(By the Associated Press.)
Three separate assaults on endurance flight records were under way in the West today with the army's big trimotored monoplane, Question Mark, already on its second day of a cruise in California that may last for weeks with the aid of refueling in the air.

The Question Mark, carrying a crew of five, passed the twenty-fourth hour in the air at 7:24 o'clock this morning. Taking off from Los Angeles yesterday the Question mark made contact with a refueling plane at intervals and took aboard gasoline, oil and food. Until the engines or the fliers wear out the plane will remain aloft.

Blaine M. Tuxhorn and Leonard Rhiner, flying a small open cockpit monoplane in near-zero weather, got off the ground at Marshall, Mo., at 8:54 a. m., today in an attempt to shatter the refueling endurance flight record of 60 hours and 7 minutes held in Belgium. Fuel and supplies will be picked up from the ground by means of a device invented by Tuxhorn.

In quest of a new endurance record for women, Miss Bobby Trout, 18, hopped off at Los Angeles at 6:50 a. m., hoping to better the mark of 8 hours and 6 minutes set at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., last month by Viola Gentry.

Milk chocolate and toast, the first food sent to the fliers, was catapulted into the air to the fliers at 10:38 o'clock. Two containers of gasoline were catapulted to the aviators at 11:48, in their first refueling of the flight.

In a note dropped shortly before noon, Tuxhorn said the plane was working nicely and everything was all right.

Marvin Tuxhorn, 17-year-old son of the flier, is operating the cannon which sends food and fuel into the air. Food is being prepared by Mrs. Tuxhorn, the aviator's wife.

The refueling device constructed by Tuxhorn catapults four-gallon containers into the air when set off by a hook attached to a cable dropped from the plane. The containers are projected along the line of flight at approximately the speed of the plane and are hauled aboard by a winch operated by a small, wind-driven propeller. The gasoline is pumped from the container into the fuel tank and then the container is dropped with a parachute.

HEARST OFFERS ANTI-PRO PRIZE

Believes Present Plan
Makes Lawless
Citizens

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Hearst through his newspapers today offered a prize of $25,000 for the best plan to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and substitute "a more liberal and more American measure."

Mr. Hearst's offer was contained in a telegram to Edwin J. Clapp, formerly with the Hearst papers, who now is connected with Durant Motors. W. C. Durant recently offered $25,000 prize for the best plan to enforce prohibition; was won by Major Chester P. Mills.

Mr. Hearst's telegram was in answer to one from Mr. Clapp requesting the publisher's views on "education VS Force in getting the Eighteenth Amendment Obeyed" and also asking for a talk about "this problem of law observance as a necessary part of the return of the country to being law-abiding."

FORMER PAMPA BOY DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Word was received here today of the death and burial of Harry Warren Bettis, 19 years old. He died in California, where he had joined the navy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Bettis of Addington, Okla.

Mr. Bettis was well known here and had many friends in this vicinity. He was a junior in high school here last year, but left to join the navy. He died December 26, and was buried at Walnut Springs at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The Rev. W. S. P. McCullough, pastor of the Methodist church there, conducted the services.

E. D. McIver of Panhandle, Adobe Walls scout executive, was a visitor here yesterday.

Miss Pebble Casey will be unable to return to Kidd-Key college at Sherman before the latter part of the week. She has suffered a severe attack of influenza.

County Judge Ivy Duncan took the oath of office at the direction of retiring Judge T. M. Wolfe yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The new judge then administered the oath of office to all county officers with the exception of Ewing Leech, tax assessor, who is in Waxahatchee, and R. B. Thompson, district clerk, whose office is yet to be created.

Sheriff E. S. Graves was the second to take oath of office. The sheriff is beginning his fifth term as law enforcement officer of Gray county. Other county officers came in order. The new county judge had the privilege of swearing in the retiring county judge as justice of the peace of precinct 1, LeFors.

Announcement was made that the county commissioners would meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock and take over the reins of the county government. There will be three new members in the commission: Lewis O. Cox, commissioner of precinct 2; J. R. White, commissioner of precinct 1, and County Judge Ivy E. Duncan, Commissioner Precinct 3, and Commissioner M. M. Newman of precinct 4, were re-elected.

The first matter that will be taken under advisement by the new commission will be the building of a road to meet the bridge just completed across the north fork of the Red river, east of LeFors. The bridge has been completed but no road has been constructed to it. Judge Duncan said this morning, "Other matters will follow."

Commissioner Lewis O. Cox of precinct 1 announced this morning that he planned to retain all precinct employees working on roads. He believes that they are competent men and know their work. "I don't feel any different as a commissioner this morning," Mr. Cox said today, "except that I know I have responsibility on my shoulders now."

Justice of the Peace C. E. Cary, Constable G. H. Parrish, County Supt. John B. Hessey, County Clerk Charlie Thut, County Attorney John Studer and Miss Mable Davis, new county treasurer, assumed their duties in routine fashion.

Judge Duncan and Supt. Hessey announced that they will have offices upstairs in the Baptist church until the new courthouse is completed. The county took over the entire Baptist church building yesterday morning.

Enough of the auditorium will be retained by the Baptists to hold services until the auditorium of the new Baptist church is completed, which should be within 30 days, the Rev. D. H. Truhitt announced this morning.

The justice of the peace office will probably be moved into the quarters formerly occupied by the county judge and the county superintendent, and the county treasurer will go into the justice of the peace's office.

Mayor Osborne Is Able to be Out

Mayor Dave Osborne is able to be out after a severe attack of influenza which confined him to his bed for two weeks.

