

SHAMROCK NEGROES GUARDED

Rally For Small Here Will Be Gigantic Event For Whole Panhandle

"That's gold in these here prairies."

The Pampan listened attentively to Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Chairman Alexander Legge of the Federal Farm Board in their addresses at Amarillo Friday.

Secretary Hyde, mellowed in wit and judgment by Missouri problems and experiences, made a common sense talk. He recalled the days when the farmer grew his food. He wore homespun clothing. His crops brought the extra necessities and luxuries of life. He depended relatively little for his happiness upon what he sold.

Today it is otherwise. Agriculture is not a manner of living; it is an industry, Mr. Hyde pointed out. The farmer operates a factory producing, as in the case of wheat, one product. He sells that product and with the income therefrom he buys the necessities of life. If the price of the product drops, he is distressed and may lack even proper food for himself and his family. He is no longer king of his acres, and independent, with well filled cellars and a reserve food supply for lean years.

The farmer's difficulty, it was declared, is that he is an industrialist must obey the laws of economics which govern all industries. When a manufacturer of tin cups, ginger, or automobiles finds he is putting out a greater supply than he can sell, he must either reduce the price of his product and induce purchasers to buy a double quantity at practically the old price for one or he must curtail his output and reduce his overhead. Carrying this analogy into agriculture, Secretary Hyde said that the farmer must curtail the wheat crop or sell more bushels for the same money that fewer bushels would bring.

Whereas the farm surplus used to be a matter of family pride, now it is a question of international marketing. Today there are forty million more acres of wheat in cultivation than there were a few years ago. Russia, Australia, and Argentina are turning fertile lands, close to seaboard, to wheat culture. They are matching their lower standards of living and their lower production costs with the American farmer.

Chairman Legge delivered a clear-cut ultimatum straight from his massive shoulders. It was: Cut wheat production to domestic demand and do not match your standard of living against that of other countries through entrance into the world market.

Last year the Farm Board, through its stabilization corporation bought about 60,000,000 bushels of wheat to wipe out a surplus. Then a plea was made to the farmer to prevent repetition of a surplus this year. But the 1930 crop is piling up another big surplus in virtually all countries. Meanwhile the Farm Board is paying a million dollars per month storage on the wheat it bought last year. Having no market for the old wheat and getting no curtailment this year, the Board is taking the hard-billed attitude that it is through buying up surpluses, and that if the wheat farmer is saved he must save himself through organization. It is unwelcome news, however truthful.

Granting that the Farm Board "is not interested in the export market for the American wheat farmer," and that production must be cut to home demand, it remains for the farmers to do as directed, for they evidently can hope for no magic from the Farm Board. The wheat farmer is very definitely, it appears to The Pampan, "on his own."

Mr. Hyde and Mr. Legge gave the impression of being honest, alert business men. Their first falling-out was believed it to be such—as to assume that the laws of supply and demand is inexorable and that the

Bands Are Invited to Come Here for Parade

CANDIDATE TO USE AIRPLANE

Event to Be Only One of Kind on Plains

Complimenting his many friends of the North Plains, Senator Clint C. Small, candidate for governor, will fly from Lubbock to Pampa Friday afternoon to make his only campaign speech in the Panhandle at a huge roundup of Small supporters on the courthouse lawn here at 8 o'clock.

Though he can ill-afford to spare the time to campaign in a section that is obviously for him almost 100 per cent, Senator Small is coming to Pampa to express his gratitude for the loyal support Panhandle citizens have given him. Judge Newton P. Willis, chairman of the Pampa Small-for-Governor club said, Lee Sakerwhite, state campaign manager for Small, in a telephone conversation with Judge Willis yesterday morning said that the senator had arranged to spend a few hours in Pampa after the Lubbock speaking engagement.

The Small rally here Friday night is regarded by chairman of Small clubs in the Panhandle as the major expression of political approval of Small that will be held in West Texas, and delegations from every town in the Panhandle north of Childress are scheduled to attend the roundup. A half dozen bands have been invited and several of these have already accepted invitations to attend the meeting. The rally will be given detailed publicity on the front pages of all weekly and daily newspapers in the Panhandle, according to J. Herbert Walker, who is managing publicity for the event.

It is believed that Senator Small will arrive late in the afternoon, and his arrival will be the signal for the commencement of a huge parade of bands and delegations through the business district of Pampa. The town will be decorated in holiday fashion with flags and bunting. Honored guests at the rally will be Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Small of Shamrock, parents of the Panhandle candidate. The Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development are arranging special features for the occasion.

The Small-for-Governor club, of which Mel Davis is secretary, is busy this week perfecting arrangements for the event, and Small enthusiasts predict that the biggest crowd in the history of Pampa will attend the rally.

