

SECOND ROAD BOND VOTE CALLED

"Thar's gold in these here prairies."

Little romances of business development are no more illustrative of Pampa than the growth of the post-office.

For instance, the gross postal receipts:
1922—$6,130.09.
1925—$7,012.06.
1926—$20,244.04.
1927—$36,605.07.
1928—$42,279.79.
1929—$50,996.12.

For the first six months of this year, the gross postal receipts went to $28,323.25, indicating that this year will produce more than $60,000 in receipts, or a nice increase over 1929.

Back in 1922, the postmaster and one clerk were sufficient to handle the mails here. Today the postmaster has an assistant, twenty-one clerks and carriers, and a special delivery messenger. Formerly there were a rural route and a star route; now there are two rural routes and four star routes.

The post office payroll last year amounted to $33,930.80. This year, because of additions to the staff, it will reach about $40,000.

In 1923, postal money orders amounted to $33,962.65. During the first six months of 1930 the money order total was $266,822.08. There were 3,805 money orders issued this June.

Put it down that Pampa every year is showing increases in growth over preceding years. Every utility, school, church, and similar concern will back up this statement. There is no better proof of the stability of a community.

The fact that more than half a million dollars is sent out of Pampa annually through money orders should be food for thought. Much of this money goes to mail order houses. However, the percentage going to mail order concerns is not as large as might be imagined. A huge sum goes to finance corporations, GMAC, C. I. T., etc., to pay the installments on automobiles purchased locally.

We trust we will not be held in contempt of court for repeating one of Judge Ivy Duncan's fish stories. The judge recently made one of those frequent trips to the Red River country. While there he is alleged to have caught one of the biggest fishes seen this season. He held it up in full view as he stood on the bank of the river. But as in most fish tales, this "big one got away." The how of it is interesting. The judge put the beauty in a basket with a narrow mouth. But when he bent over to pick up some tackle, the great fish gave a lucky wiggle and shot out through the top of the basket and into the river. The judge will cease mourning in a few more days, his friends believe.

The privilege of the ballot was dearly won, so we will have to make the best of it. We are going to have too many elections, but there is nothing that can be done about it. On July 15 the Talley incorporation election will give the residents that community something to think about. The first primary comes on July 26. But before the primary we will vote July 22 on the $25,000 supplemental school bond issue. And on August 2 the $3,500,000 road bond issue will be defeated. Not long thereafter the desirable $2,000,000 road bond issue for district No. 5 will call residents of precincts 1, 2, and 3 to the polls. The second primary will be held in August.

Regardless of what the issue, voters should make it an axiom of their lives to vote if they are qualified. It is the only course for a true, democratic American who loves his country and its institutions.

Expert financiers say the depression is largely in the minds of the American people. That may be an insubstantial, weak stocks, weak grain quotations, weak minds.

BANK NEAR ENID IS HELD UP MIAMI TRAGEDY FACTS GIVEN

CLYDE COFFEE DRAGGED FOR BIG DISTANCE

Maddened Horse Was Beyond All Control

YOUNG SON IS NOT WITNESS

Funeral to Be Held This Afternoon at 6 o'Clock

How Clyde Coffee, 38, prominent Roberts county rancher, was dragged to death by a frightened and maddened bronco 6 miles east of Miami yesterday noon was vividly described this morning by his son, C. M. Coffee, 9, who witnessed part of the accident.

The last time the son saw his father alive was just before the boy went into the house to get his spurs and boots. While he was gone, it is believed that Mr. Coffee started to the pasture, drawing up his lariats as he went. About 100 yards from the corral, hoof-marks showed that the horse began bucking. It was estimated that he kept pitching for another 50 yards. Finally he dashed out into a weed-patch and stumbled over an old buggy-seat. This threw the horse and rider forward about 20 feet.

Foot Is Entangled
When the horse stumbled, Mr. Coffee jumped clear but his left foot became entangled in the lariats which he had not succeeded in drawing up before the animal began bucking. The horse then started out at a furious pace across the pasture, dragging the victim. Bruises on Mr. Coffee's body, which was brought to the G. C. Malone funeral home, showed that the rope was also caught around his chest.

When the boy came back to the corral, he noticed that his father was gone. He glanced out over the pasture and saw the frightened horse running wildly, dragging his father. The lad sprang to the saddle of his horse and tried to catch the fear-struck animal, but 15 minutes of riding proved fruitless, and the boy rode back to the house to get his mother. They got in their car and drove across the pasture as far as they could. When they reached the horse he was standing still and breathless. They estimated that the body was dragged three or four miles. After the saddle had been taken off the horse and the latter turned loose, the mother

Homer D. Wade Gives Resignation To Dallas Body

DALLAS, July 9. (AP)—Homer D. Wade's resignation as vice president and general manager of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce and the election of J. Ben Critz, mayor of Highland Park, Dallas civic worker and cotton merchant, to succeed him, were announced last night. Wade's resignation is effective August 1. Wade said he had no plans for the immediate future excepting that he expected to take a vacation, some thing he had not enjoyed for a number of years. He formerly was manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and prior to that, of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce.

RUNAWAY OKLAHOMA GIRL ON WAY BACK TO FARM, THOUGH ON SOMEWHAT CHANGED CONDITIONS

Father Promises to Take Her Out of Kitchen and Let Her Work in Field—Brother Has Say

Back to the solitude of an Oklahoma gotten farm, back to her 16 brothers and one sister and her step-mother, yesterday afternoon went Velma Swearingen, pretty 15-year-old blonde farm lass who left home July 4 because she had to cook for the huge family, and then walked most of the way from Erick to Pampa because she wouldn't trust the men who offered her rides.

RALLY TO PROVE PANHANDLE IS BEHIND CLINT SMALL IS PLAN OF AMARILLO SUPPORTERS FRIDAY

AMARILLO, July 9. (Special)—An all Panhandle rally for Senator Clint Small will be held in Amarillo Friday night of this week.

According to plans of the general campaign committee, assisted by the Small-for-Governor clubs in cities throughout the Panhandle territory, the rally will draw a crowd of thousands and will be the greatest political gathering in the history of this section.

Reports coming to Grover Hill, chairman of the Amarillo committee are to the effect that large delegations of Clint Small supporters will be on hand from every city and community throughout the Plains. Various delegations will bring bands.

Speakers of state-wide prominence will address the crowd, and two-minute talks will be made by prominent citizens from the various Panhandle cities represented.

The rally is being planned as a testimonial to Senator Small of the support which this section is giving him in his campaign for governor, and as an indication of the confidence which his Panhandle friends have in him.

The meeting will come at the close of a general gathering of farmers in Amarillo Friday for the program to be given by Secretary Hyde and Chairman Legge of the Farm Board, and it is expected that at least two thousand farmers will be in Amarillo and will remain over for the Small rally.

YOUNG MEN IN AFFAIR AT HUNTER, OKLA.

Hunter Institution Is Robbed of About $1,000

CUSTOMERS PUT IN BIG VAULT

Unmasked Pair Make Escape Toward Garber

ENID, Okla., July 9. (AP)—The bank of Hunter, 14 miles northeast of here, was robbed today by two unmasked men who herded officials and four customers and escaped in a walking coupe with approximately $1,000 in currency.

One of the officials was able to give the alarm but due to confusion outside, the robbers, both apparently in their late teens had little difficulty in getting out of town. They drove eastward, toward Garber.

Motorcycle Cop Captures Robber, Recovers Money

NEW ORLEANS, July 9. (AP)—A lone motorcycle policeman today braved the fire of bank robbers and brought down one of them with the butt of his revolver near the Jefferson race track and recovered two sacks of money.

Two hooded bandits with a third sitting at the wheel of a waiting automobile outside held up customers and employees of the Freret street branch of the Interstate Bank and Trust company, scooped up all of the money in sight and sped away in the direction of Jefferson parish.

Police flashed a description of the robber car and within a few minutes state highway policeman Lionel Escude saw it sweep by him on the Jefferson highway. Mounting his motorcycle he gave chase and within a few yards of the car, opened fire with his revolver while racing fifty miles an hour.

The bandits returned the fire with shotgun and revolver until both bandits and policeman had exhausted their ammunition. The policeman then attempted to board the car and the robbers leaped out and started running towards the woods.

Jumping from his motorcycle, Policeman Escude pounced them on foot and overtook one of the men, whom he felled with a blow from the butt of his pistol. The other two escaped to the woods.

