Testimony to reveal local drug prices

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

A Pampa police detective was expected to return to the witness stand today to describe index cards giving the prices and markup on illegal drugs being sold in Pampa last summer.

Kerry Layne Zeek, 30, of Lefors, is on trial in 31st District Court after being charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver.

Pampa Police Officer David R. Conner took the stand Monday afternoon to describe when he first saw Zeek and Frank Pechacek, 33, of Amarillo, and how he stopped them in the early morning hours of Aug. 23, 2000.

Conner told the five man, seven woman jury Monday afternoon that he was in the 900 block of South Hobart shortly after midnight when he saw a 1996 Honda four-door sedan with California license plates, driven by Pechacek turn south on Hobart from Oklahoma Street, then turn east on Crawford.

Conner said Zeek, a passenger in the car, kept looking back at the police officer following them.

Suspicious, Conner continued to follow the green Honda which turned north on Huff. When the driver of the car failed to signal a left turn before turning onto Wilk, Conner said he pulled the Honda over.

Under questioning by District Attorney Rick Roach, Conner said that the area where he stopped the car, Prairie Village, is known as a place in Pampa to buy drugs.

"If you're going to buy narcotics," Conner said, "this is the area you'd go to."

The officer said that while he followed the pair, they did not appear to be lost.

"They knew where they were going," Conner testified.

He said their route took them directly through a drug trafficking area.

Conner said that when he first stopped the car, Pechacek identified himself, but Zeek identified himself as Tracy Zeek, gave a false date of birth and said he lived in the 500 block of North Gray. "He said he had lived there his entire life," Conner said.

Conner said Zeek told him they were lost, that was why they were in Prairie Village.

"So Zeek was giving directions?" Roach asked.

Roach asserted that Zeek was in control of the vehicle, a line of questioning cut short by objections from defense counsel James Fling.

Conner testified that as he questioned the two men in the car, they appeared nervous, and that Zeek began to stutter.

Because their story did not sound right to the officer, Conner said he asked Zeek to step out and come to the right rear of the car where he asked Zeek if there was anything in the car, a gun or narcotics, that the officer needed to know about.

Vote could change way McLean spends development dollars

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

McLEAN — Voters in McLean will go to the polls Saturday to decide whether they want to be a 4B or 4A city.

The community has been receiving one-half of one percent of the local sales tax as a 4A city for several years. Under the restrictions imposed by the state, the city has been very limited in how they they could spend the money, said City Secretary Toni Bohlar.

"We are so limited under the 4A plan," she said. The 4B plan is more geared to the needs of a small community, said Bohlar. "The 4B plan helps small communities so much more," she said. "Under that plan the small communities are allowed to spend the money in ways that are much more beneficial to their needs."

Bohlar said the limitations under the 4A plan has resulted in considerable apathy in the community. "We have a president of the economic development board and one board member left," she said. "They haven't had enough interest to even have a quorum for meetings for several months."

If voters defeat Proposition 1 and pass Proposition 2, they will be (See VOTE, Page 3)

Fine, deferred adjudication assessed in cocaine case

A traveler along Interstate 40 was a $1,000 lighter today and owes Gray County another $1,000 as part of a plea bargain.

Christopher Andrew Rivas of Santa Fe, N.M., pled guilty to possession of controlled substance charge Monday afternoon in 31st District Court in Pampa.

Judge Steven Emmert deferred adjudication of guilt for three years, placing Rivas on probation, and ordered Rivas to pay a $1,000 fine, pay restitution to the Texas Department of Safety of $140 and perform 160 hours of community service.

Rivas was stopped in Wheeler County on April 10, 1998, on his way from Phoenix, Ariz., to Chicago, Ill. After being cited for failure to wear a seatbelt, he gave DPS troopers permission to search his car. Trooper found 1.02 grams of cocaine in the car.

Rivas agreed to pay $1,000 Monday afternoon and work out a schedule to pay the remainder of the fine.

Gray County Appraisal District employees, from left, Kim Hinds, Jennifer Read and Tyson Paronto, take a break from work Monday to vote early in the Pampa city elections. Seated are Karen Price and Karen Barnes, election clerks. An extremely heavy voter turnout has been reported as 633 voters cast ballots in early voting. Today is the last day to vote early in the mayoral election. The election will be held Saturday at M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Judge conducts arraignments

A dozen people were arraigned in 31st District Court Monday following their indictments by a Gray County grand jury.

Shanna Eve Tambunga, 38, 1120 Sierra, told Judge Steven Emmert Monday afternoon that she was not the Shanna Tambunga that had been charged with possession of a controlled substance. At her request, Judge Emmert appointed Pampa lawyer Mark Buzzard to represent her. Her bond was continued at $5,000.

Oscar Lynn Aylor, 52, Borger, was arraigned on four counts of indecency with a child and one count of sexual assault. Steve Cross was appointed to represent Aylor.

Aylor had been free on a bond of $20,000. His defense attorney said that Aylor, however, had made every court appearance required and requested that bond be lowered to $5,000.

District Attorney Rick Roach said he felt Aylor remained a flight risk.

Judge Emmert, who had initially set bond at $50,000, lowered the amount to $30,000.

Storm drops large hail on town of Panhandle

By NANCY YOUNG
 Managing Editor

Everything went backwards in the storm Monday night which formed over Pampa, and moved into Carson County to the southwest.

Tom Milum with the Carson County Sheriff's Office said the size of the hail stones which pelleted the town of Panhandle was as large as golf balls, or perhaps larger. He said as the storm progressed the size of the hail got smaller.

"We didn't have any really major damage from the storm last night as far as I know," said Milum. "Windows were broken out at businesses and residences as well as vehicle windshields. There was roof damage to several homes."