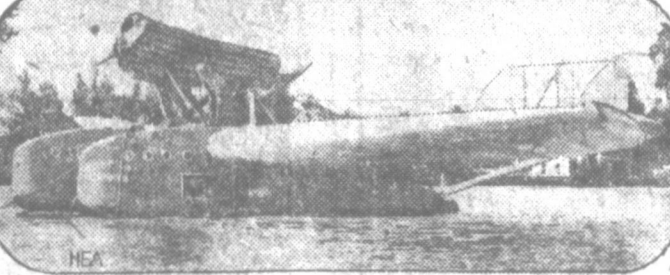

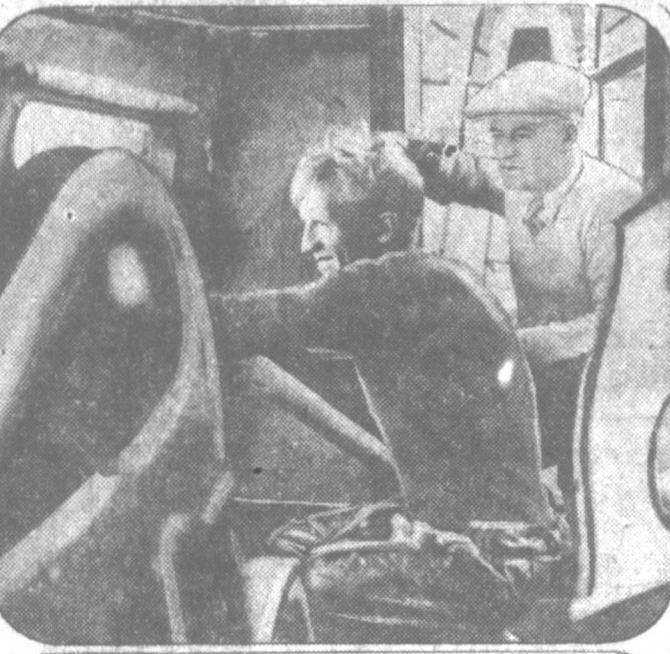

Arrangements are now being made to care for all visitors who expect to spend the night here. When the hotels are full, visitors will be conducted to private homes, and officials of the Small club request all citizens who will provide rooms for the guests to notify Miss Aurelia Miller at Small headquarters in the

Big Passenger Plane Battles Storm

Ships that sail the skies have their troubles with storms, just like those that sail the oceans. This giant $75,000 amphibian plane, carrying nine New York golfers to the National Open tournament at Minneapolis, was forced down on Lake Ontario near Rochester, N. Y., and nearly wrecked by a 55-mile gale that battered it against the docks. U. S. coast guards towed the airplane to safety two miles off shore where Chief Mechanic Art Simpson, one member of the crew of four, is shown pumping water out of the passenger cabin.

FIRE DEPARTMENT RESORTS TO TRICK TO AVOID CITIZENS WHO RUSH TO BLAZE AFTER ALARM

Yesterday morning the fire department resorted to a new trick in eluding those motorists who at every fire get in front of the trucks and attempt to arrive first at the scene of the blaze.

When a call came in that a house on East Francis was blazing, Police Chief Downs first sent one truck to the west part of town. This drew the fire fans and fooled them nicely. In the meantime Fire Marshal George Latus drove the other truck in record time, unimpeded and undeterred. The firemen arrived just in time to extinguish a blaze in a new house on East Francis, owned by W. D. Martin. The house had not been occupied. The fire started in a chest. Cause of the blaze is not known. Damage was slight.

Erick Negro Is Afraid He Will Confront Mob

There is a negro in the city jail who was trembling with fear this morning at the thought of going back to Erick, Okla., from whence he had seven other blacks fled in a stolen automobile yesterday.

"Man, 'em white folks in 'at town give us 15 minutes to leave and we hopped in 'e just cab we seen. 'Ain't been so skeered in all uv mah life. They was niggers runnin' in ever' direction. Man, 'em white folks was sho mad," the negro said. "Don't let 'em take me back to 'at town!" he begged Chief Downs. "They'll lynch me as sho as ah'm alive."

An Erick officer will arrive in Pampa this afternoon to take the negro and the car back to the Oklahoma town. Erick citizen incensed at the death of Mrs. Henry Vaughan of Shamrock, member of a prominent Erick family, who was killed by a negro on a farm near Shamrock Friday, have driven many negroes out of their town and have announced their intention of driving out all of them.

YOUTH KILLS WOMAN THEN BURNS BODY

Breaks Down When He Is Confronted By Police

ATTENDS SHOW AFTER CRIME

Thought Evidence of Murder Was Destroyed

PORTLAND, Maine, July 14. (AP)—A 22-year-old youth, alleged by police to have confessed the brutal slaying of a 20-year-old girl when she repulsed his advances, today pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder.

James M. Mitchell was arrested yesterday a few hours after the charred body of Miss Lillian I. MacDonald was found in a furnace in the basement of a stationery store, where both were employed.

The young woman was last seen alive Saturday morning when she went to the basement to distribute pay envelopes.

She had approximately $800 and Mitchell, according to County Attorney Ralph M. Ingalls, said he took only his pay and burned the remainder of the body.

Mitchell, officers said, made advances to the young woman and when she snuffed his face, picked up the shaker of the furnace, struck her over the head and then delivered another blow as she fell to the floor. He then pushed her body into the furnace and burned it along with rubbish and waste paper.

The court today remanded him to jail without bail for the September term of Superior court.

While fellow employees and police searched the entire store for a trace of the girl when she was reported missing shortly before noon Saturday, Mitchell went about his regular duties in the basement, keeping a close watch on the furnace. Officers who questioned him at that time were told that Miss MacDonald had paid him off and then walked towards the rear of the basement. Although many of the officials believed at that time that the young woman had left the place with the payroll, the girl's relatives feared she had been kidnaped.

When he believed the evidence of his crime destroyed, Mitchell donned his hat and coat and sauntered from the building.

He spent the afternoon at a local bathing beach, attended a motion picture show in the evening, and then purchasing a "murder mystery" magazine went home to read and sleep.

He was still in bed when officers went to his home. He maintained his innocence for almost an hour, according to Ingalls, but broke down when shown the high school ring of his victim found in the furnace, the blood stained grate shaker and the iron pipe.

Ten Texans Die Over Week-End

Ten Texans were dead today as the aftermath of a series of shootings, drownings, automobile accidents, and other causes over the Sunday holiday.

