State

Not a few frozen hands and feet, bursted water pipes, low gas pressure in some parts of the city, disrupted wire service, and slippery streets today gave evidence of the severest blizzard of the season.

Last night's temperature dropped to 3 degrees below zero, but rose today 10 or 12 degrees as the sky appeared to be growing lighter. Snow continued to fall lightly at intervals.

Wire service was disrupted throughout West Texas, and the Associated Press leased wire from Dallas to the Pampa Daily News was erratic on account of swinging circuits. Electric service over the Amarillo high-line showed occasional fading.

COLORADO, Feb. 8. (P)—The temperature skidded to 10 degrees here last night, and snow and sleet continued falling today. Cattle men said they anticipated some livestock losses.

BORGER, Feb. 8. (P)—The temperature was around the zero mark here today, while a 4-inch snow hid the ground.

SWEETWATER, Feb. 8. (P)—A heavy ice mantle enveloped this section today, and the temperature was down to 9 degrees.

WACO, Feb. 8. (P)—Sixteen degrees above zero and turning colder was Waco's weather this morning. A heavy sleet was falling.

CORSICANA, Feb. 8. (P)—With the temperature registering a drop of 10 degrees in the past 12 hours, Corsicana today was getting a light snow. The temperature at 7 a. m. was 28 degrees.

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 8. (P)—With an inch of snow on the ground and more falling today, Northwest Texas was held by the severest blizzard of the winter. The temperature dropped to 11 degrees.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 8. (P)—Fort Worth was in the grip of the coldest weather of the season this morning as the temperature dropped to 18 degrees. Sleet covered the city with a blanket of ice.

DALLAS, Feb. 8. (P)—Sleet and snow falling in a 20-degree temperature, the lowest of the year, impeded traffic here today.

GALVESTON, Feb. 8. (P)—Overcast skies prevailed here today, with a temperature of 51 degrees.

PAMPA HAS OVER HALF OF POLL RECEIPTS

According to the number of poll tax receipts issued at the tax collector's office here, there are only 1,926 qualified voters in Gray county, a check of the books showed this morning. The staff has just completed mailing receipts and are getting ready to shelf receipt books.

Of the number of poll tax receipts issued, the three Pampa precincts have 1,057. Precinct No. 2 has 290 voters, precinct No. 9 has 291 voters, and precinct No. 10 has 476 voters. McLean was next, with 401 tax receipts issued.

Last year Gray county had more than 5,000 voters of which more than 3,400 were in the Pampa precinct, then precinct No. 2.

Lions Will Try for Library Prize on Opening Night

Pampa Lions were given the history of the Pampa Library association and its mission and told details of the formal opening of the Pampa Public Library February 12, at their luncheon meeting yesterday by Mrs. B. E. Finley Mrs. C. M. Bryson, and Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar.

The Lions will attempt to carry off the trophy to be offered the organization having the greatest per centage of its membership present at the formal opening and program at the Methodist church.

Entertainment yesterday included vocal solos by Miss Mary Emma Barnett, who played her own accompaniment, and readings by J. G. and Edwin McConnell, small sons of Roger McConnell.

Guests included Raymond Harrah, W. C. Smith of Dallas, I. Schwartz of St. Louis, W. B. Saulsbury, J. L. Cummings, Frank Allison, and Bob Rose.

Sleighing Barred in Business Area

"Although there is no law against riding on sleighs behind automobiles I am not going to allow it around the business section," Chief J. I. Downs said this morning. "I am doing it for the good of those making a practice of it, as there are apt to be accidents. It is all right to have fun in the residential section, but it is too dangerous in the business part."

Several near-accidents have been reported since the snow became deep enough for sledding, the chief says.

MEETING CALLED OFF

Because of weather conditions the meeting of the board of directors of the Pampa Board of City Development to have been held at 7:30 tonight has been postponed until a later date. Some of the members are confined to their homes and others are out of town.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 8. (P)—Officials at Texas Christian U. announced here today that Francis A. Schmidt, coach at the University of Arkansas, had accepted the position of head coach at Texas Christian university.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of Madison Bell, who becomes football coach at Texas A. & M. college.

"We are happy to announce," said Athletic Director L. C. Wright, "that Mr. Schmidt has accepted the position made vacant by the resignation of Madison Bell."

Schmidt will visit Fort Worth in the near future, probably early next week, sign a contract, and make other final arrangements. Details have not been worked out, but it is considered highly probable that the Arkansas coach will secure a leave of absence to conduct the Christians' spring football practice in April and May.

School Program for Tonight Not to Be Presented

Postponement of the patriotic program to be given the grade school pupils was announced this morning by Supt. R. C. Campbell, when it became apparent that weather conditions would make impossible a good attendance.

The program, originally scheduled for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, as the closing event of a three-week membership drive by the Parent-Teacher associations, will be given at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, Feb. 22, Mr. Campbell said.

Woman Bandit Resorts to Tears in Looting Bank

DETROIT, Feb. 8. (P)—A young woman walked into a branch of the Michigan State bank of Detroit today, fired two tear-gas bombs, held up the teller and escaped with $2,000.

The woman walked up to the cashier's window and, according to Thomas Witkowski, teller, fired the first bomb. She then presented a note demanding $2,000. Fearing she was armed, Witkowski handed her the money. Before walking out of the office and driving away she fired the second bomb.

Phillips Employs Enjoy Banquet

Boston Phillips, owner and manager of the Phillips Motor company, Hudson and Essex dealers here, banqueted his "force" at the Schneider hotel last night. Special guests included Bill Freeman of Amarillo, J. Wheeler of Amarillo, C. I. T. representative; Howard Langston of Amarillo, also with the C. I. T., and Bob Sowder of Pampa.

During the dinner interesting talks were made by Mr. Phillips and his guests. Mr. Langston spoke on automobile financing. Mr. Wheeler on used cars, Mr. Sowder on sales points and Mr. Freeman on sales force. Mr. Freeman and Mr. Phillips have been associated in business enterprises for many years.

Others attending the banquet were: E. C. Lackie, assistant manager; Dee Richardson, sales manager; Doc Coffey and Jack Eimes, salesmen; Leo Williams, shop foreman; Jim Hartley, Garland Wilson, Elmer Clark, Wadley Pitts and C. Anderson.

A movement is under way to unite the anti-Smith Democrats with the Republican party in Virginia, for the forthcoming state campaign.

DETROIT MAN ONCE POPULAR AS STATESMAN

Silence in Teapot Dome Scandal Resulted in Resignation

SERVED NATION
IN MANY WAYS

He Once Served as Mere "Gob" and
"Devil Dog"

DETROIT, Feb. 8. (P)—Edwin Denby former secretary of the navy, died here today.

After riding the crest of a wave of accomplishments that carried him to the cabinet of President Harding, Edwin Denby was drowned politically in the flood of oil scandal that boiled from the naval oil leases at Teapot Dome.

One of the most popular men ever to sit as a member of an American president's cabinet, Denby virtually was compelled to resign the secretaryship of the navy in 1924 as part of the cabinet clean-up demanded when the country became aroused over the leases which led to the indictment for conspiracy of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and the oil men, Edward Doheny, and Harry F. Sinclair.

Unfortunate acquiescence rather than deliberate participation was the most for which Denby was blamed. He always insisted that his part in the leasing of the naval oil reserves was proper and for the best interests of the country.

Denby's service to his country was full and varied. It ran the gamut from "gob" in the navy and "Devil Dog" in the Marine Corps to head of the navy department. His career, begun in his home state of Indiana, carried him to China, through the University of Michigan Law School, to fame as a Wolverine football star, to the decks of the American war, the Michigan legislature to the national house of representatives, to important positions in Detroit's motor industry and to the cabinet.

