have to endure it.

What is the church teaching today—politics? If Mr. Layman does not believe this, no doubt he was conspicuous by his absence last summer and fall. "Strong men and women went down the aisle." Did they remain there, Mr. Layman. If so, how, when, and where "Wonderful program" Blah, blah, blah. Where are the audiences? At home listening over the radio, perhaps, then again they may be listening to the Jefferson City, Mo., band. I defy Mr. Layman to bring statistics from Sunday services throughout the land to bear out his statement. I too attend services in every important city and a great many villages in our great and glorious country year in and year out and my attendance is not confined to any religious sect or creed. Today it may be Dr. Truett's church, tomorrow the Polk Street Methodist church in Amarillo, next week Dr. Brabham's church in Pampa—and from Pampa to the Little Church Around the Corner.

Poor Old Elijah comes in for a hot shot from Mr. Layman. The Prophet Elijah was only being comforted when an angel of the Lord informed him that 7,000 souls had not bowed to Baal. The countless millions who did not bow is left to the imagination. Mr. Layman, can you even account for 7,000? Old Panatic did not mean any insult to Pampa, I am sure, for Pampa is beyond the average in the real interpretation of religion. Pampa has always practiced what it preached, whether through her churches or not. A welfare worker could tell you more than I, or perhaps the American Legion or the Chamber of Commerce.

Get next to yourself, Mr. Layman. Old Panatic was not figuring his bill. Take this as the honest opinion of a subscriber who is not afraid to sign her name and who believes that a church should practice what it preaches and teaches sincerely.

Capitalist Says Sargon Brought Back Health

The following enthusiastic statement was made by John C. Spencer of 498 Sixty-third avenue, West Allis, Milwaukee, who for thirty years was actively engaged in the commercial and civic life of that city, but who recently retired from active business to devote more time to his real estate holdings in West Allis, Wis., and Florida. Mr. Spencer has lived in West Allis forty-five years, is well known and highly esteemed. He said:

"I am leaving for Florida in a few days and will take four bottles of Sargon with me. I don't intend to be without this wonderful medicine.

"For the past year I have been in wretched health, suffering from rheumatism and other troubles on account of an inactive liver, principally. I lost weight rapidly and my strength was ebbing away. I was constantly troubled by indigestion and constipation.

"I felt a marked improvement after my first few doses of Sargon. Three bottles put me in wonderful condition. My appetite is splendid now, my digestion is sound. I have gained ten pounds and my strength has returned in proportion. I'm going to continue the treatment, of course for I wouldn't be without Sargon." Sargon may be obtained in Pampa from Father's Drug Co. and in Me-Lean from Erwin Drug Co.—ADV.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: The Holy Spirit.
Scripture Lesson: John 16:7-11;
Romans 8:12-17, 26, 27.

John 16:7. Nevertheless I tell you the truth: It is expedient for you that I go away; for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I go I will send Him unto you.

8. And He, when He is come, will convict the world in respect of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgement.

9. Of sin, because they believe not on me;

10. Of righteousness, because I go to the Father, and ye behold me no more;

11. Of judgement, because the Prince of this world hath been judged.

Rom. 8:12. So then, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh:

13. For if ye live after the flesh, ye must die; but if by the Spirit ye put to death the deeds of the body, ye shall live.

14. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God.

15. For ye received not the spirit of bondage again unto fear; but ye received the spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father.

16. The Spirit himself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are children of God:

17. And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with Him, that we may be also glorified with Him.

26. And in like manner the Spirit Himself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered;

27. And He that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because He maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God.

Time: Christ's last discourse, Thursday, April 6, A. D. 30. Paul's letter to the Romans was written A. D. 57.

Place: The last discourse to the disciples, spoken in the "upper room" in Jerusalem. The letter to the Romans written in Corinth.

Golden Text: For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God.—Rom. 8:14.

INTRODUCTION

We have had so far in this quarter a lesson on God as our Father, one on sin and one on Christ our Savior. We come today to study the New Testament teaching on the Holy Spirit. We have two passages printed for special study—one dealing mainly with the Holy Spirit's work in convicting the world, the other dealing with the Holy Spirit's work in the Christian.

Jesus said "It is expedient for you that I go away." Doubtless in their minds they said to that: "Lord, how can that be? We cannot understand how it could be better for us to be separated from you." Then Jesus tells them why it is better. He said: "If I go not away, the Comforter will not come; but if I go, I will send Him unto you."

According to have the Holy Spirit's presence with us than it is to have the bodily presence of Jesus. We are to remember that the Holy Spirit did not come to displace Christ, but rather to make Christ as a spiritual presence real to us. Jesus said: "I come to you" (John 14:18). Jesus means that He comes to us in the coming of the Holy Spirit. We have the spiritual presence of Christ in the person of the Spirit. And the universal spiritual presence of Christ is better than a local bodily presence.