Calhoun Not to Make Race For Present Position

ABILENE, July 9. (AP)—Clem Calhoun, appointed district attorney of the 84th district by Governor Mody, today offered himself to medical experts to be used in experimenting for possible cures for the mysterious disease.

He said he had never been a candidate for re-election, although his friends in four or five counties had petitioned the county chairmen to place his name on the ballots.

He said he had no intention of resigning before his term was up.

OKLAHOMA CITY VICTIMS OF "JAKE" OFFER TO PARTICIPATE IN EXPERIMENTS BY DOCTORS

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 9. (AP)—Two victims of "jake" paralysis, crippled since February, today offered themselves to medical experts to be used in experimenting for possible cures for the mysterious disease.

One, a druggist, has no use of his legs, and his hands also are affected. The other's feet are paralyzed and he has been unable to work for four months.

Until research, which has isolated to the satisfaction of investigators a drug known as tricesyl as cause of the paralysis, is completed, it is probable the volunteer victims will not be used.

Every resource of the state has been thrown behind efforts of Dr. H. A. Shoemaker, Dr. L. A. Turley, and Dr. W. T. Bowden, Oklahoma City medical experts, to discover exact cause of the paralysis which affected approximately 600 men and women here. Jamaica ginger consumption preceded most of the cases.

AUGUST 9 IS DATE DECIDED FOR ELECTION

Bigger Issue Voting Will Be Held August 2

SMALLER PLAN MOST FAVORED

Many Petitioners to Vote Against Huge Project

August 9 was set by county commissioners late yesterday as the date for an election to be held in Road District No. 5 to determine whether or not the bonds of the district shall be issued in the sum of $2,000,000 for the purpose of purchasing and constructing roads.

Thus within a single week, citizens of precincts Nos. 1, 2, and 3 which comprise road district No. 5, will vote in two most unusual and seemingly contradictory elections, the first of which will be held August 2 to determine whether $3,500,000 in bonds shall be issued to construct roads in the county.

Testimony introduced at the hearing Monday indicates that voters in the recently created road district will vote against the larger issue and in favor of the smaller.

If the first or county-wide issue is approved at the polls by a majority of voters, the second election cannot be held. County commissioners and citizens throughout the county predicted at a meeting of the court Monday that the huge issue would be defeated. If the second election is held, it is believed that it will be the first time in Texas that citizens of a community will vote in two road bond elections held within a week of each other.

The three-precinct plan to pave roads is favored by Commissioners Lewis O. Cox, Tom Kirby, and Judge Ivy E. Duncan, and was sponsored by the Pampa Board of City Development and many citizens of the district who signed a petition for the election. Citizens of McLean and Alameda signed the petition for the $3,500,000 bond election. It is reported that most of those who signed the petition calling the big bond election will vote against the issue.

Should the two million dollar plan be approved, $380,000 will be used to take up the outstanding paving indebtedness on bonds already issued in precinct 2. The bonds would bear interest at the rate of 5 1/2 per cent.

Practical Uses for Airplanes of Local Owners Basis of Purchase

Airplanes owned by citizens of this community are used for practical purposes, and not as toys, or as novelties.

This morning, Frank Shaw, pilot of his American Eagle, and a Texas as company employe, were flying low over the Texas company pipeline between here and Wichita Falls in search of a leak. It was believed the leak will be found between here and Electra, but if not, the line between Electra and Fort Worth will be scanned.

Almost every day the Cree and Hoover Ryan B-7, piloted by "Dutch" Bartgis, flies to Hutchinson and Moore counties, where the drilling contractors have wells. Yesterday, a piece of drilling machinery at one of the Moore county wells snapped. Mr. Cree was notified and he hopped in his ship, flew to the location, then to Berger where it was repaired and back to the well.

Dr. J. C. McKean, as far as can be learned, is the only physician in Texas who files his own plane while making calls. His longest flight to see a patient was made this last spring when he flew to West Virginia to visit a patient, the mother of one of his friends.

Almost every week, Dr. McKean flies to the McKean and Connor hospitals at Wink and at Hobbs. He visits patients scattered all over West Texas, and considers it all in the days work. Dr. McKean bought his ship for business, the pleasure element being secondary.

J. M. Simpson of Amarillo and R. E. Keiffer, Dallas, representing Clarke & Courts, Galveston and Dallas, transacted business here yesterday.

Merchants Have Bargain Counters Ready for Crowds

Pampa merchants are "all set" for what they believe will be Pampa's biggest Dollar Day. Merchandise is being arranged this afternoon and tonight on special counters and will be ready tomorrow morning for early shoppers.

Much more merchandise is being offered this time and new low prices will be in effect. A survey of the stores shows that nearly everything for the family can be purchased for one-dollar or on the larger items prices have been reduced one dollar.

Special invitations have been extended to people outside Pampa to come to town tomorrow and spend the day. These big bargain days are becoming more popular each month and it is the plans of Pampa merchants to make the bargains so attractive each month that its popularity will grow.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Uncle Sam will pay for the pressing of his employees' pants when they are traveling for him but not for the cleaning of their hats. Comptroller General McCarl has disallowed an expense account of $1.50 over a hat, construing it as outside the accepted principle of $1.25 a week for cleaning and pressing clothes.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

HOWARD LAKE, Ariz., July 9. (AP)—Lightning killed Macedonio Ortega, 80, a ranch house caretaker here yesterday. Two men sitting on either side of him were unharmed.

CANDIDATE IS KILLED

HUNTSVILLE, July 9. (AP)—Earl R. Swanger, 37, Huntsville attorney, was killed last night when his automobile fell from the Harmon Creek bridge, 8 miles from here. Swanger was a candidate for district attorney and had been in Trinity county electioneering. The wreck, 50 feet beneath the bridge, and Swanger's body were found today.

Swanger was formerly county attorney of Leon county.

NEW ORLEANS BANK ROBBED

NEW ORLEANS, July 9. (AP)—Three men held up the Freret street branch of the Interstate bank today and escaped with all of the money in sight. Bank clerks were checking to determine the loss. Two men entered the bank, pointing revolvers while a third sat at the steering wheel of an automobile for the getaway.

Miss Allene Pickens of Panhandle was in Pampa yesterday.

CHAPTER I
It was a stormy night in mid-January. The pavements were swept by drenching sheets of rain, and a piercing wind was blowing.

In that cosmopolitan corner of New York called Greenwich Village the streets were almost deserted by 10 o'clock. From behind the closed blinds of the little cafes and drinking shops came the bursts of music and laughter.

Halfway down the narrow street, Bastien Dumont, tumbling down the steps leading to the Cafe Turc and pushing open the door was met with a twang of mandolin and a light, gay tenor voice singing "Funiculi, Funicula."

Bastien was Anglo-French, one of a score of struggling artists who frequented the little cafe. The place was something like a club for the indigent who would sip the wine of life, but who must have it cheap.

There were two rooms at the Cafe Turc—the first, just below the level of the street, small and low ceiled, with the bar, the coffee urns, and a reed-bed of bottles on the left; the second a few steps lower still, much larger, equally low in pitch, with sanded floor and some dozen tables, big and little, ranged round the walls. These walls displayed a collection of sketches, legacies from various artists.

One night a great man had sat there and laughed over his wine, and had turned and drawn a girl's head on the wall behind him. His had been a name to conjure with.

At the door the young man paused, blinking, and expelling a grateful breath.

"Peste, what a night!" he exclaimed.

IS HIGHWAY FINANCING AN ISSUE: The entrance of Ross Sterling into the gubernatorial race was in one respect unfortunate. It tended to make his statewide bond plan for highway paving an issue before the time was ripe for such a discussion.

About 30 states, we believe, have tried the bond plan. But the chance of this plan to be studied, impartially and specifically in connection with a hot Texas campaign is negligible. In a sense, the Sterling plan involves the man himself, and the policy of the highway commission, rather than the merits of the subject.

The people of Texas are not yet ready to place $350,000,000 in the hands of a commission of three men, appointed by the governor. They know the likelihood of mal-administration, and they realize the cost over a long period of retiring those bonds, with interest.

At the same time, as Senator Small said recently, it is recognized that some plan should be devised to take the road tax burden off people who only indirectly benefit. In about 225 Texas counties, ad valorem taxes are being levied to pay for the counties' portion of paving.

When this burden is lifted and the state begins doing all paying on "through" roads, the question of a refund to those counties which by reason of having already paved will have no chance to receive additional concrete will be important.