C. S. Maxson was shot to death in his home at Dallas when he was aroused from his sleep to confront a prowler in his room. Olin Swinnea was shot to death at Bremond, Carl Hoggard of Meallen drowned in the waters of the Rio Grande, Orville C. Scott, perished in a lake near Seguin, and J. D. Ferguson, 19, drowned while swimming near Cleburne, Felix White of Teague and W. C. Bradford of Fort Worth were victims of automobile accidents. Sue Webb of Houston died of burns when gasoline she was using cleaning clothes was ignited. Cecil Lefflar, 17, died of injuries received when he dived into shallow water at Lueders.

Mrs. Josie Berry, 70, of Borger, died from a snake bite, received yesterday while on a picnic with relatives.

When Hoover Met Young Biographer

"To our President, Herbert Hoover, from the author, William J. Marsh, Jr., New Milford, Conn., July, 1930, age 11 years." That's the inscription in the book presented to the Chief Executive by Billy Marsh, left, who wrote a biography of Mr. Hoover and printed it at home with the aid of his brother Charles, shown at right. After this meeting on the south lawn of the White House, the boys were shown about inside, where they met Mrs. Hoover and gave her one of the books. "They're the greatest people in the world," gasped Billy, and Charles too moved for words.

DAILY NEWS EMPLOYEE DIES

Miss Frances McKenzie, member of the Pampa Daily News mechanical staff as compositor for more than two years, died at St. Anthony's sanitarium in Amarillo early yesterday morning.

The News closed its doors this afternoon, and members of the organization attended the funeral of their beloved associate. Miss McKenzie joined the Nunn-Warren organization about four years ago, and was held in high esteem by acquaintances in the profession at papers all over the Panhandle.

She was not only a young woman of fine qualities, friendly spirit, and loyalty to friends and employers, but was skilled in her craft to a degree seldom attained by women operators. She made her home with Mrs. Ellen Chapman, 102 S. West street. She was a member of the Methodist church.

She was stricken suddenly while at the home of an uncle, Cinda Jones, near Clarendon, last week. A heart attack caused her to lapse into unconsciousness and she failed to rally, dying soon after being taken to the Amarillo hospital. Neither she nor her friends had realized the seriousness of her illness, and she was confidently looking forward to returning from her vacation.

Miss McKenzie formerly was employed by the Clarendon News and by the Panhandle Herald.

Her parents were with her when the end came.

Aviation Club Formed—Plane Is Brought Here

A Kinner-powered American Eagle biplane was delivered here yesterday afternoon to the Pampa Flying club by "Guss" Erwin and Ray Shiftlet.

Erwin, with 7 others, compose the club which was formed Friday for the purpose of promoting aviation in Pampa. The plane purchased by the club is a three-place dual control with a 100 horse power Kinner motor, and cost $3,750. Members of the club are Guss Erwin, J. A. Clift, D. B. Furlington, C. H. Baer, J. M. Ormsby Ray Sledge, C. S. Gordon, and E. C. Hatfield. Half of the members have hours of flying credit; Guss Erwin, 175, J. A. Clift, 65, D. B. Furlington, 14, and C. H. Baer 12.

"Gabe" Kennedy, licensed transport pilot, will be the instructor of the club which will have the franchise for the sale of the American Eagle planes in this section. J. A. Clift, who has had 65 hours in the air, is enthusiastic over the performance of the American Eagle stating that the new ship was flown from Kansas City to Mangrove, Okla., a distance of 475 miles, in 3 hours and 50 minutes.

Plotted by "Guss" Erwin, the plane was flown to Panhandle this morning, D. B. Furlington and E. C. Hatfield were passengers.

The club will be incorporated under the laws of Texas and is expected to be a factor in the development of aviation here.

RANGERS TO PREVENT ALL MOB ACTIVITY

"Threatening" Spirit Is Reported Last Night

ERICK CHASES ALL OF BLACKS

Murder of Woman Is Cause of Race Trouble

SHAMROCK, July 14. (AP)—Strict guard was kept today by Sheriff W. E. McLemore over the negro quarter here, as he awaited the arrival of four Texas Rangers from Austin, sent to assist in preventing possible mob reprisals for the death of Mrs. Henry Vaughan, farm wife of Collinsworth county, who was beaten to death by a negro assailant.

The rangers were sent last night by Pat Dougherty, secretary to Governor Dan Moody, in response to a request from Sheriff McLemore. The sheriff described the situation as "threatening" but the town remained quiet.

Saturday night, a mob of several hundred men had invaded the negro section of Shamrock, threatening to burn houses and "run them out of town," after notices had been posted, warning the negroes to leave. Sheriff McLemore and a hastily summoned corps of deputies stood guard during most of the night, until the mob finally dispersed, the sheriff having threatened to shoot anyone attempting disorders.

Nearby in the town of Erick, Okla., where Mrs. Vaughan formerly lived, a mob of similar size visited negro homes driving about 25 negro families away. Yesterday, J. L. Crane, night marshal, said not a negro was left in Erick.

Sheriff M. L. Inman of Beckham county, Oklahoma, said deputy M. V. Baker and City Marshal Calvert or Erick were powerless to stop the mob, although they pleaded against violence and the mob remained orderly.

Jesse Lee Washington, negro accused in the slaying of Mrs. Vaughan, was believed to be in the Oklahoma State Reformatory at Granite, where he was taken Friday by Sheriff McKinney of Collingsworth county, Texas, for safekeeping, after he had hurried away from the Vaughan farm with the negro prisoner as a mob pursued him in automobiles.

