Humble And Other Buyers Remain Out

75 Cents Per Barrel Paid By Shell As Of Saturday

Purchasers of crude oil in the Howard and Glasscock county field were divided more clearly Monday on the question of whether additional curtailment of production in Texas justified advancement of the price from 65 to 75 cents per barrel.

Shell Pipe Line company, which has been taking 3,000 barrels of the 15,000 barrels daily allowable until Oct. 15 and is expected to take 2,200 barrels under the new 12,500 barrels daily allowable, notified producers with whose leases they are connected that it would pay 75 cents, effective as of Saturday, October 15.

Magnolia Petroleum company was the only other pipe line operator connected with this field that had posted the higher price. Magnolia, however, takes only its own production from Howard and Glasscock counties.

This left Humble, Cosden and Col-Tex pipe line companies still on the 65-cent basis.

Cosden officials here said Monday morning that they thought Cosden would maintain its practice of following the Humble company's postings. In that case, prospect of getting more of the Howard and Glasscock county production on the 75-cent basis appeared remote. This opinion was held in view of announcement by Standard companies and their subsidiaries, including Humble, that they would not meet the advances posted for all mid-continent fields by practically all other purchasers.

Construction Of Federal Building Further Delayed

Reduction of the original appropriation and governmental "red tape" likely will prevent actual construction of the Big Spring federal building from beginning before February or March.

Laroche and Dahl of Dallas and architects for the building, C. T. Watson, Chamber of Commerce manager, working plans were now being drawn up, but it will be Dec. 15 at the earliest before they can be submitted to Washington.

Allowing thirty days for approval by post office and treasury officials in Washington and a few days for bids, construction cannot possibly start before February.

Original appropriation amounting to $165,000 was first reduced by a blanket ten per cent cut, and $18,000 for a building site leaves only $130,500 for the building.

Course And Vision

THE NEW YORK Herald Tribune and Mr. Walter Lippmann the brilliant commentator engage in a cross-fire discussion of whether Roosevelt or Hoover is possessed of the greater courage.

The Herald-Tribune imputed to Mr. Roosevelt a lack of courage in certain great crises. Mr. Lippmann replies that Mr. Roosevelt's courage is at least equal to Mr. Hoover's.

As a matter of fact both probably have plenty of courage of one sort or another. Mr. Hoover is courageous to the point of stoutheadness. Mr. Roosevelt demonstrated his physical courage during the World War when he gallivanted around the submarine zone in a sub-chaser.

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER XXIII

Dudley wandered down to the garage to see that the roadster was put in shape properly. He was leaning on a fender smoking an after-dinner cigarette when the stage drove up. Dudley inquired for Bill and when he did not get a letter he made a casual inquiry as he stood watching the driver unstrap the boxes.

"Did you see Sam Dean down at Sam Debb's ranch?"

The driver tossed a packet of papers into the box and granted, "Sam's down country preaching a week."

Dudley smiled and turned to the man who was waiting on the car. "Miss Debb won't wait for you tonight. He turned and walked up the steps leaving the stage man to make arrangements about the unloading of boxes."

Dona was with her father, and Dudley waited for the driver to finish his work. He looked at the papers and found a letter from Sam Dean. "You let me know how you get on," it said. "I'm in the business and I'll do it myself."

Dudley pushed the letter into his pocket and went to the door. "I'll have him staying up within a week," he said. "I'll do it myself."

Call Of The West

The old timber king was beside him self.

"You promised not to fly off again," Dona chided him.

"I know," Asper rumbled. "But this is too much to stand."

"You must rest until morning. The boys will round him up. Swergin is so stirred up he will comb the mountain." Dona patted her father's hand.

"On top of that he shoots up my office clerk," Asper growled. He was beginning to give it but did not want to admit it.

"Did he hurt him much?" Dona could not help asking the question.

"Just shut his gun out of his hand and scared him half to death. Carter says he recognized Ball all right and could identify him. I'll make a convict out of that coyote if he lives to go behind bars!" Asper drew a deep breath and lay back.

"You won't accomplish anything but a month in a hospital if you let yourself for this way," Dona insisted.

Dudley came in at that moment and Asper looked at him eagerly.