Defeat of Sterling will not necessarily bury all proposals to improve the highway paving procedure in Texas. When the people understand the inequalities of the present system, they will demand a change, but not the Sterling plan as he has outlined it.

FOURTEEN GOOD POINTS

A sales manager for a nationally known men's wear product has fourteen points by which, he tells his sales force, any man can win promotion as fast as he deserves it. The fourteen points can be applied by most individuals to the job that they have.

- 1—Look to your own job and see that it is being done better than before.
2—Forget the clock.
3—Worry less about your troubles.
4—Worry more about how to give the customer resale ideas.
5—Cultivate confidence by having confidence in the house and in yourself.
6—Do more than you are paid for.
7—If you can't find romance and interest in your job, and if you can't really fall in love with it—then you are in the wrong job.
8—Follow up calls you made with some intelligent letters based on a knowledge of the customer's business and what he is trying to accomplish.
9—The more attention you pay to your job after the whistle blows the more attention you will receive when promotions are being handed out.
10—Give freely of your ideas to the men you are paid to call upon.
11—Don't be too busy to read.
12—Keep fit in health.
13—Study your own job.
14—Help other men in your own organization.

Civic leaders at Lubbock have a notion that a friendly spirit displayed by taxi drivers, filling station operatives, hotel clerks, and just casual citizens on the streets will go a long way toward getting across the message that Lubbock is a friendly city.

Lubbock held a "Howdy, Stranger" banquet the other evening at which this idea was advanced and expounded. More than 125 employees of filling stations, cafes, tourist parks, hotels, drug stores and others were guests of the chamber of commerce.

"The Friendly City" is a much better municipal slogan than "The Hub of the Plains"—providing, of course, it is backed up by suitable action and practices.

The average visitor to a city gets his impressions largely from those with whom he comes in contact—filling station attendants, soda jerkers, hotel employees, traffic cops, and the like. If he meets with discourtesy from one or more of these heralds of civic courtesy he is apt to go sour on the entire city.

Friendliness costs nothing. It is easier to be friendly than to be grouchy. A person who is habitually grouchy or short-spoken has no business in a position where he must meet the public. The public, goodness knows is very trying at times, but it has a right to expect courteous treatment at the hands of those who are hired to wait upon its wants.

It's a good idea Lubbock has taken up, and one that should be developed at other places.—Abilene News.

WOULD YOU RISK BLINDNESS TO ESCAPE THE DEATH CHAIR?

SANTA FE, N. M., July 9. — A condemned Chinese murderer named Woo Dak San is on the verge of escaping the electric chair in one of the most unusual ways ever recorded—but he isn't altogether sure that he wants to do it. Woo Dak San is under sentence to be electrocuted for killing Yee Foo, a merchant of Silver City, N. M., back in 1926.

Specialists making a study of trachoma, the painful eye infection of southwestern Indians which often causes blindness, have asked the state to spare his life on condition that he let them make tests on him. By these tests, they believe, they can provide a cure.

Woo Dak San is willing—provided he can be assured that he will not lose his sight.

"It is better to be dead than blind," he says. Prison officials say he would prefer to go to the electric chair rather than be blinded by the experiments the scientists want to make. The doctors, however, say that the disease would not be allowed to go far enough to inflict permanent injury.

Even if Woo Dak San finally agrees to the experiment, Warden P. J. Dugan of the state prison may object. He is afraid other prisoners may be infected if the germ is introduced into the penitentiary. Apparently, however, the condemned Chinese will accept and the work will go forward. He has asked to have the whole work described to him and is deeply interested—except that he has a mortal fear of blindness. If the doctors can satisfy him on that score, it is believed he will agree to their proposal—and will, thereby, escape the electric chair.

B. & P. W. Club to Continue Semi-Monthly Meeting This Summer

The Business and Professional Women's club will continue holding its semi-monthly meetings through the summer months, contrary to previous plans, according to the decision of the club at a special meeting held last night at Pampa tea room. The regular sessions will be held, however, at the home of Mrs. W. C. Mitchell, president, instead of downtown, with each meeting lasting only an hour and a half.

Mrs. Mitchell presided last night for the first time since her election to succeed Mrs. Grace Higgins, who recently completed more than a year as head of the club. In assuming the duties of the chair, the new president announced that committees for the new year's activities would be formed at a meeting of the executive board in the immediate future.

With the new administration there was initiated a custom to be followed, according to plans of the members, throughout the coming year—that of answering roll call with a designated quotation. Excerpts from miscellaneous readings were quoted in the first roll call. Lines from Shakespeare will be quoted at the next meeting.

The following members were present: Mrs. Christine Smith, Mrs. E. E. McNutt, Mrs. Artie M. Shepard, Mrs. H. A. McDonald, Mrs. Roy Chisum, Mrs. Ernest Gee, Mrs. Katherine Sadler, Miss Wilma Behrends, Miss Lucille Saunders, Miss Aurelia Miller, Miss Bernice Shisholm, Miss Wilma Singletary, Miss Madeline Tierpley, Miss Mabel Davy, and Miss Gladys Payne. ### Wedding of Heiress Thrills English Audience

LONDON, July 9. (P)—Wedding fans had one of the biggest thrills in years today when Maysie Gasque, 20-year-old American heiress, daughter of the late Clarence W. Gasque, director of Woolworth's in England, became the bride of John Roland Robinson, a British barrister, at fashionable St. Margaret's church.
The bride wore the longest train and had the largest bridal retinue of any bride married in recent years at St. Margaret's where all persons of prominence in England seek to be wedded.

The bride's uncle, Hubert Templeton of New York, came to London especially to give the bride away.
After an elaborate reception at "The Elms," the home of the bride's mother, the young couple left by airplane for Paris on a honeymoon trip of several months.

A motor car, the interior furnished in the style of Louis XVI drawing room, with easy chairs and table, is to carry the newlyweds over the continent.

Lindbergh's Baby Named Charles, Jr.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., July 9. (P)—The name is Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

A young man who was born June 22 and has thrived marvelously for more than two weeks without a name, now has one.

A statement issued from the home of his grandfather, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, where he was born, said that the baby's parents had decided to call him after his father.

He Neglected Too Long to Watch for Future Shadow

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., July 9. (P)—Loy Shipman, jailed as a thief, had forgotten that his figure isn't as slim and boyish as it used to be. So it happened that Sheriff H. A. Zickerfoose, making his rounds of the Upshur county jail found an embarrassed Shipman, swathed in blankets, trying to look as if he didn't know he was caught fast by the cell window bars through which he had attempted to escape.
Shipman had discarded his clothing, the better to squeeze through the small space between the bars. Fellow prisoners wrapped him in blankets to protect him against the chill air until help arrived. The bars had to be pried apart before Shipman could be freed.

W. E. Taylor of Amarillo, representing the Central Shoe company, was in Pampa yesterday.

little knobs over the ears. Some confine the ends with fancy combs at the nape of the neck.
If the hair is long enough, the fortunate possessors pin it in a simple knot. Impatient souls just rush to the barber and go back to the comfort of the bob once more.
At any evening affair the honors are almost evenly divided between the bobs and the "little Evas." The bobs generally are more simply gowned, while the half-length locks seem to call for trailing necklaces and dangling ear-rings.

Legion Band to Go to Alanreed

Members of the American Legion band will meet at the Legion hall, in full uniform, at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening. Transportation will be furnished to Alanreed where the band will play for a political rally to be held there.

Mrs. A. J. Crawford Dies Last Night

Mrs. A. J. Crawford, 26, died last night in a local hospital after an illness of two weeks. She lived at the Coltono plant No. 77. An infant born to Mr. and Mrs. Crawford in the hospital ten days ago died at birth. Funeral arrangements have not been announced. The body is at the G. C. Malone funeral home.
Mrs. Crawford is survived by her husband, a daughter, Virginia, aged three, and Gordon, a son, aged one year; also her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Johnson Winnboro, La., and five sisters and two brothers.

"Tag Day" Will Be Library Plan

At a meeting of the library association Monday, it was decided to designate the date of the election, July 26, as "tag" day and a part of the campaign for securing funds for the library. Mrs. H. G. Twiford was elected chairman of the committee that will arrange the details of "tag" day, with Mrs. Ivy Duncan and Mrs. T. M. Ashley.
The report of the treasurer was submitted by Mrs. D. H. Truhitte, as was the report of the librarian, Mrs. James Todd.
It was decided to keep several pieces of the plastic ware that has been on display at Wade's, on exhibit at Mitchell's and at the Pampa Electric company.
A. M. Teed will leave tomorrow for Topeka, Kansas. He will be accompanied on his return by Mrs. Teed, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stark, and friends in Topeka.