He also said at least two Carson County Sheriff Department vehicles had windshields broken because of the hail.

Milum said it was unusual for the storm to move in from the northeast and for the size of the hail stones to begin large and end small. He said usually it was just the opposite.

"I heard an Amarillo television station say there was hail the size of baseballs up to cantaloupe-size which struck here," he said. "I didn't see it that big, but it may have been in some out of town areas."

He reported there was a considerable amount of rotation in the clouds during the storm, but no tornadoes touched the ground in the community.

According to the National Weather Service, there is a 20 percent possibility of storms in the area again late this evening. The NWS says there is a 50 percent chance of turbulent weather Wednesday evening.

Milum said there were no injuries reported to the Carson County Sheriff's Department during Monday night's storm.

Both Panhandle and White Deer Volunteer Fire Department personnel were out as spotters during the storm.

One person killed, another hurt in private UT dorm blaze

AUSTIN (AP) — One man was killed and another was critically injured Tuesday morning when a blaze erupted at a private high-rise dormitory near the University of Texas that was not equipped with sprinklers.

One man was pronounced dead at Brackenridge Hospital in Austin and the other was being transported by helicopter to Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, said Gary Wilks, an Austin Fire Department spokesman.

Both men suffered burns and smoke inhalation, officials said. The critically injured man suffered burns over 80 percent of his body, Wilks said.

The fire broke out in the second floor of a 10-story tower housing 200 students. The building is part of a two-tower complex called University Towers apartments that houses a total of 600 residents.

Fire officials had not been able to locate the smoke detector in the room where the fire broke out Tuesday morning. The room was describe as having a living room, a bedroom and a bathroom.

Fire officials have not determined if the men were roommates and their names have not been released.

The building, located several blocks west of the UT campus, was built before a 1981 ordinance that required all high-rises to have sprinkler systems. The building is required to have a 24-hour air monitoring system and smoke alarms in each room.

The emergency lighting system and the fire alarm system in the hallway outside of the room where the fire broke out had melted, although Wilks said the alarm system had sounded at least before it melted.

Wilks said the building did have the smoke detectors and the required alarm system. The alarm system is staggered, meaning the sirens go off floor by floor and not throughout the building all at once, Wilks said.

"Sprinklers are very important. They would extinguish a fire within seconds," Wilks said. He would not speculate whether sprinklers would have prevented the death in this fire, but he did say the building had been inspected within the past 60 days.

"It passed all the tests," Wilks said. The fire broke out about 6:20 a.m. and was under control in about 30 minutes, firefighters said.

A University Towers spokeswoman had no immediate comment.

Fire investigators had not determined what started the fire, said Dale Whitaker, Austin Fire Department spokeswoman.

Evenflo recalls 3.4 million baby seats

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 3.4 million Evenflo Co. infant car seats that double as portable carriers are being recalled because the handle can snap off, dumping the child onto the ground.

It is the fifth major recall of baby car seats by various makers since 1998, and brings to 10 million the number of car seats that have recently been determined unsafe by federal regulators.

Ninety-seven people have reported injuries because of the car seat/carrier's handle breaking, the Consumer Product Safety Commission announced Tuesday. Many of the injuries were serious, including skull fractures, concussions, a broken leg and numerous scratches and bruises.

The recall involves all Evenflo Joyride car seats, which are white or gray plastic with seat pads of various colors or patterns.

"Evenflo Joyride Car Seat/Carrier" is written on the outside of the handle locks. The seats have model numbers beginning 203, 205, 210, 435 or 493, which can be found underneath or on the side of the car seat carrier.

Major discount stores nationwide sold the car seats from January 1998 through December 1998 for about $30. They were sold for about $89 when purchased with a matching stroller.

Evenflo, based in Vadalia, Ohio, stopped selling the car seats in 1998, but government safety officials fear they are still in wide use.

"You may have used this carrier with your first baby and had no problem," said commission spokesman

Russ Rader. "But now you might be getting it out of closet to use for a second baby or received it as a hand-me-down from a relative. That could be a problem, because we found that these carriers wear down over time and become dangerous."

The commission also is investigating whether Evenflo reported the accidents to the government, as required by federal law.

Rader said Evenflo did not test the car seat/carriers properly. Evenflo recalled about 800,000 car seats in 1998.

The commission asked for the recall after receiving customer complaints and reports of injuries.

Officers said the driver of the Buick fled the scene of the accident.

TESTIMONY

"He said that if there was anything in the vehicle, it didn't belong to him," Conner testified. When Roach asked why Conner would question Zeek about a gun, Conner replied that it was a safety issue. "I'm a cop and a uniform tends to be a target in that area," Conner said. When Gray County Deputy Sheriff Dallas Hardin, now an investigator for the District Attorney's office, arrived on the scene that night along with Pampa Police Officer Shawn Waters, Conner said he had Pechacek take a large dog named Duke, from the backseat of the Honda and stand with Zeek and Hardin near a fence. The dog was put in Officer Water's car. Conner said he then stuck his head in the car and saw a clear plastic bag containing a substance Conner believed to be methamphetamine. "The baggie was tied off at the top, sitting on the console between the seats in plain sight," Conner said. The officer said the bag would have been about three inches from where the defendant was sitting in the passenger seat in the car. After placing Pechacek and Zeek under arrest, Conner said he took Pampa's drug-sniffing dog, Nick, and searched the Honda. The officer said he found a black bag on the floor board halfway under the driver's seat. Conner said inside that bag he found a breath mint tin with small bags of what appeared to be methamphetamine, a glass vial, several tubes and straws, cigarette rolling papers and razor blades. As Conner examined the bag on the driver's side of the car, Officer Waters found a bag on the passenger's side of the Honda. From inside that bag Water pulled a .22-caliber pistol. David Scott of Perryton, who was hired as assistant district attorney for this case, questioned Roy Murphy, a Department of Public Safety chemist, who identified the powder in the plastic bags as about 16.63 grams of methamphetamine.

