

MIAMI MAN IS KILLED BY HORSE

COMMISSIONERS VOTE TO CALL PRECINCT 5 ELECTION

SENATOR SWANSON, DEMOCRAT, OPENS TREATY ARGUMENT

"That's gold in these here prairies."
"Not guilty," declares J. T. Blakney of the Alameda Chamber of Commerce, in substance.

Saturday The News was informed that the Alameda chamber was sponsoring a political rally for next Thursday evening, Mr. Blakney, who is president of the organization, says that the report is unfounded and that the chamber has no such plans.

The Methodist ladies of that place are planning such an event in connection with a box supper, proceeds of which will be used to remodel the parsonage of the church. It is their event, and the chamber being non-political, is having no part in the plans.

The box supper and rally will no doubt prove interesting for those who attend. Candidates who wish to be seen and heard should find it useful. The others will no doubt find the pie delectable. Ordinarily this political pie supper idea is overworked to the extent of becoming something of a racket. But Gray county candidates are fortunate. While they have had other expenses, they have had to attend few pie suppers. One pie supper, or even two or three, should be acceptable, but more than that are irksome, indeed, as well as costly.

Attention, Mr. Wheat Farmer. The personification of "aid for the farmer" will be in Amarillo Friday July 12. Alexander Legge, genius or dumb-bell of the Federal Farm Board—as you will—is going to come down here to hear our troubles and to offer us advice. He will be at the municipal auditorium in Amarillo at 11 a. m. and will speak to assembled farmers, bankers, merchants, and grain dealers. He will remain the rest of the day for conferences and interviews.

Regardless of what one thinks of the Farm Board methods, he must admit that Mr. Legge is a powerful figure in the agricultural industry and that he knows a lot about farming and marketing. He has as big a job as any man in the country. He wants facts, figures, and opinions. He wishes to be of service to the fullest extent that he is capable. His Amarillo appearance will be the official "wheat meeting" of the season. All who are interested in wheat, directly and indirectly, should hear Mr. Legge Friday.

With Mr. Legge will be A. M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture. Mr. Hyde also will speak and will take a prominent part in the sessions. He is well-known in the Southwest and in turn knows a great deal about this section. Pampa, the wheat city, should send a big delegation to the wheat conference. George Briggs and County Agent Ralph Thomas will head the delegation from this city.

Kansas may be the sunflower state, but the flowers are doing quite well in Pampa. Yes, sir, and there are many residents with clean yards and pretty lawns who are vexed by yellowing adjoining lots. The weed situation is at its climax because the seeds are going to be ripening and blowing in a short time. Unless the property owners cut the weeds within a short time, something drastic may have to be done. If you have weeds, take a look at them this evening—your neighbors are doing the same.

There is Hobbs. And New Hobbs. And Old Hobbs. New Hobbs does most of the talking, but the wise birds say one of the other Hobbs is doing most of the doing. Will someone please straighten us out on the Hobbses?

STRONG PLEA FOR APPROVAL IS DELIVERED

Demand for Papers on Conference Is Pending

PEACE PACT IS CALLED VITAL

Virginian Says This Nation Must Ratify

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—The senate began debate on the London naval treaty today with Senator Swanson, ranking Democrat on the foreign relations and naval committees, advocating ratification.

As the Virginian spoke, leaders were preparing for a vote on the first issue raised by the pact's opponents—a demand for the documents relating to the London conference which President Hoover has denied the foreign relations committee.

A division of opinion prevailed on the resolution to that end offered by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee. Some leaders proposed to have it voted as quickly as possible, believing it would make no difference whether it was adopted or not, inasmuch as the president already has decided to withhold the resolution and wanted to make a fight against it. There is no doubt as to the outcome of the vote.

Senator Swanson's 12,000-word analysis of the treaty and his demand for ratification cheered the advocates. He was the wartime chairman of the senate naval committee and always has been regarded as a staunch preparedness advocate.

The Virginian said the treaty gives America a well-balanced fleet for the first time; establishes naval supremacy for this country in the western hemisphere; saves the taxpayers at least one billion dollars by checking naval competition, and is "promotive of peace, conducive of good will among the nations involved, and marks the beginning of a more complete treaty for the limitation of armament."

"Whether controlled by selfish, material interests or the broader and nobler purpose of promoting world peace and betterment," he concluded, "the best interests of the United States demand ratification of this treaty."

"From a military and selfish standpoint, the United States can not afford to reject this treaty. From a higher and nobler purpose the treaty should have our approval—for the United States to reject this treaty would be for her to abandon her moral leadership in the world and declare at the same time that she is an imperialistic nation seeking conquest and expansion."

"It would create in the rest of the world an apprehension that she had sinister purposes to serve when he rejected the treaty, and would create a mistrust among all the nations of the world, and would result finally in political combinations against us to our detriment and menace. This situation would injure our foreign commerce and retard our material development."

Swanson took up in detail the dominant issue over the limitation of construction of cruisers and the complaint of American naval officers against the restriction upon eight-inch gun ships for the United States navy.

Philip R. Pond attended Rotary luncheon in Borger today. George Briggs is in Oklahoma City attending a highway conference.

