"Father of Eastland" Dies

Mrs. Keith-Miller Tells Associated Press of Hazardous Blind Flight

HAVANA, Dec. 2. (AP)—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, forced down in the Bahamas during a flight from Havana to New York, today gave the Associated Press the first story of her adventurous experience.

"A terrific gale blew me off my course somewhere between Havana and the mainland," she said. "Then my compass went haywire and I flew seven hours looking for a place to land."

"The gas began to run low and I got panicky. I didn't know whether I was in the Gulf of Mexico or somewhere over the Atlantic. It was a fearful relief when I did see a spot of land. I thought it was Florida."

"But it was this village called

Kemp Bay on Andros island. There was a terrific wind, but I came in with full motor, then stalled her and pancaked into the thick bushes. I looked the ship over and it was O. K.

"I started out to walk and it was 16 miles to the first telegraph station I came to. I walked all night over the roughest beach I ever saw. My feet were blistered and I was mighty tired. I am sorry I can't send you more."

That last reference was to the telegram by which this interview was obtained. The aviatrix sent it by wireless from Nassau to Miami and it went thence by cable to the Associated Press bureau at Havana.

C. U. Connelley Was Born in Fort Worth—Settled in Log Cabin in 1874.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 2. (AP)—C. U. Connelley, affectionately known over West Texas as "the father of Eastland," died at a hospital here at 5:30 o'clock this morning after an illness of almost three months. His wife, and daughter, Mrs. J. N. Graves, Dallas, were at his bedside.

The body was sent to Eastland today, and funeral services will be held there Wednesday afternoon.

Connelley came to Texas in 1874 from Kentucky, where he had graduated from the University of Kentucky in the engineering department. He settled in a log cabin in a spot which now is the downtown district of Eastland. In 1876 he laid out the town and named it in honor of William Eastland, one of his comrades in wrestling that section from the Indians.

For almost the entire 55 years Connelley spent in Texas his life was one of intense activity in furthering the welfare of the town and state he loved. He served in the Texas legislature in 1888 and personally wrote the separate coach law which provides for separating whites from negroes in transportation vehicles.

In 1889, when a meeting was held in St. Louis to prevent an effort to stop the shipment of Texas cattle with the assertion that the animals were diseased it was his speech which caused the matter to be dropped, without even a vote being taken.

Connelley in 1911 was appointed a member of the state board under O. B. Colquitt for the purpose of establishing a state tuberculosis colony. This board built the foundations for the state hospital which today cares for some 500 patients.

For the past six years Connelley served as a member of the board of regents of the Texas State College for Women (C. I. A.).

Those who survive Connelley, besides his widow are: A daughter, Mrs. J. N. Graves, Dallas; a stepdaughter, Monnie Jane Whittington, Eastland; a step-son, Jim Well Whittington, Eastland; and three grand-daughters, Mrs. G. E. Frey-chling, Eastland; Mrs. Dave May, Dallas; and Mrs. Joe Whitehead, Atlanta, Ga.

Attorneys and Farmers of Iowa And Illinois See Pampa Today

Farmers and attorneys of other farmers of Iowa and Illinois are today learning about pipelines and the right-of-way suit in Pampa, Texas, and the other service companies.

RIGHT-OF-WAY OWNERSHIP SUIT NOW IN COURT

AUSTIN, Dec. 2. (AP)—Suits to determine ownership of oil lands which form a part of railroad right-of-way were filed in district court today by Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt.

The Texas and Pacific railway, holder of a 10-mile right-of-way in Ward county, a part of which was university lands, was made principal defendant, with 31 other defendants named.

The railroad claimed title to the oil under the land as a part of their right-of-way holdings. Some of the other defendants owning land along the right-of-way claimed their titles extended to the middle of the track, subject only to the right of the railroad to use the strip for its tracks. Still other defendants have applied to purchase the right-of-way strip from the state, as unsurveyed public free school land and still others have applied for a permit to prospect, on the theory that the land is free school land.

While not questioning the right of the railroad company to use of the land as a right-of-way, Bobbitt explained that the state desires a legal ruling on the rights of all the litigants, including the state's claim of ownership.

A suit is pending in Ward county testing a part of the question, but this suit was instituted to make the state a party to the issues, as well as to bring all the issues into one suit at law.

"The situation," Bobbitt said, "seems to make it imperative that this suit be brought in order that the title to the oil and gas might be effectively adjudicated."

Bobbitt said he understood the situation in Ward county was paralleled in several other counties of the state, but had no estimate of the number of cases in which oil had been found or was believed to be on right-of-way strips.

Drive Demands Hard Work

CHECK WILL BE MADE BY COMMITTEE
Solicitors Are Asked to Make Quick Reports

In the absence of reports from a majority of the workers, the progress of the Community Chest drive could not be definitely checked today.

It was emphasized that the 200 solicitors should complete their territories as soon as possible and make their reports to headquarters at the B. C. D. rooms. The territories of each group or team were purposely made small so that canvassing could be completed quickly.

