Three Hold-up Men Get $22.00 in Raid Early Last Night.

A filling station at Mobeettie was held up and robbed of $22 by three men last night, it was reported here by a Mobeettie deputy.

Oil Conference At Fort Worth to Deal With Many Existing Problems

For the purpose of solving "some of the existing problems" connected with the production of oil in the Texas Panhandle, a meeting of interested parties will be held at the Texas hotel in Fort Worth, at 9 a. m., Dec. 11, according to an announcement made this morning by H. J. Coffey, corporation umpire.

A meeting will be open and all interested producers are invited to be present. A representative of the Texas Railroad Commission will be present. One of the "problems" to be discussed is the presence of 200 unconnected oil wells in the Panhandle. When the Prairie withdrew as a purchaser, it left over 100 unconnected wells. One of the latest problems concerns a number of gas wells recently completed by independent producers who claim that the major companies refused not only to take their oil but their gas as well.

GAS LINE TO CHICAGO SOON TO START IN GRAY

At last the hole cards are on the table about this so-called "Amarillo-to-Chicago" gas pipeline. The 24-inch line to be built from the Texas Panhandle to the Illinois metropolis will have its southern terminus in Gray county nearer to Pampa than to any other town or city. The line will not even touch Potter, not will it place nearest to Amarillo where it is buried under the ground to be visible from that city through a microscope, although there will be gathering lines extending into Carson, Hutchinson, and Moore counties. Later on, if gasers are found in Potter county, a gathering line will be laid into that county.

Oklahoma Recluse Captured by Posse After He Wounds Man

PAWNEE, Okla., Dec. 8. (AP)—Jesse Powell, recluse, sought for the slaying of a youth and a deputy sheriff last night, was captured early today at Ralston, near here, after he had seriously wounded Louis Raba, a postman.

Farm Levels to Be Purchased for Terracing Work

The purchase of three farm levels to be used by the county agent in terracing demonstrations was approved by the county commissioners at their meeting this morning. The commissioners also agreed that a stenographer be employed to type the reports of the county agent and the home demonstration agent. The work is expected to require two weeks.

SAM ARNETT OF LAKETON BADLY HURT

Mrs. W. L. Webb, 27, Is Killed Sunday in Crash

Sam Arnett, employe of McLaughlin's store at Laketon, who suffered a badly fractured skull in an automobile collision which took the life of Mrs. W. L. Webb, 27, yesterday afternoon, was slightly improved at Worley hospital this morning. He was unconscious and was still in danger, hospital attendants said.

Felton Webb, 8, and Betty Jean, 7, children of Mr. and Mrs. Webb, who sustained wounds on the face and scalp, are improving in Pampa hospital. Leslie Webb, 15-year-old brother of Mr. Webb, received bruises.

Funeral services for Mrs. Webb will be held at McLean. The time has not been announced. Mrs. Webb is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bush of McLean. Arrangements are in charge of G. C. Malone funeral home.

The collision occurred directly in front of the McLaughlin store at Laketon at the intersection of Highway No. 33 and the Miami road. Mr. Webb was driving west, and Mr. Arnett was driving south. Witnesses of the tragedy said that a filling station on the corner of the intersection obstructed the view of the cars at that point. It is impossible to see cars coming in either direction on account of the filling station, it was said.

Mrs. Webb, who was slightly injured, said that her car and Arnett's car collided at sharp angles after both drivers had made frantic attempts to swerve their machines and avoid the crash. The car in which the Webbs and Jack Witherspoon, Mr. Webb's hired hand, were riding overturned in front of the filling station. The Arnett machine did not overturn, according to Raymond McLaughlin, who witnessed part of the accident. It is believed that Mrs. Webb was hurled either through the windshield or through the door. She was riding in the front seat with her husband.

Mr. Webb suffered a fractured skull, a broken neck and critical lacerations. Her chest also was crushed. Mr. Arnett was not thrown from his car. He was en route from Miami to the store. Mr. McLaughlin telephoned into Pampa soon after the collision and three Malone funeral home ambulances brought the dead and injured to this city.

Mr. Webb is the son of L. H. Webb, well-known ranchman of this county. He lived on his father's ranch.

Mrs. Webb is survived by her husband, two children, father and mother, three brothers, J. S. Bush of Amarillo, L. R. Bush and W. F. Bush, both of McLean, and a sister, Mrs. E. A. Dennis of Rosedale, Mo. Mr. Arnett is a wife, but no children. He is 48.

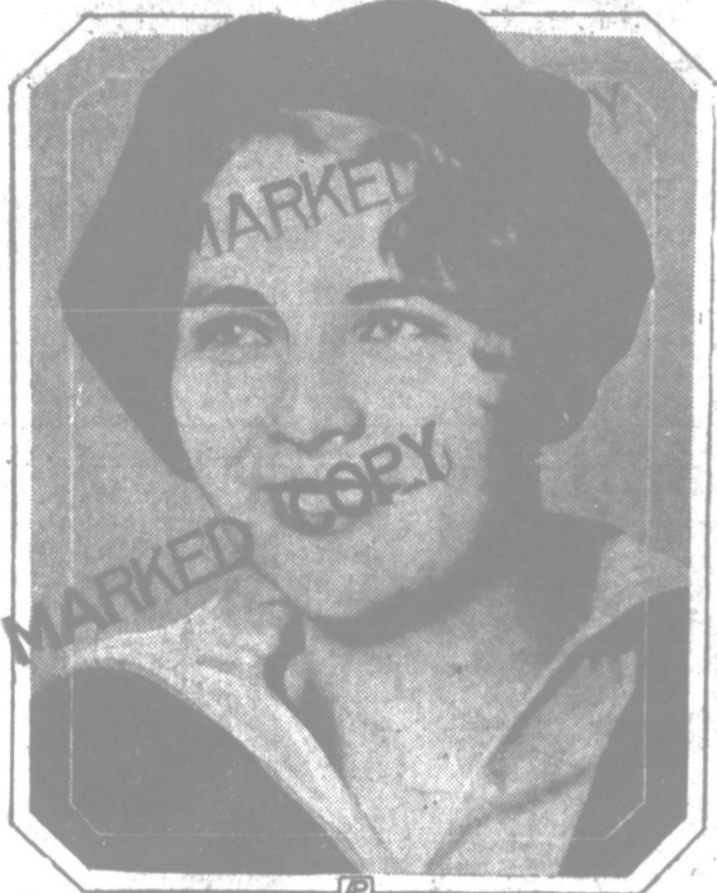

ARKANSAS BANK ROBBER

WHEATLEY, Ark., Dec. 8. (AP)—Two men placed the assistant cashier and a customer in the vault and robbed the Rice Growers bank here early today. J. A. McCutcheon, vice president, said a preliminary check indicated the robbers obtained about $2,000.