Chas. C. Cook, attorney for the Board of City Development, is in Washington representing the city in the rehearing of the railroad petition before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

SMALL TELLS OF HIS COLLEGE LIFE

WAXAHACHIE, July 8.—Monday was somewhat in the nature of a homecoming for Senator Clint C. Small, Democratic candidate for governor. In an address here last night before a crowd of Ellis county voters, the candidate told of his experiences as a student of Trinity university of Waxahachie. A delegation of former students of the school met Senator Small when he reached this city and during the afternoon the candidate met many of the "old timers" who knew him when he was a member of the student body of Trinity.

With old friends the senator discussed the days of rivalry between Trinity and Southwestern at Georgetown. He told how he met Zoe O'Neil while she was a student of Southwestern and how she later became his wife.

For the first time since he opened his campaign Senator Small is carrying his candidacy into this section of the state. He is scheduled to visit a number of East Texas towns during the week, ending with a speech in Marlin Friday night.

In his address here Senator Small discussed his familiarity with the problems of the entire state, declaring that the man who goes into the governor's office should be as thorough and sympathetic as possible with the needs and wishes of people from every part of Texas.

He again voiced his political contempt for the ring of "professional politicians" who, he said, have been dominating Texas' government for selfish interests during the past two decades.

"Voters in Texas," he said, "are looking for someone to lead them out of the political wilderness. The people have been misled by false promises for too long and now they are going to overthrow anyone who reeks of professional politics."

He spoke again in opposition to any plan of amending the constitution to issue state bonds for road construction. He expressed his favor, however, of some feasible plan of reimbursing counties for monies they have expended on their roads.

High Mass Held For Mrs. Keehn at Catholic Church

A Requiem high mass was sung this morning at 8 o'clock at Holy Souls Catholic church for Mrs. Theresa Keehn, 79, who died early yesterday morning of a paralytic stroke at the home of her son, Fred Keehn.

Immediately after the funeral services, the body was taken overland to Wichita Falls for interment. The G. C. Malone funeral home had charge of arrangements. Pallbearers were Ed Carrington, C. E. Oswald, Tom O'Dell, P. B. Mooney, Leo Murphy, and Mark McGarrity. The church was crowded with friends and neighbors of Mrs. Keehn. Rev. Joseph Wonderly, pastor, was in charge of the services at the church.

Mrs. Keehn was a pioneer worker of the Catholic church in the Southwest. She placed statues in six churches in Colorado, New Mexico and Texas, including Holy Souls church here. She was a member of the Third Order of St. Francis and was buried in the robes of that order. She is survived by three sons, Ed, Fred and Frank Keehn, and three grandchildren.

Colorado Bandits Await Gallows

An echo of the bloodiest crime in history of the modern west—the $238,000 robbery of a bank at Lamar, Colo., the murder of two bank officials and the subsequent slaying of two other men—will be heard this month when these three members of the notorious Fleagle gang go to their deaths on the gallows. Ralph Fleagle, upper right, the "brains" of the gang of outlaws, is scheduled to die during the week ending July 12, while Howard Hoystodt, lower right, and George Abshler left are to hang during the week ending July 19.

GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATES TO PUT MORE ENERGY INTO DRIVES

Candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor today put more steam into their efforts to capture the favor of the electorate as the time before the primary on July 26 was shortened.

Speaking at Waxahachie, where as a student he attended Trinity university, State Senator Clint C. Small yesterday told an audience that "voters of Texas are looking for someone to lead them out of the political wilderness." He said that the people had been misled by "false promises" and that they were "going to overthrow anyone who reeks of professional politics."

He stated that the next governor should be a man in sympathetic accord with the needs and wishes of the people from every part of the state and discussed his own familiarity with state problems.

State Senator Thomas B. Love speaking at Donna declared that if elected governor he would "restore free government in Texas" and would continue his "fight for freedom of conscience at the polls." He said he was the only candidate for governor who dared to say "his soul is his own in the presence of the Hidalgo machine, the Tammany machine, the state executive committee of Texas or the outlawed liquor traffic."

Rockefeller In Good Health and Spirits On His Ninety-First Birthday—Permits No Celebration

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8. (AP)—John D. Rockefeller was 91 years old today.

But the world in general probably took more note of it than did the retired genius of the Standard Oil millions, who in his prime was one of the greatest industrial giants of modern times.

SECOND ROAD BALLOTING IS UP TO VOTERS

Exact Date Will Be Decided This Afternoon

THREE AREAS NOW INCLUDED

Move Is Sponsored by Pampa Highway Boosters

A motion to call an election to determine whether $2,000,000 in road bonds should be issued for paving and improving roads in precincts Nos. 1, 2 and 3, was passed by the county commissioners at their regular meeting yesterday afternoon. Date of the election will be set by the commissioners this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

At a closed session of the court yesterday afternoon, a motion made by Commissioner John R. White of precinct No. 1 to rescind the order creating road district No. 5 was defeated when Judge Ivy Duncan voted with Commissioner Kirby and Cox against it. Commissioner M. M. Newman voted with Mr. White to rescind the order. A motion ordering that the election be called was then made.

