Building permits for 1930 surged $100, over the million-dollar mark during the last week when F. E. Townsend, city building inspector, issued permits for new residences and business buildings in the amount of $68,150. With almost two months intervening between now and the first of the coming year, it is believed that permits will total $1,250,000, or more.

"Pampa's building activities during this year constitute an irrefutable answer to calamity howlers, and should at once suggest to citizens of this community the chief reason why the Panhandle has a 'white spot' of good business and why Pampa is in the center of it," Mr. Townsend said.

"And, in this connection," Mr. Townsend continued, "Pampa still has several good locations for industries and apartment houses on the market."

A plea for more residences and apartment houses made at a chamber of commerce luncheon a week ago appears to have been given a fine response, since all but $13,000 of the total for the week is being used in the construction of apartment houses and residences. The two business buildings includes a filling station being erected by H. D. Lewis at the corner of Hobart and Alcock at a cost of $1,000, and a cafe building under construction back of the Piggly-Wiggly store on West Foster, which will cost $12,000. W. C. Mitchell is builder of the latter.

The largest permit of the week in the amount of $13,000 was issued to W. A. "Tex" Kelly to add another wing to the brick apartment house he is building at the corner of Yeager and Browning. Construction of the first wing was started two weeks ago when a permit for $13,000 as issued. Total cost of the structure will be over $35,000. Garages will be built underneath two apartment houses. Mr. Kelly has announced that he will rent the apartments as cheaply as possible, "as if there wasn't any house shortage here."

Construction of Henry Thut's brick-veneer residence on Christine street in the Cook-Adams addition has been underway some time, but it was the latter part of the week when W. Mullinax, the contractor, was issued a permit in the amount of $8,000.

Other permits follow:
H. W. Hickman, frame residences, $3,000. Priest addition, $3,000.
Otto Patton, frame residence, $3,000. East end of Foster.
S. S. Thomas, frame residence, $3,000. 439 Ballard street.
David Dawson, frame residence, $3,000. Moreland addition, $4,000.

F. L. Neppert, brick-veneer residence, $6,000. North Mary Ellen street. Cook-Adams addition. Reppert Lumber company, contractor.
Luther Dennis, filling station, $4,000. Thut and Ogler.
Herman Gantz, stucco residence, $1,000. Houston, $3,500. J. G. Gantz, contractor.

Joe Smith, remodeling house, $1,000. O. L. Boyington, contractor.
Mrs. L. L. Wiegman, frame residence, $3,000. Alexander addition, East Francis, $3,000.

E. R. Miller, frame residence, East Browning, $3,000. George Woodhouse, contractor.
Other permits were for $300, $450, $300, $350, and $100.

Lloyd Stearns of Wichita, Kan., flying a new model Waco-motored Stearns biplane, landed at the airport here Friday.

ZONING PLAN IS TAKING FORM NOW

Zoning maps being prepared by the engineering firm of Montgomery and Ward of Wichita Falls are being studied by the City Planning commission.

Preliminary sketches have been drawn and the first draft of the map to be used when hearings are held and public inspection invited will be available soon after Julian Montgomery's visit to the city next Wednesday.

The commission and the engineers are working on proposed zoning restrictions which will outline the business, industrial and residential sections. Parks, playgrounds, public utilities, traffic, drainage and other problems will be studied and plans charted before the work is completed.

A. H. Doucette, local engineer, has been made chairman of the commission following the resignation of Olin E. Hinkle, who said he could not adjust his schedule with that of the planning engineer in making needed intensive studies. Hinkle remained on the board, of which Mr. Doucette also was a member prior to his election. The resignation of Mrs. DeLea Vickers from the board on account of lack of time was referred to the city commission, which will appoint her successor.

Burglaries In Community Are Still Puzzling

Burglars and hold-up men continued their depredations Friday night in this community by robbing the Texas barbecue stand on South Barnes and by burglarizing the Campbell cafe at Roxana.

Two hi-jackers entered the barbecue stand which is located across the street from the S. & S. grocery, with guns drawn about 11:15 o'clock Friday night. They lined the cashier and two customers up against the wall, taking $15 from the cash register and $40 from the customers. As they fled away in a yellow Buick coupe, they took a shot at an employee at the stand who, approaching the place where the robbers were rifling the cash register and the pockets of the customers, ran to his home nearby for a gun and returned just as the hi-jackers were leaving.

County officers made an intensive search for them in the LeFors community last night. One of the men was heavy set and had thick lips, according to the description given police, while the other was tall.

A small amount of cash and some personal valuables were stolen from the Campbell cafe in Roxana after midnight Friday. Entrance was gained by forcing the front door. The cash register was carried a few blocks away and opened. Officers had no clues.

Drive for Red Cross Delayed

Pampa's annual Red Cross membership drive will be held on November 21 and 22, rather than on Armistice Day, it has been decided by Sam Penberg, chairman of the campaign, and other officers of the local chapter.

Workers will be appointed by various clubs, and these will meet at a breakfast or luncheon to make final plans for the drive. Pampa's quota is 750 members.