TALKS OF HEALTH AND HOME

Marian E. Snydergaard, 15-year-old Iowa girl, 4-H club health winner at the International livestock show, is just three-tenths of one percent off perfect health. Her percentage of 99.7 was the nearest perfect ever made in the event.

CHAMPION 4-H CLUB GIRL IS FOND OF DANCING—EXPECTS TO TEACH HOME ECONOMICS SOON

(By Marian E. Snydergaard) (Healthiest 4-H Club Farm Girl, As told to The Associated Press)

Having health is a wonderful thing. I wish every boy and girl in the world was as healthy as the doctors say I am.

I don't suppose living as I have would give everybody health, but I'm sure it would improve health. I eat just about as I please, not too much candy or cake. I drink lots of milk and I like ice cream.

Living on a farm gives anybody an opportunity to get plenty of fresh air. On our place in Grundy county, Iowa, there is plenty to do, and that gives me lots of exercise. At high school, where I am a senior, I like to play basketball and hockey.

I like dancing and the movies. I always enjoy a trip into Waterloo, which is near our farm, for there we see the movies. School parties are fun.

But watching the photographers and movie cameramen rushing around, running into each other and fussing at each other while they took our pictures after the health contest was almost as good as a moving picture.

I usually sleep nine or 10 hours. Many times I walk to school two miles away. It's wonderful walking down the road through the early morning, and it's just as nice coming home, particularly in the fall when it's hazy and there is a tinge of winter in the air.

I like cooked cereal, toast, fruit, poached or boiled eggs and milk for breakfast. I try not to be late for breakfast because I enjoy it probably the best of any meal. I eat meat once or twice a day and all vegetables—yes, including spinach.

When I finish high school next June, I hope to go to Iowa State college at Ames. My brother goes there. I want to study home economics and teach it.

I like boys; I've gotten pretty used to them as there are eight children in our family. I suppose some day I'll settle down to liking one boy.

NEEDY ASKING ASSISTANCE IN MANY WAYS

Drive Will Continue Until Goal Is Reached

Pampa's Community Chest filled very slowly this morning, but men, women and children, described as being in terrible want and distress, streamed into Chest headquarters throughout the forenoon, according to Mrs. W. H. Davis, member of the general committee.

"All were absolutely legitimate cases; they were people without jobs and no chance of getting them," Mrs. Davis said. "You have no idea how many people in dire want are in Pampa."

Only $175 was contributed this morning. Of that amount, $100 came from the White Deer Land company. It was decided yesterday at a meeting of the committee that the drive would continue until the $15,000 quota is raised. The Chest will accept all kinds of donations. Yesterday, J. N. Duncan gave 200 sacks of flour and R. E. Kinner gave four sacks. The Chest can use all the flour or wheat that citizens will contribute.

A plan to continue the drive over the radio Thursday night is being considered. An appeal to the citizenship would be made. Contributors would telephone or send in their contributions to the station in the new city hall between the hours of 9 and 12 o'clock. The old-fashioned method of "now-who'll-give-the-dollars" soliciting would be used.

Those who have not given anything are being visited today by a special committee. The plan of giving a day's wages has not worked very successfully among certain classes, it was said. Most of the small-salary citizens have each given a day's wages, but many well-to-do citizens and practically all residents who have considerable wealth have given only a fraction of a day's income.

A partial list of contributors to the Community Chest drive follows:

- M. K. Brown $300; Mr. and Mrs. August Grotz $200; J. C. Penney Co. $150; Santa Fe employes $148; Father's Drug Co. $100; Oil Belt Grocery $100; Montgomery Ward Co. $100; Dillely Bakery $100; C. C. Cook $100; W. T. Wilks $100; Judge and Mrs. I. V. Bert Smith to Go on Trial at Amarillo Tuesday

AMARILLO, Dec. 8. (AP)—Trial of Bert Smith, Lela Lake gin operator, on charges growing out of the robbery of the Stinnett bank of $6,000 last January will open in Potter county district court here Tuesday morning.

The robbery of the bank occurred last January. The charges against Smith were transferred from Hutchinson county recently. The cases were called today but were postponed due to absence of witnesses.

Smith was acquitted when tried on a charge of robbery at Panhandle last spring. Charges now pending are for concealment of stolen property, conspiracy to commit a theft over the value of fifty dollars. Approximately $6,000 of the loot was found under Smith's house at Lela Lake.

NEBRASKA BOY INJURED WEATHERFORD, Dec. 8. (AP)—Bob Tyron, 20, of Lincoln, Neb., was hurt last night while trying to board a Texas and Pacific railroad freight train at Iona. It was necessary to amputate his right leg. Tyron said he and a companion were en route to California in search of work.

WITNESS KILLED NEW YORK, Dec. 8. (AP)—Nicholas "Cheeks" Luciano, 24, who turned state's evidence in 1923 and helped send the Diamond brothers and another man to the chair for the murder of two bank messengers during a $43,600 hold-up, was killed by two youths today. The assailants escaped.

Nebraska Farmer Is Questioned by Officers About Missing Teacher

GREELEY, Colo., Dec. 8. (AP)—The puzzling disappearance of Miss Enid Marriot, 28-year-old Wiggins, Colo., school teacher, today again occupied attention of authorities who held Melvin C. McClanham, 48, Mitchell, Neb., farmer, in jail here in connection with the case. He was arrested at Scotts Bluff, Neb., Saturday night on a warrant charging abduction of Miss Marriot. The Nebraska farmer denied knowledge of the case and waived extradition. He was brought to Greeley yesterday.

Son of Senator Hurt In Blast

EL PASO, Dec. 8. (AP)—Robert Lee, 21, son of State Senator Oliver Lee of New Mexico, was probably fatally injured when a blast of dynamite wrecked a pool room in Alamo-gordo, N. M., at 3:30 a. m. Sunday. Physicians doubted he would recover. Four other persons were injured, none seriously. Deputy Sheriff Lon Danley, investigating the explosion, expressed belief the blast was set off by a woman whose son or husband was in the pool hall.