Before action was taken on the petition asking that the election be called, the commissioners heard testimony from tax payers regarding the proposed issue. Several farmers in the Laketon community opposed the issue on the ground that it would place an unwarranted tax burden on the property owners of the district. A group of farmers from precinct No. 3 favored the issue.

During the hearing, M. M. Travis, representative of the independent oil operators of Gray county offered testimony favoring the issuance of bonds. Mr. Travis declared that because paved roads would greatly decrease transportation costs, practically all of the oil companies would favor the bonds at the polls. He pointed out that before the Borger road was improved it cost $60 to move a rig from Borger to Pampa and now that it does not cost half as much to move one. The greatest savings in transportation would be effected in winter, he said. Due to lack of good roads, oil activity was almost suspended last January, Mr. Travis declared.

CHICAGOAN IS SHOT

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—James D. Phillip, 45-year-old news dealer, was shot dead early today by two men as he was arranging papers on his stand at Madison and Troop street on the west side.

A waitress standing at a window in a restaurant across the street, heard five shots and saw the men as they leaped into their automobile and drove away. She described them as young and well dressed.

He Would Like An Introduction To Himself

DALLAS, July 8. (AP)—Philip Brown would be very grateful if someone would tell him who he is.

In Amarillo, members of the Jewish community cared for him last week and, lack of a better and more accurate one, gave him the name of Philip Brown. Then they sent him to Dallas.

But in Dallas efforts to establish his identity were no more successful, and a psychiatrist prescribed time and work as the best means of curing him of amnesia.

He appears to be between 27 and 31 years old, is of good appearance, neatly dressed and seemingly is well educated. He went to Amarillo from Phoenix, Ariz., but can remember nothing more.

SHERIFF FINDS MUCH LIQUOR IN RAID MONDAY

While residents of the vicinity were watching the fire department extinguish a blaze in the barn of John Keiser yesterday morning in the Wilcox addition, Sheriff Graves discovered a quantity of beer in nearby buildings. Later in the morning, he and his deputies raided two shacks and seized two truck loads of bottled beer and equipment. No arrests had been made his morning, but officers were working on the case.

The raid, according to Sheriff Graves, resulted in one of the biggest beer hauls ever made here. The officers took about 1,500 bottles of beer, 10 barrels and several crates, 1,000 whiskey bottles, all labeled, and also brewing equipment. Two trucks were required to haul it away.

This morning the sheriff's department was investigating what was described as a free-for-all fight that took place near the raided buildings Sunday. In an altercation, one man was severely injured. His assailant, wielding a single-tree, cut long gashes in his face and he suffered numerous bruises. He had not recovered sufficiently this morning to give officers information needed to prefer charges.

In another raid in the same vicinity staged last night, two young men were arrested and ten gallons of whiskey were seized by county officers. The men were scheduled to appear at a hearing in justice court today.

DANCES TO DAMS

GALLUP, N. M., July 8. (AP)—Seeing in white man's medicine something more dependable than the caprices of their rain God, Navajo Indians of six tribal divisions gathered in annual powow today to discuss irrigation.

The policy of fewer dances to placate the dieties and more dams to store the water of artesian wells in the canyons of the 12,000,000 acre reservation, has been proposed.

HE IS CAUGHT IN LARIAT AS ROPES STEER

Clyde Coffee Victim of Accident at Ranch

WELL KNOWN PLAINS FIGURE

Was Son of Judge Cleve Coffee, Pioneer

MIAMI, July 8. (Special)—While he was roping a steer, Clyde Coffee, 38, became entangled in the lariat and was dragged to death by the horse he was riding on his ranch six miles east of Miami shortly before noon today.

Mr. Coffee was a member of a prominent Roberts county family, and was a son of the late Judge Cleve Coffee of Miami.

Witnesses to the accident said that Coffee had been attempting to rope an unruly steer for perhaps 15 minutes, but before he succeeded in getting the loop around the animal's head, the horse suddenly plunged forward and Coffee lost his balance and became entangled in the loops of the lariat.

Coffee had sustained several previous injuries while handling horses. Last summer he suffered a fractured leg when a horse fell under him. He was widely known as a horse fancier and spent a great deal of time breaking-in broncs. He was also a rider and was a well-known and popular figure at rodeos.

Coffee is survived by his wife and three children, his mother, two sisters, and three brothers. Two of

TREATY TO SHOW ALIGNMENTS

All kinds of attitudes will be revealed in the Senate hearing on the London peace pact, opening today.

Proponents of the treaty are earnestly advocating it as a step toward world peace through limitation of armament. President Hoover has lent his influence to this group. Arrayed against the treaty are many elements. Some of the opponents are using the treaty for political purposes, hoping to gain strength thereby. The munition makers and the irreconcilables favor a bigger navy for each country, let the wars fall when and where they may.

Then there are patriots who as sincerely believe in peace through war, or through force. History, rightly interpreted, points to ultimate victory of disarmament plans. The ratification at this time, however, is not so certain.