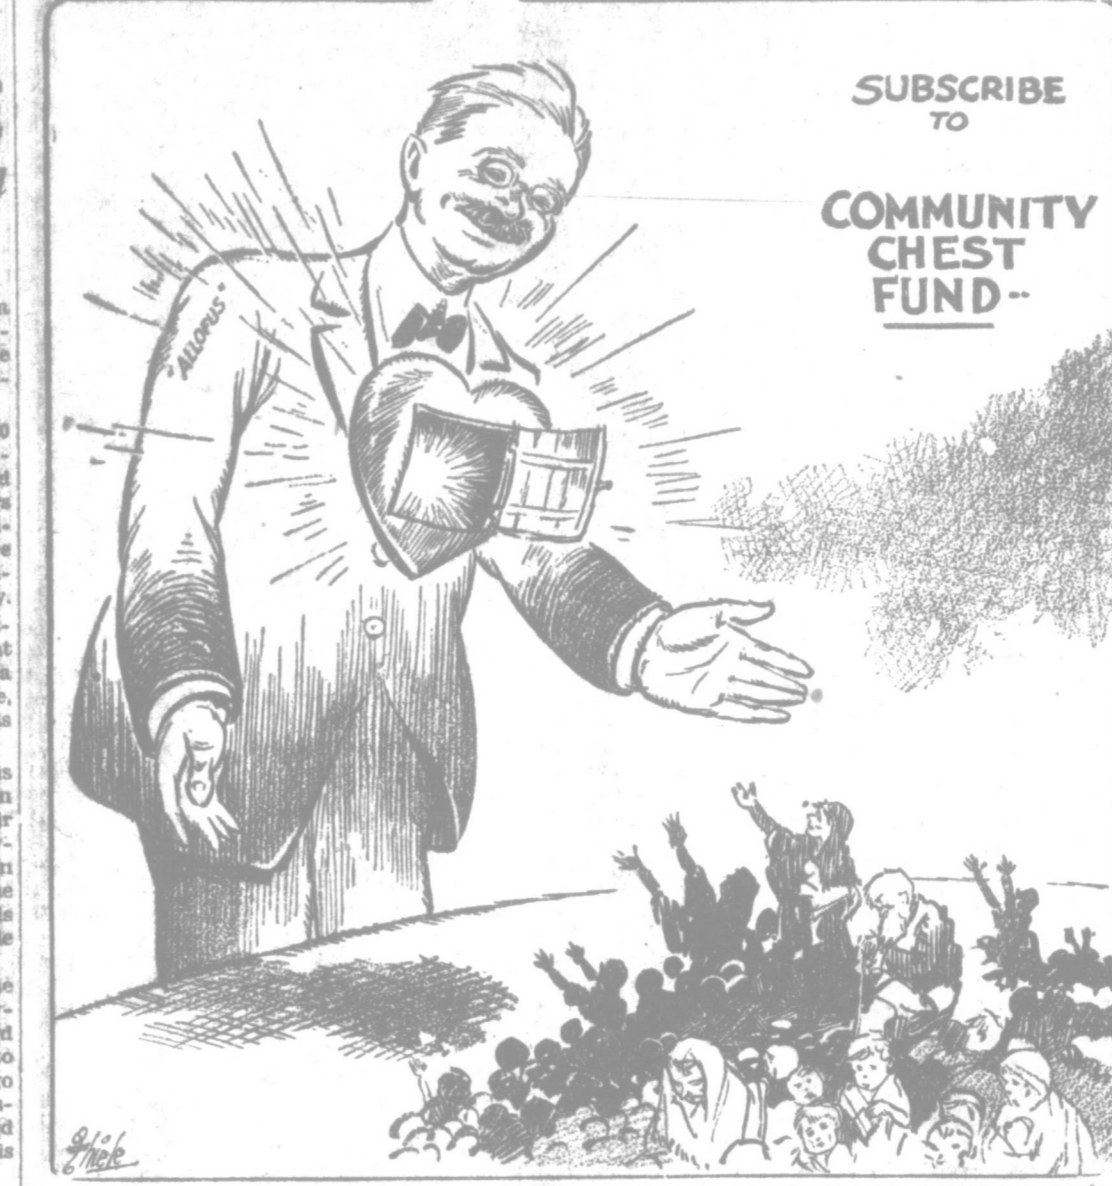

Progress of the drive will be outlined and a check of funds made at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at a session of the Chest committee, headed by Judge Ivy E. Dunsan as chairman of the drive.

Heads of member organizations are waiting anxiously for reports on the drive, which will determine their pro rata share of the funds. Several groups, notably the Salvation Army, the Welfare board, and the day nursery, need immediate funds to meet the growing demands made upon them.

The thermometer showing the trend of the drive was moving slowly upward this morning toward "warmer weather." It will have to get hot, however, before it can go "over the top." Intensive canvassing by the large group appointed by the central committee will, it is believed, bring immediate success.

Those persons whose names have been published but who have not reported at the headquarters office are urged to do so at once.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2. (AP)—The trial of Frankie Foster for the killing of the Tribune crime reporter, Alfred Lingle, was unexpectedly continued to Feb. 16 today just as a tentative jury had been chosen.

The prosecution had previously requested delay and even offered to release the alleged gunman on bond, but defense counsel had demanded trial.

Today the defense suddenly moved that the jury be withdrawn, the case continued to Feb. 16 and Foster admitted to $20,000 bond.

Special state's attorney Charles Rathbun concurred in the motion, saying the state did not wish to expose certain witnesses to the public eye at this time and that the trial might hamper the Lingle investigation.

A warrant charging vagrancy awaited to be served on Foster as soon as he was released on bond on the murder charge.

Foster's known connection with the Lingle case was the fact he bought the revolver with which the reporter was killed. He also was classed as an ally of George "Bugs" Moran, the enemy of Lingle's friend, Al Capone.

Hoover Asks Priority For Relief Legislation—Urges More Economy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—Poised for immediate action, congress today received from President Hoover recommendation that unemployment and drought relief legislation be given priority.

The annual presidential message was read first in the house, the membership listening attentively to the administration's program for prompt relief and disposal of unfinished business, including the controversial Muscle Shoals bills.

