RAIN FORECAST FOR MONDAY IS NO HINDRANCE

Robert P. Lamont, an Engineer, New Appointee

CHICAGOAN NOT FROM POLITICS

Geographical Lines Are Ignored in Naming of Cabinet

By W. B. RAGSDALE, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, March 2. (P)—Herbert Hoover ended long speculation about his cabinet today by announcing the selection of Robert P. Lamont, Chicago engineer, as his secretary of commerce and then prepared for a restful Sabbath before taking the oath of office as the thirty-first president of the United States.

Announcement of the choice of Lamont for the post, which Mr. Hoover himself held for nearly eight years was a greater surprise to Washington than any of the other nine appointments.

Mr. Lamont never has interested himself in politics.

Friends of the president-elect said that in casting about for a man to fill this important post, he made up his mind to select an outstanding engineer with wide business experience and they believe that Mr. Lamont meets the requirement.

of the largest banks and business institutions in Chicago and is affiliated with the United States Chamber of Commerce as vice-president and with many other large organizations of business.

In making his cabinet selections, Mr. Hoover is believed to have had little regard for geographical lines. Certainly he surprised some political observers when he failed to select a man from the traditionally democratic South, which he split in November election, being the first republican since reconstruction days to carry a single one of the old Confederate states.

As rain and snow bathed Washington during most of the day, causing anxiety among those arranging for the inauguration, the next chief executive viewed it from the windows of his study without perturbation.

Likes Country Rides

Later, after the sun came out Mr. and Mrs. Hoover went for a drive in the nearby country. This is the president-elect's chief means of relaxation.

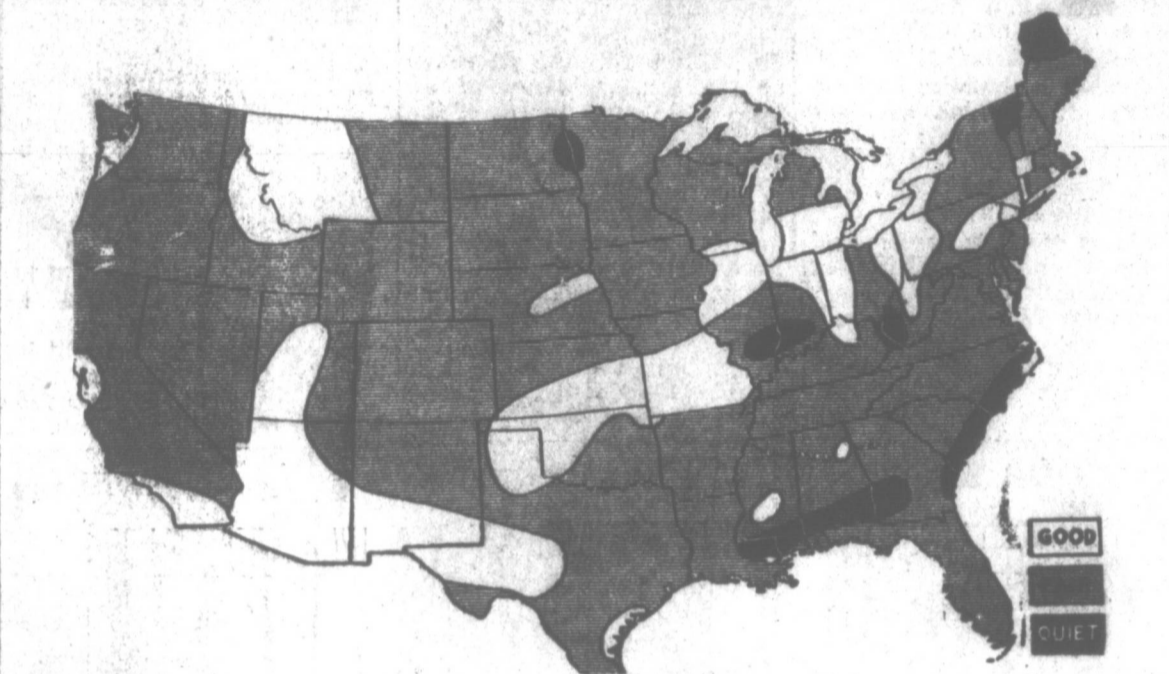

The president-elect and Mrs. Hoover are to attend services tomorrow morning at the Friends church and then plan to spend the remainder of the day quietly at home except that they may take an automobile ride in the afternoon.