MARANVILLE GROWING OLD VERY SLOWLY

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer One reason why the Boston Braves are still in the thick of the National League battle is to be found in 150-odd pounds of unadulterated shortstop bearing the imposing name of Walter James Vincent Maranville...

When he was one of the main cogs of Boston's amazing team of 1914 his batting average was only .246 and his mark for his 18 major league years is .267, but this season he is hitting above the .300 mark and is fielding right along with the league's best...

Completing the National League's day, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia made it a bad day for the first division. The Phillies, with Phil Collins on the mound, humbled the New York Giants, 8 to 1, pounding three pitchers for 14 hits while "Shufflin' Phil" held the Giants to ten thoroughly scattered blows...

Washington continued to lead the American league parade with its ninth straight victory. The Senators, already in first place by several percentage points, beat out the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 5, and finally gained a tie with the Athletics for the top where games are concerned...

Fred Marberry won his fifth game in Washington's streak of 17 victories in 18 games and made it 16 Senator pitchers to go the route in that time. Heinie Manush aided him with a homer that produced the deciding runs. George Walberg proved his sore arm something of a myth against the Yankees in the first game, holding them to three hits for a 4 to 0 triumph...

Chicago's White Sox rose a notch in the American league standing, going from seventh place to sixth as Ted Lyons gave them a 3 to 2 victory over Detroit while the St. Louis Browns were taking a 12 to 6 beating at the hands of the Cleveland Indians.

Chicago Cubs pitcher who died a month ago. E. F. Adams made a business trip to Amarillo Monday.

Heat Records in Northwest Broken

CHICAGO, July 9. (P)—The scorching heat today had melted away north and middle western temperature records of long standing...

There were three deaths for which the heat was held responsible. Temperatures above the 100 degree mark were reached in many cities with Miles City, Mont., blistering under a 106-degree record...

DETROIT MAN IS SHOT TO DEATH AT SALOON

DETROIT, July 9. (P)—A man identified as Louis Candea, former hotel proprietor, was shot to death in a saloon on West Jefferson avenue in Ecorse at 5 a. m., today. The slayer escaped.

John Belsord, described by police as owner of the place said that Candea quarreled with an unidentified man and that the other man beat him to the draw. Belsord was wounded in the hand. He was held as a material witness.

George Knox and Carl Brashears were in Borger Tuesday.

J. M. McDonald made a business trip to McLean Tuesday.

Mrs. Garnett Allday has taken employment as cashier with the L. T. Hill company.

MAGNOLIA NINE SCHEDULED TO PLAY IN AMARILLO TOURNEY ON SUNDAY—OPPONENT UNCERTAIN

The Magnolias will play in the Sunday game of the Amarillo tournament, it was announced last night by officials. This and the final games are considered the most important of the series which by elimination will produce a champion team of the Panhandle. About 14 teams are entered in the tournament...

MANAGER USES PSYCHOLOGY; TINCUP PUTS ARM ON EDGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (P)—Vincent Ben Tincup, the Cherokee chief, is one of the two parts of a very good act that Al Sothoron, manager of the Colonels, has put on here.

The other is in the direction which pushed Louisville into the lead of the American association, following a long string of misfortunes for the club.

Last year Tincup, who admits he is at least 39, looked about as useful as a worn-out shoe. His aging someone conquered in only seven games and he pitched in 33.

The Colonels, who finished in fifth place, figured to cut out Ben loose for younger talent. But Sothoron did some psychological experimenting that made Tincup a winner.

Ben didn't get into any kind of a ball game while conditioning in the south and was in Louisville ten days before he asked Sothoron to work him. Al sent him against Cincinnati's Reds with the score tied in the seventh and the chief beat the Reds in the eleventh.

ARC LIGHTS ARE BOON TO LEFTY STEIN

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer It seems no time at all since the Waco Cubs were doing their best to dispose of Harold "Lefty" Stein. The southpaw had lost nine straight starts and had come to be considered as just so much excess baggage on the Cubs pitching staff.

Last night it was the San Antonio Indians who came under the southpaw's nocturnal spell. Pitching his club's farewell home appearance for eleven days, Stein limited the tribesmen to four hits and defeated them, 15 to 3. It was his fourth straight victory under the arc lights.

Where the Indians could do nothing with Ralph, the Cubs pounded three visiting slabsters merrily. Included among their 17 raps off Smith, Darrow, and Hargrove were homers by Bischoff and Stuvengen and a brace of doubles by Piet.

The Wichita Falls Spudders went into first place by the simple expedient of remaining idle while the Beaumont Exporters knocked Houston off the second straight day, 16 to 4. Jimmy Walkup rang up his second straight triumph for the Shippers, holding the Bisons to nine well scattered knocks while his supporting cast romped on Stout, Rose, and Lingier for 19 safeties.

Eddie Brown's big bat propelled the Fort Worth Panthers to another of their monotonous string of victories over Dallas, 7 to 3. The Steer cast-off banged a pair of doubles and two singles to drive in four runs against his former mates and scored once himself.

Mack Egan, meanwhile, limited the herd to four hits.

Flying Tackle Is Again Effective

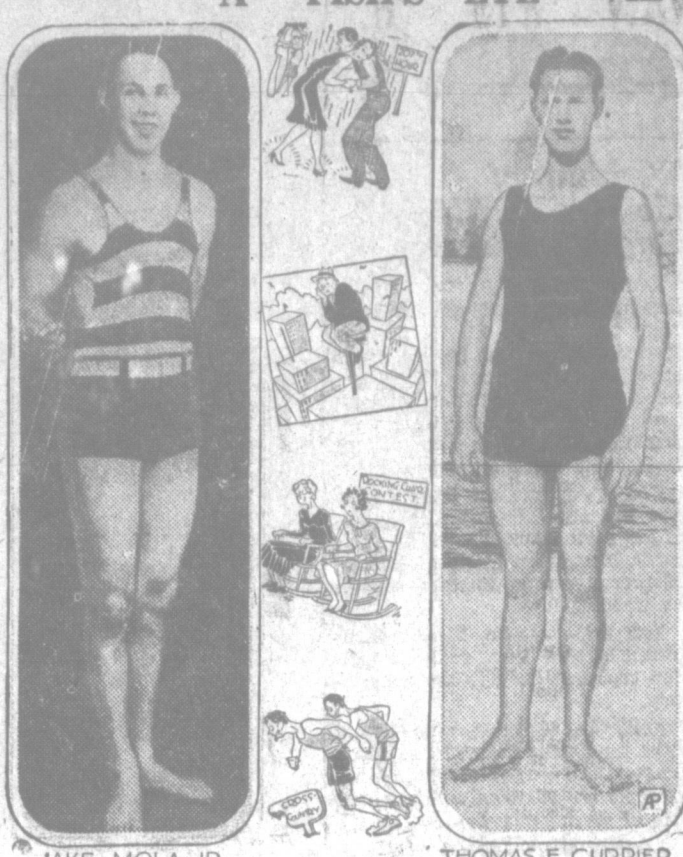

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9. (P)—Gus Sonnenberg's flying tackle last night added another victim to his string of wrestling victories, Joe de Vido, giant Italian, going down to defeat.

Sonnenberg, recognized in many states as the heavyweight wrestling champion, won the first fall in 32 minutes, and the second in ten minutes.

Sonnenberg weighed 200; De Vido 250.

CARLSON'S CHILD BORN ROCKFORD, Ill., July 9. (P)—A girl was born yesterday to Mrs. Eva Carlson, widow of Hal Carlson, Chicago.

TO SEE AMERICA FROM A "FISH'S EYE" VIEW

Jake Mola, Jr. (left) and Thomas E. Currier (right) plan to start July 4 from Livingston, Mont., and swim to New Orleans in two daily stretches of 4-hours.

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—The flag pole sitters and the marathon dancers haven't found all of the side entrances to the athletic hall of fame. A baker's boy from the south and a Montana farmer have found a brand new one.

Their plan is to swim from the top to the bottom of the United States, by way of three great rivers. Jake Mola, Jr., of Walnut Park, Calif., and Thomas E. Currier of Livingston, Mont., conceived this notion. The scheme is to take the voyage in daily laps of 25 to 30 miles from Livingston to New Orleans, for a total distance of 3500 miles.

Their aquatic trek, which is planned to start July 4 with a dive from a 40-foot bridge which spans the Yellowstone near Livingston, will lead them down that river into the Missouri river, and finally into the Mississippi.