Authority to make increased temporary advances for federal road aid was asked by the President, together with a request for $150,000,000 to expedite construction and provide work.

"Such action," the President said, "will imply an expenditure of over $650,000,000 during the next 12 months."

Republicans and democrats already pledged to a bi-partisan relief work, were planning on putting forward measures to carry it into effect.

No figure was mentioned in connection with drought relief, but Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, has prepared a bill, bearing republican support, which calls for a $60,000,000 loan fund.

The chief executive forecast a deficit of $180,000,000 for the current fiscal year and a surplus of only $30,000,000 next year, even with discontinuance of the one per cent tax reduction on 1929 incomes.

"I can not emphasize too strongly the absolute necessity to defer any other plans for increase of government expenditures," he wrote.

"Right economy" is necessary, he said, if an increase in taxes is to be

The present attractively low prices of so many articles may not last long. If you happen to follow business conditions, you will recall, for example, that the price of copper was increased two cents a pound the other day.

Play safe and do your Christmas shopping early. Of course, it will be a lot easier than later, when every store is crowded.

GORDON FIRM WIPED OUT IN EARLY BLAZE

Flames Are Finally Brought Under Control

Flames which kindled to conflagration proportions in the attic of the C. B. Bernard building in the first block on South Cuyler about 2 o'clock this morning swept through Gordon Stores, Inc., the Pampa Barber shop and the Pampa Waffle house, inflicting damages totaling about $80,000.

Origin of the fire had not been determined this morning by officials of the fire department and those who suffered losses. The alarm was reported by an employee of the Waffle house at 1:56 a. m. when smoke began to pile into the cafe.

August Gordon, owner of Gordon's Stores, Inc., estimated that his $60,000 stock of merchandise, one of the largest in town, was a total loss. Mr. Gordon estimated that his personal loss was between $25,000 and $30,000.

Barnard to Rebuild

Harley Brothers, owners of the waffle house, estimated their loss at $6,500. The fixtures in the cafe were fully covered by insurance. Damage to fixtures in the barber shop was fixed at $2,500. Mr. Barnard tentatively placed the damage to the building at $10,000. He was undecided this morning whether he would erect a new structure or rebuild the present one, but he said he would do one or the other. Extent of the damage to the walls had not been determined.

Mr. Gordon, also, had not formed definite plans for reopening his store, although he declared, "my new store will be bigger and better. It will have a 50-foot front and will be one of the biggest, if not the biggest, stores in town." He was undecided whether he would build on his lot on North Cuyler next to the new Oil Belt grocery or reopen at the location where he has been for several years.

When firemen arrived the blaze was raging in the attic of the building, and they were forced to fight the fire from the roof. However, in a few minutes after they began shooting water on the flames they began fighting the fire from the floors of the three business places, which were filled with smoke. Twenty volunteer firemen arrived at the fire within five minutes after the alarm sounded. Four firemen employed by the city had the four hose lines connected and the pumps going a few minutes after the alarm sounded. Approximately 3,000 feet of hose, all the department has, was used to fight the blaze. Water was pumped from the plugs at the corner of the First National bank and the Piggy Wiggy store on Foster. City pressure was used on the plug at Atchison and Cuyler.

Firemen described the fire as one of the most difficult to control ever fought here. They were forced to fight the blaze in the three shop places at the same time. The fire was raging in all three attics and on the roof when they arrived. Not until the roof caved in did they abandon the walls. The firemen brought the flames under control about 4 o'clock, but they continued to drown embers until 6 o'clock.

Patriotism Is a Big Job and Intelligence Is Much Needed

For a rival to have achieved success is even in the circle of nations, vying in the extreme. There is a deep seated feeling in Europe that America is too rich and too arrogant for a "young" nation.

Yet our government is one of the oldest in the world. By this we mean that it is among the few which have not radically ordered their forms of government in last hundred years.

The old nations have age but they have undergone changes which have made them almost as modern, in the instance of France and England, as our own.

The rise of modern nations is comparatively recent with respect to the formation of our own government. Even powerful Germany was only a group of independent little kingdoms when our constitution was written.

Satisfaction with our slowly changing government will be wise, however, only if we change it when and where it needs alteration and only to the extent that we protect it from degenerating attacks from alien sources.

Heart Hungry

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN, AUTHOR OF "DAMP ROMANCE" © 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl, Mitchell asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce his daughter to other young people.

Although Mitchell forbids Celia to see Jordan she goes about with the young man frequently. LISI DUNCAN, a girl of Celia's age, becomes her loyal friend.

Celia, Lisi and Mrs. Parsons are together one evening when they hear a radio report of a disastrous fire in the building where Shields is working.

Down in the streets, newsmen were shouting extra. The man who had spoken to Celia held a crumpled newspaper in his hand.

"We're expecting to hear from Shields any minute," the man told Celia. "Waiting for the call now?"

"Then you don't know if he's hurt? Oh, isn't there some way to find out what's happened to him? Maybe he's—"

There were two other men in the office besides the one who had spoken. They had been leaning over the desk.

"Oh!" she cried. "Barney!" Laughing and crying at once, she was on her feet and beside him.

"Barney Shields, hatless, clothes torn and soiled, stood in the open door. He grinned weakly.

"Hello, everybody!" he said. "Gosh, I had a time getting here! They all crowded about. The man with the green eyeshade threw down the telephone receiver and hurried to his room.

"Good boy!" he exclaimed. "Some fire, wasn't it?" Barney looked pale and worn. There were black marks on his face and hands.