allowed to spend the tax money on numerous community projects including public parks, museums, auto parking, transportation facilities and related roads, streets and water and sewer facilities, recycling projects, drainage, and promote new and or expanded business enterprises. Proposition 1 ballot calls for a for or against vote on the abolition of 4A. The complete list of items the sales tax can be used for as a 4B city is listed under Proposition 2 on the ballot. Bohlar said a group of local residents have gathered the names of 10-12 residents who live in the community who have said they would serve on the economic development board if Proposition 2 passes. Bohlar said approximately $1,000 to $1,200 revenue is raised a month from the one-half of one percent sales tax which could be used for projects. McLean voters may vote on the proposition on Saturday at McLean City Hall. Councilman Bob Martin and declared write-in candidate June Suggs are vying for mayor. Four candidates are seeking the two alderman positions on the ballot. Incumbents Doyle Lee and Joe Billingsley are both seeking re-election while Dennis Ward has also tossed his hat in the ring. LaVon Watson is seeking a position as a declared write-in. Balloting will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday.

Budget flap

AUSTIN (AP) — The leaders of the House and Senate budget committees clashed Tuesday, disagreeing over exactly how much money the state's ailing Medicaid program should get. At issue was how much money should be allocated to the health care program for the poor versus how much should be spent on a statewide school employees health-insurance plan. A routine morning conference committee meeting became tense when House Appropriations Chairman Rob Junell suggesting spending $542 million in additional funding on Medicaid. Senate Finance Chairman Rodney Ellis, appointed this session by Acting Lt. Gov. Bill Ratliff, said the spending was an improvement because the Legislature has put Medicaid and other social services "on the back burner" for years. "That is absolutely incorrect," replied Junell, who has served several sessions as appropriations chairman. The exchange escalated into an argument when Ellis, D-Houston, asked the panel to allocate more than $700 million to social services, suggesting the House scale back its $1.3 billion teachers health insurance plan.

Texas Editorials

By The Associated Press

A sampling of editorial opinion around Texas: The Monitor (McAllen) on free trade benefits all: Freer trade is not only the best hope for economic development in poorer countries, it offers benefits to American consumers who want to improve their lives in part by being free to choose from what the rest of the world has to offer.

A commitment to free trade is also a commitment to allowing consumers and producers to decide through cooperative activities in the marketplace what products and services will succeed rather than interpose the judgment of politicians and bureaucrats as to what is in some vaguely-defined "national interest."

The global free market is distorted by tariffs, embargoes and other barriers to trade and by taxpayer-financed subsidies of certain goods and bailouts of foreign governments.

Both types of intervention subvert the freedom of ordinary citizens, increase the power of the state and distort the self-corrective mechanisms of the marketplace. But not all elected politicians see things this way.

The libertarian Cato Institute recognized this when it did a study of the attitudes of the 106th Congress toward free trade. The four categories Cato devised are:

— Free traders, who vote at least two-thirds of the time against both trade barriers and international economic subsidies. There were 26 total lawmakers in this category, including Reps. Dick Arme and Ron Paul of Texas.

— Internationalists, who vote against trade barriers but vote for international subsidies, often believing both are part of a healthy U.S. "engagement" with the rest of the world. Cato rated 212 representatives in this category, including Ruben Hinojosa and the rest of Texas Congressional delegation.

— Isolationists, who vote against reducing trade barriers and also oppose international economic subsidies, a total of 24.

— Interventionists, who favor both subsidies and trade barriers, consistently substituting the judgment of government for that of consumers and producers comprised the remaining 43.

Many Americans still believe the United States is devoted to free trade and utterly open to goods and services from other countries and that wily foreigners take advantage of our naivete by shipping goods here while protecting their own industries.