The mayor states that he is feeling better, but that he is a little weak yet. Mayor Osborne was unable to attend a meeting of the commission held Monday night and as a result very little business was transacted by the commissioners.

Leap Year Ends and Proposals of 1929 Are Lacking

New Year's day passed without the issuance of a marriage license, Charlie Thut, county and district clerk, announced this morning. "Apparently no one believed that the first day of the year was the one in which to start a life of married bliss or otherwise," Mr. Thut said.

Texline Reports Lowest
Thermometer in Panhandle

Although a cold south wind swept over the city last night and today, the Santa Fe thermometer failed to drop below 29 degrees. Yesterday was the coldest day of the winter when the thermometer registered 19 degrees above zero at 5 o'clock in the morning. At 9 o'clock the thermometer stood at 22 degrees.

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 2. (P)—The season's coldest weather prevailed today in Northwest Texas and the Panhandle.

Locally the thermometer stood at 22 degrees, one degree below yesterday's minimum. At Texline the temperature was reported at 22 degrees and at Amarillo and Childress six degrees higher.

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (P)—All Texas today was in the grip of the winter's coldest weather as temperatures tumbled during the night, but the snap was expected to be brief in its duration. Rising temperatures were promised tonight in nearly all sections of the state.

Cloudy weather was in prospect. Although North and West Texas counties felt fullest the sting of icy blasts, the wave extended as far south as the Gulf coast, reports disclosed. Del Rio reported a minimum of 28 degrees and in San Antonio the mercury stood at the same level. Galveston was slightly warmer, the thermometer registering 34 degrees there.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Downs returned yesterday from Dallas, where they have been for the last two weeks.

Thousands of Men Answer Ford to Obtain Work

DETROIT, Jan. 2. (P)—Milling about the employment office of the Ford Motor company at Fordson, a crowd estimated by officials of the company at 32,000 men today responded to the announcement of the company that 39,000 additional men will be employed.

The crowd was unwieldy and the employment office, which was to have opened at 8 a. m., remained closed until guards could form the men into a semblance of a line.

Three Girls Die in Dormitory Fire

MONMOUTH, Ore., Jan. 2. (P)—A dart of flame from an illuminated Christmas tree set fire to a private dormitory on the campus of the Oregon normal school here last night and three girl students burned to death. Six others escaped by leaping from a second-story porch.

The dead: Evelyn Ohman of Portland; Florence Graham, Newport, Ore.; and Margaret Hemmers, Gresham, Ore.

The tragedy came on the eve of the opening of school after the holidays. Occupants of the dormitory had retired for the night and were trapped when the Christmas tree burst into flames, presumably started by faulty electrical wiring, and sent runners of fire darting into curtains and other inflammable furnishings.

LAND SALE IS URGED TODAY

Bidders Ask Injunction Withdrawal by Court

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (P)—Lloyd E. Price, local attorney, was in Austin today to begin a court fight to bring about the dismissal of an injunction which restrained the sale of leases on 54,000 acres of University of Texas oil lands. The sale had been set for today.

Before leaving Fort Worth, Price said he would present decisions before the trial court in an attempt to prove that State Land Commissioner Robison, named in the restraining order, could not legally be enjoined from selling the leases. Price represents clients who submitted bids for the leases after Robison had advertised the sale.

County Trustees to Meet Monday and Plan Work

An important meeting of the county board of trustees of the rural schools will be held here next Monday afternoon, County Superintendent John B. Hessey announced this morning. Siler Faulkner is chairman of the board. Other members are Wheeler Paris from precinct 1; L. C. McMurtry from precinct 2; W. W. Formwalt from precinct 3; and Charlie Carpenter from precinct 4.

Superintendent Hessey says that plans for the coming year will be discussed and a report of past activities presented. He says that an assistant will be appointed to remain in the superintendent's office in the courthouse, as under law provisions the superintendent must spend four days of each week visiting schools of the county.

In the past Mr. Hessey has been unable to spend the required time visiting the 17 rural schools in Gray county.

BODIES FOUND IN THE RUINS

Third Occupant Is Able to Save Life by Jumping

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (P)—Two charred bodies were found today by searchers in the ruins of a rooming house destroyed by fire seven hours earlier.

Although immediate identification was impossible, it was later established that the victims were James H. Martin, 28, Itasca, and Samuel R. Scott, 23, San Antonio, students at Baylor Medical college here.

Search of the ruins of the building and that of another structure destroyed at the same time was started when Martin and Scott failed to report for classes. Fellow students said they knew the two had been sleeping in the rooming house.

The only other occupant, J. Malcolm Daniel, was aroused by flames and smoke and leaped to safety from a second story window.

A woman told of screams she heard coming from the building as the blaze gained headway.

Martin's body was discovered on a stairway near the front of the house indicating that he had almost succeeded in making his escape.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2. (P)—Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador to France, was resting easily today under a sudden turn for the worse in his illness of the last 10 days that caused alarm at the Herrick estate at Gates Mills.

Dr. John Phillips, Herrick's personal physician who made a hurried trip to the ambassador's bedside early today at the call of the diplomat's son, Parmley Herrick, said Mr. Herrick's fever had abated and his temperature was near normal.

Barring complications, Mr. Herrick is in no immediate danger, Dr. Phillips said. The illness was described as asthmatic influenza.

"It's Like This—"

THAT MIDLAND meeting evidently found everyone in disagreement with the State's handling of land titles and sales, and adoption of resolutions and decision to maintain an office in Austin pending passage of remedial legislation were little more than formalities.