If the pair successfully negotiate the swirling, treacherous currents of the Yellowstone, they will head into the turbulent Missouri around Buford, N. D.

After they have said goodbye to Montana, birthplace of rivers, they will breast the Missouri in its meanders over or around North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri.

At St. Louis they will plunge into the Mississippi to swim down the muddy waters that roll boundary for six states—Illinois, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Two four-hour stretches daily is the swimming arrangement. The trip is expected to require 110 days. Plans call for a third party to accompany in a motor boat, carrying camping outfit and supplies.

Currier, 29, and Mola, 19, were graduated from high school in Livingston last year, and Mola later moved to California. Each is an experienced river swimmer.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Voss and son, Floyd, returned yesterday from a four-day outing at Lake Patline near Quannah.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Renshaw returned yesterday from a trip to Hennessy, Okla., where they visited Miss Margaret Renshaw, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stalder.

Magnolia Will Play LeFors Here This Afternoon

The fourth baseball game between the Magnolias and the LeFors Coltex Gasoliers will be played this afternoon at 5:30 at Magnolia park at the end of East Kingsmill avenue.

In a July 4 tilt, the Magnolias barely managed to defeat the Coltexans. The final score was 4 to 3. Batteries will be: Magnolia, Blankenship, Varnell and Bozeman; Coltex, Ross and Flynn.

The Mags have won two games from Coltex and lost one. The Gasoliers state that they will make a desperate attempt to wrest the baseball supremacy of this section from Magnolia.

Claiming Record In Golf Score

INDIANAPOLIS, July 9. (P)—Herbert Uebels, professional at the Pleasant Run golf club here, today claimed a new world's record for eighteen holes in the difficult Pleasant Run course, boasting a score of 60, and a record of one eagle, eleven birdies, and an even par on the other six holes.

Although a score of 55 was once made by George Duncan on a short Swiss course, Uebels' score, made late yesterday, was believed to be world's record for a links spread out over 9,044 yards. The score was 13 under par. Uebels played in a foursome.

Uebels, shooting with machine like precision, took twenty-nine strokes on the outward nine and took two more on the incoming trip.

His card and par for the course: Par out 445 435 244-56; Uebels 244 224 332-26; Par in 435 354 446-37-73; Uebels 432 244 434-31-60.

Summer Smiles Contest May Close Sunday—New Names Added to List

Editor, The News: For reasons hereinafter mentioned, the committee, appointed by you to judge the smiles of Pampa business and professional people, strongly recommends that the Summer Smiles contest close Saturday and that the name of the prize-winner and our final report be published in Sunday's issue of The News. The committee herewith submits a revised list of those who smile. Your attention is called to the fact that some of the names included in the list published last week are missing today and that new names are added.

Although the five-dollar prize which you offered has demoralized some of our best smiles, especially those of obvious Scotch ancestry, hopes of winning the prize have changed the direction of wrinkles in many a face. The contest has corrupted the smiles of at least two persons. Their smiles have become strangely metallic. Smiles on the face of others have turned to smirks. Still others who desire to look cheerful apparently cannot distinguish between a smile and a sneer, but of course we can't blame them because it is not their fault that they have lately learned to smile.

Monday was a hard day on smiles and our blue pencil went through many a name on our list. It is our belief that those who smiled through that heat and the explosions of the Fourth and the flaming atmosphere of Monday are heroes. We urge that the contest close Saturday because we are afraid that those who smile unconsciously will become conscious of their grins, thereby developing an insipid, mechanical smile. However, we suggest that another contest be held in August and that the prize be something besides money. We find that there is a certain amount of commercialism attached to the practice of smiling for dollars—something repugnant about it. Also, we have learned that some exponents of our best smiles have dropped the smiling habit because they fear somebody might think they had the prize in mind.

The new names on the list follow: Miss Leora Kinard, R. C. Wilson, Clarence Barrett, Otis Clingman, Clyde Patheas, Dr. H. H. Hicks, Dr. John V. McCallister, "Connie" Conwell. Those on last week's list whose

New Orleans Fireman Leaps to Death

NEW ORLEANS, July 9. (AP)—Bennie Getz, city fireman on sick leave, leaped to his death from a 12-story window in the veterans bureau of the Masonic temple building during the morning rush hour today.

The body crashed through the top of a parked truck and missed the crowded sidewalk by only a few feet.

Getz had applied to the veterans' bureau for hospitalization and a doctor was to have examined him this morning. Bureau officials said he came into the office and without saying a word walked over to the open window and jumped out. He left a widow and stepson and was 40 years old.

Bonds Are Voted

TAYLOR, July 9. (AP)—A bond issue of $100,000 to provide a municipal sanitary system was voted here yesterday. The vote was 233 to 43. The money may be used either to purchase the present system, which is privately operated, or in the construction of new facilities.

names were not marked out, that is, those who have consistently smiled during the week follow:

Mrs. Sarah Brown, Arthur Teed, Clarence Kennedy, Charles Thut, E. P. Hollingshead, Dr. G. H. Wallace, Dr. Walter Purviance, Clyde Oswalt, Brownie Akers, and Mrs. Frank Allison.

The order in which the names appear does not indicate the quality of the smile and the score of its possessor.

She Can Fly 200 Miles an Hour?

Will she be the next speed queen of the air? Experts say she has an excellent chance to break the world's record for women now held by Amelia Earhart, and Florence Lowe Barnes, famous Los Angeles aviatrix, plans to have a try at it, using her new "mystery monoplane" which has a speed rating of 200 miles an hour. Miss Earhart's record set on the same measured course which Mrs. Barnes will fly, is 184.5 an hour.

VOSS washer advertisement with image of the machine and text: 'Finally! a washer that cleans by the HAND WASHING METHOD the New VOSS now on display'

Only VOSS washers have a Floating Agitator—the most advanced feature of the modern washer

The first and only washer to satisfy the demand of American women for a washer that cleans as gently and efficiently as though the clothes were washed by hand.

This revolutionary improvement is accomplished by means of the marvelous Floating Agitator, a device which duplicates exactly the hand washing method—that washes the natural way, in the clean, sudsy water at the top of the tub, away from the dirt, which settles to the bottom.

In a Voss Washer your finest things are washed as gently and safely as though done by your own hands—and the heaviest, dirtiest garments are washed cleaner and quicker than has ever before been possible in a washing machine.

The VOSS Floating Agitator is a patented device, and until the U. S. basic patent expires it will be obtainable ONLY in VOSS Washers.

Why be satisfied with anything less than the most advanced washer, particularly when you can buy the new VOSS, the only washer that cleans by the hand washing method, for only $127.50. Terms.

Day Nursery Is Badly Needed, Rotarians Told

The need for the establishing of a day nursery in Pampa was explained by Mrs. DeLea Vicars to members of the Rotary club at its noon meeting today. Steps are being taken to raise money and provide a suitable home and caretaker for such a nursery.

Mrs. Vicars explained the situation which exists in Pampa as being alarming. Several widows, who will not accept charity, will be allowed to work and earn a proper living if such a nursery as is being planned is established to provide a place to leave children.

J. E. Murfee gave a short report of the international Rotary convention at Chicago, which he attended.

Visitors at the luncheon today were "Pop" Frazier, "Polly" Parrot, A. M. Clarity and M. J. Adams. Visiting Rotarians were H. J. Hornley of McPherson, Kans., and P. I. Crum of Panhandle.

Romance of Shop Girl Is Theme of Picture at Rex

The romance of a shop girl and her "boy friend," played against a variegated setting that ranges from a Third-avenue tenement to an elaborate roof bungalow and a gorgeously modernistic modiste's establishment, and further adorned with plenty of delightful comedy and half a dozen of the season's catchiest songs—that, in a nutshell, is "The Big Party," John Bylstone's newest Fox Movietone production, at the Rex today only.

The picture opens at the music counter of a "five and dime" store, where Kitty and Flo demonstrate the current melodies. Kitty is discharged for rudeness to a masher.

The boys across the court pay a visit that evening, bringing a third youth, Jack Hunter, who is a window trimmer in an exclusive modiste's establishment. Jack and Kitty promptly "fall" for one another, much to the amusement of the others, and the former secures Kitty a new job at the shop where he works.

Kitty is again fired for wearing a customer's dress, but Wetherby, the financial backer of the shop, intercedes and re-engages her to act as hostess to out of town buyers for the company. Jack suspects Wetherby's intentions, and has a bitter quarrel with Kitty when she is installed in an elaborate roof bungalow.

