AVIATION PROGRESS IS STEADY

Pampa, by the grace of God and the White Deer Lands, is given credit for having a municipal airport. Meaning that the natural lay of the land is fortunate and that the gratis use of the tract enables the city to offer landing facilities to the air visitors. These facilities are little more than those nature provided, except that the owners of private planes are very generous in helping fellow fliers. The only claim Pampa can make to aviation distinction is that the city has an unusually large number of citizens interested enough in flying to own and operate planes.

In other words, the municipal airport has a precarious status and sooner or later—and probably sooner—we will find it necessary to start "from scratch" in seeking a landing field. There is no question but that such a field will be necessary. Private resources may luckily assist, but most infant industries must have nursing along for a time.

Without the blare of trumpets which marked flying a few years ago, aviation is "getting on its feet" and making history. In 1926, planes flew 18,746,640 miles, and last year 110,000,000 miles. Passengers carried increased from 5,782 to 165,263 in the transport business. Today there are more than 10,000 licensed pilots and almost as many planes. There are 453 municipal airports.

Flying is relatively a safe mode of travel, mileage considered. There is an accident for every 158,042 miles flown. Back in 1927 there was an accident for each 129,031 miles of flying. But most accidents do not result in fatalities. Last year there was only one fatality for each 873,897 miles flown—a remarkable record in modern transportation.

A CHEAP, SHABBY TRICK

Politics in this country can be pretty cheap and shabby, sometimes, but the grand prize for cheapness and shabbiness seems to go to that political faction in Nebraska which dug up an obscure grocer to run against Senator George W. Norris in the forthcoming Republican primary.

Senator Norris has been a stomy petrel of politics for years. He has never been on good terms with the "machine" and in 1928 he capped a long record of insurgency by coming out boldly for Alfred B. Smith. Naturally, the party leaders in Nebraska would like to retire him to private life.

Now there are plenty of valid reasons for voting against Senator Norris. In a great many ways the man is more radical than the temper of his times approves. You may quite honestly differ with him on certain public issues, and you may quite honestly work for his defeat. That is all right.

But here is what they are doing in Nebraska. In the town of Broken Bow they have found a grocer whose name happens to be George W. Norris—the same name as the senator's. They have induced this grocer to become a candidate for the senatorial nomination in the Republican primary.

Under the Nebraska law, no distinguishing mark can be put on any candidate's name on the ballot. The voters at the coming primary will have two George W. Norrises on their ballot, and there will be absolutely nothing to tell them which one is the famous senator and which one is the obscure grocer from Broken Bow.

Naturally, Senator Norris' vote stands to be split. He himself says that he will be defeated unless the other George W. Norris is kept off the ballot. The party machine, unable to beat him by ordinary means, is resorting to a trick to beat him—one of the cheapest tricks in political history.

Let it be repeated—there are plenty of reasons why an intelligent man could vote against Senator Norris. That isn't the point at issue. The point is that the man stands to be beaten, not on his record, and not because his constituents are displeased with his record, but by virtue of a shabby, dirty bit of chicanery that is almost beneath contempt.

Few chapters in our political history are more sordid than this one.—NEA.

Talks To Parents

LADIES' MAN

By ALICE JUDSON PEALE
Billy is the ladies' man of the first grade. Since he entered school in January he has, to his mother's certain knowledge, proposed marriage to four different young ladies.

The "Name" of the moment has always been duly brought to the house and introduced to the family. After the ceremonies of greeting are over, the children play together. In the case of Milly it was a quarrel over taking turns on the swing that broke up the affair.

Phyllis, eventually, according to his own statement, made his sick because she expected him to haul her around in the express wagon all the time and would never take turns being the horse.

Then Mary turned out to be nothing but a cry baby.

The fourth lady, however, is still high in his favor.

Billy's love affairs are, of course, very funny. Naturally his parents laugh at them but never when Billy is anywhere near to hear them. His playmates are always treated to a friendly welcome. They are never criticized.