State officials, riding roughshod over the rights of citizens, must be subjected to legislative restrictions which do not now obtain. It has been apparent for a long time that our laws are in a snarl, and incidents such as have arisen lately will hasten that day when a constitutional convention will be called to decide upon corrections and beneficial alterations.

The title angle of the controversy was well summed up at Midland as follows:

"We deplore the general disturbance of the land title of our citizens brought about by reason of various suits filed on behalf of the State of Texas in an effort to recover certain lands alleged to be the property of the state; these suits having been brought to recover lands which have been under the peaceable possession and enjoyment of the citizens of Texas for a great many years, during which period of time such citizens have paid state, county and school taxes thereon and have never been disturbed in the possession of these lands until the discovery of oil in the vicinity thereof has enhanced the probable value thereof.

"That we deem manifestly unfair to these pioneer citizens of this state, who have entered into possession under color of title from the state, complying in every respect with the laws of the state with reference thereto, at this late date seek to deprive them of their property on account of their increased value."

Recommendations to the legislature may be summarized as follows:

- 1. Place venue of title suits brought by the State in counties where they originate.
2. Give landowners affected by title suits the prior right to purchase excess land discovered and have the prior right to apply for a permit to prospect for oil or gas thereunder.
3. Prevent the State from granting drilling permits to prospect for oil and gas in river beds.
4. Provide for more orderly marketing of title and leases on University lands, so that the maximum price may be obtained for them.
5. Strengthen the power of the railroad commission to enact and enforce regulations for the conservation of oil and gas.

Perhaps many of us who start to work like lions will end up like lambs before the first month is over, if we can arrange it.

With HOOVER in Latin America

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (By Mail)—Down here where the equator runs across, which is why this country is called Equatorin Sanish, you might suppose it would be pretty hot. But as late as the December day when the Hoover party came here it was altogether comfortable. The heat doesn't come before late January or early February.

Sailing up the Guayas river to this port was too cold for some of the boys in tropical suits. But the climate is more or less steady the year around and Guayaquil somehow reminded your correspondent of a big summer resort. In more than one respect it resembles Ocean City, Md., Rye Beach, N. H., Rehoboth, Del., and Oak Bluffs, Mass.

Alligator Hunting. Its about 70 miles from the mouth of the Guayas estuary to Guayaquil, giving the city a piece of the world's best motor boating, which is well utilized. Along this great river a few motorboats and native dughouts, a fort on one bank and an occasional tiny patch of thatched houses are the only sign of human life. Sharks are plentiful and there's splendid alligator hunting up some of the side-creeks. Now and then a freighter appears—your correspondent counted one British, one French and two Ecuadorian in the 70 miles.

The Guayaquil waterfront would pass for oriental, but large, new, modern buildings of ornate architecture begin to heave into sight. Members of the Hoover party won't forget the handsome Ecuadorian military cadets lined up beyond the dock, with their plumes, black and gold helmets, white coats and olive gray trousers with broad yellow stripes—a sight not seen by the ordinary new arrival in Guayaquil.

The British consulate looms up impressively along the main waterfront street, but the large American consulate turns out to be placed strategically, for advertising purposes at least, at the corner of the same street and Guayaquil's grand boulevard.

"Perpetual Spring" One gets the impression of a summer resort because the boulevard is so smooth and up to date and the side streets so rough. Again because the buildings are mostly wooden framed and limited to three stories. And there are hardly any store windows. The stores are wide open all day and at night huge sliding doors are pulled down or across to cover them up. Padlocks are everywhere used for locks, even on the doors of hotel rooms in most instances. Restaurant tables on the sidewalks add to the summery atmosphere. Ecuadorans claim theirs is a land of perpetual spring. No one ought to visit Guayaquil without going to see the alligator market. Your correspondent got a chance. They bring the alligators in to sell for their skins. Its perfectly safe because the snouts of the animals are firmly bound. Guayaquil is full of American flivvers of both makes. That is, there are nearly 700 of them in this city of 120,000 persons.

TWINKLES

Maybe Hoover went down to South America to see if the country could get along without him. If so, he learned what most anybody else is apt to learn.

If that wind-mill plane is a success, it ought to be well adapted to this climate.

Hoover is seemingly oblivious to apple sauce, but he puts highest approval on apple pie.

It is reported that medals for exaggeration have been pinned on several local men who told how well they kept their New Year's resolutions yesterday.

Personally, Twink started the New Year by starting to work at 5:30—his alarm clock was "off" and he didn't notice it until later.

BARBS

A two headed snake was found the other day near Stillwater, Oklahoma. It would have been easier to understand that discovery just after New Year's.

A girl mentioned in the Rothstein case told police she had lived in Chicago since she was 16 years old and never had been mixed up in a murder case. What a singular person!

Some women make fools of men, but a great many of them get there too late.

Dr. Will Durant calls thingling the greatest adventure. Its a timid age.

The prohibition law may be an experiment, as Mr. Hoover says, but its not half the experiment these day taking a Crink is.

Hoover told the folks down in Rio Janeiro that in all his travels he had found no picture which would quite compare with what nature had done for Rio Janeiro. Its just as well California voted before they heard that.

The rumor that the seat of Congress had been moved to New York city the other day proved groundless. The report is said to have originated from the 71st Regiment Armory, scene of the talking marathon.

Afghanistan has been thrown into rebellion by King Amanullah's efforts to abolish beards. Those Afghans must have something to swear by.

We were just wondering whether or not the Kellogg multilateral treaty said anything about Lottie Pickford's parties.

United States army officers are to drill the troops of Nicaragua. If there has to be trouble down there, it ought to be on a military basis.

