PANIC REIGNS IN BIG CROWD

36-Cylinder Car Had Attained Speed
of 202 Miles

OCEAN SPEEDWAY, Daytona Beach, Fla., March 13. (P)—Lee Bible was killed here today in an attempt to establish a new automobile speed record.

Bible, a mechanic, was killed instantly when the 36-cylinder Tri-plex racer in which he was attempting to break the world's speed record of 231 miles an hour,
got beyond control and crashed
into the sand dunes.

A Pathe news cameraman who was hit by the machine also was killed. The accident happened at the far north end of the course.

The accident occurred after Bible had negotiated the mile run at 202 miles an hour. The machine was demolished.

The photographer's name was Charles Traub.

A panic reigned among spectators in the grandstand as cars and an ambulance rushed to the scene of the tragedy.

His mount rolled about a hundred feet before coming to a stop.
The cameraman, unable to move from his tracks, was mangled. His body was hurled a great distance.
The bodies of Bible and the photographer were taken to a mortuary.

Bible was 42 years old and is survived by his widow and two children.

ZERO HOUR OF REBEL ADVANCE BELIEVED NEAR

LOS ANGELES, March 13. (P)—Proclaiming three Mexican ports in the southern district of Lower California to be in rebel hands, the Mexican con-sulate here today requested fishermen in Los Angeles harbor to discontinue all sailings to Jose Del Cabo, Cape San Lucas and Magdalena bay. Fishermen said the request would cause a considerable loss to the Tuna fishing industry in the southern waters.

tagged by a traffic cop, William Sulzenberger, manufacturer, must appear have been. It was in the process of being moved somewhere or other like a trunk or a piece of furniture.

BIG GAS FLOW IS ENCOUNTERED IN SECTION 88

A flow of more than 90,000,000 cubic feet of gas was encountered at noon today in the Operators Oil company's
No. 3 Jackson, in the northwest corner of the north half of the northeast quarter of section 88, block B-2, H. & G. N. survey, in the Bowers-McGee pool. The exact depth of the flow was not ascertained, but was reported to be at the same depth as the big gas in the Texas company's No. 1.

The new test is a south offset to the Texas company's No. 1 Jackson in the same section, which has made more than a million and a quarter barrels of oil since brought in a year ago.
January. A flow of between 35 and 45 million feet of gas was encountered in the Texas company's test between 2,775
and 2,795 feet.

The new test has all the earmarks of a big producer. It is being watched with interest by oil operators in this territory.

Federal and insurgent forces continued to converge on Torreon where the next few days may witness either one of the biggest battles in the history of Mexican revolutions or a speedy disintegration of the entire revolutionary movement.

An army of 22,000 rebels was reported massing at Torreon while General Calles, commander-in-chief of the federals, was proceeding northward and 8,000 men under General Almazan was advancing from the east to descend
on the rebel stronghold.

Pursuit was retarded considerably
by dynamited bridges and damage done
to rail lines by the fleeing insurgents.

The rebels evacuated Saltillo, capital of Coahuila, early yesterday just prior to the launching of an attack upon their stronghold by the federales under General Juan Andreu Almazan, with auxiliary columns under Generals Eulogio Ortiz and Denigno Serratos.

The rebels left the city in great disorder, looting the Bank of Saltillo of 100,000 pesos (about $50,000), and the Bank of Industry and Commerce of 20,000 pesos (about $10,000). Trucks and automobiles were commandeered to aid their flight.

Control of the city was immediately taken over by the civil police, and the chambers of commerce, until the troops of General Almazan could arrive.

which provided that no bill be con-

BOMBINGS ARE 2 HOURS APART

Officers Seeking Two Men Seen Near
Spot

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 13. (P)— Three persons were killed and nine others, mostly children, were injured today in two mysterious explosions which wrecked two buildings.

The first blast demolished a two-story brick building. The second explosion, two hours later, wrecked a building two blocks away. A large crowd, attracted by the earlier blast, was milling about the street when the second explosion took place.

One of the wrecked buildings housed a grocery store, with a rooming house above. The second building was a residence.

Police expressed belief the blasts were set off by bombers and were seeking two men seen leaving the scene of the first explosion.

The dead:
Mrs. Mary Lew, 65; Charles Donald Nolan, 10, and Dorothy Glog-gner, 9.

The injured:
Tom Nolan, 45; Mrs. Mary Nolan, 38; Catherine Nolan, 11;
Marie Nolan, 16; Helen Norine Nolan, 8; John Patrick Nolan, 2; Tom Timney, 24; Mary Agnes Gloggner,
6, and J. A. Gloggner.

Paving to Await Good Weather

Continuance of paving operations in the city will depend upon the weather,
members of the Stuckey Construction company said yesterday. The company finished paving East Tyng street
with vibrolithic concrete.

The street will get for 21 days before being opened to traffic unless weather conditions are favorable and the city engineer authorizes the street
to be opened sooner.

The third paving contract awarded the Stuckey Construction company of Pampa and Wichita Falls last fall called for 27 blocks to be paved with vibrolithic concrete. Three blocks on East Tyng street and one block on Russell street have been completed.

When the third program is completed, Pampa will have 78 blocks of paving of the vibrolithic concrete and brick type.

Here is Arthur M. Hyde, new secretary of agriculture under President Hoover, and his family. Mrs. Hyde, upper right, and his daughter, Caroline. Hyde is a native of Missouri, claiming Trenton as his home town. His chief public service has been rendered in serving as governor of his state. He is a non-operating owner of three farms in Grundy, county, Mo.

Senate Committee Says Change of Textbooks Costly

AUSTIN, March 13. (P)—The state had on hand in usable condition more than 400,000 copies of the geography text in use by the schools, when the state textbook commission last October decided to change the text, according to the majority report of the senate committee which investigated the state free textbook law and the letting of contracts.

"We find that this number was sufficient to run the schools like this year without purchasing a single book," said
the report signed by Senators A. J.
Wirtz of Seguin and Will N. Martin of Hillsboro. "We further find that to change the present geography in use as well as arithmetics, histories, and many other books that were sought to be changed at the October meeting, would entail a loss to the state of many hundreds of thousands of dollars."

The majority committee concurred
in the recent opinion of Attorney General Claude Pollard which held void certain awards made by the commission. Senator C. C. Small of Wellington dissented in this but he joined with the majority "in insisting that some regard be given to the recommendations of county superintendents before books are discarded; that more attention be paid to the supply of books on hand at the time contracts expire;
and that a more conservative and economical policy be adopted with reference to the use of old books and the purchase and adoption of new books."