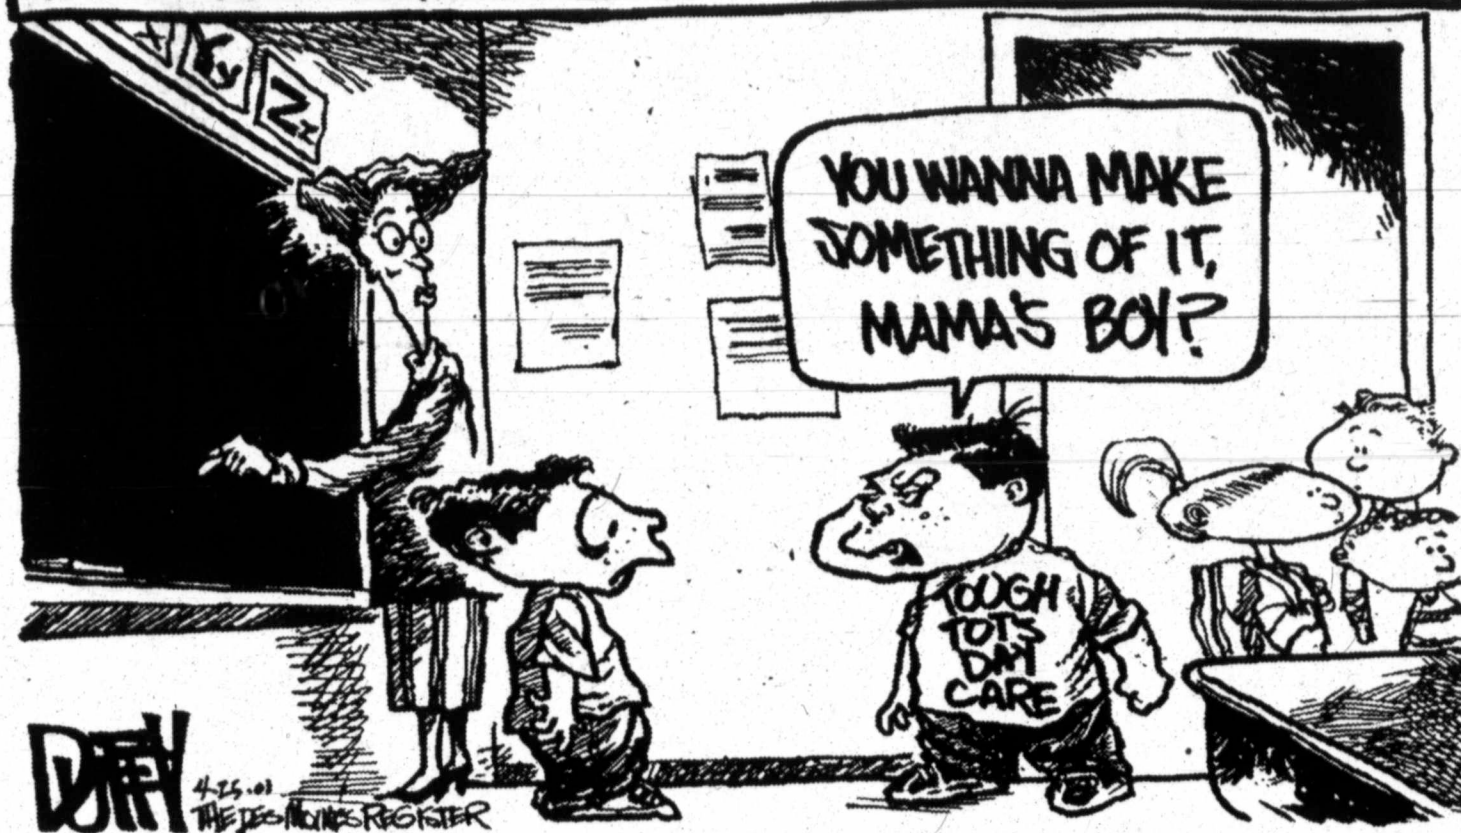

But the U.S. maintains high, anti-consumer barriers against imports of textiles, clothing, sugar, peanuts, sugar, footwear, dairy products, frozen fruit and fruit juices and costume jewelry. Barriers against shipbuilding, steel, soft-wood lumber, ball and roller bearings, glass and coastal shipping impose unnecessary costs on American producers and, therefore, on consumers. Subsidies to selected export industries, through the Export-Import Bank and other institutions, and bailouts of governments through the World Bank and IMF distort economic signals and waste tax money.

Congress should continue to favor free trade and move away from isolationist and interventionist policies.

A RECENT STUDY SHOWED A PERCENTAGE OF CHILDREN WHO SPEND THEIR DAYS IN DAY CARE TEND TO BE MORE AGGRESSIVE THAN THOSE WHO STAY AT HOME.

Moral fiber makes a civilized society

During the '40s, when I attended primary and secondary school, one didn't hear of school shootings. Why? Did we have better laws banning guns in and around schools? Or hadn't guns been invented?

Many of today's youngsters begin the school day passing through metal detectors. Guards patrol hallways, and police cars patrol outside. Despite these measures, assaults, knifings and shootings occur. According to the National Center for Education Statistics' 1996-97 report, there were nearly 4,000 incidents of in-school rape and sexual battery, 11,000 incidents of physical attacks or fights in which weapons were used, and 7,000 robberies in schools.

About 190,000 fights or physical attacks not involving weapons also occurred at schools, plus there were 115,000 thefts and 98,000 incidents of vandalism. These statistics understate the true magnitude of the problem because not all school violence is reported.

Along with school violence, many youngsters today exhibit little reservation in using foul language — not only to their peers, but in the presence of and to teachers.

Most Americans living today have little or no knowledge of yesteryear's school environment. As such, they just might think what goes on in schools has always been. But those of my age know that schools, even in poor neighborhoods, in earlier periods were generally civilized. Yes, teachers had complaints about students back then, but they're trivial compared to today's. Back then, behavioral problems were: students passing notes, chewing gum in class, running in the hallways, jumping in or out of line and smoking in the bathrooms or fire escapes. That's a far cry from today's problems of school rapes, murder, theft, and assaults and threats to both students and teachers.

Walter Williams

We just might ask what could explain the differences in student behavior today and yesterday. A probable answer is seen if we recognize that society's first line of defense is morality — the morality of those thou-shalt-nots: shalt not kill, shalt not steal, shalt not lie, cheat, etc. The importance of morality is that people behave themselves even if nobody's watching. There are not enough cops and laws to replace personal morality as a means to produce a civilized society. Indeed, the police and criminal justice system are the last desperate line of defense for a civilized society. Unfortunately, too many of us see police, laws and the criminal justice system as society's first line of defense.

For nearly half a century, the nation's liberals have waged war on traditional values, customs and morality. Our youth have been counseled that there are no moral absolutes. Instead, what's moral or immoral is a matter of personal opinion. During the 1960s, the education establishment challenged and undermined lessons children learned from their parents and Sunday school with fads like "values clarification."

So-called sex education classes are simply indoctrination that undermines family/church strictures against pre-marital sex. Lessons of abstinence were considered passe and replaced with lessons about condoms, birth-control pills and abortions. Further undermining of parental authority came with legal and extralegal measures to assist teenage abortions with neither parental knowledge nor consent.