Haskell Boy Is Killed In Dive

LUEDERS, July 14. (AP)—Cecil LeFlar, 17, Haskell high school student, was dead today, after receiving a broken neck and fractured skull when he dived into shallow water in a swimming pool here yesterday. He lived five hours after the accident.

LeFlar's dive was from a limb of a tree 30 feet above the water. Plunging almost straight downward his head struck a rock four feet below the surface.

Governor Moody Attacks Ferguson

DALLAS, July 14. (AP)—Gov. Dan Moody broke his long silence on the current political campaign today and discussed his favorite subject "Fergusonism."

In a formal statement issued "To The People of Texas," the governor warned that Former Gov. James E. Ferguson was "attempting to get hold of the government of Texas through three different channels." He said Ferguson not only was trying to put Mrs. Ferguson in the governor's chair, but charged he was interested in making Cecil Storey of Vernon attorney general and that he was supporting a number of legislative candidates who were favorable to him and his governmental ideas.

ABOUT THAT OUSTER MOVE

Opponents of Clint Small in his campaign for nomination as governor harp on the fact that Small as state senator coming from a district which voted heavily against Al Smith in the presidential election, joined a movement in the legislature to bar all such voters from the Democratic primaries of this year.

Well, Clint did do that, but he is sorry he did it now, and he is just as warmly friendly to those whom he opposed as he is to those who voted as he did. Folks shouldn't be too vindictive in their political alignments. The next campaign nearly always provides new alignments, and yesterday's enemies often become today's close friends. The legislature knew that such a law was unconstitutional and were having a little fling at Governor Moody, whom they knew would have to veto the bill under the law—thus they pleased the Al Smith Democrats who were "hot under the collar" at getting licked, and at the same time did no damage to the majority of their constituents who differed with them. Politics is usually like that and the great majority of Democrats here in the Panhandle who put this district in the Hoover column, will march up to the polls July 26 and vote heartily for Clint Small. Clint will appreciate it and will not forget those who lay down prejudices of former years to aid him in his brilliant battle for the nomination as chief executive of Texas.—Clarendon News.

CUTTING PRODUCTION COST

Necessity is the mother of invention, so it is said. If this be true, it probably accounts for the fact that Floyd County farmers have greatly reduced their production costs in recent years, particularly in regard to the production of wheat. It is an open secret that had the present crop of wheat in Floyd County been produced on a cost basis that was prevalent here eight years ago, the crop would have bankrupted the country, whereas the crop has been produced, by and large, on a basis that would permit the man who got reasonable production, to make some profit. This statement may meet with a certain degree of displeasure, but it is true nevertheless. Some crops made money in Floyd County, this season, and altogether because the cost was cut when plowing season started last fall.

If wheat must be produced at the low basis on which it is now being sold, the second patent fact is that the cost must be kept down. There are instances where this cannot be done, and although the price of wheat may go up, still there are plenty of economists who claim it cannot or will not for the present, average weather conditions the world over being conceded. It should pay to keep the matter of cost in mind. If the bill is going to be too high for the production of wheat at 70 cents or lower on any particular farm then the wheat better be planted in sudan or something, they tell us.—Floyd County Hesperian.

JONES LIKELY TO RETIRE ON NEXT VICTORY

NEW YORK, July 14. (AP)—The 28-year-old monarch of the links, Bobby Jones, already three-time champion of the world, may retire from active competition if he completes his record-shattering march by regaining the American amateur championship at the Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, in September.

The emperor himself, back home today in Atlanta after his third straight victory of the year and his twelfth in eight years, has not definitely committed himself to any plans beyond competing in the last big event of the current season. But if he wins, there will be no more worlds of golf to conquer, no records to break except his own and his friends believe he will bid at least a temporary farewell to the swirling fields of championship action.

Win or lose at Merion this year, Jones has set up a mark that generations of succeeding golfers probably will shoot at in vain—when he went abroad this spring with the Walker cup team, the odds were 50 to 1 against Bobby's winning all four of the major British and American championships. He has hurdled three of the four obstacles by winning the British amateur, British open and American open within a period of seven weeks. He has sustained the confidence of his home-town friends who backed him at the quoted figures and he now will go into the final fixture, the American amateur, at least an even-money favorite against the field, in spite of the pitfalls that lurk in match play.

For years there has not been any question of Jones' supremacy at medal play, the art of baffling old man par. Yet it has taken the super-performance of the champion of the links to go out this year, in the face of the strongest challenge he has ever had, to beat back the best of British and American professionals in the two greatest scoring tests the game can show.

At Interlachen, barely a week off the boat from Europe, the experts figured Jones would show the effects of the terrific strain he underwent abroad, especially in a succession of nerve-racking matches in the British amateur tournament. It was thought the human machine might slow down.

Jones bowled over the dope, the opposition and the records at Interlachen. He shattered the course record on his third round with a 68, the best he has ever scored in the event and a performance that put all his rivals except MacDonal Smith to rout. He finished with a 72-hole figure of 287, his own lowest in American competition and within a stroke of tying Chick Evans' all-time mark. He sank a 40-foot putt on the home green to finish two strokes ahead of his nearest rival, Mac Smith, who ended a vain but gallant chase in 189. He was five strokes in front of Horton Smith, the young professional who led at the halfway mark.

REDS BREAK DOWN WHEN ON THE ROAD

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer. The Cincinnati Reds have developed quite a punch at home, but it is strangely lacking when they take the road.

Last week they looked like a team of world beaters at Redland field, taking four straight games from Chicago. They still looked good as they picked on the humble Phillies for three more victories, but yesterday when they moved to New York, they lost 9 to 5. They drove out a few runs to lead for a while then subsided when faced by Joe Eving while the Giants started there and scored most of their runs in the last half of the game. This result left the Reds with ten victories on the road and 24 at home.

