JUDGE DUNCAN TELLS ELECTION OFFICIALS OF DUTIES AMENDMENTS, G. O. P. VOTE HOLD SPOTLIGHT OF ELECTION

CAMPAIGN IS COLORLESS IN LAST STAGES

SESSION BILL WILL BE UP

University of Texas Question Is of Interest

By The Associated Press The fate of the five proposed constitutional amendments, one congressional race, and the fate of the Republican vote in 1932, these will occupy the center of interest in the Texas election Tuesday.

There will be less interest in Tuesday's voting than in any other primary or general election the past three years. The campaign has been colorless. All of the statewide talking has been done by the Republicans on behalf of their gubernatorial entry, Col. William B. Talbot of Dallas. The Democrats, accustomed to unbroken victory for sixty years, haven't even bothered to reply.

Worthen Has Held The situation is different in the republican congressional district, which has been represented since 1929 by Harry M. Worthen of Seguin, the lone Texas Republican in the house. Henry B. Diekmann of San Antonio is the Democratic nominee and Senator Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard went into the district to help him. Observers predict a close race.

Many Democrats assert they do not believe Colonel Talbot will receive 100,000 votes, the number needed for the Republicans to be enabled to hold a primary in the next election.

Six Hundred Men Fighting Fire

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Strung out along a five mile front, more than 600 men tonight fought a dangerous and stubborn fire threatening the county park. Several groves of privately owned redwoods and several hundred summer cabins.

Starting in Purissima Canyon late Friday night flames had roared down the defile toward the county park, burning over more than 1,000 acres of heavily forested mountain land.

Two Men Burned in Mills Blast

DENVER, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Two men were burned, one probably fatally, in two explosions of undetermined cause, at the Putina mills here today. Both men, William J. Orchis, 50, and Otto Lehmann, 39, suffered burns about their heads and shoulders. Physicians at St. Anthony's hospital said Orchis' condition was critical.

Blach, Harry Nelson, Jr., Paul McIntire, David Hudgel, Jack Gill, Reginald Brown, Ray Ford, Stanley Beck, Ray Eldridge, Edgar Eldridge, Leo Stark, Earl Rogers, H. B. Taylor, and J. L. NEW SCHEDULE IN OIL CUT RELEASED

A schedule prorating all wells in the Panhandle producing over 25 barrels of oil daily and limiting the allowable production to 70,000 barrels, will be issued to operators of the Panhandle Tuesday morning, it was learned Saturday.

The recommendation of the Panhandle advisory committee to prorate 12-barrel wells and to set the allowable production at 70,000 barrels was temporarily approved by the railroad commission Friday afternoon. Obviously, the schedule cannot become effective until it is tested. Hearings on the order will be held later. There are 1255 wells in the Panhandle making over 12 barrels daily, and 895 wells producing on an average 25 barrels daily. Thus the new schedule will include 370 wells more than the preceding proration order.

This feature of the order will have practically no effect on the proration program in Gray county since 520 of its 690 wells average more than 25 barrels daily. There are very few wells in Gray county producing less than 25 barrels daily. Operations in Gray county during the week ending Oct. 30, included five new locations and five completions. New production totaled 815 barrels. The daily production of the Panhandle was 81,240 barrels, an increase of 41 barrels over that of the preceding week. Gray county's 690 wells produced 58,969 barrels, a gain of 77 barrels over the previous six-day period.

The end of the week found operators of the Panhandle waiting for the new proration schedule, effective during the first half of November. The Panhandle advisory committee last Tuesday recommended that all wells producing over 12 barrels daily be prorated, and that the allowable production for the Panhandle be set at 70,000 barrels. Previously, wells producing less than 25 barrels daily were exempt and the allowable production was 80,000 barrels. The committee advised that unconnected wells could not be taken care of by the purchasing companies unless the 12-barrel wells were prorated.

Young Boy Saved From Asphyxiation

A thin cloud of gas drifted into the living room at the home of Mrs. Fannie Hardin yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Hardin sniffed. . . then remembered that her 10-year-old grandson, C. E. Phillips Jr., had been bathing in the bath room entirely too long. She rushed to the room, opened the door and the gas boiled out. The youngster lay unconscious on the floor. Mrs. Hardin ran with him to fresh air. In five minutes he said to his mother who arrived after he "came to". "Mama, the last I remembered was trying to button the top button on my shirt then I was on the back porch."

Stolen Car Found By Window Crash

James A. Thurman of LeFors was in Pampa Saturday, seeking to recover his car that had been stolen and was being used by the thieves in smashing the front of the S. & S. grocery on Barnes street about 9 o'clock Friday night. The two men who were in the car leaped out and ran. Police were summoned. In the car they found a pepper-and-salt colored top stashed with the name of Adams and Wilson, Seminole, Okla., and papers showing that the car belonged to Mr. Thurman. The car was purchased from the White Day-Mor company.

Marriage license was granted yesterday to Robert H. Orr of Pampa and Estelle Almond of Medicine Hat.

Dick Graham and his father left Friday for California where the latter will spend the winter.

RED CROSS ANNUAL ROLL CALL IS SET

Quota of 750 Members Will Be Raised

SAM FENBERG IS CHAIRMAN

Most of Funds to Be Kept for Use Here

Pampa's Red Cross annual quota of 750 members will be raised in one day—November 11—according to Sam A. Fenberg, who has been appointed chairman of the drive.

The campaign will be carried out under the general direction of a committee composed of pastors of the churches and heads of various organizations. These will be called together by Mr. Fenberg Tuesday in a luncheon meeting at the Schneider hotel.

The citizens will be asked to give only the annual membership dues of $1, although as usually the case a number of persons will have as much as $25. All but 50 cents of each membership remains in Pampa for local use.

Merchants assist in giving publicity to the drive by incorporating the Red Cross symbols in their window displays.

"Ninety-thousand persons received emergency aid, and 8,000-families rehabilitation assistance from the Red Cross Disaster Relief service between July 1, 1929 and June 30 this year," Mr. Fenberg, roll call chairman of the local organization, said last night. "Tornadoes, hurricanes, floods, forest fires, explosions, and epidemics called for Red Cross action in 28 states, 147 counties, and 23 towns, and altogether during the period the National Red Cross and its chapters spent $1,220,766 for disaster relief in the United States and its insular possessions. The Red Cross also contributed to 6 foreign disaster relief operations, including assistance to the German Red Cross in caring for people of their nation returning from Russia, aid to Russian refugees involved in a conflict along the Siberian-Manchurian border in China, the relief of Newfoundland settlements devastated by a tidal wave, relief of flood victims in Southern France, earthquake victims in Persia, and families endangered by a smallpox epidemic in Costa Rica."

"The local, national, and international service of the Red Cross is so vast, the figures and accomplishments so large, that at first they may be difficult to grasp fully," Mr. Fenberg declared. "Red Cross workers in chapters, camps, and hospitals helped a monthly average of 55,209 Service and ex-service men and their families in straightening out home problems, filling claims for government benefits, and in obtaining hospitalization, in 64 Veterans' Bureau and Government hospitals, National Red Cross workers assisted 25,496 disabled veterans monthly, through solving home and personal problems and through recreation that helped the patients' recovery by making them cheerful. Workers of the organization in 368 camps, army posts and naval stations, aided 37,250 regular army, navy, and marine corps men by solving home problems, and in other ways."

DUNCAN IS HEAD OF INDUSTRIAL BOARD

Members of the recently created industrial board, adjunct to the chamber of commerce and the Board of City Development, were announced yesterday by W. H. Curry, chairman of the industrial committee.

Judge Ivy E. Duncan was named chairman of the board, while C. S. Barrett was named vice chairman. Members are A. Gordon, R. L. Champion, Carl Boston, J. M. Saunders, P. C. Ledrick, C. S. Barrett and Judge Duncan. The men were appointed at a meeting of the industrial committee Friday.

Violin Choir To Have Radio Hour

Prof. Otto Shick's violin choir and quartet will give a one-half hour program November 5, when the Pampa radio station has its opening. Numbers on the program: "Smile, Baby," Prof. Shick's own composition, "Passe-Pied," a dance in the olden style, violin duet by LaVerne Twiford and Prof. Shick, "Sog Without Words" by the violin choir, and other classics. Part of the program will be devoted to answering requests. Those who will participate in the choir and quartet are Katharine Vincent, LaVerne Twiford, Eleanor Frey, Dorothy Mae Meers, Irwin Hunsacker, Bob Wallace, Barbara Camp, Mrs. Mark Long, Mrs. Frank Keehn, Prof. Shick, and Mrs. McSkimming.

Cuban Election Held But Quiet

HAVANA, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Cuba's congressional election day came to a close here tonight without disorders but with voting light and many polling places falling to open. In nearly all parts of the island, voting was light, and particularly so was this true in Havana, though it had been expected there would be a heavy descent on the polling stations.

Judges for Tuesday Announced by County

Election officials were urged to follow proper procedure in handling ballots by Judge Ivy E. Duncan yesterday when they were issued supplies for the general election to be held Tuesday.

Judge Duncan pointed out that voters in various boxes in the county were virtually deprived of their suffrage privileges in the second primary when judges failed to endorse and number the ballots properly. Many votes in several boxes of the county were thrown out due to the fact that the judges wrote their names on the face instead of the reverse side of the ballot. Other judges failed to number the ballots.

Judge Duncan also urged election officials to require qualified voters to vote in the right precincts. In the run-off primary election a large number of voters cast ballots in wrong precincts. This could have been largely prevented by the election laws, a citizen must have lived in the state 12 months and in the county six months in order to be entitled to vote. It is immaterial how long one has lived in a precinct. It is also immaterial what voting precinct appears on the poll tax receipt. Citizens who came to Texas a year ago and to the county six months ago to live and have lived here since then need not have a poll tax in order to vote. One must vote in the precinct in which one lives at the time of election.

The election judges for Tuesday were chosen by the commissioners at their first session of this year. Each commissioner nominated non-

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The calling of a constitutional convention to consider the prohibition amendment is one of several nebulous proposals heard here from the ranks of the Hoover law enforcement commission as it approaches its showdown on the wet and dry issue next week. As Oklahoma City Gusher Went Wild

Three hundred National Guardsmen were hurriedly mobilized when the C. E. Stout well, just outside the Oklahoma City wholesale district, ran wild. Many families were forced to move and six schools were closed. This NEA photo shows the well a few minutes after it started throwing oil over the derrick.

GRASS FIRED BY SPARK IN WELL'S AREA

ANOTHER TEARS LOOSE

Families Evacuate Territory by Gusher

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 1. (AP)—Oklahoma City had a few brief moments of panic late today as fire swept through oil soaked grass at the southeast doorstep of the city, a mile and a half from where an uncontrolled volcano of oil roared into the sky. Scores of work-weary firemen, oil field workers and national guardsmen quashed the flames in less than an hour but not before panic had cleared residential districts in the danger zone near the wild No. 1 Stout well and word had swept through downtown crowds that "the wild well is on fire."

Adding to the scare came the report that another great gusher near the Stout well was tearing loose as sand cut at its connections. After the confusion had subsided it was learned the Champlin Refining company's No. 1 Naden, 600 feet south of the Stout, and one of five wells it was proposed to open in an effort to relieve gas pressure at the rampant gusher, had cut its top mastergate. It was shut in immediately and new connections installed. The lower connections were holding.

No Hope Left With no hope of taming the Stout before tomorrow noon, crews which had abandoned their arduous task at the first cry of fire returned to the well and prepared to move a great die nipple onto the derrick floor. The die nipple, when stabbed into place, should control the monster well, officials say. Bad luck at the Naden well caused virtual abandonment of announced plans to open five wells near the gusher. The No. 1 Mueller of Hall and Briscoe was opened for a time and later shut in. Opening of the wells shut in for proration, had been sanctioned earlier in the day by the state corporation commission, in the belief lessening of gas pressure at the Stout would aid its taming.