Christmas is over and in two weeks printers on thousands of newspapers will never even remember using the letters Y-U-L-E.

Freak Bonehead by California Is Margin of Defeat

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2. (AP)—The Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech today held a claim to the nation's mythical football championship honors because of its strangely wrought 8-to-0 victory over the Golden Bears of California in the Rose Bowl New Year's day classic here.

Tech's victory was due in part, at least, to a spectacular blunder by Roy Riegels, center and captain-elect of the Western eleven, who, in the second period, ran 75 yards in the wrong direction, giving the Dixie Tornado an advantage which was turned into a safety and a lead that won the game.

A play that has been the subject of many gridiron plots and the basis of many a magazine thriller but seldom seen on a football field was that which Riegels made inadvertently when he lost his bearings.

Neither side had scored. Tech had the ball on its own 25-yard line. "Stumpy" Thomason, Tech halfback, fumbled. Riegels snatched up the ball and started for the Georgian's goal. He progressed a few steps, then wheeled about and headed for his own goal line.

Seventy thousand football fans watched in amazement as Riegels streaked down the field.

Riegels had gone perhaps 20 yards toward the California goal when his teammate, Benny Lom, first to realize what was happening, started in pursuit.

Not until Riegels reached the one-foot mark did Lom overtake him: Lom then pulled Riegels by the shoulder and motioned toward the opposite goal. Riegels stopped, and at that instant two Georgia Tech players tackled him and threw him over the goal line. The referee called the ball down at the place where Riegels had been stopped by his teammate.

Standing with his back almost even with the goal posts, Lom then attempted to put out of danger. But Vance Maree, Tech's tackle, smashed through to block Stanley Barr, California halfback, fell on the oval behind the goal line after a mad scramble, and Tech had two points.

Demoralized by the freak break, the Bears fell victim to a Yellowjacket attack in the third period. The stalwarts of California stiffened to hold on their own one-yard line, but the Tornado returned with even greater fury a few plays later to storm across the Westerners' goal line for a touchdown. "Stumpy" Thomason, packed it across from the 15-yard line. Georgia failed in the try for point.

A touchdown in the final minutes of the game was sweet fruit to California's gridgers who faced a shutout defeat, although they had outgained their foes almost three yards to one, and outbattled them virtually throughout. Lom, the backbone of the California offensive, passed with uncanny accuracy in this last drive that carried 80 yards, two passes to Capt. Irvine Phillips, on one of which the star end scored, and one to Lee Etsan, slippery quarterback, accounted for most of the advance. Barr's lofty kick for the extra point was successful.

Howell Is All He Is Reported Mehrle Shines

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP)—Those observers who ventured the opinion that "Blue" Howell, Nebraska fullback, was of all-American calibre evidently knew their tameles.

Just three days ago, this "Blue" Howell was rampaging around a gridiron in San Francisco. On that occasion he scored two touchdowns for the East All-Stars and was a material figure in that aggregation's 20 to 0 defeat of the West All-Stars.

Then he boarded a train and started for Texas, as if he already hadn't done enough damage for one holiday season. They met him with an airplane Monday at El Paso and landed him here that same afternoon.

Yesterday "Blue" suited up again, worked the stiffness out of his muscles, and made himself generally disagreeable. With 10,000 hostile fans looking on, the dynamic Husker smashed and tore his way to two more touchdowns and left the hand-picked team of Southwest gridiron greats, smarting under a 14 to 6 licking. His basting average for the week-end was fearful.

Behind a battering 200-pound line that charged low and brushed aside the pick of the Southwest, Howell gave one of the greatest exhibitions of ball carrying seen in Texas this season. Aided by the scampering Bob Mehrle of Missouri, who ripped off tackle and skirted the ends for brilliant gains, Howell crossed the Southwest goal line before the first period ended. Mehrle added the extra point.

Again, soon after the second period began, the big Husker traveler had cracked across. Mehrle, whose brilliance was overshadowed only by the misadventure of Howell, paved the way with a 25-yard dash that deposited the team's 28-yard stripe. Howell crossed the line again and again.

HARRIS IS MAKING TIGERS SNARL; SIGNS PROMISING NEW PLAYERS

These are the four men Bucky Harris, new Detroit manager, has picked to help him put the meek Detroit Tigers back into the American League race.

By JAY E. VESSELS (Feature Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK (AP)—Out Detroit way they are showing determination to get back some of the strength the club lost in shifting Lu Blue and Heinie Manush to the Browns for what turned out to be a conignment of three ordinary ball players.

Since taking over the Tiger managerial duties in November, Bucky Harris has made three major deals that have given his club the jump on all major league teams, with the exception of Cleveland.

The ink wasn't dry on Harris' own contract with the Tigers before he had spent $75,000 for Roy Johnson, San Francisco slugger, who hit 350 in the Pacific Coast last season. Then the former Washington manager drew on the account of the Tigers' owners for $100,000, the price of First Baseman Dale Alexander and Pitcher John Prudhomme, two International League stars.

Alexander and Prudhomme came from Toronto and cost the Tigers, in addition to the cash three ball players. The week following this deal, Harris swapped two men for one in a trade with Cleveland. He sent Shortstop Jackie Tavener and Pitcher

Keneth Holloway to the Indians for Pitcher George Ernest Uhle who had been sought by several clubs.

There will be another deal or two bringing additional strength to the Tigers, Detroit reports state. Consequently, the club which once rode at the top of the heap, with such greats as Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford showing the way, promises to become a first division fixture in 1929.