Denby was born in Evansville, Ind., February 18, 1870, the son of Charles and Martha Pitch Denby. His father for many years was United States minister to China.

Denby's industrial activity then engaged his attention. He was an original stockholder in the Hupp Motor company and later its treasurer. He next became an organizer of the Denby Motor Truck company. He retained his legal connections, and found time also to act as president of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

When the World War came, Denby was fully occupied with his business affairs, yet he was one of the first of Michigan's prominent men to volunteer in the ranks.

A week after the American declaration of war Denby had enlisted as a private in the Marines.

"Some must enlist in the ranks," he said. "All cannot be officers." But he was not a private long. In two months he was a corporal, a sergeant shortly afterward, and in six months he was a second lieutenant. At the end of the war he was discharged with the rank of major.

Gas Stove Explodes at Lamar School

Only the quick action taken by Mrs. Annie Daniels, teacher at the Lamar school, this morning kept a fire from getting headway in her room. A gas stove exploded, but Mrs. Daniels broke the connection and shut off the gas, not, however, before the window sill had caught fire. The fire department made a run to the school and with a chemical soon had the fire out.

Mrs. Daniels received slight burns about her hands and face when she shut off the gas.

Small's Land Bill Passes House But Senate Must Approve Morse's Amendment Before Moody Gets It

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (P)—The bill by Senator Small, validating patents on property lying across river beds, was passed by the house yesterday. The vote was 103 to 24, the big margin in its favor surprising those who opposed it.

Representative Chastain of Eastland charged the attorney-general with assisting "land buzzards" in attempting to defraud pioneer West Texans of their lands," while Representative Woodall of Marshall, against the bill, asserted "there is some one back of the curtain attempting to place private gain above the rights of the state."

The bill will now go back to the Senate, where it was sanctioned last week, for concurrence in an amendment accepted by Rep. Storey of Vernon who sponsored it in the House.

The senate refused to concur in the house deficiency appropriation bill which was cut more than half, including allowances for 1928 summer schools and $400,000 for transfer of rural school students.

The senate passed the Williamson pharmacy bill.

Editor's note: The validation bill as passed would clear title to river beds, or "navigable streams" where the patents to land have been in the owners' possession for at least ten years. Suits on claim of vacancies in such cases would be precluded. The status of existing suits under the measure is not yet certain, but would be cleared up by another bill which Senator Small is sponsoring.

The amendment referred to in the dispatch is one to allow the state to obtain sand and gravel from all river beds, and the Senate must concur in this before the bill goes to the governor for his signature.

Northcott Given Death Sentence

A jury after a little more than two hours last night found Gordon Northcott guilty of slaying Lewis and Nelson Winslow, brothers, of Pampa and an unidentified youth. The verdict carried no recommendation for clemency, making the death sentence mandatory. Northcott, who will be sentenced Monday, announced he would make an appeal.

Clark admitted participating in the alleged murders under threats by Northcott and his mother, Mrs. Sarah Louisa Northcott. Cyrus Northcott was held as a material witness. Investigators, led by young Clark, found bits of bone, hair and traces of blood at the chicken ranch. At the trial, scientists testified that some fifty bits of the evidence were from the bodies of juveniles.

Mrs. Northcott pleaded guilty to complicity in the slaying of 9-year-old Walter Collins. She was sentenced to life imprisonment.

A representative in the ansas legislature has reintroduced a bill which would place college fraternity houses on the tax rolls.

When Herbert Hoover enters the White House, he will have two more private secretaries than any of his predecessors have had.

Move to Investigate "Persecution of Independents" by Federal Agents Defeated in Lively House Session

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (P)—In a heated floor fight, Representative Harding of Fort Worth, was foiled again today in his attempt to secure sanction of a resolution asking congress to investigate persecutions of Texas independent oil operators by government operatives.

McCONNELL WELL IS SENSATION TODAY

The McConnell pool of the Pampa field caused a flurry of excitement in oil circles here yesterday when the South Petroleum Exploration company's No. 2 Roger McConnell in the southwest corner of the west half of the northwest quarter of section 174, block 3, I. & G. N. survey, picked up second pay at 3,214 feet.

After drilling to 3,217 feet, the well began to flow at the rate of 38 barrels an hour. There is enough gas to flow the well. At the end of the first 24 hours, 11 o'clock this morning, it had produced 700 barrels of 40 gravity oil, the Humble pipeline department announced.

This test is five miles west of Pampa and near the west edge of the McConnell pool. The well is situated less than a half mile west of the same company's No. 1 in the same section, which came in last summer for 500 barrels and at the present time is making 150 barrels a day. Roxana, Magnolia and Empire companies have small producers in the same section but not so far west as the new well.

Oil operations in practically the entire county has been curtailed but not entirely shut down. The cold weather has effected production in the entire Panhandle, reports say.

Carnes Will Go to Prison Farm Probably Today

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 8. (P)—Clinton B. Carnes, erstwhile treasurer of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist Convention, who faces a five to seven-year prison term, was expected to start for the state prison farm at Milledgeville today or tomorrow. Carnes was being held here to help the board straighten out its books, but the board decided his services will not be needed.

An explanation of why the board consented to such a short sentence for Carnes, after he had plead guilty to one of twenty indictments against him, was offered by the board's president, Dr. Luther Rice Christie, last night. Dr. Christie said the board consented to obviate the legal necessity of obtaining convictions totaling $300,000 of Carnes' alleged shortage to enable the board to recover Carnes' personal property.

In agreeing to the consent verdict, Carnes agreed that all this property should be given the board to make up in part, his defalcations, which are expected to total close to $1,000,000.

Only Hope Is Crushed

Is Notified

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8. (P)—Announcement was made today that Jose Leon Toral, assassin of President-elect Obregon, will be executed at noon tomorrow.

The judge of the San Angel court placed the cast in the hands of Dr. Jose Manuel Puig-Casaurano, governor of the federal district, this morning. The governor notified the director of the penitentiary of the sentence at noon, instructing him to carry out the execution exactly 24 hours after the notification, which thus fixed the time at noon tomorrow.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8. —Jose De Leon Toral, confessed assassin of President-elect Alvaro Obregon, spent what probably is his last day of life incommunicado in a cell at the penitentiary today.

Barring developments sometime before dawn tomorrow he will be taken to a courtyard within the penitentiary grounds and shot by a firing squad, in expiation of his crime in a restaurant at San Angel last July 17.

His attorneys asked President Portes Gil, who was en route from Ciudad Victoria, Tamaulipas, to the capital, to stay the execution until he had time to study a petition for clemency filed at the presidential palace.

The president answered with the granting of a 24-hour stay and requested the petition for clemency be wired to him. He received it last evening at Tampico, and telegraphed back denying further reprieve and executive clemency.

SEVERAL European countries have laws which provide specific indemnities to be paid innocent persons convicted of crimes. This country has no such law. But what reparation possibly could be made for the execution of Neil Shumway?

Shumway was a young Illinois farm hand. Tired of his job, he went to Nebraska where he found work with a farmer named Martin, a hard taskmaster. The boy did not like the idea of working for him, but there was no other job to be found so he accepted, and moved onto the Martin farm.

A short time later, Martin's wife was found murdered. The boy was accused of the crime and Martin was the chief witness against him. Terrified, Neil made a poor witness. The jury convicted him and he was hanged.

Meanwhile, Martin prospered and became wealthy. But suddenly he was taken ill. With death staring him in the face, he confessed to having killed his wife. Neil Shumway had been a victim of a "legal murder."

In "The Black Pigeon" by Anne Austin, which begins Sunday in The Pampa Daily News, a murder is committed. Several persons come under suspicion and a strong case of circumstantial evidence could be made against each. Only one, however, is guilty. Justice demands that no innocent person suffer. Can you find the guilty one. Begin the story and you'll not miss a single installment.

