Japs Try To Hat Chinese Advance

MARINE STRUCK BY SHELL IN SHANGHAI AREA

SHANGHAI, Aug. 18 (AP)—Japanese warplanes and warships began a concerted and furious bombardment of all Chinese positions north and east of Shanghai today in a desperate effort to check the steady advance of China's crack divisions.

In the furious fighting the United States marines suffered their first casualty when a bursting shell struck Floyd Arnold of Beaumont, Texas, in the hip as he stood guard in the American sector of the international settlement's north border along the banks of Soochow creek.

Arnold was a pharmacist mate of the fourth regiment of U. S. marines. Outnumbered on land almost four to one, the Japanese marines and blue-jackets were reported slowly giving way before the Chinese advance in the northeastern sector of the international settlement.

The Kiangwan civic center, headquarters of the municipal government of greater Shanghai, was one of the principal targets of the shelling. Many direct hits were scored on the palatial buildings which were erected at a cost of millions of dollars.

Just before the massed attack began, Chinese troops seized and scuttled a fleet of six Japanese steamers-off the French concession, effectively blockading the upper reaches of the Whangpoo from the warship attack.

Chinese refugees reported the Japanese bombardments had made a shambles of the streets and villages on the outskirts of the rich industrial area.

REBEL DRIVE BUILT AROUND ITALIAN ARMY

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish frontier Aug. 18 (AP)—An insurgent army described by the Spanish government as built around the Italian "Black Arrow" brigade and bolstered by 200 German planes, battered toward Santander today in what may prove the crucial campaign of Spain's civil war.

Columns operating on parallel highways into Santander, the government's last Biscayan seaport and stronghold, were reported within 25 miles of Santander's outskirts.

This was the distance in straight line northeast but each unit faced the task of covering some 35 or 40 miles of curving highway, flanked by the barbed wire and concrete fortifications of Santander's defenders.

The fourth day of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's big push through the sun-scoured mountainlands brought into play yesterday large numbers of tanks, field guns and planes.

A government communique said insurgents yesterday lost two strategic hill positions near Reinoso, southeast of Santander, when government troops counter attacked, leaping upon "Italians and Moors" from behind rocks and trees.

Government troops were organizing a better resistance north of Reinoso and Puerto Del Escudo. Government airplanes were reported to have destroyed a convoy of insurgent lorries.

Madrid advices also said government planes bombed the insurgent cruiser Almirante de Cervera, forcing her to flee Santander waters.

FOR HOLDS STATE OF WAR DOES NOT EXIST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, cataloging neutrality laws, concentrated their efforts today on protecting American citizens caught in the Shanghai cross-fire of warring Japanese and Chinese troops.

The President, refusing so far to invoke the neutrality law, took the attitude the hostilities do not yet constitute a state of war, especially in view of continued diplomatic relations between China and Japan.

The government's primary concern was the safety of its citizens in the international city. On advice of the state department, 1,200 marines were directed yesterday to sail from San Diego within ten days to bolster the American guard at Shanghai.

All mothers of the band children who plan to aid in the outing are asked to phone Mrs. M. O. Williams at number 768 for further information. It is important that they do so, sponsors of the picnic have announced.

CHINESE FIRE AT REFUGEES OFF SHANGHAI

By JAMES A. MILLS. SHANGHAI, Aug. 18 (AP)—Chinese snipers' bullets three times imperilled Americans while the Dollar liner McKinley evacuated 294 American women and children refugees off Shanghai today.

Near panic broke out on the tender carrying the refugees to the Dollar liner tender when Chinese snipers, evidently mistaking the craft for a Japanese vessel despite waving American flags, peppered it with rifle fire.

Passengers on deck flopped to their stomachs, not daring to stand long enough to race for protection below.

Twice, shore snipers opened fire on the tender. Once Chinese bullets whistled over the President McKinley's decks and through her rigging when riflemen along the shore began pelting the riverful of Japanese destroyers.

The first fright came when bombs from Japanese warplanes fell dangerously close to the liner itself in the Yangtze river.

A company of U. S. marines aboard the Dollar liner tender which took 294 refugee women and children from Shanghai to the ships tried to reassure the Americans.

The McKinley, on which I came from Kobe to Shanghai, was ploughed through a forest of Japanese warships that stretched all the way from the mouth of the Yangtze estuary at the China sea 50 miles on up the Yangtze and Changpoo to Shanghai.

More than 50 Japanese men-of-war made a display of naval power that seemed formidable enough to blow Shanghai off the map.

We arrived amid a terrific aerial bombardment. Morris J. Harris, Associated Press chief of bureau here, told me it was the fiercest he has since Shanghai became a vast war-torn six days ago.

Occupations To Be Studied in Local School Next Term

Beginning in the fall term in Pampa High School, a new course, increasingly popular in Texas, will be offered. The study is in diversified occupations, or individual training of the pupil in the occupation of his choice. Instructor will be E. C. Pennington, who has had extensive training and experience in the vocational line.

As Mr. Pennington explained it, the course will be open to students at least 16 years of age who have attained the standing of a junior in the high school. Two affiliated credits will be given for each year, recognized by the state board of education. Students will take a two period class in the morning, followed by two regular required classes. In the afternoon, students will work from 1 until 5 o'clock on the vocation they have chosen. The work, Mr. Pennington explained, will be apprentice training, but pre-apprentice work. For instance, if a student chooses to be a stenographer, the morning classes taught by Mr. Pennington would concern that particular vocation for that pupil. In the afternoon, the student would work in a downtown office for four hours. Next morning, a report of his work would be given the instructor. Others in different lines would receive similar training each day. In the meantime, Mr. Pennington, whose official

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS OIL FIELD NOW PERMANENT

CENTRALIA, Ill., Aug. 18 (AP)—In one torrid summer the southern Illinois oil development has advanced from a boom into a permanent industry.