PAMPA COUPLE ROBBED FRIDAY NIGHT BY PAIR— VALUABLES AND CLOTHING ARE TAKEN IN RAID

While Mr. and Mrs. Hicks Fletcher were preparing to retire about 12:30 o'clock Friday night in their home on south Summer street in the Finley-Banks addition, two robbers armed with pistols burst into the room and robbed them of $92 in cash and clothing and personal articles valued at $150, according to a report made to city and county officers.

A third man waited in a car whose motor was left running, which was parked in front of the house. Mr. Fletcher had removed part of his clothing when someone knocked on the door. He opened it and the robbers burst in, ordering Fletcher and his wife to hold up their hands and turn their faces toward the wall. Both robbers were dressed in overalls. The victims saw only one of the two men and he was middle-aged, they said.

The hi-jackers took the contents of Mr. Fletcher's trouser pockets. These included keys to his car, a bill fold containing $85 in currency and silver, a two-dollar check made out to Slim Hall by George Gray. Mrs. Fletcher's handbag containing $6.00 was also taken. The robbers carried away a blue serge coat and vest, a pair of shoes, an overcoat, chamois skin jacket and a hat belonging to Mr. Fletcher. He had just removed the coat, hat, vest and shoes. The hat was lead-colored and stamped on the inside by J. G. Penny company. The overcoat was brown plaid and made by Hart, Schaffner and Marx Brothers. Two leather suitcases were also taken. The men were riding in an old Chevrolet coach or a sedan, Fletcher said.

"Ghosts" Break Glass in Auto

Police are looking for two Halloween "ghosts" who disappeared late Friday night after driving a stolen automobile into the front of the S. & S. Market on South Cuyler smashing all the glass in two display windows. Witnesses were found who said that the car was being driven recklessly down the street by two youths. When the machine crashed into the building they fled down an alley. The car was stolen at LeFors.

Company Formed By Local Group For Lubricator

There are inventors and inventors, an oil-treating lubricator which took Clovis A. Baucum, former roustabout and pumper, three years to devise is being taken seriously by a group of local men. They believed in it to the extent that recently they organized the McAllister-Lubricator company capitalized at $50,000. A charter to do business in Texas and to manufacture the lubricators was granted October 1.

The company name is derived from parts of the names of the inventor, and two company promoters, Dr. John V. McAllister, president of the concern, and L. M. Johnson, one of the directors. Dr. A. R. Sawyer is vice-president, while Edwin S. Vicars, cashier of the First National Bank is secretary-treasurer. DeLes Vicars, vice-president of the same bank is one of the directors. Many other local men have purchased stock in the company.

Are Taking Bids
 Bids are now being received from steel fabricating concerns in Fort Worth, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and Pampa for the manufacture of the oil-treating lubricators. However, if local companies can make the machine as substantially and as cheaply as out of town manufacturers, it is almost certain that Pampa will be the home of the new industry, Dr. McAllister announced. A number of the lubricators have already been made and are in service in Gray county oil fields. Pumps and company officials unanimously report that these are giving complete satisfaction.

The story of why and how Mr. Baucum invented the lubricator is similar to the stories of most inventions. Three years ago, he was a pumper on a Texas company lease. The well was a "treater." That is, the production was a mixture of oil, sand, water, and a conglomeration of foreign substance. Before the oil could be sold to the pipe line company it was necessary to remove the water sediment from it. A chemical solution, the base of which is castor oil, was allowed to drip or flow, according to the amount of production, into the flow line which extended from the well to the storage tank. This chemical removed the water and sediment, thereby improving the gravity. Its effect on the oil is the same as lye upon hard water. There are hundreds of "treating wells" in the Panhandle and thousands more throughout the United States.

Distilled Method
 The oil-treating equipment, that is, the lubricator, Mr. Baucum felt was inadequate. In a short time it was exhausted. The lubricator which treated the oil coming from Mr. Baucum's well is an exact duplicate of all those now being used at treating wells throughout the United States. It comprised a chemical tank set above the flow line at the well. The treating solution, a syrupy, gummy solution, was supposed to drip, or pour, into the flow line, but the trouble was that it wouldn't drip, or flow, consistently. It was regulated by an old-style stationary valve. The progress of the dripping could be observed through a sight feed. The chemical solution would stop up the valve. In a big producer, a tank would be filled with untreated oil in an hour.

Then it would be necessary to process required much heating, and "rolling" and reduced the gravity of the oil. Besides, the treating solution is costly, and it takes six times as much to treat oil in the tanks as in the flow line. In cold weather the lubricator would not work at all. Even when it is not cold weather, the old-style lubricator must be inspected every hour, but in freezing weather the shivering pumper inspected it oftener.

Made Many Plans
 In addition, the dripper valve of the old-style lubricator could not be regulated. If the well was flowing by heads, too much of the 22-gallon solution would flow into the oil when the production was small, and when the flow increased the dripper would not furnish enough of the solution.

Mr. Baucum one day asked his boss, "Is this the only thing we can get for treating the oil?" He was assured that there was none better in existence. "Well, I'll make a better one," the 22-year-old youth declared, and in the next three years he made dozens of lubricators and discarded a score of plans. His first machine, contained two alarm clocks. "You have the right principle but the wrong machine," Ed Daly, local oil man told him, and Baucum soon thought of the idea for the lubricator.

As it is now being manufactured, the Baucum lubricator consists of a casting with flanges which fits into the flow pipe leading from the well to the storage tank. A small turbine in the flow line turns a worm gear in a shaft at the top of which are two gears. The only rotary valve in existence allows the chemical solution to drop or flow into the oil line. The Bureau of Standards at Washington was very much interested in this valve. Officials there declared one like it had never been submitted for patenting. The turbine and a spring door in the flow line are also new features. The small door equalizes the pressure. The flow of the treating solution into the line is not forced because there is the same amount of pressure in the chemical tank as in the line.

Has Rotary Valve
 The secret of the success of the lubricator lies in the rotary valve. It eliminates the worst feature of the old style lubricator—stopping up of the valve. The gears at the top of Baucum device turns the valve which moves on a base with a single notch on it.

When the valve needs, slides into this notch at each turn, all sediment in the solution that has collected passes thru, and eliminates any possibility of stopping up the valve. When the valve trips in this uneven base the treatment solution flows into the line. Mr. Baucum has a mixture of sawdust, syrup, and sand thru his lubricator in zero weather. He regarded this as the supreme test of his invention.

The Baucum lubricator worked perfectly on a Texas company well producing oil and 18 million cubic feet of gas. It works the same on gas-lift wells and swabbing wells as on pumping wells because the pressure is the same in the chemical tank as in the line. The Midwest Exploration company is also using the lubricator for its treating wells.

Pumpers in the Bowers field reported that just half as much chemicals used by the old style lubricators is used by the Baucum lubricator. The necessity of treating the oil in tanks is also eliminated. Gravity of the oil was raised two points in three wells.

TO THE VOTERS OF GRAY COUNTY TEXAS

On November 4th you will be called upon to decide whether you will cast your ballot for the Democratic nominee for the office of Sheriff of Gray County, Texas, in accordance with your pledge as a Democratic voter or whether you shall cast your ballot for a man, Lon L. Blanscet, who pledges himself to support the nominee of the Democratic Party for the office of Sheriff of Gray County, at the time he cast his ballot and at the time his name was placed upon the ballot in the primary elections heretofore had, and a man who pledged himself, in open Court, to abide by the decision of the District Court of Gray County, Texas, on the contest of his election heretofore had and who stated, in open court, that unless the evidence in the case showed that he was elected by a majority of the qualified voters of Gray County, in the primary election so contested, that he did not desire the office, and for a man whose attorney, Mr. Chas. C. Cook, in open court, at the time of the conclusion of the contest of the election case, stated to the court that it was apparent, for many reasons, that his client, Lon L. Blanscet, could not be successful in the case because it was apparent that more illegal votes had been cast for him in the primary election so contested than for John V. Andrews, his opponent, and a man, who, in spite of all of the foregoing pledges and statements, is now asking the democratic voters of Gray County to violate their pledge and to write his name in on the ticket in the on-coming General election for the office of Sheriff of Gray County.

For the foregoing statement we can hardly believe that any reputable man will do what Mr. Blanscet and his supporters ask you to do, and, while we feel that the great majority of the Democratic voters of Gray County, Texas, will not violate their pledge, still since some of Mr. Blanscet's supporters for the on-coming general election are men who gave their word to support the Democratic nominee, and who now "make no bones" of the fact that they are going to violate their pledges, makes us feel that the true facts should be placed before the public.

Each and all of the foregoing statements concerning the pledge and statements of Mr. Blanscet and his attorney, in open court, can be verified by any member of the Democratic Executive Committee, or any person who was in open court on the day the contested election case was reached before the committee and upon the day that Mr. Blanscet's attorney, Mr. Cook, stated in open court to Judge Ewing, that his client admitted defeat in the case and no longer desired to contest the same. If you doubt the truth of any of these statements, make your own investigation and vote accordingly.

If Mr. Blanscet will not stand by his word and solemn pledge concerning the matters hereinabove mentioned, can you expect him to stand by his word on any other matters? Stop and think! Do you want such a man in charge of one of the most important offices in Gray County, Texas? No. We can not believe that any man will cast his ballot in favor of a man who stands in the light before the public as does Mr. Blanscet.

You may have voted against Mr. Andrews in the primary election—that was your privilege—but are you going to violate your pledge and word as a man and vote for a man whose pledge means nothing to him?

VOTE FOR JOHN V. ANDREWS, the DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR THE OFFICE OF SHERIFF OF GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS, and thereby elect an honest man, a capable man, an experienced man and a man who stands by his word.

Company Formed By Local Group For Lubricator

There are inventors and inventors, an oil-treating lubricator which took Chlovis A. Baucum, former route tabout and pumper, three years to devise is being taken seriously by a group of local men. They believed in it to the extent that recently they organized the McBaucum Lubricator company capitalized at $50,000. A charter to do business in Texas and to manufacture the lubricators was granted October 1.

The company's name is derived from parts of the names of the inventor, and two company promoters, Dr. John V. McAllister, president of the concern, and L. M. Johnson, one of the directors. Dr. A. R. Sawyer is vice-president, while Edwin S. Vicars, cashier of the First National Bank is secretary-treasurer. DeLea Vicars, vice-president of the same bank is one of the directors. Many other local men have purchased stock in the company.

Bids are now being received from fabricating concerns in Fort Worth, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and Pampa for the manufacture of the oil-treating lubricators. However, if local companies can make the machine as substantially and as cheaply as out of town manufacturers, it is almost certain that Pampa will be the home of the new industry. Dr. McAllister announced a number of the lubricators have already been made and are in service in Gray county oil fields. Pumps and company officials unanimously report that these are giving complete satisfaction.

The story of why and how Mr. Baucum invented the lubricator is similar to the stories of most inventions. Three years ago, he was a pumper on a Texas company lease. The well was a "treater." That is, the production was a mixture of oil, sand, water, and a conglomeration of foreign substance. Before the oil could be sold to the pipe line company it was necessary to remove the water sediment from it. A chemical solution, the base of which is castor oil, was allowed to drip or flow, according to the amount of production, into the flow line which extended from the well to the storage tank. This chemical removed the water and sediment, thereby improving the gravity. Its effect on the oil is the same as lye upon hard water. There are hundreds of "treating wells" in the Panhandle and thousands more throughout the United States.