"Did they get the rat?" he asked.

"That fellow is slippery as an eel," Asper answered.

"They're all working on the wrong theory," Dudley sat down and pulled his chair close to the bed. "I have a plan that would get him, I believe."

"Lil' Asper give you some men and you can fly at it," Asper growled. "You can't do any worse than that dumb timber boss."

"I don't need any men. All I need is a couple more days," Dudley explained. He looked at Dona and smiled. She reached out and took his hand.

"You're awfully sweet, Dud," she whispered.

Asper grunted. "Sorry to have made a row." He faced them and his old smile struggled through.

"But I never did have anyone trim me like this man, Ball, has been doing."

Dona realized that her father was well on the way to recovery. This last shock had not weakened him as she had feared. She was eager to get him out of Three Rivers, however. Once away, he would be able to forget that he had not made good his threats against Ball.

"You'll be able to move tomorrow," she said gently.

Asper shook his head. "I hate to hold you kids up but I'll have to stay now and see this through. Dudley, here, will want to try out his ideas a little longer."

Dona turned to Dudley but he did not come to her rescue so she did not push the idea of leaving next day. One thing made her glad they were staying. Stanley Black had failed her in several ways. Now she hoped to meet him again and to correct an impression she feared she had left with him. She did not realize how soon she would meet him or under what trying circumstances.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

Friday afternoon the greatly-touted Sweetwater Mustangs, who are probably ever bit as good as they are cracked up to be, prance into Steer Stadium for the annual Big Spring-Sweetwater contest. There have been Big Spring-Sweetwater games for years, and all of 'em have been good ones. Big Spring's 14 to 0 victory over the Ponies in 1929 is the most one-sided triumph registered by either of the schools in a decade.

Mustangs On Top

Over the last seven years Sweetwater holds an advantage in games over the Mustangs. In 1929 our information is one up in hostilities for almost a score of years. In 1931 the Mustangs won a 7 to 0 victory. The year 1930 found the Ponies, probably weaker than at any time in the last six years, slipping up on a listless Herd 19 to 7. In 1929 Big Spring registered the 14 to 0 triumph referred to above. In 1929 Sweetwater won 6 to 0, and with the victory went a district championship. In 1927 a single unsuccessful place had the Ponies 14 to 13 victory, and another district title. In 1925 and 1925 the two teams broke even, each winning and losing a 6 to 0 battle.

Championship Ponies

Three times in the last seven years has the district title directly binged upon the outcome of the Steer-Pony melee. As many teams have our neighbors to the east been successful. This season the game is every bit as important. Should the Ponies win the district title, the Mustangs will have a better chance to win. Should they lose the Ponies will breeze through the weaker clubs of the district until clashing with the San Angelo Bobcats on Nov. 24th for the championship.

Alumni Section

Delbert "Kuck" Ross was the outstanding man for the Sul Ross freshmen in their 0 to 0 tie with the San Angelo Junior College. Rams Friday afternoon in San Angelo. Rogers, still at fullback, gained more ground than any other back on his team and was awarded defensive laurels for the afternoon. He was captain of the Bovines in 1930, and was probably the most valuable man on the club. Another former Big Spring Hi fullback, Oscar Hibelson, is out of the John Tarleton lineup with injuries. Buster Bell suffered injuries Saturday in the McMurry-Sul Ross game. Sloppy Smith, fullback, center, back, or guard, is doing better than ever with McMurry. Luke Glover and Raleigh Mims are on the freshman squad at McMurry. Ben Anthony is waging a close battle for the center's berth at Texas Tech, and started against Austin College two weeks ago. Bob Crawford, another former Big Spring resident, is giving Anthony a close battle for the pivot position.

Sweetwater And Colorado Hold To Undefeated Status

Sweetwater and Colorado alone of the District 3 teams maintained an undefeated and untied status through the third week-end of play as the six district clubs prepared to open their conference season in earnest this week.

The Mustangs, displaying a powerful, running attack that was not to be denied, swept to a 54 to 0 victory over the Midland Bulldogs to chalk up their first conference win of the year, while Colorado, with a 21 to 6 win over McCamey to her credit, took it easy against the Roscoe Plowboys and emerged victorious 6 to 0.