The Cubs moved to Boston yesterday and lost two games to the Braves, 2 to 1 and 2 to 0. The first Boston victory was due to Harry Seibold's pitching, the second to the Massachusetts law which makes it necessary to stop Sunday games promptly at 6 o'clock. That hour came after the Cubs had scored four runs in the ninth but before that inning ended and the score reverted to the eighth.

Chicago's double defeat came as something of a boon to the league leading Brooklyn Robins. They lost one of the year's toughest decisions to Pittsburgh, 1 to 0, but still gained a half game. Jim Elliott gave the Pirates only four hits while the Robins made nine off Larry French but wasted their opportunities by slumped base running.

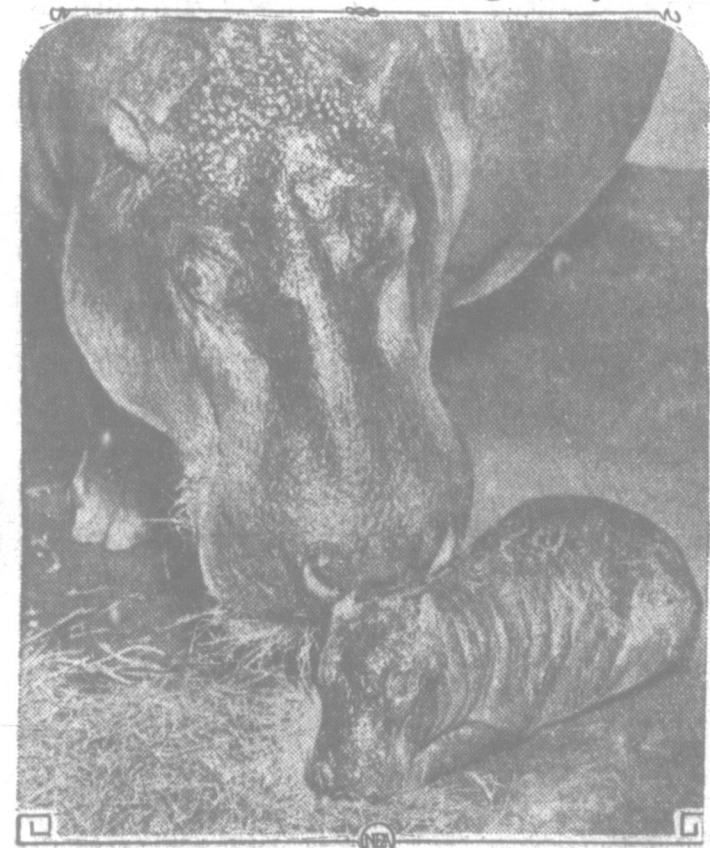

The other National league clubs were idle. The Philadelphia Athletics once again forced to the top of the American league standing by pounding out a 12 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Browns while Detroit beat Washington, 4 to 3. These results placed the Athletics a full game in the lead.

The world's champions hammered out 17 hits, bunching them for five runs in the first inning and four in the third while Roy Mahafey held the still-slipping Browns in check. For the second successive time the Senators broke their rule of using only one pitcher to a game and Burke, the second, was charged with the defeat as Vic Sorrell won his own game by sending Koenig home with a single in the eighth.

CUBS SHOW NEW LIFE IN SECOND LAP

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer. The distinction of furnishing most of the paprika for the second half of the Texas league marathon so far has gone to the Waco Cubs. Well down the line throughout the first half, the Prattmen have taken on new life since the schedule was divided, largely through the sterling play of a pair of rookie infielders, Moleworth and Piet, and the steady clouting of Gene Rye.

The dawn of the current week found the Cubs in third place, only three games behind the speeding Spudders. For the next three nights they encounter the Shreveport Sports in the newly lighted Biedenharn park, and chances are they will strengthen their position. Not that the Cubs size up as a stronger outfit than the Louisiana entry, but the fact that they have won eleven out of twelve nocturnal starts is not to be overlooked.

Old Paul Wechtel made one of his periodical returns from the baseball boneyard to give the Prattmen a 6 to 0 victory over Port Worth in yesterday's final. Always a hot weather hurler, Paulie found the sizzling day much to his liking and held the Panthers in check scattered blows. Further, he led the Cubs' attack on four Cat chumpers with three singles.

Ray Caldwell bested Jimmy Walkup in a hurling duel at Wichita Falls as the Spuds took their final from Beaumont, 1 to 0. The leaders put across the only run of the game in the ninth on a double steal and Crouch's single. Caldwell gave up only five hits, of which four were divided between Easterling and Eckhardt. Walkup allowed six, with Burns and Fitzgerald getting two apiece. The loss shoved the Shippers deeper into the cellar, they having won only five games since the season was split.

Hugh Willingham's triple, followed by Gene Moore's sacrifice fly in the sixth, gave the Dallas Steers a 4 to 3 triumph over Houston in the rubber game of their series. Besepectacle Lee Meadows pitched noble ball for the Bovines after the first inning, when the Buffs scored twice, and had a slight edge on Ralph Judd. Mibhkin jotted Meadows for a homer in the first frame.

Shreveport barged two San Antonio twirlers for 15 hits, seven of them for extra bases, to make their closer, 8 to 3. Whelan featured the winners' assault with a freak homer that rolled through a hole in the fence. The Indians touched Oscar Estrada up for 11 blows but found him tight in the clinches. Dondero's double was the only extra base of the lot.