Honeymooning senators are hurrying back to the capitol to support the treaty. It will require probably three weeks to reach a vote. This is vacation time, and quorums are hard to obtain. The opponents of the treaty probably could prevent discussion by absenting themselves, although President Hoover's plea may keep a majority of the favorable senators in the chamber.

Every opposition must have a bugaboo to howl about. M. Hoover's declining to submit Ambassador Dawes' private telegrams to the state department, prior to the London conference, to the senate is the current issue. Knowing Mr. Dawes' astonishing frankness, the nation may understand, if certain senators do not, why these telegrams are not made public, although senators who wish may see them.

While the senate is making up its mind, the observers will continue to watch Mussolini and his swash-buckling tactics in Italy. The French are frankly alarmed by the Italian attitude. Is a war in the making? It seems preposterous, considering Italy's weakened financial status, but no less an authority than Frank Simonds sees grave possibilities. Peace is insecure. While the world suffers from unemployment and financial depressions, the warlords continue to rattle their swords and to urge millions for bigger and better armaments.

WOO DAK SAN'S CHOICE

The case of Woo Dak San, down in New Mexico, is opening an interesting field of discussion. Woo Dak San is a Chinaman. He is under sentence to be electrocuted for murder.

But a chance of escape from death has been offered. If Woo Dak San is willing to run the risk of blindness he may live. The Chinaman, with a strange grave under the hot New Mexico sun waiting for him on one side, has been glancing across the corridor and wondering if he should risk the other. It may mean years that are dimmer and gloomier than the prison corridor where he now sits. Or it may bring days that are filled with sealight and star-shine and sun-splashed skies.

Specialists who are making a study of trachoma, the painful eye infection of southwestern Indians, which often produces blindness, have asked that the state spare the life of Woo Dak San on condition that they be permitted to make experiments on him.

Woo Dak San may become a benefactor of humanity through his willingness to serve as a victim. An unwilling one, of course, because he would be running this risk as the lesser of two evils, in the hope that the tests will not blind him.

The warden may object to the arrangement on the grounds that the contagion might spread through the prison. If he does not, Woo Dak San, hating blindness worse than death, but with his hand clasped around that slender gray thread that is called life, will assist in a humanitarian cause, which somehow, in spite of its generosity, is foreboding and terrible.

This situation recalls other instances of men who were lost in a world of light as the Chinaman would be if he entered a kingdom of darkness. Someone wrote a story once in which a blind man, with sight restored, closed his eyes to bring back the peace of the olden frightened him, so he pondered on ways to shut out the world he didn't know.

It is only natural that we should hold on to the state we know. Woo Dak San is doing it. He would rather die than be blind. But he is willing to take a chance on life and sight, if permission is obtained. But if he knew that blindness would result he says that he would prefer to die. If he should decide that death is preferable to the risk, it would be interesting to note if he changed his mind at the last minute, when the walk from the death cell to the chair began.

Even blind men love life, love it, so that eyes can lose all desire for sight.—NEA.

The Husband Hunter

"You two are engaged to be married," he said glacially, "and you were engaged when that change in the letter was made. But what sort of engagement was it? Natalie tells me that you were living with her, Alan—oh, merely under the same roof—and that you did not seem anxious for a divorce. She believes you would eventually have made up your quarrel if you hadn't believed that she was guilty of altering that letter."

Phillipa broke in, finding her voice for a sneer. "Oh, did she?" she flamed at Alan. "Well, someone did it," Alan said helplessly. "Yes, someone did it," Geoffrey repeated. "But not Natalie. My belief in her forced me to suspect the person who would benefit most by having her placed under suspicion."

"And I concluded that Miss West would benefit considerably." He waited, but both Alan and Phillipa were wordless. "I seemed to sense that he had more to say, and Phillipa's rising rage prevented her from being quick enough to stop him. "When a woman is hunting a husband," he said slowly, "she will find nothing stand in her way, if she is that kind of a woman."

"Good Lord, man, do you realize what you are saying?" Alan appealed to Geoffrey. "He was certain now that the young man had been drinking. And Geoffrey always had been crazy about Natalie. He had seen her, listened to her wild tales and twisted them into a dramatic charge against Phillipa. It was preposterous, of course, but not to be quarreled over.

His question, and his suddenly easier attitude, perplexed Phillipa. A moment ago he had been on the point of succumbing to a towering rage; now, she said to herself, he was as meek as a lamb. She had been suspicious and uncertain since he came into the room. Indefinite, vague, at first, her suspicions were now taking concrete form. Geoffrey had seen Natalie—she was here in New York. That meant that Alan might have seen her too. And he had certainly been acting very strange.

Alan was startled when she cried, before Geoffrey had framed a suitable answer to his question: "Alan, have you seen Natalie?" "Why, yes," he said. "I thought so," she flashed at him. "This is all a cooked up scheme to get me out of the picture!" Both men stared at her in amazement, and both were silent.

"A fine pair of them," she sneered at them. "You," she directed her attack toward Geoffrey, "you fixed it up in Alan's office, and then telephoned me. You found out they would like to make up, so you arranged this little 'surprise' to accuse me, so that I wouldn't be able to sue Alan for breach of promise!"