Customs, traditions, mores and rules of etiquette, not laws and government regulations, are what makes for a civilized society. These behavioral norms, mostly transmitted by example, word-of-mouth and religious teachings, represent a body of wisdom distilled through ages of experience, trial and error.

Starting in the 1960s, traditional behavioral norms became seen as inconvenient, fun-robbing, or inconsistent with one social agenda or another. Traditional values were discarded without an appreciation for the role they played in creating a civilized society, and now we're paying the price.

What's worse is that few of us make the connection, and insist on more laws in the wake of school shootings.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, May 1, the 121st day of 2001. There are 244 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On May 1, 1960, the Soviet Union shot down an American U-2 reconnaissance plane near Sverdlovsk and captured its pilot, Francis Gary Powers.

On this date:
 In 1786, Mozart's opera "The Marriage of Figaro" premiered in Vienna.

In 1893, the World's Columbian Exposition was officially opened in Chicago by President Cleveland.

In 1898, Commodore George Dewey gave the command, "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley," as an American naval force destroyed a Spanish fleet in Manila Bay during the Spanish-American War.

In 1931, New York's 102-story Empire State Building was dedicated.

In 1941, the Orson Welles motion picture "Citizen Kane" premiered in New York.

In 1948, the People's Democratic Republic of Korea was proclaimed in North Korea.

In 1981, Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., was convicted in New York of charges related to the FBI's Abscam probe.

In 1998, Eldridge Cleaver, the fiery Black Panther leader who later renounced his past and became a Republican, died in Pomona, Calif., at age 62.

Ten years ago: Nolan Ryan of the Texas Rangers threw his seventh no-hitter, shutting out the Toronto Blue Jays 3-0. Rickey Henderson of the Oakland A's set a major league record by stealing his 939th base during a game against the New York Yankees. The government of Angola and U.S.-backed guerrillas initialed agreements ending their civil war.

Freedom not necessarily a virtue per se

I'm going to tell you why I am almost, but not quite, a libertarian.

First, capitalism, unless moderated by Christian virtue or government, is just as brutal and cruel as communism. I know that's hard for baby boomers to believe. After all, they grew up in the incredibly prosperous post-World War II United States. Most have never experienced really hard times. Most have not bothered to read much history or literature. Many were content to believe the fairy tales woven by Ayn Rand and her cohorts.

Try digging coal for a few pennies a ton in an unsafe mine where you are forced to buy your own tools. Try imagining a disabling injury and, instead of receiving workers' compensation or disability insurance, your broken body is just tossed off the company property. That's capitalism.

Try a six- or seven-day work week with 12-hour days, a pittance for wages, in a hellish and unhealthy environment and absolutely no benefits. That's capitalism.

You can still see pure capitalism in places such as Calcutta or Mogadishu. Capitalism is great if you're the capitalist, just as communism is great if you're the commissar or the party bigwig.

I wonder how many Americans would be willing to cut and sew a pair of finished blue jeans for 75 cents in a sweltering, bug-infested building. How many pair do you think you would have to cut and sew in order to feed your family? Those $30 to $50 pair of jeans we wear were made by what amounts to slave labor in Central America or Asia.

Charley Reese

Syndicated columnist

I've never been a union member and don't intend to be one, but I can at least appreciate the struggle that union men undertook to improve the lives of working men and women. I guarantee you that without the "threat" of unionization, most working men and women would see a quite different face on their employers.

And that might not be too far off. Under phony free-trade deals, unions are being broken and pressured by the movement of and the threat to move factories overseas. Anybody who expects real compassion from a corporation would mistake Hannibal Lector for a vegetarian. Unfortunately, the union leadership is so infected with socialists that they would rather pursue their ideological goals than look out for their members.

So, while I strongly believe in the maximum possible freedom, I also believe in community and in responsibility to that community. Not only is no man an island, but no man is self-made. Some people are just good at forgetting all the people who helped them get where they are.

If you aspire to total freedom and want to be entirely self-made, then go to a deserted island and live entirely off your own labor. If you survive, you can claim to be a self-sufficient person.

But don't live in a community with all its protections and benefits, don't go to public schools, ride on public roads, enjoy the benefits of publicly provided clean water and sanitary sewers and proclaim yourself an individual who owes nobody anything. That's just bravo sierra, and you know it.

Freedom is not a virtue per se. It can mean the freedom of the strong to bully and enslave the weak. It can mean the freedom to exploit the poor, to despoil the land and the water, to turn your back on the oppressed, the sick, the dying.

That's why, instead of a libertarian, I fall in with those old-fashioned conservatives who believe in ordered liberty, strict observances of the Constitution and a mind-our-own-business foreign policy. Don't confuse me with the neo-conservatives who like big government and imperialism as long as they run it. Most of those guys are just ex-Troskyites, anyway. And don't confuse me with chamber-of-commerce conservatives who say that anything good for big business is good for the country. That's horse manure.

At the same time, I'm definitely not a socialist. An ex-socialist, John Dos Passos, has remarked that the world was becoming a museum of socialist failures. And so it is.

The idea of a golden mean — something short of pure, unregulated capitalism and pure, over-regulated socialism — is what we should strive for.

Americans take home improvement too seriously to laze away their free time

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — You may think from the advertisements that the primary objective of Americans is to relax in a hammock or take a long vacation or idle away free time. You are wrong. They are busy fixing up the house.

If there is any one all-American pursuit, engaged in by young and old, new owners and old, urbanites and suburbanites, immigrants and native born, it likely has something to do with the house.