Big Spring and San Angelo came through handily over Class B elevens. The 1932 Steers resembled their "point-per-minute" predecessors for the first half against the Stanton Buffaloes, scoring 32 points, but lapsed back into their listless ways in the third and fourth periods to win finally 38 to 0. San Angelo nosed out the Wilbert Blizzards 13 to 0 in her final warmup game of the year.

Interest in District 3 is expected to center upon the Big Spring-Sweetwater game Friday afternoon in Big Spring. Both teams appear strong this year, with the Mustangs of course branded as the more powerful, and the content will go a long way toward deciding the district title.

In other games the Colorado Wolves meet the Midland Bulldogs on the Midland field Friday afternoon, while San Angelo journeys to McCamey for the first of a two game series with Clyde Parks' helpless Badgers.

Standing of the teams through last Saturday (season's record): Sweetwater ... 3 0 99 1,000 Colorado ... 3 0 60 6,100 San Angelo ... 2 1 33 91,667 Midland ... 2 1 81 54,667 Big Spring ... 2 1 68 25,667 McCamey ... 1 1 19 21,500

Sweetwater ran out a pep squad Saturday that shaded Midland's Purple and White clad pepsters. Purple and Midland has a nice cheering section with a very good high school band. The American Legion band furnished the music for the Sweetwater section of the stands, and the Mustang supporters are rizzly enough to even have a school song and everybod stands up when it is being played.

Their parade at the half is really quite elaborate. All of this may be seen here Friday afternoon at a very reasonable price.

Papers Received For Commitment Of Man Who Was Fugitive 34 Years

KANSAS CITY (AP)—R. E. Vetterli, agent in charge of the United States bureau of investigation here, said Saturday papers had been received for commitment to a federal penitentiary of W. Kirby Robinson, 65-year-old Californian, who voluntarily surrendered at Leavenworth after 34 years as a fugitive from justice. The papers were received from Fort Smith, where Robinson was convicted in an Arkansas post office robbery. The Department of Justice at Washington announced Friday it could find no record of his conviction or escape.

Colorado Boy Being Pushed In Score Race

The touchdown parade in District 3 became a wide-open affair as Bud Hall, Colorado, was checked last week-end by the Roscoe Plowboys and Big Spring, San Angelo, and Sweetwater backs staged, material gains.

Hall still continued to head the standings, but Richbourg and Koberg of Big Spring, Delker of San Angelo, Sheridan of Sweetwater was only a few points behind.

Danciger Obtains Injunction Against New Proration Rule

AUSTIN (Special)—Danciger Oil and Refining company Thursday was granted by supreme court a temporary injunction to restrain enforcement of a new order of the railroad commission bringing its Hutchinson and Gray county wells under the state proration rules.

The company was required to post $2500 injunction bond. It plea recited that until recently the commission complied with stipulations made when the case was tried in 1931 before District Judge C. A. Wheeler, that pending outcome of appeal, the wells would not be interfered with.

It pointed out that not only will proration orders of the commission but all statutes as well attempting to authorize proration, were attacked in the suit as unconstitutional.

The commission, acting under a new proration law that that effective when the suit originated, recently ordered the Danciger company to bring all its Panhandle wells under the proration rules.

Supl. and Mrs. W. C. Blaaken-ship went to Sweetwater Saturday to see the game.

State Financial Administration Would Be Almost Entirely Revised By Recommendations Of Committee

AUSTIN—An almost entire revision and modernization of the financial administration of the state, with elimination of present "hit or miss" methods of controlling expenditures, will be recommended to the next session of the legislature. That was announced by Harry M. Graves, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Organization and Economy, meeting in Austin to continue its study of the complex problems involved in the committee's attempt to reorganize the state's 114 distinct governmental departments.

Commenting upon the findings made to date by Griffenhagen and associates, technical consultants to the committee, Mr. Graves described the state's present financial structure and some of the proposed improvements suggested in its fiscal affairs.

"No general accounts reflecting the actual financial condition of the state government or of the current budget are maintained," said Mr. Graves. "Even the production of a simple balance sheet for the state as a whole would be a formidable task under present conditions."