She whirled now upon Alan. "So that's why you told me you were going to adopt that Lamont brat! You thought I'd object and we'd quarrel about it. But that didn't work, so you try this. Oh, I see why you wouldn't leave—why you insisted upon staying here to make Mr. Norman 'apologize.' She laughed crazily. "What a bluff!" "Phillipa."

"Don't Phillipa me, Alan Converse. You're a worm, and you know it. Why didn't you break off with me long ago? You wanted to, you know you did, but you didn't have the courage."

"Yes, I did want to," Alan flung back at her, stung into forgetting Geoffrey's presence, "but it wasn't cowardice that stopped me. It was chivalry, if you want to know. Funny, isn't it, in this day and age? But you didn't take any particular pains to conceal the fact that you might have married Geoffrey and his millions. You let me know, too, that you were out with your family on that account. Well, I might be a fool, but I'm not exactly a cad."

"He ended lamely, remembering that Geoffrey was a listener to what he had to say. He looked at his friend, somewhat abashed. "I don't think Phillipa tampered with the letter," he said. "You shouldn't believe it, Geoff, if you love her. And she doesn't care a hang for me. I'm sure. She just felt sorry for me..."

"You needn't try to throw me in his arms," Phillipa burst in, her face red with mortification. Geoffrey ignored her. "Sorry, but I have no intention of proposing to the young lady," he said icily, "and I'm sure not aware of ever having entertained any such idea."

"Oh, rub it in," Phillipa blazed, losing her respect for refinement, but saving enough of her self-control to make an effort to put a half-decent face on her conduct. "Yes, I let Alan believe I refused you," she went on, "but don't think I had encouraged you, Geoffrey Norman, because I wanted to marry you. Why, you're a bigger sap than Alan. I wouldn't have you. In love with a married woman, and too much of a rabbit to take her. Oh, I know. I've seen it—you're mad about Natalie Converse, and she's twisting you around her little finger, making you believe..."

"That's enough," Geoffrey cut in. "I know what you believe about Mrs. Converse." Phillipa turned to Alan, her sudden laughter mounting hysterically. "You're a pair of fools," she informed him. "But you're a bigger fool than Geoffrey. He at least knows that two and two make four. You thought you were falling for a simple-minded little girl who hadn't a thought in her head but to sympathize with you. He had more sense than that!"

A Little Mistake Some Parents Are Too Apt To Make

SENATORS IN FRONT-HALF GAME AHEAD

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Aided by the schedule makers, Walter Johnson today had his sensational Washington Senators out in front in the hectic American league pennant scramble for the second time this season.

Because the men who set the playing dates saw fit to give the Athletics a day of rest yesterday and at the same time let the Senators play the Red Sox, Washington is leading the champions by one-half game as the result of an 8 to 1 triumph over Boston.

In defeating the Red Sox, the Senators accounted for their eighth consecutive victory—the third time this season they have run their string of victories to eight. On another occasion they won seven in a row only to lose the eighth.

To Alvin Crowder, St. Louis Browns' cast-off, goes much of the credit for Washington's victory. The former St. Louis hurler set the Sox down with eight scattered hits and did not issue a base on balls to win his fifth straight game since joining the Senators. He lost his first game to mar an otherwise perfect record.

The badly crippled Indians dropped a few more points off their percentage column when they fell before the St. Louis Browns 6 to 1. The victories got to Pete Jablonowski and Belvedere Bean for eleven hits, which included circuit drives by Ralph Kress and Goose Goslin.

A standoff was the result of the Detroit-Chicago doubleheader, the Tigers taking the first 3 to 2 behind the good pitching of Earl Whitehill but losing the second 9 to 5. Whitehill held the Sox to four hits but the Sox managed to stay in the battle until the tenth inning because Dutch Henry did a good job of keeping the Tigers' 12 hits scattered.

In the second encounter, ability to take advantage of Detroit's loose fielding gave the White Sox the decision.

Babe Herman's powerful bat gave the Brooklyn Robins a full game advantage over the Cubs as the National league champions lost while the pace setters were trimming the Boston Braves, 2 to 1.

A home run off Herman's bat, which was preceded by a double converted into a run when Wright singled gave the Robins the decision and Ray Moss the best of the best of the pitching duel with Bob Smith. Moss let the Braves down with six hits while the Robins touched Smith for seven, three of which were made by Herman.

The Cubs looked just like another ball club as they dropped their third straight to the floundering Reds. The score was 4 to 2. Pat Malone pitched one-hit ball for five innings but weakened in the sixth and seventh long enough to let the Reds hit three triples and a single and score four runs.

A modern game of baseball was played at Philadelphia, where the Giants defeated the Phillies 13 to 12 in a slugfest orgy that brought five New York and three Philadelphia pitchers to the mound. Among the 38 hits collected by the two teams were Klein's twenty-fourth home run of the season and another hit of the same variety by Frank O'Doul.

The Cardinals march up the standings was halted by the Pittsburgh Pirates, who won 9 to 5 behind the steady southpaw pitching of Larry French. The Cards had won five straight games. Sunny Jim Bottomley and Gus Suhr hit home runs.