Week to Bring Good Bouts As Titles Are Risked

NEW YORK, July 14. (AP)—Once more Sammy Mandell, clever champion of the lightweights, is ready to gamble his crown against the spirited bid of a youth with dynamite in his right hand. Sammy meets young Al Singer, pride of the Bronx, in a 15-round titular battle at the Yankee stadium Thursday night.

Two years ago, a youngster just as promising as Singer and with an even deadlier punch, went into the ring with the champion at an even money and come out with the worst beating of his career. He was Jimmy McLarrin of Vancouver, now grown into a full-fledged waterweight. In that fight, McLarrin was cut to pieces by Mandell's accurate left hand and never found any use for the undoubted punch he had in either hand.

Expert observers believe that Singer will meet the same fate. In a championship battle at Hartford, Conn., tonight, Bat Battalino, Hartford boy who holds the world's featherweight championship, will meet Ignacio Fernandez of the Philippines, whose greatest victory was a three round knockout of Singer.

At Cleveland on Thursday night, Johnny Risko of Cleveland will meet Tom Heesey, New Zealand heavyweight, in a 12-rounder.

Rangers Study Strange Death

HUNTSVILLE, July 14. (AP)—Two state Rangers today were assigned to the investigation into the death of Earl R. Swanger, candidate for district attorney, whose body was found last Tuesday in his wrecked car, beneath a bridge on the highway near here.

Governor Dan Moody yesterday offered a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person implicated in the case, if it were proved that Swanger was murdered instead of accidentally killed in the automobile crash, as the justice of the peace held in an inquest.

GULF GUNS HIT STRIDE TO ELIMINATE MAGNOLIA TEAM IN AMARILLO TOURNAMENT

Avenging a defeat suffered a week ago, the Gulf Guns, loaded with big ammunition, bombarded the Magnolias throughout nine innings yesterday at the Amarillo tournament and when the smoke cleared away the Mags were ready to o home and the Guns were confidently planning to rout their next opponent.

The final score was 10 to 2, as compared with the 11 to 3 victory of the Mags over the Guns here July 6.

It was the first time in weeks that the Guns played baseball worthy of their individual players. The same Magnolias who hit Haddock promiscuously last Sunday felt lucky to get 7 hits yesterday. The Guns pounded Varnell for 14 hits. Phillips, Guns shortstop, slammed out two home runs, while Al Williamson, Gun third-sacker, knocked one out of the lot to complete the circuit.

Haddock struck out six and Varnell, three. Neither team scored in the first two innings, but in the third the Mags tallied one. In their half of the third the Guns started their scoring rampage, scoring four runs. Then ran in two in the sixth, one in the seventh and two in the eighth. Roberts clouted two two-base hits and Wight and Bozeman for the Mags, one three-base hit each. The Mag counters were run in by Baldwin and Bozeman, in the third and ninth.

Marcum, Williamson, and Phillips scored two each for the Guns. Other runs were made by Cox, Roberts, Sullivan and Haddock. The Mags committed four errors and the Guns two.

It seems the Guns have at last struck a winning combination. Their line-up had undergone changes since the Tack victory last Thursday. The Gun batting order yesterday: Roberts 2b, Cox 1b, Marcum cf, Phillips ss, Weatherred lf, Sullivan c, Morgan rf, Williamson 3b.

Atlanta Admirers of Jones Planning Great Welcome ATLANTA, Ga., July 14. (AP)—Atlanta declared a holiday today to give Bobby Jones, a "pretty happy" golfing warrior of 28, a welcome fit for an emperor.

Bobby said he was "pretty happy" to capture the national open title, but that modest phrase was much too mild to express the pent up enthusiasm of his Atlanta admirers, most of whom had not seen him since he departed in the spring to win the British amateur and open crowns.

He probably was more interested in a reunion with his enterprising son, age three, who added whistling to his accomplishments in the absence of his father. But friends of the lawyer-golfer insisted upon a formal reception, a parade, bands, an official holiday and all the other trappings of public functions. Many said they were determined to surpass, in noise at least, the welcome tendered Bobby in New York.

DANCING JUDITH

BY CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

Judith Grant, beautiful Greenwich Village artist's model and dancer, shares her apartment with Clarissa Morley, known as Chummy, a beautiful girl who lost her memory seven years ago when Alan Steyne, artist, her lover, abruptly disappeared, and who has been affixed mentally ever since. Steyne reappears, and Judith and Bastien Dumont, another artist, bring him to Chummy; but Chummy falls utterly to recognize him, and a doctor tells him that she probably will never regain her memory. (Steyne, who has inherited enough money to make him fairly prosperous, provides medical attention for his former sweetheart and tries to bring her memory back to her, but—Judith's dismay—seems more interested in Judith than in Chummy. Finally he tells Judith frankly that he is not in love with Chummy, explaining that he had been infatuated with her in the old days but that he had never dreamed that his disappearance would affect her as it did. He cannot marry her, he says, unless she recovers her memory and feels that he is honor bound to do so.)

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER V

A week later Alan Steyne came into the Cafe Turc, where Judy was eating her sausage sandwich after another exhausting morning with Max Dickbread.

"I say, will you have dinner with me tonight and go to a show?" he asked eagerly.

"Can't," the girl replied. "Chummy's got another cold—a bad one."

"Oh, but couldn't you come alone?" His voice was a little more eager still. "It's my birthday."

"I couldn't leave Chummy," she said. "But couldn't you get someone to stay with her? There's that nice girl in your building—"

"Clara Jenks!" Judy's voice trembled a little. She struggled between a desire and a sense of duty. "Well, I dare say she would stay with Chummy. She's out of a job just now. But—"

Judy heaved several sighs as she went up the last of the seven flights to Chummy's room. On the way she had called on Clara Jenks, and had asked her if she would sit with Chummy and get her some supper. Clara agreed with alacrity. She was the soul of good nature—a struggling artist, a born comedienne who never got a part that suited her. At the moment she was out of work.