And the preoccupation seems likely to evolve into an obsession. While projects might be simple as replacing a faucet, the costs add up to nearly $180 billion a year, and might eventually even surpass new-home building.

That, at least, is the view of scholars at Harvard University's Joint Center for Housing Studies, who marvel at the phenomenon which, they say, has helped to dramatically upgrade the quality of the nation's housing.

The Joint Center, which examines a phase of the housing industry each year, has most recently focused on remodeling and repairs, recognizing its enormous financial and sociological impact on the entire economy.

That $180 billion figure, for example, is a catalyst, the report's authors state, for stimulating another $100 billion or so a year in spending for furnishings, appliances and lawn and garden projects.

Those are federal budget-size figures, and in recent years they've been growing larger each year. Now, with existing home sales reaching an annual rate of 5.44 million units, there likely to continue rising.

With each ownership transfer of an existing home there usually comes a spurt of spending, much of it for renovations, furniture and appliances. Then come additions when a new family member — parent, spouse or child — is added. Now, technological innovations are becoming a major force.

This is not news to homeowners, who are well aware of the money and labor they put into redefining their homes. It is the aggregate effect of all these projects that has such an enormous impact on economic society.

It also helps explain why housing is so important to the economy, studied for clues to the future by economists at the Federal Reserve and examined by stock analysts for indications of corporate health.

While it booms along with the economy, remodeling and repairing is far less likely to collapse when the overall economy tanks. It might decline, but far less precipitously; then, it might even substitute for a vacation.

With average household incomes 150 percent higher than in 1940, adjusted for inflation, improving the home increasingly has become an outlet for creativity as well as a place with a roof over one's head.

Viewed in its broadest perspective, the seldom interrupted activity in the American homestead is like a vast anthill, with owners coming and going, getting and spending and forever upgrading and improving.

And so long as young people marry and have kids, houses deteriorate, owners become bored with decor, breadwinners get transferred, oldsters retire to smaller digs and the population increases, it will remain so.

Dedicated Foster Parents Give Kids the Tools to Succeed

DEAR ABBY: We are an actress and a basketball player writing to you to ask your help in lighting a lamp of inspiration for the 600,000 children currently living in foster care.

May is National Foster Care Awareness Month, and we would like former foster children to join us in sharing their personal stories.

We both grew up in the foster care system. Being a foster child can be a painful and isolating experience, leaving many children without direction and purpose in their lives. We acknowledge that many foster children have experienced shame and felt "unattached" — with no real sense of belonging to a family or community. Yet, we know firsthand that as painful as it is for children to live without their parents, foster care can also be the best thing for a child in harm's way. It was for us.

We were blessed to receive support and commitment from dedicated foster parents and mentors who believed we could fulfill our greatest dreams. And both of us, as well as thousands of other foster children, have gone on to lead successful and productive lives.

We believe that the skills and life lessons learned by former foster children can serve to light the way for those now in foster care. They can inspire current foster families and social workers by reminding them of the enormous difference their dedication makes, and encourage other caring individuals to become foster parents.

By sharing our personal stories, we can bring a world of promise to children in foster care, and provide them with clear examples of how they can live their lives to the fullest, and in doing so, enrich the lives of others. It is a legacy that all of us who have been in foster care must leave for our children and the future.

VICTORIA ROWELL AND ALONZO MOURNING, NATIONAL SPOKESPERSONS FOR FOSTER CARE

DEAR VICTORIA AND ALONZO: You are living proof that with consistent mentoring, and with caring foster parents with an abundance of patience, foster children can succeed. For them to achieve, strong role models are essential because children absorb what they see around them.

That is why I am joining you in asking other successful former foster children to take pen in hand and share their stories. What was it that worked for you? What fortified you when times were difficult? Your personal experiences can bolster and enlighten current foster parents, inspire new ones and improve the foster care system. I know I can count on you. My readers are the most generous people in the world when it comes to giving of themselves.

DEAR ABBY: I have been with the same man for 17 years. I would like to get married, but he is not saying anything. What should I do? STILL SINGLE IN NEWARK, N.J.

DEAR STILL SINGLE: You have been incredibly patient to have waited this long for a proposal of marriage. Tell him it's time the two of you tied the knot. If he gives you an argument, perhaps it's time for you to consider whether you're better off with him or without him.

PAMPA — Pampa Country Club held a kickoff golf scramble last weekend. Results are as follows: First place: Kelly Everson, Dale Haynes, Deck Woldt and Deanne White 61. Second place: Richard Mackie, Gene James, Gary Dalton and Rod Gross 61. Third place: Doug McFratridge, Bill Crain, Shelia McFratridge and Dr. Joe Lowry 61. Roger David, Joyce Rasco, Bob Marx and John Welborn 62. Randy Holt, Dennis Roark, Bob Swope and Larry White 63.

BASKETBALL

CANADIAN — Angela Bivins of Canadian has been selected to play in the 101 Classic Bowl Foundation's all-star girls basketball games this month in Woodward, Okla. Bivins, a 5-7 senior, averaged 6 points, 4 assists and 3 rebounds in four years of basketball. The games are scheduled to start May 29 at Boomer Fieldhouse in Woodward. More than 100 players have been selected for the 101 Classic Bowl, based on nominations by their coaches. Bivins was nominated by her coach, Dale Morris. Players from northwest Oklahoma, the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles and southwest Kansas will compete in four games.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Whoever is up next for San Antonio doesn't really matter to the Spurs. They will face either Utah or Dallas after wrapping up their first-round series with a 97-84 victory over the Minnesota Timberwolves on Monday night. "You can say it doesn't matter, and sometimes it does matter," said Tim Duncan, who had 24 points and 16 rebounds in Game 4. "This time, it really doesn't. If Dallas comes back, that could take a lot of them. Utah would be fine, too."