Major wells in the 30-mile area around Clay City, Cline and Noble also are pouring into pipelines at least 9,000 barrels a day, oil company officials estimated today.

Towns formerly consisting of an elevator and a general store, for the most part, now are painting up, modernizing, and reaping the harvest. The prices of crops are forgotten.

Convinced they have a permanent thing, the "New Illinois Oil Field Civic Committee" will hold an official celebration at Olney Friday.

It was estimated that between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 acres are under lease in southern Illinois. While oil men admit there are going to be some fizzes among the skyrockets, enough pools have been opened to justify the laying of miles of pipelines.

HURLS ATTACK AT OPPONENTS OF MAJORITIES

MANTO, Roanoke Island, N. C., Aug. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt declared today "Democracy—and more Democracy" is the answer to "Tory insistence that salvation lies in the vesting of power in the hands of a select class."

"I seek no change in the form of American government," he said. "Majority rule must be preserved as the safeguard of both liberty and civilization."

The President, renewing his criticism of the Liberty League and other spokes who he said "thunder today," spoke at celebration marking the 350th anniversary of the founding of the "lost colony."

He based much of his address, broadcast nationally, on a letter which Lord Macaulay, English historian sent in 1857 to an American friend—H. S. Randall, a New York writer.

(Lord Macaulay was an important figure in English politics in the first half of the nineteenth century. Internationally he was more famous for his History of England.)

(Macaulay served in Parliament, as legal adviser to the Supreme Court of India and as secretary of state for war.)

Quoting Macaulay, the President said that democracy would not succeed in the United States, adding:

"Either some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand, and your republic will be laid waste by barbarians in the twentieth century."

Mr. Roosevelt dubbed "American Lord Macaulays" persons who "tell you that America drifts toward the scylla of dictatorship on the one hand, or the charybdis of anarchy on the other."

The President said: "Almost, methinks, I am reading not from Macaulay but from a resolution of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Liberty League."

TEA ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT OF MISS TUCKER TO MR. GAUT

MARRIAGE WILL BE SOLEMNIZED ON AUGUST 28

To announce the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Marjorie Tucker to Perry (Zeke) Gaut, Mrs. R. W. Tucker entertained with a tea last evening between 6 and 8 o'clock at her home.

The announcement was written on cards attached to small silver bells tied with pink and blue ribbon. These favors were invitations to the wedding which will be August 28 at the First Baptist church with the Rev. C. E. Lancaster of Big Springs, and formerly of Pampa, officiating.

A punch bowl made of ice with the initials M and Z made of flowers frozen within, centered the table which was laid with a lace cover over pink. A lay of pink and blue petunias surrounded the centerpiece. Silver bells tied with blue and pink ribbon hanging from the ceiling directly over the punch bowl stressed the chosen color scheme of pink, blue, and silver. Mixed verbenas, sweet peas, nasturtiums, and potted plants also decorated the rooms.

Pink tapers in gold holders decorated the table from which blue and pink bell-shaped sandwiches and cookies, mints, nuts and punch were served on pink and blue plates by Meses. Neal Gaut, H. T. Cox and R. L. Edmondson. Miss Inez Blankenship of Goodnight sang and played the piano. Miss Patsy Gaut also played the piano.

The bride-elect wore a floor length pink organza dress with a blue velvet sash. Her corsage was of pink gladiolus. Mrs. Tucker's and Edmondson's dresses were printed silk and their corsages were pink asters. Mrs. Gaut and Cox wore blue floor length dresses with pink corsages.

A bridal party on a large silver bell decorated the table where the guests registered. Those who attended included Meses. Lewis H. Davis, Ed Vaught, Troy E. Maness, Fritz Waechter, Eleanor Boyd, W. Love Gets a Lift

BY IDA RINER GLEASON Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

Chapter VI
Bob had occasion to ask himself this question about the professor more than once during the afternoon. The tall Egyptologist had immediately sought out Kathleen and the rest of the time he proceeded to monopolize her so that no one else had a chance to say anything to her.

Several times Bob saw her glance his way as though she hoped he would rescue her, but there was no way for him to escape the Duchess, who kept him persistently at her side, laughing up at him in the most provocative manner. She lavished caresses on the unresponsive Schmatz and chattered about art and Bob's writing and how much she was going to enjoy having him for a neighbor, until his head swam trying to keep up with her.

"I can see how you can write red-blooded he-man tales," she said, dropping down on the couch Pat had moved so regularly. "You're so vertile and romantic-looking yourself. Do sit down and tell me about yourself."

Bob looked down at her face with a little laugh, mothering a desire to tweak the straying locks. "It's because I like to eat, lady," he told her, edging away a little. "There isn't anything but the desire to live that would make me slay as many men as I do—if you get what I mean."

"I'm all of that, lady," he laughed. "And now I must be taking my pup out for his afternoon run. If I don't he'll be tearing around so the janitor'll probably request us to move. Thanks for asking us to your party."

He put the dog down and started for the door. Then he paused. He'd hunt up Kathleen first and tell her he would see her later and make his escape. He wouldn't be snagged into such a mess again. If necessary he'd hang out a smallpox sign to warn off the Duchess. The less he saw of her the better. Pat had had her number all right when he said such a frowny head likely topped a lot of mischief.

But it was one thing to wish to talk to Kathleen and another to do it. The professor had her shut off in a small corner that was intended for only two. She, too, had been having a rather difficult time of it. At first she was flattered by the preference of the older man, especially as she was still feeling squelched by the calm way the Duchess had captured Bob and borne him off, and irritated at Bob for letting her do it. But there was something about the smooth-spoken professor with his flashing blue eyes and insinuating smile that sent a little ripple of fear across her mind. Who was this mysterious person who talked so gently of famous people and places, who seemed to have crowded so much into his lifetime?