Peeters, who has returned home after 10 months study as a fellow at the University of Chicago, has informed his friends that his life was quiet as safe in Chicago as anywhere.

A haggard, stoical man whose name may soon be a number instead of Carl Hefner announced through his attorneys in 11th district court this morning that he would not press appeal of his case to the Court of Criminal Appeals. Judge W. E. Ewing, plainly moved by emotion, that caused his voice to become husky, immediately sentenced him to the penitentiary to serve from "two to 99 years."

The court had a few minutes before over-ruled a motion for a new trial. "After consulting with Mr. Hefner and his family," the defendant's attorney, Will R. Saunders explained, "we have decided to accept sentence."

In order that he might remain in jail for 90 days and complete notice of appeal, Hefner gave notice that he would appeal the case, but that when the appeal time is expired he will file an affidavit withdrawing his motion for appeal, his attorneys said. This procedure is usually followed by persons who accept sentence.

"Carl, I have an unpleasant duty to perform this morning," Judge Ewing said before he pronounced sentence, "but as for that matter I have had a number of unpleasant duties to perform while I have been district judge. I have known you for a long time. . . . I wish this morning that I could turn back the hands of time to Nov. 5 and place a hand on your shoulder to say, 'Carl, don't do it.' But now it is my unpleasant duty to sentence you to the penitentiary. However, it is not I who will sentence you. It is the law, and it is the law to whom you must pay a penalty."

The court then asked Hefner if he had any reason why he should not be sentenced.

"No," he answered in a husky voice. His hair appeared to be more gray around the temples than it was when he left the courtroom eight days ago with the untroubled sob of his wife and the verdict of the jury ringing in his ears. After deliberating five hours, a jury found him guilty of the murder of Homer Crabtree and assessed as his punishment, 99 years in the penitentiary. Heiner's attorneys, a week ago, filed a motion for a new trial, but never filed the amended motion. On the day after the jury's verdict was read, Hefner declared that he would not appeal the case; but wanted to accept the 99-year sentence. However, his family at the time was not satisfied with the verdict and wanted to appeal the case, it is understood.

Hefner's defense was that Emmett Thompson, co-defendant, struck the Loews with an iron rod that killed Crabtree, and that he was chasing a horse 150 yards from the scene of the slaying. Thompson's motion for a change of venue was granted last Monday and the case will be called for trial at Vernon, Jan. 6.

Hefner will probably remain in the Gray county jail for 90 days when he will be removed to the state penitentiary.

INJURED CHILD DIES

AMARILLO, Dec. 8. (AP)—Forest Dale Rubottom, 4, died today from injuries received late Saturday night when the family car plunged across the highway east of Amarillo and into an embankment at the roadside.

Corrections in Geographies Being Prepared for Insertion in Books

STAMFORD, Dec. 8. (AP)—Corrections are being prepared, for immediate revision, of the Texas section of one of the three geographies studied in the public schools of the state, it was announced today by D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The MacMillan company, publishers of the text studied in the fourth and fifth grades in Texas, will not wait for expiration of its three-year contract on the present text supplied. Bandeen was advised, but will accept minor revisions at once, if they do not require rewriting of whole sections. For next editions, the company will accept and print whole sections to be written by a text committee under chairmanship of Dr. F. W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, assisted by presidents of other institutions.

W. H. Bowman, MacMillan representative, will come to Stamford Thursday of this week to work out the immediate minor revisions with Bandeen and the West Texas chamber's publicity committee. LUBBOCK, Dec. 8. (AP)—Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, who has announced willingness to aid in revising Texas geographies, said today that the work could not be begun until he or someone else is commissioned by the State Board of Education to do the task. "Doctor Horn said he would be ready to go to work any time the state board commissioned him to do so.

Imports of Refined Petroleum Products Menace to Industry

Troubles of the oil industry are brought forcibly to public attention again as the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas and other similar bodies launch a move to obtain an oil tariff in the present session of congress.

Local interest is keen because the subject vitally concerns Gray county. The Texas committee includes a Pampa man, W. B. Saulsbury, and Rupert P. Ricker of San Angelo, George S. Marshall of Laredo, C. L. Witherspoon of San Antonio, J. E. Hunter of Abilene, H. J. L. Stark of Orange, Jim Collins of Corsicana, Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, Joe Maxwell of Fort Worth, C. M. Humphries of Amarillo, W. E. McKinney of Tyler, and J. B. Dunningan of Breckenridge.

Mr. Ricker, the chairman, recently said "it is absurd to prorate Texas production down to 680,000 barrels daily and then import into the United States over 300,000 barrels of crude and refined products per day. The people should see the injustice of this and put an end to it by a high tariff, as they have protected all other American industries."

Latest figures show that in the first ten months of 1930 the crude oil production of the United States was 761,106,000 barrels. Production in the same period of 1929 was 847,648,000 barrels. It will be noted that curtailment and proration here fruit, despite the discovery of big new pools during the last two years.

The average price of crude oil in 1929 was $1.27 a barrel, but for this year it will be $1.15 or lower. It is indicated that the total output of crude in 1930 will be about 106,000,000 barrels less than last year. At the same time, it is known that foreign fields produced about 30,000,000 barrels more than usual this year.

Despite the difficult position of home refineries, big companies imported 14,884,000 barrels of gasoline in the first 10 months of 1930 compared with 7,134,000 barrels for the same period of 1929. Importation of other refined products increased proportionately. Importing one barrel of gasoline is about the same as importing four barrels of crude oil.

The Dutch-Shell enlarged its Caracas refinery to 280,000 barrels daily capacity and it is operating exclusively on Venezuelan crude for the purpose of selling refined products along the Atlantic seaboard.

No one, reading these facts, should fail to realize the imperative necessity of a tariff on crude oil.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—For nearly a half century William Tyler Page has served the house of representatives—

Since 1881, when he was appointed a page in the office of the clerk of the house to the present when he himself is clerk, Page has been at the disposal of representatives.

Now, on the eve of his golden anniversary, he has set for himself a new task—the bringing about of a more orderly method by the various states in formally certifying to the election of members to the house of representatives.

It's a rather delicate task, because all Page can do is merely to make suggestions. But he is convinced of the necessity of such a move and intends doing all he can to push it to success.