"Sitt down, Shields," one of the men spoke up. "You're all in!" "Am tired," Barney admitted. "Here take this camera, will you Jerry?"

"You mean you got pictures of the fire—from inside the building?" It was the man with the eyeshade who asked this.

Shields nodded affirmatively. "I shot as long as I could," he said. "Used all my plates. There was one of a little girl being rescued that ought to be a peach. Snooks may have blurred it."

The youth who had been addressed as Jerry was rushing toward a door with a camera. "I'll have them out in a hurry!" he shouted over his shoulder.

Immediately there was a great deal of talk of pictures in technical language which neither Celia or Lisi could understand.

Celia hovered near Barney. She wished they would leave him alone. It was plain that he was exhausted.

Suddenly a door on the right opened and a slim, gray-haired man stepped into the room. He had an air of authority.

"Well, Shields," the man said, "you must have had a close call." Barney tried to smile.

"Yes, sir, Mr. Wagner," he said. "Get any pictures?" "I hope so. Tried some good shots—that is, if they turn out all right."

Wagner asked more questions. Suddenly he looked down at Barney's left arm. There was something unusual about the way the arm was hanging.

"Hurt yourself?" he asked shortly. "Why—I guess there is something on her feet and beside him."

"I thought I'd got to get a doctor!" Wagner touched his limp arm and Barney winced.

"Final Broken!" said the older man. "I thought I'd got to get a doctor!" "I'd like to see how these shots come out first," Barney began.

"Don't be a fool and take the chance!" he said crisply. "Make out your take Shields to a doctor to have his arm set!"

There was no doubt that Wagner was the executive of Apex Picture Service. Things happened quickly when he spoke.

"And, go home and go to bed after the doctor gets through with you!" was Wagner's parting word.

There was no opportunity for Celia to talk to Barney privately. Now that she knew he was safe nothing else seemed to matter.

While the young man called Snooks was running for a taxi, Celia drew her chair close to Barney's.

"I had to find out about you," she whispered. "Oh, it's been such a terrible night." "Shouldn't have worried."

"Look!" Celia cried. "Evelyn's gone!" The coupe was certainly empty. Lisi yawned.

"Remember, she wasn't exactly in the best of humors. Probably signed a taxi and beat it long ago." They got into the car and set out for the apartment.

"You did it all for me, Lisi," she said. "I'll never be able to thank you. If you hadn't come with me I don't know what I'd have done!"

They returned to Mrs. Parsons's apartment. The hands of the living room clock pointed to 20 minutes past 11 when they entered the room.

Celia tapped on the door of Evelyn's bedroom. "Are you all right?" she said. "Oh, come in!" Evelyn called. "Did you find the young man?"

Celia told the story. Mrs. Parsons was reclining on a chaise longue. When the girl had finished she said: "You must have him call, dear. I'd love to meet him!"

At 10 o'clock next morning Barney Shields telephoned. He promised to come to the apartment that afternoon.

THE REVIVAL CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH was well attended last night, and three youths who were converted joined the church and one other by letter.

THE SONGS OF THE "CITY OF THE WONDERS" were sung at the service. The pastor, Dr. McCall, will speak on "The City of the Wonders."

IT WILL BE THE largest city that ever was, 1500 miles square. IT WILL BE THE first big city that ever was. Nothing will enter it, that is, unless that matchstick abolitionist or a lie.

IT WILL BE THE most beautiful city that ever was. "Made ready as a bride adorned for her husband."

HEAVEN IS A home city. There will be out eternal home, where we will join many loved ones who have gone on before.

LONDON, Dec. 2 (P)—Lady Astor thought she had planned a manless dinner party and reception for this evening to celebrate "a woman's year," but at the last moment discovered that men will be present after all.

No men were invited and even a woman's orchestra will provide music for the gay affair but a corps of suave men in black tailcoats will be hovering in the background of the American-born member of parliament's home. They are the waiters necessary to serve the dinner. In the excitement of seeing the affair strictly feminine they were overlooked.

"Now, I say, that's too bad," said Lady Astor's butler when the error was pointed out. "The parlor maids should have been organized for service."

At the dinner will be 36 of Britain's most distinguished women, and about 400 more will be present at the reception following.

Dinner is to be served in the great dining room of Lady Astor's home in St. James Square. Large masses of red chrysanthemums will be the decoration. There will be no speeches of any kind at the dinner or at the reception.

Patriotism Is a Big Job and Intelligence Is Much Needed

For a rival to have achieved success is even in the circle of nations, vying in the extreme. There is a deep seated feeling in Europe that America is too rich and too arrogant for a "young" nation.

Yet our government is one of the oldest in the world. By this we mean that it is among the few which have not radically ordered their forms of government in last hundred years.

The rise of modern nations is comparatively recent with respect to the formation of our own government. Even powerful Germany was only a group of independent little kingdoms when our constitution was written.

Satisfaction with our slowly changing government will be wise, however, only if we change it when and where it needs alteration and only to the extent that we protect it from degenerating attacks from alien sources.

Patronism is an intellectual obligation and no mean job if you analyze it.

Heart Hungry

by LAMBA LOU BROOKMAN, AUTHOR OF "DASH ROMANCE" © 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl. Mitchell asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce his daughter to other young people.

Although Mitchell insists Celia to see Jordan, she goes about with the young man frequently. LISI DUNCAN, a girl of Celia's age, becomes her loyal friend.

Celia, Lisi and Mrs. Parsons are together one evening when they hear a radio report of a disastrous fire in the building where Shields is working.