Coordination.

"Although throughout the state service there is an enormous amount of accounting work done at great expense, there is so much duplication and so little, if any, attempt at coordination, that the results fall far short of meeting the requirements of the best financial practice."

"There is no real expenditure accounting or cost accounting attempted. About as far as proper financial procedure is carried is to charge expenditures to appropriations but not always to the proper appropriation at that. Many of the appropriation heads are meaningless. The total charges made to any one appropriation for a year may or may not include the total amount expended during that year, so charges to appropriations are entirely misleading as indicative of costs."

"For example, in one department appropriations for live stock feed are spent for permanent improvements and appropriations for laboratory equipment for consumable supplies, whereas in another department the money intended to be used for operating expense is spent for equipment. Traveling expenses of board members are charged to an account for books and stationery. In fact, traveling expenses are defrayed out of appropriations for any number of specific purposes. In another department furniture and office equipment is purchased from appropriations for telephone and telegraph, and traveling expenses are defrayed from appropriations for printing and stationery. In one institution legislative appropriations for drugs and supplies, musical instruments, machinery, stationery, postage and transportation, all separately and specifically set up, were merged into a single general item making it possible for the departments to spend the money for practically any purpose it might desire. In another institution all specific appropriations were merged into a single account with the same item, cases, bound in which positions set up for one purpose, and designated by the appropriation act in a way to indicate duties of a certain kind are filled by employees doing a very different kind of work—work that the legislature never contemplated and might never have approved."

Exception.

"With the exception of the highway department, Griffenhagen and associates have discovered why state department organization that keeps activity and cost accounts, like many of the states, Texas fails to provide for effective budgetary control of expenditures." He said that "the survey brings out the fact that there has been no control of the incurring of financial obligations, and thus an opportunity is afforded to spending agencies to defeat the legislative intent with respect to the purposes and amounts of expenditure particularly as there is no provision made to insure that all expenditures are charged to the appropriations of the year to which they pertain."

"A considerable volume of departmental financing is done through local funds which are entirely outside of the budget proper," explained the chairman. "Such a system, of course, adds to the danger of unnecessary outlay and further complicates any attempt to discover the state's exact financial situation."

Mr. Graves criticized the present classification of expenditures under which appropriations are made, saying that "many of the titles of the classes are not explicit, that others cover hodge-podges of items, including both ordinary expenses and capital outlays."

The entire fiscal system of the state seems to be one of those unyielding, uncoordinated growths, the result of lack of planning and budgeting over the years," concluded Mr. Graves. "It is our committee's intention, with the technical advice available, to recommend means whereby the financial functioning of our state government will be unified and modernized to the end that the cost of dollars and cents may be saved."

Other members of the committee, which is meeting in Austin at present, include: Senator Carl C. Hardin of Stephenville, Senator Grady Woodruff of Decatur, Representative Phil L. Sanders of Nacogdoches, and Representative J. Turney Terrell of Del Rio.

Feeder-Breeder Meeting Attended By Big Spring Man

More than 700 persons attended the annual Feeder-Breeder meeting in Dallas last week-end. C. T. Watson, chamber of commerce manager who attended the affair, said: "Farmers and stockmen heard an explanation as to how they could go about getting R. F. C. loans on stock."

An educational program encouraging the use of meat is being arranged and will be sponsored by breeders and feeders of Texas cattle.

Frank Holland, Jr., son of the founder of Farm and Ranch and Holland's magazine, attended the meeting. It was he, who four years ago conceived the idea of a breeder-meeting movement in Texas.

Police Warn Public Against Parking Of Cars Through Nights

City police warned Friday against the practice of parking cars on downtown streets overnight.

Authorities said that provision for tagging cars left on streets overnight in the downtown district would be enforced more rigidly in the future.

"All hotels provide free parking space or storage for guests, and there is no excuse for local people to look up their cars and leave them parked overnight on downtown streets. We will be forced to tag such cars because it makes impossible correct cleaning of streets. Lately we have had many complaints because of clogged gutters, that cannot be cleaned with cars parked there overnight when the cleaner works," said J. T. Thornton, police chief.