Once A Page

It won't be the first time he has tackled propositions for the house. There have been many in the almost 50 years he has been on the hill.

Edward McPherson was clerk of the house when he first came to the capitol as a page. It was through McPherson, a one-time sweetheart of Page's mother, that he got the job.

Today he is regarded as much a part of the hill as the capitol itself. In fact, the late Champ Clark once asked Page in all seriousness if it were true that he was born in the capitol. Page replied no, but added that he certainly expected to die there.

He has come in intimate contact with almost every figure of national importance during the last half century. And his experiences have been wide and varied.

There is one story which he never fails to tell when in a reminiscent mood. It concerns the time when the speaker of the house upset an inkwell on his head during a tense and heated session with the result that belligerent representatives regained their good humor.

Carlisle was the speaker. Page at that time was a minor clerk.

Splash.
 The house was in a bad temper and the situation rapidly was getting out of the speaker's control. Vainly Carlisle banged his gavel for order. During the incessant hammering an ink stand was jarred off the desk upon Page's head and summer suit.

So ridiculous did he appear with the ink streaming down his face that the house forgot its bitterness and roared with laughter.

Speaker Carlisle gave him $10 for a new suit, and thanked him for accomplishing what he had failed to do.

He is an authority on all questions concerning congress. His daily mail is filled with inquiries from people in all parts of the country seeking information on everything imaginable. He goes on the theory that the clerk of the house of representatives is supposed to know something about everything—

And every one's request is at least acknowledged.

ENLIGHTENMENT AT LAST

In the opinion of Chief Executive West of the Boy Scouts of America, modern youth is not hell-bent. Those were his exact words as quoted in an interview the Scout official gave in Washington, D. C., recently. "They are better behaved than youths of a decade ago and are more earnestly and intelligently making use of their opportunities."

We agree thoroughly with Mr. West in his contention. It is true that boys will be boys and girls will be girls, but just because they are inclined to act their natural selves is no signal for alarm from their elders and those whose long noses are forever and eternally sniffing trouble. Time and time again, we have heard orators rant that "the younger generation is on the highway to hell." But orators have been orators since time immemorial and if somebody didn't find something wrong with somebody else, plenty of people would be out of a means of making a living.

We are not out hunting those who are eternally in the habit of telling the world what is wrong with it, we are looking for those who tell us what is right with the world. We have a positive faith, not a negative conjecture, that taking everything into consideration, the world is a pretty good place in which to live. We believe modern youth feels the same way about it. They are preached to incessantly from a negative standpoint. Don't do this; don't do that; don't do the other. Keep out of this and that and so forth. All healthy young people are going to lead their lives as they see fit and all the advice poured upon them is largely wasted effort. They know what is right and what is wrong and for one, we are agreeable to let them use their best judgement.—Memphis Democrat.

Rail Hearing Is Open In Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Dec. 8. (P)—The lines of argument that the rival groups will follow in the hearing on the application of the Texas and Pacific Northern to build 333 miles of road in West Texas began to take shape today while J. L. Lancaster of Dallas, president of the Texas and Pacific, was on the stand.

in the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing before Examiner Haskell C. Davis.

The railroad would traverse a comparatively new country, which, in Lancaster's opinion, still has plenty of opportunity for development. Lubbock was not entered by a railroad until 1909, and the city has almost 25,000 people. Many similar instances of rapid growth in this section could be cited.

The T. & P. N. would give the only rail service to a number of towns on its route, the witness testified, and would supply needed competition at the other points, most of which are now touched by only one line. The road would run from Big Spring to near Vega, 232 miles, and branches into both Lubbock and Amarillo.

H. C. Pipkin of Amarillo, attorney for the Santa Fe which was the pioneer in this section and which is fighting the application, sought to bring out that there was already sufficient competition. He tried to establish that the Texas and Pacific was a competitor even though its lines did not come north of Big Spring. Lancaster insisted, however, that the T. & P. got little traffic to and from this territory.

Among those on hand at the opening session were representatives of the chambers of commerce at Big Spring, Lamesa, Brownfield, Loveland, Littlefield, Dinmit, Hereford, Lubbock, Amarillo, and Vega, which would be traversed by the new line.

C. C. Terrell of the State Railroad commission sat in with the examiner and Dewey Lawrence and R. D. Cox Jr. of the state attorney general's department were here to help plead the cause of the applicant.

Tech Debators To Meet British

BEGIN HERE TODAY
CELIA MITCHELL, 17, leaves Baltimore where she has lived with her seamstress mother, MARGARET ROGERS, to join her wealthy father, JOHN MITCHELL, in New York. The parents are divorced and Mrs. Rogers is a widow following a second marriage.

BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl. Mitchell asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce his daughter to other young people. Mrs. Parsons agrees, considering Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections.

She soon becomes jealous of the girl and schemes to get rid of her by encouraging a romance between Celia and TOD JORDAN, fascinating but of dubious character.

Although Mitchell forbids Celia to see Jordan she goes about with the young man frequently. LIZI DUNCAN, a girl of Celia's age, becomes her loyal friend. Shields comes to New York to work for a photographic service and meets Celia. She tells him she has lost her heart to Jordan.

Realization that it is really Shields she loves comes to Celia when the young man is imprisoned in a burning building. He escapes unhurt except for a broken arm.

Mrs. Parsons who pretends to be friendly to Shields, goes to Mitchell and tells him Celia is meeting the young man surreptitiously.

That afternoon Celia and Shields are strolling together when Mitchell appears. He dismisses Shields and takes Celia home, where they have a heated argument. Mrs. Parsons arrives and denies she has ever met Shields. Celia rushes from the room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLVII

It was Evelyn Parsons' falsity as much as Mitchell's anger that sent Celia running from the room. Hot, indignant tears coursed the girl's cheeks and sobs shook her shoulders. After she was calm enough to think she knew exactly what she must do.

There was a telephone in the room. Celia lifted the instrument and gave the operator a number. Before the call was answered she changed her mind and set the telephone down.

It was after six o'clock. In another part of the apartment preparations for dinner must be going on. Evelyn must be dressing and the maid would be helping her. There was no sound of life, however, outside the door of Celia's room.

The girl made her preparations swiftly. She dried her eyes and tried to erase their swollen redness. Then she got out her traveling bag, opened it and tossed in garments and toilet articles. She changed to a plain dark frock and pulled a felt hat over her head. She barely glanced at the mirror as she threw the things on. Speed was what counted!