Judy then told Chummy of the invitation. Chummy was delighted, and said that of course Judy must go.

"He wanted you to go to," Judy replied emphatically. "We shan't have half such a good time, Chummy, darling!"

She hugged her friend. Chummy was very hot, and said she wanted to sleep. She felt feverish herself. Her heart beat very fast and loud. It was the first time she had ever known that she had a heart. Her conscience was troublesome, too. She knew that she wanted to go to dinner and a show with Alan Steyne more than she had ever wanted to do anything in all her life; and she was glad that Chummy had a cold!

It was all instinctive. Judy was easily excited, and that strange flutter in her breast was a new sensation. Judy had only one dress suitable for such an occasion. It had belonged to Max Dickbread's sister. He had painted Judy in it, and had told her to keep it. It was golden, with a gorgeous sash of flame and emerald. The neck was cut round, and it had tiny sleeves of gold lace. Above each ear Judy fastened a flame-colored velvet poppy.

Over her dress she threw a black-velvet cloak of rather tawdry material, but made in a fashionable shape. Her only pair of white gloves were soiled, so she carried them in her hands. She went in to be admired by Chummy. Steyne ran up the stairs, punctual to the moment. He greeted Chummy, and they went off immediately. They dined at a smart restaurant where Judy had never been before. It was a real gala night. There were violets on the table, and they drank champagne. The lights were shaded with some blue stuff that looked like the sky. The women wore wonderful clothes. At the table next to them a white-haired woman, with black eyes and a rose-petal skin, was wearing some pearls that made Judy's big eyes nearly start out of her head. At first the girl's thoughts were all with the absent Chummy; but gradually, under the influence of the food and the wine and the soft music, Chummy's image faded, and the luxurious surroundings all seemed to merge into the handsome face and the laughing eyes on the other side of the small table. She had little consciousness of what they talked about. She knew that it was delightful talk—rather sly, probably, but it made a glow around her heart.

"Couldn't you come alone?" his voice was a little more eager. "It's my birthday."

Then it was time to go on to the opera house. Steyne gathered up the violets on the table and gave them to her. As they passed out of the restaurant, he said, with a touch of shyness in his low voice: "You are looking most awfully well tonight."

As she put on her cloak, Judy looked at herself in a mirror. Her own face looked strange to her. She certainly needed neither paint nor powder, and there was a starry shine in her eyes that had never been there before. She was no longer gaudy, like a dyed narcissus. In the lobby, as they were waiting for a cab, a big man stared hard at Judy. Then he bowed, smiled, and fixed his small, pale eyes admiringly on her. Something in his look made her flush, and she gave him a curt nod of recognition.

"Who's that, fellow?" Steyne asked with unfeigned disgust. "What a hideous brute!"

"I've forgotten his name," the girl answered, "but he's some rich man. He came to the cafe one night with Vincent Stornaway, the artist. It was awfully funny—Chummy told him he was an ugly man, and said he was like Punch. He was a sport about it, though—didn't seem to mind a bit."

The musicale passed like a dream. Judy, sitting in one of the best boxes, felt like a queen. Steyne sat a little behind her. They talked and laughed like children. Judy gave a great sigh when it was all over. They drove back in a cab. She had a key to open the big doors with. Alan used it, and they stepped into the house. He had dismissed the cab, saying that he would walk home.

"Oh, I've had such a lovely time!" Judy said with a catch in her voice. "It is good of you. I don't know when I've enjoyed myself so much."

There was one gas jet burning low to illuminate the cavernous-looking stone staircase. At the foot of it she turned and held out her hand.

"Steyne took it, muttered something almost inarticulate, and turned away; but the next moment he was back. Judy was crushed in his arms, and he was kissing her eyes, her hair, her lips—which met his with an irresistible response.

"Judy, little Judy!" he whispered triumphantly. "I love you—I love you! And you love me!"

"You mustn't!" she gasped. "You mustn't—Oh, how could I let you? You can't love me—you mustn't love me! You belong to Chummy. Do you think I'd steal you from my pal?"

must have skilled attention. She'll get a bit of sleep—I've seen to that; and I'll be in early in the morning."

Judy pulled his sleeve, and as she did so Alan Steyne's violets fell from her hands, a poor, withered bunch. She did not notice them, although a few moments ago the young man's arms had crushed them against her breast in that embrace which now was to her such a monstrous sin.

"Don't say she'll die!" she pleaded hoarsely. "I couldn't bear it!"

The doctor looked at her with the Irishman's quick response to emotion.

"We'll do all we can, Miss Judy," he said. "You must be hoping all the time."

He had to hurry away. Judy went into Chummy's room, and looked distractedly at the restless figure with the changed face and the burning ves of high fever. She felt utterly hopeless, and went out again to the landing to wait for the nurse.

"I never had such a fright in my life," Clara Jenks informed her. "What do you think? I'd given her her supper and gone to my room for a minute or two, and when I came back she was gone!"

"Gone!" exclaimed Judy. "Yes," said Clara. "She must have been light-headed all the time. Justly I thought of the cafe, and followed her; and there she was, drinking Vermouth and smoking. Bastien Dumont brought her back to me, and in an hour I saw there was something wrong; so I sent Bastien for O'Shane. Bastien was awfully good!"