"Are you pleased to make my acquaintance or not, my dear?" the professor was asking her, leaning closer.

"Well—oh, yes, of course," she smiled up at him. "You see that's partly why I wanted to come to the city. In Groversville we didn't have a chance to meet many interesting people. It was all very narrow and conventional, you know." Her eyes strayed to where the Duchess and Bob had been sitting.

The professor's eyes followed her glance and he asked, "You know the young man the Duchess seems so interested in? Perhaps he came from your home town, too?"

"Oh, no," answered Kathleen. "I never saw Mr. McTavish until he rented a studio here. He's very nice and his dog has such a cute, yearning look."

"Yes, yearning is the word." The professor's tone was sarcastic. "The pooch yearns for nothing so much as to take a slice out of me, for some unknown reason. That's what makes me question the niceness of his master. Dogs often reflect their owners, and the Duchess seems to like him well enough already."

"What do you mean?" Kathleen's expression frankly showed her concern.

"Women like the Duchess, my dear, collect men just as they add jewels to their collections. She's still young, interesting looking and has plenty of money. Enough said. Has she told you about her emerald yet? No! It ranks up with the Hope diamond and some of the crown jewels of Europe. You'll hear of it in time. At the present she's more interested in the young man, and when the Duchess sets her mind on acquiring anything, she gets it."

Kathleen straightened up. "I don't know why you're telling me all this," she said coldly. "I hardly know either our hostess or Mr. McTavish, and of course it wouldn't mean a thing to me if they did become interested in each other." In spite of herself her lips quivered a little as she said it, and the lonely feeling came back with a rush.

It had been so different since that day Bob's battered desk had been carried up the stairs, and she had grown to listen for Schmatz's scampering feet. But of course this rich, fascinating woman would be more interesting than herself. At any rate the worldly wise professor didn't seem to mind it. She turned to him with her best smile.

"At least, Professor Bracey, I feel you're my friend, aren't you?" "Yes," he lifted her hand and touched his lips to the soft palm. Just then Bob came upon them.

"Say, I'm sorry," he said in some embarrassment. "I—I seem to be making it a crowd. I was just wanting to say goodby. Kathleen, I've been trying to get word with you."

"We noticed how hard you were trying, McTavish," Professor Bracey turned and looked at him with a sarcastic smile. "We were just remarking on it in fact, you and the Duchess—"

Mrs. Matheny Is Hostess to Group

WHEN you have those awful cramps; when your nerves are all on edge—don't take it out on the man you love.

Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man.

A three-quarter wife may be no wife at all if she nags her husband seven days out of every month.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tune up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three orials of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Tex's Topics

Committee heads of the Pampa American Legion, sponsoring that Labor Day community picnic, will meet tonight to further plans for the big outing. It's the first time the city ever has attempted anything on such a vast scale, and the way the Legionnaires are going after it, it looks like it would click. There's a date you ought to mark on the calendar right now. . . . Make it a point to take the family on a real outing on the next holiday, Sept. 6. . . . It's a big time for local Lionism tomorrow night when Group 3 meets at a Ladies' Night banquet in M. E. church.

Jim Lyons is the kind of a guy who paints himself into the corner of the room, except that he leaves the paint bucket on top of the step ladder while moving the ladder with the result it spills all over him. . . . Among Pampa's exercisers: Mrs. Bruce Parker pedaling a bike. . . . Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Browns taking a two-mile hike after dinner. . . . Remember when Pampa had a cement pole at the intersection of Cuyler and Foster? . . . Joe, the Barber, thinks the way things are shaping up now, recovery will not be complete until everybody has a job from which to strike. . . . Boston cream pie and buttermilk are becoming a popular midnight snack combination.

Colleen McMahan strums a ukelele on hot days in order to keep cool. . . . The lulling Hawaiian notes take her mind off the weather, she explains as she offers to bet that you can't come within five pounds of guessing her correct weight. . . . Archer Fullingim, the city editor, is back on the job today after a vacation in the mountains. . . . Among the most peaceful looking Pampans are the Russ Allens, the S. D. Stennis, the I. B. Hughes, the C. M. Jeffries, the J. B. Massas, and Bachelor Ed Daly. . . . Shy persons: Lorene Nicholson and Georgia Mae Rogers. . . . Dynamic: W. D. Kelly, Mike Roach, and Howard Neath.

Comes a wire from Gilmore Nunn, the former Pampian, who, with his father, has just sold their Kentucky Lexington Herald, morning newspaper which they purchased a little more than a year ago. . . . Gilmore explains that he will remain in Lexington with radio operations to take up his time. . . . More details, he says, will be forthcoming in a letter now on the way. . . . Perryton trippers had Pampa agog for awhile yesterday afternoon as they strolled their way through city streets, stopping long enough to present a splendid program in downtown Cuyler-st. . . . Perryton will have an 18th birthday celebration next Monday, and many Pampans are planning to join in the celebration.

One of the most hopeful signs for the future of agriculture is that the enrollment in 4-H clubs passed the million mark for the first time, in 1936. Membership continues to increase. . . . The young men and women who join the 4-H will be the producers of tomorrow. In their club work, they are instructed in new methods and techniques that make it possible for the farmer to raise larger crops and earn a greater return. They are given an opportunity to develop qualities of leadership that will prove invaluable to them in the future—for example, in the agricultural cooperative movement which is constantly growing in size and economic and social significance. In brief, they are wisely making careers of farming.

"Americans must work nearly one full year out of every eight—or about six weeks out of every year—just to pay the cost of the Federal government," says the United States News. . . . "When the local and state government costs are added to the expenditures of the national government, the average American must work two years out of every eight to pay the cost of government." . . . The tax collector gets a cut in every pay check. His unseemly hand reaches in and takes part of all the money you spend—for food, amusement, clothing, train fare, power service. And his percentage is today greater than it ever was in peace time in this country.