FARM RELIEF plans are interesting, good or bad. Here is one that comes from R. W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of agriculture:

- 1. Cease opening new lands for agricultural purposes either by taking water off or putting it on in any other way. 2. Encourage, through federal appropriations, further agricultural research. 3. Find new uses for agricultural products. 4. Discover, if possible, use for many of those agricultural products now wasted. 5. Give more study to the use of commercial fertilizers, and other soil applications. 6. More attention should be given to the prevention of disease among livestock. 7. Provide a better quarantine service to prevent introduction from foreign countries of diseased or infected plants and animals. 8. Give more attention to farm machinery.

"The federal government should give all the help possible to solving the farmer's marketing problems", says Mr. Dunlap, who adds, however, "not with the idea of requiring the consumer to pay more for his food, but rather with the idea of helping the farmer get a larger portion of the consumer's dollar than he is now receiving."

He continues, to suggest more economy without larger production, proper tariffs, and adjustment of taxes and interest on loans.

This series of farm relief ideas is somewhat in conflict with the governments Boulder Dam project, which would greatly increase production within a few years, and it smacks of no magic means of solving the market problem.

CIVIC REPUTATIONS are hard to change. More than half of the reference works of the county still list Pampa as a town of 1,000, and relief is not going to be complete until after the federal census of next year.

The Texas Almanac, published by the publishers of the Dallas News, is doing a big thing in printing at frequent intervals the latest facts obtainable about each county. The 1929 issue, just received, gives Pampa credit for about 10,000 population, and mentions the recent oil development and stress on agriculture. It gives facts about oil industries and the C. & O. W. railroad. Statistics are given as they are obtainable—for the year 1927 where last year's totals are not yet known.

Racing the Motor

This is an age of racing the motor.

We race the motors of our cars, although we know that it is hard on the cars. We race the motors on ourselves, driving, driving, in business and social affairs until as a nation we are known as a high strung, nervous people. Many of us do not get much enjoyment out of life, do not really live because of this constant drive.

We are also driving our boys and girls in school. In educational circles there has been agitation for some time for special teachers and classes for the exceptionally bright children in order that they may not be held back by the others. Such special facilities are seldom found in the average school system and it is often the custom to permit bright children to skip a grade or two.

The advisability of this practice is doubtful. It has been called to mind this week by the disappearance of Fannie Lee Minter from the University of Texas, because, as her parents at first feared, she could not bear the thought of failing in her university work. She had been an unusually bright student in high school.

Subsequent development seem to indicate that the girl was either kidnaped or left school for some other reason, but the point has been made that she had been unable to carry her university work successfully.

Grade schools and high schools should not, primarily be made preparatory schools, or colleges. Very few public school pupils ever get the opportunity for higher education. Their school work should be designed to fit them as best possible for life.

Crowding a bright child through school does several things. It throws the child into an association with older students, whose experiences and ideas about things outside of books are more advanced than the younger bright child's. The fact that a child is quick to learn from books doesn't necessarily mean that he or she is better equipped mentally. The process of learning in these earlier years is largely a matter of memory. The child who can easily memorize his lessons makes good grades, is known as a bright student. The big drawback, from that child's standpoint, in advancing him rapidly, throwing him with older students, permitting him to finish school while young is that his judgment and power of constructive thought do not keep pace with his ability to memorize. Experience in colleges often shows that the usually is nothing short of distinguished service for the state.

bright high school graduate who can quickly memorize a lesson, stumbles quickly when plunged into the type of college and university work that requires more of research, thought and judgment. A difference of two or three years in young people of that age makes a tremendous difference in their power to think and use good judgment.

The best education after all is the development of the power to think properly, rather than just memorize, so that the individual in later years upon meeting new problems can think them out correctly and act wisely.

Parents and teachers should think carefully before crowding a child through school in advance of its years. Racing the motor brings bad results in time.—Sweetwater Reporter.

Texas Almanac Describes Gray County's Assets

Gray county's assets are described as follows in the 1929 issue of the Texas Almanac, just received:

"GRAY—Location, Panhandle plains. Population, 1928, 15,000. Area, 899 square miles. Population per square mile, 164.6. Rainfall, 23 inches. Altitude, 3,200 feet. Total wealth, about $40,000,000.

"Physiography: Northern and western portions on high level plains. Southeastern and eastern portions rolling. Central part broken. Little timber.

"Crops: Total value, $3,000,000 to $4,000,000. This is one of the best wheat producing counties in the state. It also grows grain sorghum and other forage crops and about 6,000 bales of cotton. Agricultural development has been very rapid in recent years.

"Livestock: Large beef cattle raising industry, and much attention now being paid to dairying, poultry, and swine raising.

"Minerals: Large oil and gas production.

Pampa, the county seat, is a town of about 10,000 population, having grown to this size from a comparatively small town during the last few years. In and near the city are seven casinghead plants, seven or eight carbon black factories, and an oil refinery. Roads out of the city being paved and sixty blocks in the city in early part of 1929. New railroad to be built from Pampa to Clinton, Okla., will open new trade territory.

"Alanreed, a town of about 400, in the southern part of the county on the Rock Island. It is in the center of a territory excellently adapted to production of vegetables, grapes, watermelons, cantaloupes, and peanuts, and is a shipping point for a large livestock raising territory. McLean is another shipping point in the southeastern part of the county."

Landlord of 12 Farms Backs Tenant Dairying

ADA, Okla., Feb. 8. (P)—P. A. Norris owns a dozen farms, and he requires each of his tenants to milk at least 10 cows.

To be sure they do, Norris supplies the cows himself. The tenants keep half the calves and half the dairy products. He also stocks the farms with hogs and chickens, sharing equally with his tenants in the products of each. Norris says that returns of $1,200 to tenant and landlord alike on most of the 12 farms are proof that cows, sows and hens are dependable for a steady income.

Texas Man Runs Farm and Train

PALESTINE, Feb. 8. (P)—In addition to a man-sized job as conductor on a crack passenger train on the Missouri Pacific lines, E. B. Howard personally supervises his 335-acre farm near Palestine.

Known for his accuracy and precision as a "railroader," Howard employs the same art in the management of his farm. He is illustrating the benefits of diversified farming to a marked degree. Of particular merit is the fine dairy herd he is developing. Among his livestock is a brood sow that has two litters a year. No small item of income is the annual yield of mohair from a herd of 27 Angora goats.

Howard raises the feed for all his livestock. His field crops this year were cotton, corn, cowpeas, sorghum and hedges. A good home orchard is being developed and much of his land is in pasture.

Waste Utilization Real Farm Relief

ST JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 8. (P)—Advocating the utilization of farm wastes, Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas declared in a statement here that he believes the hope of the farmer lies more in the future development of such an industry than in farm legislation.

The occasion of the senator's expression was a visit to a manufacturing plant which turns wheat straw into building material.

He recalled the many modern uses of cellulose made from cornstalks and was optimistic over the future farm value of wheat and corn by-products which heretofore have been, particularly in the case of wheat, virtually worthless to the farmer.

The new use for wheat straw, it was pointed out, gives the average stack of straw a value of from $25 to $35, which the senator describes as a real contribution to solution of the farm problem.

If the farmer, the scientist and the business man will work together, Senator Capper said, they may be able to perfect an industrial solution of agricultural ills.

He expects to recommend to the department of agriculture that studies of

Plow and Pulpit Are Familiar to New Head of Farmers' Union

SALINA, Kas., Feb. 8. (P)—The plow and the pulpit have trained C. E. Huff for the presidency of the Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union of America.

The new head of this agricultural organization was born in a "dugout" on the prairies of northwestern Kansas 46 years ago, when the nearest railroad was 100 miles from his father's homestead.

Huff spent all his life in the same community of Norton county until 18 months ago, when he came to Salina as president of the Kansas Farmers' Union.