GIVEN BAIL

Walter Moon, who with H. J. Shadwick and A. C. Dale is charged with the theft of 24,000 gallons of gasoline from the Phillips Petroleum company and the Bell refinery, gained liberty from the county jail Saturday night when he made bond for the amount of $1500, $1500 of this amount being on one of the charges against him and $111 each on the remaining charges.

SINGLE WELL IN AMARILLO FIELD GAINS

Temperamental Being Increased Flow to 59 Barrels

GRAY COUNTY SHOWS RISE

One New Location in Local Area for
This Week

Daily production of 59 barrels from Potter county's single and temperamental oil well featured the oil news of the Panhandle during the last week, even though production of every county in the Panhandle except Carson showed an increase. Even the new proration schedule which went into effect Monday did not arouse as much comment.

About every three or six months this well produces from 50 to 50 barrels daily for as much as a week at a time. Then for no good reason known to operators and geologists it refuses to yield another gallon of petroleum for several months. Just where the well is located, is not known to local scouts. No well in Potter county is listed as a producer at the proration office in the chamber of commerce hall. However, it is believed that the well is located in the northwest part of Potter county next to Moore county, about 35 miles north of Amarillo.

Gray county's 691 wells produced 57,103 barrels, an increase of 1234 barrels over the production of the previous week. Total production for the Panhandle was 84,134 barrels, a gain of 2894 barrels.

There was only one location in Gray county, Lyon et al's No. 1-A, Moore, 330 feet from the south and west lines of the north half of the southwest quarter, section 17, block A-9, although there were three new locations in Hutchinson, two in Moore, and one in Carson. There were 75 active locations in Gray county and 140 active locations, or drilling wells, in the Panhandle. Gray county had three completions, Hutchinson, one; Moore, one, and Carson, one.

Completions

Empire Gas and Fuel company's No. 3 Saylor, top pay, 3172 feet to 3207 feet, shot 120 quarts, initial production 313 barrels swabbing in 18 hours, total depth 3243 feet.

Skelly Oil company's No. 1 Vickers, section 17, block 3, total depth 3290 feet, shot with 180 quarts from 3290 up, initial production 550 barrels. Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 4 Saylor, section 13B, block 3, total depth 3212 feet, pay 3185-3212 feet, initial production 245 barrels on the swab.

New flush production totaled 1000 barrels.

Production of the various counties compared with that of the previous week:
Carson—230 wells, producing 6913 barrels, a decline of 415 barrels.
Gray—691 wells, producing 57,103 barrels, an increase of 1234 barrels.
Hutchinson—944 wells, producing 17,974 barrels, a gain of 1053 barrels.
Moore—20 wells, producing 1291 barrels, an increase of 624 barrels.
Potter—one well, producing 59 barrels, an increase of 59 barrels.
Wheeler—39 wells, producing 794 barrels, an increase of 339 barrels.
Total—1025 wells, producing 84,134 barrels, a gain of 2894 barrels.

PARENTS TO SEE HOW PUPILS WORK

American Education week will be observed by Pampa schools beginning tomorrow but omitting Tuesday, when classes will not be held on account of Armistice day and the Pampa-Childress football game.

Tomorrow's feature will be parents' high school class night, following a day of visiting in the various ward schools. Parents of high school pupils are urged to go to Central high school's plant at 7:30 p. m. An abbreviated class schedule, allotting about 10 minutes to each recitation, will be followed to show the parents what the pupils do during each day. However, instead of having regular class work, the teachers will explain the function of the class and outline the year's schedule of work.

The type of demonstration has proved of much interest and profit elsewhere.

Observance of Education week will include special chapel programs Wednesday, a visit to all schools by the board of education, and other features planned by ward principals. Citizens will be asked to speak to the students about education.

POST SEASON FOOTBALL TILT NOT UNLIKELY

Supt. R. B. Fisher revealed last night that he and Supt. W. A. McIntosh of Amarillo had carried on telephone conversations relative to a post-season football game.

Amarillo's school head, he asserted, opened negotiations by issuing a challenge, and Supt. Fisher accepted forthwith. It was understood that the arrangement was subject to outcome of future games. Since that time, Amarillo has taken first place in the conference through the tie with Lubbock and if the Sandies win their first bi-sectional tilt they will not have time to play the proposed game.

While the contest has frequently been mentioned as a charity benefit game, school authorities point out that the athletic funds will likely be "in the red," and that proceeds of the game would be needed to balance the grid accounts for the season.

Funeral Services For Gray Are Held

Funeral services of Frank Gray, 56, were held at the G. C. Malone funeral home at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon with the Rev. James Todd, Jr., in charge. Interment was at the Pampa cemetery. Mr. Gray was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge and local Odd Fellows acted as pallbearers. Members of the Rebekah lodge assisted the Odd Fellows in the service.

Mr. Gray had lived in Pampa one and one-half years. He was a native of Minnesota. He is survived by four sons and one daughter. His sons are Earl Gray, Los Angeles, Calif.; E. L. Gray, Pampa; Ray Gray, Miami; T. R. Gray, Edin, Okla. Mrs. Frank Lard, at whose home, 527 North Somerville, he died Thursday night after an illness of two months, is his only daughter.