Times have been dull for Detroit fans since the days of Hughie Jennings and his cage full of snarling, battling Tigers. That is why Harris' aggressiveness is causing such a big hubbub in the Michigan metropolis.

Big On One Side

Another one of those touching little stories has been told around leading up to the point that there is a great big large heart under the tough hide of boxing.

Kid Chocolate is in the big dough now but a year ago he didn't have a dime. And this time last year, Eddie McMahon, promoting the little St. Nicholas club, was just one jump ahead of the sheriff.

Chocolate and his manager, Louis Gutierrez, went to McMahon and begged him for some work. McMahon said he had been unable to make any money with good cards and he would be calling the wagon if he started using unknowns.

Gutierrez said Chocolate would sign to fight for nothing and if McMahon didn't make any money on the show the Kid wouldn't expect a dime. If the show paid the Kid would be satisfied with a few bucks.

Chocolate was a tremendous hit. After his first appearance at the little club he packed them in week after week and all hands made money. The Garden matchmakers went after him but he refused to do business with them.

Chocolate would stick by the fellow who gave him his start and his first dime when he didn't have the price of a hot dog salad. And the Kid did stick to McMahon and he continued to work for his 15 per cent of the house when he could have demanded twice as much if he had not been so full of gratitude.

Not So Big Here

It was a beautiful story. So full of touching sentiment that it's almost painful. But, sad to state, there are two sides to the story. And the other side is as hard as the racket itself.

The Kid's manager went to the New York boxing commission before they went home for Christmas and told their side of the story.

It was true, he said, that they had a feeling of great gratitude for the St. Nicholas club and that they had wanted to give McMahon all the breaks they could but they figured that they had more than kept up their end, that they were being promoted without their consent.

The Old Forcer

The Kid's manager said that the first news he had heard of several matches made for the boy came when he saw

Harvesters to Play Moose Lodge Tonight and Shamrock Irishmen Friday—Many Games Are Made

Coach Odus Mitchell's Harvesters have resumed practice in an effort to achieve gym legs before the coming series of hard games begin.

Pre-Christmas efforts were not especially encouraging to observers, owing to the fact that few of the boys had had previous experience on an indoor court. The schedule for the next few weeks will remedy that lack materially, however.

The basketballers are slated to play the Moose lodge quintet at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

On Friday evening the strong Shamrock Irishmen will invade the Central campus for a game at 7:30 o'clock.

The Canyon Eagles, who have an unpleasant way of with Harvesters, will play a ra 4 and 7:30 o'clock on Jan. 4. The Harvesters will Shamrock game by going night game January 11 high will come here for a till January 16.

Panhandle's now games the site of an interleague January 18 and 19, and it will make an effort to be upper crust at this time.

These games, with other matched, will give the young a wealth of experience prior Panhandle tournament to be February 1 and 2.

posters in the windows advertising the matches.

Some of the matches were tough ones and the Kid was fighting himself out working week after week. He wanted the Kid to have a little rest but he couldn't do anything when he saw the advertising out for the fight.

He was told that when the promoters went to the expense of carding a show and advertising it that the commission would throw a fighter into the jug if he didn't go through with it.

And the Kid kept going through with them until someone tipped him off that contracts had to be signed and that he should go to the commission about it.

That is the other side of the story. And it's not so sweet.

Did You Know That—

A lot of the young men in the Western conference chuckle at Grand Old Man Stagg. . . . But he was the only one with enough drag to lure the Yale team out into his territory. . . . Yale and his Chicago team play in Chicago on October 17, 1931. . . . And they won't play in Soldiers' field. . . . Jimmy Reese was so sure of his job with the New York Yankees that he's not going to get it. . . . He was sold with Larry to the Yanks for delivery next spring. . . . But he took his job so easy last season that the Yanks wouldn't take him. . . . And there's some kind of a moral there. . . . The Washingtons let Crowder go because he had a bad stomach. . . . And Roy Johnson, the $70,000 Detroit fly snatcher, cured himself of a bad tummy by drinking the juice of Liberty cabbage.

Sangor Is Better Than Champ, Boosts No Title

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 2. (AP)—Little Joey Sangor today held decisions over by titleholders yet remained no champion.

Knocked out two weeks ago in a "warning up" fight with Armando Santiago, Joey yesterday punched and boxed his way to a clear-cut newspapermen's decision over Tod Moran of Seattle, junior lightweight champion, in a fight that went ten rounds. Wisconsin law, prohibiting decision fights, was all that saved Moran's title.

A few years ago Sangor technically knocked out Bud Taylor, king of the Bantams.

Acceptances are expected within a few days from many cities, and assurances have come from several coaches that they will enter teams. Entries must be made by January 23.

The tournament will be held in the fine new gymnasium at Central. Eight gold basketballs are offered to the winning team, a loving cup is provided for the second place winner, and gold basketballs will be presented the all-star team to be selected.

The Board of City Development will cooperate with Central in providing courtesies for the guests. Boarding arrangements will be made in advance.

Mehrle taking a well deserved rest on the sideline, the Southwest eleven achieved its only marker. As Haskins of the Big Six attempted to kick, Willie Bartlett, giant Texas Aggie captain, broke through and blocked. Trigg of Southern Methodist University recovered on the three-yard line and lunged over the goal line. Love failed to convert.

The exhibition schedule includes: April 2, Pirates at Houston; April 3, Port Worth at Port Worth; April 4, Waco at Waco; April 5, Dallas at Dallas; April 6 and 7, Oklahoma City at Oklahoma City; April 8, Tulsa at Tulsa April 9, Little Rock at Little Rock.