Dr. McAllister, president of the McBaucum Lubricator company, said the oil-treating equipment, that is, the lubricator, Mr. Baucum felt was inadequate. In a short time it was exasperated him. The lubricator which treated the oil coming from Mr. Baucum's well is an exact duplicate of all those now being used at treating wells throughout the United States. It comprised a chemical tank set above the flow line at the well. The treating solution, a syrupy, gummy solution, was supposed to drip, or pour, into the flow line, but the trouble was that it wouldn't drip, or flow, consistently. It was regulated by an old-style stationary valve. The progress of the dripping could be observed through a sight feed. The chemical solution would stop up the valve. In a big producer, a tank would be filled with untreated oil in an hour.

Then it would be necessary to process required much heating, and "trilling" and reduced the gravity of the oil. Besides, the treating solution is costly, and it takes six times as much to treat oil in the tanks as in the flow line. In cold weather the lubricator would not work at all. Even when it is not cold weather, the old-style lubricator must be inspected every hour, but in freezing weather the shivering pumper inspected it oftener.

When the valve needs, slides into this notch at each turn, all sediment in the solution that has collected passes thru, and eliminates any possibility of stopping up the valve. When the valve trips in this uneven base the treatment solution flows into the line. Mr. Baucum has fed a mixture of sawdust, syrup, and sand thru his lubricator in zero weather. He regarded this as the supreme test of his invention.

The Baucum lubricator worked perfectly on a Texas company well producing oil and 19 million cubic feet of gas. It works the same on gas-lift wells and swabbing wells as on pumping wells because the pressure is the same in the chemical tank as in the line. The Midwest Exploration company is also using the lubricator for its treating wells.

Pumpers in the Bowers field reported that just half as much chemicals used by the old style lubricator is used by the Baucum lubricator. This necessity of treating the oil in tanks is also eliminated. Gravity of the oil was raised two points in three wells.

Mr. Baucum one day asked his boss, "Is this the only thing we can get for treating the oil?" He was assured that there was none better in existence. "Well, I'll make a better one," the 22-year-old youth declared, and in the next three years he made dozens of lubricators and discarded a score of plans. His first machine contained two alarm clocks.

"You have the right principle but the wrong machine," Ed Daly, local oil man told him, and Baucum soon thought of the idea for the lubricator.

As it is now being manufactured, the Baucum lubricator consists of a casing with flanges which fits into the flow pipe leading from the well to the storage tank. A small turbine in the flow line turns a worm gear in a shaft at the top of which are two gears. The only rotary valve in existence allows the chemical solution to drop or flow into the oil line. The Bureau of Standards at Washington was very much interested in this valve. Officials there declared one like it had never been submitted for patenting. The turbine and a spring door in the flow line are also new features. The small door equalizes the pressure. The flow of the

The secret of the success of the lubricator lies in the rotary valve. It eliminates the worst feature of the old style lubricator—stopping up of the valve. The gears at the top of Baucum device turns the valve which moves on a base with a single notch on it.

Debunking Now Applied to Movie Pictures Also

With the process known as "debunking" being applied to everything from politics to philanthropy, the movies are now taking it up.

In making "Renegades" for Fox Movietone, Director Victor Fleming has stripped away the false glamor surrounding the Foreign Legion and in its place gives a thrilling but authentic portrait of life as it really is in the famous organization.

"The Legion is exciting enough and romantic enough in reality," says Fleming, "without giving a highly colored impression of it."

"What many persons overlook is the fact that, despite its brilliant military record, the Legion is essentially an industrial army. Its campaigns against the enemies of France are the only features of its activity that reach the daily papers, but for each day of fighting and skirmishing there is a month of plain hard work—building roads and canals, erecting forts, policing unsettled territory, digging wells, and generally opening up the interior of Morocco and Algeria to civilization.

"This labor seldom receives recognition. Nevertheless, it explains why a Legionaire's life is not the adventurous holiday that many seem to think it is.

"In 'Renegades' we have tried to present an accurate picture of this noted organization and show something of its hardships as well as its excitement. The author of 'Les Renegades,' Andre Armandy, knows the Legion well and in our screen version of his book we have held closely to the spirit and authenticity of the original."

Warner Baxter heads the cast of "Renegades" which comes to the Rex theatre today for a two-day run. Noah Beery, George Cooper and Gregory Gaye have the roles of Baxter's three comrades, and Myrna Loy that of the alluring woman spy who disrupts their plans, while C. Henry Gordon, Bela Lugosi and Collin Chase have important parts. Jules Furthman, who wrote the scenario for Fleming's previous offering, "Common Clay," also contributed the screen play to this new production.

LUBBOCK HOLDS AMARILLO SANDIES TO SCORELESS TIE Longhorns Swamp Southern Methodists With 25 to 7 Win

DEADLOCK GIVES AMARILLO EDGE OVER PAMPA; LUBBOCK IN DISTRICT GRID PLAYOFF

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Two aggressive high school football teams, pointed toward one another throughout the season thus far, battled to a scoreless tie here this afternoon as 7,500 persons jammed the Texas Technological College stadium for the Lubbock-Amarillo encounter.

The deadlock gave the Sandies from Amarillo the edge on honors in district 1, class A, of the Texas interscholastic league race. Lubbock beaten in a 12 to 9 upset by Pampa earlier in the season, had hoped to drive to a three way tie for leadership, stop a 2 to 0 victory by Amarillo over Pampa.

The Sandies took the bit in their teeth in the first quarter, which was played almost entirely in Lubbock territory. Line thrusts coupled with a deceptive double reverse with Fowler and Burkin logging the oval carried the ball within an inch of the coveted goal, but the Westerner line mangled four straight plays and took the offensive on its own twenty-yard stripe after an Amarillo fumble rolled across the goal for a touchback. The second quarter was still an edge for Amarillo, but at the opening of the second half the locals charged the line on spin plays by Smith and Lawson and off tackle plays by Watkins to march sixty yards Amarillo-ward. A fumble put the quietus in the scoring threat.

Three times the Westerners, whose aerial game clicked like nobody's business, reeled off gains of from 20 to 30 yards only to be called back by technicalities. The ruling out of the touchdown was the most cruel blow of all. Coming in the second spasm on a flip of 12 yards, Smith to Martin, and the latter's subsequent 20-yard gallop. Untouched, across the coveted chalkmark.

Officials, however, ruled that the ball struck an eligible Westerner before being caught by Martin, an end. The play was not so observed in the press box or the stands.

Lubbock counted 306 yards in scrimmage to 141 for Amarillo in the final computations and completed six of eleven passes to four of eight attempts by Amarillo to gain through the clouds.

M. H. Duncan, superintendent of schools in Lubbock, said after the game that Coaches Cherry and Froha acted without authority in agreeing to decide a possible tie game by the 20-yard penetrations route, and that he would not recognize the tilt in any other than a scoreless tie, an even break for both elevens, changing both Lubbock and Amarillo with a half game loss.

A touch of tragedy marked the closing ten minutes of play when Moody Smith, star of Westerners backfield for three seasons, was taken from the lineup by his coach, due to injuries. The plucky youngster, battered in slash after slash at the Sandy forwards, wanted to star in for the finish and as Coach Fenka, arm across his shoulder led Smith from the field the stands were silent.

As Smith reached the sidelines both rooting sections joined in a cheer for his work. He was the backbone of the Westerner offensive play throughout the afternoon.

Louisiana State Is Victor Over Arkansas Eleven

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Louisiana State university played a near-perfect passing game here this afternoon to take a 27-12 victory over the University of Arkansas in the twenty-fifth annual renewal of their football feature at the state fair.

With rivalry traditionally keen, it was a rough and tumble affair throughout, resulting in the ejection of a couple of the opposing linemen and drastic penalties in the final quarter. The Louisianians outplayed and outfought their ancient rivals in every department to break a long string of Arkansas victories at the fair.

L. S. U. passed in the pinches and made them count. Of five aerial heaves, four were completed for a total gain of 48 yards, and in addition three of Arkansas' passes were intercepted. Arkansas tried eleven passes, completing only two for a gain of 23 yards.

Arkansas tallied first by recovering the fumbled initial kickoff, Ledbetter, the right half, crashing the line for a touchdown after Kyle, the left half, had shown the way down the field with a series of sweeping end runs.

L. S. U. retaliated immediately by taking an Arkansas fumble and completing a pass from Almkor, half, to Luker, end, for a score. The Tigers scored again a few minutes later to take the lead when Powell, Ticker tackle, blocked Uptmoor's punt and recovered deep in Arkansas territory. Captain Reeves crashed the Arkansas line for the touchdown.

Arkansas scored again in the second quarter by virtue of its two good passes on the day in which Holmes, Uptmoor and Captain Creighton figured, 13-12 in favor of the Louisianians.

The Tigers came back in the last two quarters to score twice again.

NOTRE DAME WINS BY 27-0

NOTRE DAME STADIUM, SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Notre Dame routed Indiana's fighting Hoosiers as predicted today by a lopsided score of 27 to 0, but was forced to employ its first string men on an over-time schedule to accomplish the trick.

During the first two periods and 10 more minutes on the third, the Hoosiers surprised the Rockne forces and the 20,000 spectators by holding the "Fighting Irish," even with their first string in the field for some time, to a scoreless tie. But the task was too hard for the Hoosiers and they folded up thereafter before the furious rushes of Notre Dame's new "Four Horsemen" crew and the brave stand turned into just another rout at the hands of the Ramblers.

"Jumping Joe" Savoldi, the big bod lugger from Three Oaks, Mich., was the first to break the Hoosier spell. Tucking the ball under his arms on the Indiana 39-yard line, he smashed his way for four yards and then came back with a gallop of 35 yards and the long-awaited touchdown. Carideo kicked goal for the extra point and the pent-up fury of Notre Dame's attack broke loose with such devastation that within the next 20 minutes of play, three more touchdowns had cracked the Hoosier defense in bits.

RICE DEFEATS SEWANEE MEN

RICE FIELD, HOUSTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Using the old-time method of grabbing the ball and tearing out, Rice institute's big young eleven thrashed the Sewanee Tigers 12 to 0 this afternoon.

Two of the Owls choice backs, Wallace and Mueller, who did not start the game, got loose in the fourth period for touchdowns, Wallace squirming through eight yards to put it across and Mueller plunging erect 25 yards to take his six points. The same back, Jamerson, missed both tries for goal.

Sewanee made a gallant attempt in the same quarter, losing a long and chance-taking passing attack, getting as close as the Rice 15-yard line, but drew a five-yard penalty for two incomplete passes and was forced to allow the spark to die with the ball 20 yards from a score.

The institute failed to complete a single pass, but the power of the Owl backfield made them unnecessary.

The first downs perhaps gave a fair representation of the comparative strength, Rice making 17 and Sewanee eight.

Wuescher, a 156-pound back for the Tennesseans, made the greatest showing among the visitors. He was the receiving ace in the Tigers' air offensive, which netted them 112 yards from seven completed passes and played an able defensive game. He did not start, but was rushed in when the going got thick.

Penn Beats Back Kansas For Win

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's rugged but erratic eleven rose today to fulfill the promise of power it has shown all season and beat back with splashes of brilliance the beef and drive of the Jayhawkers of Kansas.

Penn pulled out of the struggle 21 to 6 but the score gave little indication of the closeness of the bitter duel that thrilled 60,000 in the big horseshoe of Franklin field. It was a battle of individual brilliance in the pinches against sustained power that finally got to rolling, and the pinch hitters of Penn, bolstered by a line that rose staunchly in the crises, staggered down the stretch to the victory.

Seven times in the second half, after being completely outplayed in the first two periods as Penn smothered their highly publicized halfback ace, "Jarring Joe" Bausch, the Kansas had opportunities to score touchdowns.

Out of these seven chances the Kansas salvaged one score and were halted by the final whistle with the ball on Pennsylvania's six-yard line. Yet in those same two final periods the Quakers had but one chance to score and they promptly turned it into a touchdown.