It would be very easy and entirely natural to laugh and mock his loves out of existence. But his parents are wise—they do no such thing.

They accord his interest in little girls much the same respectful consideration that they give to any other current enthusiasm of his. In consequence, they are keeping their child's confidence and are sparing him the development of that painful self-consciousness which comes from being shamed and teased by grownups.

YOUTH IS BURNED

Lloyd Lawson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Lawson, was severely burned and burned yesterday afternoon when a car hit a bucket of hot asphalt, splashing it over him.

The youth was pouring the asphalt in cracks in the pavement on West Foster. His arms, face, forehead, lips and neck were badly burned, and both legs were bruised. He was taken to McKean-Conner hospital.

Killed in Accident

SHERMAN, July 18. (AP)—T. R. Masquelette, 31, of Wichita Falls, was killed instantly today when his automobile crashed into a bridge railing near here. He was traveling for an oil company with headquarters in Dallas. His neck was broken, his chest crushed and his left leg broken in two places.

Sargon Gave Him New "Grip on Life" grip on life.

"Outside of rheumatic pains, my kidneys were too free-acting, I had severe pains across my back and was in bad shape every way. Sargon changed everything for me. Every pain is gone, my kidneys don't worry me, I've gained 15 pounds and my whole system is invigorated and strengthened.

"Sargon Pills toned up my liver and regulated my bowels and I've never had a minute's trouble with my stomach being upset like always happened with other laxatives."—John J. Graham, 1509 W. 10th St., Oklahoma City.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—There is in New York a society of natives who can be reasonably sure that their feminine forbears possessed genuine charms.

For the family of every member dates back to a time when the men of this town were protected by law against such bewitching aids to beauty as the fashionable Fifth avenue shops now dispense to the modern woman.

This group is called the St. Nicholas society and a member, Laurence La Tourette Driggs, has dug up the old law. It reads: "All women who shall impose upon, seduce and betray into matrimony any of His Majesty's subjects, by virtue of scents, cosmetics, washes, paints, artificial teeth, false hair or high heeled shoes, shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors."

That was in 1765, exactly 20 years before the St. Nicholas Society was founded to perpetuate the sociability of New York's first families.

Old Families
Washington Irving was the first secretary of the organization. The present secretary is Theodore Roosevelt Pell, whose ancestor among the founders was the Pell who gave his name to a now Chinatown street.

Chemical Plant Damaged

DALLAS, July 18. (AP)—The plant of the United States chemical company, three miles west of Dallas, today was damaged by fire to the extent of $125,000.

The loss was estimated by William G. Carroll, president of the company, who said more than 200 liquid tons of acids and gases were destroyed.

MOVIES For Street Wear

By Mark Barron
New York—This is the age of satire, and playwrights are its most ardent exponents.

Evangelism, politics, big business, prohibition, the arts and many institutions of American life have been targets for satirical attacks on the stage.

Hollywood and the movies come off second best in a tilt with a new play called "Once In a Lifetime." It is the work of Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, now playing in the suburbs of New York.

The play is not only a thorough, sardonic indictment of various Hollywood foibles, but it also is a thoroughly humorous, delightful bit of fun. It has the same touch of amusing burlesque that was seen to such advantage in "June Moon" and "The Butler and the Egg Man."

The authors conceive three bankrupt vaudeville actors on their way to Hollywood. However, one of them really isn't an actor, being just a dumb but good natured tinker whom the other two have picked up as an assistant. He has assumed the name of Dr. George Lewis and is introduced as a technical expert.

Pure Comedy
The three, like beggars on horseback, storm into Hollywood as professors of voice culture. With the assistance of a gossip writer they meet a producer and persuade him that they will be valuable officials in his company.

Dr. Lewis, played to the perfection of pure comedy by Hugh O'Connell, decides that he doesn't want to be a yes-man and so starts a sort of independent organization of his own. It consists of himself, a blond ingenue who never has had a job because she cannot act, a waiter and a cigar girl who writes scenarios which never sell.