Opinions Differ on Low Scores at Interlachen Meet

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8. (AP)—Estimates of the score which will bring victory in the national open at Interlachen starting Thursday were revised sharply downward today as old man par stood humbled after record-breaking rounds Monday by Bobby Jones and Leo Diegel.

But Jones, defending champion, alone among the competitors was reluctant to change his estimate of 294 for the four rounds of tournament play despite his brace of 77 Sunday and his sensational shooting with Diegel just before Monday's sunset. The champion and the smiling challenger from the professional ranks scored 70's, beating the old record of 71 made last week by Jock Hendry, St. Paul pro.

From among the contending pros came the most lavish low score predictions—based largely on the form shown by Jones, Diegel, Walter Hagen, and others.

Tommy Armour, winner in 1927, declared that 290 would win this year. Denny Shute, young professional from Columbus, Ohio, said 288 or 289 would be the low net. A few insisted that if playing conditions were ideal there would be a good chance to tie the low score record for open meets set in Minneapolis in 1916 by Chick Evans with 286 at Minikahda, only a few miles from Interlachen—but this group was small indeed.

"Miss Broadway of 1930"

There's a broken heart for almost every pretty girl on Broadway, and here's the reason—the prettiest, according to certain judges, of them all. In a contest, which invited the competition of all New York's musical show pulchritude, Miss Violet Carson, as you see her here, smiled her way to the title of "Miss Broadway of 1930." The prize was a ticket to Europe, a round-trip one, of course, so Violet won't forget to come home.

BUFFS IN TIE IN GAMES BUT NOT IN POINTS

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Theoretically, the Wichita Falls Spudders had hoisted themselves back into a tie for the Texas league leadership today, but the Houston ufts still were clinging to the percentage points.

Although the first half champs had won 10 games, one more than the Bayou City crew, they had dropped five since the second chapter began, as against four reverses for the Bisons. The difference was 25 points, demonstrating forcefully that losing games is bad business.

In climbing a little closer to their accustomed seat yesterday the Spudders looked like their old selves of the first half. While Ash Hillin, the former Texas Aggie, limited the Sports to six hits, his roisterous mates climbed on Morrell and Cooper for 12, and the score was 7 to 3. Two of the Spudders blows were homers by Fitzgerald and Kloza, and Perry hit his almost daily round tripper for Shreveport.

Denny Burns hauled the Beaumont Exporters out of the cellar, leaving the decrepit Dallas Steers in full possession, when he mastered the Buffs, 8 to 2. The Shipper veteran gave up nine hits and three walks, but was at his best in the clinches. Twelve Buffs were left stranded, them of them in the final frame. Eleven Beaumont blows off Brown and Reinhart included homers by Shiver, Mullen and Holey.

Four thousand fans, the greatest Monday crowd in Waco's baseball history, saw the Cubs capture their ninth victory in ten nocturnal starts at the expense of San Antonio, 4 to 3, and go into a tie with Fort Worth for third place. It was a genuine pitchers' duel between Ray Lucas of the Indians and Slim Harris of the Cubs. Lucas gave up only five hits to eight off Harris, but the Cubs bunched them in four innings. Piet, promising Waco second baseman, led the victorious offense with a homer and double. Harris registered six strikeouts.

The Indians sensed some skulduggery in the eighth, when, after Rye had driven across the winning run with a double, the lights went out for 15 minutes. They finally were convinced that a Waco adherent had not thrown the switch, however, and the game proceeded.

Fort Worth and Dallas were idle for the day, having played their scheduled bout as part of Sunday's double header. Old Pete Alexander, who was affected by more things than heat in his third Texas league start Sunday, was understood to have been admonished by the Dallas management. Old Pete, however, has been admonished before by bigger and better managements than the Texas league can boast.

MAGNOLIAS IN TOP POSITION IN THIS AREA

The eve of the annual Panhandle baseball tournament finds the Magnolias rating higher than any other club in this section. The only challengers to their supremacy in this section, the Gulf Guns, were eliminated last Sunday. It was a humiliating defeat for the Guns: However, the Magnolias should not put too much stock in this victory, because it was plain even to the most casual observer that the Guns were badly "off."

The Guns had a sparkling array of stars but they lacked what the Magnolias had—a baseball team. Had the Guns omitted some of the imports from their batting order, the result of the game might have been different. The Guns had fine material but they never got organized.

Guided by the expert hand of Manager Roy Bourland, the Magnolia team has become an impressive contender for the championship. When Mr. Bourland, who was in professional baseball for seven years, took over the management of the Magnolias a month ago, the team was getting nowhere. Since then, in quick order, they have de-

This will be in the nature of a homecoming for Senator Small, it was explained. During his school days the candidate attended Trinity university at Waxahachie and he plans to renew many acquaintances there. In a recent address made at Georgetown the candidate told how, while attending Trinity, had met the young woman who later

It Saved Me Trip to Health Resort
"I was in such wretched health and so many medicines had failed to help me, I was all packed up to go to Sulphur Springs. But, thanks to the friend who advised me to take Sargon, I won't have to go. I had indigestion so bad I had to go on a rigid diet and most of the time I couldn't retain anything but milk. I was habitually constipated and so nervous I could hardly sleep at all, and was even too weak to do my housework. Three bottles of Sargon ended every one of my ailments and helped me so marvelously in so many ways that I'll praise it the rest of my life.
"I've tried many different laxatives and cathartics, and Sargon Pills which I took right along with the tonic gave me results I was never able to get before. They are the best and most natural acting I have ever used."—Mrs. Olive Murley, 1422 S. Walker St., Oklahoma City.