There was enough money in her purse. Celia counted it. Twenty-four dollars and 40 cents. She picked up her gloves and was ready to leave. Celia had one hand on the door knob when she stopped. Suppose her father had not gone! He and Evelyn might still be in the living room and she would have to pass the door.

She saw at once that she could not risk the encounter. It was difficult to wait, but Celia set down the traveling bag. She dropped into a chair. One foot tapped nervously. After a moment she rose, walked to the window and then sat down again. She had never known time to pass so slowly.

At seven o'clock Celia could delay no longer. If Mitchell was there he and Evelyn would be at the dinner table. As noiselessly as possible she opened the door.

Light from the living room gleamed in the hallway. Celia crept gingerly along. She hesitated, saw that there was no one in the room beyond and reached the living room. It was deserted. A moment more and she had reached the door leading into the corridor.

No one had seen her! Celia was breathing rapidly as she stepped out on the street a few minutes later.

"Do you wish a cab, madam?" It was the liveried doorman who asked the question. The girl nodded. When the cab drew up she entered and sank back against the seat, grateful for the shadowed darkness. She told the driver to take her to Grand Central station.

It was all very clear 'n the girl's mind exactly what she was to do, but now that she was on her way and the fever of excitement and anger had spent itself she felt suddenly weak. She put her handkerchief to her eyes, determined not to cry.

They reached the railway terminal. Celia paid the cab driver, picked up her bag and went inside. She walked until she found an array of telephones. There she gave the number of Barney's club and waited. A feminine voice answered: "Is Mr. Barney Shields in?" Celia asked.

"What was the name, please?" "Shields Barney Shields. I'd like to speak to him, please."

"How do you spell the name, ma'am?"
"S h i e l d s — Shields!"
"One moment," the laconic soprano voice replied, "I'll see if he's in."
The air in the booth was stuffy. Celia's pulse was racing and she felt faint. She clung for support to the steel on which the telephone rested.

Minutes seemed to pass before the soprano voice again answered: "I'm sorry. Mr. Shields is not here, madam. Will you leave a number?"
"He's not there?"
"No, ma'am. Would you like to leave a number for him to call?"

"No, thank you." Celia put down the telephone and stepped out of the booth.

She had to see Barney! That thought was uppermost in the girl's mind. She had to see Barney and tell him that all her mistakes in the afternoon. She must apologize for what her father had said. She could not leave and have Barney Shields think she and her father considered themselves superior to him. Her cheeks flushed. There were other things the young man must be made to understand.

Uncertainly the girl looked about her. The traveling bag was at her feet. She disposed of that first, leaving it at a checking stand. Celia decided to wait half an hour and then telephone. Barney was probably out at dinner.

She made her way through the labyrinth corridors of the station until she reached the street. Lights glared and the sidewalk was crowded. Men, women and children rushed past as though on some important mission. Celia wondered vaguely at their eagerness. Curious that all should have the same cautious tempo.

She became lost in the surge of traffic at a street intersection. By what seemed a miracle she reached the other side of the broad thoroughfare. The sidewalk was lined with a host of small shops, each with brightly lighted windows. Celia studied them as she passed.

It was the theater crowd which was sweeping her along. When she had reached Times Square she turned and retraced her steps. Neither the on-coming horde nor store windows interested her any longer.

Suddenly she saw that it was eight o'clock. She began to walk swiftly, then, realizing, naively that there were telephones all about, she entered a drug store, found a booth and again called Shields' club.

The same voice answered. There was the same spelling of the name and delay before the operator reported, "Mr. Shields is not in, madam."
Celia thought rapidly. There was no number that she could leave, no way for Barney to reach her. Yet she must see him.

"Can I leave a message?" she asked.
"Certainly, madam."
"Will you tell Mr. Shields that Miss Mitchell telephoned and that she will call again?"

The girl at the other end of the connection repeated the message. She assured Celia it would be delivered.

It was a problem to know what to do after that. Although she had had no food the thought of eating did not occur to Celia. She wandered back to Grand Central Station inquired about trains to Baltimore and was given a marked time table. Buses for the last train checked departed at 10:40.

Celia walked out on the street again. A blaze of electricity some distance up Lexington avenue attracted her. It was a motion picture theater.

Celia bought a ticket and went inside. An usher conducted her to a seat. The drama being unrolled was near its mid-point, quite unintelligible, but the girl felt comfortable.

by the darkness and blessed release from noise and clangor.

She had not noticed the title of the film. Familiar faces of actors and actresses passed before her and she scarcely saw them. She remembered, though, from time to time, to glance at her watch.

When it was almost 10 o'clock Celia left the theater. She returned to the station and the booth from where she had first telephoned. It was a man's voice that answered. Again Celia asked for Barney. She tapped her heel nervously as she waited.

It came at last: "Mr. Shields is not in, madam."
"But — hasn't he been in? I called earlier and left a message. Do you know if he received it?"
"One moment, madam."
The clerk's voice came back over the wire: "There's no message in Mr. Shields' box. What time did you say you called?"

Celia told him.
"Then he should have had your message. Do you care to leave any further word?"
"No, thank you."

She shut her eyes as she turned away from the telephone. There was nothing more that she could do! Suddenly Celia Mitchell felt herself a little girl again, frightened, abused and greatly in need of comforting. She longed for protecting arms about her and a shoulder on which she could rest her head and weep out her misery. She wanted the one person who always understood — her mother.

She blinked the tears back. Her eyes sought the big station clock and she nearly ran to the checking stand to get her bag. There was a line waiting before the ticket window, but she took her place and tried to master her impatience.

"You have two minutes to make it!" the salesman said crisply as he handed over the slip of postboard. A red-capped porter offered assistance. He led off on a run and Celia followed. Breathless she swung into the last remaining bus seat. With reckless gratitude she tossed a dollar bill to the porter as the driver set his engine throbbing.

Celia leaned back and closed her eyes. When it was time to transfer from bus to train she realized that her ticket was for the day coach. The conductor offered to see if she could transfer to a Pullman. After 10 minutes he returned.

"Sorry, Miss. Everything's taken. It's possible there'll be a cancellation."
Celia thanked him and settled back against the dusty car seat. How very tired she was! Her eyes closed. Several times she stirred, frowned at the lights and twisted into greater comfort. She slept soundly. Then she heard the conductor trying to rouse her.

