COLONEL NOT TO CALIFORNIA AS REPORTED

HE IS SILENT ON MARRIAGE

Flier Lands in Pitch Darkness on Texas Field

EAGLE PASS, Feb. 23. (P)—Colonel Charles Lindbergh landed here at 7:30 p. m. tonight en route to Mexico City. He said he would spend the night here and leave for the Mexican capital at daybreak.

Leaving Abilene at 2:45 p. m., Lindbergh required four and one-half hours to fly the 300 air miles here. A strong headwind held him to 50 miles an hour much of the time, he said.

The noted flier refused to amplify his statement that he was going to Mexico City. Asked if he intended to marry his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow, at this time he preserved a stony silence.

Notified that Lindbergh was thought to be heading this direction, more than a hundred persons were at the air field when his motor was heard. He circled the field once and landed in pitch darkness.

After being shown to a hotel Lindbergh made arrangements to obtain a passport to Mexico. He then retired to his room and asked not to be disturbed until morning. His Travelair monoplane was functioning perfectly he said.

City Buildings to Be Examined by Fire Inspector

Lee D. Olive of Austin, state fire inspector, is here on a tour of inspection. He and Chief J. I. Downs will visit every business house in the city, as well as the residential district. So far Mr. Olive is well pleased with conditions seen here. He especially approved the excellent fire equipment and the fire ordinances.

"Pampa cannot be put in the class of other old towns of the state," Mr. Olive told a representative of The News yesterday morning. "Most houses and business buildings are evidently built for permanency and meet state requirements."

"I met one man who complained of the city fire ordinance, saying that no matter if it was only a small blaze every car had to pull to the curb," the inspector said. "I informed him that I was more than pleased to hear that because it showed that the people of the city and their property were being safeguarded."

Hundreds Attend Funeral for Alex Schneider, Sr Here

The body of Alex Schneider, Sr., was borne to the grave Friday afternoon following a touching service in the First Methodist church. The large building was filled with friends and relatives of Gray county's pioneer hotel man, who died Thursday morning.

Two large touring cars were filled with floral gifts which were benched around the casket and the pulpit at the church. More than 50 cars joined the funeral procession to Fairview cemetery at 4 o'clock.

Members of the Pampa Volunteer fire department and the American Legion attended en masse.

The combined choirs of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, and Mrs. Ernest Eslick, sang during the service.

The Rev. W. M. Baker of Waxahachie, former pastor of the Presbyterian church here, delivered the funeral discourse. Rev. Baker took as his text, "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

"To know Mr. Schneider was to regard him as a friend, because he was such to all who came in contact with him," Rev. Baker said.

Speaking of his personal relationship, Rev. Baker had difficulty in speaking of one who was to him a dear friend. He told of the man's life in Louisville, Ky., and in Pampa, and of his love for his friends, his music and his profession.

E. J. Pickens of Canadian, who had been associated with Mr. Schneider for more than 20 years, spoke of the deceased as one pioneer about another. He told of Mr. Schneider's love for Texas and his dreams that came true with the erection of the beautiful building that bears his name.

Assisting the Rev. A. A. Hyde, pastor of the Presbyterian church, who had charge of the funeral service, were the Rev. Jas. Todd, Jr., the Rev. T. W. Braham, and the Rev. D. H. Truhitt.

Mr. Schneider first came to this country from Switzerland when he was 20 years old. He married in Kentucky, and there was a member of the First Presbyterian church, where he played in the church orchestra. In 1885 he moved to Texas when supplies were hauled from Dodge City, Kans. He organized the first band in the Panhandle and also the first band in Pampa when he and the Rev. R. Hoffman of the Methodist church were associated.

Mr. Schneider was a charter member of the Red Cross organized in Switzerland 60 years ago.

Immediate relatives surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. George Rainouard and Mrs. Lena Westphal; also one son, Alex, and four grandchildren, Paul Schneider, Alex Rainouard, Junior Westphal and Otto Schneider.

Other relatives are Mrs. Emma LeFors and her children, Mrs. A. H. Doucette, Miss Moleta LeFors and Emmett LeFors; Mrs. Henry Thut, Sr. and her children, Mrs. C. P. Buckler, Henry, Jr., Charlie, and George. Mrs. LeFors and Mrs. Thut are sisters of Mrs. Alex Schneider, Sr.

Misses Rosa, Laurie, and Lucille Schaefer and Mrs. Emma Beechy of Pampa are distant relatives of Mr. Schneider.

WELFARE BODY TO MEET

Officers and members of the Pampa Welfare association will meet at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Board of City Development auditorium.

Important business is to be discussed, including the annual drive for funds to support the organization.

MEN STABBED TO DEATH AS FIGHT RAGES

Pursuing Troops Find Bodies Following Battle

RANSOM DEMAND MADE BY CHIEF

Several Bandits Slain and Reputed Priest Among Them

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 23. (P)—Newspaper dispatches from Guanajuato tonight said that J.M. Underwood and C. C. Alsthorpe, American mining engineers, were killed last night while federal troops were battling with their kidnapers.

The band of 25 or 30 men which took the two Americans from their quarters at the Bustos mines Thursday night were said by the correspondent of El Universal to have been overtaken by military police Friday evening. A battle followed in which five of the bandits were killed as well as an alleged Catholic priest named Lozano said to have accompanied them.

The military police commander, Major Araujo, was quoted as reporting that in pursuit of the bandits after their dispersal the troops came on the bodies of the engineers near where the conflict took place. Their bodies bore wounds indicating that they had been stabbed to death.

The bandits' leader was said to be a former miner named Padron, who on several other occasions has extorted money from American mining companies in that region by similar tactics. The kidnapers destroyed telephone instruments in the raided mining camp, twenty miles from Guanajuato.

The bandits demanded a ransom of $7,500. Reports were that the Americans were to be buried this afternoon in Guanajuato.

Central's Music Groups Heard in Recital at Show

The hundreds who attended the Pampa auto show Friday evening went away with a greater appreciation of the work being done by musical organizations of the city.

The entertainment program opened with another concert by the Pampa band, conducted by Pete Bradford. The band accompanied the dealers on their two caravan trips and played many times during the show.

The major portion of the evening was given to the musical organization of Central high school. The excellent high school orchestra, the boys' glee club, and the girls' glee club alternated in entertaining the big crowd. Despite the difficulty of having to work in the midst of much noise, the groups gave close attention to T. A. Fannell, their director, and performed well.

The glee clubs, which have not been heard much by the public, have progressed far in their work. The divided voices reveal considerable talent, especially among the girls, and the singing of some of the boys would surprise many of their friends. The orchestra is fully capable of taking a valued place in public programs.