Mrs. Pete Rice and Miss Cora Greer of McLean were visitors here Saturday.

DE LUXE SUITES WILL BE PROVIDED IN NEW EL FIDO HOTEL, ERECTION OF WHICH BEGAN ON SATURDAY

Construction of the new El Fido hotel was begun yesterday morning according to F. M. Gwin, city manager who let the building contract the last of the week. Plans for the well known French architect, Cognac Champaigne, P. E. Townsend, city building inspector, issued a permit yesterday in six figures, counting the two after the dot.

The El Fido will contain eight de luxe suites, sumptuously furnished (in a fashion), and in addition a large lobby that will provide

MAKE FORMAL REQUEST

Stimson Takes Steps
After Session With Hoover

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. (AP)—First of the major world powers to recognize the new provisional government of Brazil, the United States formally acknowledged today the administration of provisional President Getulio Vargas to be the controlling political factor in that country.

Recognition by the United States of the new Brazilian regime was shrouded in mystery and was announced by Secretary Stimson after a conference with President Hoover and upon receiving from Ambassador Morgan at Rio de Janeiro a report on the entire question of recognition. In addition the Brazilian constitution had made a formal request for such action.

15 Days After
Recognition was accorded 15 days after the government of former President Washington Luis had been overthrown by a coup d'etat which ended widespread revolutionary activities.

Secretary Stimson made his announcement of recognition in a formal statement.

Unlike the immediate recognition of new regimes recently in Argentina, Peru and Bolivia, the formal announcement was delayed pending the receipt of the report from Ambassador Morgan as to the exact status of the new Brazilian administration.

Raise Question
State department officials had raised the question whether the new administration was a successor to the government of President Washington Luis or an entirely new government. In the former case no recognition would have been necessary.

The day before the unseating of Luis, the United States had placed an embargo on arms to the rebels. The rebel coup d'etat came as a considerable surprise to the state department. The fact it had forbidden the sale of arms to those who came in power caused the American government to approach the question of recognition cautiously and to await some move of the Brazilian regime itself.

The instructions to Ambassador Morgan to extend formal recognition to the provisional government were in the usual diplomatic terms and were similar to those usually sent to ambassadors abroad on such occasions.

Mrs. Pete Rice and Miss Cora Greer of McLean were visitors here Saturday.

Mary Garden and Gene Make Up

This photograph ought to prove the feud between Mary Garden, opera star, and Gene Howe, editor at Amarillo, is ended forever. It began when Howe criticized Miss Garden's operatic performance in Amarillo a year ago, and ended the other day when he invited Miss Garden to tea at his home where this photograph was taken. "I think he's the weirdest person I've ever met, but he's all right and I like him so well that I've invited him to be my guest both in Chicago and France," said Mary.

TWO THOUSAND MEMBERSHIPS IN PAMPA LIBRARY WILL BE SOUGHT BY ASSOCIATION SOON

The Pampa Library association will inaugurate a membership drive in about two weeks in connection with its opening in the new city hall, where specially designed quarters have been provided.

The goal will be to sell 2000 membership cards, which will cost $1 for adults or families and 25 cents for individual children not members under the family basis.

A committee composed of John I. Bradley, Mrs. H. H. Hicks, and Mrs. Grace Higgins has been appointed to direct the drive for memberships. Assisting on committees will be formed in various organizations.

The library has 1644 steady patrons and this list is expected to be increased when the new quarters are available. There are 3000 volumes on the shelves, besides numerous magazines and newspapers. More than 700 children regularly use the reference works. Several Pampa cooks use the culinary volumes. Recently new volumes have been donated by August Gordon, C. W. Stowell and Mrs. Higgins.

A concert by the King male quartet will be sponsored by the Library association on November 20. This organization is considered one of the best in the country, and is famous by reason of Columbia recordings.

Fakes Robbery To Get Sympathy —And the Cash

AMARILLO, Nov. 8. (AP)—Amarillo police can't decide whether to be amused or vexed over a new kind of racket with which they recently came in contact.

A Rhode Island man gave the police a hurry call to report that he had given hitch-hikers a lift who ungratefully hit him on the head and took his car, which he fully described.

Falling to find the car or the hi-jackers, and the victims' suffering not being sincere enough to suit them, the police searched him.

Newspaper clippings in the man's pocket showed the racket had worked in several Kansas towns.

The man confessed he made such reports because sympathetic persons usually gave him $5 or $10 to help him on his way.

Recommend New Court

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 8. (AP)—Creation in Bexar county of a court of domestic relations for handling of wife abandonment cases and other domestic problems exclusively was recommended in the final report of a grand jury in the thirty-seventh district court here.

The jury reminded Judge W. S. Anderson, in a special note, that there now were hundreds of domestic cases cluttering up the dockets and suggested that a special court be created to work exclusively on domestic problems.

Officers Prevent County Jail Break

EUREKA, Calif., Nov. 8. (AP)—During a gale, 18 men aboard the lumber schooner Brooklyn went to their deaths when they tried to steam out of Humboldt harbor late today.

The little schooner was bowled over and sunk by two mountainous waves which struck her simultaneously while crossing Humboldt bar at the entrance of the harbor.