"The Big Party," from which the picture takes its name, is held in the bungalow in celebration of the event, and after a riotous evening, Wetherby remains after the others have left. Kitty flares up at the suggestion that he stay all night, and runs away into startling complications.

Dixie Lee, the piquant little blonde who portrays the role of Kitty, is co-featured with Sue Carol and Walter Catlett. The supporting cast includes Frank Albertson, Richard Keene and "Whispering" Jack Smith, Charles Judels, Douglas Gilmore, Ika Chase, Elizabeth Patterson and Dorothy Brown.

Worley-Reynolds Well Completed

Shamrock Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Worley-Reynolds, section 84, block 3, was brought in for an initial production of 120 barrels per day. The well is just south of the Wilcox pool. It is located in the northeast corner of the west 80 acres of the southeast quarter of section 84.

Cockrell-McIlroy shot its No. 6 Archer, section 139, block 3, with 100 quarts yesterday. The well produced 231 quarts on the swab in nine hours. This well is two miles west of Pampa.

CHICAGO, July 9. —Fresh upturns in wheat prices today followed a hesitant start. Extreme high temperatures and widespread dearth of rain, impairing spring wheat crop prospects, acted as more than a counterbalance for lagging European quotations, and so too did indication of a good export demand overnight.
Starting unchanged to 1-2c off, Chicago wheat showed a material all around advance later, corn displayed independent strength, opening 1-8 to 5-8c higher and subsequently continuing to mount. Oats were firm. Provisions declined.

Lively Drilling Race in Progress At Wells Just West of City Limits

Up to now, the Prairie Oil and Gas company is leading in a drilling race with the Cockrell-McIlroy Oil company in two wells adjoining the Talley addition on the Berger road.

Each well is being drilled with a Rotary, and the locations were made simultaneously. Cockrell-McIlroy's No. 1 Allam is drilling at 2,560 feet, while No. 1 Cary is drilling at 2,800. Both wells are offsets to Cockrell-McIlroy's No. 1 Castleberry just across the road to the north which is pumping 220 barrels per day.

Pay in the two wells are expected at 3,200 feet.

SNYDER, July 9. (AP)—An invitation has been extended to Arthur Hyde, secretary of agriculture, and Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, to attend a banquet of the West Texas Press association at Abilene Friday night. Both are to be at Amarillo that day and arrangements could be made to have them fly to Abilene.

CARDINAL VERY ILL
VATICAN CITY, July 9. (AP)—The condition of Cardinal Vanuttelli, aged 93, dean of the Sacred college, was so serious today that the end was expected at almost any time. He grew worse during the night and his fever increased. His lucidity of expression and calmness of mind, however, remained unimpaired this morning and he signed several routine documents.
Yesterday the cardinal received extreme unction and the apostolic benediction.

BEAR RAIDS ON STOCK BOTHERING RANCHMEN

GUNNISON, Colo., July 9. (AP)—Western ranchers, like Wall Street, are having their difficulties with bear raids on stock.
Arming themselves against the marauders which have killed several hundred sheep in the Gunnison river district, ranchers have killed nine of the attackers recently.
They have requested a hunter from the United States biological survey to help abate the nuisance.

It was first taken to a Miami funeral home and later in the afternoon brought to the G. C. Malone funeral home for plastic surgical treatment.

Funeral Late Today

Funeral services will be held at the First Baptist church of Miami at 6 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. Pennington, pastor of the church, and the Malone funeral home in charge.

Mr. Coffee is survived by his wife and three sons, C. M. Coffee, 9, Walter Coffee, 7, and Tom Coffee, 2.

Mrs. Coffee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gripp of Panhandle, prominent Carson county family. Other survivors include Mrs. Clyde Coffee, the victim's mother, four sisters, Miss Leo Coffee, and Miss Ada Coffee of Berger, Mrs. Harry Bier of Greeley, Colo., Mrs. J. A. McCauley of Lubbock, Norman Coffee, Berger, Lloyd Coffee, Reserve, N. M., and Bill Coffee, Miami.

This was not the first time death rode close behind the saddle of Clyde Coffee. Last year, he suffered a fractured collar-bone while handling horses. He was kicked in the neck by a horse in his youth. He was said to be one of the best rodeo hands in the country, although he attended few rodeos. He was an expert rider and roper. On July 4, he assisted in holding the rodeo at Canadian. He was widely known among the cowboys and cattlemen of the Panhandle. His father was the late Judge Cleve Coffee of Miami.

Both men arrived at Pampa simultaneously. Of the story in The News the father said, "it couldn't have been told more truthfully." The father and the brother were overjoyed to find the girl, and although she said she didn't want to go back, she joyfully embraced her father and brother when she saw them. She assured Chief Downs when she left that she'd be seeing him again if "they don't treat me right."

"The next time you leave sis, I'll be with you," her brother said. Velma was beginning to like "city life," as she called it. For the first time in her life she saw her long golden hair marcelled and arranged. "Mr. Downs' neighbors just liked to fool with it," she said. Then, too, her nails were manicured for the first time. Velma also enjoyed riding in "the big car." "All we ever had at home was a truck," she explained, "but it took a truck to haul it."

chimed. Groping his way through the blue-gray fog to the shining counter, he shook the proprietor by the hand. "What a night!" he cried in a warm, youthful voice. "Is Judy here?"

The proprietor returned Dumont's greeting and answered his question in the French language, which the young man had used.

"I have not seen Judy yet, M. Dumont; but she will doubtless be here. Chummy is in there." He jerked his thumb toward the inner room.

Dumont passed on, called out a greeting here and there to friends who sat in smoke-circled groups. Between the two rooms the man who was singing to his mandolin rose and looked at him expectantly. This was Dan, the waiter and general factotum of the establishment—a lanky being who looked like a clown in his baggy clothes.

Dumont ordered coffee and cognac, and entering the inner room, was notably greeted by a crowd of men at one of the larger tables; room was made for him and he sat down among them.

At a table on the opposite side of the room to the one at which Bastien Dumont had joined his friends, two men were sitting. Of the other tables, most were occupied by groups of two and three.

From time to time glances of curiosity were directed at the two men. For one thing, they were not habitués of the place, and it was seldom that strangers came to the Cafe Turc. One of them, however, was known to several people there. He was Vincent Stornaway, a successful portrait painter, who had long ago abandoned any pretense of a bohemian life. He exuded prosperity with his faintly picturesque clothes, his flowing tie, his golden-brown beard, pale cheeks, and clear, healthy skin.

His companion was known to nobody, and various unflattering comments were passed on his appearance. He was unrepentant to a degree, his pallid face being fleshy and heavy-jawed, his eyes pale and small and sunk in puffy bags, his forehead low and square, and livid against a band of coarse, black hair. He had a big, hooked nose and a thick neck, and there was a sinister suggestion in the straight line of his lips, which were thin and peevish, and contradicted all the rest of his face.

"A libertine with a bad temper," murmured clever Tony Leigh, the cruellest caricaturist with the kindest heart in the world.

"Good shot, Tony!" said another man. "I wonder who the chap can be!"

As a matter of fact, Stornaway's companion was Bruce Gideon, a financier, whose portrait the artist was painting as a present from an insurance company with which Gideon was associated. During the sittings Gideon had shown much interest in the life of artists, and the two men had become friendly to a certain extent.

Gideon had asked Stornaway to dinner at his apartment on Park avenue, and had expressed a desire to see a real bit of the poorer Greenwich Village. Stornaway had thought of the Cafe Turc, of his long-past struggles, and had brought his host to what he had described as New York's nearest approach to the artist life of Paris.

The rich man looked about him while he smoked his fat cigar. From his little eyes no one would have known what he was thinking—whether he despised these shabby, long-haired, lean-faced youths, these queer-looking women with their eyes full of visions, or whether there stirred in him some vague envy of the ardent minds that can transcend hardship and want, and can work, suffer, and enjoy on the wings of a great idea.

To the left of Vincent Stornaway and his companion was a young woman sitting at a table all alone. As other men and women came in, nearly all of them greeted her, and some lingered a moment at her side. A man now and then asked her to have some refreshment; but nobody sat down at her table.

She answered all greetings in the same way, without enthusiasm, as a matter of course. She accepted refreshment every now and then. From time to time she smiled a beautiful smile, like that of a child.

Bruce Gideon turned with an interrogation to Stornaway, who, as it happened, could enlighten him.