DANIEL BAKER WINS
ALPINE, Tex., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Daniel Baker college eleven from Brownwood defeated the Sul Ross teachers 20 to 0 here today in a Texas intercollegiate athletic association clash. The game was played in Sul Ross territory all of the time.

Yale Dartmouth Fail To Talley

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Two high-powered, offensive, two superbly courageous defensive barriers banged into each other today and the result was a scoreless, but peculiar deadlock between football forces of Yale and Dartmouth.

Albie Booth, Yale's diminutive quarterback, returned to action in such good health, so well recovered from the bumps he received in the Army contest, that he led the Eli's throughout the game and came close to winning.

Booth, on a dazzling 22-yard end run, scampered across the Dartmouth goal early in the second period, after leading a series of big blue drive, but O'Brien detected holding in the Yale ranks. This was the closest Yale came to scoring.

Dartmouth, on the attack throughout the last half, four times was within striking distance of the Eli goal, due to the sensational balling of Bill Morton and Wild Bill McCall but the Blue defense, while considerably battered, was equal to the emergency.

Horse Racing Opens Second Time At Ft. W.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Another chapter was begun in Texas horse racing history today. It was started at Arlington Downs before 10,000 fans gathered for the second renewal of racing in Texas, by the Texas Jockey club.

W. T. Waggoner, owner of Arlington Downs was one who watched the thoroughbreds flash across the finish line.

Fearing out of his box in the grandstand, Waggoner saw a member of his own Three-D stable flash across the wire the winner in the opening race of the day, Winning Hand, 2-year-old filly, carried the Red-white and blue colors across the tape in the opening event, a five furling race for Maiden 2-year-olds for a purse of $400.

Waggoner almost saw another member of his Three-D stable win the feature race of the day in a sensational finish. It was the fourth race on the program, a six-furling sprint for all ages with $600 to the purse. Double Heart was the Waggoner hopeful but old Kickapoo, winner several times here last year, won the race. The six-year-old bay gelding of O. L. Foster of Bridgeport, Texas got away to a lead at the start and held this advantage thru a driving finish.

Taking an early lead, Duke Pohl outlasted Golden Laura to win the third race $400 for three-year-olds and older and one-half behind Golden Laura.

Speedwell simply "stole" the fifth race. He raced into the stretch just behind Bud Elder and outgamed the leader for the victory.

The last race of the day, one mile and one sixteenth for three year olds and up, brought another thrilling finish with El Monte besting Mascara, the favorite by half a length.

Kansas Aggies Beat Missouri

MANHATTAN, Kan., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Forward passes flew all over Memorial stadium here today and when the last one had been tossed, the Kansas Aggies emerged the victor over Missouri in a Big Six conference game, 20 to 13.

As far as line play and a running attack was concerned, the Aggies had a wide margin over Missouri but in the matter of forward passes the Tigers were equal, if not better, than the Kansas Aggie Wildcats who by winning today marked up their first conference victory in three attempts. It was Missouri's first titular game.

The Aggies led at the end of the first period 7 to 0. At half time Missouri was ahead 13 to 7. The fourth period started with the Aggies again ahead, 14 to 13 and just before the final gun another Aggie touchdown was scored.

Cy Leland got under way against the Wildcats. He played only a little while but made two touchdowns in the first quarter, one on a 21-yard run. Blanned Spearman returned a kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown and Woolwine passed impressively.

FROGS SMASH ABILENE MEN

PORT WORTH, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Texas Christian university showed it is ready to start its final drive for another Southwest conference championship today when it smashed Abilene Christian college, 62 to 0 here.

The Frogs displayed great running power and an effective passing game as they rolled as they pleased over the Wildcats from West Texas.

Next week the Frogs meet Rice at Houston and then on successive Saturdays the University of Texas, Baylor and Southern Methodist university will be engaged. If the big White machine can show the class and skill it displayed today there is little reason to believe it will fall to win its second consecutive championship.

Cy Leland got under way against the Wildcats. He played only a little while but made two touchdowns in the first quarter, one on a 21-yard run. Blanned Spearman returned a kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown and Woolwine passed impressively.

Buff's Shut Out Matadors 6 To 0

CANYON, Texas, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The annual home-coming at West Texas State Teachers' college today was made a successful occasion when the Buffaloes downed the Texas Tech Matadors 6 to 0 in a fast football game.

The Matadors started off with a flash and kept the Buffaloes on the defense the first half. They attempted to score five times. The Buffs were on the offensive during the last half and tore the Tech lines to shreds.

Aggie Crew Kicks Extra Point For Win In Hard Tilt

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Featuring little Harry Shteller, 137-pound quarterback, starting his first game, the rejuvenated Texas Aggie eleven bowled over Centenary Gentlemen, 7-6 in a brilliant game here today.

Coach Matty Bell's changed-up lineup consisting of Shteller, Hewitt, Floyd, Davis and Woodman, functioned almost perfectly behind a hard-driving forward wall to carry the ball through the line and around end. Shteller and Pete Hewitt, also a newcomer in Aggie lineup, accounted for large part of the A. & M. gains while Shteller, passing to Tracy, McFadden and Hewitt, kept the Gents constantly on the alert for an aerial attack.

The Aggie touchdown came in opening minutes of the second quarter, when Shteller unleashed a passing attack to Hewitt. Tracy and McFadden, which carried the ball down the field on consecutive plays from the A. & M. 36-yard line to the Kents' five-yard stripe. Floyd went through the line three yards and Shteller on the first play of the second period went over for touchdown. Shteller also kicked the extra point.

The Gents scored on what was undoubtedly the prettiest play of the game. Murff took McFadden's 50-yard punt on his own four-yard line, sidestepped and weaved his way down the field 96 yards across line. Brown failed to convert extra point. Murff was probably outstanding Centenary player.

TWENTY THOUSAND SEE S. M. U, BEATEN BY ORANGE MACHINE; SHELLEY IS STAR OF TUSCLE

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
MEMORIAL STADIUM, AUSTIN, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Unleashing as terrific an offense as the Southwest conference has seen in recent years and throwing up a defense their opponents could not fathom until the closing minutes of play, the powerful University of Texas Longhorns upset Southern Methodist university, 25 to 7 here today.

A crowd estimated at more than 20,000 saw the favored Mustangs crushed and hopelessly beaten almost from the start by an Orange machine that at times bordered on greatness. Led by Dexter Shelley, captain and halfback, the Longhorns pounded and passed the vily Methodists into what approached complete submission at times.

Today's defeat was the most decisive sustained by the Ponies since 1927, when they went down before the Texas Aggies, 29 to 13. It was the first victory scored by the Longhorns over the Red and Blue tricksters since 1920. It was scored, moreover, over a Mustang eleven that had been mighty well thought of.

Beaten at their own passing game and their running attack squelched from the start, the Ponies never had a chance against the Steers' battering offense. Shelley, Koy, Stafford, Perkins and Elkins carried the ball through and past Southern Methodist's shaky defense all afternoon, and when their running attack was slowed up the Longhorns turned to the air to gain almost as they pleased. What a team the state school had today.

The victory amounted almost to a personal triumph for Shelley, the reloaded leader of the Longhorns. After having been only a very ordinary football player since mid-season of 1929, Shelley was transformed today into a star of the first magnitude, displaying all the ability that at one time ranked him as one of the conference's outstanding backs. Two of the winners' passes resulted from his accurate passes to Harri-tion year. The Republicans this year held their second primary in history.

No Letup The G. O. P. leaders have shown no letup in their last-minute campaigning. R. B. Greager, Republican National committee man, will speak over radio station KTAT at Fort Worth at 3 p. m. today, with Waco and Dallas hookups. Col. Talbot will speak over the same network at 9 o'clock tonight.

Colonel Talbot will speak at McKinney Monday afternoon and an elaborate radio hookup has been provided for the G. O. P. finale at Dallas from 9 to 10 o'clock Monday night. Speakers will be Maj. Ben Maloney of San Antonio, veteran of two wars, Capt. J. F. Lucy, campaign manager for Col. Talbot, and the nominee himself.

Whether or not they are more numerous, supporters of the five proposed changes in the state constitution, have been louder than their opponents. The legislative steering committee has endeavored to explain to the voters the need for each of the amendments.

Two of the amendments would double the length of biennial legislative sessions, from 60 to 120 days, and would increase the lawmakers' pay from $5 to $10 a day. The allowance for mileage would be cut in half. Proponents have contended that the resulting elimination of special sessions and the mileage out would offset the salary increase. The amendment would fix certain periods of the legislative session for certain steps in the process of making laws.

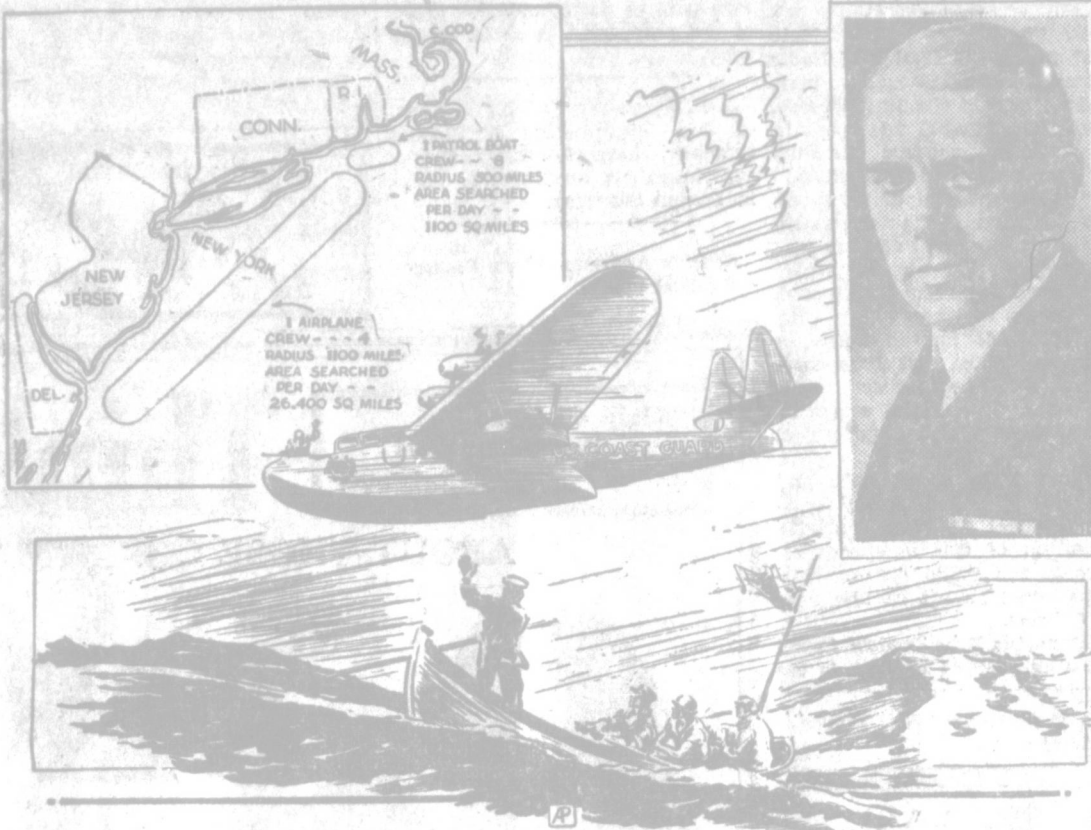

Two amendments deal with the University of Texas and its great tracts of oil lands. One would enable wider latitude in the investment of the revenues of these lands. Another would make the state pay county taxes in the counties where the land is located. The university reports claim that their income from interest will suffer unless their investment field is broadened. Seventeen West Texas counties contend that they are unjustly burdened with the untaxed University of Texas lands. Opponents of the first amendment claim it goes too far and will dissipate the university's permanent fund. Those who are fighting the second say the tax should be paid by the university rather than the state.