Forty-Seven Join New Rifle Club as Charter Members

George E. Wolfe reports that forty-seven local rifle enthusiasts have signed for charter membership in the Pampa Rifle club. This club is being affiliated with the National Rifle association and the present initial cost of $5 covers membership for one year in the national organization as well as in the local club.

The charter membership list will be closed on Monday, February 25 at 5 p. m., and those who desire membership are asked to sign the application for affiliation now being held for convenience in the office of P. O. Sanders, at 111 West Foster avenue.

After Monday it will be necessary to make application for membership and an initiation fee will be charged in addition to the yearly club dues. Officers of the club state that the actual expense of surveying the range, digging the pit, and setting the targets will be very small and will be prorated among the members after the work has been completed.

Dr. A. Cole is president of the new association, which organized Tuesday night. The rifle range will be located on the Ralph Arnold ranch, four miles west of Pampa.

Heavy Docket in 31st District

The heaviest docket in the history of Gray county awaits action of the 31st district court, which will convene March 18 with Judge W. R. Ewing presiding. The court will be in session nine weeks as set at a recent ruling of the legislature.

Not counting cases filed since the last term of court, there are 196 civil suits and 89 criminal cases on the docket. Of that number, 173 civil suits and 89 criminal cases were transferred from the 84th docket. There were already 23 suits on the 31st docket.

There will be two nine-week terms of court during 1929 and 1930. Confirmation of Judge Ewing's and County Attorney Clifford Braly's appointments to office in the 31st district was announced Friday by Gov. Dan Moody, under the new judicial plan.

How would you like to have Aimee Semple McPherson perform your marriage ceremony? Tastes differ. Somebody is going to, March 8, in the Central auditorium.

FIVE YEARS ASSESSED
HOUSTON, Feb. 23. (P)—Morris C. Laine, Harris county road inspector, tonight was found guilty of murder and sentenced to five years for slaying T. P. Conaway in front of the First Baptist church Oct. 2, 1927. The verdict came after more than 27 hours of deliberation.

College Beauties Also Brainy

Frances Bartel (left) and Constance Van Natta (right) are editor and business manager, respectively, of the Washburn college newspaper. In addition, both were chosen for the year book's beauty section.

TOPEKA, Kas. (P)—Two Washburn college coeds are disproving the theory that beauty and brains are strangers. Constance Van Natta edits the Washburn Review, student newspaper, while Frances Bartel is business manager. It is the first time in Washburn history that two girls won both major jobs on the paper.

Pictures of both were chosen to grace the college year book's beauty section. As for brains—their names appear regularly on the school's honor roll.

Oil Production Panhandle Gains During Last Week

With cold weather on the wane, production in the Panhandle counties started a climb toward normal last week. Hutchinson county led the way and was closely followed by Gray. Daily average production for the Panhandle jumped 2,370 barrels.

Moore county gained back 165 barrels after holding a low level since increased activities started last fall. Carson county advanced 90 barrels daily, while Hutchinson jumped 1,580.

No new producers were reported, and one well was abandoned. There are 1,489 producing wells in the six Panhandle counties.

McCloskey Witnesses Deny Election Charge

AUSTIN, Feb. 23. (P)—The defense got its inning today in the trial of Congressman-elect Augustus J. McCloskey of San Antonio on one of five indictments charging election frauds.

It immediately sent to the stand a succession of witnesses to deny in toto the testimony yesterday of Dave Dewhurst, state's star witness, who testified that on his suggestion McCloskey and the former Bexar county judge's secretary conspired to steal the November 8 election from Harry M. Wurzbach of Seguin.

COUNTY LEAGUE MEET WILL BE HELD HERE MARCH 22 AND 23—RURAL SCHOOLS ARE TO COMPETE

March 22 and 23 have been set as the dates for the Interscholastic League meet here. Members of the executive committee met in the office of Supt. R. C. Campbell yesterday when the matters were set and other important dates pertaining to the meet were settled.

It was decided that the school winning the meet would be presented with a cup, instead of having to win the championship three years in a row. Medals and prizes amounting to $115 were ordered yesterday.

For the first time, there will be competition between rural schools. Supt. John B. Hessey stated that there would be at least four such schools represented at the meet. Chief competition will be between the high schools of Pampa, McLean, and Alameda.

Saturated Body of Slain Woman Found on Fire
CRANFORD, N. J., Feb. 23. (P)—The discovery of an unidentified woman shot, beaten to death and then saturated with gasoline and set afire in the snow beside a lonely road today started New Jersey police on their second hunt in a year for a "torch murderer."

Their only clues were dental bridge work in the dead woman's upper jaw, some jewelry, clothing and a fleeting glimpse of an automobile which the driver of a bakery truck obtained as he sped by.

A blue automobile was the sole clue police had early in their investigation of the similarly strange death of Miss Margaret Brown, a New York governess. She was found not far from here a year and three days ago, in an isolated wood in an adjoining county.

The unidentified woman was dead when her blazing body was discovered by John Boyle, a driver for the Ward Baking company.

The woman was about 45 years old, she was 5 feet, 5½ inches tall and weighed 155 pounds. Her hair was blonde, mixed with gray, and she had blue eyes.

Neff Admits His Appointment Delayed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. (P)—Former Governor Pat M. Neff of Texas said today his renomination to the railroad board of mediation would be "overwhelmingly confirmed" if voters could be reached.

"This perhaps is not the time to go into details as to why the senate has not confirmed my appointment," he said "except to say that it appears at this time that Senator Mayfield has succeeded in blocking further proceedings."

ing even a few blocks is avoided if possible.

"The parking controversy is one of the hottest things to handle in the whole traffic tangle," adds The Mercury. "One thing seems to be certain about it—that the public pays no more attention to restrictive laws short of complete abolition of the privilege than it does to prohibition. In Boston, out of 20,600 parked automobiles observed, 5,964 were parked where parking was prohibited. Out of the 10,925 cars checked in all Boston districts, 9,698, or about one-third, were illegally parked."

If Pampa should adopt restricted parking, enforcement in a firm, yet courteous manner would be necessary. There is no denying that lack of restriction is inconveniencing many of us as citizens and most anxious to serve, and that trade is being hampered. It does not seem right for a few people to monopolize space that is in such great demand. The big question is, will the remedy be worse than the disease? That would depend to a great degree upon the manner of enforcement.

There would be some annoyance in parking one's car on a wide street instead of in front of one's business—or some other fellow's business—but think of the feeling of the man who wants to trade in a certain store and finds all parking space taken for three blocks in every direction. And the bulk of that space was taken, furthermore, at an early hour when there was no competition for it, and with little thought of parking for purposes other than having the vehicle nearby when lunch or dinner time came. If this practice could be eliminated without legal action much red tape could be avoided. This, in a small city, should be the goal of municipal government. The smaller the city the less kindly the citizens receive irksome restrictions.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Few young men receive bows simultaneously from two presidents of the United States. Few young men are permitted to invade the private chambers of a president at 1 o'clock in the morning.