Turns Genius

Then Dr. Lewis meets a playwright who has had almost enough of the picture business. He repeats the playwright's complaints to the producer as his own and, as a result, is called a genius. With the next swirl of the merry-go-round, Dr. Lewis finds that he is allowed to make a picture with his own organization. The picture is inferior, but nevertheless a box office success. Such are the ways of Hollywood in "Once In a Lifetime."

Sam H. Harris has assembled an excellent cast headed by Mr. O'Connell.

Chic for the office or street is this tailored dress of pin striped black worsted, with novelty belt and an overlay white Pigne collar.

DANCING JUDITH

BY CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN. COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY. JUDITH GRANT, beautiful artist's model, shares her Greenwich Village apartment with CHUMMY MURLEY, a lovely girl who lost her memory seven years ago when ALAN STEYNE, with whom she was in love, abruptly disappeared.

Alan looked at Judy moodily. "All these years these fellows and you kept up a pretense—a kind of legend," he said. "You didn't really know. It's an atmosphere you've made, and I have to suffer for it."

He smiled down at her, and she shrank again from that big, grasping personality. As she would have put it, it seemed as if he had only to stretch out his hand and put her in his pocket.

"You were very cruel to me the other day, Miss Judy," he said. "I don't know what you mean," she answered coldly.

"Why, you said goodbye to me in such a final tone. I thought I was never going to see you again."

Woman Killer May be Found

JACKSON, Miss., July 18. (AP)—Sheriff Tom Moore today dispatched a deputy to a residence near Gulfport, Miss., to arrest a 70-year-old woman whom he believes to be Mrs. Belle Guinness, reputed Indiana slayer of 15 to 20 men in 1908.

The sheriff refused to divulge details, but his message to Indiana authorities said the woman, living under an assumed name had been identified as Mrs. Guinness by a man who knew her in La Porte, Ind. The sheriff said she was living in a small town and was well liked by her neighbors.

LA PORTE, Ind., July 18. (AP)—Belle Guinness, reported found after 22 years in Mississippi, has been called by the law and the press the most notorious murderer of the century.

Various Porter county prosecutors have charged her with a mania for murder. Their investigators said she lured men to her farm by promises of marriage and then killed them.

In 1908, authorities digging on her farm found a "private cemetery" in which the bodies or bones of 15 persons were found—all alleged by the investigators to be Belle Guinness' victims.

Asserts Innocent Men Are Executed

OSHING, N. Y., July 18. (AP)—Three men, one of whom maintained the innocence of the other two up to the end, were electrocuted in Sing Sing prison last night for the murder of a Buffalo restaurant operator.

Just before he was strapped into the chair, Alexander Bogdanoff, 35, turned to the witnesses in the death chamber and said: "Gentlemen, you represent the state of New York, which has just killed two innocent men. I swear to God they were innocent."

The two had died in the chair a few minutes earlier were Stephen Grechowiak, 35, and Max Rybarczyk, 31.

Fair For McLean Being Advocated

McLean, July 18 (Special)—That a "community fair" here would be worth while on account of McLean's dependence on agriculture was the statement made by County Agent Ralph R. Thomas, a visitor at the Lions club luncheon at the Birmingham cafe Thursday.

Mr. Thomas said that while many community fairs would be discontinued this fall on account of a financial crisis, he believed that McLean should have a fair.

"A carnival is a poor way to finance a community fair," said Mr. Thomas, "and a better way to raise finances should be worked out. However, the fair should have a free gate."

Capone Declares Chicago Reporters On His Payroll

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 18. (AP)—The St. Louis Star, in a copyrighted interview obtained by Harry T. Brundidge, staff writer, with "Scarface" Al Capone at Miami Beach, Fla., today quotes the Chicago gang leader as saying he has paid "plenty" of Chicago newspapermen.