BOXER INSTANTLY KILLED IN COLORADO FIGHT

CRAIG, Colo., Jan. 2. (AP)—Dick Williams, Meeker, Colo., lightweight, died here tonight in the third round of a bout with "Wild Bull" Marks of Craig, Colo. The fight was staged at the Craig hotel. Williams was the favorite and he was killed by a right hand to the temple that deposited the 28-year-old fighter at the time of the fight.

Stribling Knocks Out Texan After But Two Minutes

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 2. (AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling, who will get his big chance in Florida next month against Jack Sharkey in a Rickard elimination contest, needed only a couple of minutes last night to dispose of Jack League, Texas boxer, in the heavyweight's last bout before the Miami fight.

Despite the brevity of the fight, there were three knockdowns in one of which Stribling was on the receiving end. Stribling blocked one of League's right handed punches and was down for the count of four, but returned to dispose of his opponent quickly with a knockout, followed by the knockout. The fight was said to be Stribling's 110th knockout victory in 240 straits. His weight was announced at 188 pound.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—The signs one sees on a movie lot these days have a flavor all their own.

Surely nowhere else is the motorist halted by such a sign as this: "Road Closed. Sound Recording!"

And nowhere else, surely, does one find in place of the ordinary "keep out" sign a large placard tacked on a stage door exclaiming in big letters: "Do not touch, Rattle or Shake this Door. SOUND RECORDING!"

The purpose of such warnings, of course, is to keep outside noises from sets on which talking pictures are being made. Until now they have been posted only outside the studio gates, but one of these days, no doubt, the newspapers of the studio area will carry bulletins to the effect that "tomorrow at 1 p. m. the wheels of industry in Hollywood will stop and inhabitants will observe two minutes of silence while Clara Bow enacts the Death of Little Eva."

Such a thought is frankly far-fetched. However, it was only recently that the Association of Motion Picture Producers sent an appeal to the 49 airports of Los Angeles county asking aviators to fly their planes "high and wide" of the film area's sound stages, as the noise of their passing airplanes was becoming a real handicap to several talkie producers.

WITHOUT POWDER

The spoken language of the studios also is puzzling at times. "Anything exciting on the lot today?" the inquiring reporter asked on arriving at First National. "Nothing much," was the reply, "except that Korda is shooting his wife on Stage 6."

Which translated into English meant that Alexander Korda, the Hungarian director who also happens to be the husband of Maria Corda, the Hungarian film actress, was directing her in one of the scenes of his latest pictures. No powder, no bullets.

COLLEGIATE

Alice White's next starring picture will be "Hot Stuff," a college story. Neither she nor her leading man, William Bakewell, nor her director, Merwyn LeRoy, ever attended college. All Hollywood, however, goes to the football games, so collegiate atmosphere will not be lacking.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—The motion picture museum which opened here so hopefully several months ago has closed its doors. It was started on the theory that film fans who come to Hollywood and find the studios closed to them would welcome an opportunity to gaze upon the empty shoes of Charlie Chaplin, the costumes once worn by Lillian Gish, and other relics of the celluloid past. But the visiting fans, apparently, thought otherwise.

So the costumes and weapons and other mementoes were carted away, to be replaced with the furniture and effects of Roy D'Arcy, destined to be sold (according to a sign on the window) at a "bankrupt sale by order of the United States court."

D'Arcy, it will be recalled, is the film and stage player recently reported engaged to marry Lita Grey Chaplin, ex-wife of the comedian. The museum proprietor who removed his movie exhibits in time to house the auction of D'Arcy's furniture was Harry Crocker of the Charles Chaplin studio.

Another Exhibit

Speaking of movie exhibits, one of the relics which hasn't yet found its way into a museum is an old automobile which Mary Pickford bought years ago and which, as a relic of its actuality in the past, was used in the "transportation needs of Bebe Daniels, J. Warren Kerrigan and Lois Wilson. The historic car, a Delage of pre-war design, is owned now by a rental agency which supplies "period" automobiles for pictures. Just at present it is appearing in one of the traffic scenes of "Children of the Riz."

Tragic "Props"

Relics of a grimmer sort also find their way into pictures. The property department at Paramount received the other day 200 German rifles salvaged from the battlefields of northern France. The soldiers who once carried them apparently dropped them in the mud when they died, for some of them were scarcely recognizable as weapons. Acid baths and other cleansing processes restored them to a fairly presentable appearance, so they will look efficient when carried past the camera by make-believe German soldiers.

Hard Luck For Jakle

CINCINNATI (AP)—Jakle May, Cincinnati southpaw, pitched only one full game in 1928 and that was a shutout victory over the Giants in June. Illness and a sore arm kept him out of action.

CAPITOL News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON.—Paradoxical as it seems, there certainly is something about the life of a soldier that promotes longevity. The retired list of the army shows no less than five survivors in their nineties.

Perhaps it's just accident; perhaps the years of active warfare these elder statesmen of Uncle Sam's military family put in during youth and middle age only widened their span of life. But for whatever reason, there they are, a quintet of devotees to the calling of glory who are looking back over the top of almost a century of life.

Regulars' Dean Is 96

First among them, dean of the whole tribe of army "regulars," stands Brigadier General David Stewart Gordon, born in Franklin county, Pennsylvania, in 1832.

Two wars have been fought by America since he passed to the retired list in 1898. He lives now in Washington and on May 23, next, he will have completed his ninety-seventh year. This hale, stout hearted old soldier was twice brevetted for gallantry in action, at Gettysburg in '63 and against the Indians of Wyoming at Miners Delight in '70.