Down in the streets newsmen were shouting extras. The man who had spoken to Celia, held a wounded newspaper in his hand. It bore in huge black type the glaring banner "33-Fire in Flames!"

was on her feet and beside him. "Barney," she repeated over and over again. "Oh, the girl! The girl!"

Barney Shields, hatless, clothes torn and soiled, stood in the open door. He grinned weakly. "Hello, everybody," he said. "Gosh, I had a time getting here!"

"Gosh boy!" he exclaimed. "Some fire, wasn't it?" Barney looked pale and worn. There were black marks on his face and hands, and the straggling locks of his dark hair were tossed.

"Sit down, Shields," one of the men spoke up. "You're all in!" "Am tired," Barney admitted. "Here take this camera, will you Jerry?" He handed the leather case to one of the younger men.

"The young man dropped into the chair that had been shoved toward him. "You mean you got pictures of the fire—from inside the building?"

Shields nodded affirmatively. "I shot as long as I could," he said. "Used all my plates. There was one of a little girl being rescued that ought to be a peach. Snake may have blurred it."

"The youth who had been addressed as Jerry was rushing toward a door with a camera. "I'll have them out in a hurry!" he shouted over his shoulder.

Immediately there was a great deal of talk of pictures in technical language which neither Celia or Lisi could understand. Shields was listless and finally won his point though the other two argued.

Celia hovered near Barney. She wished they would leave him alone. It was plain that he was exhausted. Suddenly a dog on the right opened and a slim, gray-haired man stepped into the room.

"Well, Shields," the man said, "you must have had a close call." Barney tried to smile. "Yes, sir, Mr. Wagner," he said. "It was—rather hot."

the matter. Turned my ankle when I jumped. An' I don't want no more of that kind of work."

"I'd like to see how these shots come out first," Barney began, but Wagner silenced him. "Don't be a fool and take the chance!" he said crisply.

There was no doubt that Wagner was the executive of Apex Picture Service. Things happened quickly when he spoke. It was arranged that Moore, another employe, was to take Barney to a physician's office.

"And, go home and go to bed after the doctor gets through with you!" was Wagner's parting word as he turned to re-enter his private office.

"There was no opportunity for Celia to talk to Barney privately. Now that she knew he was nothing else seemed to matter. At any other time she would have been embarrassed before so many strangers.

While the young man called Moore was rifling for a tank, Celia drew her chair close to Barney's. "I had to find out about you," she whispered. "Oh, it's been such a terrible night."

"Shouldn't have worried." "But I couldn't help it! Barney does your arm hurt badly?" He shook his head, but an instant later a twinge of pain crossed his face.

"Celia, don't you think we'd better go?" Lisi Duncan asked. She had been standing in the background ever since Shields had entered the room.

"Yes," Celia agreed. "I suppose so." Then she leaned nearer and spoke in a voice so that Barney alone could hear. "Promise you'll call me in the morning. I've got something to tell you, Barney. It's important!"

"Sure, I'll call. Nice of you to come down here, only I'm sorry you were worried." They said good night and the two girls left. "Wonder what time it is?" Lisi ventured when they had reached the ground floor. Celia admitted she had no idea.

Christ is preparing Heaven for those whom He is preparing for Heaven.

It will be the first city where everybody will be perfectly happy. His shall wipe every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning any more.

They got into the car and set out for the apartment. Both of them were beginning to feel exhausted. For the first time Celia noticed their ruined dresses. She was apologetic.

"You did it all for me, Lisi," she said. "I'll never be able to thank you. If you hadn't come with me I don't know what I'd have done!"

Lisi stole a quick glance at her companion. "You're pretty crazy about that lad, aren't you?" she said.

More to herself than to the other girl, Celia answered. "Yes, I didn't know how much until tonight!" Together they returned to Mrs. Parsons' apartment. The hands of the living room clock pointed to 20 minutes past 11 when they entered the room.

Celia tapped on the door of Evelyn's bedroom. "Are you all right?" she said. "Oh, come in!" Evelyn called. "Did you find the young man?" Celia told the story. Mrs. Parsons was reclining on a chaise longue. When the girl had finished she said: "You must have him call, dear. I'd love to meet him!"

At 10 o'clock next morning Barney Shields telephoned. He promised to come to the apartment that afternoon.

THE REVIVAL MEETING conducted by Evangelist George W. McCall at the Central Baptist church was well attended last night, and three sinners who were converted joined the church, and one other by letter. Tonight Dr. McCall will speak on the "Christian Home, Its Duties and Allies." Everybody who is interested in better homes is invited to hear this message.

Last night, the sermon by Dr. McCall was on "The City of the Future." He said there are six things that will be true in the future: 1. It will be the largest city that ever was, 1500 miles square. 2. It will be the first holy city that ever was. Nothing will enter it, that is unclean or that maketh an abomination or a lie. 3. It will be the most beautiful

Canadian Sect Plans Move to Mexican Republic

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2. (AP)—A proposal for the migration of between 10,000 and 20,000 members of the Doukhobor religious sect from Canada to Mexico has been placed before the secretary of Agriculture, Peter Verigin, leader of the sect, and Aaron Sapro, agricultural economist expert, proposed that the government aid the immigrants to obtain land if they moved to Mexico.

The Doukhobors originated in Russia and migrated to western Canada about 30 years ago. They have been in frequent clashes with the authorities because of their refusal to send children to public schools and because they insisted on clothing in observance of one of the tenets of their religion.

A few of them have already moved from northern Saskatchewan to Mexico. New colonies probably would be located in northern Mexico.