They now are surrounded by all members of the family—their two sons, Allan and Herbert, Jr., and Mrs. Herbert, Jr., and her two little children. Allan just has arrived from Stanford university, where he is a student, and Mr. Hoover's sister, Mrs. Mary Leavitt of Long Beach, Calif., is expected to arrive here tomorrow.

LINDBERGH STILL SUFFERS FROM WRENCHED SHOULDER

CUERNAVACA, Mexico, March 2. (P)—Speeding over 40 miles of closely guarded highway, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow, journeyed from Mexico City today to this place of picturesque beauty and perpetual spring. They came in an automobile which the noted aviator drove with his left hand, his right arm and shoulder still being out of commission from the airplane "mis-hap" which the couple had Wednesday.

In a second car, Ambassador Morrow, his wife and elder daughter drove from the capital. The party intends to remain over Sunday.

Judge Ben S. Baldwin is spending the week-end in Fort Worth.

SHOW DOWN IS SMALL'S PLAN TO SAVE BILL

Scores of Landowners to Watch Proceedings Monday

MANY PAMPANS IN DELEGATION

Chambers of Commerce in Move to Obtain Passage

West Texans, aroused and united by resentment of Governor Dan Moody's veto of the Small anti-land grabbing bill as by no other issue since the fight for Texas Technological college, today are moving toward the distant capitol to urge passage of the measure over the head of the chief executive.

Rallying to Senator Small's announced intention to try for a "show-down" in both houses Monday, landowners of the Panhandle late yesterday were preparing to board a special coach at Amarillo for the trip to Austin.

Among those planning to go from Pampa were T. D. Hobart, C. C. Alexander, Henry Thut, Charles C. Cook, C. P. Buckler, E. E. Reynolds, Guy Saunders, H. E. Saunders, Joe Bowers, and F. M. Gwin. J. E. Williams has been in Austin several days.

Bitter criticism of Governor Moody's action was heard from many quarters Saturday. He was rapped for seeking the opinion of an avowed opponent of the bill—Attorney-General Pollard—who is not a disinterested authority, since he receives a 10 per cent fee for lands and royalties recovered for the state. The most severe criticism, however grousing out the fact that Moody, while asserting the imperative need for remedial legislation, delayed action on the bill until little time is left to pass it in different form or over his veto.

THOMPSON TO RESIGN

AMARILLO, March 2. (P)—Ernest Thompson of this city announced tonight that he would resign from the board of trustees of Texas Technological college because he disagreed with Governor Dan Moody's action in vetoing the Small riverbed land bill. Thompson was appointed to the post by the governor.

"I find it impossible to agree with your action in the veto of the bill, and therefore cannot be in accord and feel that should resign when I am no longer able to support you in your action," Col. Thompson's letter of resignation said. Thompson said the letter would be handed to the governor Monday, when a large delegation from the Panhandle plans to visit Austin in an effort to pass the bill over the governor's veto.

AUSTIN, March 2. (P)—Two lengthy unofficial opinions, citing many cases and disagreeing with the attorney-general in holding unconstitutional the Small bill, undertaking to validate all patents and awards of lands lying across, or partly across water courses or navigable streams were made public today.

The authors were C. A. Wilcox and Charles L. Black, Austin attorneys. They will be quoted by Senator Small and other proponents of the validating bill in their efforts Monday to pass the measure over the governor's veto.

Small today was almost "showed under" with telegrams applauding his announced intention of taking the bill to a "show-down" in both houses. The bill had been sent to the governor.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Yale has to do its share of yielding in various sports, but when it comes to pole vaulting the Blue feels as secure as France does in tennis.

Young Frederick Sturdy now has arrived to defend Yale's pole vaulting tradition. His recent performance of clearing 14 feet stamps him as a worthy successor to the great Sabin Carr, former intercollegiate champion and holder of the world indoor record of 14 feet, 1 inch.

Sturdy, who is 21 years old, has a splendid chance to set a new record, says Frank Canaly, his coach. And Canaly predicts that Sturdy will attain this goal at the indoor intercollegiate championship here March 2.

Yale's remarkable championship successes in vaulting dates back to 1888, when an Eli man won the first intercollegiate title for the Blue. Yale vaulters have won the I. C. A. A. A. title 18 times and shared in the title on five other occasions.

Carr perhaps was Yale's greatest He won the outdoor intercollegiate three years in a row, giving his school a four-year winning streak. His 14-foot vault in 1927 was the first in history.