"That girl has a remarkable story," the artist said in a low voice, turning toward his companion so that his words should not carry. "Do you think her beautiful?"

"Not exactly," Gideon answered. "Too colorless."

His voice, kept low in imitation of the other man's, was surprisingly soft—quite at variance with his appearance, and almost like a woman's.

"She was considered the most beautiful girl in New York some years ago," the artist continued. He pointed behind him to the glazed sketch stromounted by the crape-decorated wreath. "Chantry did this of her. She was like a young Diana then."

Gideon had paid his homage to the dead master's work as he came in.

"Good Lord!" he said. "You don't mean that's the same woman? What happened to her?"

"Love," replied Stornaway. "She fell in love with a boy who used practically to live here—Alan Steyne, an artist. At least, he was trying to be an artist, and starying meanwhile. It was one of those terrific passions. They were inseparable—couldn't breathe apart. She was about 18 at the time, and he was a few years older. She's the daughter of an Englishman. I've forgotten his name—he died in Switzerland, climbing—I can't remember which mountain. Her mother was dead long before."

Gideon turned, and his small eyes made a quick survey of the young woman's face.

"I thought she didn't quite fit in here," he said. "Go on, Stornaway. This is most interesting."

"One day Alan Steyne disappeared—just like that, without a word, just deserted her. She wasn't the kind that could stand it. It wasn't an ordinary love affair—not on her part, at any rate. She didn't exist apart from him, and everyone thought he was equally fond of her. I used to come here quite often in those days, and I saw a great deal of them."

"What became of the fellow?" Gideon asked.

"Nobody knows—never heard of since. He was clever, but impatient—didn't care about going through the mill. He's never done anything in the art world, or one would have heard of him. The girl went to pieces—nearly died, you know; and when she struggled back again she was like she is now."

"Do you mean she's mad?" asked the rich man with interest.

"Not exactly. Silly, I should say—not quite all there—childish."

"And how does she live?"

"Everybody looks after her, as far as I can make out. She's the pet of this place. At first she must have had little money. She didn't seem to have any relations. Little by little she became the adopted child of the chaps who come here. She never painted since Alan Steyne left her. I don't quite know how it's managed, but nobody would let her want."

"Lately she's been living with another girl—a girl they call Judy. Judy is more or less a newcomer—since my time; but I've seen her when I've been here. I don't come often. Someone told me that she was looking after Chummy. I think she's a model herself—a queer, savage-looking sort of a girl."

"How long ago did this happen?" Gideon asked.

"Let me see—about seven years ago, I suppose. Yes; it's five years since I used to come here regularly, and then Chummy was quite an institution."

A slip of a girl pushed open the door and came into the Cafe Turc. She shook herself like a dog, and the raindrops fell from her in showers.

Everybody in the front room knew her and greeted her.

"Hullo, Judy! Cheerio, Judy! Welcome to the ark, Judy!"

The girl answered them all with laughing words in a voice that was husky, partly by nature, and partly owing to a bad cold. She advanced with a series of shakes, and finally divested herself of the shabby mackintosh she was wearing. Underneath, she had a very short skirt of a dark tartan, and a bright-green jersey with threads of gold showing here and there. On her head was a battered, white-felt hat, very much pulled over her eyes.

Judith Grant's face was gaudy with its cheap paint and powder and lamplight that sullied and disguised the wonder of its youth, but it was charming, for all that, and flower-like. Once a man looked at it, he often had to look again and again.

She had a mop of short, red-gold hair and big eyes the color of dark purple pansies, and a mouth that was always laughing. She was very small. Artists used her as a model for the line of her neck and shoulders, and for her hands and feet, which were pretty nearly perfect.

Sometimes, when her profession failed her, she got into a chorus. She was a born dancer, but she never stayed long, and had never achieved promotion on the stage. For one thing, she had no voice, and she was so small that she was lost in the crowd.

Her entrance into the inner room was greeted with another chorus. Everybody knew her.

"Hullo, boys!" she cried, as she jumped the three steps in a bound. She looked around and saw the fair girl alone at her table. "Ah, there's my family!" she exclaimed, walking over to Chummy, and flinging down her mackintosh on a chair and her hat on the top of it.

She sat down beside her friend, and Dan brought her a steaming tumbler of punch. Two or three of the men at the big table came over and talked to the two girls.

Bruce Gideon's interest was manifestly aroused. He sat silent, watching them. Chummy, the fair girl smiled at the men and talked. She looked quite vacant except when she smiled. They evidently treated her as a child. One of them patted her hand kindly as she moved away.

Presently the young men had all strolled away. Gideon turned to Stornaway.

"Could you introduce me?" he asked. "Do you know them?"

"Oh, yes," the artist replied with a smile.

The two men rose and walked over to the girl's table, and Stornaway told them who he was in his charming way.

"I don't expect you remember me, Miss Judy," he added; "but I have had the pleasure of meeting you. I don't come here often now—don't get time, worse luck!"

"Oh, but, of course, you're a great high hat, Mr. Stornaway," the girl answered, with mischief in her eyes that lighted them and made them sparkle like amethysts.

Stornaway introduced Gideon. Judy nodded to him and presented him to her friend, whose name she gave as Miss Morley.

Chummy looked at him with her straight, soulless gaze. He saw that her eyes were golden brown, and that her beauty was really, faultless, and must have been startling when illumined by intelligence.

"Oh!" she said in her deep, bell-like voice. "Oh, ugly man! Very ugly man! Man just like Punch!"

Gideon wasn't at all touched about his appearance. He was supposed rather to glory in it. He saw that Judy tried to suppress the gleam of sheer amusement in her eyes.

Stornaway gave an embarrassed smile; but Gideon himself smiled broadly, thus distinctly adding to his resemblance to that typical figure of fun. He turned to the other girl.

"Didn't I hear that your name is Judy, Miss Grant?" he asked. When he smiled the ill-nature disappeared from his face, but it gained in grossness. "We only want a dog Toby to be complete!"

"He's come back!" she repeated in a low voice full of furious scorn.

my says," Judy answered.

They talked for a few minutes; then other newcomers came up. Gideon could see that they were all desperately poor. In every stitch of Judy's clothing he saw penurious shabbiness.

The two men took their leave. It was still pouring with rain. Presently they found a cab.

Gideon sat silent for a few moments; then he expelled a sudden breath.

"What a monstrous shame it is!" he muttered.

"What is a shame?" asked Stornaway.

"That that girl should live that life!"

"Ah, so you realize what she might have been! You should have seen her when the famous Chantry sketched her portrait."

"Bah, I don't mean your love-sick moonbeam!" said Gideon.

"Who do you mean?"

"Don't be a fool," the rich man replied impatiently. "Of course, I mean the other one."

"What—Judy?" The artist laughed.

"Did she strike you particularly? Of course, she's got a lot of go in her, but she's only a common little cat."

Inside the Cafe Turc the atmosphere grew thicker and thicker. Through the smoky haze the faces of the customers showed like so many blurred, gray smudges. Each newcomer added to the steam as he shook his garments. Dan's gay voice singing of blue skies and warm suns and sparkling seas, was a veritable mockery.

It was getting late. Judy picked up her hat, clapped it on her head, and then rapped on the table with a penny.

Bastien Dumont, the Anglo-French artist saw her. He rose, and he and another man strolled over to her table. His companion sat down beside Chummy and began to talk to her.

Dumont made a sign to Judy. There was something urgent in his lean, picturesque face. When one looked at him carefully, one saw that he was not quite so young as his warm, rich voice and alert figure led one to suppose. His eyes were both tender and sad; as they rested on the girl's painted face.

He drew her over to a vacant table in a corner.

"I have news," he whispered. "I have the most wonderful news for Chummy, but I don't know how to break it to her. What do you think Judy? I've seen Alan Steyne—he's come back!"

The name was written on Judy's heart in letters of flaming hatred, although she had never seen the man himself. Alan Steyne, Chummy's false lover—the deserter, the slayer of Chummy's youth!

"He's come back!" she repeated in a low voice full of furious scorn.

"Yes—I saw him today. He was driving a runabout. I knew him at once, although he has changed. He is prosperous."

"Did you speak to him?"

"Yes. He remembered me. He pulled up, and we had a chat. He asked after all the old gang. It seems that he's been abroad—traveling."

"Did he ask after—her?"

Judith was white with excitement, making her patches of paint like the cheeks of an old-fashioned Dutch doll.