First Eagle Made on Local Course

The first "eagle" to be made in the local golf course was registered with the secretary Saturday afternoon. Clarence Barrett, playing in a three-some with W. H. Curry and Frank Perry, made hole No. 6 in two shots.

His drive from No. 5 was 200 yards and his approach of 160 yards from a blind went into the cup. Ernest Estick and Tommy Thomas, playing in a foursome, were on the green when the shot was made. The hole is a par 4.

With spring approaching inactive members of the club also are getting their clubs shined up. Plans for this year will be discussed at an early meeting of stockholders.

PRUITT ADVANCES ALIBI WHEN TESTIFYING IN MURDER TRIAL— CLAIMS HE WAS ON DALLAS BUS

DALLAS, March 13. (P)—The defense of William (Dagger) Pruitt, on trial for his life here on charges of shooting to death William Mann the night of January 6 rested today after Pruitt had offered an alibi.

"I was on a bus between Dallas and San Antonio the evening of January 6
and didn't arrive here until 7 p. m.," he testified. "As soon as I arrived in Dallas, I went to the Hilton hotel and registered under the name of W. H.
Spears. I went directly to room 1506
and stayed there all night."

He declared he never had been in Roy's cafe near where the tragedy took place. The cafe owner and a waitress in it identified him yesterday.

Court Adhesion Will Be Delayed

WASHINGTON, March 13. (P)—The "Root-Hurst arrangements" for American adherence to the world court has little chance to be taken up for consideration by the senate before the regular meeting of congress in December.

The new formula, as worked out by Elihu Root with Sir Cecil Hurst, British jurist, and other members of the rules committee of the League of Nations, must be passed upon by the senate foreign relations committee before it reaches the senate, and Chairman Borah is unwilling to proceed with it pending action by the league council, which meets in September.

AGED PAIR CHARGED IN ARKANSAS POISON CASE

TEXARKANA, Ark., March 13. (P)—
Charged with attempting to poison members of a lumber camp clearing timber from their old farm home, Mrs.
Nancy Lynn, 63, and her brother, Robert Morris, 61, went to trial here today for assault with intent to kill.

The aged couple was arrested after more than 25 members of the lumber camp at Fort Lynn, Ark., had become suddenly ill last April.

LOSS ESTIMATE ABOUT $5,500

Galveston Club Man
Held Up—Loss
$15,000

BROWNWOOD, March 13. (P)—
The First National bank of Brownwood today was robbed of $5,500
in cash by two unmasked men, who escaped after locking employees of the institution in the vault.

The robbers met the first employees to arrive at the bank, and at the point of revolvers forced them to open the doors. One of the men accompanied the clerks inside while the other stood guard
at the door.

As other employees arrived they also were ushered into the bank by the robber at the door. After the men inside had gathered up all the loot available, the employees were forced into the vault,
and the men made their escape.

Those in the vault, including Millard Romines, cashier, extricated themselves, but too late to see in what direction the men departed.

GALVESTON CLUB MAN ROBBED OF $15,000

GALVESTON, March 13. (P)—Louis
Morris, proprietor of the Kit Kat club, and Andrew Best, his employe, were robbed of $15,000 on leaving the club
today, Morris told police.

Morris and Best were driving toward the city in an automobile from the club, which is on the Galveston-Houston highway out of the city limits. They drove a short distance and another car pulled even with them. They were commanded to stop.

Two white men, one masked, in the robbers' car covered Morris and Best with a rifle and a spotlight. A leather bag containing more than $10,000 was taken from Morris, he said.

The Morris car was then damaged
by the robbers who drove toward Galveston.

The Kit Kat club car usually is followed to the city by a guard, but today
the guard left for Houston some time before the closing hours, Morris told police.

Houston Offers Thousand Acres of Land and $1,000,000 for University

HOUSTON, March 13. (P)—Houston's bid for location of the new Presbyterian university here will be a tract of 1,000 acres of land and $1,000,000 in money.
Decision to place this offer before the synod at the proper time and to call upon the entire citizenship to work for the securing of the university was reached at a meeting of influential citizens Tuesday. Support of the incoming city administration was pledged to the project by Mayor-elect Walter Monteith.

Rev. William States Jacobs was the principal speaker, outlining the history of the Presbyterian schools in Texas and sketching plans for the proposed institution, which will be a consolidation of Austin college at Sherman, Daniel Baker university at Brownwood, and Texas Presbyterian college at Milford.

It's Like This

JIM FERGUSON, with all his faults, is a shrewd political psychologist. In the mass of comment upon Senator Clint Small's work in his first legislative term, this is by no means the least interesting.

"Senator Small made one of the most logical and entertaining speeches that has been heard in the Texas senate in years in defense of his bill. There is more in him to his looks than any man in public life in Texas.

"He delivered one of the ablest legal arguments that I have ever heard on a legislative question. In addition he appealed to the heart and mind of his fellow senators that carried conviction with sentiment, as well as logic with entertainment.

"The senate seemed eager to follow him and when he had finished the president of the senate promptly put the question to a vote and the roll call was brutal. When it was finished Dan and Pollard only got 6 votes and the Small bill got 24.

This is from The Ferguson Forum, and is an extract from the leading article by the former governor, which starts out with this sentence: "Well, hell popped out in the legislature this week."

MUCH COMMENT has grown out of the passing in Waco of a city ordinance requiring every motorist involved in a car accident to report to the police as soon as possible after the mishap.

And the ambulance drivers who may be called, and the officers who make the investigations, must present their data. This is a logical, scientific procedure which we think recommends itself to Pampa and every other city.

All too often only the most badly damaged car remains at the scene of the accident when the officers arrive. Perhaps the driver of the other car was careless or negligent. His name may not be known to anyone involved.

Traffic accidents are inevitable and it is no particular disgrace to be in one. There is no reason why the constituted authorities should not have all the facts involved. It should be a violation of the city ordinances to fail to report an accident with a reasonable time after its occurrence.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Seekers after higher protective duties on imported goods aren't really so exacting after all. In fact, if they can't have their money in gold they will be glad to take it in honest currency.

President Hoover favors limited tariff revision. The tariff hogs who are getting along well as it is favor unlimited revision and so many of them are pleading dire poverty that it is difficult to distinguish those industries which aren't being adequately taken care of from those which are.

And they will not insist on general revision upwards if they can get something just as good. Hence the proposal to substitute, in determining tariff duties, the basis of American valuation for the foreign value basis now used wherever imports are taxed on an ad valorem or percentage basis.

Of course the general net effect would be to boost the amount of duty on imported goods where the American valuation scheme was applied without raising the ad valorem rate of taxation. Apparently the adoption of the proposal would save a lot of fuss and make it necessary for many interests to demand specific favors for their own industries.