"This is Baltimore!" he said.
Celia rubbed her eyes, sat up and gazed together her possessions. It was gray morning when she stepped out on the Mount Royal platform and hailed a cab. A tremendous sense of excitement stirred her as she rode through the familiar streets.

They reached her former home. Celia ran up the steps. Beaming, breathless, she rapped on the door of the third-floor apartment. She rapped a second time.

There was no answer.

Saturday has increased interest in the game. The Midshipmen showed unsuspected strength as they gave the Quakers a 26 to 0 beating.

A victory over Penn still is not enough to place Navy on a par with its rival in the pre-game calculations. Although the Middies showed plenty of power and new reserve force, they have had only a mediocre season and beat a team which had had little more success while Army still can boast of having been beaten only by Notre Dame and tied by Yale.

The Cadets hold a place near the top of the eastern ranking list, rivaling Colgate and Fordham for the highest honors.

AMARILLO MUST GO TO CORSICANA FOR NEXT CO

LOSS OF COIN DECIDES TILT PLACE TODAY

FORT WORTH, Dec. 8. (P)—Amarillo and Corsicana will clash in the latter city Saturday afternoon in the semi-finals of the state high school football race. Selection of Corsicana was decided by the toss of a coin by officials of the two schools meeting here early today.

Corsicana had not sought the contest, holding out for a neutral site, while Amarillo was desirous to play. Corsicana agreed to play at either Fort Worth, Abilene, Wichita Falls or Dallas. At the Sandy officials wanted the game at either Corsicana or Amarillo.

Fort Worth and Abilene had agreed at the early morning session, held at Fort Worth. L. C. Wright, athletic director of C. U., also was present and offered to donate the use of the Horned Lizard stadium and other facilities for playing the game. Greene offered the same accommodations should the game go to Abilene.

W. A. McIntosh, superintendent of the schools, represented Amarillo and Coach Cherry, Coach H. D. Filler, superintendent of schools; W. H. Norwood, and Clyde Stroude, member of the athletic council, were present from Corsicana.

Amarillo and Corsicana reached semi-final round through successive victories over Oak Cliff and Breckenridge last Saturday. Corsicana defeated Oak Cliff 26 to 0, while Amarillo downed Breckenridge 15 to 0.

There are six teams left in the running for the state title as a result of the games last week. Amarillo, Corsicana and Austin high turned in victories over Breckenridge, Oak Cliff and Fort Arthur, respectively.

Tyler and Greenville were scheduled to meet last Friday in another district title, but the field was too muddy and the game postponed until today, which accounts for the "late" start in the running this morning.

Greenville will meet the winner of the Tyler-Greenville game in the semi-finals Saturday.

Harvesters to Turn to Basketball

Their most successful season behind, Pampa's Harvesters today turned their thoughts to basketball. They checked in their football outfit Saturday.

Interest in football is not dead, however. Saturday night the District I officials divided the district into two sections, giving Pampa a smaller official schedule. The tentative conference schedule for next year:

- October 17—Amarillo here.
- October 31—Lubbock here.
- November 11—Slaton here.
- November 20—Plainview at Plainview.

Super R. B. Fisher smilingly remarked that this schedule left Thanksgiving open "to allow us to play off the bi-district championship." In the other district of division will be Wichita Falls, Vernon, Electric, Quanah, and Childress.

Against a strong Class B championship outfit, was admitted to Class A. Inter-division games prior to the play-off will be allowed, but they will not count officially. Pampa will attempt to schedule strong Central Texas and Oklahoma games to fill out her schedule.

It was emphasized at the meeting that neither schools nor fans may solicit players. No pressure can be brought upon parents to move to a city, and students and parents must be residents "in good faith." A proposal by Supt. Duncan of Lubbock to revoke the one-year residence rule was overwhelmingly defeated.

Concerning the all-district selections to which the News-Post raised biting objections Sunday, Coach Ed Hall today said that "if they will give me back my two men they named I will beat the best outfit that has ever ticked with the Harvesters." Some of those present at the meeting believed Pampa's eleven was stronger than the Sandies.

BOYS BADLY INJURED

CORSICANA, Dec. 8. (P)—Paul McGrath, 18, of Fort Worth, was in a hospital here today not expected to live. McGrath and Jaka Calvey, 18, were injured as a result of an automobile accident near here Saturday. Both were en route to Corsicana when their automobile struck mud or sand, skidded and overturned.

IRISH GOING HOME TODAY

"Shono" Comes Back
The announcement that John "Shono" Collins will manage the Boston Red Sox next year brings back to memory a scene 10 years old, in a hotel lobby at Hot Springs, Ark., where some of the ball players were getting into early spring condition.

It was the same year wild-eyed correspondents sent out the story from Hot Springs that Colonel TIL Huston had signed Babe Ruth to a contract that provided for payment of $500 for every home run the Babe socked.

Shono was leaning on the porter's desk looking out over the lobby where Everett Scott, Babe Ruth, Al Devormer and a couple of others were deeply engaged in a game of hearts. Kibitzers stood around the table where the players were performing.

Strangest Sounds
A tourist sat reading a newspaper about 12 feet from the spot where Shono was standing. At the side of his chair was a huge brass cuspidor. Now then the tourist turned to look at the cuspidor. Strange sounds came from the brass fixture.

"Ding, ding, 'dine," was the sound as though tiny pieces of metal were falling from the ceiling.

There would be a pause, the stranger would turn back to his paper and the sounds, with the regularity of a little bell tinkling, would start again. The stranger began to grow nervous.

Hello! What's This!
Suddenly something invisible struck the man on the back of his neck. He brushed at it with his hand, looked long and carefully at the ceiling, moved his chair and

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
The players in that Alabama backfield who go to the Rose Bowl to play Washington State, ought to make swell cops.

Each of them has two flat feet . . . they are John "Hurricane" Cain, Monk Campbell, John Henry Suther and Ralph McWright . . . and they all lope on their heels . . . but they are very hard people to buffalo.

Monk Campbell sprints with all the elation of a gray horse . . . but he gets there with his head of leather just the same . . . McWright is the block . . . when he plants his dogs in your way, you can't blast him out of there with an injunction . . . When the fellows tackle Hurry Cain, he just keeps those old fiddle cases wagging and nearly always drags the enemy personnel several yards . . . Only once this year has Cain been thrown for a loss.