Judy gave a groan. Chummy out, all alone, on cold night like that! The nurse arrived and went into the patient's room. Clara returned to her own quarters. Judy was just going to hers, to get into a dressing gown, when she heard a man's voice calling softly up the staircase:

"Judy—Miss Grant—may I come up?"

She stood irresolute for a moment, and then ran down. She met Alan Steyne on the third landing. "Haven't you gone?" she asked.

"No. How could I—without knowing? How is she?"

Judy was just on the point of hysteria.

"She may die tonight!" she whispered in passionate self-accusation. "I dare say she will, and it'll be my fault for leaving her—and your fault! I hate you—I never want to see you again! Chummy's dying—and we've been having a good time!"

Choking with sobs, she ran up the dark stairs again, leaving Alan to make his way out of the house.

"Gone!" exclaimed Judy. "Yes," said Clara. "She must have been light-headed all the time. Justly I thought of the cafe, and followed her; and there she was,

The Rumseys are going vacationing.

The milk's been stopped, the ice man has been called off, and the Man Who Delivers the Newspaper has been instructed to bring no more until further notice.

But the telephone will be left at home, drawing full pay in an empty house!

Something should be done about this!

Vacation rates for idle residence telephones

One solution (provided you're planning a vacation of 30 days or more) is to place your telephone on vacation half-rates while you are away.

It's a convenient way to save money. And—this to folks who sometimes have their telephones taken out—it spares you inconvenience on your return. That's because:

1. You pay just half the regular rate.
2. Service is reconnected quickly after you return—usually within 24 hours after you notify us.
3. You keep your present telephone number. (You'll lose it if you had your telephone removed.)
4. Your name remains in the telephone book.

Prowler Shoots Dallas Citizen

DALLAS, July 14. (AP)—Search continued today for a prowler, believed to have been a white tramp, who shot and fatally wounded Charles E. Maxson, 33, in his home here early yesterday.

Maxson, an ordained Baptist minister and Dallas salesman, awakened and discovered the prowler in his bedroom. Mrs. Maxson said when her husband ordered the man to leave, the intruder stared at him a few moments, as though watching to see if Maxson had a gun, then shot him.

She said as she and her husband screamed for help, the intruder fled. Neighbors saw him running toward the Dallas-Fort Worth pike along which numerous tourist camps are situated.

Maxson died later in a hospital. He had believed, in the darkness, that his assailant was a negro but Mrs. Maxson described him as a white man, slight of stature and with several days growth of beard on his face.

LOS ANGELES FINANCIER SHOT DURING TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, July 14. (AP)—Mortley H. Flint, Los Angeles financier, was shot to death in the Los Angeles city hall today.

The shooting occurred in the court room of Superior Judge Collier. Flint, who was a brother of the late United States Senator Frank P. Flint, was killed instantly.

Witnesses said the shots were fired by Frank O. Keaton, a real estate broker.

Flint was a witness in a suit of David C. Selznick, film executive against the Security First National Bank of Los Angeles.

After firing, Keaton threw his pistol at Flint, raised his hand and surrendered.

Flint came into prominence as a principal figure in the Julian Petroleum corporation stock swindle of 1927. Charges of violation of the corporate securities act were pending against Flint as well as other charges growing out of the Julian case.

At the time of the Julian crash he was vice-president of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank. He formerly was postmaster of Los Angeles.

The court room was in a turmoil. Flint had just stepped from the witness stand when Keaton, sitting in the second row, shot him in the throat.

Keaton said he had bought some bank stock from Flint's old concern several years ago and had suddenly decided to shoot him, but he did not know why. Three shots were fired, Flint was 65.

"I just decided to do it a little while ago," Keaton muttered.

"I've had that gun in my trunk 35 years. I heard Flint had just come and I went to the court room early and sat down.

Former Pampa Man Surrenders After Shooting

WICHITA FALLS, July 14. (AP)—Frank Blumhoff, 36, an oil field worker, was shot to death at his home here today. Dewey Harbace, 27, also an oil field worker who came from Pampa recently, surrendered to officers.

"Just as he came in front of me I decided to shoot him. I hadn't seen him for seven or eight years. I bought some stock from his old bank some time ago."

Keaton said he was 56. "This fellow ruined me—he ruined me," cried Keaton, who is a former real estate broker of Inglewood, Los Angeles suburb.

he is "through" with wheat relief, is in an embarrassing position in some respects. He has nothing more to offer than advice, which is good but not satisfying. He regards it as no problem of his to help work the plan that he suggests. His Board is admittedly unable to accomplish the task for which it was created. The problem of re-organizing American agriculture falls back upon the farmer himself, who is unfortunately in a position to do little about it. Agriculture as an industry is not a system, and cannot be helped as effectively as in the case with ordinary manufacturers.

Wheat and cotton are the big agricultural twins. Cotton has a better future, Mr. Legge surprised his audience by saying; because the acres on which it can be grown are relatively fewer. Wool is in a bad way, although there are no wool exchanges and speculation is almost totally absent in that industry.

The situation is made more serious because the depression is worldwide to an extent that has not been true for decades—Mr. Legge's position was not made easier because he Saturday saw the stabilization corporation sell much wheat to millers at 82 cents per bushel. That wheat was federal last year at $1.15 cents. The federal corporation took the loss, plus storage cost. Criticized for selling in competition with the farmers at harvest time, in an already dropping market, Mr. Legge said that contracts with millers were that they could purchase wheat held by them for the corporation in storage. To offset this selling, the corporation will buy a similar amount, which may repair the damage just done but cannot do more.

The Farm Board appears to have done little more than give the wheat farmer a heavier dose of the medicine that advocates of cooperative marketing have been giving him for years. Diversification will help, provided every farmer does not "let George do it."