Brundidge has been called to appear before a Chicago grand jury to testify concerning his previous stories of alleged "racketeering" among newspaper reporters.

Capone is quoted in the interview as having said that Jake Lingie, slain Chicago newspaper reporter, was his friend "up to the very day he died" and that "the Chicago police knew who killed him."

"How many newspaper men have you had on your payroll?" Brundidge wrote he asked Capone, and the reply, he said, was "plenty." The gang leader used the same word "plenty" according to the published interview, in replying to a question as to whether he had received any telephone calls from Chicago newspapermen recently.

Capone is quoted as warning Brundidge to "lay off Chicago and the money-hungry reporters" because "you can't buck it," and that "it is too big a proposition."

The interview further quotes Capone as saying he gave Jake Lingie a Diamond belt buckle worth $250 because "he was my friend."

Women's Quartet Heard by Lions

In a program arranged by P. B. Carlson, the Lions club was entertained yesterday by a women's quartet.

This quartet, composed of Mrs. R. A. Webb, Mrs. Bob Sowder, Mrs. W. H. Lang, and Miss Margaret Cornell, sang three enjoyable numbers. Miss Cornell, sister of Mrs. Webb, lives in McAlester, Okla., but is visiting here.

Short discussions of the grain situation and the Federal Reserve system were made by Clarence Barrett and J. O. Gillham, respectively. In the absence of President W. A. Bratton, Vice President R. G. Allen presided.

President Bratton is at the Lions international convention in Denver, accompanied by C. B. Akers, Marvin Lewis, Clarence Kennedy, W. H. Curry, C. O. Busby, R. A. Thompson, and Horace Park.

Visitors yesterday included Al Clark of Tulsa, former member of the club, Tom Wade, and G. C. Mordy. John B. Hesse, county superintendent was introduced as a new member.

RANGERS—

A number of cars which attempted to pass the officers and the negro were ordered to "stay behind." It was feared that they, recognizing the occupants of the car, would rush to Wheeler and arouse a mob.

When the party arrived at the courthouse, one deputy was left guarding the car, while the four Rangers and the deputies headed by Capt. Gonzales surrounded the negro and went inside the courthouse. The Rangers and deputies were armed with automatic shotguns, tear bombs, and two machine guns.

The arraignment was simple. The indictment was read. The negro, through his appointed attorney, E. F. Ritchey of Miami, pleaded "not guilty." A motion for a change of venue was granted and the case was set for trial at Miami, July 28. The negro was again placed in his cell at the Gray county jail at 7 o'clock.

The Rangers will continue to guard the negro, using every precaution. It has been definitely learned that there were two organized mobs who are plotting to lynch the negro. Certain individuals hoped to assassinate him, while another determined group were plotting to lynch him. The latter mob has in its possession a Thompson machine gun. Bearing these facts in mind, Capt. Gonzales reiterated his previously made statement: "We protect the life of this negro from a mob at all costs."

When the negro is taken to Miami for trial he will be guarded in the same manner as yesterday. Under his clothing will be a steel armor which will shed bullets. He will be surrounded by Rangers and deputies all the time.

matter how much is spent in advertising this $350,000,000 issue, he said. This afternoon he expected to speak at Groesbeck.

Clint C. Small spoke at Rock Springs, saying that if elected Governor he would work to obtain legislation to assist the Federal Farm Board in its co-operative marketing efforts. His program called for an address tonight at Pampa.

Taking his campaign offensive into Harlingen and the Rio Grande valley, Jim Young last night assailed Thomas B. Love for the asserted statement that "negro votes in East Texas helped the Democratic victory in 1928." He declared that in Kaufman county, which polled 8,000 Democratic votes, only four negroes voted and all were republicans.

Earle B. Mayfield planned to speak at Kerens at 2:30 p.m., today and at Corsicana at 8 p.m.