Mission To Be Given Soon At Catholic Church

During the week beginning October 23, and ending October 30, a mission will be given at St. Thomas Church on North Main Street, by Rev. Thomas J. S. McGrath, S. J.

Father McGrath is a Jesuit missionary, who for the past eight years has devoted his time almost exclusively to giving dogmatic and doctrinal courses in the South and Southwest. His lectures, according to those who have heard him speak, are clear, logical, interesting and very easy to follow.

While the Mission is to be given primarily for the benefit of the Catholic people of Big Spring, all those of other denominations are cordially invited and welcome by the congregation and its pastor, Rev. Theo. Francis, O.M.I. They will hear nothing to offend, and much to edify them, said the pastor.

Texas Topics

By Raymond Brooks

BY RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN—Item one for the legislature in January is to clean up the patchwork of election laws. No. 2 is not to let designing politicians destroy the primary nominating system.

Sen. Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls will sponsor changes in the primary nominating system. He has shown keen interest in the proposal of a preferential primary for first, second and third choices of candidates.

That, in case of contests, would give an extra vote for court attention and that could not be said the year did before the court could get to it.

Rep. Lee Satterwhite and at least three other lawmakers last year ofered election reforms measures. But the legislature was too busy with legal cases to act.

The present year's disruption is directly blameable to those members of the legislature who failed and those who prevented the law-making body from doing a plain duty.

When a Texas student sells a pair of new textile engineering in some of the Texas colleges, the result is that the state pays $2000 a year in faculty salaries to teach him.

The condition is similar in numerous specialized colleges with salary costs running from $1500 to $2000 per student per year for a single course.

The state and local district fund found $100 a year for all purposes in each part of the public apparatus.

But the chief reason of turning a widespread program of closing them up or sharing them of their work, have rather to look, it is said, to reorganizing their functions and giving each work that it can better carry for better results.

Certainly the state is going to have to remedy the conditions of such excessive and wasteful expenditures of money in giving people in a few special lines professional or vocational training, while other trades and professions are denied any vestige of free training.

One reason why Texas university can't get big inter-sectional football games is that the mere 41,000 capacity stadium at Austin looks mighty small and unimpressive to the big higher educational institutions of the country.

That is the word of Dr. W. E. Metzenthin, chairman of the university athletic council.

While maybe a big college could get $20,000 or $25,000 net profit from a game with the university, it can go to California and play 50,000 or 100,000 people who pay $5 per seat. And that offers the financial contrast that limits Texas to local games, or second-rate inter-sectional games.

Which is just as well in the view of the faculty of the university. Dr. Metzenthin said the faculty is fundamentally opposed to the inter-sectional game idea that takes the team and rosters away for a whole week from "other work."

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Jordan, Jr. spent the week-end in Abilene, visiting relatives. They attended a dance at the Wooten Hotel Friday evening.

Let Us Proudly Display the Fruits of Our Forefathers' Building

"My ambition has been to succeed in redeeming Texas from its wilderness state by means of the plow alone, in spreading over it North American population, enterprise, and intelligence." (Letter from Stephen F. Austin to William H. Wagoner, April 24, 1829.)

"The Province of Texas will be the richest State in our Union without exception." This prophecy was made by the author of the American Declaration of Independence (Thomas Jefferson) before Americans had begun to colonize Texas. It was found in a letter dated May 14th, 1820, which Jefferson had written to President Monroe.

The year Jefferson wrote that letter to Monroe, Stephen F. Austin began the colonization of Texas. "My object is to build up for the present as well as for future generations," wrote Austin. "I think I derived more satisfaction from the view of flourishing farms springing up in this wilderness than military or political chieftains do from the retrospect of their victorious campaigns."

Texas was founded by builders. Under Austin's leadership they laid the foundations in the wilderness, and under the leadership of Sam Houston they won their independence, in order that they might build in freedom.

One hundred years of freedom will be completed in 1936. A century of building has made the Texas of today. But Jefferson's prediction has not yet been fulfilled. We have inherited this great undertaking from our forefathers. Let us rededicate ourselves to the task of carrying it forward by observing the Centennial of Texas independence in a manner worthy of our traditions.