David Robinson, who had 21 points and 14 rebounds, said he hasn't given much thought to the Jazz or Mavs, who meet in Game 4 Tuesday night with Utah leading 2-1.

"It was so hard to think past this series," Robinson said. "I've just been focused on trying to beat these guys."

"Minnesota was a tough matchup for us. They're a jump-shooting team, and that's hard for us. We might face that again. That's why we have to get better."

The Spurs, 3-1 winners of the series, knocked the Wolves out of the first round in 1999 before going on to win the NBA title. The Wolves lost in the first round for the fifth time in as many seasons. Their 0-5 series record in the playoffs is the worst among all NBA franchises.

"It's getting pretty old," Timberwolves guard Terrell Brandon said. "The fans want something else to happen, and they deserve it."

The Spurs-Wolves game was the only NBA playoff game Monday night. Besides Utah-Dallas on Tuesday, Milwaukee takes a 2-1 lead into Orlando.

On Wednesday, it's Philadelphia at Indiana, Sacramento at Phoenix and New York at Toronto. The visiting team has a 2-1 lead in all three of those series.

Triangle, Cyber-Net win 11-12 contests

PAMPA — Triangle defeated Celanese 3-1 in an Optimist 11-12 Cal Ripken League last weekend. Triangle's leading hitter was Blake Nusser with a double, single and one RBI, while Cameron Swarb had a single and RBI. Jonathon Maciel, Jake Diggs and Colden Fortenberry had one single each. Diggs also scored two runs. Leading Celanese were Colby Copeland, Taylor Smith, Justin Sealman and Michael Davis one hit each. Sealman had an RBI. Winning pitcher was Jake Diggs, who gave up one run on three hits while striking out 10 and walking two.

In other 11-12 action, Cyber-Net defeated Bill Allison Auto 12-6. Shavious Kelley was Cyber-Net's leading hitter with a homer, two singles and two runs-batted-in. Sameer Kelley had a home run and two RBI while Kyle Wheat had a triple and RBI. Chase Wheat and Kevin Jenkins each had a hit.

Cyber-Net had a big fifth inning, scoring nine runs on five hits, including the home runs by Sameer and Shavious Kelley. Tommy Hughes led Allison Auto in hitting with two doubles and an RBI. Robert Warren had a single and RBI while Dante Wilbon, Jerry Sprouse and Tanner Ray had one hit each. Rotary battled Duncan, Fraser & Bridges to a 7-7 tie in the 11-12 league.

Chase Harris and Jerrod Bivins led DFB at the plate with a pair of singles. Luke Raber had a home run and two RBI while Brandon Crook had a hit.

Michael Robinson led Rotary with two hits and a run-batted-in. Mark Stone had a single and RBI. Marcos Campos had a triple and RBI. Rusty Snider and Colton Barton had one hit each. Matt Trusty and Colby Greenhouse pitched for DFB. Trusty pitched four innings and gave up five runs on five hits while striking out nine and walking four. Greenhouse pitched two innings and gave up two runs on one hit while striking out four and walking four.

Mark Stone, Marcos Campos and Rusty Snider pitched for Rotary. Stone pitched three innings and gave up four runs on one hit while striking out two and walking eight. Campos pitched three innings and gave up three runs on four hits while striking out six and walking three. Snider pitched one inning and gave up one hit while striking out one.

Cowboys top receivers back on the field after suffering knee injuries

IRVING, Texas (AP) — While the passes weren't thrown by Troy Aikman and there were no defenders, the Dallas Cowboys' top two receivers ran routes and caught passes for the first time since last season.

Joey Galloway and Raghbi Ismail, both coming off knee injuries, were on the practice field Monday as the Cowboys began their first offseason mini-camp for veterans.

"They are on schedule as far as I can see, and that's a real plus," Cowboys coach Dave Campo said. "I fully expected them to be real factors this year."

Campo expected both to be factors last season, but Galloway and Ismail both had season-ending injuries.

Galloway tore a ligament in his left knee in the season opener after being traded from Seattle. He caught just four catches for 62 yards in the first year of his seven-year, $42 million contract.

Ismail was hampered by nagging injuries for most of the season, then tore a ligament in his right knee Nov. 5, in the ninth game at Philadelphia. He finished with 25 catches for 350 yards and one touchdown.

While Galloway and Ismail ran routes and caught passes thrown by kicker Tim Seder, Tony Banks — the quarterback who replaced the retired Aikman — took part in team drills on another field.

"I feel good. It's tough to tell because I'm not going against people," Galloway said. "But things went well, and we just have to build on that."

While Galloway feels he is ready, he isn't sure when he will be back completely.

"If it's up to me, tomorrow. If it's up to them (Cowboys trainers), then later on," Galloway said. "All I can do is work very hard at getting ready. My job is to play football and their job is to tell me when ligaments are ready. Right now, they say we run routes against air after practice. That's what I do."

Ismail feels good, but isn't yet where he wants to be.

"I'm running now, but I still haven't felt the speed kick over like it could. I'm anxious for that," Ismail said. "I'm anticipating what my knee is going to be like for me."

Most of the veteran Cowboys, including the receivers and running back Emmitt Smith, are at Valley Ranch for the workouts that go through Thursday. The only no-nos were linebacker Darren Hambrick, defensive back Phillip Sparks and receiver Carl Pickens.

Hambrick, who led the Cowboys in tackles last season, and Sparks are both unhappy with their contracts. Pickens, signed earlier this month by Dallas as a third-down possession receiver, has a hamstring injury and apparently is reconsidering his future.