The Twentieth Century Fund estimates that total government costs have swelled to $17,000,000,000 a year. That is approximately 25 per cent of the national income in goodtimes. When you work four weeks, the public treasuries take your earnings for one of the weeks. . . . During the next year or so we are going to "make or break" so far as the tax problem is concerned. Every branch of government spending must be checked, from the national capitol to the city hall. We will have a let-up in tax boosting when, and only when, the voice of the people demands it.

There is only one store, one church, and one house in Needmore, Ga. . . . At one time, the average life of a dollar bill was 20 months; now it is six months. . . . If all the outlying possessions of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, could be combined into a single area, they would total less than the area of the state of Montana.

U. S. PLANS TO LEASE WARSHIPS TO BRAZIL

THE BOY ACTOR

Poor Freddie Bartholomew. Regardless of what happens to his money, it will be a miracle if he has any illusions about humans left, when the current bickering and bartering over his services and salary are finally ended.

First it was a court fight over his guardianship and now it is a court fight over his salary. Drawing $1100 weekly, his aunt and legal guardian claims that obligations arbitrarily set up by the courts to his real parents, his sisters, his agents, his attorneys and the United States Treasury Department so deplete his salary that there is not sufficient remaining to pay for Freddie's own maintenance.

Most boys of 13 are thinking about the cat and an ice cream soda. Wonder what Freddie thinks about?

YOUTH INTERNATIONAL

Another Boy Scout Jamboree has just closed at Vogelzanzing, Netherlands, where 28,000 Scouts from hundreds of nations all over the world got together.

Because they were boys, the Jamboree was peaceful, happy and friendly. Austrian Scouts admired the American Indian regalia of the United States' contingent. English lads camped by Italian boys with no hint in international ill feeling. Throughout the encampment there wasn't a single dispute over tent stake lines, or precedence at the mess hall.

The boys will grow up in a few years and then it will all be changed. They'll become statesmen, grocers, brokers, plumbers, bankers and soldiers. Personal interests and race prejudice will claim them, along with distrust. That shouldn't happen, but it almost always has. Boys can take things at face value. Men, it seems, can not.

Washington Letter

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Latest "wise-cracker" suggestion from capitol hill: It looks as if there might be another of those dreaded-by-congress marches on Washington by a new division in the army of the unemployed—the garbage collectors of the nation rendered jobless by the "electrical pig."

The mechanical porker, as you probably know, is a kitchen sink accessory which grinds to a fine pulp all kinds of food waste such as peelings, scrapings from dishes, and bones—in fact, everything except bottles and tin cans and, of course, the silverware—and disposes of them down the kitchen drain.

Already the technological seers of the national resources committee, who are studying the course of inventions and their social implications, see the electrical pig casting the sinister shadow of technological employment over the country's battalions of garbage handlers.

"Perhaps in time," says the committee, "this electrical pig may seriously affect those persons now employed in the garbage industry."

Statistics are not available concerning the scope of displacement of domestic workers by household labor-saving machines, but the rapid development of these devices undoubtedly is a potential factor in job opportunities for kitchen artisans.

Take the "electric eye," or photo-electric cell, alone. This new, technological brain-child has been creeping silently into our lives. And its ultimate social import, say the committee of experts, cannot now be estimated. While its principal applications are in industry, it is performing more and more magic functions in the home.

This mechanical servant already raises and closes windows automatically turns on and off night lights around the house, operates the door between dining room and kitchen, shakes the furnace grates, controls uniform illumination in working rooms, opens the refrigerator door and even sets off kidnaping alarm in the nursery.

Perhaps some future congress and the American Federation of Labor, or the CIO, may consider it humane and expedient to take steps to protect the cooks, dishwashers and dusters from the heartless robots. But these labor-saving gadgets present another problem for a problem-burdened society:

What, particularly in the cities, is going to happen to our good old American family life. The dads of today, especially those who are office workers, are getting softer in middle-age for want of muscle-toning jobs around the house. Those "character-building" chores for Johnny and Mary are almost extinct.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

Determined to do something about it, we ventured in on a ballet call. The summons had been sent out by "Virginia," a massive musical show now impending, and it appeared in the newspaper want ads—a cryptic admonition for "ballet dancers—male and female, to report with their practice clothes at the Center Theater."

For the most part the aspirants, though extremely young, were surprisingly expert. Girls in their mid-twenties were pictures of winging grace, and their ballet shoes touched the stage with a feathery lightness as they paced through the entree and other exercises.

Inquiry revealed that many of them were still in dancing school, and that, in fact, it is at the schools where most of the casting is done. There is no great durability to a ballet dancing career, it appears, for each new season brings an almost entirely changed personnel. Marriage claims the most of them. The American preference for more violent dance forms was the bane of devotees of the peril of rare jobs and much job-hunting. Domesticity means peace of mind.

Director Florence Rogge was patient with the candidates, but it took an eye far less practiced than hers to spot a head-baited dancer. Some argue that there is nothing quite so bad as a bad actor, but that ought to be amended. A bad ballet dancer is ineptitude at its deapest. We wandered among the rejected candidates in the hope of learning what had turned them to a career for which they seemed so singularly ill-fitted.

We accosted a girl, rather too chubby to boast the ideal ballet figure, and asked her what led her to that form of artistic expression. "Mama sent me to ballet school," she said sullenly, and that was answer enough. There were dozens of others who owed their discomfiture to "mama."

Another blithely acknowledged she hadn't a shred of talent for dancing, but had enrolled in the class to be near her chum, who was gifted enough to be engaged for dancing. The most amusing explanation came from a suburban girl, who might as well be known as Ruth. Ruth's ambition was based on envy and jealousy. It seems a neighbor's daughter came home after a season with the Mordkin group and rather lorded it over her stay-at-home friend and, in fact, appropriated Ruth's young man.