Georgia did it . . . Suther's notes are horizontal, but he has shown his basic to such bustling people as Shunkrock Kelly, Red Bates and Austin Downs, all well known ramblers.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8. (P)—Knute Rockne's raiders from Notre Dame, having swept Southern California aside, were en route home today with two undefeated seasons, 19 straight victories, and a 37 to 0 triumph over the Trojans, to their credit.

In addition the Irish had permanent possession of the Bismann trophy, signifying that three times within a decade Notre Dame had produced the national football champions.

Meanwhile, Southern California and the far west were recovering from the stunning blow the Irish delivered Saturday, and experts, coaches and the 90,000 fans who saw Troy fall, vied with each other in congratulating the victors.

Frank Carideo, the quarterback, Paul "Bucky" O'Connor, the fullback, Marchmont Schwartz, halfback, and Bert Metzger, the atom who grew into a giant in the eyes of the crowd during 60 minutes of play at guard, were hailed far and wide.

Carideo's generalship was a big factor in the humbling of the Trojans, and to him went the honor of scoring the first touchdown. He took a pass from Schwartz and half-walked eight yards to pay dirt. O'Connor was the individual star. Three days before he had been a substitute halfback, although Rockne explained he spent six weeks in spring practice in the fullback berth. Saturday he was an amazing fullback. From his own 30-yard line in the first quarter he carried the ball, which he received from Marty Brill, halfback, on a reverse 80 yards for the second touchdown, pausing at the halfway mark to out-dodge Ernie Pinkert, the Trojans' star halfback. In the third quarter he scored again after receiving a pass.

Nicholas Iukata, a substitute back, whirled over 22 yards of Trojan-strewn turf for the final score. Schwartz contributed 50 yards toward the third touchdown with a long zig-zagging run.

Southern California never seriously threatened the Notre Dame goal. As many as four times the Trojans dug shallowly into Irish soil, but the advance was halted abruptly in each case.

SAFE IS DAMAGED
ELECTRA, Dec. 8. (P)—Discovery was made today of an attempt to blow the safe at Austin's department store some time after it was closed Saturday night.

The safe knob had been knocked off and a charge of explosive inserted. Fuses were found dangling from the opening and officers believed the burglars had been frightened away.

Police were asked to look for Jasper Halston, 19, who escaped from the county hospital with a well advanced case of the disease.

Macaluso, Colgate Fullback Easily Wins Scoring Honors This Season

(By The Associated Press)
Although he scored only one point against New York university on Saturday, Len Macaluso, Colgate fullback, easily won the national individual football scoring championship with a total of 145 points.
He scored 19 touchdowns, 28 points after touchdowns, and one field goal in 10 games. Mohler of Southern California was runner-up with 108 points.

The Rough Riders of Notre Dame head the nation's little band of undefeated and untied football teams. Only nine elevens have been able to tour through the campaign without encountering either defeat or tie.
Among these teams, Utah had the best offensive record with 340 points scored. Alabama permitted only 13 opposition points to lead defensively.

Horned Frogs Scoring Machine To Be Strong

FORT WORTH, Dec. 8. (P)—The 1931 Schmidt basketball machine is slowly fashioning into a formidable scoring machine. In their first appearance of the season against a weak city league team, they showed much promise as individuals but the team work was ragged. The scoring was led by the promising sophomore, Adolph "Too Tall" Dietzel and Doc Sumner.

Dietzel will be remembered by football fans as the elongated end, who was sent into the Baylor game in the last 10 minutes of play, and ran the Christians' score from zero to 14 points by being on the receiving end of several of Woolwine's passes. Coach Schmidt is taking full advantage of Dietzel's 6 feet, 6 inches of height, and he will be a formidable jumping center to any in the conference this year.

Doc Sumner, who didn't make an appearance in the practice game until the beginning of the second period, overcame and passed his teammate for scoring honors before the period was up. The former Athens star hit the basket from all angles of the court, and showed promise of being one of the high scorers of the conference this year.

The other sophomores, Brannon, guard; Connelley, forward and center; and Vaughn, guard, also showed up well. Brannon promises to become one of the classic guards that has ever played for the purple.

The veterans, Captain Atkins, Green, Robertson and McCulloch, flashed the form that they displayed last year, minus a little polish that will come as the season ages.

Coach Schmidt is scheduling games with the various fives of the local city league in order to test his men and give them some experience in playing together before the conference season opens. Later in the season, prior to the opening of the conference play, several neighboring colleges will be engaged. Several small college quints in the immediate Fort Worth vicinity possess of formidable clubs and will give the Schmidtmen some stiff competition before they encounter their conference rivals.

Roofing Tacks Are Sprinkled on Road

SAN JOSE, Calif., Dec. 8. (P)—If the truck driver who lost a keg of roofing tacks on the Oakland highway four miles north of here goes back there inquiring about it— it'll be a tactical error.
Stalled automobiles were parked for a quarter of a mile on either side of the road last night, most of them with four flat tires. Two cars brought a score of assistants into San Jose, and at least that many more were lined up at Milpitas.

Stribling and "Tuffy" Are Training Hard

(By The Associated Press)
Chicago, Dec. 8. (P)—W. L. "Young" Stribling and Gerald Ambrose "Tuffy" Griffith of Sioux City, Iowa, rushed today into the stretch of training for their important heavyweight battle in the stadium Friday night.
Griffith had two or three more days of intensive effort on his schedule, while Stribling, satisfied with his condition, planned to keep his edge. A little betting was done on the basis of 2 to 1 on the south-errier.

Two of the biggest shifts in football have turned out pretty well—meaning the shifts that sent Dr. Clarence Spears from Minnesota to Oregon as head coach and Capt. John J. McEwan from Oregon to Holy Cross in the same role.

Oregon had done very well under the former Army All-American center, but wanted to make a change. So did McEwan, who drove a good bargain in auctioning off the remaining year of his contract and returned to the East.

The captain celebrated by developing the best eleven Holy Cross has had in a dozen years. Employing the Warner System, the Purple eleven plastered Harvard, 27 to 0, and beat its old rival, Boston college, for the first time since 1934.

On the Pacific Coast, meanwhile, Spears kept his Oregon team on a level with Washington State in the championship race until the last big conference game. This resulted in an upset victory by Oregon State and Oregon then lost to St. Mary's by one point. Last year's team, under McEwan, lost only to Stanford and St. Mary's on the coast, but dropped a post-season encounter to Florida at Miami.