It Saved Me Trip to Health Resort
"I was in such wretched health and so many medicines had failed to help me, I was all packed up to go to Sulphur Springs. But, thanks to the friend who advised me to take Sargon, I won't have to go. I had indigestion so bad I had to go on a rigid diet and most of the time I couldn't retain anything but milk. I was habitually constipated and so nervous I could hardly sleep at all, and was even too weak to do my housework. Three bottles of Sargon ended every one of my ailments and helped me so marvelously in so many ways that I'll praise it the rest of my life.
"I've tried many different laxatives and cathartics, and Sargon Pills which I took right along with the tonic gave me results I was never able to get before. They are the best and most natural acting I have ever used."—Mrs. Olive Murley, 1422 S. Walker St., Oklahoma City.

California Gas War Is Alarming

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (AP)—Directors of the Retail Service Station Dealers association today asked Governor C. C. Young to intervene in the California gasoline price cutting war and save them from "utter ruin."
The telegram, signed by President Joseph Devenenzi, suggested all companies be declared "public utilities" and placed under the control of the state railroad commission.
Unless some action is taken within a week, Devenenzi said, his members would sell gasoline at cost. Gasoline has been selling at 10 1/2 cents to 17 cents a gallon, including the 3-cent state tax.
Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Oden and Mr. and Mrs. John Studer left Monday on a week's vacation trip to the Barlow ranch near Anita, Colorado.
H. O. Wilcott, Wichita, Kans., representing the Wiegand Coffee company, was a business visitor here yesterday.
Mrs. Artie Shepherd returned yesterday from Hale Center, where she has been visiting her daughter.
P. H. Schumaker was a business visitor in Clarendon Monday.

Less Cotton Planted
 WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—There were a million and a quarter acres less cotton in cultivation on July 1 than a year ago.

The crop reporting board of the department of agriculture in its first announcement of acreage this year, issued today, placed the area of cotton in cultivation at 45,815,000. This is a reduction of 2.7 per cent from last year's July 1 acreage.

The acreage is 166,000 less than the area picked last year.

NEW ORLEANS, July 8. (AP)—The government acreage report announced in Washington as 45,815,000 acres a decrease of 2.7 per cent, was near anticipations here and had little effect on the market. After the announcement October broke 19 points to 12.56 while December dropped 20 points to 12.72.

Talley Election To Be July 15

Date of the election to determine whether the "City of Talley" shall be incorporated was changed from July 8 to 15 when the order calling the election was filed. It was previously announced that the election would be held today.

Calling of the election was mandatory with Judge Duncan. It will be held at the residence of Earl Talley, who will be in charge, assisted by two judges and two clerks. Any legally qualified voter who has lived in the addition six months may cast a ballot for or against the proposition, it was stated.

The petition calling for the election was presented two weeks ago by J. G. Christy of the Pampa Development company. It was signed by 53 residents. The law requires that a town must have a population of 600 before it can be incorporated.

FILLS GRAVE HE DUG

MILWAUKEE, July 8. (AP)—The grave he dug in 1909 at a cost of $4,000, today claimed the body of Francis (Daddy) Collins, 103-year-old veteran of the civil war.

Collins had lived in fear he would die without a grave in readiness. So he purchased a $4,000 lot, dug his own resting place and lavished hundreds of dollars on the plot for landscaping.

of aforesaid addition will cast their votes for or against the incorporation of this section into the city of "Talley."

Now, this preposterous action has been taken in the interest of and by the development company and should be studied from every angle by all citizens in the addition, as they are the ones who will have to bear the brunt of the thing, should they, by any remote possibility succeed in voting it into a little jerk water town (without the water). Should it become a town this company will be cleared of all responsibility; then it is up to the people to foot the bills for each and every improvement they have, and considering the taxes which could be raised from the present valuation it is to be feared that the development of the town would not be very progressive. Now what is the object of making this a town, if we cannot better our conditions, which is impossible at the present valuation, and who wants his valuation raised only to pay officers' salaries, which alone is more than we could do. A residence section such as Talley will not support itself, as it is proved by the history of finance in Pampa; it takes something more, a wealthy business district.

Replying to my inquiries regarding the future improvements that might be needed in Talley addition, if separated from Pampa, in comparison with the cost if installed as a part of Pampa, I have had the following comparison figures submitted to me, based upon the cost of installing them by the City of Pampa:

First: Presuming that it is only a short time that a sewer system is installed. If constructed in connection with the present system of Pampa, it will require only the laying of lateral lines, and tying them into the mains already owned by the city, thus running the affluent direct to the present plant owned by the city. On the other hand if done independently it will of course be necessary to drop back a sufficient distance for the city, probably three or four miles, purchase land and construct a disposal plant of our own, with a sufficiently large main from the plant to the addition.