Those attending were Mrs. T. B. Solomon, Mrs. E. F. Brake, Mrs. Baker Henry, Mrs. Lee Banks, Mrs. L. H. Greene, Mrs. T. W. Jamison, Mrs. C. L. McKinney, Mrs. John McKamy, Mrs. Harry Barnard, Mrs. R. L. Champion, Mrs. Louis Davis, Mrs. Fred Throckmorton, Mrs. Charles Gilmore, Mrs. R. F. Hodge, and Mrs. J. E. Hamilton.

Programs in observance of week of prayer will be given at meetings Wednesday and Thursday at 2 p. m. at the church. The program on Wednesday will be directed by Circles 1 and 2, while that on Thursday will be given by Circles 3 and 4.

Mrs. T. A. Cox returned Sunday from Milwaukee, where she spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her sister, Mrs. J. E. Booth and the latter's husband.

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 DALLAS, Dec. 2. (AP)—Joining in observation of the simple season when it comes customary—may, obligatory—to name the outstanding football players of various sections. The Associated Press presents its annual All-Southern Conference selection for 1930.

Seven sports writers, one from each of the seven cities represented in the Southwest conference, assisted in boiling down a lengthy list of candidates to arrive at the mythical "first eleven" listed above. The team is, in other words, a consensus of seven observers who have seen the conference campaign unfold and have followed the star individual performers closely.

Whether it is the greatest eleven that could have been assembled from the material at hand, there can be no way of telling. Those chosen for the mythical team, however, have played great football this season and are worthy of any honor accorded them. It will do for an all-conference team until a better one is selected, and the Southwest's coaches will try to do that when they hold their annual meeting here the last of this week.

Many First Honors
 From the seven teams gathered and tabulated by The Associated Press, a second eleven could have been assembled. Several players, in fact, ran a close race for first team honors, being beaten out by one or two votes. There is no percentage in naming those the experts thought "next best," however. It would only bring on further complications.

The University of Texas Longhorns duplicated the feat of Texas Christian last season by placing four men on the mythical team, three of them in the backfield. Baylor and Texas Christian shared second honors, each with a pair of players in the honorary line-up, while Southern Methodist, Rice and the Texas Aggies came in for one place apiece. Although they won half their conference games, the Arkansas Razorbacks did not have a man the committee deemed outstanding at his position.

The 1930 team is a weighty proposition. The line, despite the inclusion of two 175-pound ends and a 175-pound guard, would average 193 pounds to the man. The backfield, even with 147-pound Jake Wilson calling signals, would average 177. Over all, it would tip the scales at 190 pounds to the man. That would be heavy enough for all practical purposes.

Four members of the select crew were picked unanimously. They were Wilson, Baylor's brilliant quarterback; Koch, Baylor's equally lustrous guard; Noble Atkins, Texas Christian's powerful center, and Koy, bruising fullback of the Texas Longhorns. The first three gained the same distinction last year, but Koy is a sophomore, playing his first season in fast company, which makes his feat all the more remarkable.

Shelley Repeats
 Captain Dexter Shelley of Texas was the only other member of the 1929 all-conference team to repeat. Cy Leland, whose sensational play for the champion Horned Frog earned him a Heisman berth on last year's eleven, failed to place this time. Shifted to quarterback at the start of the season, Leland filled the position commendably and proved himself a capable ball carrier, leading the conference in scoring all the way, but he was beaten out in the eyes of the critics by Harrison Stafford, big Longhorn halfback.

It is noteworthy that four sophomores—Koy, Stafford, Blanton and Boswell—were chosen as the best at their positions. The other seven are seniors, rising their football careers. Inclusion of a quartet of first year men would indicate that the Associated Press committee used its opinion strictly upon performance, rather than on prestige gained in other years.

Another feature may be found in the home addresses of the honorees. Only four players hail from the so-called elite of the state. The other seven are from comparatively small towns and scarcely were heard of outside their own precincts until college football brought them into prominence. Every last man on the team is a citizen of Texas, incidentally.

Eloquent Proof
 Little comment seems necessary upon the ability of the individuals composing the mythical eleven. The fact that they were chosen from among some 400 candidates is eloquent proof they can and have played high caliber football.

The backfield is composed of four all-around stars. In Jake Wilson it has the conference's best punter and greatest individual running threat. In Shelley, Stafford and Koy it has a trio of powerful fullbacks who can go places with it. In fact, Shelley and Koy are capable passers and Stafford proved himself adept at matching aerials. That would be a tough quartet to stop.

On the line there is speed, aggressiveness and power to burn. Louis Long, star Mustang wingman, lacked only one vote of being a unanimous choice. He has been the outstanding figure in the Ponies' passing attack, his catches of long tosses from Gilbert and other teammates featuring almost every game. He was a halfback on defense, and a good one. Tracy, placed at the other terminal, played bang-up football for the losing Aggies. He is a track star, one of the conference's fastest in the 440-yard dash. At College Station they consider him the finest end in the Southwest.

The two sophomore tackles, Blanton and Boswell, stood out at their positions from the start of the season. They are big, aggressive, hard-fighting men, and Blanton has the added value of being an excellent place kicker. Boswell is a brother of Bill Boswell, former Center college star.

Unanimous for Koch
 Koch, placed at left guard without a dissenting vote, is regarded as one of the greatest linemen in conference history. He has been on the mythical eleven for three straight years. The "Boche" not only was a bulwark against an attack aimed at his position, but was remarkably fast for a big man. He ran 60 yards for a touchdown against Texas Christian with three men trying to overtake him, and they didn't gain a foot. Koch was given a fine running mate in Bill Morgan, veteran Rice guard and captain. Although comparatively light for the position, Morgan has been a standout in the Owl line for two years.