Thrown On Side

The craft was thrown on her side and broken in two by the giant swells, Captain Ahlin of the steamer Washington, reported. The Washington was following a quarter mile behind the Brooklyn, but turned back.

Coast guardsmen who witnessed the tragedy, said the Brooklyn blew her whistle frantically as the waves capsized her. Within five minutes she had sunk.

No Trace

No trace of the bodies had been found late tonight by coast guard boats or shore patrols which began their search immediately after the sinking.

Afraid of the mammoth waves breaking over the bar, five San Francisco trollers rode out the storm outside the harbor. While admitting the fishermen were in a precarious position, coast guardsmen added, "they're used to it."

Issue Warnings

The guard, however, issued warnings to ships not to try to cross the bar. The size and power of swells are increased as they break there. The weather, guardsmen said, the roughest here in years.

While searchers sought bodies of the crew, one lone survivor who missed the boat, retold stories of seamen who had said "the Brooklyn will be the next to go."

The survivor, Neils Christensen, seaman, missed the boat when he carried too long purchasing cigarettes and tobacco for the crew.

The Brooklyn, a 210-ton craft, operated by the Bayside Steamship company of Eureka and San Francisco, was captained by T. Tussone, Berkeley, a veteran of the North Carolina coast.

Ships Are Disabled

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 8. (AP)—Pounding seas along Florida's east coast tonight claimed a schooner, threatened to break up a tug on the beach and disabled two freighters, another schooner was wrecked.

Members of the crew of the four masted schooner Dunham Wheeler were taken aboard the steamer Astor shortly before the schooner sank in high waves off Cape Canaveral today. With no radio aboard, the Dunham Wheeler sent up flares of distress which were lighted by the freighter Uphur, herself disabled. The Uphur relayed the signal by radio and the Astor, 45 miles away, steamed to the rescue. Shortly afterward the steamer George W. Barnes, also answering the distress call, arrived and finding the schooner's crew safe, took the Uphur in tow.

Life lines were brought into use tonight by the Jupiter light house crew near here, to remove Captain Charles Russell and six members of the crew from the tug Messenger after the tug had drifted into the breakers at Jupiter beach.

The Messenger's steering gear was disabled and anchors failed to hold. The light house crew reported the tug was in danger of pounding to pieces.

The Messenger was en route from Miami to Fort Pierce to aid the freighter Lillian, owned by the Baltimore and Carolina line. It was believed to be in no immediate danger, reports received here indicated.

Fire, following an explosion of undetermined origin, destroyed the schooner Rose, Mary ten miles off Key West yesterday. The Rose Mary was on her way from Miami to Baltimore.

The second of a series of trap-shoots conducted by the Pampa volture of the 40 and 8 will be held Sunday afternoon on the Legion grounds near the airport.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Adventure enters the life of CELIA MITCHELL, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her aristocratic grandmother, MARGARET ROGERS, her mother, divorced Mitchell and remarried and is now a widow. BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl and before leaving Baltimore Celia promised to be loyal to his love.

She is lonely in her new home. Mitchell asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons considers Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections and agrees. She invites the girl to her Long Island home for a week-end. TOD JORDAN, fascinating but with a dubious reputation, is attentive to Celia. Mitchell joins the house party on Sunday. Mrs. Parsons, seeing the father and daughter together, becomes jealous. She tells Mitchell her pearls are missing and casts suspicion on Celia, but she scheme is unsuccessful. It is arranged for Celia to continue her visit for several days. She goes to her room and is awakened by a knock at the door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII
Evelyn Parsons entered the room. She wore a fluttering turquoise negligee.

"Oh, my dear! I didn't think you were asleep—I wouldn't have wakened you."

Celia propped herself up on one rounded elbow and rubbed her eyes. She smiled.

"Guess I just dropped off the first thing. Has anything happened?"

"No. I only came in for a bedtime chat. Shut your eyes again! I'm going right away."

"Don't go! Anyhow I'm awake now. My—you look lovely in that shade of blue."

Mrs. Parsons wrapped the fragile garment about her and sat down on the opposite side of Celia's bed.

"Have a good time this evening?" she asked carelessly.

"Yes, I did. And I enjoyed the tennis this afternoon, too. Lisl's a wonderful tennis player, isn't she?"

"Lisl's good at all sports," Mrs. Parsons agreed, "except the rather important one of attracting the men. I noticed that a certain little young lady had more dancing partners than she knew what to do with tonight."

"Oh, Mrs. Parsons—!"

"No need to blush. I saw it all right. And why not? All men like to dance with such a pretty girl as you are, Celia. I must have you here often. You'll make all my parties successes."

It was the sort of talk to which a girl of Celia's age is susceptible. Mrs. Parsons casually brought Tod Jordan's name into the conversation.

"He was ever so popular on ship-board," Evelyn said. "My dear, there were women and girls who actually dogged his footsteps. He didn't pay the slightest attention to any of them. I guess that's why I couldn't help but notice how attentive he was from the minute he met you. Of course, he's that dark type that usually does attract."

"Oh, but you're mistaken, Mrs. Parsons. He was just being polite to me. And anyhow I only danced with him once."