Thoms qualifies for state

LEVELLAND — Miami senior Jarrell Thoms has qualified for the Class 1A state track meet by placing second in the 400 at last weekend's regionals at Levelland.

Thoms, who was timed at 50.21, was the runnerup behind Iraan's Swen Swenson (49.41). He joins White Deer's Drew Hodges as the only Pampa-area athlete to advance to the state meet May 11-12 in Austin. Hodges placed second in the pole vault at the Levelland regionals.

Thoms, the son of Miami teachers Keith and Sharon Morris, holds the school record in the 400. Thoms broke the school record the last four times he competed. He was the only athlete from a Region 1 six-man school to qualify for state. At regionals, he competed against bigger schools like Iraan, which had fielded a 27-member squad. That's more than Miami's junior and senior class combined.

Thoms' dad, Byron, was a White Deer native and ran track at West Texas A&M in the late 60's. He was killed in an oilfield accident several years ago.

Jarrell is the grandson of Doris and Walter Thoms, formerly of White Deer, now living in Taylor. Horace and Mary Henley, former Pampa residents now living in Bastrop.

In other area results, Wheeler's Justin Chapman placed fifth in the 300 hurdles at Levelland.

In the girls division, Krisanne Davis of Groom was sixth in the triple jump.

Mets pick up much-needed win

NEW YORK (AP) — When Timo Perez's hard grounder hit Scott Elarton's foot, the New York Mets figured they'd been dealt another tough break.

Instead the ball went into left field, the go-ahead run scored and the Mets got a much-needed win.

"That's one of those plays that when you're playing bad, it goes right to the first baseman for an out," said Jay Payton, who scored on the sixth-inning play. "Maybe that's a good sign that things are turning around for us."

Mike Piazza capped the five-run inning with a three-run homer that helped Steve Trachsel get his first win with the Mets, 8-2 over the Houston Astros on Monday night.

"It was a little bit of relief, definitely," said Trachsel, who lost his first four starts with New York. "It was a little late coming, but hopefully I can build on it."

The Mets were relieved as well. After losing five of the final six games on a nine-game road trip, the NL champions came home with the worst record in the league.

The Mets entered as the lowest-scoring team in the majors with 81 runs in 24 games. The eight runs were the most for the Mets since beating Atlanta 9-4 in their home opener April 9.

"It was a good-looking game," manager Bobby Valentine said. "Lord knows we've had some bad-looking games in the last couple of weeks."

It took until the sixth inning for the Mets to break through against Elarton (3-3) in the only NL game of the day.

With the score tied at 1, Payton led off with a double. Elarton retired the next two hitters and looked like he would thwart yet another Mets rally — New York stranded eight runners in the first four innings.

But Benny Agbayani worked a walk after falling behind 1-2. Timo Perez followed with a hard single off Elarton's foot, scoring Payton with the tiebreaking run.

"It hit the pitcher's foot and everyone gasped," Valentine said. "When it went into left field, I think everyone relaxed."

An RBI single by Edgardo Alfonzo made it 3-1 and ended Elarton's night after 123 pitches.

"It's very frustrating when you can't finish innings," Astros manager Larry Dierker said. "He threw 59 pitches after two were out and then he's up to 123 and we're still in the sixth inning. He's got to find a way to be a little more efficient than that."

Piazza, ejected for the first time in his career during Sunday's 12-1 loss at St. Louis, let out his frustration with the Mets' recent slide with his eighth homer, off reliever Kent Bottenfield.

Trachsel, a disaster at the start of his Mets' career, had his best start of the season. He allowed one run and six hits in six innings to lower his ERA from 10.42 to 8.28. The right-hander, who signed a $7 million, two-year deal in the offseason with New York, struck out seven and walked one.

"I think he's been putting a little bit of pressure on himself," Piazza said. "This is good for him. He made the pitches when he needed to."

Even though it was only April 30, the win was important for the Mets, who moved within 4 1/2 games of Philadelphia in the NL East. No team has finished April more than five games back and made the playoffs since Detroit in 1987.

Notes: Astros OF Richard Hidalgo was scratched with a right groin pull. ... Mets 3B Robin Ventura returned to the lineup after missing the previous six games with tightness in his right hamstring. ... 1B Jeff Bagwell became the fifth player in franchise history to play 1,500 games with Houston.

Sheiks are back for another Derby try

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The sheiks are back at the Kentucky Derby, trying to win America's greatest race in a most un-American way.

Going against Derby tradition, the ruling Al Maktoum family of Dubai will send Express Tour into Saturday's Run for the Roses without a prep race in the United States.

"We understand all the horses in America have a traditional American prep, but we're happy with the way we're doing it," said Simon Crisford, racing manager for Godolphin Racing, Inc., operated by the Al Maktoum family.

"We've only tried this twice before, and you've got to give it a number of years before making any hard and fast judgments.

We're happy to do it from Dubai, and that's what the plan is."

The sheiks are 0-for-2, with Worldly Manner seventh in 1999 and China Visit and Curule finishing sixth and seventh, respectively, last year.

Canonero II was the last Derby winner who did not compete in a traditional 3-year-old prep, winning four times in Venezuela before beating Jim French in the '71 Derby.

Since then, every Derby has been won by a 3-year-old coming off races in preps such as the Arkansas, Florida and Santa Anita derbies, the Blue Grass Stakes and the Wood Memorial. By avoiding such races, many horsemen say, a thoroughbred is not seasoned enough to compete at the highest level.

Express Tour, though, may be Godolphin's strongest Derby entry, even though his only race this year was a win in the UAE Derby on March 24.