Farming in a region that receives little rainfall, he has known the discouragement that comes with crop failures. While neighbors were moving to less arid climes, he studied how to retain more moisture in the soil. When some farmers, seeing their wheat destroyed by drought, became so angry they cursed, Huff turned to preaching the Gospel.

When the Farmers' Union was organized in northwestern Kansas two decades ago, he was among the first to join. Later he moved to the little town of Oronoque, near the old Huff homestead, to manage the farmers' co-operative store, elevator and other business enterprises. Meanwhile, he kept up his work as a Christian minister.

Huff was vice-president of the Kansas Farmers' Union when the president, John Tromble, died less than two years ago. After preaching a funeral sermon for his chief, he succeeded him in the office and later was elected president in his own right.

Since entering upon the duties of the highest office in the state organization, Huff has directed cooperative effort among farmers in several activities, including insurance, storage of grain, marketing of livestock and buying of manufactured goods at wholesale prices for distribution through local unions.

The Farm Week in Washington

By FRANK I. WELLER

WASHINGTON (P)—Feed more corn to hogs and beef cattle. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine advises producers of the nation's new 2,931,000,000-bushel corn crop.

Production is going to be about 6 per cent higher than last year, the secretary says, and the best way to maintain a good market price is to sell the surplus "on the hoof", as pork and beef.

This is the second time Mr. Jardine has given advice on a major farm commodity this year. First, he advised farmers to hold their wheat. It has since been revealed that Canada's crop of bread wheat is below the original estimate. Also, the latest information from Europe makes it clear that the crop of the Danubian region must be revised downward.

Cattle feeding, he says, is preferable in many respects to hog feeding as a means of utilizing more of the corn crop. It takes about 800 pounds of shelled corn to put 100 pounds of gain on a 2-year-old steer. At this rate, 2,250,000 steers fed to be 100 pounds heavier would consume approximately 32 million bushels of corn.

Farm Is Leased to Study Erosion and Terracing

GUTHRIE, Okla., Feb. 8. (P)—A large scale study of the whole subject of terracing is in progress on a 150-acre farm which the federal department of agriculture, in cooperation with the Guthrie Chamber of Commerce, has leased in a section that has suffered extensively from erosion.

The object is to solve the many practical problems involved in the prevention of soil erosion and the restoration of lands already eroded. Soil specialists admit the art of terracing is little understood in this country. There has not been sufficient research to determine the types of terrace best suited to the various soils and to the behavior of these soils under varying conditions.

In this test, which is described as a highly significant research experiment, the farm will be terraced in strict accord with the requirements of soil and slope. The results will be closely observed and run-off and erosion measured. Such changes in location and dimension of terraces will be made from time to time as seems advisable until the best possible layout is obtained. All this will be done under actual conditions of cropping, cultivation and harvesting, including the use of modern farm machinery.

Federal figures reveal that 15,000,000 acres of farm land in the United States already have been utterly destroyed by erosion and that 126 billion pounds of plant food elements are washed from the soil each year. It is estimated that these nutrients could not be replaced for $2,000,000,000 annually.

Texas Man Runs Farm and Train

PALESTINE, Feb. 8. (P)—In addition to a man-sized job as conductor on a crack passenger train on the Missouri Pacific lines, E. B. Howard personally supervises his 335-acre farm near Palestine.

Known for his accuracy and precision as a "railroader," Howard employs the same art in the management of his farm. He is illustrating the benefits of diversified farming to a marked degree. Of particular merit is the fine dairy herd he is developing. Among his livestock is a brood sow that has two litters a year. No small item of income is the annual yield of mohair from a herd of 27 Angora goats.

Howard raises the feed for all his livestock. His field crops this year were cotton, corn, cowpeas, sorghum and hedges. A good home orchard is being developed and much of his land is in pasture.

Waste Utilization Real Farm Relief

ST JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 8. (P)—Advocating the utilization of farm wastes, Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas declared in a statement here that he believes the hope of the farmer lies more in the future development of such an industry than in farm legislation.

The occasion of the senator's expression was a visit to a manufacturing plant which turns wheat straw into building material.

He recalled the many modern uses of cellulose made from cornstalks and was optimistic over the future farm value of wheat and corn by-products which heretofore have been, particularly in the case of wheat, virtually worthless to the farmer.

The new use for wheat straw, it was pointed out, gives the average stack of straw a value of from $25 to $35, which the senator describes as a real contribution to solution of the farm problem.

If the farmer, the scientist and the business man will work together, Senator Capper said, they may be able to perfect an industrial solution of agricultural ills.

He expects to recommend to the department of agriculture that studies of

Tonight's Games Called Off When Cold Is Discussed

The coldest weather of the winter is not favorable to basket ball, and the game scheduled to be played here tonight was cancelled this morning, Coach Odus Mitchell announced.

Clarendon Junior college was to have played the Harvesters on the Central floor, and the girls of Central were to have journeyed to Shamrock for a game there.

A return game with the Amarillo Sandies will be played here Monday night.

Miller Huggins, according to the story he told New York baseball writers, was picked up recently in Daytona, Fla., by an officer of the law and was about to be booked for loitering.

Huggins, with two friends had gone to Daytona from St. Petersburg for a social evening. His friends had to leave early the next morning and Huggins checked out with them. He had to wait for a bus and was sitting in the lobby of the hotel when the detective asked him to explain himself.

The sleuth wasn't satisfied and said he would take him in for loitering and he rode him down to the station. When Huggins told the superior officers who he was, they were all apologues and they tried to make him promise that he wouldn't put a piece in the paper about it.

COSTS TO SEE HELEN

Dr. Sumner Hardy, president of the California Tennis association, filed the charges last summer which caused Bill Tilden to be suspended by the national association.

The good doctor has been an ardent crusader against Tilden and some of the other big stars who were charged at various times with activities approaching professionalism.

At the recent meeting of the Western Tennis association, the doctor became a defendant, however, when it was charged that he had held up a club in Detroit for one-half of the gate receipts before he would produce Helen Wills for an exhibition match.

The club protested that the $1,750, representing half of the receipts, was all out of proportion with the expenses encountered by the young champion.

MARK HAS FAULTS

Mark Koenig, the temperamental shortstop of the champion New York Yankees, is not going to be moved over to third base, according to the present plans of Miller Huggins, manager of the club.

"Koenig isn't temperamentally fitted for third base and he isn't fast enough," Huggins said. "I intend to keep him at short and give that young Lary a trial at third. Robertson is also available and I haven't heard anyone say that he wouldn't do as a third baseman."

JAWN WOULDN'T TRAIN

Johnny Risko, who was stopped recently by Herr Schmelling, the German, is not going to retire. He has enough money to get out of the business, but he does not think he is through.

"After the pastings he got in his last three fights he may settle down and begin to realize that he has to do a little training," Danny Dunn, his manager said. "He always has thought that no one could hurt him and he still says that Godfrey and Tunney hit him harder and hurt him more than the Dutchman did. But they didn't stop him. I think that Schmelling is a great fighter and I would like to get him again for John. It might come out different the second time if John would do a little training."

Missouri's Wrestling Coach Deserts Mat For High School

COLUMBIA, Mo. (P)—Because he dislikes wrestling as a profession, the University of Missouri's wrestling coach, one time claimant of the world's welterweight crown, is attending high school so he may get collegiate training for some other vocation.

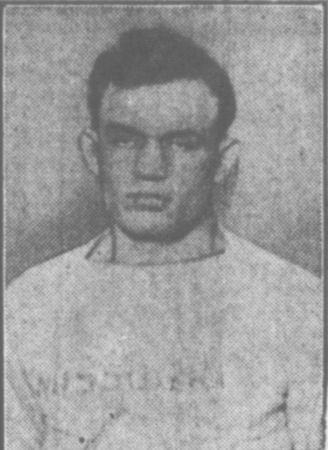

His name is Charles Fisher, who at the age of 26 will be graduated from Columbia high in June, having completed the course in three years. Then he will enter the university, probably to study medicine.