Both these experiences came to William Tyler Page, who is no clerk of the House of Representatives, while he was yet in his twenties. They are outstanding in his memory of the inaugurations and surrounding events of 1893 and 1897 and are part of a rich, reminiscent narrative of inaugurations over nearly 50 years which Page has told to this writer.

Prior to those incidents Benjamin Harrison was inaugurated in 1889 and Page, recalling that most inauguration days have been wretched and calculated to give people pneumonia, remembers the weather during the Harrison inauguration as "the worst I ever saw."

"All through the night before soldiers and civilians tramped the streets in driving wind and rain," he relates. "It rained all day long on the 4th and the parade was a miserable affair. Harrison's inaugural address was nearly an hour in duration, which was far too long under the circumstances."

"The second Cleveland inauguration was another bad day, but I probably enjoyed it as much as anyone in Washington except Cleveland himself. The snow fell the night before and blew all that morning. There was a penetrating north wind and when the sun came out at 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon everyone again called it 'Cleveland luck!'"

"That day I had a morning engagement at the Treasury. A small blizzard was blowing, but the streets were crowded and I made my way roundabout, avoiding main arteries of traffic. I arrived at about 11:30 and was soon done, intending to hurry back to the Capitol for the ceremony."

"As I came out of the Treasury a terrific wind was sweeping down Fifteenth street and the grandstands were not only empty but covered with snow. 'I was the only person on that side of the street.'"

"Suddenly I heard a fanfare of trumpets and a cavalcade of horsemen began to turn into Fifteenth street from the direction of the White House."

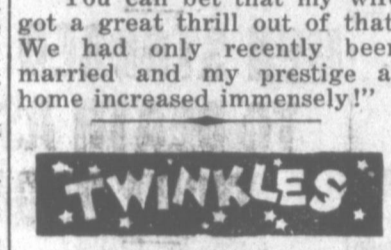

"Down came an open carriage bearing Benjamin Harrison, the president, and Grover Cleveland, the president-elect. They were all wrapped up in overcoats and blankets and wore silk hats."

"I stood at the curb and tipped my hat and they responded by taking off theirs. That courtesy was exclusively for me. After that I felt I had seen all I wanted of that inauguration. Two presidents had doffed their hats to me in that kind of weather and anything more would have been tame."

"Speaking of thrills reminds me of what happened at the time of the next inauguration. Cleveland was going out and McKinley was coming in. On the night of March 3 General Draper of Massachusetts, who was then chairman of the Committee on Patents and later an ambassador, came to me and said: 'Young man, I understand you write a very fair hand.' I said, 'Yes, sir,' and he said: 'Well, I expect to get the copyright bill through the house and I wonder whether I am going to get it down to the White House in time to have it signed.' In those days, you know, we enrolled bills on parchment with pen and ink. So Draper asked me to write the bill, which I did. It was the duty of the committee on enrolled bills to take it to the White House after it had been enacted, but I took it down to President Cleveland myself at 1 o'clock in the morning."

"Late in the afternoon I suggested to Mrs. Page that we go down town and look around. We walked on the south sidewalk, which was less crowded and had gone about half a block when, lo and behold, along came President McKinley with an escort, taking a stroll. As he came along he recognized me and when I said 'Good evening, Mr. President,' he doffed his topper and returned the salute."

"You can bet that my wife got a great thrill out of that. We had only recently been married and my prestige at home increased immensely!"

Two boys were electrocuted in Chicago's new chair. Maybe they will get up enough courage to try it on some of the full grown gangsters before long.

Have you ever noticed that many of those who boast of making record speed in getting to a place seldom do much when they get there?

Dress rehearsals are getting to be times when people put on enough clothes to really keep warm. In the old days, it was more apt to be the opposite.

If the return cycle ever comes, we suppose it will be considered downright immodest to hark back to "those bad old days" and begin taking things off.

Sometimes it looks as if a road is a manipulation of the ground calculated to catch all the snow that blows off nearby fields, where it is really needed.

The public is cynical about new suggestions, although dissatisfied with conditions—a state of affairs probably induced by the many outlandish schemes which have been suggested in the past. The Mercury points out that "the plain citizen knows (a) that it takes him a long time to get anywhere downtown; (b) that stupid policemen at street intersections, with their ten-cent whistles and white gloves, hold him up unnecessarily (or that traffic lights do so); (c) that he has the devil's own time finding a place to park; and (d) that somebody is responsible for the whole dirty business. . . ." Last Days of Week Pleasantly Filled With Scheduled Meetings for Bridge and Smaller Invitation Affairs

Notwithstanding the somewhat slow pace of social events, the week was not without its diversions. Bridge enthusiasts, especially, found sufficient entertainment, with small, pretty appointed affairs adding interest to the closing days. Washington's birthday was noted in colorful details of club and invitation parties.

CRYSTAL WEDDING ANNIVERSARY FETED

A delightful event was the bridge party with which Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Williams celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary. The affair took place at their home Thursday evening with four tables in the game. High score favors were given Mrs. H. W. Johns and J. H. Lutz, while awards for low scores went to Mrs. Lutz and Roger McConnell. F. M. Gwin and W. M. Murphy were fortunate in the general cut.

The host and hostess received a beautiful compote and matching candlesticks as a crystal wedding gift from the group of friends who enjoyed the occasions with them. The guests were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lutz, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seal, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johns, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Gwin, Mr. and Mrs. Roger McConnell.

JUST WE CLUB MEETS FRIDAY

Mrs. J. H. Lavender entertained members of the Just We club Friday afternoon. Mrs. J. J. Cassidy made high score and received an attractive favor, as did Mrs. Carl Taylor, who scored low. Other players were Mrs. H. C. Heinlen, Mrs. A. D. Johnston, Mrs. J. H. Lutz, Mrs. S. L. Maynard, and Mrs. M. W. Johns.

MRS. TWIFORD IS HOSTESS TO MAYFAIR

Mrs. H. G. Twiford, also entertained Friday afternoon, having as guests the members of Club Mayfair and other friends. Covers for three card tables, as well as bridge scores and tallies, featured the red, white, and blue color scheme and Washington motif. Each guest received a dainty georgette handkerchief in one of the favored colors, and game trophies were blue and white flowers, tied with red tulle. These later went to Mrs. W. E. Coffey, special guest, and Miss Ruth Anne

Mitchell, club member.