Noble Atkins, Horned Frog captain, again grabbed the pivot position after a close tussle with Lewis Paradeaux of Baylor. Atkins' play was just as polished as last year and he was given much credit for the excellent showing the Frogs' sophomore line made. It was claimed that Paradeaux outplayed him in their memorable meeting at Fort Worth, but that brings up another argument.

VERDICT IS SUICIDE
 FORT WORTH, Dec. 2. (AP)—A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner here after the death of Mrs. J. W. Castles, 42, found dying in a department store. She had gone to the store to meet her husband, who was looking for work. A bottle bearing a poison label was found near the chair in which she was seated.

Lefty O'Doul, slugging outfielder, will draw around $12,000 for his season's work next year with his new club, the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Manager Don Howley of the Cincinnati Reds is trying to trade "Jesse" Joe Shipp, third baseman, for a heavy hitting first baseman.

Ernie Phinckert, Southern California's star interferences running halfback, is a candidate of more than passing ability.

IRISH MOVING WESTWARD TO MEET U. S. C.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2. (AP)—The address of the Notre Dame football squad today was "heading west" as the undefeated Irish moved from the biting winds of the midwest toward the balmy climate of Los Angeles where the University of Southern California will be met Saturday.

While nearly a thousand Notre Dame rooters cheered Coach Rockne and five of his assistants rounded up the squad yesterday afternoon, and boarded a special train for the site of the contest that shapes up as the most important of the past two years. On the way from their hotel the Notre Dame athletes occasionally about as much stir and noise as a famous aviator. An escort of motorcycle policemen, with sirens screaming, accompanied them to the station.

Rockne did not appear bothered about the contest against the powerful aggregation from U. S. C. Outside of "skull practice," he planned to rest his squad until Wednesday when the trip will be interrupted by a stop at Tucson, Ariz. He said the squad needs rest after an amazing nine straight triumphs. Three drills on the University of Arizona campus will cover all of the physical labor. The first will be held Wednesday afternoon, with morning and afternoon sessions Thursday.

Rockne was encouraged over the condition of his reserves. In the early games of the season and well into the middle of the campaign, the Irish shock troops had plenty of chances to work but failed to measure up to Notre Dame standards. Every opponent score on them, with Pennsylvania piling up 20 points. Against Army last Saturday, however, they went out there at the start and held their own in great shape.

15,000 Demand New Sargon Daily
 VAST GROWING ARMY OF SARGON FILE USERS, MARCHING SINGLE FILE, WOULD ENCIRCLE GLOBE IN ONLY FEW YEARS.

By RICHARD L. SIMMS
 ATLANTA, Ga.—Mere like a tale from the Arabian Nights of old than a record of modern business achievement reads the story of the marvelous growth and development of Sargon, the New Scientific Compound which has become the sensation of the drug trade throughout the United States, Canada and other countries.

The old illustration of the people dropped into the pool that describes the phenomenal and unprecedented spread of Sargon and its fame is rapidly spreading over the entire continent. Recently compiled figures reveal that approximately 15,000 men and women are marching into drug stores daily for Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills, the marvelous new treatment that is restoring health to countless thousands by new and remarkable methods undreamed of only a few years ago.

Already more than 5,000,000 suffering men and women have put it to the test and have told other millions what it has done for them. Mankind's greatest need, U. S. army fashion—single file—this vast army of Sargon users would reach from New York to San Francisco and at the present rate of sale—would, in a few years time, encircle the entire globe.

The only explanation of Sargon's triumph in the medical world is Sargon's true worth. Back of its triumph in the drug stores is the triumph in the homes and it is the grateful endorsement of its millions of users that has made it the most widely talked of medicine in the world today.

Showdown Will Be Demanded On Draft Question

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 2. (AP)—Minor league baseball's three class AA circuits, the American association, International League, and Pacific Coast league, prepared for a showdown today on the draft question, chief threat in the side of major-minor relations.

Some sort of decisive action is expected during the day when three leagues meet in joint conference to discuss the major leaguer demand that they submit to the draft. In event of a refusal, the majors asserted they were prepared to sever all business relations with the big minors as well as with the Class A western and Class B Indiana-Illinois-Iowa leagues.

These five organizations are non-draft leagues. That is, they are exempt from the major-minor agreement under which the majors can purchase any minor league player for certain fixed sums. The three AA circuits have a separate agreement with the majors, a modified draft, by which the majors can select for a fixed sum players in these leagues who previously have played in the majors.

Since the three big minors have failed to manifest any unanimity of opinion on the question, baseball men fought shy of predictions as to the outcome of today's conference.

U. S. C. Cripples Are Recovering

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2. (AP)—Chances that the University of Southern California will go into its climatic game here Saturday against the unbeaten Notre Dame squad with the first string Trojan eleven intact appeared a trifle better today.

Ralph Wilcox, left end, whose head was injured Nov. 15 in the game with Hawaii, left the hospital last night. He was the last of half a dozen casualties, most of them shaved after the Thanksgiving day fray with Washington, to leave the infirmary. He was not expected to get into a suit until Thursday or Friday, however, and probably will see little action against the South Benders.

Northwestern Star in Fistic Triumph

CHICAGO, Dec. 2. (AP)—An aftermath of the Notre Dame-Army football game is in the courts. The court testimony disclosed that Lee Hanley, Northwestern university halfback went to soldiers field Saturday to see the game and jumped out of his taxi just as Miss Mary Miller jumped in. Her escort, Louis Allais, unaware that Hanley had just finished two months of backing and tackling, exchanged blows with Hanley and got the worst of it.