For ten years, since he "roughed it" as a boy in Colorado, Fisher has been a professional wrestler. He points to two disfigured ears and a crushed nose as proof that wrestling is "not so good" as a profession. "That's what you get for trying to please the customers", he says.

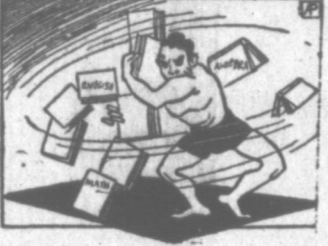

Although 250 students annually enroll in his classes, Fisher does not encourage any of them to follow wrestling professionally. He has, however, trained several grapplers who have won individual championships in Missouri Valley competition. Last year his squad won second place in the valley conference. Six years ago Fisher coached the first wrestling team ever to represent Missouri in the old valley league.

Fisher claimed the world's welterweight title after twice gaining a draw with Gus Kallio, then a claimant for the crown, who had defeated other aspirants to the championship.

For ten years Fisher has wrestled

Dempsey Asserts $30,000 More Than Expenses Received

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 8. (P)—Jack Dempsey and the Madison Square Garden corporation were some $30,000 to the good on the Sharkey-Stribling fight today, if estimates of the cost of the February 27 slugfest prove correct.

Dempsey has announced ticket sales for the Flamingo park match already have reached 189,000 which exceeds by $30,000 the estimated cost of the spectacle.

Promoter Jack also announced the arena would be ready for the customers in ample time.

Meanwhile the principals have added ring workouts to their golf course training. The Boston sailor went through a stiff workout yesterday with the light and heavy bags.

Stribling held to his nightly road-work, but expects also to get in several strenuous workouts at his training camp before his departure for the everglades Tuesday on a fishing expedition.

McKee Is Beaten By Dotson, Local Grappling Flash

Oscar Dotson, local blacksmith and the pride of Pampa's wrestlers, got mad at Red McKee last night at the Pla-Mor auditorium and threw him so hard to win a match that the red-headed mauler is under the care of a physician today.

McKee won the first fall in 25 minutes. Dotson took the second in 15 minutes and the last in 10 minutes.

In the boxing encounter preceding the wrestling, Rusty Cahill kayoed Frankie Farrell in the second round. Calvin Jones, local negro, took a 196-pound negro from California to task and kayoed him in three rounds.

LOCAL BOYS SENTENCED

According to an official communication received by Sheriff E. S. Graves today from Santa Rosa, Calif., three local boys are serving sentences of from one to fifteen years in San Quentin penitentiary as result of a drug store burglary. The names were given as Ralph Watkins, Hugh Moore, and Pat Russe. Identifying pictures accompanied the letter.

1 egg, 1-2 teaspoon lemon extract, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Cream the fat and add the sugar. Mix well and add the rest of the ingredients. Harvesters Lose Game at Amarillo by Score of 28-20—Same Teams to Play Return Encounter on Monday

The Pampa Harvesters lost a close game to the Amarillo Sandies last night on the Amarillo floor. After a tie-saw of scores in the last half, the Sandies finally went into the lead to win, 28 to 20.

James was high-point man for the Harvesters, scoring 11 of his team's points. Stalls scored five and Kahl four to end the scoring of the locals. For the Sandies Travis was the whole team. Besides making 17 of his team's points, he was effective defensively. Doche also played a nice offensive game.

At the half the Harvesters were in the lead, 15 to 10, but the Sandies came back strong to overcome the lead. The sharp-shooting James kept the Pampa boys in the lead until he went out on fouls. Three-quarter time saw the score tied at 17-all, with the Harvesters fighting strong.

A return game will be played here Monday night.

GERMAN VICTORY IS FINE FOR JAPANESE

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (P)—Kinrey Matsuyama stood alone today as the only unbeaten contestant in the world's championship 18.2 balkline billiards tournament, but the little Japanese owes at least a part of his exalted position to some exceedingly brilliant billiards by Eric Hagenlacher, the German.

Uncorking a run of 207, highest of the tournament, last night Hagenlacher gave young Jake Schaefer his first defeat and achieved, for himself, his first victory.

LAND BARGAINS

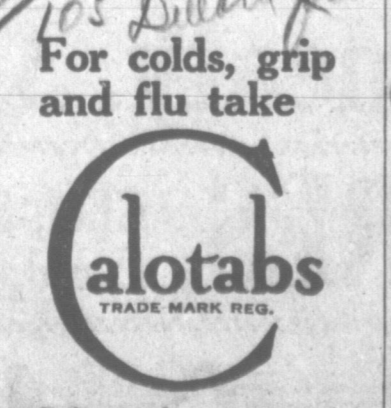

Two sections extra good level land, (sod) in Deaf Smith county. School within half mile. Eight miles south of the famous Carter 6000 acre wheat farm. Water at 200 feet. 1250 acres to be broke out this spring. Almost perfect lying land, only a very small white grass lake in one corner. Price on cash basis, no trade $15 per acre.

5400 acres southwest of Happy, 2500 acres broke out, 2000 acres in wheat and looks like a clutch big crop. Another 100 acres can be plowed. Balance runs down into little draws, not a canyon, more like a lower level flat and fine grass. Well fenced, most of it sheep proof. Two sets of improvements, also sheep barns. Located ten miles Tulla and three miles of N. near there. Price $15 per acre, no trade.

173 acres 7 miles south of Tulla, three miles north of Green. All tillable, 115 acres under plow. 90 acres good wheat. Well, windmill and fenced. Price $40 per acre and will guarantee a loan up to $25 per acre. Might take small Pampa home up to $1250.

Orchid by ELEANOR EARLY COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

CHAPTER XLVIII ASHORETH sat on the couch. She was very quiet, and she did not cry. Her heart, she thought, was broken. She even told herself that something within her had died.

After a few minutes, she took Monty's letter from behind Hollis' picture on her dressing table, and read it again, slowly. It was dated four A. M. and began "Dear Ash—

"This is to say goodbye. I never felt so sorry for anyone in my life as I did for your husband, after the small little scene you treated us to. The way he kept saying, 'Orchid, 'Orchid'—it would have wrung tears from a stone, or almost anything.

"He calls you that, because it means something sweet to him. The orchid is a beautiful flower. And expensive. Well, maybe there's some resemblance there.

"But, outside of that, do you know what an orchid is? Well, it's a parasite. And a parasite is a thing that grafts itself on to something that is capable of taking care of it.

"A parasite is a plant of an animal living on some other living organism, at whose expense it gets its food, shelter and the like. It attaches itself firmly, and it won't let go.

"Some parasites suck all the life out of the thing to which they cling, so that eventually they kill it.

"Orchids graft on trees, and stumps, and old roots. They are exquisite things, but they don't care what they live off.

"They are so mean, they won't even give the bees any honey. But they are very beautiful.

"There are girls just like orchids. They think that beauty is excuse enough for being. Maybe it is. But a lot of people despise human parasites, even the beautiful ones.

"Your husband thinks you are like an orchid. Well, you are. But he doesn't know how.

In the morning," she decided. "And Holly'll feel better, after a good night's sleep. Everything will be all right I know."

She realized that she had hurt her husband's pride cruelly. And that she had also come toppling from the throne he had made for her.

"I've lost my halo," she grieved, "and my adorable untouchedness. And, on top of it all, practically admitted that I never really loved him! Oh dear, Oh dear."

She rang for Mrs. Saunders, and asked for a sleeping potion from the doctor. Then she took a very hot bath, and composed herself for sleep.