The following were players: Mrs. Fred Cary, Mrs. Ed Dunigan, Mrs. R. W. Mitchell, Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. W. A. Duerr, Mrs. Mel Davis, Mrs. R. G. Hughes, Mrs. Raymond Harrah, Mrs. Edwin Vicars, Mrs. W. T. Fraser, Mrs. These latter went to Mrs. W. E. Coffey, and Miss Ruth Anne Mitchell.

HIGH HEELS CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Miss Jewell Flanagan was hostess to the French Heels club Friday evening, entertaining at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Hicks. Her party was one of the most enjoyable of the week and was distinguished for smart manner in which the Washington anniversary theme was developed. Bridge accessories carried the motif, and high score favor was a box of bath crystals in three colors, arranged to represent the American flag. It was won by Miss VeLora Reed. Other favors were a party kerchief, given Miss Dee Breeding for low score, and a package of note paper which went to Miss Leora Kinard for top cut.

A confection in the shape of the stump of a cherry tree, centered with a miniature hatchet, was served with a dainty refreshment course.

Miss Flanagan's guest list included the following names: Miss Kathleen Beatty, Miss Dorothy Pollard, Miss Fern Hughey, Miss Virginia Faulkner, Miss Gertrude Cook, Miss Ruth Anne Mitchell, Miss Louise Miller, Misses Ruth and Alice Rittenhouse, Miss Reed, Miss Breeding, and Miss Kinard.

MISS DAVIS GIVES THREE-TABLE PARTY

Another pleasant affair of Friday evening was a small party given by Miss Mabel Davis. Her guests were: Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hisky, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Simons, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Morton,

Society Turns to Activities of More Serious Nature, After Period of Gayety; Church and Civic Work are Stressed

After an exceptionally busy fortnight, Pampa society settled down this week for a brief pause before the inevitable spring rush. Settled down, that is to more work and less play. Wednesday was crowded with meetings of church auxiliaries and missionary societies, and nearly every day had its benefit social or special meeting for some church or Sunday school group. Parties were fewer and farther between, less formal and less elaborate, though no less enjoyable.

PARENT-TEACHER GROUPS PLAN MEET

Parent-Teacher activities held no small portion of the calendar's regular meetings, executive sessions, and committee meetings occupying the attention of members of five associations. Organization and enrollment work have been, heretofore, the major projects. However, with the spring meeting of the Eighth district Parent-Teacher associations scheduled for April 2, 3, 4 and 5, work in the coming weeks will be directed toward details of entertaining delegates to one of the largest and most important conventions to be held in Pampa this year.

LIBRARY A PROBABLE INCENTIVE FOR WORK

Moreover, the new and growing public library will be an incentive for work, particularly among the women's clubs which divide time between study and civic activity. While the services of club women as temporary librarians will be dispensed with upon the arrival of an employed librarian, there will remain the business of financing and enlarging the institution. One benefit for the library is definitely on calendar, the "Old Family Album" to be presented March 8 by the A. A. U. W. and College club. Other programs doubtless will be given for the same purpose, and very probably benefit social affairs will brighten the spring months.

Miss Wilma Chapman, Henry Johnson, and H. W. Henry.

Bridge was played at three tables, with Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Johnson receiving high scores. Dainty refreshments repeated the Washington motif featured in bridge table appointments.

CHOIRS PREPARING EASTER MUSICALS

At least four local churches are planning special music for their Easter services, the preparation of which will involve much time, energy, and talent. Thus Lent, whether officially observed or not, will be spent in some degree in preparing for Easter and in special church work. The choir of Holy Souls Catholic church has already begun practice on a new mass for the day, "The Mass of St. Basil," by Jules Brail, will be sung. The service at the First Christian church will include Easter anthems, duets, and solos, according to Mrs. W. A. Bratton, choir director. A cantata will be sung by the choir of the Methodist church, under the direction of T. A. Fannell. John Lee Harris, assistant pastor and musical director of the Baptist church, plans to have his choir give a special program at the morning service.

Girls' Auxiliary Met Yesterday

Pauline and Wanda Barnard were hostesses yesterday afternoon to other members of the Intermediate Girls' auxiliary of the Baptist church for the semi-monthly study program. An interesting discussion of the topic, "Immigration Turned Inside Out," was followed by a social hour. All girls between the ages of 12 and 17 years are invited to join the Girls' auxiliary. The next meeting will be held at the church at 7 o'clock on Friday evening, March 8.

- 4 Big four-wheel brakes—Mechanical type brakes, positive and quick-acting, afford maximum driving safety.
- 5 Snubbers and oversize balloon tires—These features, together with increased wheelbase and longer springs both front and rear, give exceptional riding comfort.
- 6 Mono-control windshield—The windshield can be quickly and easily wound open or shut with one hand, even while the car is running.
- 7 "Finger-Tip Control"—A single button, in the center of the steering wheel, starts the motor, operates the lights and sounds the horn. Aside from its great convenience, this fundamental improvement is also an important safety factor, as you can keep your foot always on the brake when starting or re-starting on a hill.

Garden Company May Buy Giants Through Purchase of 75 Per Cent of Stock for 4 Million Dollars

HOOKS AND SLIDES
Ever since Bucky Harris was named manager of the Detroit Tigers, it has been predicted that his astute handling of the Tigers would make that club a potent factor in the American league this summer.

This hasn't been the prediction of sports writers alone. Wise baseball men, who know Harris is as smart as a whip and knows his baseball from every angle, hold the same view. And one of them is always coming out with a nice statement about Harris' smartness.

Walter Hoyt, star hurler with the Yankees, joined the Harris boosters while in Cleveland recently for a week's engagement at one of the vaudeville houses.

"Harris will have that Detroit club fighting harder than it has in years," he said. "He's just about the second best manager in the business, in my opinion, and he can get the maximum results from every one of the men working for him. I feel pretty sure that his club, if for no reason than that Harris is manager, will be tough to beat."

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23. (P)—Cooling breezes and an overcast sky, the answer to a gladiator's prayer in the Southland, injected new life into the drills of Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling today, and probably kept Doughty Bill Carey, new guiding hand of Madison Square Garden corporation, from giving in entirely to the harassing disclosures of the day.

Now that the battle of the Everglades is just around the corner, with the fighters in perfect trim, the arena built and the lighting system installed for the fracas Wednesday night, the even trend was broken by unofficial announcement that the Garden corporation is arranging for purchase of the New York Giants ball club in the National league and disclosure of a controversy over broadcasting of the coming heavyweight struggle. Carey feels, however, that publicity may spoil the Giant deal.

While Garden officials were willing to say unofficially that the deal for purchase, for $4,000,000, of 75 per cent of the stock in the ball club, owned by Charles A. Stoneham, Francis X. McQuade and John McGraw, had been all but completed, word that the Sharkey-Stribling bout will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting association will not be made known officially until Monday. Carey announced when the match first was made that there would be no broadcasting.