The hard hitting star was "taking his cut" with a dozen cameras trained on him when the accident occurred. One of the machines had a sound attachment.

PAMPA WELFARE ASSOCIATION DOES MUCH GOOD

(By Dee Blythe of Central High)
Most of us have never come into direct contact with the Pampa Welfare Association, and therefore seldom if ever hear of the services rendered by it. The following is just one of many of these acts of charity performed by the association:

The Pampa Welfare association has found a mother who has the support of five children, whose ages range from three to twelve years, working for very moderate pay. Often she, or one of the children, has been ill. Clothes have been supplied them from the welfare storehouse, and the association has helped with groceries and medicine when necessary.

One of the children, a girl of school age, had to miss the first term of school to care for the younger children, but an aunt is now taking care of them during the day, and the children of school age are all in school.

Soviet Forgeries Involving Americans Lead to Arrests

BERLIN, March 2. (AP)—An attempt to sell to an American newspaperman fraudulent documents alleged to have come from the Soviet government, today led to the arrest by Berlin police of the alleged forgers of the notorious documents purporting to show that United States Senators William E. Borah and George W. Norris had received bribes from the Soviet government.

Police said they discovered a large plant equipped for forging Russian papers. The men held are Vladimir Orloff, former counselor of state under the late Czar Nicholas, and Michael Sumarokov, a former employe of the Ukrainian Soviet mission in Berlin. Two others arrested as accomplices were freed.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE REX

No other stage play ever transferred to the screen has lent itself so well to motion picture technique as "On Trial," the sensational success which Warner Brothers as an all-talking Vitaphone production.

When "On Trial" was first produced in New York by George M. Cohan and Sam Harris it was hailed as a distinct innovation in the theatre, utilizing as it did the familiar "cut-back" of motion picture. For the first time in the history of the stage, a character started to describe some happening, and the next instant the incident was being enacted before the eyes of the audience. A tiny period of darkness, and an almost instantaneous change of scene, took the place of the time-honored "fade out" and "fade in" of the screen.

The all-star cast in "On Trial" includes Pauline Frederick, Bert Lytell, Lois Wilson, Holmes Herbert, Jason Roberts, Richard Tucker, Johnny Arthur, Vondell Darr, Edmund Breese, Edward Martindel, Fred Kelsey and directed by Archie L. Mayo.

"On Trial," Warner Bros. latest all-talking picture opens at the Rex today.

AT THE CRESCENT

The difficulties encountered by divers in trying to reach the lower depths are forcibly presented in Columbia's mighty drama of the sea, entitled "Submarine." The picture is one of its most thrilling moments shows several divers trying to reach a wrecked submarine embedded 400 feet below the surface. At 200 feet the pressure overcomes one. He leaps consciousness and bleeds at the mouth. Through the window in his helmet the audience is allowed to see the man's face as he descends. The effect is highly dramatic.

The precaution taken to prevent injury to the man is shown. He is raised slowly to allow the body to adjust itself to the pressure, then upon reaching the surface is placed in a compression chamber until it is safe for him to come out into the natural air. One of these chambers is shown in the picture which is coming to the Crescent theatre. It resembles a huge white tub with a door at one end. The pressure and air within the tank regulated from without and registered by meters.

The most exciting moment shows Jack Holt descending the full depth of 400 feet a few yards at a time to allow him to get used to the pressure. The audience sees the heavy boots weighing twenty-four pounds—twelve pounds of lead forming the soles of each. These weights carry the diver down and tend to overcome the buoyancy of the water.

Walter Hardin made a business trip to Alanreed Friday evening.

Water Should Be Plentiful in Coming Summer

Is Pampa growing? Are Pampa people becoming cleaner? Is water being wasted? These are some of the questions that came to the mind of City Manager F. M. Gwin this week when he compared the figures of the amount of water used last February and February of 1928.

The average amount of water used daily between February 7 and 25, last year, was 229,728 gallons compared to 414,545 gallons this year. Between those dates in 1928, a total of 5,054,000 gallons of water was used, compared to 9,120,000 gallons this year.

The water has been supplied from seven small wells with a capacity of little more than 600,000 gallons a day. A new well is being completed that will increase the output to more than double the present total production. Last summer there was a brief water shortage here, but the city manager says that with the new well working Pampa will not know a shortage this year.