Holy Spirit Is a Person
"And He, when He is come," verse 8. The Holy Spirit is a person; that is a being with intelligence, feeling and will. In Rom. 8:27, Paul speaks about the mind (or thoughts), of the Spirit. He then is an intelligent being. In Eph. 4:30, Paul says: "Grieve not the Holy Spirit." He then has feeling or sensibility. In I Cor. 12:11, Paul says that the Spirit distributes spiritual gifts as He will. He then is a being with will.

In the farewell discourse to his disciples in John (Chs. 14-16), Jesus talks about the Holy Spirit as if He were speaking of a familiar friend. He talks about His teaching and guiding the disciples. He is another Advocate like himself (14-16). He speaks of Him as "He", "that one" and so on (16:7-8). Evidently to Jesus, He was a person.

Holy Spirit Is a Comforter

"Comforter is a translation of the Greek word which has been taken over into English in the word Paraclete which means, "called to one's side," as a lawyer or advocate, to plead one's case in court. "Comforter" from the Latin fortis, "strong," and con, an intensifying particle) is one who makes very strong, as a powerful advocate would. All this described perfectly the work of the Holy Spirit.

Spirit Convicts of Sin
The Spirit convicts the world in respect to three things—sin, righteousness and judgement; of sin of which men are guilty; of righteousness which they do not have but may attain in the Christ; and of a judgement of condemnation that rests on men who reject Christ and his righteousness.

Men are to be convicted of sin, because they believe not on Christ. This probably means that unbelief in Jesus is the essence of the sin for which the world is condemned. But this is not unbelief in any passive or negative sense, it is positive, willful rejection. To reject Him then is to sin in the most positive and aggressive sense of the term.

Spirit Helps Us to Pray
We need help due to the fact that we know not how to pray as we ought. In this account the Spirit helps our infirmity. It seems that the Spirit guides us as to what we should pray for. The Spirit also puts earnestness into our prayers. He makes intercession with groanings that cannot be uttered. This intercession of the Spirit is not intercession apart from ours, but he intercedes in and through our praying. We succeed in our praying as we express the mind (or thoughts) of the Spirit. The Spirit knows the will of God and therefore he leads us to pray according to God's will.

Spirit of Adoption
"For ye received not the Spirit of bondage again unto fear." Before the Holy Spirit comes into our lives we are slaves to fear, awaiting God's judgment. "But ye received the spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father." Abba is the Greek for "Father," used by Christ in Gethsemane (Mark 14:36). This sonship of the Christian, based upon the Sonship of the Holy Spirit, is the most vital and joyful mystery of our faith.

"The Spirit Himself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are children of God." The truth is so stupendous and involves so much of blessedness that it needs the assurance of the Holy Spirit to confirm the truth with our spirits, before we dare to believe it.

The first verses of this chapter furnish a marvelous picture of the Christian life, in terms of the Spirit. If we have not the Spirit of Christ, we are none of his; but if we have the Spirit, then we have passed from the domination of the flesh and the world which leads to death, and we have come under the sovereignty of the Spirit. The truth is so stupendous and involves so much of blessedness that it needs the assurance of the Holy Spirit to confirm the truth with our spirits, before we dare to believe it.

"So then, brethren, we are debtors not to the flesh, to live after the flesh." But we are debtors to the Spirit, Paul implies. We owe the world nothing for it merely gives us death; we owe the Spirit everything, for he gives us eternal life.

"There is a famous parable of Plato, who says that the soul of man is like a chariot, guided by man's will, but drawn by two horses. The one horse he says is, white, beautiful and noble well broken and winged, too, always trying to rise and fly upward with the chariot toward heaven. But the other horse is black, evil, and unmanageable always trying to rush downward, and drag the chariot and driver into hell. Choose in time whether the better horse shall win, or the worse; whether your better self, or your worse, the Spirit of God or your own flesh, shall be your master."—Charles Kingsley.

Oklahoma Girl Has Husband Trio and No Divorces

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Jan. 25. (AP)—Husband No. 1 complained, and so Opal Owens, who admitted having married three men without the formality of a divorce from any of them, is held here on a bigamy charge.

No. 1 was Wyley Owens of Denison, Texas; No. 2 was P. H. Boyne of Fort Wayne, Ind., and No. 3 is Earl Wilder, who she married at Wagoner several weeks ago, the young woman told officers.

Owens came here seeking his wife. Officers found her with Wilder, but she produced a marriage license, so they didn't arrest her. They looked her up again later when Owens was insistent, and then she told about husbands Nos. 1 and 2.

was chosen democratic leader, a place he held until 1921.