Schalk's Nine Wins in Giant Exhibition
SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 23. (P)—Playing an 11-inning game of baseball in 1 hour and 27 minutes, the New York Giants set a record on Bear field today when Ray Schalk's Gray (first team) pulled up from a 6-to-1 lead held by Joe Genewich's Whites to tie the score, 6-6, in the ninth when Jack Chambliss brought in Schalk with a sacrifice fly to center after Schalk had smacked the ball for a three-bagger.

Bears Poised To Take Coast Crown

These two cagey court aces will lead California into its series with the northern group for the coast conference title.

BERKELEY, Cal. (P)—Rulers of the basketball world on the Pacific coast for many years California's Bears are dribbling their way toward a fifth coast conference championship this year.

Led by Capt. Vern Corbin, great basket shooting center, the Blue and Gold quintet clinched the title in the southern section without being extended. Three other members of the southern division, Stanford, Southern California and the University of California at Los Angeles were smothered under the advance of the Bears.

Up until last year, California won four successive coast conference championships, capturing the second title first and then defeating the northern sector victor in a three game post-season playoff. Southern California won the 1928 coast honors.

California, having possessed itself of southern honors, will meet the winner of the northern division which is several games behind in playing schedule. Washington, Idaho and Washington State turned the northern race into a nip and tuck affair at the start of the season.

PERRYTON HAS DISTRICT TITLE BY McLEAN WIN

Perryton's fast high school basketball squad won the right to meet the winner of district 2, yesterday afternoon when it barely nosed out the fast McLean quintet, 37 to 32, at Canyon. Perryton went into the finals after a 44 to 19 win over Dalhart. McLean won from Panhandle 31 to 11 to enter the finals.

Pampa lost a ragged game to Dalhart Friday night, 26 to 17. With the exception of Captain Stalls and Bob Kahl, the local squad failed to get under way. Eleven fouls, of which nine counted for points, gave the margin of Dalhart's victory.

Perryton deserved the win, having to beat Canyon and then the Amarillo Sandies. The Perryton quintet won the Miami tournament two weeks ago.

To "Tip" Windom, McLean, went the honor of being high point man of the tournament. The McLean forward as many points as any two men in the tournament. In one game he scored 28 points and in another 24 points.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (P)—Paavo Nurmi of Finland failed to appear for his scheduled start in the two-mile steeplechase event at the national indoor track and field championships at Madison Square Garden tonight and was immediately disqualified for further competition in this country by the A. A. U. registration committee.

Word was received at 9 o'clock from Nurmi that he would not be able to compete. No reason was given. The committee met at once and took the drastic action which will keep the seven times Olympic champion from doing his stuff on American tracks until he explains his withdrawal to the A. A. U.'s satisfaction.

Nurmi previously had withdrawn from a two-mile flat event in which he was to have faced Edwin Wide of Sweden deciding upon the steeplechase instead.

His place in the latter event was taken at the last minute, by Eino Purje, his youthful countryman, scheduled to race it out with Wide over the two-mile flat.

Purje won the two-mile steeplechase championship, setting a new world's record of 9 minutes, 55 2-5 seconds.

Kentucky Derby Will Have Open Field This Year

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 23. (P)—Kentucky turf experts after studying the list of 150 colts, fillies, and geldings nominated for the 55th renewal of the Kentucky derby tonight believed that the race at Churchill Downs May 18 may be "one of the most open derbies in history."

The list, made public today by Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association and executive director of Churchill Downs, contained the names of most of the outstanding money winners in the two-year-old class of 1928, but one name was conspicuously absent.

George D. Widener did not place Jack High in nomination, although that racer was a heavy winner last year, and was regarded as the principal rival of High Strung, which ran away with everything to cop $153,390.

S. M. U. Goal Tosses Wins for Methodists

WACO, Feb. 23. (P)—Getting away to an early lead through the phenomenal goal-shooting of Alba Brown, the S. M. U. Mustangs defeated Baylor university at basketball tonight, 31 to 24. The Bears were far off form, looping only one field goal in the first half which closed with the Ponies leading, 18 to 6.

The S. M. U. boys could not be called Dead Eye Dicks as a result of their shooting performance tonight, but Brown could. He could hit the hoop from any position on the floor. He looped six field goals in the first half and two more in the second half to lead the parade with a total of 16 points for the evening.

Miss Anna Esta Goerner is spending the week-end in Clarendon.

H. G. Twiford returned yesterday from a business trip to Amarillo, Plainview, and south plains towns.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE REX

A picture of powerful appeal, great magnitude, brilliant acting, flawless direction.

That is a terse description of "The Trail of '98," the big Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film epic with sound synchronization and a surrounding sound program, which opens at the Rex Theatre today.

Ralph Forbes, Dolores Del Rio, Harry Carey, Karl Dane, Tully Marshall, George Cooper! All stand out in the gigantic cast of fifty which was assembled to portray the characters in this great film story.

If you liked Forbes in "Beau Geste," "Mr. Wu" or "The Enemy" you will like him still better in "The Trail of '98."

If you think Dolores Del Rio reached the pinnacle in "What Price Glory," "Resurrection," "Carmen" or "Ramona," you are mistaken, and you have yet to see her in "The Trail of '98."

Picture-goers have loved Harry Carey from the days of western stardom down to the more recent pictures, such as "Slide, Kelly, Slide" and other Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions. But Harry Carey has never been at his best until he appeared in the film adaptation of Robert W. Service's "The Trail of '98."

Remember Karl Dane as "Slim" in "The Big Parade"; as the beadle in "The Scarlet Letter"; as the janitor in "La Boheme"; as the retainer in "Bardelys the Magnificent" and as the hardboiled top sergeant in "Rookies"? Well—you have to learn by seeing "The Trail of '98" just what Dane can do with a good role.

Everybody remembers Tully Marshall in "The Merry Widow," "The Covered Wagon" and other screen masterpieces, but his role as the sanctimonious card sharp in "The Trail of '98" will forever stand the high water mark of his career.

AT THE CRESCENT

The most amazing language in the world, the jargon of American tramp life, is being assembled by Jim Tully, declared by H. L. Mencken to be the world's leading writer on Hobohemia.

A startling drama by Tully, "Beggars of Life," with its background this colorful and little known world within a world, was filmed at the Paramount studio in Hollywood and will show at the Crescent theatre today, Monday and Tuesday.

Wallace Berry, with Richard Arlen and Louise Brooks, heads the cast of "Beggars of Life," and William Wellman of "Wings", directed this production.

"There are many strange jargons and lingoes in tramp life," says Tully, who himself spent eight years on the road.