Celia said these things because she wanted to hear Mrs. Parsons deny them. Perhaps if Evelyn thought Jordan had been impressed it might be true.

"Only once? Why, that's impossible. I know he came to me half a dozen times this evening asking where he could find you. Celia Mitchell, I do believe you've been coquetting!"

Celia laughed.

"I couldn't," she said. "I wouldn't know how to."

"Tell that to someone else, my dear! Someone who's younger than Evelyn Parsons. Well, I only hope you won't be too hard on the snitten creatures. Tell me—do you like these young men as well as the ones you knew in Baltimore?"

"Oh, there weren't any—I mean—"

"No young men in Baltimore? Nonsense. You know you can trust me, Celia. Who's the one led in your heart?"

"There isn't—that is, we—"

"What's his name?"

Celia forgot her caution.

"There is someone," she said shyly. "I mean there's a boy I like awfully well. He's—well, he doesn't earn very much; yet, but he's going to some day. He's a newspaper photographer, and he does the most exciting things. Of course we aren't really engaged, but he says some day he's going to marry me. You'd like him, too, Mrs. Parsons. I know you would! He's tall and slim, and he has the most wonderful eyes. They're gray, Barney's the name."

"Barney," Mrs. Parsons repeated. "Is that all?"

"Barney Shields. Don't you think it's a pretty name?"

"I do."

"And oh, Barney's always been terribly nice to me."

There was a far-away look in Celia Mitchell's eyes. She was thinking how tender and gentle Barney Shields' voice could be. She could see his gray eyes looking at her. Celia forgot about Mrs. Parsons. She did not see the hand, tightening line about the older woman's mouth.

"Did your mother approve of this engagement?" Evelyn asked.

"But we really aren't engaged! We couldn't be. You see, Barney said it wouldn't be right because he hasn't enough money, and he didn't want me to give up coming to New York and everything. Of course mother likes him, but she doesn't know he said anything to me about getting married. I thought it would only worry her."

"But do you care for him a lot?"

Celia nodded her head. It was comforting to have someone to whom she could talk in this confidential way. Mrs. Parsons seemed so understanding.

"I suppose," Evelyn went on carefully, "you miss your mother a great deal?"

The girl's face sobered.

"Lots," she agreed.

"Does she ever come to New York?"

"Oh, no. She couldn't do that. You see, mother works. She does sewing for Margot's shop. It's a very nice place. She's worked there for years and years."

Mrs. Parsons' brows raised expressively.

"Tonight," Celia went on impulsively, "my father said something awfully nice. He said I reminded him of mother when she was a girl. Wasn't that sweet?"

With the light behind Evelyn Parsons' head and her face in shadows the girl could not see the angry flare which crossed the woman's face. Celia would have been amazed if she could have caught the cruel glint in Evelyn's blue eyes.

A moment passed. Then Mrs. Parsons said, rising, "That was charming. But it is dreadful of me to keep you awake like this. Forgive me. I'll slip along, and in the morning we can talk to our heart's content. Good night, dear Celia!"

"Goodnight."

Mrs. Parsons closed the door behind her. Celia extinguished the bed lamp and in 10 minutes she was asleep again.

In the morning they had breakfast set on the shady end of the porch. It was a glorious day, cool but bright with sunshine. There was a bird bath at the left and throughout the meal a chorus of tiny youngsters kept up a cheerful serenade.

Celia could scarcely finish her muffins for constantly praising Larchwood. She was looking cool and dainty herself in her sleeveless white frock. Mrs. Parsons, pouring the coffee, seemed pleased at Celia's enthusiasm. There was no sign this morning of the angry hours the widow had spent the night before.

"And what would you like to do this morning?" she asked Celia.

The girl said she would like very much just to follow the gardener around and ask questions and, if it would be all right, to dig in the ground here and there and pretend she was really helping the flowers to grow.

"Mrs. Parsons laughed. 'If Ben is willing and will tell you where you can dig and where not to, I guess you can garden to your heart's content,' she said. Ben was the gray-haired gardener who had taken care of the grounds around Larchwood for 20 years. He was taciturn when Celia found him clipping a hedge of spirea bushes. When Ben found she was a willing listener to his tales of prize roses and chrysanthemums which he had raised, the morning sped along and they became close friends. The gardener sent her back to the house bearing one of his choice black roses.

In the afternoon Celia wrote a letter to Barney Shields and another to her mother. She told both of them about the week-end visit, adding to her mother's note several paragraphs about her lovely new gowns. In neither letter, however, did she write anything about Tod Jordan. She had begun to wonder if she could have been mistaken about seeing him with Mrs. Brooks. They drove to the country club for dinner. Mrs. Parsons seemed to have a great many acquaintances, and she introduced Celia to everyone. After dinner there was dancing, and Celia found that apparently it made no difference with most of these young people that they had never seen her before. Evelyn played bridge and Celia had plenty of dancing partners. A large part of the evening she spent with a good-natured youth whose first name was "Red" and who seemed to have no other. They were dancing when Mrs. Parsons came to say it was time to drive home.