It has been a good year, too, for Maj. Ralph Irvine Sasse and West Point.
Sasse took over the portfolio from Biff Jones and performed the difficult task of completely changing the Army system of play. The installation of the Warner wingback style of attack proved so effective that the Cadets were undefeated until they ran into the Rough Riders of Notre Dame and suffered a one-point setback.

Pennsylvania, on the other hand, had a disappointing season under

Here Are Gifts for Your Own Home

A new clock and stage coach motif: enliven this fireplace.

BY MARGERY TAYLOR
Interior Decoration Editor, McCall's Magazine. Written for The Pampa Daily News.

Christmas should not, perhaps like charity, begin at home, but a gift to one's own house is, after all, a true expression of the yuletide spirit.

The home which is just beginning to collect its furniture may need a table or a rug; or a desk may be the missing piece. And, somehow, there always seems to be room and use for another chair.

But for the home which has reached the contented state of needing "absolutely nothing" there are the lively accessories to which we moderns have become so attached.

Perhaps most modern of all are the tickle clocks. The most faithful of these electrical timekeepers, it seems, are the clocks which are controlled from a central power station. In spite of the fact that there is a tiny motor inside instead of the old-fashioned wheels and springs, the cases come in a variety of correct period, as well as modernistic designs.

As mysterious as the ship model vogue which has been under full sail for some years is the sudden new affection for stage coach models. There is no denying their fascination, and they are in place on mantels, desks or tables. You may, appropriately, choose an early American stage for the living room; a French passenger coach for the library or an English mail coach for the man's room.

Perhaps you have grown a little tired of one of the picture on the walls. Then you are ready to receive one of the quaint old prints, which disturb very little the most sensitive Christmas budget. There are scenes of early New York, English hunting episodes and Morland's country scenes of Old England. And don't miss the silhouettes on glass.

Of course, there is no law against giving any of these things to other people's homes.

Regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the B. C. D. will be held at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at the chamber of commerce.

Mrs. May F. Carr visited in Amarillo yesterday.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Carpenters' Union at 5 p. m. in the home of Mrs. B. R. Gardner, 716 North Frost. Each person is asked to bring an inexpensive gift for the Christmas tree.

A waffle supper will be given by a group of Presbyterian women from 8 to 8 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Pope. The public is invited to attend, admission price being 50 cents.

Leisure Hour club, a newly organized bridge group will meet at 2:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. B. F. Brown, 411 North Frost.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at 2:30 o'clock at the Baptist church.

Merton Parent-Teacher association will have an evening musical and get-together social. Pop corn and candy will be sold.

Bible Gleaners class, First Baptist church, will have a Christmas party at 2:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. J. H. Hayes, 507 North Cuyler. Mrs. Herman Whitley will be co-hostess.

Myth Tyme club will meet with Mrs. F. A. Payne, 1103 East Francis at 2:30 o'clock.

Women Now Buying More Sensible Footwear, Says Joe Lazarus In Discussing Proper Fitting, Style

"Women are buying more sensible footwear than ever before," declared Joe Lazarus, owner and manager of the local Brownbilt Shoe store.

"Most of the women know the type of shoe they want when they enter the store, and when they see that shoe they do not hesitate to buy it.

"The day has past when a woman had only one or two pairs of shoes. Now she has a pair for every occasion and for almost every costume. So when she enters the store she knows just what purpose and for what costume she wants the shoe and it is the business of the merchant to provide that particular need.

Morning Wear Important
"Shoes for morning wear, whether at home or on the street, are a necessity, according to a prominent Detroit retailer. Afternoon and evening shoes the same, with the chance that more than one pair of each will be required for different ensembles. A pair or two of sport shoes and the absolute minimum is complete.

"This minimum, it is pointed out, takes no stock of the tremendous range of selections in the various categories of footwear. Pumps, straps and ties all have definite places in the footwear scheme of things. The well-dressed woman might purchase a dozen pairs of pumps alone and still leave no two pairs alike. Not to mention the possibilities in all the different weights and colors of footwear, the various leathers and fabrics, and one's preferences in the matter of turned shoes, welt shoes and shoes for sport.

Discusses Fitting
"Once the fitting of shoes merely was a matter of 'size' if the shoe pinched at any point, it was too small; if the foot had excess room at any point, the shoe was too large. Very little attention was paid to the scores of foot peculiarities which call for special attention in modern fitting.

"Shoes as manufactured are based on the foot of average shape. Thousands of feet are measured, and the results carefully co-ordinated and catalogued. Shoes then are built to conform to the average specifications.

Many Lasts Available
"But this is not enough. A shoe which fits perfectly at the heel may be all wrong at some other point, and vice versa. Thus the development of the modern technique of fitting, through which the customer is offered such a tremendous range of sizes and lasts that she is assured practically of shoes made to order.

"There are narrow heels and wide heels. Toe and instep measurement the same. There are special dimensions to cover almost any peculiarity or deviation from the average. Not only is the whole length of the foot measured, but the length between toe and instep. The height of the arch is considered, and the shape of the heel, the shape of the instep and the general shape of the whole foot. The foot must be held firmly at all points to prevent sliding about in the shoe, yet there must be no discomfort at any point.

Heels Must Fit
"Stockings play an important role in foot health," says Dr. Joseph Lelyveld of a foot clinic in Boston, "especially for growing children. The stockings should be sufficiently long to extend about an inch beyond the longest toe. This will prevent crowding the toes (and thus safeguard the feet against ingrown toe nails and large joints. The shoe should be long enough to prevent pressure on any part of the foot. Shoes never should be worn with run-down heels.

"It is well to remember that most of the foot troubles found in men and women have had their foundation laid during the time when they attended school. If shoes are carefully selected and expertly fitted, the feet periodically examined, minor defects easily can be corrected.

"Correct posture is essential to good health. If the organs of the body are to function properly, are to perform their duties without pain and discomfort, we must carry our bodies erect, shoulders even and well back, abdomen in and back straight. We cannot do this if the feet are crippled by corns, callouses or weakened or fallen arches.

"Prevention is better than cure. And nothing is better for the feet, and the general health, too, for that matter, than walking — the perfect exercise."

Maybe it was some fairy godmother who placed the mother of a film executive in the audience at a little musical play in which Roberta appeared. At any rate, voice and screen tests were arranged for her and a featured player's contract was the result.