Tramps are inventors of words for their own use which now and then pass into popular slang and sometimes into the language. The words bloke, stall, bughouse, stiff, yegg, boomer, keister (for suitcase) and bennie (for overcoat) are their inventions.

"Martin Luther compiled a tramp dictionary in 1528—four hundred years ago. From that day the jargon of tramps has always been picturesque."

H. A. Gilliland, owner of the Crescent theatre, announces that in the future sound picture will be featured the first two, three or four days of each week and silent drama the remainder of the week. Special orchestra music will be given the latter part of each week, when silent pictures are being shown. Short subjects will also be an added feature in the latter part of each week.

Jury Cases Will Begin Tomorrow

Four jury cases have been set for county court attention tomorrow, Judge Ivy E. Duncan said yesterday. Non-jury cases were dispensed with, in the opening week because attorney's announced not ready to try jury cases. The juryman impaneled were dismissed Monday afternoon by Judge Duncan.

The probate docket will be called March 4, the last week of county court, the judge announced yesterday.

East Tyng Street Now Being Paved

With 38 men and six trucks at work, the Stuckey Construction company began paving operations on East Tyng street yesterday morning, and by last evening had almost a quarter of the street paved with vibrolithic concrete.

The three blocks of Tyng street have been ready for paving for more than two months, but bad weather delayed the work.

The paving will be continued Monday if weather conditions continue favorable. Tyng street will be the last to be paved until weather conditions become favorable, Mr. Stuckey said yesterday morning. He said that it would probably be the latter part of March before the spring program would really begin.

The alley west of Cuyler street between Atchison and Foster avenues was opened to the traffic yesterday morning. The other alley on the same side of Cuyler street will be opened next week.

Two alleys east of Cuyler street will be paved as soon as Tyng street has been finished.

Pampa Hospital Buys Equipment

New equipment has been added to the operating room at Pampa hospital and more has been ordered. The latest equipment installed is a shadowless light over the operating table.

The big lamp throws a wonderful light yet causes no shadow, and is a great help in surgical cases, local physicians say.

An electric instrument sterilizer has been ordered and will be here in a few days along with other instruments and equipment.

Redecoration of rooms and corridors will begin soon, hospital attendants say. During the last year 498 patients were taken care of by the hospital.

Tickets Selling Well for "Thais", Opera to Be Given in Amarillo Soon

The ticket sale for "Thais," to be presented in the Amarillo municipal auditorium at 8:30 o'clock March 18, is going along well, with over half the house sold out, according to Emil F. Myers, who is managing the event for the guarantors.

Heavy ticket sale in towns of the Panhandle and adjoining states is reported, assuring in all probability the financial success of the venture.

Interest in "Thais" largely centers around opera favorites who will be heard. For instance, there is Mary Garden, whose real name is Mary Gardin.

She was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, of strictest Presbyterians. As a child she aspired to be a violinist, but at 14 she determined to be a singer and definitely abandoned instrumental music. Her mother still has her violin in its closed case.

Her mother objected to her going on the operatic stage. Her father encouraged her.

Her favorite role in opera is "Thais." Her ambition is to sing Mephistopheles, transposed to mezzo-soprano. "Thais" has been sung by Mary Garden 1,000 times.

Mary Garden is not tall. The long lines of her gowns make her seem so. She is beautiful. She wears a different wig for each character she assumes. One of them is worth $1,000. She wears it in "Pelleas and Melisande." Her own hair is red.

Mary Garden sings only in French, although she occasionally sings "The Love of Three Kings" in Italian, "Tosca" in half Italian and half French, and created "Natoma" in English about 15 years ago. Her eyes are bright blue.

Mary Garden's speaking voice is rather high, her manner animated. She has a pronounced English accent, which many try unsuccessfully to imitate.

Mary Garden's collection of furs exceeds $150,000 in value. In the evening she wears a sumptuous chinchilla wrap reaching to her feet. A coat of ermine bordered with sable and a coat of sable bordered with ermine are in her wardrobe. At one time a franc—20 cents before the war—meant much to her, but she is now noted for her generosity. Once a newspaper woman asked her the time—Mary unclasped her bracelet watch—"Keep this," she said. It was platinum and diamond sprinkled.

Her manner is straightforward, even blunt at times, though she is the match for any diplomat.

Mary Garden has never married.

Haldeman Links Canada and Cuba in Non-Stop Trip

HAVANA, Feb. 23. (AP)—George Haldeman today linked Canada and Cuba by a single unbroken airplane flight. In taking off from the Walkerville airport near Windsor, Ont., at 3:49 a. m., the wheels of his plane were deep in the snow. He set them down less than 13 hours later on the tropical soil of Cuba.

Haldeman was accompanied by James F. Hayden, a mechanic. His charted course of 1,404 miles was flown in 12 hours and 56 minutes.

Haldeman succeeded where Leonard Flo of Ann Arbor, Mich., twice failed, once because of fog and once because of illness. Haldeman, pilot for Ruth Elder in her unsuccessful attempt to cross the Atlantic, showed no fatigue.

Rev. Hillien Gives Second Sermon

In the second of a series of sermons on the doctrines and beliefs of the Catholic church, the Rev. S. H. Hillien, vice-rector of St. George's college, Amarillo, spoke Friday night at Holy Souls church on the sacrament of penance.

Reading the parable of the Prodigal Son, as given in St. Luke, he paralleled the forgiving spirit of the sinner's father with that of God, and said that Catholics going to confession availed themselves of an even greater gift than did the prodigal son in returning to his father's house.

The informative sermon was heard by a large crowd of parishioners of Holy Souls and others who wished an explanation of Catholic beliefs and customs. The Rev. Hillien will speak here every Friday evening during Lent, and in connection with the service will answer all well meant questions which are placed in a question box. He and the pastor, the Rev. Joseph Wonderly, invite the public to these services, as well as all others of the church.

Blazing Oil Well Finally Snuffed Out

The fire in the Gulf Production company's No. 2 Bowers, in section 89, block B-2, was snuffed out with steam at 2:30 p. m. Friday. The well had caught fire Friday morning while pipe was being pulled. Backfire from a gas engine caused the blaze which slightly burned R. G. Morgan and destroyed the derrick.

At the time of the blaze, the well was making 50 barrels of oil and 7,000,000 cubic feet of gas. Another derrick will be erected immediately.

M. H. Kuykendall of White Deer was in the city Saturday.

"What the devil—? McMann sprang to his feet, as the boy's howl of fear followed upon an eerie sound."

THIS HAD HAPPENED
When Ruth Borden, secretary, goes to the office on a Monday morning in January, she finds the door open and her employer, "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, sprawled on the floor beneath the window of his private office. Ruth is engaged to JACK HAYWARD, whose office is just across the narrow stairway from Borden's.
Ruth recalls that Jack had threatened Borden, who also recalls that when she met Jack on Saturday with a bruised lip she believed Borden had hurt her, though she insisted he was wrong for his pistol which he had purchased at the store. She bought an identical weapon for her to keep in her desk. His gun is gone!