Re-elected to the senate in 1920, he announced just before the expiration of his second six years' term that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself in 1926. Meantime, he had purchased Woodlawn, on the Polomac river, a part of the original Washington estate at Mount Vernon, and there he made his home part of each year.

Broke Uncle Joe

Entering congress in the days of iron rule of republican speakers, Underwood had a part in breaking the power of "Uncle Joe" Cannon and later in liberalizing the rules of the house. By his industry and energy he had gained a place on the judiciary committee and later served on the ways and means and appropriations committees, two of the most powerful of the house.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Immediately upon announcement of the death of former Senator Underwood of Alabama the senate adjourned today as a mark of respect.

Under the Underwood leadership were enacted also the Federal Reserve act, the Farm Loan act, the Clayton Anti-Trust act and all the others in the long list of legislation that went to the statute books during the first hour, or "peace years" of the Wilson administration.

His service in the senate was little less conspicuous. He had early appointment to the appropriations committee and, owing to the illness of Senator Martin, he had charge of many of the enormous war appropriation bills. Tax legislation also felt the influence of his guiding hand in the days when the nation was bearing an unheard-of burden in order to defray much of the war cost in a single generation.

San Francisco Radio Man Talks to Byrd Plane

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Examiner announced today that Fred Roebuck, announcer at its station KUP, had talked directly with Malcolm P. Hansen, radio expert of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, while the latter was flying in the expedition's plane, Stars and Stripes, over the Bay of Whales, Antarctica.

Roebuck and Hansen were in two-way communication for 22 minutes early today. The distance, approximately 9,000 miles, is believed to be the greatest over which a two-way all-radio conversation ever has taken place. The Stars and Stripes was 3,000 feet over the bay.

Hansen and Roebuck merely exchanged greetings, as the former was testing the radio gear of the Stars and Stripes and Roebuck was trying out the equipment of the new Robert Dollar station here.

Radio-telephone communication between this country and Europe often involves conversations across spans of 5,000 miles or more, but in some cases more than half the distance is covered by means of telephone wires.

Medals May Be Given for Rescue of Florida Crew

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Capt. George Fried's suggestion that members of the lifeboat crew of the steamship, America, be awarded life-saving medals as a result of their rescue at sea of the crew of the disabled steamer, Florida, has met with approval, but there is necessary routine to be completed with.

Captain Fried must formally recommend the medals for the men and the applications must be accompanied by affidavits describing the rescue in some detail. The applications and affidavits must be filed with the coast guard, and a board appointed by the secretary of the treasury must pass upon them.

Captain Fried's suggestion made in a radio message to the Associated Press drew the comment from Rear Admiral Billard of the coast guard that he would be delighted if the recommendations were made.

Almost simultaneously with Admiral Billard's statement a bill was introduced by Representative Black of New York which proposed that congress tender its thanks to Captain Fried and the members of the America's crew. The proposed measure would also authorize the award of gold medals to Captain Fried and such members of the crew as he might designate as having distinguished themselves in the rescue.

Preacher Quits Church to Wed

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 25. (AP)—After announcing he had decided to leave his church that he might wed a divorcee, Dr. Frederick R. (Kid) Wedge, Presbyterian minister and former pugilist, today was on a honeymoon with Mrs. Jennie M. Holloway, of Oakland.

Dr. Wedge and Mrs. Holloway were married here last night a few hours after he had written Mrs. Holloway, telling her the law of his church forbade the union as long as her former husband was living, and that Dr. Lapsey A. McFee, of the First Presbyterian church of Berkeley, had refused to perform the ceremony.

"It is better for me to remain a lonely Presbyterian minister than to marry you and break God's law," he wrote. "The Bible is against our marriage. While your husband is still living I would be breaking God's law by living with you, even though the laws of California sanction it."

Later, however, Dr. Wedge and Mrs. Holloway were married by the Rev. C. D. Norris, of the Berkeley Church of the Nazarene.

Asked why he had changed his mind he said:

"I rented a room in a San Francisco hotel and fought the problem out. And I decided to leave the church. I'm glad I decided as I did."

WESTERN UNION GETS TELEGRAPH PRINTERS

Simplex telegraph machines are being installed in the Western Union office this week and will be in operation early next week. W. B. Buchanan, local manager announced this morning. B. E. Schantz and C. J. Boyd of Dallas are here in charge of installation.

The messages will be received on a tape which will be transferred to a telegraph blank and delivered. The machines will receive messages at the rate of 60 words a minute.

The sending machine is similar to the receiving machines, both resembling a typewriter only equipped with impulse transmitters in place of letters.