In the general rush, the opponents of the proposal contend, there would be no separation of sheep from goats—and hogs. It is complained that, besides setting up extremely reference. Of course, those seriously injured cannot report so quickly, but it is to their interest that those persons in the other car do so.

It should not be possible to cause an accident and leave the scene before the officers arrive, perhaps even before the injured have been cared for. The hit and run driver is not merely one who hits a pedestrian, but one who also strikes another car.

The keeping of complete, systematic records of public nature is important. We cannot understand why it is that so many officials take the law into their own hands and permit their records to take a form that no court could approve. It is one of the failings of our government that there is no general supervisor, no inspector, to make sure that the records are uniform, legal, and complete, as the law provides.

high rates in many instances, the scheme would be very difficult to apply and that there would be constant uncertainty as to what the duties actually assessed would be. This last objection has caused importers to make an especially bitter fight against the proposal. It would mean, they say, that importers would no longer be business men, but gamblers.

Of course anyone who represented the well-known "consumer" would stress the certainty of higher rates.

But the other side of the story should not be neglected. Here's what Joseph R. Grundy, high priest of the protective tariff and president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, has to say:

"Practically every schedule of the Tariff Act was represented by the leading industries under that schedule in the hearings before the Ways and Means Committee just completed. With very few exceptions every industry appearing before the committee condemned the foreign value basis and requested some form of valuation having as its basis all the facts within the United States.

"Many estimates of the actual fraud on the government through a foreign value basis were submitted. Many witnesses testified that this basis is easily manipulated by the foreign importer. If anyone can correct under valuations arising under the present system he will manifest more consummate wisdom and strength than Congress and those governmental officers who for 125 years have been trying vainly to enforce the penal provisions which punish fraudulent undervaluations."

The American Farm Bureau Federation, in a brief presented to the committee, pointed out that investigations to determine foreign values had resulted in much international friction. It complained also that foreign exporters and American importers were forever cheating.

Those Old Days
Oh, for the days of the country friends, who used to come to town and bring the editor a couple yards of backbone, a jar of sausage and a layer of spareribs!—Paducah Post.

They were days. They were for a fact. But nowadays the farmer has gotten out of the habit of giving away good money producers. And that is right. A thing that is raised at home may save buying at the store. And every cent that the farmer saves, is that much to the good. Farmers who come to town and take back with them from the store the things they should raise at home are not going to make much of a success at farming. In town, now, it is different. The hog pen is not a town posy by any manner of means and should be discouraged. But the sow, the cow and the hen are money producers—or should be—and the old time smoke house and egg basket should be a part of every farm equipment. Then, in that case, the editor might have more locals telling of the big supply of hog meat farmer Soandso has at his place and how well his cows are doing and the big lot of eggs he brought to town. The cream check and the egg money plus the sale of country cured hams cuts quite a figure and helps to supply the things the farmer can't raise and creates a home market for home raised produce there by helping to foster the trade at home idea. And when this is the case, the editor of the home paper stands a good chance to eat home grown backbone and spareribs and sausage and wax fat on the products of the land, for editors are a loyal bunch and do their trading at home—and that can not be said of a whole lot of other folks.—Higgins News.

TWINKLES

Mexican rebels burned a brewery. Those fellows must be sincere, else they would not take such drastic steps to keep their heads clear. However, if some of them were seeing double, perhaps they might kill more enemies.

We have not been giving old Jupe Pluvius much publicity lately, it is true, but what has he done to deserve it?

Beware of people who boast that they never carry a cracker, actual or verbal. The tongue that habitually errs seldom corrects.

Talking movies, being in their infancy, are not talking very naughty yet, but we dread their flapper period.

Jim Ferguson has popularized himself among the landowners through a tirade against the "navigation twins"—Moody and Pollard. And Jim never errs by being too mild.

Our opinion is that just after one of these Panhandle zephyrs is no time to let the wives hear one urging a clean-up campaign.

Heard: Irish patriot trying to popularize again the old expletive: "For the luvva Mike!"

There are more than fifty streams in Oklahoma called "Sand creek." Tip that to the Austin crowd.

QUESTION MARK

Moody Declares Prison Merger is Inadvisable Now

AUSTIN, March 13. (AP)—A night meeting of a senate-house conference committee failed to solve the enigma of prison centralization.

The compromise plan outlined before the committee, and around which the four lawmakers planned to draft their new bill, gives the state prison board of eight members blanket authority to locate and centralize on any of the properties, without direction from the legislature.

When the proposed draft was explained to Governor Moody, the state's chief executive disapproved it with the statement that the Younger-Turner-Loy bill passed in the house earlier in the session, providing for reorganization on either the Darrington or Ramsey farms, would have been preferred.

Walsh Explains New Oil Policy

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—After a conference today with President Hoover, Senator Walsh of Montana expressed his belief that the administration's oil conservation policy is much broader in scope than was assumed upon its disclosure yesterday at the White House.

The senator said the president's program contemplated the granting of leases to holders of oil prospecting permits only in those cases where the permits have made reasonable expenditures in drilling wells.

There are 32,000 permits affecting the public domain now outstanding and the percentage of the holders who have made such reasonable expenditures as contemplated under the general leasing act is believed to be rather small.

The policy of the administration, as Senator Walsh now understands it, contemplates no leases of land adjacent to that which may be leased to prospectors who strike oil.

Texas Oil Notes

DALLAS, March 13. (AP)—The Tom Jones No. B-1 in the Boggy Creek field near Jacksonville, which came in making more than 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, will be drilled deeper in an effort to make it an oil producer, drillers announced.

A 1200 barrel well has been completed by the Magnolia Petroleum company in the Schofield-O'Byrne pool, Duval county. The producer, No. B-5 Hank is the second big well drilled by the company in the north end of the field.

WICHITA, Kans., March 13. (AP)—The fourth Sedgwick county producer in three days was brought in late last night when No. 2 Thad Goodrich, in 6-26-1 east, topped the pay sand at 3,373 feet. Within 15 minutes after the pay formation was penetrated more than 600 feet of crude rose in the hole.

LINDBERGH AWAITS PLANE FROM UNITED STATES MEXICO CITY, March 13. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was believed today to be awaiting arrival of a plane from the United States to make his departure from this city.

An effort to gain something as to his plans drew from him only the comment, "I have nothing to say." It usually well-informed circles, however, it was said he would return to the United States shortly after arrival of the plane, which, dispatches said, reached Brownsville, Texas, yesterday.