"I decided to go to school, get perfect and then go around and chase her out of every job she gets," said Ruth vehemently. It is sad to report that Ruth will not have her purpose realized immediately—at least not in "Virginia."

YOUNG WOMAN BURNED FATALLY IN COLLISION

HOUSTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Mary McDonald Edwards, 20, burned to death yesterday in an automobile collision near Pasadena.

Sterling Anderson, who was riding with Mrs. Edwards, and Virginia Highfill and Ned Forcum, occupants of the other car, were injured.

Deputy Sheriff M. A. Winn of Pasadena said the cars collided head-on and that Anderson's machine burst into flames before anyone reached the scene.

The victim's husband, Earl Edwards, was in a Houston hospital under treatment for injuries received in a fall from a ladder August 4.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

Well, we got back last night from two weeks of camping on cool, steep mountains and by floating, surging, crashing and oh, so cold streams! There were 14 boys and this one. The nearer we got to Pampa, the farther away they wanted to be.

They wanted to camp at Dumas, then near Amarillo, then near Panhandle, and finally in desperation, at Kingsmill. When they got here they didn't want to go home. They wanted to camp in the yard, or in the park. "We can throw up those tents in no time," they said.

In the end, seven of them stayed at this one's house, and undoubtedly wanted to climb a mountain this morning. But they went home. And it felt funny not to be walking either up or down but level. And the road was a lovely, wonderful, splendid truck (because it was so good to us) persisted all day, and we all tried to shake off the daze of wonderful days of mountains and streams and trees to get back to the business of living dutifully.

How's Your Health?

ABUSE OF STIMULANTS

"He who whips a tired horse soon has a dead nag." This is possibly as true of the tired human system as of the proverbial tired horse. Stimulants undoubtedly play an important role in the life of the average man. Taken in moderation and under proper indications, they may help render tolerable and comfortable conditions and circumstances which otherwise might be insupportable. But, used in excess, stimulants—and sedatives—are likely to produce undesirable, if not actually disastrous, results.

The most ancient of the common stimulants is alcohol, produced by fermenting carbohydrate- or starch-containing substances. The untoward effects following overindulgence in alcohol are universally known. Apparently, however, there are many individuals who believe that there are "safe stimulants," safe in the sense that they may be used, even in large amounts, with impunity. The basic laws of physiology reduce such a belief to very small shreds.

Every stimulant used to excess exacts its price. True, stimulants do vary in their sum total effects upon the body. Habitual overindulgence in coffee or tea is not likely to prove as disastrous as habitual overindulgence in alcohol. But even tea and coffee cannot be deemed safe in the sense defined above.

The latest discovered stimulant is likely to catch popular fancy, and some few are rash enough to "try it on themselves." Not long ago thyroiod extract was the "pep pill" of the day. Now it is benzedrine.

The latter has an especial appeal, for many consider it notably a brain stimulant. Granted it is such, the brain is not exempt from the universal laws of physiology, which hold that the suppression of the sense of fatigue and the stimulation to activity of a tired organ cannot be long sustained without subsequent periods of retribution.

In addition, benzedrine is a drug not entirely safe even in moderate doses. It is a new drug and full knowledge of its potentials is still lacking. It should therefore not be used save under medical supervision. Certainly it is not in any sense a brain stimulant.

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Hamlet has turned to slapstick. Romeo has taken up burlesque and caricature. Which means Leslie Howard is having one helluva fine time.

He told about it on the set of "Stand-In," the comedy about Hollywood. Just the day before, the philosophic Leslie Howard had been biffoed in the face with a stagnant tomato and subjected to various other indignities from the golden movie age of Sennett.

But he told about it with relish and enjoyment, for it tripping over a manhole and pretty nearly breaking his neck were fun. He said it was fun.

Inspired By Laughter
The idea struck him, he said, a few months ago in New York. He had just appeared on an Eddie Cantor program and the audience laughter was music to his ears. He had been doing his "Hamlet," at which audiences do not laugh, and he had almost forgotten the pleasure to be had from genuine laughter. He had known it, for despite his caricatures he had done light and comic things in an earlier day. Back in his hotel room that evening:

"I said to myself, 'The time has come, the walrus said.' And I wired Warner's to look for a script for me, a funny script."

And so was born not long ago, the broad burlesque of two acting folk. "It's Love I'm After," Leslie Howard and Bette Davis, heretofore united in such serious pieces as "Of Human Bondage" and "The Petrified Forest," stepped out as a comic pair presenting the funnier aspects of actors taking themselves seriously.

In "Stand-In," Leslie Howard swings even further to the left of serious drama. His Atterbury Dodd, humorless bespectacled banker sent to Hollywood to straighten out a sinking film company, is a real character, to whom manholes are not the only pitfalls and hurled tomatoes not the only weapons of his adversaries. But manholes and tomatoes—they give that Sennett touch.

"It's really the only way," said Howard, "for an actor to preserve his life, to stay out of the little narrow box they're continually trying to shove him in. Show what versatility he has, and he'll live longer." Howard came into films as a "spiritual" type in "Outward Bound," and continued as such in "Smilin' Through" and "Berkeley Square." Then came the philosophical-tragic phase, in "Of Human Bondage" and "The Petrified Forest." The classic was presented on the screen by "Romeo and Juliet." And now—"I suppose," he chuckled, "this could be called the Mack Sennett stage of my career."

Howard, as independent as they come, finishes his picture work for the year with "Stand-In." After that, he goes to England, either for play pictures, which may be "Bonnie Prince Charlie" or "Lawrence of Arabia." And some day—perhaps not soon—he is going to try his production of "Hamlet" on the stage again. The New York critics in the main didn't like it, but on the road it was acclaimed.

VISIBLE MULTIPLICATION

Shortly after its arrival, the toad acquired a family of 18 baby horned toads—one for every member in Miss Adams' class.