"Oh, Mrs. Parsons," the girl said as the car sped over the winding road, "I'm so glad you asked me to stay! Today has been wonderful."

Evelyn acknowledged this with a smile. "We must plan more wonderful days," she said.

There was excitement from the minute Celia appeared at the breakfast table next morning.

"Surprise!" Mrs. Parsons greeted her. "Lisl just telephoned. She's having a swimming party this afternoon and you're invited. I've already accepted the invitation for you. Of course you want to go! Kate and Walter Carr are going to stop for you at 2 o'clock."

Yes, Celia wanted to go. She ran upstairs as soon as breakfast was finished and packed her swimming things. She had a neat green beach case large enough to hold her jersey suit and cap and the little Japanese clogs for her feet.

After that she did a good deal of fidgeting until 2 o'clock arrived, and down the driveway she saw the brilliant blue roadster Walter Carr drove. Celia was waiting when the car stopped. Amid gay cries she climbed into the rumble seat and the roadster whisked away.

It was nearly an hour's drive to the beach. The place was a boat and swimming club, which seemed to be the favorite resort of the young people in Lisl Duncan's crowd. There was a large white club house with broad verandas, boat houses and skimmer buildings and, stretching as far as the eye could see to right and left, a beach of clear, gleaming sand.

Beyond was Long Island Sound. The dark green, rolling water plunged and splashed and broke in foam-topped waves.

Lisl was waiting to greet them. "Hurray!" she cried. "Hurry up and get dressed! Everybody else is here."

Celia followed Kate to the dressing rooms. There were a dozen girls there getting into bathing attire. Most of them were browned by sun. There was much joking and laughing. In less than five minutes Celia had pulled on her one-piece suit and tied a gay orange bandanna about her head. Then she stepped into the clogs and ran after Kate Duncan out onto the sand.

No one thought of introductions. There were young men waiting down on the shore. Some of them were already in the water.

"Hello, there!"

She was facing Tod Jordan. Evidently he had just come from a dip.

"How do you do?" said Celia. Then she turned and, with a running dive, plunged into the water. She began swimming rapidly with easy strokes.

Jordan walked away. He turned as a sharp cry cut the air.

WHERE PAMPAS' BEST RESIDENCES NOW STAND Was Acreage In 1928

Pampa has had the most substantial growth of any town in Texas within the past two years and is still growing. Houses of all kind are being rented before construction starts and today there is a greater demand for rental property than ever before.

Many people in Pampa are now seeking places to live. Many complain at the high rental extracted by owners, yet they clamor for shelter. Pampans who hear their cry are building residences and reaping heavy returns from their investment.

Recently a small house was rented on six months contract for $45 per month, and before the party who had contracted to rent the property could move in another home-seekers offered the landlord more money for the property and the $45 renter was compelled to renew the search.

While we do not endorse such action we merely mention this incident to emphasize the demand for homes. Build substantial residences, rent them for a reasonable price, permanent renters are available in large numbers, and you will receive a steady income which will soon bring back to you the original investment. Thus in a short time you will have cleared the amount of the investment and your property will have enhanced in value perhaps twice the amount of its original cost to you.

You can't go wrong by investing in Pampa. Consult any Pampa lumberman; they will co-operate with you.

Wouldn't You Prefer To Be Known As A SQUARE SHOOTER

To Be Known As Such You Must Really Be A SQUARE SHOOTER

If you promised to pay an obligation on a certain date and didn't do so you are not a square shooter unless you made satisfactory arrangements with your creditor.

Your creditor is a member of this association and in order to be a square shooter with his fellow members he had to report to the association that you failed to shoot square with him. Thus you forced us to make an entry on your record that you failed to shoot square.

Did you or any member of your family see an article of merchandise that you wanted and gave a hot check to make the purchase? If you did there was an entry made of the transaction and you are branded as not being a square shooter.

Practically every business and professional firm in Pampa are members of this association and they all know whether you are a square shooter.

Monday is the 10th of the month, the day most of your obligations are due. Be a square shooter—pay up or make satisfactory arrangements. Place us in a position where we can help you instead of forcing us to enter you as a bad credit risk.

Co-Ops Fighting Commission Men in Big Boycott Suit Over Markets

ST. LOUIS CASE WILL TEST 'RESTRAINT OF TRADE' CLAUSE AT STOCKYARDS OF THIS NATION

By FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. The government's suit against 47 St. Louis commission firms for alleged boycott of co-operative agencies is expected to have the most far-reaching effect of any litigation under the packers and stockyards act.

I will determine definitely what constitutes restraint of trade in the stockyards.

Directly the case involves only the question of whether there has been a violation of the law. Indirectly, it will determine whether old-line commission firms are obliged to trade with co-operative livestock organizations.

The farm board is not a party to the action and the government, so far as legal aspects are concerned, has no interest in the economic fight between the cooperatives and the commission men.

However, the board's entire co-operative livestock marketing program will be affected by the decision, whether it be that specific failures constitute a boycott, or have been no more than legitimate competitive practice.

If adjudged a boycott, the result will be further to intensify competition on every livestock market. If not, they face a future filled with uphill fights and likely the position of "outsiders" wherever commission firms dominate the livestock trade.