The fifth amendment would eliminate the enclosed three months' vacation for the supreme court. This proposal is a successor to one voted down which would have accomplished that objective and at the same time have increased the court's membership from three to nine.

In the fifteenth district John Garner of Uvalde, minority leader in the house, is opposed by Carlos G. Watson, young Brownsville attorney. Watson has spoken all over the district but one Republican leader said he did not believe the Brownsville man hoped for victory this year. He advanced the theory that with the possible increase in the valley, Brownsville and Uvalde would not be in the same district in 1932 and Watson would have built the groundwork for election to the new congressional post.

COAST GUARD LAUNCHES AERIAL WAR ON SMUGGLERS; ORDERS NEW PLANES

Five special planes of this type have been ordered by Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard (insert) for coast guard work. The one covered by a plane is contrasted with that of a patrol boat in the map.

By OSCAR LEIDING Associated Press Aviation Editor WASHINGTON (AP)—Rum runners are to be "shot" from airplanes by the United States coast guard—with cameras.

Three planes have been equipped with high-type cameras for the experiment of employing aerial photography as a weapon against smugglers bringing in liquor off the east coast.

It is planned for the planes to operate beyond the 12-mile limit and take close-range pictures of rum running speed boats receiving contraband from the "blacks"—coast guard term for the smugglers' ships.

Patrol boats will be informed of the aviators' observations and attempt to intercept the speed boats as they rum ashore with their cargo. The photographs will be used as supplementary evidence in court.

Aerial photography is part of a four-year experiment in testing aviation in coast guard work—an experiment that has culminated in a government order for five specially built planes.

Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, coast guard commandant, contracted with the Pooker aircraft corporation for the ships that not only can be used for observation and reporting, the limitations of the present type, but also can land and take off from the water under practically any conditions.

Improved cameras will be part of the equipment of the planes. Delivery on which will be made some time after July 1. Aerial photography will be more extensive against rum running operations, because of the increased radii of the planes.

Smuggling prevention, however, will be but a small part of the functions of the new planes which, the coast guard estimates, will be able to patrol an area of 26,400 square miles daily.

With a stout duralumin hull, wood veneer wings, and motors with "pusher" propellers mounted well back, the planes will be fit for the guardsmen to extend aid and make actual rescues and arrests at sea.

They will carry a photographer in the nose, pilot and co-pilot, and a radio operator and still have room for three or four rescued mariners or as many law breakers. They will have stretcher equipment for rushing emergency hospital cases from sparsely settled stretches of the coast.

The five planes, all to be in service by the end of next year, will

Agent Is Urging Gray Farmers To Enter Contest

Plans are being made by Ralph R. Thomas, county agent, to have Gray county farmers enter the News-Globe Master Dairy Farmers contest, that begins Monday and ends August 31, 1931. Mr. Thomas said that he expected to have five or six farmers entered from this county. Last year there were no Gray county dairymen entered in the contest.

Mr. Thomas has received a letter from Seth B. Holman, farm editor of the Amarillo News-Globe, in which was enclosed several copies of entry blanks for the contest. The blanks were late in being received so that the date of entry in the contest has been extended to November 15.

Farmers wishing to enter the contest make their entry through the county agent and are given a record book to keep data on their herds. Each one that enters must be milking five or more cows. At the start and at the finish of the contest, the judges inspect the barns of each entrant. Prizes are awarded during the Amarillo Tri-State exposition. The prizes are $250 and a gold medal, $100, $75 and $50, with gold and silver medals being given to the first 10 winners.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

IS IT A SQUARE DEAL? Why go to the church when you could see the show? If the church is the best of all places, the church is the best of all places. The church is the best of all places. The church is the best of all places.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH 500 East Kingsmill Avenue. Bible school will meet at 9:45 with Roy McMillen, superintendent. Let us work with earnestness and energy towards an attendance of 400 very soon. Start now inviting and urging others; go after them if need be.

All try to arrange that young and old shall stay for the regular church service at 11:00. Communion for all who are church members, and a sermon that will interest and help the children as well as the parents, should bring out a full attendance. Crowd the house.

Christian endeavor at 6:30. All young people invited, and parents also will be welcome. Come betimes and see and appreciate what consecrated leaders are doing for your children.

Gospel meeting at 7:30. Preaching true to the Bible and with genuine heartfelt appeal interest and bless all hearers. Baptismal service will follow.

F. W. O'Malley, Minister.

METHODIST CHURCH Sunday school 9:45 o'clock. Last Sunday we only lacked a few of reaching our 500 mark. Sunday we expect to have in our Bible school 525. Help make this possible by your presence.

The pastor will speak at both the morning and evening hour. Morning theme, "Church Failures." How often do we hear the statement made by some individual who is out of touch with the church and her activities, that "the church is falling. People no longer attend upon her services. The church is out of date." Many other statements which are untrue and unfair. Never in the history of the world was the church of the living God doing more for humanity than she is doing today. You are invited to hear the message Sunday morning.

Evening theme, "Warming at the Devil's Fire." Every church member and Christian who is in doubt as to what you can and cannot do as a Christian should hear the message at the evening hour.

Special music by the choir at the morning hour. A sing-song will be held at the evening hour under the direction of E. B. Fisher. You are invited to be present. TOM W. BRABHAM, Pastor.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH Corner Starkweather and Francis. Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.; G. C. Stark, superintendent. Sermon by the pastor, 11 a. m. Training service, 6:30 p. m.; Miss Kate Anderson, director. Sermon by the pastor, 7:30 p. m. To you who have no church home, we urge you to worship with us. You will receive a cordial welcome. You will hear a message that you need. You will not hear the pastor condemn other preachers and churches. We believe and preach the old gospel of Jesus and His love. "We preach Christ crucified." In Him alone will you find life, peace and happiness. He wants you. For He died for you. Your life is incomplete without Him. Come! Sunday morning the pastor will speak on the subject, "The Purpose and Power of the Gospel." Sunday evening we will have something to say, and why "The Crime." There is more crime in America than any other civilized country in the world. The crime is not all in Chicago, but there is some in the city of Pampa. Why?

A cordial invitation is extended to you and yours to attend services at the Central Baptist church. D. H. TRUHITE, Pastor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES Room 2, First National Bank. Subject: "Everlasting Punishment." Sunday services, 11 a. m. Sunday school, 9:30 a. m. Wednesday services, 8 p. m. There will be special music at each service, and in the evening, gospel songs by the choir and congregation. If not in another church you will find help and fellowship. If not in another church you will find help and fellowship. Better still, you will help a cause not our own, which cause the world sorely needs above every other need. C. E. Lancaster, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST Francis and Warren Streets. The minister of the church is now conducting a revival for the Church of Christ at Elk City, Okla. During his absence C. E. McCaughey, the minister of the Elk City church, will preach. He will be with the Pampa church for the next few Sundays. Bible study, 9:45 a. m. Preaching, 11 a. m. Communion, 11:45 a. m. MAKE YOUR OWN CHOICE. If you elect me Sheriff of Gray County, I merely promise and pledge my very best efforts to make a good office. No SPECIAL pets to favor—no enemies to job. I will be bound by no tied to no clan, clique or organization, as such. No political enemies and no ward-heisters. If you vote for me, it will be YOUR choice and you will not be bowing to the dictates of some organized band. When you go into the booth to cast your ballot, think first of your own interests, then, as a free American vote just as you were employing some one to perform personal services for YOU. Private concerns operate on a profit-paying basis, because, perhaps they choose their help with a view to serviceability. Local government may be operated the same way. YOU are a part of the GOVERNMENT. It is up to you.

If you believe that my qualifications are such as to enable me to render efficient services, and if you can convince yourself that I will do this, and therefore, want to cast your vote for me, just write my name, JEFF GUTHRIE, in the extreme right-hand column on your ballot under the title "For Sheriff," drawing a line through the names of political nominees in the usual manner. I shall appreciate your good help.

Respectfully, (Pol. Adv.) JEFF GUTHRIE.

The Nail Keg

A column of news and views for Pampa people and our farmer friends.

Our idea of the world's worst job is that of the relief pitcher who is sent in with three men on base and Babe Ruth at bat.

And next to that, about the worst job, to our way of thinking, is taking inventory and that is what we have been doing for the last week, counting our bolts, screws, and nails in an effort to find out if we have held our own for the year. The one asset that is worth the most to us is the one we can't put in a financial statement. It is the good will of our many friends and customers.

Sad but True
Some of the old fellows with whiskers say they can remember the time when girls used to undress to go to bed instead of to parties.

As is usual on the morning of November 1st our windows especially needed washing yesterday. The boys always go to that, and it is just alright, for they needed it.

Speaker: "Show me a man without a fault! Show me a perfect man!"
Pampan: "I can. My wife's first husband."

We can show you something that is mighty near perfection in a gas heater. Just come in and see the Ironton Gas Circulator. And it can be bought for $32.00.

Nature Note
About the only species that has survived without sex appeal is the hot dog.

We have just received some new patterns in Tiffin glassware you should see. Our stock of all patterns is now complete and if you need any fill ins, get them before the holiday season.

A man complained to Carl Boston the other day he said, "I've taken six cans of your corn syrup and my corns are just as bad as ever."

We have never heard anyone complain about Lifetime Aluminum. It is as good as can be bought anywhere, and will cost you a lot less.

Fast Color
Beneath the moon he told his love: The color left her cheeks, and he, but on the collar of his coat. It showed up plain for weeks.

All the boys have been having luck on their hunting expeditions, locally and otherwise. Among the successful deer hunters so far this season are John Stueder and Dr. Brunow, Frank Hunt, Chris Martin and Deacon Jones. They all report wonderful experiences.

If a successful man is one who can make another man work, why isn't a successful woman one who can make another cook work?

GRASS—

the hazardous territory yesterday afternoon ran through southeast city streets, blowing whistles and an evacuation command. Their efforts were needless, for already whole families, most of them negroes, were sweeping tiny children or scanty belongings into their arms and dashing from their little homes. The wildest confusion reigned. Cause of the fire was not known tonight, although there was an earlier report it had started from an locomotive spark. Trains have been forbidden to enter the danger area without "dousing" boiler fires.

City Is Frightened
The rolling smoke clouds from the burning grass were visible for miles and the city's skyscraper tops, about a mile from the monster gusher itself, bristled with frightened office workers.

With fire equipment standing ready in the area surrounding the Stout, 1900 feet of hose strung along the Rock Island right-of-way oil racks and every available man on duty, fire department officials were ready for emergency tonight.

Abandoned Work
As night fell attempts to control the Stout were abandoned until daybreak. Night work is impossible with the fire and light ban in force.

Down in the streets where the gusher's roar and nauseous fumes crept into homes, the well's human neighbors ate uncooked suppers under the watchful eye of national guard patrols, commanded to prevent fires of any sort. Others who feared to remain were cared for at nearby state fair grounds. Arrangements were made to provide for the needy and sick.

Hope of every one concerned, the die nipple constructed for the Morgan Petroleum company, well owners, is similar to the great tool used to control "Wild Mary" Sudik, whose 11-day rampage stands as a record in the city edge field. The connection consists of a nipple, in which thread dies are set, to fit over the top of the six-inch casing from nipple are two master gate connections to which flow links may be connected. The whole connection is about 45 feet long. It will be swung into place over the casing head with blocks and tackles and as it is lowered the oil flow will circulate through it until it is screwed into place and anchored. Once it is in place, the "gates" will be swung slowly shut.

Vast Sum Is Used Duplicating Saloon of 1840

An entire stage "went Monte Carlo" during the filming of Radio Pictures' dramatic music play, "Dixiana," now at the State theatre. More than $100,000 was spent in furnishing a luxurious gambling salon in ornate Louis XIV style.