Colonel Lindbergh has been in Mexico City more than a fortnight, most of the time being spent here and at Cuernavaca in the company of his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow.

for the wedding. Latticed bows, hung with wisteria and smilax, formed an archway above the long center aisle. The altar itself was banked with flowers and surrounded by low trellis work entwined with smilax and laurel. Tall floor baskets of pink roses gave emphasis to the chosen color scheme.

The bridal procession was led by Johnnie Ruth Skaggs, small niece of the bride, and Wayne Coffee, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Coffee of this city and nephew of the bridegroom. They unlocked the gate through which Miss Simmons and Mr. Horn approached the altar for the reading of the ring service by the Rev. Robert Pryde of Amarillo.

Miss Allie Lee Bolton and Miss Claudine Horn, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Their dresses were of tulle, with long bouffant skirts. Miss Horn wore pink and Miss Bolton, orchid. Both wore silver slippers, and their bouquets of pink and orchid sweetpeas were alike.

Mrs. Frank Skaggs, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a pink satin dress, embroidered with iridescent beads and seed pearls. Miss Ellen Simmons of Selma, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a straight-line model of shell-pink chiffon. Mrs. Skaggs and Miss Simmons carried bouquets of sweetpeas.

Mr. Rip Underwood of Amarillo was Mr. Horn's best man, Mr. R. G. Hughes, Mr. W. T. Fraser, and Mr. Horace Park, all of Pampa, and Mr. Frank Skaggs of White Deer were groomsmen. Master Tommy McCoy, nephew of Mr. Horn, was ring-bearer. He and Master Coffee wore tuxedos, perfect replicas of those worn by the groomsmen, and boutonnières of orange blossoms.

Virginia Dacus and Ernestine Freeman, dressed in pastel tinted ruffled frocks, were flower girls. They scattered petals from small golden baskets.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. T. D. Simmons. She wore a lovely robe de style of ivory satin, lace trimmed and embroidered with seed pearls. A Queen Elizabeth collar of lace, long-fitted sleeves, and an uneven hem-line gave the gown an unusual distinction. The tulle veil was in two wings and fell from a fitted cap of lace and orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was a shower of sweetheart roses, valley lilies, and orange blossoms.

Mrs. J. E. Jackson sang "O Promise Me" as the pre-nuptial song, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Elliott at the piano. The march was played by Mrs. Douglas Carver, who chose the bridal chorus from Lohengrin as the processional and Mendelssohn's march as the recessional. Mr. Herman Kreiger played a violin obligato for the song and the marches and a soft accompaniment for the ceremony itself.

The wedding was followed by a reception at the Simmons home for the bridal party, relatives, intimate friends, and out-of-town guests. Pampa friends who attended the ceremony and the reception were as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Coffee and son Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Jim White, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Roland McKimling, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barratt, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Rose and their daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Malone, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fatheree, Mr. and Mrs. Maurion Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Steider, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Dillon, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Miller, and Horace Park.

Dr. Wilbur Inaugurates Policy to Conserve Federal Oil, But Walsh is Opposed, Citing Detriment to States

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Far reaching changes in the policies and operations of the interior department are being effected under the Hoover administration with a rapidity which has startled official Washington.

Although Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur has been in charge of the department only a week, new major policy, that of the complete conservation of government oil in the ground, has been adopted and a series of changes made in administrative officers with several more to follow in the near future.

Joseph M. Dixon, former governor of Montana, has succeeded E. C. Finney, as chief assistant to the secretary; Mr. Finney has replaced Ernest O. Patterson as solicitor, and three bureau chiefs are to be deposed as soon as their successors can be found. They are Charles H. Burke, in charge of Indian affairs; Winfield Scott, commissioner of pensions, and William Spivey, commissioner of the general land office, who has been in ill-health for months.

While the interior department has been under general fire in congress for a number of years, friends of Dr. Wilbur assert the changes in policies he is inaugurating are more the result of his own studies of the whole field of activities of the department than of any assaults that have been made from the outside.

The oil conservation policy, disclosed yesterday by President Hoover in reply to questions of newspaper correspondents, was determined upon at conferences between the president and Dr. Wilbur and seems to have produced conflicting reactions on Capitol Hill.

Senator Walsh of Montana, a Democrat, whose prosecution of the naval oil lease investigations has made an indelible imprint upon congressional history, has questioned the authority of the chief executive to refuse to issue permits for further oil prospecting on the public domain when congress in the general leasing act of April, 1920, said leases for oil exploration in that domain may be issued.

On the other hand, Senator Nye of North Dakota, chairman of the public lands committee, which has conducted the whole series of oil investigations and of which Senator Walsh is a member, has endorsed the president's policy, and so has Senator Borah, of Idaho, who also holds one of the public land seats.

Senator Walsh takes the position that the cutting off of further oil development in the public lands states will work to the detriment of those states which are looking for development in which oil lands have passed into private ownership.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE CRESCENT That the proverbial number thirteen holds no quills for Pampa players is indicated by the fact that in the cast of "The Leatherneck," which opens a two day's engagement at the Crescent theatre today, there are exactly that number of principal players. And, adding to that, the beginning of the actual "shooting" of the picture was on Friday.

The thirteen principals include William Boyd, Alan Hale, Robert Armstrong, Diane Ellis, Fred Kohler, James Aldine, Paul Weigel, Jules Cowles, Wade Boteler, Philo McCollough, Joseph Girard, Mitchell Lewis and Jack Caville.

Among these players the only one who is wondering whether there is any thing to the old superstition is William Boyd, star of the picture, who suffered three injuries during the filming of the attraction. On the first day of production Boyd was scheduled for a fight scene with Robert Armstrong, while wrestling about the room Boyd's head struck a piano on the set on top of which was a three inch shell. The shell tumbled from its resting place and struck Boyd's head, cutting a gash that required several stitches.

As a result of the injury the rest of the picture was completed before the fight sequences were resumed. In one of the historic mixups Armstrong's nose came into contact with Boyd's ribs, breaking two of them. Just prior to this accident Boyd, while making a swing toward Armstrong's jaw, struck his knuckles against the corner of a door scraping the skin and badly bruising his hand.

"The Leatherneck" is a story of the activities of the United States Marines in China.

The picture is being shown under the auspices of the Pampa Volunteer Fire Department. The proceeds will be used to defray expenses to the state fire convention.

REAR ADMIRAL MOFFETT TO FINISH AIR PLANS

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—The veteran hand of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett today took over the control stick of the naval air service for another period of service despite the belief of a number of high ranking officers that the position of chief of the bureau of aeronautics should be passed around among officers.