Book A Day

By BRUCE CATTION

The Russians have a saying Dezin Kopeika, which means, literally, "Life is a little kopeck," or as it would be said in America, "not worth a rap." Taking this jestful cue, Moscow correspondent Walter Duranty has fashioned one of the most exciting first novels to come off the presses in a long time, "One Life, One Kopeck" (Simon and Schuster, $2.50).

Right, stinging, shocking, this is the story of a handsome young peasant, Ivan Petrovich, who rose from utter squalor to become a leader of the Bolsheviks. And it is a romantic story, too, sweeping you along with the madcap love that Ivan, a "Red," found for Nina, a White Russian

THIRD GAME OF PANHANDLE BASEBALL CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES TONIGHT

CHODY LIKELY WILL OPPOSE HERMAN DREFS

Pampa baseball fans will have their first opportunity to see the Pampa Oilers and Huber Black-faces in action tonight following their return from the Denver Post tournament where they won third and fourth money. Game time will be 8:30 o'clock sharp at Road Runner park with admission 25 and 40 cents.

Finance-busting Dutch Prather will be on hand to show fans why he was the leading hitter in the Western league last year and why he led in hitting and in home runs at the Denver tournament. In the two games played since the tournament, Prather hasn't hit one over the fence. He hit a home run ball in Amarillo Sunday but the wind and lack of a fence kept it from being a four-run wallop.

Neither manager would name a starting hurler when asked this morning. Dope, however, pointed to Manager Fred Erickson sending Herman Drefs to the mound opposed by Chody. Both managers want to get a jump in the series.

The series, to go nine games if necessary, opened in Amarillo Sunday with the Oilers taking a 12-inning 5 to 3 victory. Both teams blew up on Monday night in Borger when Huber won by a score of 17 to 11. With the bad game out of their systems the Oilers are expected to settle down to real baseball tonight.

The Oilers will probably line up with Sain behind the plate, Cox on first, McLary or Scaling at second, Beason on short, Hale at the hot corner, and Brickell, McNabs and Prather in the outfield.

Play will move to Borger on Friday night and return here on Sunday afternoon.

INDIANS LOSE FASTEST GAME

If they paid dividends for consistency alone Galveston's Texas leaguers would collect heavily on their performance in the circuit this season.

Almost since the start of the current flag chase the Buccaneers have held sixth position, unable to rise out of the second division and good enough to top Houston and Dallas. They were good enough last night to turn back the pace-setting Oklahoma City team, 1 to 0. In the fastest game of the year (one hour and 12 minutes) the Pirates played flawlessly behind Curt Fullerton's five-hit twirling for their shutout.

Fort Worth went to San Antonio for a series vital to their aspirations for second place, and San Antonio won 11 to 4. The Pirates victory strengthened the Missions' hold on the runner-up berth to two games. The Padres turned the trick with a seven-run outburst in the seventh inning.

Al Baker continued to be the hit-back man of the Dallas Steers, who went down with him, 5 to 3, before a Beaumont assault. Baker pitched well but his occasional wild streaks came at inopportune moments. Two errors at third, letting in five unearned runs, was the direct cause of the Steer loss.

Max Thomas of Tulsa, on the other hand, was a pitching hero against Houston, who could get only three hits. Thomas punched across the winning run with a double in the fourth.

Firechiefs, Sluggers Win Softball Titles

The Texaco Firechiefs of Amarillo were crowned Panhandle Softball champions last night when they defeated Rig Service Station of Borger, 4 to 0, in a thrill-packed game which saw base hits at a premium and sensational plays numerous.

Firechiefs won the ball game in the first inning when R. C. Barron opened the game with a single stole second, went to third on a fielder's choice and came home on a fly ball. Two more crossed the plate in the third on a hit, error and lapse of control by Pitcher Hamm who walked three. Amarillo's final run came in the fifth on a single, error and two outs.

Rig threatened in the third when W. Buntin got one of Rig's two hits and Stewart was safe on an error with nobody out. Norton blew down and fanned two with the other man popping to second. Again in the seventh Rig got two on base but the first baseman got three putouts unassisted.

With De Ann Heiskell back on the mound the Pampa Sluggers had no trouble swamping the Canadian Krazy Kats to win the girls' division of the Panhandle Softball tournament. Heiskell fanned eight and limited Kat batters to eight hits while her teammates got to Sarraat and Owen for 18 singles.

"Red" Martin was the sensation of the game with five hits out of six times at bat including a triple, double and three singles. Close hit for the circuit when she put one down the third base line.

Canadian failed to score until the fifth inning. Up to that time Heiskell had allowed them only one hit as her teammates played airtight ball. In the fifth everyone blew up temporarily.

Gomez Hurls 3-Hit Game Despite Mother's Death

By BILL BONI, Associated Press Sports Writer.

There's a well-known motto, often abused, but backed up by solid tradition, in the canons of the theater and, to a less-publicized extent, the professional sports field:

"The show must go on."

These words, hackneyed perhaps, joked about frequently, must have fitted through the mind of a slim young Californian as, before a mid-week crowd of some 30,000, he warmed up yesterday afternoon at Yankee stadium.

For Lefty Gomez, southpaw star of the champion Yankees, had just been told that, in Rodeo, Calif., his mother had died. Less than a week ago Lefty had returned from her bedside in the belief that she was recovering.

It was his turn to pitch in the opener of a doubleheader against the Washington Senators, riding high on an eight-game winning streak. Manager Joe McCarthy, hard-pressed for pitchers, gladly would have excused Gomez from duty.

But Lefty trudged to the mound, turned in a three-hit, 8-0 shutout, helped himself to two singles—sensational batting for the ready southpaw—and hung up his fourteenth victory of the year.