"No," he answered; "but I mentioned her. He said he was coming to look us up. I asked him to come here tomorrow night. I simply didn't know how. I only said we were all here just the same; so you'll have to prepare her, Judy. You know, they say joy doesn't kill."

"Of course, they say joy doesn't kill," said Judy to herself many times, when she awoke during that night.

The girls had two rooms at the top of a high building in a busy thoroughfare not far from the Cafe Turc. At least they had one room and a box of an attic—which latter was Judy's self-chosen portion. Chummy had the room, all the available blankets except one, and whatever comforts the other girl could procure for her.

In many ways Chummy was quite rational, and even endowed with practical sense. She was a good caterer and could lay out money to the best advantage; but she never asked where the money came from. She accepted her life as it was. She seemed to have lost all memory of the past.

Her mind had gone back to her childhood. She used short words, and was embarrassingly frank and candid in her remarks on people's appearance. She never referred to her lost lover directly. Sometimes, when they had been at the Cafe Turc together, and Judy said it was time to go home, Chummy had gone on reading a newspaper and said:

"No, I'll wait a little longer, Judy. I'm rather expecting somebody."

But that was all. She was very sweet-tempered; she loved the theater; she was restless if she missed going to the cafe a single day; she had a splendid appetite. On the whole, she was easily managed, and she accepted everything that was done for her without question.

Judy doubted whether Chummy remembered that she was Clarissa Morley, or that she had ever lived in another world and had relations and friends who were not perentially impecunious.

Judy shook out her mop of red-gold hair when she had brushed it well. She was perfunctory with her cosmetics this morning, and left her flower face very nearly as God made it.

She found that Chummy had a heavy cold. While she dosed her, and lit a fire out of her scanty stock of fuel, she began her uneasy assault on her friend's dormant memory.

"Chummy, dear, would you be glad to see an old friend again?"

"What friend?" asked the other girl, with her innocent smile.

"A real old friend—some one you were very fond of, old girl!"

"I'm fond of you, Judy, and Bastien and Michael and all the boys," said the deep, bell-like voice.

"I know, but this is somebody you knew long ago. Don't you remember, Chummy? Some one you loved very much." Suddenly she flung her arms around her friend's neck and hugged her. "Some one you loved very very much!"

"A man?" asked Chummy.

"Yes, a man."

"I love men—I love them very much," said Chummy complacently.

"Yes—but one man—a quite particular boy, you know, not like the others. He's coming back. You'll see him tonight."

"Oh!" said Chummy blandly. "What do you mean?"

Judy gave up.

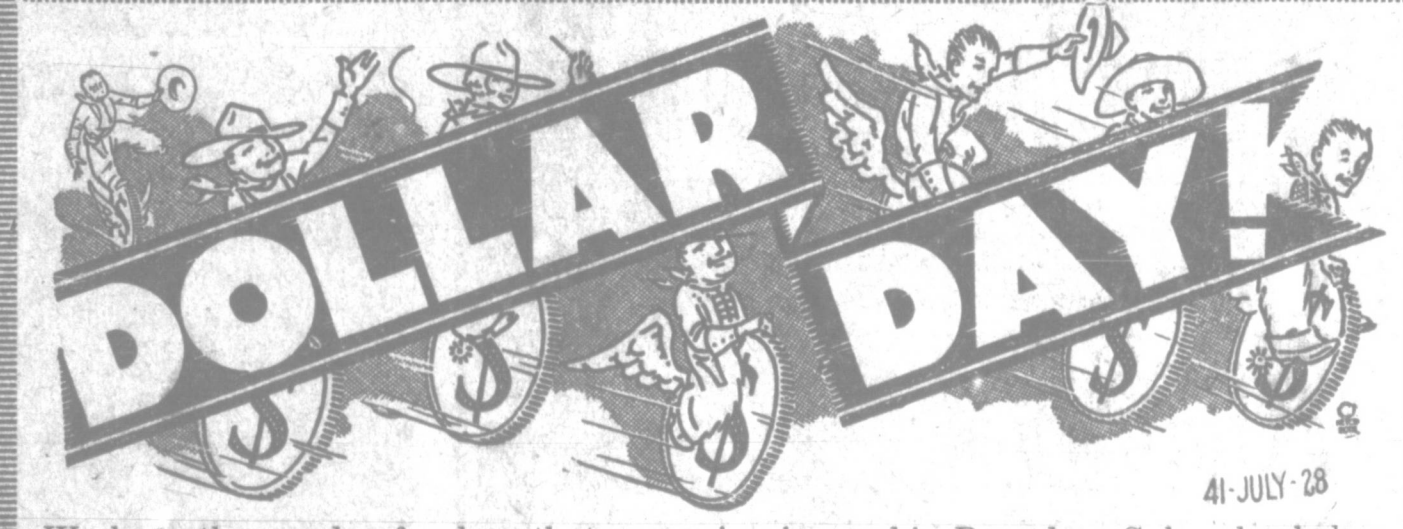

During the day she went to Bastien Dumont's attic. "I can't prepare Chummy," she told him. "She won't take it in. And she's got a vile cold. She can't go to the cafe tonight. Anyway, I wouldn't let her meet him there, in front of all the boys. I don't know how she'll take it. You must tell him about her and bring him to see her at our place. You must tell him the best way you can. Of course, as soon as he knows, he'll want to come at once. I'll expect you tonight—about nine. Chummy mustn't be kept up late."

She clasped her hands excitedly. "Oh, Bastien, what a wonderful thing! When she sees him, it must all come back to her—it must be all right!"

"I'll do my best," he promised obediently; "but it is a nasty job." Judy went home and passed a day of feverish excitement. She threw out hint after hint to Chummy who was quite unresponsive. Even the plainest words did not penetrate the darkness of her mind. Judy spoke then once more.

"Chummy, your lover—Alan Steyne—has come back. He is coming to see you tonight."

Daily Production of Nation Rises

TULSA, July 9. (AP)—Decreased production of light oil in the United States and a decrease in the output of the Midcontinent fields resulted in a total decrease in production of light and heavy oil in the U. S. of 8,986 barrels for the week ended July 5, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Total production of both light and heavy oils for the United States for the week ended June 28, was 2,619,251 barrels while for the week ended July 5 it was 2,610,283 barrels. Total light oil production of the Mid-Continent field decreased from 1,449,228 to 1,432,058 barrels.

Rocky Mountain and Texas Panhandle areas set the pace in increased production for the week, the biggest jump being registered in the Rocky mountain area where total daily production increased 13,328. Texas Panhandle area showed an increase of 9,332 barrels daily.

Oklahoma production declined from 686,255 barrels for the week ended June 28 to 655,120 barrels for the week ended July 5. The Oklahoma City field production dropped 2,000 barrels while Seminole production decreased more than 11,000 barrels. Northern Oklahoma fields registered an increase of about 4,000 barrels.

Small Balance in Courthouse Fund

The balance in the courthouse and jail special fund, out of which money to build the new courthouse was drawn, on June 30 was $3,419.85, according to the quarterly report of Auditor R. C. Wilson. Total disbursements from this fund in the first six months of this year amounted to $95,944.63. Disbursements in the last three months totaled $69,964.49.

To supplement this fund, $14,000 was transferred from the courthouse and jail fund. That amount, together with $249 in depository interest and $16,391.57 derived from sale of warrants, aggregated $30,640.06, total receipts.

Disbursements in the last three months follow:

Electrical contractor, $4,535.50; carpenter work, $10.50; painting, $10; architect fees, $1,350.49; furniture, $35,109.17; jail contractor, $2,827.22; shades, $2,226; general contractor (H. L. Case), $23,895.61.

The courthouse and jail fund shows a balance of $5,703.92 on June 30, and disbursements of $21,070.50 for the year, with $19,828.09 for the last three months. Total receipts of the year amounted to $30,014.14.

Individual bills follow: painting, $57.75; furniture and equipment, $2,589.40; lumber, $8.33; insurance, $2,907.83; repairs, $31.50; rent, $263.33.

SPECIAL EFFORTS IN PRO WORK IN COLORADO ASKED

DENVER, Colo., July 9. (AP)—State prohibition enforcement officers today said they would request Attorney General Mitchell to take steps to cope with what they termed arrogant liquor gangs operating in the state.

The request for special department of justice agents which state officials announced they would make through Ralph L. Carr, United States district attorney, was provoked by the slaying Sunday at Aguilar of Dale F. Kearney, prohibition agent.

Investigators expressed belief Kearney was lured into ambush by one of his own undercover men.