President Hoover, however, has reappointed him for another term and this will enable him to see the completion of the five-year naval aircraft building program. This program was recommended by the Morrow air board which inquired into the nation's air defense after William Mitchell had made startling charges against the administration of the army and navy air services.

FOR THE HONOR OF THE MIKADO

By Dewitt Mackenzie

(Copyright, 1929, Associated Press.) This is the story of a great devotion to the code of honor of old Japan, the sort of devotion which in days gone by has led countless sturdy-hearted sons and daughters of Nippon voluntarily to join their mikado in death.

I should state at the outset that I cannot vouch for the authenticity of this tale. It was related quietly in well-informed circles abroad during the war. I made no effort to verify the statements, because the censor would not have allowed me to publish them in any event. I did not doubt the story at the time, and I do not doubt it now. But were I to ask for official confirmation at this late date I am certain that I should be met by a polite shrugging of shoulders, which might mean "little or much." So I present the story at face value.

The submarine warfare was at its height. No one who was not actually on the spot can realize the awful anguish of those times at sea. Commanders of ships turned grey from frightful strain. Day and night the air was filled with pitiful wireless appeals, which were in fact the death cries of brave ships.

It was during these troubled times that there ploughed into the Mediterranean from the east a convoy of ships filled with Australian soldiers and women nurses who were being taken to the western battle front. The boats were conveyed by Japanese Commander Satsuma, on the Haiyama. I use the designations "Satsuma" and "Haiyama" because they are not the real names.

For many thousands of miles the warships had led their hopeless charges through the eastern seas. Now for the first time they were in the real danger zone. The Japanese officers paced their bridges ceaselessly, binoculars to their eyes, watching for the signs of the peril lurking beneath the blue waves. Upon the square shoulders of the grey-haired Satsuma rested the weight of the safety of the convoy. Quite apart from his personal desire to see his little fleet safely through, he carried in his hand the honor of his mikado. That had been the Japanese code of the sea from the time immemorial.

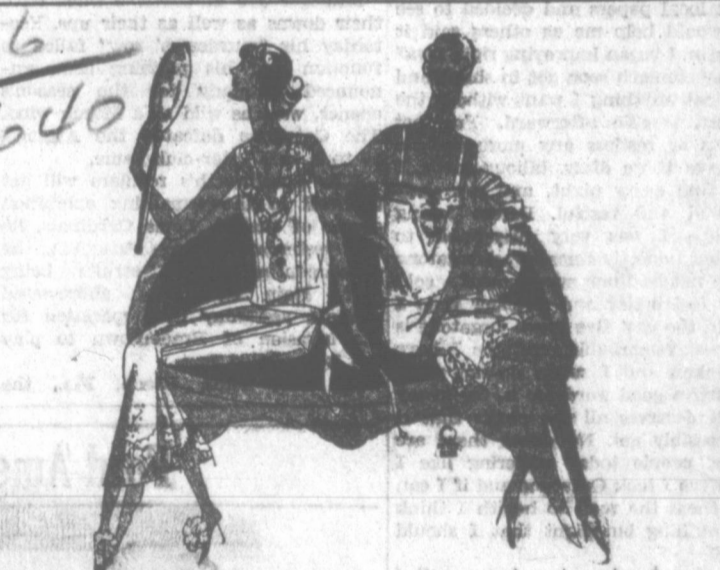

Suddenly and without warning there was a detonation off there by one of the troop ships, and the vessel leaped upward, like a fish trying to escape an enemy of the deep. Satsuma's shoulders stiffened, and his teeth clicked together like two pieces of steel, but his face was inscrutably masked with oriental calm as he turned and rapped out his crisp orders.

"Save the soldiers first, and then the women," snapped the commander to his lieutenant.

The subordinate's eyes shot a question at his chief. The commander caught the glance.

"It is hard, but it is war," he said. "The allies need troops. There are plenty of women left." But they saved them all, both men and women, and took their flotilla to port.

The Haiyama and her sister ships were steaming out to sea again, homeward bound. The commander and the lieutenant were on the bridge, looking in silence towards the receding land. But they watched with unseeing eyes, for each was busy with the same thought. They had brought their human cargo through all parts—but a ship had been lost. Satsuma, the trusted, had lost a ship. His code said that that was dishonor. Only one thing could wipe out the stain.

Spudders Training Hard for Games With Big Boys

DALLAS, March 13. (AP)—The Wichita Falls Spudders will be put through a strenuous training period for the next few days in preparation for their exhibition season scheduled to get under way three days hence. Manager Jim Galloway is devoting most of his time in getting veteran players in condition. Every veteran pitcher took a turn on the mound this morning.

The San Antonio Bears and New York Giants play in San Antonio today, barring a weather change. They play Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, also. Neal Baker, former Texas University star, was the hill choice for the Bruins, while Carl Hubbell was the probable Giant pitching selection.

Manager Frank Snyder will take his Houston Buffaloes indoors again today for the third consecutive time due to weather. Rain has been falling in Houston for three days now and there is little prospect the weather clearing up in time for the Bisons to get in a workout outdoors.

With 13 pitchers in camp at Mineral Wells and another, Leo Fitterer, due to be dropped there by Detroit in a few weeks, it has become a matter of speculation who will be the six or seven retained by Manager Jake Atz as members of the Fort Worth pitching staff.

Wild Bill And His Nerves

When he was preparing for the national open at Worcester, Bill used to get out and run around the hills, course three miles at a stretch.

By O. B. KEELER

Three years ago I was kidding Wild Bill Mehlhorn about his training methods for a golf tournament. Bill had a fixed notion at the time that he ought to be in such a cash-hardened physical condition that two rounds of golf a day would be child's play. When he was preparing for the national open at Worcester, Bill used to get out and run around the hilly course, three miles, at sunrise, and then get a caddy and a dozen balls and play all the balls around the course. Then he would play a match or two, later in the day.

This practice put Bill on a fine physical edge, and absolutely burned his nervous energy. He became famous for going two or three rounds at a furious pace and then coming apart at the seams in the third or fourth. He always had a terrible round somewhere.

So I was telling Bill his training system was all wet.

"Golf is played between the ears," I told him. "Any man in reasonable condition and accustomed to golf can play two rounds a day indefinitely without much physical strain. It's the old nerves that need training."

"Well," said Bill somewhat resentfully, "how do you train the old nerves?"

"Less golf and more bridge before the tournament," I suggested.

Bill had a good winter season last year at Pinehurst and in the early spring he admitted that my plan had helped a lot.