"It was a mistake," Hanley told the court yesterday. "I hit him so he wouldn't hit me."
 Judge Jonas continued the case until tomorrow in order to subpoena the taxi driver.

RANGER HAS ONE OF VERY BEST ELEVENS

Friday's football game in Pampa will bring together two elevens which have been called the "uncrowned champions" of districts 1 and 2.

The Pampa Harvesters are but half a game behind the Amarillo Benders and many fans believe that the locals are superior on dry land.

Ranger's Bulldogs are conquerors of Breckenridge, they tied Abilene, and they lost to Cisco, potential champs, by the narrow margin of 1-0. Today they are considered one of the strongest teams in Texas.

In fact, fans who expect to see both the Ranger-Pampa and the Amarillo-Oil Belt tilt this week would not be surprised to see the better game at Pampa Friday.

The game will begin at 2:30 o'clock. Radio broadcast with Sam Fenberg at the mike will start about 3 p. m., and the first quarter will be reviewed as the broadcast is started.

Spider Monkey Rose Will Wrestle Ichabod Crane of Mat Thursday

Jack Rose, who with his ropp holding and climbing tactics resembles a spider monkey, will have an interesting time at the Pampa Thursday night when he meets Big Swede Larsen, the Ichabod Crane of the mat.

Larsen has enormous length and huge hands and feet. His longitude should be an advantage in meeting Rose, who uses Joe Kopecky's trick of making his opponents run themselves down catching him.

Larsen's mat name is "Bad Eye," a moniker given him because of a habit of watching his foes out of the corner of his optics. He seldom falls for ruses.

Ois Chingman, usually attracting attention at ringside or on the mat, is away in Central Texas on the first leg of an extensive tour.

Preliminaries for the coming match have not yet been announced.

Grange Helps To Win Game

CHICAGO, Dec. 2. (AP)—"Red" Grange, halfback for the Chicago Bears who was chiefly responsible for a 14 to 6 victory over the Portsmouth, Ohio, Spartans Sunday, has discovered how to gain weight during a football game.

Grange weighed 189 1-2 pounds in uniform before the game. He reduced 4 3-4 pounds while sporting one touchdown and throwing a pass for another, but the mud and slush added 2 1-2 pounds to his suit, a net gain of 3 3-4 pounds. His uniform weighed 15 pounds when he removed it.

The Los Angeles Athletic club won the track and field, gymnastic and men's and women's swimming national championships during 1930.

ALABAMA IS OUT TO GRAB NEW RECORD

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 2. (AP)—Wallace Wade, whose Alabama team has claimed four Southern gridiron championships in eight years, is pointing for another record—two victories in the Pasadena Rose Bowl classic.

Only Southern California has won two Rose Bowl engagements. The Trojans were victorious in 1923 and 1930. Both Washington State and Alabama have won one game each and seek to equal the record made by the men of Troy in their meeting next Jan. 1.

Twice before, in successive years, Wade's Alabama teams have appeared in the Bowl, winning the first game 20-19 from Washington and deadlocking Stanford 7 to 7 in the last.

Slips he came to Alabama in 1922, renew his apprenticeship as a lieutenant under Dan McQuinn at Vanderbilt, Wade's teams have won 80 per cent of their games. The crimson finished well up near the top in 1923 and claimed the conference championships the next three years.

Wade likes "big boys," but a major requirement is ability to get away quick. He doesn't follow any particular system.

A guard at Brown university in 1914-16-18, he agrees with Coach Orion Hollinsberry of Washington State, that "the line was football games."

BLAZE—
 [This was the second disastrous fire in the building this year. Last New Year's morning fire badly damaged the roof of the structure and the fixture in the cafe-barber shop, and stock in Gordon's store. Then the damage was not nearly as great as it was this morning.]

Mr. Gordon praised the fire department and city officials for their valorous work in confining the flames to the building. Father's drug store adjoining the cafe on the south was scarcely damaged. Smoke and heat did slight damage. "I'd like to express my personal appreciation for the cool-headed manner in which F. M. Gwin, the city manager, assisted and directed the fire department in preventing what promised to be a bigger conflagration," Mr. Gordon said.

Discovery that something was wrong was credited today to a night telephone operator. Noting that the Gordon's store number flashed on the board, the operator answered but got no response. She thought there might be a robbery, and at once notified the police department, which investigated. Meantime, an employe of the Pampa Waife house told the fire department that his establishment was on fire.

The Leavitt tailor shop at the rear of the barber shop also was burned out in the blaze but was taking business over telephone 237 under a temporary arrangement.

Now comes the biggest Christmas Thrill in years

A "Medal of Honor" Frigidaire enclosed in this tiny jewel box!

This Christmas we've figured out a way for you to give her a Frigidaire inside a tiny velvet jewel box—a box you can hide in the palm of your hand or slip in her Christmas stocking!

Inside this box is a sterling silver medalion or "Medal of Honor," engraved with the name of the fortunate one who's to get the Frigidaire—or with both her name and yours. This you can give her the Frigidaire she's always wanted—and make your Christmas morning presentation in a new and exciting way that guarantees the most surprising Christmas thrill she's had in years. Or, if you prefer, we'll attach the medalion in advance and have the Frigidaire installed in your home before Christmas. Either way, you'll be giving her more than a Christmas gift. It will be a token of your appreciation of the many things she has done for you.

Frigidaire's this year cost less than they've ever cost before. And we'll agree to a small down payment and the balance extended over a period to suit your convenience. Come in today and find out all about this brand-new Christmas gift idea.