McMANN, a detective, questions Ruth. She confesses her engagement to Jack and also tells him of Borden's two Saturday morning dances with Ruth. She also tells him of a week-end trip and that she had seen her mother, who called for her monthly alimony. Mrs. Borden comes into the office during the questioning and McMann mercilessly accuses her of the murder. She insists she left Borden alive and that the only person to enter his office was MINNIE CANNERY, scrub woman. NIELSON, medical examiner, arrives. When accused is started for the weapon that might have been used, Ruth tells of the pistol in her desk. McMann goes to the store. It is gone, too!

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XII
DETECTIVE McMANN'S eyes were like glinting bits of steel as he turned on Ruth. They did not miss the fact that her little hands were bled tightly together, her eyes fixed in a wide, unwhinking stare of horror—upon Elizabeth Borden.
"Who else knew you kept a gun in that drawer?"
Ruth silently prayed that Mrs. Borden would forgive her. "A number of people, I can't remember all of them at the moment, but Benny, the office boy, of course, and Mr. Borden, and—and Mrs. Borden."
"Ah! So Mrs. Borden knew!" McMann interrupted triumphantly. "She—saw it there." Ruth said faintly, reaching out dizzily for the desk. "A low exclamation, that might have been either from fear or startled realization, had broken from Mrs. Borden's ashen lips."
"When?" McMann barked.
"Saturday morning," Ruth admitted in a low, trembling voice. "I pulled out the drawer to get the paper cups and Mrs. Borden, who was sitting at my desk, helped me with the drawer because it stuck, and—and I explained how I happened to have a gun—about the hold-ups in the building, you know."
"And why was Mrs. Borden sitting at your desk?" McMann caught her up sharply, relentlessly. "You'd made her sit down because she was feeling faint, hadn't you?"
Ruth stared her amazement at his accurate deduction. "Mrs. Borden did not look—well, so I thought—"
"Look here, Miss Lester," McMann interrupted her stammering speech. "This is murder, you know, and someone committed the murder, and I'm here to find out who did it. If you're trying to shield Mrs. Borden—"
"I'm grateful," Mrs. Borden, who had risen and was holding her chair, finished his sentence for him. "And I don't want you to bully this child. It is true: I did see the weapon. I was feeling sick and faint because I heard a woman and my husband laughing loudly together."
"You admit that?" McMann demanded. "I guess we've about through here, doctor," he called to the medical examiner, who was still in the private office with the corpse.
"Wait, Mr. McMann!" Mrs. Borden commanded, and Ruth admired the calm courage which had come to Harry Borden's widow. "I have made no confession, and will make none, for I did not kill my husband. I have merely relieved Miss Lester of a painful duty—that of telling what happened between her and myself Saturday morning."
"I admit that I was hurt—jealous, if you will—because my husband was so evidently finding happiness with another woman. But for many years he has given me cause to be jealous, and I have borne it uncomplainingly for the sake of my children."
McMann nodded, his lips twisting in a brief, cruel smile. "But on Saturday you reached the end of your rope, didn't you, Mrs. Borden? You unlearned with him about this other woman, after he had given you your check—"
"I did not!" Mrs. Borden interrupted firmly. "We parted as amicably as usual, and my husband was alive. I did not even remember that Miss Lester had a pistol in her desk. My husband gave me no cause to remember, and I was thinking only of getting back to the Chester Hotel, where I had left my children."
Again McMann grinned, but he suddenly switched his glinting, hard eyes upon Ruth again. "Did Borden open the automatic and instruct you to use it on bandits, Miss Lester?"
"No," Ruth breathed the word, rather than spoke it.
"I bought the gun for Miss Lester, Mr. McMann," Jack Hayward spoke up. "As I told you we are engaged to be married. I bought the automatic several weeks ago, after there had been two hold-ups in the building, but she was afraid to learn to shoot it."
McMann scowled at the young man, thought deeply for a moment, then pounced upon Ruth again. "If you were so afraid of the gun, Miss Lester, how did it happen that so many people knew you had it?"
"The memory of past humiliations painted Ruth's cheeks scarred by two very young men. "Elevator operators on duty Saturday until five," Covey introduced to the chief.

"All right, boys. Come on in, McMann invited. "I'm not going to arrest you—yet," he added with grim humor, as the boys continued to bug the wall. "Guess this room's getting a little crowded. I'll take you boys into the private office and treat you to a sight you'll never forget."
Micky Moran and Otto Pfuger, whom Ruth recognized as the silent, low-headed boy who ran the car nearest Jack Hayward's office, stumbled nervously across the outer office in the wake of the detective.
"Which of you runs the elevator just across the hall?" McMann demanded. "You? All right," as Micky Moran stepped toward the desk, his eyes turned backward to that awful, huddled thing on the floor. "Henry P. Borden was murdered Saturday afternoon, and undoubtedly, or rather, in all probability, his murderer—or murderers—to bug the wall. What's your name?" "Michael Dennis Moran," Micky answered automatically, then: "Geet! Murdered! Do I have to stay in here, boss? Honest—ow!"
"What the devil—?" McMann sprang to his feet, as the boy's howl of fear followed upon an eerie sound.
Ruth enlightened him, her eyes upon the black pigeon which was flying about the airshaft window, as if seeking admission: "It's just a pigeon, Mr. McMann. Sometimes they fly into the glass, thinking the window is open."
"Lord! And I nearly missed it!" McMann shouted. "Here, Feber! Look! Have you photographed this window for fingerprints? Fine! I can open it then. Has Nielson gone? Hey, Sectors!"
A minute later Ruth, in a bitterly lucid flash through the darkness of horror and fear, rechristened the black pigeon. She would never again call him "Satan." His true name was Nemesis.

Family Skeletons to be Revealed for Public Amusement

The average old family album is cherished and guarded as much, perhaps, for the secrets and family skeletons hidden between its yellowed leaves as for the reminiscences called forth by those funny old photographs. And that is just why so many old albums are kept out of sight. That is the real reason for abandoning the good old custom of entertaining sister's first bean and other visiting celebrities with the family album.

For the old tintype of one's favorite uncle on mother's side that is so screamingly funny because of the side-whiskers and the high stiff collar may suddenly recall to the outsider that this same Uncle Wilbur came very near to being honored with a big neck-tie party down at Hackberry Grove, about 20 years ago, right after several neighbors missed some of their white-face calves. Of course the connection is ridiculous, but it is universally agreed that it is as well to let sleeping dogs lie.