If only she could stop thinking of Monty! Did he really despise her as he said?

"There's a lot of truth in what he wrote," she reflected drowsily. "But truth is such a hateful thing!"

She thought if she had told Hollis a small lie, protesting love, everything would have been much nicer. She wouldn't, for instance, be alone at the moment, with a dreadful pain in her head, and her eyes smarting so fearfully. Hollis wouldn't be roaming the deck all by himself, catching his death of cold. Or drinking himself crazy in the bar.

After all, perhaps she did love it love him. Not glamorously, like the movies and novels. Probably there wasn't very much of that sort of love in real life anyhow.

She remembered vaguely something she had read—something to the effect that, in her first passion a woman loves her lover; but in all others, all she loves is love. Well, there wasn't anything wrong about that. . . Only now, of course, she didn't even love love. That she supposed, was because of the wretched front teeth, on their still little swivels. It was absurd of course. But women were like that.

"Sometimes," she murmured sleepily, "I get the stiffest notions." She pounded her pillow with her fists. If only she could stop thinking! . . . "Oh God, please let me go to sleep! I haven't slept a wink for three nights."

She wished she could dismiss thoughts of Monty. That thing about a woman, in her first passion, loving her lover. . . Monty had been her first passion. She was only about 13 then. Well, if the poet was right (Byron, or whoever it was who wrote that), then, having exhausted her first passion for a lover, she couldn't ever again love anything but love. It wasn't her fault if she didn't love Hollis. . . Oh, dear, it was all so muddled. . . . And there was poor Holly, chasing himself around the deck. And Monty probably drinking himself to death in Paris. And here she was, all alone, with an awful headache, and nobody cared. Two large tears squeezed by her closed eyelids, and rolled slowly down her cheeks. . . . Eventually she fell asleep.

open the port holes, and Mrs. Saunders, obeying orders, had not returned. The cabin was close with the odor of perfume and powders.

She wondered if Hollis was in his room. She must have slept soundly for she had not heard him coming or going. There were voices in there now. Several voices, and a woman's among them. High pitched and hysterical.

"She rose and slipped on the green negligee that she had tossed the night before over the foot of her bed, ringing at the same time for Mrs. Saunders. She waited several minutes; and when Saunders did not come, she became alarmed.

She knocked on Hollis' door, but received no answer, though she could hear voices quite distinctly. She turned the knob, and discovered that the bolt on Hollis' side was drawn. She wondered if he had purposely locked her out.

There was something wrong. She shook the door violently. Almost immediately, it was opened, and she saw a little group standing about her husband's bed. Mrs. Saunders was there, and a man whom she knew immediately to be the ship's doctor. There were several other people of whom she received no particular impression. Mrs. Saunders stooped quickly, and drew up the sheet, covering Hollis' face.

Ashoreth was trembling so that she could scarcely walk. In that dreadful moment, as she propelled her shaking legs toward the bed, she had a strange feeling that it was not she—but some other woman—who was about to look upon the dead man. For she knew, instantly, that her husband was dead. "Veronal," somebody was saying. "An overdose."

The words came to her as from a great distance, and rang strangely in her ears. She remembered reading somewhere about the death of an author who had died in a hotel in New York from an overdose of veronal. Ashoreth wondered how she happened to think that. There had been an inquiry, and an autopsy. And the doctors said that the author had been troubled with sleeplessness, and so had taken veronal. It was strange how she was remembering all the details.

The doctor was talking to her, but she did not know what he was saying. She was wondering if there would be an autopsy, and if they would cut Hollis' body. She felt that she could not bear it.

She put her hands on the sheet, and turned it down from his face. He looked very quiet, and not unhappy. She wondered if he was glad that he had died. One corner of his mouth was quirked up a little, as though he was smiling a very small smile. She wondered if he was smiling at life. . . or at death. Or at her, perhaps. Or Monty, who knew she was a parasite.

The doctor was still talking. "You mustn't touch the body, Mrs. Hart." She bent and kissed the dead man on the lips. And, for the first time in many weeks, she forgot about those two teeth on the swivels that had killed romance.

"Oh, Holly!" she breathed. "Holly. . . Holly. . . You'll never call me Orchid any more. . . Not. . . ever any more." Suddenly she felt overpoweringly sorry for herself, and rushed from the room, crying loudly. A little later she fainted, and was unconscious for a very long time. When she opened her eyes, Mrs. Saunders was standing over her. "You're crying," she whispered. "Why, Mrs. Saunders?" And then she remembered. "Oh for Holly. My Holly. Holly's dead, isn't he?"

"The stewardess wiped her eyes. 'You poor lamb,' she said. 'You poor little lamb. But it's not for Mr. Hart I was crying. It was for yourself. You'll be that lonely, you poor thing. Your husband—God have mercy on his soul—has no call for tears. It's where there's no weeping nor sorrow.'"

Ashoreth's voice was very weak. "Do you say your prayers, Mrs. Saunders?" "I do that. God love you."

"Ashoreth slipped from the bed to her knees. "Oh, Holly," she prayed aloud. "If you can hear me where you are, you'll know that I'm not a bad girl. And you'll know I love you, Holly. Not the way you wanted me to. But I couldn't help that, dear. I'm selfish, and vain, and horrid. . . . But, oh Holly. . . Holly, dear. . . . 'God have mercy on you both,' said Mrs. Saunders, and lifted her up, and put her in bed.

IN a little while the doctor came, and saved her a sedative, and told her that Hollis had died in his sleep, and had not suffered.

After that she slept herself. An incredible, dreamless sleep, that lasted all through the night. The sun was shining again when she awoke. Presently Mrs. Saunders came in, with several envelopes in her hand.

"Cables," she said. "The wireless reports of Mr. Hart's death reached Paris and the States last night. Ashoreth took them listlessly. They were from friends of her husband's. And, though the names were entirely unfamiliar, the messages made her cry.

"Everybody loved him," she thought miserably, "but me. And I was the only one whose love he wanted."

Malzie had sent a radio. And there was one signed "Aunt Meg." Even Sadie had sent her sympathy. . . . "LOVE AND KISSES FROM YOUR FRIEND SADIE."

It happened that Monty's was at the bottom of the pile. "MY HEART GOES OUT TO POOR LITTLE BEAUTIFUL ORCHID. HOLLIS LOVED YOU ENOUGH TO DIE BUT I LOVE YOU ENOUGH TO LIVE FOREVER. I AM COMING TO SAVE YOU MY BEAUTIFUL ORCHID."

She read the message several times. And then, dismissing Mrs. Saunders, re-read his letter. "Monty," she told herself, "is the only person on earth who understands me. . . . And then she remembered two others—not on earth. . . . Her father, who had written her a strange letter. And Hollis, who had died with a smile on his lips. She tore Monty's letter into small pieces. And, tucking his wireless, slipped it beneath her pillow. THE END.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General topic: Repentance and Faith.

Scripture lesson: Acts 2:37-29; Luke 15:11-24.

Acts 2:37. Now when they heard this, they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, men and brethren, what shall we do?

38. Then Peter said unto them, repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

39. For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

Luke 15:11. And he said, a certain man had two sons:

12. And the younger of them said to his father, father, give me the portion of goods that is left to me. And he divided unto them his living.

13. And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living.

14. And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

15. And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine.

16. And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat; and no man gave unto him.

17. And when he came to himself, he said, how many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger!

18. I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee.

19. And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

20. And he arose, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

21. And the son said unto him, father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

22. But the father said to his servants, bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet:

23. And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat, and be merry:

24. For this, my son, was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be merry.

Time: Christ spoke the parable of the prodigal son in January, A. D. 30, three months before his crucifixion. Peter's Pentecostal sermon was delivered on Sunday, May 28, A. D. 30.