"I also took some jack away from the boys while I was training the old nerves," he added with a grin. And just see what Mr. Mehlhorn did in the El Paso open, the latter part of January! A record score for a 72-hole competition, so far as I know—rounds of 79-67-66-66—271, leading the field six strokes; 17 strokes below par. The hottest 72-hole stretch of competitive golf in the annals of the game. Looks like a big year for the large Nordic. Especially if the nerve-trained rookies already know how many places are open for them on Dan Howley's St. Louis Browns. Howley set a numerical classification yesterday of 10 pitchers, seven infielders, five outfielders, and three catchers for his June 15 limit of 25. The roster shows three pitchers, two catchers, two infielders, and one outfielder are to get the hooks.

Chicago Cubs as Favorites Must Travel Swiftly

By VICTOR G. SIDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal. March 13. (AP)—The clashing of cymbals and brass attend the preparations of the Chicago Cubs for the National league pennant race—They have been widely proclaimed as favorites to carry off the bunting. Pre-season claimer already has vested the Chicagoans in the garb of the champions, and now all that Manager Joe McCarthy has to do is win the flag.

One of the most colorful aggregations in the club's history—and one of the snappiest outfits seen in many seasons—has been in spring training on this pleasure isle. The inclusion in the lineup of Rogers Hornsby and his mighty budgeon appears to have much to do with the Cub's envied position as favorites.

The punch lacking in the final days of last year's campaign the Cubs hope will be contributed by Hornsby. Then, such swatmen as Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler "Hack" Wilson, and Jackson Stephenson will be there to aid in boosting the Cubs over the top with their long range shelling.

While McCarthy is depending considerably upon the star second sacker, he also lays great stress on his reserve material which he describes in enthusiastic terms. Believing that strong reserves form a necessary adjunct to a squad, the Cub's pilot has lined up an able substitute for each department.

Two newcomers will make the mound corps if their performances to date count for anything. Ed Lautenbacher, 21-year-old acquisition from the Reading, Pa., club, comes to the Cubs with a record of 10 victories and 5 defeats and it is more than likely that the youthful hurler will drape his six foot three inch stature over the mound in the coming campaign.

Berlyn Horne, somewhat older, having had some ten years experience, and possessor of a consistent record, has been puzzling batters with his deliveries this season, and McCarthy has indicated the former Jersey City pitcher also might be a member of the staff.

As for the veterans, the Cubs will have such noteworthy throwers as Charley Root, Guy Bush, John "Sheriff" Blake, Harold Carlson, and Art Nehf, the latter a southpaw deliverer. Mike Cveengros, who went to the Wichita Falls club of the Texas League from the majors, and turned in 21 wins against eight reversals last year, is another left hander upon whom McCarthy will depend.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL FIVE IS TERROR OF ARKANSAS

The girls' high school basketball team of Sparkman, Ark., has scored 1,854 points to 319 for opponents in winning 29 straight games in two years. Quinnie Hamm, forward (lower left), made 109 points in one game and 102 in another.

SPARKMAN, Ark. (AP)—The Sparkman high school girls' basketball team, with a two-year record of 29 victories in as many starts, with a scoring of 1,854 points to 319 for opponents, is well on its way toward what is believed to be a world's record for team scoring.

The team boasts an individual scorer of unusual merit in Quinnie Hamm, who also holds what is claimed to be a record for points made in a single contest. When the Sparkman "Sparklers" defeated Malvern, Ark., high school girls, Miss Hamm made 109 points. The score was 164 to 9. A week earlier the team defeated Tomberlin, Ark., high school, 125 to 5 and Miss Hamm made 102 of the points.

All Arkansas opposition, including the best college, high school and independent teams, has been swept aside by the "Sparklers".

Quinnie Hamm and her sister Irene, a guard, keep in trim for their court work by walking and running three miles to school each day.

The team went to the national tournament at Wichita, Kans., with three regulars out of the line-up due to illness, but in spite of this trimmed the champions of West Virginia, 62 to 13, and lost to Dallas national champions, by only three points.

The "Sparklers" expect to win another national tournament this spring and their coach, Maizie Cannon, former star on the Henderson Brown college team expects to bring the championship to Sparkman.

Morris Seliger, formerly manager of the local K. C. store, is here on a business trip. He is located in Fayette.

Otto Von Porat Sends Tom Heenev Into Hospital

CHICAGO, March 13. (AP)—Otto Von Porat's galloping gloves pounded a requiem to Tom Heenev's heavyweight title aspirations last night and sent the New Zealand hard rock to the hospital for repairs.

Eighteen stitches were required to close the inch-deep gash in Heenev's lip which Von Porat's right hand opened in the final round. The wound sent blood cascading down over Heenev's body, and the New Zealander, realizing how desperate his plight must have appeared, told referee Ed Purdy not to stop the fight, that he was all right.

After the cut had been closed, Heenev left the hospital.

Heenev, upon whose body Gene Tunney wrote his farewell to pugilism last year, was a badly whipped man when the Norwegian puncher got through his ten rounds of work. Von Porat took seven rounds, lost two and held Heenev even in the other. To the surprise of most of the 9,000 spectators he not only outslugged the New Zealander but outboxed him most of the time.

Harry Bloom has returned from Shamrock, where he has been with Levine's store.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Penberg and Sam Clayman have returned from an extended visit in Houston and Hot Springs, Ark.

"I'VE NEVER SEEN ANYTHING LIKE IT"

AMARILLO WOMAN SUFFERED 5 YEARS—FEELS LIKE DIFFERENT PERSON SINCE TAKING ORGATONE

"If I could speak with everyone personally who had stomach trouble and indigestion, I would tell them to take Orgatone. For I tried it myself and have never seen anything like it," was the statement made by Mrs. P. B. Goodwin of 313 N. E. Ninth, Amarillo, Texas, Mrs. Goodwin is employed at the Troy Laundry.

"About five years ago I began suffering from stomach trouble and indigestion and my condition kept getting worse in spite of all I could do. My appetite left me and when I did eat anything I would suffer terribly from indigestion and gas on my stomach after meals. I had terrible headaches and was very dizzy and bilious and finally developed a chronic case of constipation. I simply got to where I could not get a good night's rest. I was so nervous and restless. I had a drowsy, sluggish feeling all the time and always felt tired and worn out and couldn't seem to get the much needed strength."