The case revolves around the allegation that commission firms operating in the national stockyards, St. Louis market, refused to sell to the national order buying company, which is part of the national livestock marketing association set up under auspices of the farm board.

It is also charged the firms cut off their relations with the old established producers livestock commission company, also a part of the national organization, and the commission concern of Kennett, Sparks and company, which continued to deal with the two cooperatives.

Investigators directed by Eldon L. Marshall, solicitor-general of the department of agriculture of which has to do with administration of the packers and stockyards act, resulted in charges that the action violated the provision that public stockyards be kept on an open, competitive basis entirely free of any unfair, unjustly discriminatory or deceptive practice.

Among reports leading to the investigation was one to the effect that certain commission firms refused to show their stock to F. S. Ketter, manager of the National order buying company, and in other instances that his bid was refused even when it was the highest or that the price was deliberately advanced above that which he was commissioned to pay by his clients.

To protect the interest of the producer, the packers and stockyards act requires that stock be sold to the highest bidder. On that premise and others Secretary Hyde cited 47 commission firms to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked.

A referee will be appointed to sit in East St. Louis, Ill., November 6 to take testimony for both the government and the defendants. Transcribed, it will be forwarded to the secretary who will conduct a public hearing on the evidence before decision is rendered.

If the judgment is appealed, it is possible to take the case eventually to the supreme court of the United States.

The government's trial attorney will be "Judge" C. E. Miles, known for 18 years as the "stormy petrel" of the solicitor's office.

Defense counsel is expected to be headed by James A. Reed, former senator from Missouri.

The St. Louis market is second only to Chicago as the largest hog market in the world. It is famous for a light hog favored by eastern packers and largely for that reason has developed the world's largest order buying business for hogs.

Packers pay $12 a car for the service of order buying companies. The profit to be made in buying mixed lots of hogs and feeding and grading them to the higher priced types usually sought on eastern orders has made the order buying business in many instances much more profitable than the selling end of the trade.

Convinced that a cooperative association could pass order buying profits back to the producer in the form of higher prices for his stock, the National Livestock Marketing association organized the National Order-Buying company which, at St. Louis, took over the old Potts-Watkins Order-Buying company.

It began operation August 4, 1929, and soon, it is charged, found it impossible to buy sufficient stock from commission firms to fill its orders.

Under date of August 1, W. A. Moody, president of the St. Louis livestock exchange, to which all commission firms on the national stockyards belong, wrote exchange members to the effect that the presence of the new order buying company constituted a menace to old line commission houses in that its parent organization, the National Livestock Marketing association, was said by the farm board to have as its goal ultimate control of the stock marketing machinery of the country.

He said the plan involved the prospect of limiting order buying to one concern (the National Order-Buying company) which he believed would destroy rather than build up the open competitive market.

Possible conspiracy is a factor in the case and interest in the Moody letter centers around the fact that he wrote it as president of the exchange rather than as the head of his own company.

In addition to the possibility of losing their licenses if they are proved to have boycotted cooperatives, some of the commission firms may face civil prosecution for contempt.

They are among firms ordered to desist by the secretary of agriculture in connection with the 1922 boycott of the Producers' Livestock Commission company, a cooperative.

Opposition of boards of trade, livestock exchanges and dealers generally to the farm board financing cooperatives is in the background of the St. Louis case, although the farm board says the National Order-Buying company has not used a dollar of government funds.