East Tyng Will Soon Be Paved

More concrete was run on East Tyng street yesterday by the Stuckey Construction company. Although the street has been ready for paving for the last month, only two days have been suitable for paving operations.

Another two-day run should complete Tyng street paving, members of the construction company say, and when that is completed the three alleys yet to be paved will be started.

Weather conditions have been so unfavorable that the company does not expect to begin active spring work before the end of the month. In all 27 blocks will be paved with vibrolithic concrete.

Credit Cards for Work in Christian Church Training School to Be Awarded Today to 28 Persons Doing All Work

The five-day Leadership Training school which was held last week at the First Christian church was brought to a successful close Friday evening. Credit cards will be awarded 28 members of the classes by the pastor-director, the Rev. James Todd, today at the evening service of the First Christian church.

Others who were absent one or more periods will receive office credit cards from the department of religious education upon the completion of outside work.

Charles Marion Ross of Fort Worth, regional director of education for the Christian church, was director-general of the school. He was assisted by the Rev. L. R. Hudson, pastor of the Edgecliff church, Dallas, and Miss Mabel Cline, a member of the faculty of Texas Christian university. Mr. Todd taught the only biblical course of the school. Others offered instruction in primary worship, adolescent worship, and administration of religious education.

The school was well attended throughout the week. Many of those who took advantage of the opportunities offered were members of denominations other than the First Christian. The course followed in the training school is recognized by 39 leading Protestant denominations and will receive full credit from the religious education boards of any of these churches.

Following the report of the findings committee of the training school, which offered suggestions for improving the activities of the church school, plans were made for work in the future. Under the plans, an elected board of education will perfect a five-year religious educational program, with the minister as pastor-director. This will not give the minister any authority over the church school, Mr. Todd explains. He will serve as director or advisor of the program, and the superintendent of the Sunday school will put into effect the policies of the board of education.

The pastor-director will teach local classes this year, giving credits leading to the specialization courses which will be taught in the Leadership Training school next year. A daily vacation church school will be held for two weeks this summer.

Pivotal young people of the church will be sent to the Young People's conference at Hooker, Okla., June 10 to 16, inclusive. The pastor-director will be sent to the Advance Leadership Training school in Fort Worth in June, in order that he may be fully prepared to teach the local training classes. A mothers' club will be organized among the parents of children in the Cradle Roll department.

At the suggestion of the Rev. Jasper Bogue, district evangelist, who attended the local school, the board of education will consider bringing the 1930 Young People's conference to Pampa.

Talks To Parents

TWO BOYS AND A PAIL
By Alice Judson Peale

A nursery school teacher whose charges are about three years old tells the following story:

Teddy sat playing with pail and spoon in the sand box. Louis came up to him. "Give me that pail I want it." Without waiting for Teddy to reply he snatched the pail and ran off with it. Teddy came crying to his teacher. "Louis took my pail," he wailed. "I'm sorry," said she. "Why did you let him do it? Next time hold on to it and don't let him get it."

A day or two later Louis again came up to Teddy in the sand box. "Give me that pail," he ordered. "You can't have it," said Teddy. "I can, too. I'll just take it away from you."

Teddy shut his mouth firmly and said not a word. He planted his feet wide apart and his hold on the pail tightened. There was a silent tussle. Teddy kept the pail.

Louis went to the teacher. "Teddy won't give me his pail and I need it," he said. "Did you ask him for it?" "Yes, but he won't give it to me and I need it."

"Well," said the teacher, "you see he had it first so he can keep it until he is through playing with it. Perhaps you can find something else to play with."

It may seem that it was quite wrong to let the children struggle thus before giving them a rule to go by. Yet two youngsters who are evenly matched learn much more about protecting their own rights and respecting those of others if they have fought the battle out first for themselves. All their lives they will have to meet just such situations.

It is well for the aggressors to learn that they can't always get what they want when they want it, and it is well for the others to learn to fight their own battles.

DAILY LENTEN THOUGHT

By Wm. E. Gilroy, D. D.
 (Editor of the Congregationalist.)

If man finds God in his own heart why need he look beyond himself? Because what man finds in himself inevitably leads him toward something larger and better. Man as a spiritual being is an incurable idealist. All that is good within him, reaches out toward something good in the whole universe and in the completeness of life which he himself is but a part.