Only one before had he bettered that performance, when the pitched a one-hit game against the Athletics on June 30. Once before, too, he had equaled it, against the Tigers on May 4. But neither of those games were turned in under the circumstances that surrounded him yesterday.

After Lefty had subdued the Senators, the Yanks came back to win the nightcap, 6-4, on the strength of a five-run scoring spree in the eighth. Thus, as the Tigers kept second place safe by battering the White Sox into 11-7 submission, the champions ran their American league lead to 19 1/2 games.

Less fortunate were the Chicago Cubs. Held in check 4-2, by Ed Brandt and Mace Brown of the Pirates, they saw their margin over the Giants shrink to three games as Cliff Melton pitched a five-hitter that took the sting out of the Boston Bees by a 4-1 count.

Philadelphia retained one and lost another cellar occupant. The Athletics, with Son Earl Mack replacing Father Connie at the helm for a day, remained in the American league rumble seat by absorbing a 6-1 defeat from the Red Sox, while the Phils moved out of the National league cellar for the first time since July 11 with an 11-1 trimming of the Dodgers, who replaced them.

In a night game at Cincinnati, the Cardinals shaded the Reds, 8 to 6, before 29,392 fans. The clubs played the last two innings in the rain. The victory kept the Cards in third place, half a game ahead of Pittsburgh.

They positively don't mean you, with your engine Oil-Plated by Conoco Germ Processed Oil. The longer life of your Oil-Plated engine naturally takes a little while to prove... but right now, from the minute I put in Germ Processed, you can't mistake the coolness and quiet due to Oil-Plating, or the way your oil level stays up.

On Capital Hill

By HARRELL E. LEE

AUSTIN, Aug. 18 (AP)—Texas could get a good bird's eye view of itself for $10,000,000 and the expense would be justified, says R. J. McMahan, state reclamation engineer.

He advocates an aerial survey for making an accurate base map of the state. He says none of 8,000 maps made give a complete picture of the topography because most of them were made for a mineral purpose and at no uniform scale.

McMahan says some sections have not been fully mapped and others not surveyed since in the days when engineers with crude instruments took sights on giant trees which no longer exist. A base map, he says, would determine the most profitable land uses and be of invaluable assistance to tax assessors. He cites an aerial survey of the Brazos conservation and reclamation district which revealed some farms, believed to contain 640 acres, were much larger and the excess acreage had escaped taxation.

The engineer suggests the state undertake the survey or that counties do it individually, piecing the maps into a whole. The job would take five to six years, he estimates, and would cost much less than a ground survey.

McMahan says it would take many months to complete a ground survey of only the Big Bend section, portions of which have never been mapped, whereas an aviator with proper atmospheric conditions could photograph the whole area in two weeks, possibly less.

The U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey has been running lines through Texas and at certain points erected bench markers, or small slabs partially buried in the ground and bearing triangulation marks and other data to assist surveyors in the field. Engineers discovered, however, they have been put to other uses. Some were appropriated as corner stones for farm and ranch houses, floor steps and corner posts in pasture fences. One party of surveyors encountered a man digging furiously under a bench marker. He thought the strange markings indicated buried treasure and he had set out to find it.

The Texas Planning board, working for an orderly development of the state's resources and industries, thinks there is plenty of room for advancement. It points out natural resources only 15 per cent developed, less than half the tillable land is under cultivation, and there are only 22.2 persons per square mile compared to the national average of 41.3. The state could accommodate one-third the nation's population and still be no more densely populated than Ohio.

Texas tidbits: There are more than 160,000 miles of highways in the state. It's people consume more cheese per capita than any other state. The sun shines more in Amarillo than anywhere in Texas (81 per cent of daylight hours). Frankston is the largest non-competitive tomato shipping point in the United States. Cotton is grown in 240 of the 254 counties. Marlin has a mineral spring which turns glass a beautiful amber shade and there is no known agent which will remove the coloring.

FEATHER-PICKING PASSENGER RILES WOMEN ABOARD N. Y. SUBWAY CAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Max Berger, 70, sat on a subway train plucking a live four-pound rooster given him by a friend.

"She loves me," he murmured dreamily, pulling out a handful of feathers, "she loves me not."

The rooster squawked in protest. Women subway riders looked dagged-eyed at Berger. He plucked on. Finally, Kay Nelson, a passenger stopped Berger.

"You're torturing that bird."

"I'm not hurting him," denied Berger. "I'm a retired barber and hairdresser. I could do this to a canary without hurting it. I could pluck your eyebrows and you would go to sleep while I was doing it."

The rooster squawked in disbelief as he lost another feather. When subway guards separated them, Berger and Nelson were tugging over the rooster. That impartial fowl was pecking at both.

At the police station Berger and Nelson explained. The semi-nude bird hung its head.

"I just wanted to get the rooster ready before I got home," said Berger. "It takes time to cook a mature bird like that."

The police lieutenant asked the advice of a patrolman, a chicken fancier.

"You better kill it," said the patrolman. "It's dying of shame anyway."

ARREST IS MADE IN NEW YORK TRUNK MURDER

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—The number "839," left inadvertently on a trunk which held the nude body of Oliver George Sinecal, 25, was the clue which led police today to hold his roommate, Joseph Ogden, 36, as the killer.
The body of Sinecal, a small time thief with a transcontinental police record, was discovered when railway express employes saw blood dripping from the trunk yesterday.
The trunk had been left only a few moments earlier by a man who said it contained silverware valued at $300. It was marked for shipment to "Joe Marshall, Memphis, Tenn."
A bullet hole pierced the back of the dead man's head. A tattoo mark had been slashed from his arm, but police, working swiftly to solve Manhattan's first trunk murder in years, soon identified him by fingerprints.

Senate Confirms Liberal Alabamian In 63 to 16 Vote

BLACK TO JOIN HIGHEST COURT NEXT OCTOBER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Hugo L. Black, who came out of the deep south as a liberal senator 10 years ago, will put on the robes of a supreme court justice next October.