Says Storey Ignorant
Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt spoke last night at San Angelo, denying the accusation of Cecil Storey, that his staff was composed of "schoolboys." Storey, he said, had often called upon the "schoolboys" to write bills for him when Storey was a legislator. Storey, he remarked, in most of his criticisms was "ignorant of matters he should know."

Storey scathingly denounced Governor Moody in a speech at Wichita Falls and accused Bobbitt of being aligned with political "rings" in Hidalgo and Webb counties.

James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, former district attorney there, in a speech last night at Mexia, said that if he were elected attorney general it would be through "the untiring efforts of literally hundreds of volunteer friends in every section of the state."

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Moses, A Courageous Leader.
Scripture Lesson: Exodus 3:1-12.

1. Now Moses was keeping the flock of Jethro his father-in-law, the priest of Midian; and he led the flock to the back of the wilderness, and came to the mountain of God, unto Horeb.

2. And the angel of Jehovah appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush; and he looked, and, behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed.

3. And Moses said, I will turn aside now, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt.

4. And when Jehovah saw that he turned aside to see, God called unto him out of the midst of the bush, and said, Moses, Moses. And he said, Here am I.

5. And he said, Draw not nigh hither: put off thy shoes from thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.

6. Moreover, he said, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face; for he was afraid to look upon God.

7. And Jehovah said, I have surely seen the affliction of my people that are in Egypt, and have heard their cry by reason of their taskmasters: for I know their sorrows:

8. And I am come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey; unto the place of the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite.

9. And now, behold, the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me; moreover I have seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them.

10. Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt.

11. And Moses said unto God, Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh; and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?

12. And he said, Certainly I will be with thee; and this shall be the token unto thee, that I have sent thee: when thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall serve God upon this mountain.

Golden Text: By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he was endured as seeing Him who is invisible.—Heb. 11:27.

Introduction

Moses was born a slave. At the time of his birth all Hebrew mothers were under orders from Pharaoh to throw their boy babies into the river, but he was such a beautiful baby that his mother could not bear the thought of feeding him to the crocodiles. For three anxious months she concealed him in her home. When she could no longer hide him, she adopted the bold strategy of putting him in a little ark and placing him in the edge of the water where Pharaoh's daughter would find him when she went to the river to bathe.

Early Life of Moses

When the princess found the infant in his little bed, and heard his pitiful cry, her woman's heart was touched, and she resolved to save him from her father's cruel decree by adopting him as her son. For some years he was left under the care of his own mother, who was a devout member of the tribe of Levi and who taught him the religion of his fathers. Then he was taken into the palace, where he was trained as a young prince under the direction of Pharaoh's daughter. Later he was sent to the best schools, where he was educated in "all the wisdom of the Egyptians," who had the most advanced civilization of that age. Thus he received such an equipment for his life work as no one else among his people had.

Crisis in the Life of Moses

The crisis in the life of Moses came when he was forty years old. Realizing the dreadful condition of his fellow Hebrews, he determined to help them, even at the cost of giving up the luxuries of the palace and the prestige of his position as a member of the royal family. His first blundering effort, however, got him into trouble and made it necessary for him to leave the country. Forty years of wilderness life lay ahead of him before he was ready to enter upon his life work. During these years he gained better mastery over his impetuous temper, which had led him to kill the Egyptian. He learned much about the country through which he was later to lead his people. "He learned in the quiet of the desert solitudes to know God in that wonderfulness which revealed itself in the after years."

The Call of Moses

One day, as Moses watched his father-in-law's flock at Mount Horeb, "the angel of Jehovah appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush; and he looked, and, behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed." Turning aside to find the explanation of this wonderful sight, Moses heard the voice of God, commanding him to take off his shoes, for he was on holy ground. Here Moses received his call to deliver the Israelites from the Egyptians and lead them into the promised land.