The salon consisted of an entertainment room, the decorative scheme being golden sculpture featuring cupid and a horn of plenty; and a gambling room, hung with rich damasks and tapestries — the latter copies of famous works by Watteau, Boucher and Fragonard. A marble hall and bar were works of splendor. The entire establishment was hung with huge crystal chandeliers.
Roulette tables, faro banks and poker tables, presided over by former professional gamblers competed the realism of this important sequence in the Radio Pictures production based on life in 1340 near New Orleans.

Another Extension Course To Be Held Here This Winter

Special to the Pampa News-Post.

CANYON, Nov. 1. — Members of Pampa's extension class which is being conducted by Dr. Harris M. Cook, of the West Texas State Teachers college, are so enthusiastic about their work that the class seldom adjourns at the time it is supposed to, and Dr. Cook usually returns to Canyon dinnerless because he is not given time to eat.

The class is studying problems of supervision, with special emphasis upon those things which will make for the best development of the individual child, and the discussion in the meetings is followed by practice in the Pampa schools.

Valuable to Parents

Dr. Cook states that the course which will probably follow this one will be one which would be valuable to parents, and that the joining of teachers and parents in the class would make for better understanding between the homes and the school of Pampa. This course will come early in the new year, probably.

MENU for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

Instead of serving the proverbial chicken pattee, chicken a la King or some equally usual main dish for your next "party" luncheon, consider the possibilities of veal, lamb, eggs and mushrooms.

Nowadays the smart hostess plans meals that reflect a tendency toward restraint in foods which make for a pleasing simplicity. Figures and health are regarded as too important to risk upsetting by over-lush menus.

Every dish planned is, of course, prepared from the very best materials available and the whole meal is served faultlessly. Whether a rather formal course luncheon or an informal "plate" luncheon is wanted, the entire service must be perfect in every detail.

The main-dish is usually accompanied by one or two green vegetables of contrasting flavor and texture. Potatoes are sometimes served, although it is better to keep away from this vegetable in a company menu as much as possible.

Veal chops are out of the ordinary and deliciously savory. Served with squash croquettes and spinach timbales followed by French endive with Roquefort cheese dressing and a fruit ice for dessert, they make an attractive and delicious luncheon.

Veal Callops

One and one-half pounds veal steak cut 1-2 inch thick, 4 slices bacon, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups stock, 1 onion, 1 carrot, 1-2 turnip, 2 blades celery, 6 peppercorns, 1 clove, 4 sprays parsley, 1 bayleaf, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper.

Put the meat into small rounds, about 2 inches in diameter. Use bones and trimmings to make stock. Lard the callops on one side with strips bacon cut 1-4 inches long and about 1-8 inch wide. Melt half the butter in a sauce pan and add peppercorns, clove, parsley, bayleaf and vegetables sliced. Place callops on top of them and cover closely. Simmer slowly for 10 minutes. Add stock and cover with buttered paper before closely covering pan. Cook in a moderate oven for one hour.

DAILY MENU

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal, cream, soft cooked eggs, toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of onion soup, croquettes, apple and cheese salad, rolled oats pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Breaded veal cutlets, potatoes au gratin, spinach in lemon sauce, grape sherbet, plain cake, milk, coffee.

and vegetables sliced. Place callops on top of them and cover closely. Simmer slowly for 10 minutes. Add stock and cover with buttered paper before closely covering pan. Cook in a moderate oven for one hour.

When the veal is tender, remove from sauce pan and put into a hot oven to brown and crisp the bacon. In the meantime melt remaining butter and when bubbling stir in flour. Cook and stir until beginning to brown. Strain liquor from sauce pan over prepared butter and flour ("roux") and cook and stir until thick and smooth. Pour sauce over callops and serve.

PROHIBITION IS LEADING ISSUE IN MANY STATE ELECTIONS

ONLY MAINE NOT TO HAVE USUAL VOTE

Governorships Asked by Total of 71 Persons

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)
Seventy-one candidates for the United States Senate and 71 candidates for governor, in addition to a host of minor officials, face the voters of the nation Tuesday, Nov. 4, in the most important elections intervening between the 1928 and 1932 presidential campaigns.

Thirty-two states will elect governors. Thirty-four of the 96 seats in the Senate, which are for six-year terms are at stake. Four hundred and thirty-one of the 435 seats in the House of Representatives are to be filled, as an entire new Congress is elected every two years. (Maine held its election early, on Sept. 4, electing its four congressmen, a senator and a governor, all Republicans, at that time.)

Of great importance perhaps, is the fact that the Republican administration must face a grave problem caused by widespread business depression under its tenure—probably the first time it has ever had to face such a problem.

Prohibition Referendums In Three States
Prohibition referendums are to be held in three states, questions for the voters to answer appearing on the ballots.

Several other states—notably Ohio, Montana, and Pennsylvania—are holding elections that closely resemble prohibition referendums as the wet and dry issues are so closely drawn.

In Ohio, Robert J. Buckley, Democrat, is running for the Senate on a wet platform against Senator Roosevelt McCulloch, dry Republican. Prohibition is the outstanding issue.

In Montana, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, dry Democrat, is opposed for reelection by Alfred J. Galen, Republican, who boasts that he is dripping wet. Both men are Catholics. Practically no other issue is involved.

In Pennsylvania, Ex-Governor Gifford S. Pinchot, drier of the dries, runs as both the Republican and the Prohibition party candidate against John Hemphill, wet Democrat.

The fight against Pinchot, however, is not based on prohibition alone as many prominent Republicans have deserted him because of his opposition to ultra-conservative Republican policies.

Roosevelt and Morrow In Nation's Spotlight
Greatest in national interest perhaps, are the gubernatorial races in New York and the senatorial race in New Jersey, for these involve two party leaders who have been spokesmen of repeatedly possible presidential candidates.

In New York, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, is running for re-election; he is opposed by Charles H. Tuttle, Republican, a former district attorney.

In New Jersey, Dwight W. Morrow, former ambassador to Mexico, is making his first political race as a Republican candidate for the Senate. He is opposed by Alex Simpson, Democrat, famed as the prosecutor in the noted Hall-Mills murder case.

IN THE NATION'S SPOTLIGHT IN TUESDAY'S GENERAL ELECTIONS

Here are the outstanding figures in some of the most interesting of the nation's political races that come to their close with Tuesday's elections. Dwight W. Morrow, Republican candidate for the senate in New Jersey, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York, Democratic governor who seeks another term, often mentioned as presidential possibilities, are shown at the ends. In the center is ex-governor Gifford S. Pinchot, Republican of Pennsylvania, who is running for that office again, opposed by John Hemphill, Democrat, below. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Illinois Republican, will be the first woman ever elected to the senate if she is chosen over the Democratic opponent. James Hamilton Lewis, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, a dry Democrat and hero of the Teapot Dome expose, is opposed for re-election by Albert J. Galen, an extremely wet Republican. Robert J. Buckley, Democrat, runs for the senate in Ohio on a dripping wet platform, while Marcus Coolidge, also a Democrat is doing likewise in Massachusetts. Senator Tom Heflin, ousted from his party for opposition to Al Smith in 1928, is running as an independent in Alabama. Two veterans, Senator Norris, Republican and ex-Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, oppose each other in Nebraska.

Amendments Big Help to 17 Counties

Proposition Urged As Being Fair to All
SAN ANGELO, Nov. 1.—The 17 Texas counties holding tax exempted university lands would get back only a tenth of the excess money they pay to the state each year if the university land amendment passes Nov. 4, according to Penrose B. Metcalf, representative and the amendment's sponsor in the legislature. He compiled the figures on the average ad valorem value of the lands in the counties where the university holdings lie.

Each taxpayer with as much as $1,000 worth of taxable property would pay only $1.75 on the basis of an estimated $70,000 being returned to the 17 counties. Rep. Metcalf compiled the figures to answer the question of the actual cost should the amendment be adopted, permitting the state to carry the university land's part of the public improvements and county costs.

These university land holding counties paid the state in 1927 $1,281,400 and were refunded $556,000, leaving an excess to the state of $725,400. With $2 the average ad valorem value of the lands outside of El Paso county and the state tax rate below $1, the counties could secure from the state 10 percent of the excess money they paid into the treasury. And if the fund could be divided equally between the counties, it would amount to only $725 each.

With Texas total valuations at four million dollars, the state rate to provide the funds should the university land amendment pass, would be $0.0075 per $100 valuation, or only 1 3/4 on the $1,000 valuation.

Figures from the county judges confirm the estimates. R. Durrill, judge in Culberson, says the county rate is $1.10 and the university acreage would be assessed at $36,654, or on a basis of 80 cents an acre. There is a quarter section of university land for every taxpayer in the county. In Hudspeth county, Judge Jess C. Williamson points out that there is 604 acres of university lands to each taxpayer. The county tax rate is 85 cents and lands are valued at 85 cents an acre for tax purposes.

In Pecos county, Judge C. B. Cahelber declares the university lands amounting to 197,130 acres would return to that county $2,000 a year to the general fund and $2,100 to the school fund on the basis of the county tax rate. The county pays into the state treasury each year $300,000 and gets back $23,000 for all purposes including schools. R. J. Atkinson, judge in Irion, cites the fact that land for tax purposes there averages $2.50 per acre and on that basis university holdings would be $56,822. On the 75 cent county rate this would return $428.15 for county purposes and $308.22 for school purposes. This county paid the state last year $29,198.91 and received back $8,977.

CAMPAIGN FOR SHERIFF IS CHIEF INTEREST OF COUNTY IN NEXT VOTE

Gray county voters will go to the polls with interest hinged chiefly on the campaign for sheriff, in which John V. Andrews is the only candidate whose name appears on the ballots.

Mr. Andrews replaced Lon Blansett, whose name was certified by the Democratic nominee with a majority of 22 votes but who was later removed as nominee in the election contest. The contest was filed by Mr. Andrews, who alleged that irregularities in certain boxes would qualify enough voters to disqualify his opponent. In the hearing before Judge W. B. Ewing, the contestant and contestee agreed to a judgment making Mr. Andrews the nominee. Soon afterward, friends of Mr. Blansett organized a Blansett-for-Sheriff club and started a vigorous campaign. They urged support of Mr. Blansett as the original nominee, and pointed out that the votes discarded were on technical grounds.

Meanwhile, Mr. Andrews continued his quiet but intensive campaign and his supporters predict his election. Another candidate appeared in the field urging support of a man not connected with either side of the controversy. He is Jeff D. Guthrie, former deputy and identification expert of the police department. Mr. Guthrie is waging an active campaign for votes.

With no county Republican ticket in the field, the other nominations are uncontested. The official nominees as shown by the ballot follows:

County judge—S. D. Stennis.
County attorney—Sherman White.
County superintendent—John B. Hesse.
County clerk—Charlie Thut.
Sheriff—John V. Andrews.
Tax collector—T. W. Barnes.
County treasurer—Mabel Davis.

Commissioner, Precinct 4—E. G. Newman.
Justice of Peace, Precinct 1—T. M. Wolfe.
Justice of Peace, Precinct 1, Place 1—James Todd, Jr.
Justice of Peace, Precinct 2, Place 1—W. S. Baxter.
Justice of Peace, Precinct 4—C. C. Wafford.
Justice of Peace, Precinct 5—C. S. Rice.

Constable, Precinct 1—J. R. Walls.
Constable, Precinct 2—E. R. Turman.
Constable, Precinct 4—George Oakley.
Constable, Precinct 5—Harris King.

The district nominees are W. R. Ewing for judge of the 31st district court, Clifford Brady for judge of the 11th district court, Raymond Alfred for district attorney of the 1st judicial district, and Miss Louise Miller for district clerk.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON — Visitors to Washington tell me the two things which impress them most when they start out for the first time to "see the town" are the glorious trees which criss-cross the city in all directions and the abundance of American flags.