For this reason, in spite of what oft-

Dog Quarantine Declared to Halt Spread of Rabies

Because of the prevalence of rabies in the country, Gray county commissioners yesterday issued a proclamation placing the entire county under a 60-day quarantine unless sooner lifted. During the last 10 days, more than twenty persons have been bitten by mad dogs.

The proclamation states that all owners of dogs shall immediately confine them to their premises for 60 days. This ruling effects Pampa as well as the county at large and any dog found running loose on the streets, whether tagged or not, will be pounded.

The assistant pastor, John Lee Harris, will speak at the evening preaching service.

REV. D. H. TRUHITTE, Pas.

All dog owners must immediately have their canines vaccinated.

Dogs vaccinated within the last six months will not have to be vaccinated again, but must not be allowed to run at large.

Dogs found running at large after a reasonable time will be captured and destroyed.

The proclamation is signed by Judge Ivy E. Duncan and the four Gray county commissioners and is issued by virtue of a proclamation issued by the governor authorizing that the step may be taken to protect human lives.

Dr. T. J. Worrell states that rabies may be as prevalent in winter as in the summer and that anyone bitten by a dog should immediately take serum treatment.

WACO, March 2. (AP)—Federal court officials refused today to deny or confirm reports from Washington indicating that Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach has been indicted under the corrupt practices act by a federal grand jury here.

The Waco News-Tribune tomorrow will say that it has learned on good authority that such an indictment has been returned and that it is now in the hands of a United States marshal for service on Mr. Wurzbach in Washington.

THIS HAS HAPPENED The body of "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN is found by his secretary, RUTH LESTER, one Monday morning, sprawled beneath the aircraft window of his private office. Ruth is engaged to JACK HAYWARD, whose office is just across the narrow airbase from Borden's. She rushes to tell him of the tragedy. Finding him out, Ruth searches for his pistol, which he purchased at the same time she bought an identical weapon for her to keep in her desk. His gun is gone! She knows Jack hates Borden on her account and, cold with a horrible fear, recalls Jack's strange behavior of the previous Saturday afternoon. McMANN, police detective, leads from the elevator boys, NICKY MORAN and OTTO FLUGEL, that Saturday afternoon passengers to the seventh floor were BENNY SMITH, Borden's office boy; MRS. BORDEN, his wife; and their two children, who called for her monthly alimony check; RITA DUBOIS, a clerk; and Jack Hayward!

When McMANN finds footprints of a pigeon in dried blood both on the window ledge and on the floor, which indicates the window was open during the murder, he says the "job" was done from the inside and turns suspiciously to Ruth. She answers his questions and tells of the pistol in her desk. McMANN looks for it but it, too, is gone!

Jack admits the office across the airbase. He explains to McMANN he returned Saturday afternoon for theater tickets left on his desk. He also tells of his automatic. McMANN goes to look for it. He returns to announce the pistol is gone! He is accompanied back by BILL COWAN, real estate man and friend of Jack's, who says he saw Jack utter threats against Borden Saturday morning when he saw Borden's attempt to get the check. Ruth, Cowan says he telephoned Jack Saturday afternoon and was plugged in on a busy line.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII JACK HAYWARD shrugged angrily. "Then maybe Cowan can tell me who uses my phone in my absence. The bills are outrageous. I've told you before, McMANN, and Miss Lester has corroborated me, that I rejoined her in the dining room of the Chester Hotel at 10 minutes after two. It is obvious that I could not have been talking over the telephone in my office at the same moment. Central probably gave you a wrong number, as well as a busy number, Cowan. If you think you recognized my voice, you're mistaken—that's all."

"I didn't say I recognized your voice, Jack, old man," Cowan protested unhappily. "I merely told Mr. McMANN that I heard Borden giving you the devil—"

"Borden!" Ruth and Jack exclaimed simultaneously, incredulously. "Yes—Borden!" McMANN repeated triumphantly. "From what Cowan says, there's no doubt in the world but that you called Harry Borden on the phone and had your quarrel with him in that way, rather than across the airbase."

"And shot him over the telephone, too, I suppose?" Jack retorted contemptuously. "Very ingenious of me, I'm sure."

"Please, Jack!" Ruth begged, her voice piteous with terror. "Mr. Cowan," she asked tremulously of the embarrassed witness, "isn't it very possible that you're mistaken in thinking you recognized Mr. Borden's voice over the phone?"