Place: The parable of the prodigal son was spoken in Peraea, east of the Jordan. Peter's sermon was preached in Jerusalem, in or near the "upper room" of the Lord's Supper.

Golden text: Repent ye, and believe in the gospel.—Mark 1:15.

Introduction
"In the second lesson of this quarter we studied about sin and in the third about the saviour. Today we have a lesson that shows us what ought to be the attitude of every man who hears the gospel—his attitude toward sin and toward the saviour. The attitude that we ought to assume toward sin is what is called repentance and the attitude that we ought to assume toward the saviour is called faith."
We are given two concrete examples of repentance and faith for our study—one the example of the people on the day of Pentecost, the other the example of the prodigal son.

Peter's Pentecostal Sermon
We have here first the message that produced conviction and repentance, vs. 32-38.

On the day of Pentecost, when the holy spirit came on the people, Peter began to preach to them and explain what was taking place. He explained that this was not the result of wine drinking, as some of the onlookers said, but was the work of Christ. Jesus had lived in their midst, been crucified by their wicked hands, God had raised him from the dead. This resurrection had been foretold by David.

Facts Concerning Risen Jesus
1. God raised him from the dead (v. 32). Of this fact the Christians were witnesses.
2. He was exalted at the right hand of God (v. 33). This meant that Jesus was given supreme authority in the universe under God. The chief advisor of an oriental monarch sat at the right hand of the king. So Peter says Jesus had been exalted at the right hand of God.

3. He sends the holy spirit on his people (v. 33). God the Father had granted this power and privilege to the exalted Christ. The work of conferring the spirit on his people is the work of Christ.

4. This exaltation of Jesus was in fulfillment of David's prophecy in Psalm 110. He is to remain on his throne until the last of his enemies is conquered (vs. 34, 35).

Repentance and Faith
Peter's word was, "Repent." That is "change your minds." They now had new light on who Jesus was, so they should renounce and repudiate their former actions in rejecting and crucifying Jesus.

The Prodigal Son
The parable of the prodigal son has been called "the pearl of parables," "the loveliest of them all," "the greatest of them all." To use the true and often-quoted phrase, it is Evangelium in Evangelio—the Gospel within the Gospel.

"And he said, a certain man had two sons." v. 11. The "certain man" is God, the heavenly Father. The younger son represents penitent sinners and the older son represents proud sinners, who do not regard themselves as sinners at all. "And he divided unto them his living." v. 12. A younger brother's portion, according to the Jewish laws of inheritance, would be the half that which the elder brother should receive (Deut. 21:17; 2 Kings 2:9).

"A Far Country"
Some region where his father was not, far away from the father's home, the home of his soul. As we see the prodigal son around us, the far country may be only across the street; indeed, the prodigal may remain at home; for it is a heart journey, a journey of interest and desire, that to a far country. "And there he wasted his substance with riotous living." "Boys, I've given up being a good fellow," said one of my classmates at a college reunion. "Ten years of it was enough. Patrimony wasted, outlook sacrificed, everything gone, I made up my mind to turn over a new leaf. And now, after the waste of 10 golden years, and five more of decent living, my conclusion is that it's better to be a square man than a good fellow."—David James Burrell.

"A Mighty Famine"
Poverty is an expensive business. Famine is one of its legitimate children. Famine is the normal condition of the far country; famine of physical comfort, of happiness, of friendship, of peace, of hope, of love, of all that makes life worth living.

"To Feed Swine" v. 15
He was in despair and "pinned himself upon" the citizen, fairly forced him to give him some employment to keep him from starvation. The Jews were forbidden to eat swine flesh and regarded those animals with the utmost disgust; nothing could be more degrading in their eyes than to be a swineherd. Many sins win us by promising advancement or at least pleasure; they never give us either.

"I Will Arise and Go"
"This is true repentance, even though prompted by hunger. He will hesitate no longer, because he has been so guilty. He is not going to wait till he feels greater sorrow for his sins. He will not tarry under the delusion that he can make himself any better. He sees his filth; and rags. He must go as a swineherd, just as he is, or not at all."

"His Father Saw Him"
The father was on the lookout for him, and had been through all the weary months since his boy left. In all the Bible no line pictures more beautifully the yearning love of God for his lost children, "And was moved with compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him." The Greek verb means "kissed him again and again." Christ is representing the infinite ruler of the universe; but here is no offended majesty, no standing on dignity, no exacting of humility. God goes out to meet every returning sinner, as far out as is best for the sinner himself.

"Put a Ring on His Hand"
The gift of fine garments and a ring were ever in the East high tokens of honor; thus, for example, Pharaoh distinguished Joseph when he exalted him to be second in the realm (Gen. 41:42). The shoes were plainly needed, for the poor fellow had walked all the way barefoot. None of these were worn by slaves, and it was made plain to the young man at once that he was restored to his former position in the household.

"He Was Lost and Is Found"
"For this my son." With these words the young fellow is definitely reinstated. "Was dead, and is alive again." Sin is indeed a death, and repentance and restoration the discovery of life. "He was lost, and is found." He who spoke these gracious words is the one who "came to seek and to save that which was lost." (Luke 19:10)

"Just as I am, without one plea, but that thy blood was shed for me, and that thou bidst me come to thee, O Lamb of God, I come, I come."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday school, 9:45.
Sermon, 11.

Subject, "The Challenge of Modern Youth." We are often asked: "What has the Church to offer modern youth in lieu of the inducements of the world?" This is a question which demands a definite answer, and we will try to answer this question Sunday morning. There should be a clear distinction made between the Church and the Churches.

Unfortunately men are influenced by different motives and sometimes deceived as to their own emotions so that the membership of the local Churches is frequently a mixture of spiritual and worldly people. Sometimes the worldly element dominates the action and attitude of the churches. Very often the pastor or some one outstanding man in a congregation, may determine its policy so that various things creep into its life are far from spiritual.

Proposals have been made more or less seriously that the churches should provide amusement centers, dance halls, card room, theatrical performances, and what not, for the delectation of modern youth. These are from unspiritual minds or the demands of the unspiritual element in the churches which is "of the earth, earthly."

Markets

EXCHANGE WILL CLOSE

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (P)—The stock exchange and the curb market will be closed tomorrow. The reason assigned by exchange officials is that brokers' staffs, crippled by influenza, must catch up with their work.

Announcement of the suspension of trading was made at the close of a session marked by a general drop which carried some stocks down 19 points. The total turnover for the day was 5,211,900 shares.

STOCK PRICES STRONG

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (P)—Petition of the New York Federal Reserve bank more than offset the increase of $110,000,000 in brokers' loans as a market factor, and stock prices opened strong today. Kennecott Copper showed an initial gain of 3 points and International Harvester, Johns Manville, Radio (new) and U. S. Realty opened 2 or more points higher. Pennsylvania Railroad was one of the few soft spots, opening a point lower.

WANT BANK PROBE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (P)—Resolutions were introduced in both the senate and house today seeking information about the recent warning of the federal reserve board against loans for speculative purposes.

Representative Black, democrat, New York, asked that the house banking committee investigate the board's statement which was given out Wednesday night.

FRIDAY

Miss Leora Kinard will be hostess to the French Heels club at the home of Mrs. J. S. Wynne on Frost street at 8 p. m.

Just We Bridge club to be entertained by Mrs. A. D. Johnston at her apartment in the Brunow building. Games called at 2 o'clock.

The meeting of the Child Study club has been postponed until Friday, Feb. 15, in order that all members may attend the program to be given in the Central auditorium.

SATURDAY

The Pampa public library will be opened Tuesday evening, February 12, with an informal reception and a patriotic program at the Methodist church. The entire public is cordially invited. A silver offering for the library will be taken, but there will be no entrance charge.