The wealth of streaming bunting waving above government and privately owned buildings is truly one of the most notable prospects of the capital.

Go where you choose—the flag is in sight wherever you look, from sunrise to sunset.

From the massive bulk of the capitol itself, standing in stately majesty on its garden hill, to the least of the rented buildings where a corps of clerks toil, there is at least one. On the larger government departments there are more.

Rain or shine, they are always there.

ON THE WATCH

And don't suppose for a minute that the people of Washington are not aware of their presence. Or that absence of the Stars and Stripes from a familiar staff is not noted.

One morning that mighty building on Pennsylvania avenue next to the White House which holds the state and war departments, failed to show its colors. The structure stands four square and five as many flags.

Across La Fayette square, in other buildings, sharp eyes accustomed to seeing those fluttering flags noted their absence. It was not long before telephones began to ring.

The poles were being painted, questioners were told. As soon as the paint dried, the flags would be hoisted. It happens only about every five years.

Flags are quickly lowered to half-staff when important persons die. Recently a newspaperman scored a clean best on the death of a member of congress, because he said the flag on the home office building was at half-staff.

Given City STRAITS

POMEROY, Ohio, Oct. 31, 1929.—The city of Pomeroy has been bequeathed $78,000 by Wyatt O. Plants, millionaire banker, who died yesterday. It was learned today.

The money will pay off all the bonded indebtedness and other municipal debts and leave money in the treasury, city officials said.

Plants was a prominent Pomeroy resident and interested in civic affairs, which friends said they believed prompted him to leave the money to the city.

Lodge Is Enjoined

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 31, 1929.—Judge Elias Cook in the Washington county circuit court today enjoined the city of Nashville from allowing the Imperial Masonic Lodge, No. 1147, to hold its annual convention in the city.

The injunction was asked by members of the fraternal body.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 CELIA MITCHELL, 17, faces a new life when she leaves the home in Baltimore where she has lived with her widowed mother, MARGARET ROBERTS, to join her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her grandmother in a stately New York dwelling.

The girl had not even known her father was living until the day he came to the Baltimore apartment. Celia had supposed BOB ROGERS, her mother's second husband, to be her father. Mitchell offers Celia a life of wealth, and immediately everything changes. She leaves her mother, unaware that Margaret Roberts is seriously ill, and she leaves BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, who swears that some day he and Celia will be married.

The girl is lonely and ill at ease in New York. Her aristocratic grandmother criticizes her and one evening Mitchell finds her in tears. He calls on MRS. EVELYN PARSONS, a beautiful widow whose husband had been Mitchell's close friend. Mrs. Parsons agrees eagerly to introduce Celia to the right set of young people but her interest is clearly in Mitchell himself and not in the girl.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVI

"You will let her come, won't you?" Mrs. Parsons leaned forward, smiling eagerly as she spoke.

She was sitting in one of the gilt and brocade chairs in the drawing room of the Mitchell home facing Mrs. Thomas Worthington Mitchell. It was the afternoon following Mitchell's visit to Evelyn Parsons' apartment. The two women were alone in the vast room and the youthful looking widow had just stated the object of her call.

Mrs. Mitchell frowned, cleared her throat. Before she could speak Evelyn hurried on.

"Of course, it's not really a party! Just these few youngsters who like to use my tennis courts and dance to radio music on the porch. There's Kate Duncan and her sister, Lila, Walter Carr—Fanny Price Carr's son, you know—and Eve and Courtney Brooks. Then Jimmy Webster's coming. They're all such nice young people for your grandmother to know."

"I suppose there's no harm," Mrs. Mitchell agreed, "so long as her father thinks it's all right."

"But he does! And really, Mrs. Mitchell, you mustn't be yourself down here in this hot city just because of—well, this new responsibility. Think it's wonderful of you, but you're too self-sacrificing."

Mrs. Mitchell shrugged her shoulders.

"Nonsense, I'm only trying to do the right thing by John's daughter. I guess she can go down with you for the week-end. Can she drive down in your car?"

Evelyn Parsons nodded.

"That's just what I've planned," she said. "I'll stop here for her about 11 o'clock Saturday morning and I'll see that she's back safely Monday. Now you mustn't have a restless moment."

"I won't worry," Mrs. Mitchell said firmly. "I'm not the worrying kind. Of course I hope she'll behave herself. You haven't even seen her yet."

"But, Mrs. Mitchell—"

The older woman went to a table and touched a bell. A moment passed and then Edward appeared in the doorway.

"Did you ring, madam?"

"Yes, Edward. Send Martha to ask Celia to come here."

Edward departed with his message. Mrs. Parsons fanned herself gently with a folded sheet of paper. She wore an incandescent frock of black with white lace at the throat. Her broad brimmed hat was black also. The costume was geared to meet the dignified Mrs. Mitchell's approval.

"There was no trouble," she said quietly, "about—the girl's mother?"

"The older woman's back stiffened. "You mean about bringing Celia here? I should think not! That creature made her bed—let her lie in it."

Evelyn Parsons' lashes lowered demurely. She looked ill in innocence as her purring voice continued.

"You didn't approve of the marriage then?"

"Approve!" The vehemence of the word was unmistakable. "Approve? No, I didn't. And John Mitchell's been paying for his foolishness ever since. After 13—"

Mrs. Mitchell's words were not finished. Standing in the doorway, hesitating to enter the room, appeared a girlish figure.

"Come in, Celia," her grandmother said quickly. "I want you to meet Mrs. Parsons. Mrs. Parsons, this is my granddaughter."

Celia hurried toward them.

"You pretty child!"

Evelyn Parsons' uplifted face glowed with sweetness. She took the girl's hand in both her own, pressing it warmly.

"Celia, my dear," Mrs. Parsons continued, "I'm so glad to know you, and I hope you're going to be very happy here in New York. Your father and I have been friends for years. You must let me be your friend, too." Then she smiled.

"I—I'm glad to meet you," Celia said, hoping she did not show the confusion she felt.

"Sit down, Celia," her grandmother prompted.

The girl took the nearest chair.

Mrs. Mitchell coughed. She said, "Mrs. Parsons has brought you an invitation, child. She wants you to spend the week-end with her on Long Island. Your father and I have agreed that you may go."

If they had expected Celia to show spontaneous delight at this announcement the women were disappointed. With no change of expression the girl said:

"It's very nice of you to invite me, Mrs. Parsons."

The widow beamed.

"I only hope you'll find it amusing," she said. "There are going to be some other young people. Young people I'm sure you'll enjoy. Will you come?"

Celia eyed her grandmother sideways.

"I'll be glad to," she said. And then she repeated, "It's lovely of you to ask me."

There was more talk, during which Evelyn chattered to Mrs. Mitchell of persons of whom Celia had never heard. After 10 minutes of this Mrs. Parsons left. Celia was dismissed and returned to the book she had been reading.

At the dinner table that evening the girl heard more interesting news.

"Mrs. Parsons is coming to take you shopping in the morning," John Mitchell told her.

"To take me shopping?"

"Why, yes," Mitchell spoke casually. "I hear you're invited to Long Island for the week-end. Mother has a mission board meeting tomorrow and Mrs. Parsons kindly offered to take you on a tour of the shops. Buy up a few things you'll need in the country."

"Is Long Island country?" Celia wanted to know. "I thought it was very fashionable."

Mitchell laughed.

"Right," he said. "It's fashionable parts of it. New Yorkers like to call anything outside the five boroughs 'country'. I hope you'll enjoy the trip."

"Oh, I'm sure I will," Celia said quickly. "Mrs. Parsons seems to be very nice."

"Evelyn," said John Mitchell thoughtfully, "is a wonderful woman."

Celia darted a swift glance at her father. After that she ate in silence.

The shopping trip Friday morning was a revelation to young Celia Mitchell. In the first place she and Mrs. Parsons rode in a limousine behind a liveried chauffeur. Never had Celia felt so important. Secondly she had to watch herself closely to keep from showing amazement at the places they visited.

In a thickly carpeted salon with beautiful furniture where one or two attractive young women loitered Celia was astounded to hear Mrs. Parsons ask to be shown sport clothes. It was inconceivable until she saw it was true—that garments were for sale here.

There were others to follow like

Edward carried the packages into the house. For two hours after that Celia had a fashion show trying on first one costume and then another parading before her mirrors. She did all this in the privacy of her own room. Once as she saw her reflection in the evening frock which was her favorite—a pink net with tiny cap sleeves and ruffled skirt stiffened with blue ribbons—her lips moved unconsciously.

"Oh, mother," Celia whispered, "if you could only see me!"

She resolved to sit down at once and write her mother about the gorgeous purchases and her new friend, Mrs. Parsons. Before the letter was finished, however, it was time for Celia to dress for dinner and after that, for some reason the letter was not finished.

"I'll drive down Sunday afternoon and bring you back," Mitchell told the girl as they sat with Mrs. Mitchell discussing the week-end plans.

"Why, John," his mother cut in, "I didn't know you were going!"

"Oh, Evelyn thought it might make it a little pleasant for Celia. You see all the others there will be strangers."

"I suppose so."

"Couldn't you go with us tomorrow?" Celia asked.

"No—afraid I couldn't get away to do that." Her father shook his head. "Evelyn's stopping for you in't she?"

"Yes. At 11 o'clock."

It was 10 minutes after that hour when Evelyn Parsons' motor car stopped before the Mitchell home. Evelyn went up the steps. Before she could ring the bell Celia had the door open.

"Oh, good morning, Mrs. Parsons! Come in. I'm all ready!"

Mrs. Mitchell emerged from behind Celia. Edward carried the luggage out and stowed it in the car. Then Celia gave her grandmother a dutiful kiss. They were about to leave when Mrs. Mitchell called to Evelyn to look at a clipping from a newspaper social column.

It was just then that Martha appeared in the hallway. She caught Celia's eye and hurried toward the girl.

"For you!" Martha whispered. Celia felt something being pressed into her hand.

OUR SCHOOLS—A BIG INDUSTRY. A surprisingly large percentage of employed Americans are in some kind of public work and are drawing salaries from tax sources.

Pampa's fine school system, operated through the Pampa Independent district, is no exception. Last spring the district voted a $225,000 bond issue for new buildings.

Only five years ago, a score of teachers were ample to instruct Pampa's young folk. Today there are 121 teachers on the payroll of the district.

There are 143 persons on the payroll of the district. Two are in the business office, which is headed by Joe Smith. There are 13 truck drivers for the buses, and eight janitors.

From tax sources the district will obtain and will spend over the May to May period ending next year a total of about $230,000. Adding the $225,000 voted for school buildings, the district will spend approximately $455,000.

Moreover, the school teachers' presence adds to the general welfare of the community, socially, religiously, and in other ways.

TOO MUCH CAUTION

We are talking a great deal about the depression that is gripping the United States, but most of us are doing nothing toward alleviating it.

This is a general truth, but it is applicable locally as well. We express confidence in the future but permit doubt to sway our actions. We know that the circulation of money is vital to promotion of prosperity.

In the end this caution affects all adversely. The business man's profits are sharply reduced by curtailed buying and he in turn cuts the salary of the workers who do the buying.

Caution is highly praiseworthy when tempered with sound judgment, but it can become a vicious practice.

BARBS

John Gregg, inventor of the shorthand system, has just married. His wife should find him adequately equipped to take dictation.

"Bugs" Moran, racketeer, arrested in Chicago, said that he is a business man. For him, of course, business is always "tough."

News that a Texas man was arrested for a murder committed in 1883 is heartening to New Yorkers. They may yet find a solution to the Rothstein case.

BRONCHITIS IS APT TO SPREAD UNLESS HALTED

From the nose down to the minutest air cells (spaces) in the lungs, the respiratory tract is lined with a sensitive lining known as the respiratory mucous membrane.