"Oh, sure! Of course!" Cowan succumbed instantly to the appeal in those blue eyes. But McMANN was of sterner stuff. "Look here, Cowan! You told me that you heard a man's voice, which you recognized as that of your friend, Harry Borden, shouting in great anger: 'I'm not going to have you interfering in my affairs! Who are you, to tell Harry Borden what he can do and can't do?' Are those substantially the words you heard before you hung up the receiver?"

"Well, I guess my case is pretty clear," McMANN broke in, smiling with grim satisfaction. "Saturday morning, Hayward, you see the girl you're engaged to struggling in Borden's arms. You threaten to kill Borden if he lays hands on her again. Cowan has to hold you by main strength to keep you from trying to jump across the airbase to get at your man. You meet Miss Lester at 1:30; she comes back to her office for her forgotten bank book, has another struggle with Borden, who bruises her lip in kissing her—"

"I've told you that is not true!" Ruth cried. McMANN went on as if she had not spoken. "You find her at the elevator with tears in her eyes and her lip swelling, and it takes all her strength and threats of breaking the engagement to keep you from killing Borden then. You two go to lunch together, she confesses that Borden had manhandled her—" such time and provide for the payment of such lawful rate of interest, to be taxfree or not taxfree, to be convertible or not convertible into shares of capital stock, as may be determined by the Board of Directors, and to contain such other terms and conditions as may be determined or prescribed by said board; and such mortgage to contain such terms and conditions as may be prescribed or authorized by the stockholders at said proposed meeting. O. B. WOMACK, Secretary. 3-19

Ruth went very pale, but her voice was steady as she challenged the detective. "What makes you think I knew his gun was missing?"

"But I didn't rely entirely on your private expression. Miss Barnes told me that you were alone in Mr. Hayward's office for two or three minutes this morning, when you went there to tell him what you had found in here. It was easy to deduce how you had spent those minutes—and why. You were afraid your sweetheart had killed your employer, and you looked for his pistol, to make sure. You didn't find it—and came to the same conclusion that I did."

"YOU'RE wrong there, at least!" Ruth blazed. "I did find that his gun was gone, but I know Jack Hayward did not kill Harry Borden!"

"And how do you know that, Miss Lester?" McMANN asked quietly. "Because the person who killed Borden was in this office, not in the one across the airbase. Oh, I know a shot could have been fired from one window through the other, but there are two excellent, irrefutable proofs that the person who killed him was in this office either during or after the murder. First—the body was robbed of $500—"

"Just a minute!" McMANN interrupted. "We have no proof that Borden was robbed, beyond the fact that the money is missing. How do you know that he did not give the money to someone before his death?"

"He gave Mrs. Borden a check!" Ruth flashed. "And he had no other visitor except Mrs. Borden until Rita Dubois came, according to the evidence of the elevator operator, Nicky Moran. . . . Oh, yes! Benny Smith was here, too, about half-past one, but surely you can't imagine Borden's making his check boy a present of $500. Can't you see that it isn't fair to Jack to convict him in your own mind until you've talked with Rita Dubois? We know she was here—"

"And that she didn't see Borden, in all probability, if we're to put the natural interpretation on what she said to Moran, the elevator operator, about Borden's having 'stood her up.'" Moran pointed out patiently.

"That's ridiculous!" Ruth cried, forgetting tact in her anger. "The natural supposition is that she was referring to Borden's having failed to meet her at the station, to take her away on the week-end trip to Winter Haven, as they had planned."

"Why give her the benefit of the doubt when you've been so ruthless with Mrs. Borden, Jack and myself? Oh, please be fair! Don't you see how likely it is that it was Rita Dubois who—last saw Mr. Borden alive? Since for some reason he failed to keep his appointment with her, he would be expecting her here."

"Probably she telephoned him and he asked her to come, or she simply came to see why he had 'stood her up' at the station. He would admit Rita, would unlock the door for her, but not for Jack Hayward. And don't forget—someone closed that window after Harry Borden was murdered. Jack could not have done so. He couldn't have got in. He has no key to this office, of course—" of your friend, Harry Borden, shouting in great anger: 'I'm not going to have you interfering in my affairs! Who are you, to tell Harry Borden what he can do and can't do?' Are those substantially the words you heard before you hung up the receiver?"

The girl's passionate outburst was interrupted by Birdwell. "What lips, the water from the Chester Hotel, sir?" (To Be Continued)

The water's testimony is even more damaging to Hayward. He tells about a key.