Local citizens having books they will donate to the Pampa Public library are requested to take them to the library room in the First Methodist church.

Pampa's Fourth P. T. A. Organized Yesterday Afternoon

A high school Parent-Teacher association was organized yesterday by 30 enthusiastic teachers and parents. Officers were elected and initial plans were made to enlarge the membership. R. B. Fisher, principal of Central high school, was elected president, following recommendations from a nominating committee. Mrs. T. H. Barnard was made vice-president.

Under the new P.-T. A. style of administration four elective chairmen take the places of four vice-presidents, performing the duties formerly delegated to the vice-presidents. These officers for the high school association are: Chairman of membership, Mrs. D. Blythe; chairman of entertainment, Mrs. A. H. Doucette; chairman of finance, Mrs. Floyd Smith, and chairman of programs, Mrs. R. C. Campbell.

Miss Fannie May was elected recording secretary, and Mrs. V. E. Fatheree, corresponding secretary. H. C. Platter is treasurer. Mrs. Alger Jones was elected reporter. Representatives to the library association were chosen, following Mrs. V. E. Fatheree's request to be relieved of the duty and the announcement that Miss Bernice Whitely was acting in another capacity on the library board. Mrs. T. W. Jameson and Miss Mary Schell are the new representatives.

Organization of the high school P.-T. A. gives Pampa four associations, with an enrollment of nearly 300. Officers of the organizations and school officials feel that the number should be raised to 500 or more before the annual convention of the Eighth district P.-T. A. is held here early in April. The high school group will hold its regular monthly meeting on the second Thursday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

Supt. R. C. Campbell and Mr. Fisher each spoke briefly at the meeting. Mr. Campbell told of the many opportunities an active and well organized P.-T. A. has at all times for improving the school, not only by giving material aid, but through co-operation with the teachers in solving problems connected with child-training.

Three Circles of Methodist W. M. S. Met Wednesday

Three circles of the Methodist Women's Missionary society met Wednesday afternoon for business sessions and lesson discussions. The first chapter of the society's new missionary book, "Jesus Our Ideal," was studied by each group, and much interest was shown in the course.

Circle No. 1 met in the home of Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar. Mrs. W. Purviance reported that 31 visits to the sick had been made by members of the group since their last meeting a week ago. Another encouraging report of the afternoon was made by the secretary, who stated that 15 additions had been made to the membership of the circle.

Those who attended the meeting were: Mrs. J. E. Ward, Mrs. Henry Thut, Jr., Mrs. W. Mullinax, Mrs. Horace McBee, Mrs. W. Purviance, Mrs. Fannie Hardin, Mrs. J. S. Wynne, Mrs. Earl Stuckey and Mrs. R. C. Campbell.

Mrs. J. C. Burgess was hostess to eight members of circle No. 2. The lesson was taken up in a round-table talk. Mrs. Willie Price was elected treasurer in a brief business meeting. Members present included: Mrs. Fred Cary, Mrs. Joe Hodge, Mrs. S. A. Hurst, Mrs. T. W. Underwood, Mrs. Willis Price, Mrs. Edwin Vicars and Mrs. J. M. Dodson.

The meeting of circle No. 4 was held in the home of Mrs. Tom W. Brabham. Three members, beside the hostess, were present. They were: Mrs. C. C. Dodd, Mrs. Z. A. Munday and Mrs. Lewis Robinson. At the close of the lesson, which was conducted by Mrs. Brabham, the group planned a program to be given at a special meeting of the circle next Wednesday afternoon.

FRIDAY

The patriotic program scheduled for 2 o'clock at the Central auditorium has been postponed one week because of the bad weather.

SATURDAY

The regular meeting of the Young Women's auxiliary of the Baptist church will not be held because of the unfavorable weather.

ing. Mr. Fisher mentioned a few specific problems which the high school P.-T. A. can help the school solve. Outstanding among these is the inadequacy of the school libraries.

A vote of thanks was given by the teachers and parents to the two newspapers of the city, The Pampa Times and The Pampa Daily News, for their aid and support in building the present splendid school system.

Library Expert to Catalog Books in New Public Library

Miss Tennessee Malone, librarian of West Texas State Teachers' college at Canyon, and district chairman of libraries in the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, will be here Monday to catalog the books in the Pampa public library and will remain for the formal opening of the library Tuesday evening, according to a telegram received yesterday by the Rev. James Todd, president of the library association. Miss Malone will be among the speakers on the program to be given in the Methodist church as a feature of the opening.

Miss Malone will be assisted in cataloging the books by Mrs. Tom Eller, who for four years was librarian of the public schools of Lawton, Okla., and Miss Bernice Whitely of the high school English staff. On Wednesday following the opening of the library, about $1,000 worth of books purchased by the association and a few others donated by citizens will be available to the public. Mrs. H. D. Lewis, first vice-president of the association, will be in charge of arrangements for keeping the reading room open.

Ace High Members Guests of Mrs. J. J. Cassidy

Mrs. J. J. Cassidy entertained members of the Ace High Bridge club and other friends yesterday afternoon. Three tables were attractively appointed in a color scheme of orchid and white.

The players were as follows: Mrs. Floyd Hollenbeck, Mrs. W. H. Lang, Mrs. Henry Lemons, Mrs. Carl Taylor, Mrs. James Ensign, Mrs. S. A. Burns, Mrs. W. A. Gray, Mrs. C. M. Carlock and Mrs. Douglas Day club members; Mrs. H. C. Heinlen, Mrs. J. H. Lutz and Mrs. Dewey Johnson, special guests. High score favors were awarded at the end of the game to Mrs. Lutz and Mrs. Gray. Consolation went to Mrs. Taylor. In a brief business session following the play, Mrs. M. W. Jones and Mrs. Dewey Johnson were elected to membership in the club. Mrs. Carl Taylor was chosen reporter.

Christian W. M. S. and Young Matrons Give Programs

Both the Women's Missionary society and the Young Matrons' society of the First Christian church met Wednesday afternoon. Their programs were similar, both centering on the churches, schools, and hospitals supported by the Christian church in Mexico and South America.

Mrs. C. E. Hutchins conducted the program for the Women's Missionary society. Her own topic was "Mexico and Her Problems." Mrs. Charles Hutchins told of conditions in Paraguay and what the church is doing to improve them. Mrs. Lee Ledrick described the missionary work that is being carried on in Buenos Aires through schools and hospitals. The afternoon devotional was led by Mrs. James Todd. The meeting was held at the church, with Mrs. Thomas acting as hostess.

Mrs. Paul Kasishke was hostess to the Young Matrons' society. The lesson was held under the direction of Mrs. Ivy Duncan. Others who present topics were: Mrs. Boles, Mrs. W. H. Lang, Mrs. De Lea Vicars, Mrs. J. T. McNamara, Mrs. L. T. Hill and Mrs. Lewter. The meeting was well attended, as was the meeting of the senior group.

Circles 1 and 2 Baptist W. M. U., Met Wednesday

Circle No. 1 of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. T. B. Solomon, with eight members present. Mrs. Solomon directed the study of a lesson from the Book of Judges. Plans were made for an all-day meeting to be held next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. L. R. Green. The meeting will be devoted to quilting.

Ten members of Circle No. 2 of the W. M. U. spent Wednesday quilting at the home of Mrs. T. W. Jameson. Guests at the luncheon hour were: The Rev. and Mrs. D. H. Truhitte and their daughter; the Rev. John Lee Harris, new assistant pastor of the Baptist church, and the Rev. Stewart of Miami, associational missionary. The members in business session voted to take up the study of a new missionary book, "Cuba for Christ." The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. O. J. McAllister.

The Fashion Board of the National Association of Merchant Tailors has said that the well-dressed man needs twenty suits of clothes, twenty overcoats, and haberdashery to match.