This membrane is subject to infection and inflammation. When an inflammation develops, and it may develop in response to any irritant, either of a bacterial or other character, a number of characteristic symptoms appear.

The membrane becomes swollen, red in appearance, and there may be local heat and pain. There is also a plentiful secretion of a thick, or watery, substance commonly termed mucus.

The inflammation usually starts at one point, and if unchecked, tends to extend. In the more serious conditions, the entire respiratory membrane may become involved.

The name given to this inflammatory process depends upon the area involved. If in the nose, it is called rhinitis; when the larynx is involved, it is called laryngitis, and so on.

In bronchitis, the mucous membrane of the bronchi are those hollow branching tubes which lead from the wind pipe to the small air spaces of the lungs.

Bronchitis may be due to many causes. Those working in dusty trades are frequently subject to this condition. Dust is an irritant, and may cause an inflammation in the bronchi. Certain gases act in the same manner.

But the most common and the most serious type of bronchitis is due to bacterial infection. In this type of bronchitis, in addition to the local condition, there is the ever-present danger of an extension of the inflammation.

Bronchitis is most common in the very young and in the aged. In the young, it is a common complication of measles and whooping cough. It frequently follows the common cold, and is the forerunner of pneumonia.

PAIN KILLERS. The so-called "pain-killers" are no doubt among the most common of the self-administered drugs.

No one wants to suffer pain. Patients frequently come to the physician asking for something to take away the pain. The sufferer is more concerned with the pain than he is with its cause.

And yet, the biologic purpose of pain (if any of the body's functions may be said to have purpose) is to call attention to the fact that something is wrong with the body and to motivate the correction of that wrong.

To kill pain, before a diagnosis has been made of the condition to which it points, is to disregard a valuable warning signal.

The function and value of pain may best be appreciated in considering the so-called painless diseases. These diseases, in their early stages, cause very little or no pain, and the sufferer is therefore unaware of their presence.

But cancer is the classical example. If cancer, in its onset, were as painful, say as a boil, then its early treatment would be more common and the results more gratifying.

While pain is usually a warning of something wrong in the body, there is no relation between the seriousness of the condition and the degree of pain felt.

Nor may the progress of the condition be judged by the increase or decrease of the pain. In one type of appendicitis a most critical development is associated with the sudden cessation of pain, the pain disappearing when the appendix bursts.

Time to Pick Up His Drum and Beat It!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By Rodney Dutcher, NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON—Washington was bearing up nicely under the various South American revolutions right up to the time Brazil's rebels ended their with unexpected suddenness by seizing Rio de Janeiro.

The state department had recognized the new governments of Peru, Bolivia and Argentina just at the psychological moment. It saw a more friendly regime established at Buenos Aires, as demonstrated by the prompt appointment of an ambassador to Washington after a long period in which President Yrigoyen had emphasized his dislike for us by appointing none. It was able to get Captain Gow released by the new Peruvian leaders after they had threatened him with court-martial for anti-rebel activities.

The upsets had all happened so quickly that the department had had no time to make any mistakes and thus avoided getting its fingers burned.

Similarly, the diplomats representing the countries involved had survived their periods of worry. Ambassador Manuel de Freyre y Santander of Peru and Minister Eduardo Diez de Medina of Bolivia were not removed by their new governments. And Don Julian Encisco, counselor of embassy for Argentina and charge d'affaires, was also kept on the job. They are career men, removed from home politics, and the new governments presumably thought they would be more valuable in Washington than green men.

BACKED LOSER

Lately, however, it has been difficult to say whether the most embarrassed man in Washington is Secretary of State Henry Stimson or Brazil's ambassador, Mr. S. Gurgel do Amaral.

When Gurgel got the news of his government's collapse from newspapermen his comment consisted of two words which somehow gave Washington one of his best chuckles of the year. Said Gurgel: "How absurd!"

His principal embarrassment traced back to a statement he had made in the early days of the rebellion. It was a belligerent pro-federal statement and it promised plenty of "bloodshed." If the ambassador can prove that the former government at Rio put the very words in his mouth and that they weren't his own his chances of staying here awhile probably will be much better. Amaral is one of the most distinguished-looking diplomats in Washington.

Of course Stimson's embarrassment was due to the fact that we had picked the loser in Brazil, backing the government with our own military supplies and an arms embargo against the rebels. It was our first embargo in the case of a South American country and the secretary had been referring to the rebels as "outlaws."

Stimson issued statements to justify this government's course, but it goes without saying that the department wouldn't have picked sides if it had supposed that the Washington Luis government was about to fall.

BRITISH WERE NEUTRAL

There has been considerable speculation here as to who convinced Stimson that the former federal government was this country's best bet. Great Britain was cagey enough to keep out of the mess altogether. She is our chief competitor for South American favors.

Although the matter of interfering with other people's revolutions did not represent a brand-new policy, such a thing had never before been tried in South America. Common belief here is that it probably won't be tried again.

At the same time it is thought that we may get to be as good friends with the new Brazilian regime as we were with the last. The practical politicians in Rio de Janeiro are considered likely to let bygones be bygones if it seems expedient to continue the traditional Brazilian practice of playing ball with the United States.

Now that ice is to be introduced in colors, the big question is how are they going to employ the warmer tones.

In New York Theaters

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK — Frederick Lonsdale seems to be about the only "sure thing" left in the theatre. Shaw and O'Neill have their failures, but this suave, dapper Englishman turns them out with such technique they, seemingly, cannot miss success.

For statistics' sake, Lonsdale has written 24 plays, of which 22 have been hits. "Canaries Sometimes Sing" is his 25th effort, and although it must be classed as one of his second-rate efforts, it is still good enough to delight audiences.

Lonsdale is not always original in his plots, and this new story concerns two married couples on a house party. The two husbands, of course, fall in love with each other's wives.

BRIGHT WIT

It is the effervesence of his chit-chat dialogue that lends distinction to Lonsdale's plays. "Canaries Sometimes Sing" is filled with the same sort of witty chatter that made "The High Road" and "The Last of Mrs. Cheney" such entertaining pieces.

The cast is not always as apt and efficient as those usually seen in Lonsdale works, but in Yvonne Arnaud it has a worthy member.

This French comedienne gives one of the best performances seen on local stages since—well, since she played in "And So to Bed" here three seasons ago.

VICE QUEEN

In her newest play, "The Pagan Lady," Lenore Ulric continues to be Kiki and Lulu Belle.

"The Pagan Lady" is a net too inspiring play, but it will do as a vehicle for Miss Ulric, who needs little else than a macabre suggestion setting and a handsome but upright leading man.

Miss Ulric, surprisingly enough, is cast as a bad woman. She is queen of a Florida underworld where the illicit trade is in rum. Into this setting comes a crusading evangelist with zeal in his eyes and threat in his voice to bring back sunlight and righteousness.

The other new arrival on Broadway is "Sisters of the Chorus," a tragic comedy picture of the hard life of chorus girls. It is amusing in places and chiefly distinguished by humorous performances by Edna Hibbard, Paul Markey and Sheila Karlov.

Czar Boris, Bride Arrive in Sofia

PARIS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Pola Negri, film star, appeared in divorce court today, somewhat belated by an automobile accident, in response to a summons for conciliation with her husband.

Prince Serge Mdivani, whom the actress sued for divorce October 10, was not in court and that she will follow the usual course of divorce actions.

Miss Negri's appearance for a reconciliation meeting was in compliance with French law and is the first step in such a suit. The judge first attempts to reunite estranged couples before proceeding with a suit.

About New York

By Richard Maslack NEW YORK—Beauty goes a-begging on Broadway these chill days.

Not panhandling, but looking for jobs. Connoisseurs of good looks may enjoy the view wherever they happen to be. For girls, young and pretty ones, are taking whatever work is available.

There has almost always been a surplus of pulchritudinous girls on Broadway. The ambition of the beautiful is to be on the stage. The life of a chorus girl is alluring—to those who have not tried it.

But the opportunities are about as few as an extra girl's working days in Hollywood. There are only nine musical shows in town at this writing. They use several hundred girls. But there are several thousand hopefuls, who meanwhile must pay room rent and eat.

BEAUTIES AT WORK

So as many as can find other work are to be seen behind lunch-room counters, toting trays in restaurants, hiring out as mannequins or salesgirls in specialty shops, joining the hostess line in taxi-dance halls, doing anything.

As a consequence, Broadway salesmanship has become more decorative. Soon Fifth Avenue stores will be employing extra help for the Christmas trade. That always gives jobs to some of the hungry beauties.

Still there is a considerable surplus. Night clubs, losing their holds on popular fancy, are fewer, meaning more unemployment for the girls of the ensemble and giving the former hostesses more to worry about.

One blond girl, who ornamented a musical show last spring, has kept up a knowledge of shorthand acquired in her school days. She practices every day by jotting down songs heard over the radio. If she doesn't get a place in a show this winter, she hopes to find a vacancy in some producer's secretarial staff.

MANHATTANITES

Rudy Vallee's brother, John, is on the publicity force of a large movie corporation.

One of the innumerable Chinese restaurants flanking Broadway failed. The spot is being filled with a 36-hole golf course.

The overflow of the homeless from the municipal lodging house these uncomfortable nights are sleeping aboard a ferry boat tied up in the East river.

A new hotel announces proudly that each bathroom will have a slot in the wall for used razor blades.

A man who never gets on Manhattan isle has figured out that he saves money by using taxis instead of keeping his own car. If he wants to make an impression, he rents a new 16-cylinder car with chauffeur for $5 an hour.

Writing music for Broadway shows has become an avocation for bankers, lawyers and business men. Paul Warburg, banker, and his wife, Kay Swift, contributed to one revue now running. Hit lyrics for another were written by Howard Dietz, executive in a movie producer's office.

Arthur Schwartz, who has songs in three shows, is a law school graduate. E. Y. Harburg, another lyricist, was president of a new defunct Brooklyn corporation. And Paul Lannin, "millionaire musical conductor," who is leader of a theatre orchestra, owns a hotel at Garden City, L. I.

WHY STOCK PRICES FALL

There has been a good deal of agitation recently about the desirability of putting some sort of curb on the activities of speculators on the stock exchange who sell stocks short—who sell, that is, stocks which they do not own, in the expectation that the price will drop so that they will be able to buy, before they have to make delivery, at a lower price than that at which they bought.

Beyond any doubt the short-seller has been something of a nuisance during the last few months. Time and again he has served to drive prices down. He is a gambler, pure and simple. He cares nothing about the condition of the country or the welfare of industry generally; he is interested only in speculating on the decline, and he has had a number of field days during the last year.

But in our eagerness to put a halter on the bear trader, it will not do for us to assume that the bear trader is solely responsible for the stock market crash of a year ago. He is not the only type of speculator whose influence is damaging to the country at large. The bull—the speculator who buys in the expectation of a rise—can be quite as harmful a factor, if not more so.

Consider the case for a moment. For fully three years previous to October of 1929 we had had a bull market. Prices had constantly been rising, so that millions of people caught the fever and placed their savings in the market. Everyone was gambling—gambling on a continuous rise in prices.

As an inevitable result, the prices of stocks went soaring up out of all proportion to their true value. People bought stocks at twice and three times their intrinsic worth. The market gave the appearance of perfect health, but was extremely sick under the surface.

Naturally enough, a crash had to come. It came, and prices went tumbling. Of course, once the crash started the bears got busy, and helped it along; but the prime cause of the crash was not the bears, but the bulls who had built the market up to such a shaky position that a mere shove would send it toppling.

The bear is not the only danger. Sometimes the bull can be equally a bad influence. The point is worth keeping in mind.—NEA.

The fact that Hitler, German Fascist leader, is followed about in public by women who call him "Adolph the beautiful," suggests he rates about the same there as a big-time crooner does here.