"PLEASE listen to me for a minute, Mr. McMANN," Ruth pleaded. "I know you're only trying to do your duty—that you want to be fair. But there are so many things you aren't taking into consideration. First, you are making a mistake in believing that Jack had a motive for killing Mr. Borden. I admit that he saw, from his window, the struggle that Mr. Cowan has told you about, but Mr. Cowan will gladly assure you that Mr. Borden was not making love to me—kissing me, or anything like that. He was simply trying to take off my spectacles, and I was foolish to scream."

The detective shifted in his chair. "I'm afraid all this isn't setting us anywhere, Miss Lester—"

"Please!" the girl begged. "The second important fact that you're ignoring is that my automatic is missing, too!"

"I'm not exactly ignoring that fact, Miss Lester," McMANN answered, not unkindly, "but I didn't like to drag Colby Lester's daughter into this case as an accessory either before or after the fact."

"I—I don't know what you mean!" Ruth gasped. "No, please, Jack!" she pleaded, as the young man sprang toward McMANN's desk. "Better try to control that temper of yours, Hayward," McMANN advised grimly. "I'm afraid it's already got you into enough trouble. . . . What I meant, Miss Lester, was that a frantic girl may hit upon strange ways to confuse evidence when she fears for the life of the man she loves. I'm not saying that you hid that pistol of yours this morning after you discovered that your employer had been killed and that your sweetheart's gun was missing—"

Ruth went very pale, but her voice was steady as she challenged the detective. "What makes you think I knew his gun was missing?"

"But I didn't rely entirely on your private expression. Pampa Tax Rate Lower Than Many Cities Have in This Section of Texas—Survey Is Made by B. C. D.

Is Pampa's tax rate high? How does it compare with other cities, larger and smaller, of this section? Would a small additional levy, as for a city hall-auditorium raise Pampa's rate out of line with cities and towns of the surrounding territory?

The Board of City development has made a comparison between Pampa and a number of other cities of West Texas with regard to city tax rates. Secretaries of chambers of commerce were requested to furnish their city tax rates and give the amount of taxes that would be paid on a house valued at from $3,500 to $4,000.

Pampa's city tax rate is $1.40 on the $100 valuation and a local residence valued at $4,500 and bearing a city valuation of $3,000 would place the taxes at $42. That this rate and valuation are below figures in many other cities is shown in the following lists, in which the names of the cities are left out by their request:

City "A"—Population approximately 12,000; city tax rate $2.15; city taxes on $4,000 house, $82.

City "B"—Population, 15,000; city tax rate, $1.95; house valued at $4,000, city taxes, $78.50.

City "C"—Population, 8,000; city tax rate, $1.50; valuation basis on from 75 per cent to 80 per cent of real value, sometimes school valuation as high as 100 per cent, $4,000 house, city taxes, $48.

City "D"—Population, 10,000; city valuation for tax purposes, $16,000,000, same property rendered for state tax purposes, $5,000,000; city tax rate, $2.30; city taxes on $4,000 home, $96.

City "E"—Population, 25,000; city tax rate, $1.70; $4,000 house, city taxes, $47.60.

City "F"—Population, 10,000; city valuation, $5,500,000; city tax rate, $2.50; city taxes, $4,000 home, $75.

City "G"—Population, 17,000; city tax rate, $1.25; city taxes on $4,000 house, $37.50.

City "H"—Population, 25,000; city tax rate, $1.85; city taxes, $4,000 house, $51.80.

City "I"—Population, 10,000; city tax rate $1.70; city taxes on $4,000 house, $47.60.

City "J"—Population, 9,000; city tax rate, $1.83; city taxes on house valued at $4,500, $84.

Marion Howard and little son, Charles, are spending a week in Travis and Wink, where Mr. Howard is transacting business.

Miss Emil Brewer is visiting friends in Memphis today.

Gypsies Here on Eastward Trek

Signs of spring were apparent in Pampa Friday when a "caravan" of gypsies stopped here for a few hours while on a trek. The only difference between the days of yore and now is that the present "caravan" was composed of Lincolns, Cadillacs, and Buicks.

The gypsies, in gaudy costumes, roamed about the streets while one was making a trade with a local automobile dealer. He traded a touring car for a sedan, stating that it would match the rest of the cars, all of which were sedans.

At least 25 children were in the cars. The caravan was on its way from Los Angeles to Wichita.

NOMINATIONS OVERLOOKED

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brashears of Borger made a business trip to Pampa Friday and visited their son, J. H. Brashears.