General Gordon's military record reads like a soldier romance. As a dragoon lieutenant and aide to General Keyes he was captured at Bull Run and languished a year in military prison before his exchange. Then he fought at Fredericksburg, Brandy Station, Culpepper the Wilderness, Todd's Tavern, Old Church, Cold Harbor and Gettysburg. Immediately followed frontier service against the Indians in the Dakotas up to '79, then garrison duty until '84, when he commanded the federal cavalry during the Chicago railway strike troubles. He retired as a cavalry colonel.

Four Other Nonagenarians

Only six months junior to General Gordon is Major John V. Lauderdale, living at Brooklyn in his native state of New York. He was born also in 1832, became an army surgeon in '67 and retired in November, 1896, with the rank of major doctor. And only two months his junior is Major John Wesley Bean of Attleboro, Mass., born in 1833, a lieutenant of foot in '62, twice brevetted for valor, at Fredericksburg and Cold Harbor, severely wounded at Chancellorsville, and with battles like Antietam, Second Bull Run, South Mountain, Yorktown and many others on his list. Later he served at nearly every post of the old frontier in the west.

To this trio of ancient, valorous men, fellow retired officers like Captain William H. Nelson of Roan Mountain, Tenn., a Civil War volunteer and later regular, who retired in 1888 due to injuries in a fall from his horse, and Brigadier General Aaron Simon Daggett of Washington, a Maine volunteer in the '60's, must seem mere boys. Both were born in 1837 and what is a mere 91 years to a man of 95 and up?

Yet Daggett added two more campaigns to his list. He was three times cited for gallantry in the Civil War and three times again in China, where he supervised the advance of American troops against the imperial gates of Peking.

Daggett's record shows he fought all the way from Gaines Mill in '61 to San Juan, Cuba, in '98 and Pekin in 1900. He was twice wounded, at "bloody angle," Spottsylvania, and at Cold Harbor.

CLOTHING OF MURDERED GIRL HUNTED TODAY

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 2. (AP)—The hat, shoes and gaiters worn by June Nelson, 12, who was kidnaped and slain New Year's eve, were the objects of a search here today as a possible link to the identity of the murderer, who attacked the girl before strangling her to death. Police and deputies continued the hunt for the killer.

Those articles were missing when the body of the school girl was found yesterday, partly submerged in a shallow canal on the outskirts of the city, and a painstaking search for them in the vicinity was unavailing.

Most of the selling, however, consisted of small lots, and there was buying based on prospects of winter killing. Corn, oats and provisions were relatively firm, with corn starting unchanged to 3-8c up, and afterwards holding near to initial figures.

Head of Science Society Is Opposed to Analysing Sin

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (P)—Philosophical discussions of sin and religion have no legitimate place in the forum of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, in the opinion of Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, its president. His statement was aimed at a paper read before a section meeting of members interested in the medical sciences and the history of science by Prof. Harry E. Barnes of Smith college, on "Science Versus Religion as a Guide to Life." "This is a scientific meeting," Dr. Osborn declared, "and science has to do with what can be understood by weighing, measuring and analysis of the universe, and it covers the whole realm of what can be estimated and understood. It stops there."

Hoover Uncertain of Cabinet and Is Seeking Advice

U. S. S. UTAH, Jan. 2. (P)—The selection of his cabinet the next important task ahead of him, Herbert Hoover immediately after his arrival in Washington Sunday plans to begin a series of conferences with Republican party leaders.

Mr. Hoover probably will invite to his first conferences those congressional leaders who took a leading part in his campaign. These undoubtedly will include Vice-President-elect Curtis; Senators Moses of New Hampshire, Borah of Idaho, and Sackett of Kentucky; Speaker Longworth and Representative Newton of Minnesota, who was chairman of the party's national campaign speakers bureau, and Fort of New Jersey, secretary of the Republican national committee who was the Hoover floor manager at the Kansas City convention.

The president-elect indicated clearly today that he has not made up his mind on the cabinet appointments.

King George Is Improved Today

LONDON, Jan. 2. (P)—There was an optimistic note in today's news about King George.

He has retained the improvement which the doctors reported last night. "I feel that the worst of the illness is over," from the home secretary were the most cheering words about the royal patient the public has heard for many a day.

SOLUTION OF HEDLEY KILLING THOUGHT LIKELY

BORGER, Jan. 2. (Special)—Investigation of the probable guilt of two local men in the slaying of J. H. Richey Hedley night watchman, swung back toward the Donley county town today.

Officers said they had no confessions from Oscar J. Brown and Joe Dunwoody, held for investigation, but that answers made to continued questioning encouraged the belief that the crime was near solution. Brown is seriously wounded in the right arm, which may have to be amputated at the hospital where he is being treated. It was understood that Dunwoody would be taken to Hedley today.

Abilene Woman Speaks at Memphis Missionary Meeting

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 2. (P)—Closer cooperation between all agencies of the church was seen by Mrs. Nat G. Rollins Abilene, Texas, as the answer to difficulties in world evangelization, in an address on a "unified program of missions," before the International Missionary conference of the Methodist Episcopal church South, here today.

Mrs. Rollins, president of the Women's Missionary Society, Northwest Texas Conference pointed to cooperative projects in the business and industrial world which had turned losing propositions into profitable and successful enterprises and said the same principle should be applied to the field of missions, thereby reducing overhead expense and avoiding duplication of effort.

She detailed progress in unifying work of religious education by the various Southern Methodist organizations under instruction of the general conference, supreme legislative authority of the denomination.