Nevertheless, all that old photographs can tell is to be laid bare in a short time in the most public possible place—the Central auditorium. One by one, as the pages turn, these characters will "tell off on themselves." And, as if anything else were needed, a wise-cracking little flapper will aid in the scandalous, pitiless exposure by repeating everything said in the family circle, not intended for little girls' ears.

Members of the A. A. U. W. and College club have taken upon themselves the responsibility of enlightening the dear public about certain prominent characters whose countenances ornament the family album—of forever laying hokum and bunk in the shade. They will open a life-size album, with the pictures in the round, on the stage of the auditorium Friday evening, March 8. Not only have they secured the country for every old dress with leg-of-mutton sleeves and every tuxedo with padded shoulders, but they have actually inveigled about 90 prominent citizens, both men and women, into posing under this rig, all for the sake of truth, beauty, and what not.

But everyone will laugh, for the joke is on the other fellow every time. It's always the other person's aunt and uncle by marriage who are so killing amusing. If, however, you don't like to admit your curiosity about your neighbor's business, excuse yourself that it is all for a good cause. The A. A. U. W. is going to give all the money to the new public library. Goodness knows it needs it!

Other features of the entertainment will be an original skit, "It's Pampa" a French doll dance, and a third number about which one can learn literally next to nothing. The skit was given at a tea at the state convention of A. A. U. W. in Amarillo last fall, and is being repeated by request. The dance, also, is to be given by request. It was an extremely popular number on the program at the International Relations banquet last night. It is rumored that this mysterious third act has something to do with a—well, famous woman named Almee something-or-other. What, exactly, no one can find out.

Chicago Murders Still Unsolved as Clue Breaks Down

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. (AP)—The St. Valentine's day gang massacre tonight appeared as much of a mystery as it did nine days ago, unless authorities have undisclosed information as to the identity of the gunman who shot down seven members of the Moran gang in their headquarters.

Many theories have come up only to evaporate into unsupported beliefs or inconsequential happenings.

The latest "solution" explored came today with the finding in Detroit of Dr. Loyal Tacker, Chicago dentist, who disappeared from near his home last night. When it was learned he had vanished police at first announced that he had identified one of the killers when shown a photograph of the suspect, as a man whose tooth he had extracted.

Later Dr. Tacker was found in a dazed condition in Detroit with the story that he had been slugged, kidnaped and drugged in Chicago by four men who took him away in an automobile. John Egan, chief of detectives, declared Tacker was not a material witness, and that the man identified by him was in jail at the time of the massacre and was not involved in the case.

BANK EMPLOYEES WIN FIGHT WITH BANDITS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23. (AP)—Six masked bandits and two guards of a bank's armored motor car shot it out in an outlying section of the city tonight in a stage-coach-way fashion. The bank employees won the battle and one of the bandits, as yet unidentified, died in a hospital soon after being admitted.

DROWNS IN RIO GRANDE

LAREDO, Feb. 23. (AP)—Quintien Diaz 14, was drowned late today when he attempted to swim his horse across the Rio Grande below here. The body had not been found tonight.

Who is the belle of Pampa? And why? The question will be settled, once and for all, March 8 at the Central auditorium.

A Sermon For The Week

The Lenten Laboratory

By DR. EDWARD HAINES KISTLER

(Pastor Fairview Presbyterian Church, Indianapolis)

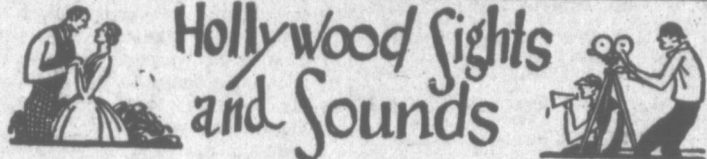

Annually on May 30 is run at Indianapolis the 500-mile auto race, important enough to be broadcast by metropolitan papers as it progresses. It furnishes abundant excitement for onlookers, opportunities for satisfying the gambling spirit, and rare publicity for makers of auto accessories. But the important elements is its battering test of each part of auto-mechanics. Here, before you entrust your life and wealth to them, are tried out the improved steering-knuckle, the new alloy for the chassis, the new system of tier building, the new feed system for the varied needs of a dependable engine.

Two kinds of tests likewise await you as to your probable value to your world, and Paul urges both on his Corinthian folk (2 Cor. 13:5). "Try, prove your own selves", he calls; and the words he uses picture the two methods in auto-proving.

"Try out your own self in daily life," is the call to the roadtest. "Test yourself for genuine material," calls for the acid of the soul-laboratory. "Unless, indeed, yet be reprobate"—flaws, adulterations, poor workmanship, cheap material. Lent is such a soul-laboratory, for the honest retesting of your real self.

For know well that God and man will either scrap the soul who does not stand up to the road-tests of life, or make of it a "new creation", dependable for the world's work or true pleasure.

"That which I know not, Father, teach Thou me—help me to live!"

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

HOLLYWOOD.—An Omaha audience assembled to witness a presentation of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" by a stock company headed by Frank Bacon, later of "Lightnin'" fame, saw the theatrical debut of one of filmdom's present stellar lights.

And the man who directed that production, and sometimes did double duty as director and actor is now on the same "lot," though not in the same company, with the former school-boy actor now renowned as a leading cinema comedian. He is ever glad to testify, if testimony were necessary, that the 12-year-old boy who made his humble bow to the footlights on that occasion has not been spoiled by the years which have brought success and wealth to Harold Lloyd.

Lloyd Ingram, actor and motion picture director of long experience, with an imposing list of feature pictures to the credit of his megaphone work, has returned to acting and is working with Eddie Dowling, the Broadway star, in a new musical-talking production being made at the Metropolitan studio, where Harold Lloyd also makes his headquarters.

Ingram stood in the wings on that unsuspectedly auspicious Omaha occasion when Lloyd, a school boy recruited for the part, portrayed the crippled "Little Abe" in "Tess."

In the part, Ingram recalls, the future comedy star demonstrated the resourcefulness which was to aid him in the struggle for fame. For "Little Abe" anticipated the cue which was to bring him on the stage to exchange lines with

"Tess" in a garden scene. Ingram, in the opposite wing, motioned frantically for the boy to retreat. Harold was already "on" however, it was too late. But he had caught the signal, and thought quickly to save the awkward situation.

How? He merely paused by a prop "rosebush," cupped a blossom in his hand and enjoyed its fragrance until "Tess" spoke the cue for his hobbling advance, while Ingram's groans were changed to gesticulated "Bravos!"

A sound-proof stage should be a healthful place. One studio has a huge "airwashing" plant combined with the ventilator system pumping air into the sound-proof precincts, so that the atmosphere passing through is first conducted into a tunnel 20 feet long and washed by numerous fine jets of water to free it of dust.