"I saw Orgatone advertised so highly in the local papers and decided to see if it would help me as others said it did. I began improving right away and my stomach soon got in shape and I can eat anything I want without the slightest trouble afterward. I'm not nervous or restless any more and do not have those dizzy, bilious spells. I sleep fine every night, and my sleep is sound and restful. Before taking Orgatone I was very susceptible to colds but honestly since using Orgatone I have not had one symptom of a cold and I feel better and stronger than I have in the past five years. Orgatone is the most remarkable medicine I have ever taken and I surely do not mind speaking a good word for it, for in my case it deserves all the credit that it can possibly get. No doubt there are lots of people today suffering like I did before I took Orgatone and if I can show them the road to health I think it is nothing but right that I should do so."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Pampa exclusively by the City Drug Store 306 West Foster avenue, Johnson Hotel Building, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adv.

Manager Joe McCarthy's Cubs have their downs as well as their ups. Yesterday his "murderers' row" failed to function and his pitching ace, announced as ready for the season's opener, were as wild as a March wind. The Catalinas defeated the Avalons, 14 to 3, in a inter-club game.

Rain caused an abbreviated workout yesterday in preparation for the invasion of Bradenton to play the Boston Red Sox.

Nobile's Resignation Has Been Accepted

LONDON, March 13. (AP)—The Exchange Telegraph company today said it had been officially announced at Rome that General Umberto Nobile, commander of the ill-fated Italia expedition had resigned his rank and office. The resignations were accepted.

The official board of inquiry into the Italia disaster last week placed direct blame upon General Nobile for the loss of the dirigible and censured him for allowing himself to be rescued from the ice first.

General Nobile had a long and distinguished military career with the Italian army. He was an ardent Fascist and reached world wide prominence when he flew with Roald Amundsen in the dirigible Norge across the north pole from Spitzbergen to Alaska in 1926.

SAN ANTONIO, March 13. (AP)—Most of the cripples in the New York Giants' camp have recovered. Carl Mays, Fred Fitzsimmons, and Andy Reese are ready to return to duty. Mays, who broke a thumb when he knocked down a line-drive some days ago, got back into action yesterday and Reese's "Charley horse" has disappeared.

Glenn Wright seems to have stolen the show at the Brooklyn Robins training camp at Clearwater, Fla. The shortstop was the subject of almost all the talking there yesterday. He is undergoing treatment for a shoulder injury, alleged to have been incurred before he was traded to Brooklyn by Pittsburgh. Wilbert Robinson was threatened to carry the case to John A. Heydler, president of the league, if Wright's shoulder doesn't respond to treatment.

More batting practice seems to be the chief need of the New York Yankees at Tampa. The world's champions opened their exhibition schedule yesterday by nosing out Tampa of the Southeastern league, a class B organization, 1 to 0.

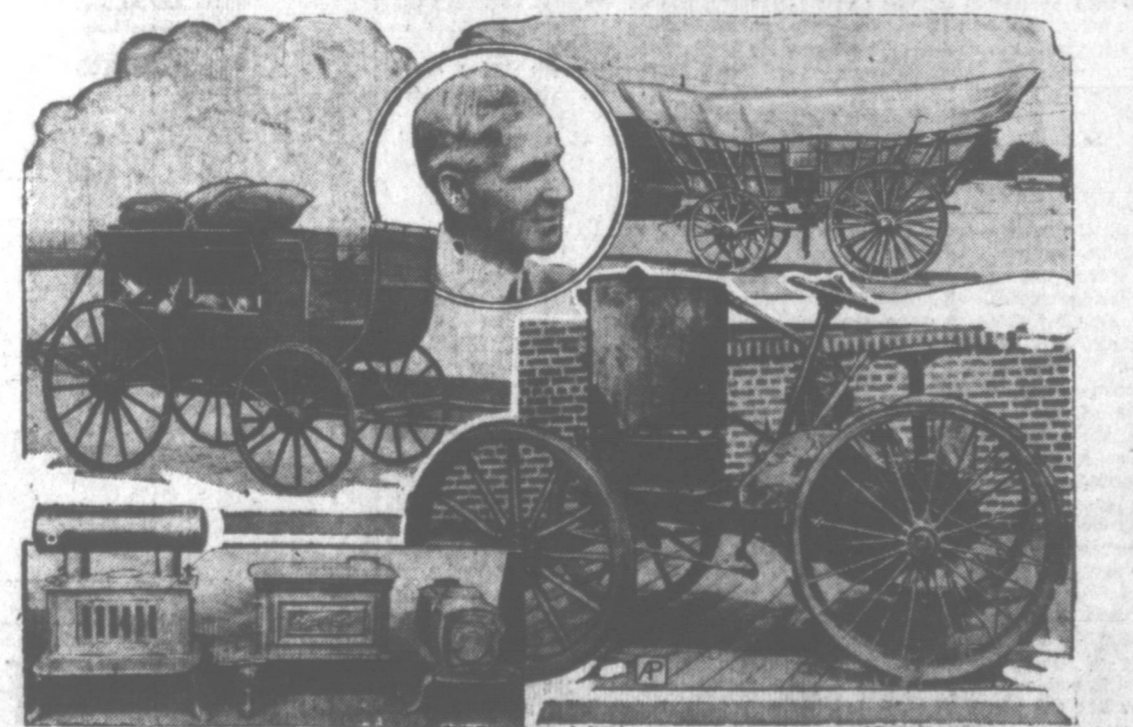

The Chicago White Sox and Dallas Steers are scheduled to resume their baseball argument today—providing the weather at Dallas permits. The Sox were rained out of a practice session for the second consecutive day yesterday and Manager Lena Blackburne is anxious to get his hopefuls back on the job.

About New York

By RICHARD G. MASSACK

The monkey business is doing very well, thank you, although winter is always an off season, says Ludwig Ruhue, the big wild beast man of Bowery street.

Mr. Ruhue's business, founded in 1869 by his grandfather, has grown, he proudly proclaims, into a corporation dealing in virtually all kinds of exotic birds and animals.

More than 3,500 diminutive monkeys alone are imported each year from South America by Mr. Ruhue and his associates.

WHERE MONKEYS GO

What in New York do they do with all the former jungle jumpers? Well, for one thing, the hospitals take more than half of them. Mr. Ruhue was a little vague about the use to which the laboratories put them, but it seems experiments try some of the new treatments on them. During January and February, he says, he could have sold a thousand to the researchers, had they been available. But the tropical emigrants are susceptible to pneumonia and therefore are brought north only in the spring and summer.

Then, I am told, there really are persons who submit to gland transplantings to regain their youthful vigor. They are few, however, and require larger monkeys imported from Africa and India.

PETS

If the hospitals don't get the monkeys, the zoos and the pet shops must. There is one Japanese shop on Sixth avenue in the theatrical district that does perhaps the biggest retail monkey business locally. It keeps two dozen in stock and the sale average one a week, except at Christmas time, when the proprietor states solemnly, six or seven a day are sold for gifts.