The present disposal plant of Pampa, exclusive of the cost of the land is approximately $38,000, with about three miles of main line that has cost $6,000 a mile, or a total of $18,000 making the investment in the disposal plant and line leading to it total about $56,000. Figuring on this basis the lateral lines that serve us could probably be laid for a total cost of about $30,000, if connected to the present lines of the

Phillipa saw his mental turmoil in his face. Triumph rang in her laughter now, though she was growing calmer, as what might be the result of her rage occurred to her. But still she sneered.

"Well, you know as well as I do that she'll never forgive you, don't you?"

"Cool, quiet, yet vibrant as the tones of some fine instrument came an answer. "No, he does not know that, Miss West."

Geoffrey smiled, and stepped forth as though he were moved by spirit hands.

Geoffrey turned to Phillipa, who stood silenced under his forbidding frown. A moment, and Natalie spoke.

"But my forgiveness is nothing without Alan's," she said, loud enough for all to hear. Then, for Alan's ears alone: "You do forgive me, dear?"

"Darling!"

Phillipa could contain herself no longer. As she saw Natalie's arms go around Alan's neck and his gather her close to him to receive the rain of kisses he was plainly going to shower upon her, she flung herself about and said to Geoffrey: "Well, there's the woman you love!"

"Yes, thank God," Geoffrey breathed. "There she is. Shall I show you out, Miss West?"

city. But, if operated separately, we would, of course, have to add to this amount the cost of disposal plant and main outfall lines which as above recited in the instance of the city of Pampa has cost about $56,000 and you can readily see this would bring the total cost of such improvements more than $85,000 instead of $30,000 if the mains of the city of Pampa were used.

The same ratio, of course, would to a large extent also govern in obtaining a water supply. The city of Pampa has about $80,000 invested in wells and storage tanks, exclusive of any mains, to serve approximately 10,000 people, with an adequate supply of water, making the cost of this improvement per capita of the people served about $8.00, but in the instance of our addition a well to supply us would necessarily cost not less than $9,000, and an overhead tank to give water pressure would cost not less than $7,000.00, giving a total of not less than $16,000, to develop water for the addition. On the basis of 800 population you can see our per capita investment would run about $20.00 as against the city of Pampa's per capita investment of $8.00. In other words, it would be necessary for us to pay on a per capita basis of two and one-half times the interest on investment to obtain a water supply as being paid by the tax payers of Pampa.

It is easy for anyone to see why this is true, as the more people using any public utility the less the per capita cost, and the same is true of street improvements, police protection, fire protection, and all other things needed by the city.

Briefly reviewing the subject of fire protection your attention is called to the fact that the modern fire trucks of the type used by Pampa, cost $12,500 each, and two such trucks are adequate to protect the property of the city of Pampa, or a total investment of only $25.00 per capita while in our instance we would of course have to have one such truck, and due to lack of population the per capita cost would run in the neighborhood of $16.00 to secure the same protection. Of course, you fully realize that if a separate incorporation is made, it will be necessary for the people to provide their own protection in all of these measures, as the city of Pampa only makes provisions adequate for the needs of the people living within the incorporation and will not provide for the needs of a separately incorporated municipality, regardless of its nearness to the city of Pampa. (For the benefit of the uninformed, by per capita I meant each individual.)

These facts and figures have been courteously given me by those in position to know, and are in no sense exaggerated by any official sentiment of animosity toward the incorporation; however, should this election carry, Pampa cannot be expected to take care of us any longer on the water supply.

Then what? Go back to our old method of carrying or hauling water, as we formerly did, until the city of Pampa graciously consented to furnish us water? Please do not misunderstand Pampa's position in this, as all cities are limited to the extent of services they are allowed to render separate incorporated towns, while many of these limitations do not apply when serving neighboring individuals.

Now, covering the street improvements, which is one of the main arguments for incorporation, you all know that each individual pays in full for all sidewalks and one-third of all pavement in front of his own property, then in addition to this is taxed for the other one-third. Regarding the cleaning up of streets, alleys, and private properties, I wish to draw a comparison between Talley and any small town of like population. I cannot see that there would be any radical change by making a town of the addition. In what way would the proposed change affect this condition? We are already protected by State and County sanitation laws, and I am sure that all citizens want to make it a safe and sanitary place in which to live. If we do not, I cannot see how the proposed change would influence us.

Now, but not least, is the motive underlying this: Has it been only thoughts of the welfare of our citizens that has prompted it, or has it been from personal motives? Think this over, think of the oil situation here, and this franchise business.

How will the citizens benefit from any franchise given to the incorporators? And if we did I cannot see that as a city Talley would have so much more influence with the gas companies than the city of Pampa, in the way of getting cheaper gas.

Think and study conditions as they are now and as they would be. Then be prepared to vote. T. C. WARD.

P. S.—The question of the voting privilege has arisen. Here is the law governing this election: ARTICLE 1137. Every person who has attained the age of twenty-one years and who has resided within the limits of the proposed town for six months next preceding and is a qualified voter under the laws of this state, shall be entitled to vote at the election.