"I Will Be With Thee"
"And he said, Certainly I will be with thee." One would think that the promise of God's presence and help would have been enough for Moses, but is it always enough for us? We have the same promise from Christ, "Lo, I am with you always," but do we not often forget it, and fail to avail ourselves of its comfort and power?

The revelation of God's name, "I AM," meant everything to him, and should mean everything to us. "God alone can say 'I AM' without saying anything more. God alone is. Everybody and everything else in the world becomes; but God is. God never changes or becomes anything different from what He is now. What He is, that He was, and ever will be."—Charles Kingsley. It was this unchanged God that sent Moses forth on his great errand and that sends us also to our lesser tasks.

The Passover
At the time of the tenth plague, Moses, by God's direction, instituted the Jew's most important annual feast, the passover. It was so called because the death angel, when he saw the blood of the passover lamb sprinkled on the doorposts and lintels of the Hebrews, passed over those houses, and did not destroy the first born there. Every since, the Jews have celebrated the passover each year, dressed as for a journey, and using unleavened bread. Christ, our Passover, was sacrificed for us, the Lamb of God slain for the sins of the world, and slain at the memorial, the Lord's supper, takes the place for Christians of the Jewish passover.

Passage Of The Red Sea
The opposition of Pharaoh broke down with the death of the first-born, and the Israelites departed from Egypt bearing rich gifts which the terrified Egyptians pressed upon them—gifts which were scant pay for all the long labor of the enslaved nation. No sooner were they gone, however, than Pharaoh's mind changed. He could not bear to lose his slaves and suffer the humiliation which their going involved; so he posted after them with his army, and the Israelites found themselves, on the northwest shore of the Red Sea, cooped in between the Sea on their left, mountains in front of them and on their right, and the crushing Egyptians in their rear. Then came another miraculous interposition, for a strong wind held back the shallow waters of the sea, making a path over which the Israelites passed to safety, while the Egyptian army, following hot upon them in their heavy chariots drawn by horses, found themselves sinking in the muddy bottom and swiftly drowned when a change of wind sent the waters back again to their accustomed place. This wonderful event, like the ten plagues, was an intensification of a phenomenon that has been observed in the Gulf of Suez, marked as supernatural by its opportune occurrence.

The Golden Calf
Moses had been forty days on the sacred mount communing with Jehovah, and on his return, found himself facing a most disgraceful scene. Forgetting all the horrors of their slavery, the people's hearts had turned to the disgusting idolatry with which they had become familiar in Egypt. In imitation of the Egyptian bull worship, they prevailed on Aaron to take the gold and jewelry which they had brought in large numbers from Egypt, and with them fashion a golden calf, which the people proceeded to worship with all the excesses which marked idolatrous festivals. Moses in his hot wrath punished the idolaters by slaying, with the aid of the Levites, about three thousand of them, thus purifying the people of their foul taint, and then he withdrew again into the mountain to make atonement for the people's sin. This he did by wrestling in prayer with God, even offering himself to be blotted out of the book of God's people if Jehovah would forgive the Hebrews and restore them to his favor. In all the Old Testament there is no more wonderful foreglimpse of the work of Christ than this, and surely nothing in the life of Moses better exhibits his largeness of heart and his prophetic insight.

Moses at the Burning Bush
Thinking of this event, Mrs. Browning sang:
"Earth's crammed with heaven,
And every common bush afire with God;
But only he who sees, takes off his shoes,
The rest sit around it and pluck blackberries."

Mrs. J. B. McKelvey was removed from the Pampa hospital yesterday afternoon to her home at 916 Wilcox in a Stephenson ambulance.

William Powell In Rex Picture

If you were caught in the toils of the law, were hauled before a judge, tried for a crime you didn't commit, convicted of murder, and sentenced to prison for life, you would know the real thrilling drama of William Powell's newest starring picture, "Shadow of the Law," which is at the Rex theatre today, for 2 days, starting today.