While stressing the importance of new methods, Mrs. Rollins warned against the danger of discarding methods of the forefathers, saying that "tradition of the elders is not to be despised, but should be used as a signpost and not a hitching post."

"If," declared the speaker, "the supreme task of the church is to transform mere human beings into Christians whose influence will be exerted toward remaking this world and whose task shall not cease until all realms of life are truly Christian, then it must be true that missionary education, in and of the church, is an essential factor of true Christianity. As the several organizations in the church potent as they are, have failed to reach the entire membership and give to them the necessary missionary education which all should have, the necessity of making an adequate program has gotten into the thinking of many who have made a far reaching study of the whole subject of missions, both in its relation to fields and to the local church."

Marked Increase in Social Activity Is Noted in Pampa During Last Year—Civic Movements of Community Benefited

Closely interwoven with the civic progress of the year just closed was a marked increase in social activity, the latter having in many cases, augmented and advanced certain civic movements. Linked to both the social and the civic life of the community was the organization of three important groups, the Pampa Library association of the Twentieth Century club, and the Pampa branch of the American Association of University Women and its adjunct, the College club.

The organization of the women's clubs took place early in January, the Twentieth Century club having its beginning in the Pampa Civic club which was organized January 12. With the two new clubs taking the lead in sponsoring a public library for the city, the association was quickly organized by representatives from all study and service clubs of the city. The significance of these first steps and the subsequent efforts to give Pampa a much needed institution will shortly be realized. The library, recently moved to the educational wing of the Methodist church, is to be opened to the public this month, the Rev. James Todd, Jr., president of the association, said.

Several New Clubs The busy winter season of 1928 was marked by the organization of several card clubs and by many lovely social affairs. February was particularly interesting, with its Washington anniversary teas, and colorful Valentine parties. An outstandingly brilliant event was a Valentine tea given by the London Bridge club at the home of Mrs. I. B. Hughey. A delightful program, attractive souvenirs, and a wealth of pretty detail in house decorations made the affair memorable in the year's social history. More than a hundred guests, including the members of all bridge clubs of the city and a large group of out-of-town visitors, were entertained during the afternoon.

The following spring was the busiest period the federated clubs have known. Local federated clubs sent the largest delegation from any one city to the Seventh District convention in Dalhart and secured the 1930 convention for Pampa. Each club was well represented; and the city enjoyed the distinction of having two district chairmen at the meeting. Mrs. R. R. House, chairman of citizenship, and Mrs. I. B. Hughey, chairman of Americanization. Mrs. Hughey in the capacity of district committee chairman and representative from the Child study club, and Mrs. V. E. Fatheree as delegate of the Wayside club, attended the Biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs in San Antonio.

Guest Is Honored Shortly before the district convention, El Progresso and the Child Study club honored Mrs. T. F. Collins of Amarillo, president of the seventh district, with a tea to which all members of the other study clubs were invited. Sixty guests had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Collins discuss her three foremost ambitions for the district. Mrs. I. B. Hughey's home was the scene of the very pleasant event.

The A. A. U. W. and College club complimented the girls of the junior and senior classes of the high school with a seated tea on April 14. Mrs. Hughey's home again was opened and its hospitality enjoyed by more than 100 guests, among whom were the mothers and friends of the honored guests. Mrs. M. A. Finney, who had recently returned from the sectional convention of the A. A. U. W., made an inspiring talk on the advantages of a college education to the girl of today and the college woman's opportunities for service.

Club Heads Honored The Child Study club held open house at Mrs. A. Cole's home on April 27, entertaining the presidents of other study clubs of the city and many other friends. An interesting program made the seated tea one of the most enjoyable functions of the spring. El Progresso club also held open house, each member inviting a member to the reception in the home of Mrs. H. L. Ledrick. Talented members of the club and others of the city furnished an entertaining program.

One of the most largely attended social affairs of the year was a games benefit held by the card clubs to raise funds for the library. Merchants and others of the city donated 150 prizes and assisted in other ways in making the enterprise a success. During the afternoon and evening games, 250 guests were entertained, and $400 was received for the library. The benefit social, held in May, was followed by a recital by Mrs. C. F. Smith of Amarillo, also a benefit for the library. The Wayside club sponsored the concert and was assisted by other study groups in caring for details.

Brides Complimented Summer brought many weddings and pretty affairs complimenting the brides. Charming visitors in the city were inspiration for other delightful affairs, including bridge parties, picnics, and swimming parties. The women's church societies and lodges mixed business with pleasure, raising money for ly stated, and additional benefit programs for the institution are definitely under arrangement. February will bring, in addition to its usual round of parties, and "International Dinner" to be given by the A. A. U. W. and College club for friends and husbands of the members.

Mrs. U. J. Lanford Hostess to Wide Awake Bridge Club

Members of the Wide Awake bridge club were guests yesterday afternoon of Mrs. U. J. Lanford, who entertained with two tables. The game ended with Mrs. C. M. Raley holding high score, Mrs. Carl Dunlap, second high, and Mrs. Tom Morris, low. Charming favors were awarded, after which a dainty refreshments were served.

Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Webb Entertain at Dinner Tuesday

Otto Studer, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lang, Miss Sidney Smith, Judge Newton P. Willis of Canadian, Judge C. E. Cary, C. C. Alexander, T. E. Darby and Frank Horner.

PERMANENT WAVES That Look Natural Many women do not like a deep pronounced wave. For those fashionable moderns we suggest our realistic permanent wave that is more a suggestion of a wave than a wave... that gives the hair the look of being naturally wavy or the Frederick which gives a more pronounced wave.