So seldom are the grotesque little pets seen in public that one can only wonder where the supposedly grateful recipients keep them. Perhaps, as in the sad case of August, pet duck of an actor, the neighbors have something to say about that. Bradley Cass, the owner, reports that he ate August last Sunday. Poor thing, he must have been unhappy in the bathroom, for he had pined away to almost nothing but bones and feathers.

NICE, FRESH RHINOS

If you are looking for a rhinoceros however, or a pair of pet tigers, you will be interested to know that the fresh supply arrives in April and May. Their arrival is eagerly awaited by several fanciers, including Charles W. Bell, a banker with a private zoo on his Long Island estate where he already has six elephants, an unusually fine collection of tigers (so connoisseurs say) and numerous other foreign fauna. Every spring he looks over Ruhue's new arrivals and picks out what he thinks he needs.

The spring prices, if you are still interested, have been fixed. Elephants are being quoted at $2,500 up, on the hoof in New York; Camels are available at $750 to $1,000, tigers at $2,500 a pair, and leopards, happily mated, at $500 to $600 a couple. Monkeys, being so common are sacrificed at $35 to $110 a head.

The condition of Miss Roy Riley, who has been ill several weeks, was thought to be unchanged today. She has been in the Pampa hospital since Sunday.

Miss Wanda Enlow is in the Pampa hospital for treatment. She entered yesterday.

REVOLUTION

captured Juarez last Friday. General Valle and General Augustine de La Vega, who also arrived from Northern Chihuahua, reported today to General Escobar.

Travelers passing through Torreon, both from the north and the south, have been compelled to stay in the city because of the late military maneuvers.

Reorganizes Sinaloa
Gov. Celso Gaxiola Andrade of Sinaloa in a message to General Escobar announced he had re-established the state personnel under his charge and was operating with efficiency.

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Detention by American authorities of any additional rebels who cross the boundary line from Mexico, is considered likely by the state department in view of the Pan-American treaty which provides for the internment of individuals who rebel against the constituted government.

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Condemnation of the present rebellion by leaders in the Mexican Federation of Labor is expressed in a message from Luis Morones, former secretary of industry, commerce and labor of Mexico, made public today by Santiago Igmestas, secretary of the Pan-American Federation of Labor.

"The attitude of the principal leaders of the Mexican Federation of Labor and of myself," says the message, "is one of frank co-operation for the government of the republic."

MAP SHOWS WAR ZONES

The state of Guanajuato, shown near Mexico City on the map above, has become the center of federal operations in an attempt to crush the revolution in Mexico. At Irapuato, Guanajuato, according to press dispatches, the largest army in the history of the republic was being organized, with former President Calles in command, for a crushing offensive against rebels in six states. The map shows the course of fighting.

Capital Beauty In Elopement

Alice Smoot, 18, granddaughter of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, surprised social Washington the other day when she eloped with Frederick Chambers, 22 a newspaperman. They were married at Frederick, Md., after an auto trip from the capital.

Candler's Life Business Romance

ATLANTA, Ga., March 13. (AP)—Atlanta today mourned Asa C. Candler, a former drug clerk in a country pharmacy, whose faith in a soft drink formula, brought him millions in the manufacture of Coca Cola. The 78-year-old capitalist, civic leader and philanthropist died late yesterday after an illness of more than two years.

The story of Mr. Candler's rise is a story of the romance of American business. As the proprietor of an Atlanta drug store, more than 40 years ago, he purchased the formula for coca cola for a reported price of $500, and in 1919 sold his interest in the immense Coca Cola Manufacturing company for $25,000,000.

Talks To Parents

THE HABIT OF FAILURE
By Alice Judson Peale
No child should be allowed to fail continuously, for constant failure breeds the habit of failure.

When the school child brings home a series of bad reports, when parents and teachers unite in condemning his class work, his home work, his behavior, when there is not one bright spot on his horizon, things are bound to go from bad to worse. He comes to think of himself as a good-for-nothing and every fresh experience is sure to bear out his estimate of himself. He becomes sunk in hopeless inferiority which blights every effort in the right direction.

When, therefore, the child's behavior is such as to bring him into disapproval on all sides, it is especially important that he should find something in which he can succeed and for which he may be praised. He must be helped to excel in something, in order that he may build the self-confidence which will enable him to attack the situations which are difficult for him.

The boy who fails in his class work should perhaps have his curriculum broadened to include manual training, art or dramatics. If his conduct at home is unsatisfactory it may help to permit him to join club activities in which he will be helped to learn some of the lessons of social existence which frequently are so hard to acquire at home.

For just as failure breeds failure, so success breeds success. When he has found something which he does well, which brings him approval and recognition, he is far more likely to attack with good spirit the things that are hard for him. In checking the habit of failure it is wise to bear in mind that an ounce of praise is worth a pound of disapproval.

Highway Plan Is Beyond Saving

AUSTIN, March 13. (AP)—House proponents of the $175,000,000 road bond issue made a last futile bid for victory on parliamentary technicalities today when Representative Emmett Morse of Houston failed a point of order that four paired votes on the proposal should have been recorded as giving the highway resolution 101 ballots, one more than the necessary two-thirds majority required for final passage.

"The majority of this house and the people of Texas apparently have been defeated by a minority," Baldwin contended.
Speaker Minor said that if the objection had been raised before the ballot had been taken, he would have sustained the contention, since a two-thirds majority for passage was required.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN AREA IS DEEP IN SNOW

DENVER, March 13. (AP)—Small towns and villages in the Rocky mountain region were marooned today by snow that covered highways to a depth of 3 feet in places following a two-day storm.

The storm area extended northward to the Canadian border, spreading a white blanket over Montana, Wyoming, and Colorado. It was estimated it would take at least two days to clear the roads.

With warmer weather anticipated, it was feared the melting snow would again send streams in the vicinity of Greybull, Wyo., out of their banks and cause further damage. A flood was experienced in that section last Sunday.

THERE'S A REASON

"More power to the home" is something more than a catch phrase. A wife at the table is worth two in the kitchen. The elimination of drudgery has done more to raise the standard of living in America than industrial prosperity, high wages or any of the other factors economists talk about.

There has been something more than altruism back of all this development of household appliances designed to put housekeeping on the same-plane of efficiency as the average office.

Increased utilization of electricity—that is, increased consumption—has meant decreased cost to the consumer. The industrialist calls it "mass production"—mass production of electricity means lower rates.

The electrical industry has spent large sums in research and in producing devices to increase consumption and improve standards of living.

That's why you are continually urged to use this or that electrical appliance in your home.