But the drama of this story only begins with prison. The most breath taking action begins with Powell's escape from the penitentiary; his fight to prove his innocence; a seemingly hopeless search for the woman in whose hands lies the proof of his story; his love-affair with a daughter of wealth, and his final happiness.

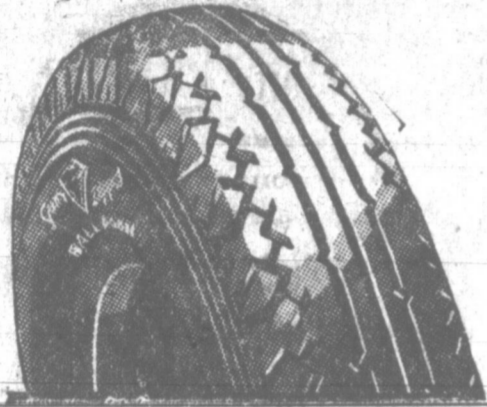

William Powell has never had such a powerful and thoroughly sympathetic character to portray on the screen. The young engineer of this story is a believable character caught in a net of circumstances which might happen to any one. Even "Street of Chance," Powell's first starring picture, lacked the dramatic force of "Shadow of the Law."

Mr. Sam A. Fenberg, Pampa, Texas.

This will acknowledge receipt of the cashier's check for $42.50 received from you and which I have turned over to Leo Chase. Leo has asked me to send the boys his heartfelt thanks through you and to say that the money came at a time when he could not help himself. Leo's eyes are rapidly improving but it looks as though it will be some time before he will be able to work. He has noted what you say about some of the boys sending some more help and he says that it will be greatly appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase have a new baby girl born ten days ago and of course this has meant some additional expense.

Yours very truly,
H. L. Leonard.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington—Almost as familiar as the Washington monuments to visitors—and certainly, more agreeable—are the Washington circles at various points where several streets intersect.

Designed by L'Enfant, the French architect who laid out the city of Washington, these circles were to have been points of vantage where troops could be amassed quickly in times of emergency.

Marked for such a purpose, they were named for the nation's military leaders. Thus Scott circle was named for Gen. Winfield Scott, Washington circle for George Washington, Sheridan circle for General Sheridan, Thomas circle for General Thomas and so on.

Status of each of these soldiers were placed in the center of the circle bearing his name.

Iowa Circle
But somehow the state of Iowa tagged one of the most important of these circles with its name. In the center of Iowa circle stands the statue of Gen. John B. Logan.

Repeated efforts have been made for years to have Iowa circle removed from the District of Columbia and have placed in its stead Logan circle. Several weeks ago congress gave its approval, but a few days later, when the bill was brought back to the house on a technicality, that body changed its mind.

And the bill was lost because there was some question as to whether it was the proper thing to do, since it was first named Iowa.

Senator Allison of Iowa is credited with getting the circle named for his state. This was before the statue of General Logan was erected there.

Cyrenus Cole of Cedar Rapids, who is regarded as something of a wizard on his state's history, was reluctant to see the work of his fellow Iowan go for naught.

"The name shouldn't be changed unless Iowa be given a namesake just as good," he said. "I demand some compensating honor."

Change Must Wait
To the amusement of his colleagues he told how it was planned at first to erect in the circle a statue of Gen. Grenville Dodge of Iowa, but that Dodge had lived too long.

"He didn't die in time," Cole said frankly, "so he couldn't be given that honor."

One of the reasons advanced for changing the name to Logan is that the general was closely associated with Iowa soldiers during the Civil war. And so convinced were the Loganites that they almost had concluded arrangements for elaborate ceremonies to mark the change.

But in the words of Cyrenus Cole until they arrange "some quid pro quo" which will be satisfactory, these ceremonies must wait.

F. M. Nunn and T. J. Clauson of Amarillo, with the Panhandle Motor company, were business visitors here Wednesday.

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Pollard and Miss Dorothy Pollard left yesterday on a trip to Illinois and Wisconsin.