The outspoken Alabamian, confirmed by his 63-16 vote, is first Roosevelt appointee to the high tribunal. By their one-sided confirmation, senators rejected the contention of opponents that he once belonged to the Ku Klux Klan and was temperamentally unfitted for the bench. The 51-year-old new dealer, accepting congratulations with a broad smile, said he will resign from the senate at once after a vacation, he will take the seat of the conservative Justice Willis Van Devanter, retired, when the autumn term of court begins.

Black pledged himself to "serve the people to the best of my ability." He will have opportunity, if he wishes, to help pass on constitutionality of laws which he helped pass. Despite the vehemence of the opposition, fewer senate votes were registered against him than against confirmation of either Chief Justice Hughes or the veteran Justice Brandeis.

A handful of foes pounded all afternoon against the advisability and legality of his appointment. Six Democrats joined 10 Republicans in voting against confirmation. The Democrats were: Burke, Byrd of Virginia; Copeland of New York; Gerry of Rhode Island; Glass of Virginia; and King of Utah.

The Republicans opposing confirmation were Austin of Vermont, Borah of Idaho, Bridges of New Hampshire, David of Pennsylvania, Hale and White of Maine, Johnson of California, Lodge of Massachusetts, Stiver of Oregon and Townsend of Delaware.

Three Republicans, on the other hand, supported Black: Capper of Kansas, and Frazier and Nye of North Dakota.

Senator Tydings (D-Md) and Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) were paired, the former opposing confirmation and the latter supporting it.

Among Democrats who were not registered on the vote were Senators Bailey of North Carolina, McCarren of Nevada, Maloney of Connecticut, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Wheeler of Montana.

Senator Borah, (R-Idaho), who voted for Black in the sub-committee and full committee and against the Bridges motion to recommend the nomination, finally voted against confirmation.

Black will sit on a court which he vainly endeavored to help reorganize; he had supported President Roosevelt's bill to add six justices unless those over 70 retire.

Friends predicted he will be aligned generally with the three justices who have often been in the minority—Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo.

As a senator, Black has gone on record many times in favor of a broad interpretation of the interstate commerce clause of the constitution and the federal government's power to regulate industry and agriculture. He helped draft the wage-hour bill now before congress.

POISON MIXING TO END HERE

Here's good news for Gray county grasshoppers. Due to the fact that demand for grasshopper bait practically has ceased, the poison mixing plant at McLean will discontinue operation Friday of this week. County Farm Agent Ralph Thomas announced today.

The Pampa plant, at the High school, will be closed next Tuesday. Mr. Thomas estimates that 80,000 pounds of poison bait has been mixed at the McLean plant in the last eight weeks. About 30,000 pounds has been mixed at Pampa.

Uncle Sam furnished all the poison and half of the bran while the remainder of the ingredients were furnished locally and sold to farmers and city residents at cost.

Before the mixing plants were installed in June, farmers had to pay from $2.50 to $3 a hundred pounds for the bait. Under the wholesale plan inaugurated by Mr. Thomas the cost was cut to 50 to 60 cents. Left-over material will be stored for use next spring, when it is planned to make an earlier attack on the grasshoppers.

FALL UNDER TRAILER WHEELS KILLS YOUTH

STOCK MARKET
NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Softness in rails and resistant copper and specialties provided a slow stock market with cross currents today. Late selling moved generally through the list and brought losses of fractions to a point of more.

Late demands for steels was prompted by bright news from the industry. Further Wall street emphasis on the war higher costs have been into railway earnings acted as a drag on this group. Some food for thought was served up by traders by President Gay of the New York stock exchange. In his annual report he said market liquidity has been threatened by government regulation. Transactions were approximately 650,000 shares.

2 BROTHERS BURN TO DEATH IN THEIR HOME

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—Two boys trapped in a closet burned to death today in a fire which swept their home in suburban Westleyville.

They were Richard Dudley, 15, and his 12-year-old brother, Edward. Their father, Richard Dudley, and sons of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dudley.

E. Taylor of the state motor police, said the younger boys apparently awoke and attempted to escape through the attic. In the smoke they became confused, he theorized, and walked into a closet where they were found clasped in each other's arms.

The course has become popular in Texas, where it has only been in practice since 1933. Some 25 schools over the state have adopted the system, including two other Panhandle cities, Dalhart and Amarillo. Strict requirements are necessary for the instructor of the classes, including 4 years of practical work and experience, a regular college degree, and experience in vocational education.

Mr. Pennington comes here from Yokum, Texas, where he taught the course last year. The course is subsidized by the state and federal government, to the extent of 3-4 of the salary.

The courses will be especially practical for students who are unable to attend college at the end of their high school training. While in the school, they can meet the required courses and work at the same time, so that when they are graduated, they will be thoroughly prepared for their occupation.

However, the course is strictly an occupational training program, not an employment agency, Mr. Pennington said.

Casualties in today's fighting were believed heavy, particularly among Chinese because they had assumed the offensive.

The evacuation of American women and children was speeded as mobs of infuriated Chinese roamed the streets, looting and killing, to make even more terrible the havoc wrought by the bursting shells of Chinese air Japanese guns.

A tender loaded with women and children ran the gauntlet of fire for ten miles down the Whanpoo today, taking a third contingent to safety. At 12:15 the tender reached the Yangtze estuary, and transferred its cargo of lives to the President McKinley. The liner immediately dropped anchor and headed into the China sea for Manila.

Today's evacuation brought the number of Americans safely out of the zone of undeclared war to 831. Some 400 have still to make the 10-mile journey down the Whanpoo to the ocean liners that are shuttling between Woosung and Manila.

Within the city, stringent precautions were taken to safeguard dwindling supplies of food. Armored cars drove back Chinese refugees who attacked trucks bringing precious loads of rice.