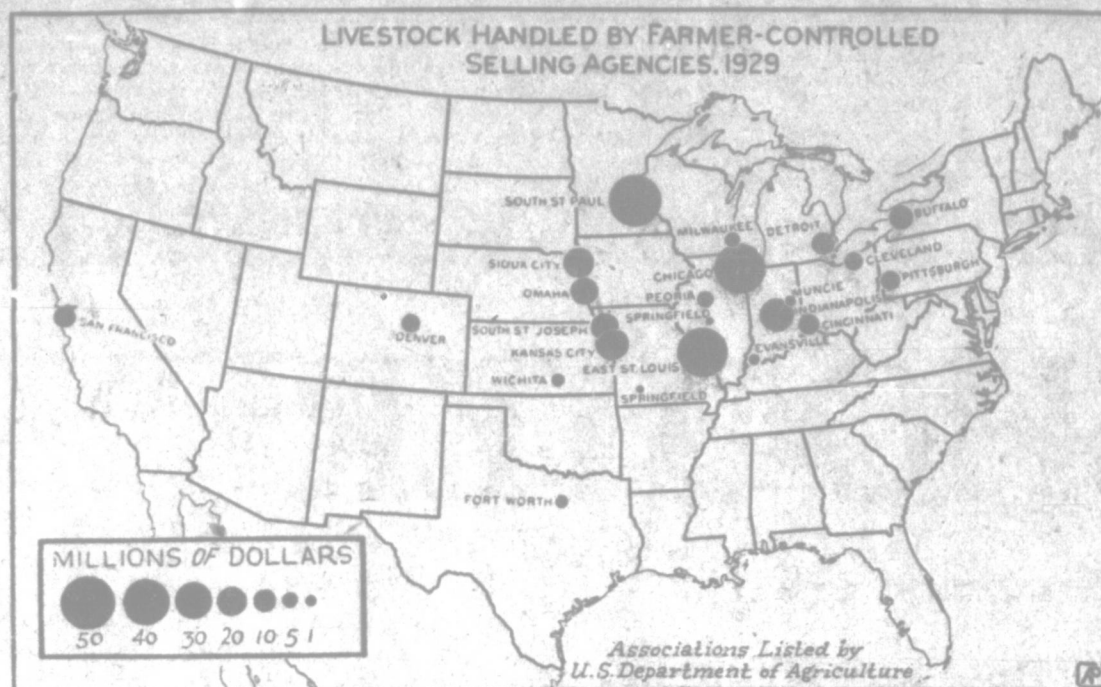

Comparative figures on the business of 3 operators in the St. Louis market for the week ending October 11 shows the producers company handled 19.7 per cent of the total receipts, or 263 cars of the 1,433 received, as against 248 cars handled by the Farmers Livestock Commission company, the closest competitor.

The farmers company, a cooperative not affiliated with the national livestock marketing association, is a defendant in the boycott case. The largest number of cars handled by any commission firm was 79.

It is estimated that cooperatives usually handle about 60 per cent of the hog receipts at St. Louis and about 40 per cent of the cattle and sheep. Commission firms challenge the estimate.

Department of agriculture figures show that livestock cooperatives operating on 22 markets, did a total business of $314,522,632 in 1929, marketing a total of 12,755,647 animals.

Jimmy Pearson is in Roswell, N. M., on a business trip.

This map shows distribution of livestock business handled by cooperative marketing organizations. Decision in the government's suit against 47 St. Louis commission firms is expected to determine what constitutes restraint of trade against cooperatives in stockyards.

Uniform Air Laws Are Goal Set for State and Federal Parley In 1931

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. (AP)—With 44 state legislatures convening early next year, the federal government will campaign for unified air laws as an aid to aviation.

A conference called by Secretary of Commerce Lamont will be held December 16-17 in Washington between representatives of the governors of all the states and the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce.

The federal government will present its case against overlapping legislation as a potential danger to civil aviation and seek for uniformity and simplification of federal, state, and municipal air laws, regulations, and practices.

Discussions will be based on five subjects. They are: A uniform basic regulatory state air law; adoption of federal air traffic rules by states for purposes of local enforcement; methods of local enforcement; state enabling acts for airport acquisition and control; and importance of uniform airport field rules.

The outcome sought is an agreement on the most advantageous division of powers or control between the states and federal authorities.

Included in the conference, to present the opinions of those outside governmental officialdom, will be delegates of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, representing the aircraft industry, the United States Chamber of Commerce, and the National aeronautic association.

Acceptance of federal licenses for airmen is one of the methods of the department of commerce to do away with duplication of effort in the various states.

At present, 2 states require federal licenses for all aircraft and airmen. Nine states require federal licenses for those engaged in commercial flying and seven require either a state or federal license. Six states require state licenses only. The remaining six have no laws covering licensing.

Jim Bausch, Kansas halfback, played more than half the game.

Pictures Taken Three Miles Up Aid Crop Census

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8. (AP)—For crop reporting an airplane is used by Harold J. Ryan, Los Angeles county agricultural commissioner.

Pictures made at a height of nearly three miles are used to check and supplement work of his crop reporters on the ground. The resulting records are used to compile estimates of crop production and making farm-price averages.

"Under the common system of collection, acreage records that are even reasonably correct are hard to obtain in diversified farming areas without an actual farm census," explains K. L. Wolff, Ryan's assistant. A census usually is both slow and costly.

"It is not possible for district inspectors to keep track of all changes caused through planting and removal of trees. Too, the acreage is not always accurately estimated from the roadside.

"Airplane photographs are used to check these records. The size and shape of orchards and vineyards as well as their exact location can be determined by comparing acreage maps and the aerial survey photographs. Even individual trees can be counted.

"The value in this system rests in the time-saving assistance it gives the crop reporter and the accuracy it puts in his figures."

Horses Will Be Costly Next Era

DURHAM, N. H., Nov. 5. (AP)—Horses are likely to be higher in 1937 and 1940 than ever before, says M. Gale Eastman, farm economist at the University of New Hampshire.

Development of tractors, trucks and automobiles lessened the demand for horses in recent years and prolonged the period of low prices. The end of the low price period, he says, has left few young horses in the country and as the old ones begin to disappear the whole country will join a scramble to get more.

County Agent Ralph R. Thomas made a trip to McLean Tuesday to advise farmers in that region as to the best method of combating the peach bore that has been prevalent in the orchards there. The remedy prescribed in a United States department of agriculture bulletin for peach trees four and five years of age is to apply three-fourths of an ounce of paradichlorobenzene at the base of the tree, and one ounce of the chemical to trees six years and older.

The county agent will attend the First Year Rural Recreation institute at Hedley, November 10-13, and the meat curing, butchering and canning demonstration at Memphis during the same week.

Why Do Locusts Light on Cactus? It's Mystery

PHOENIX, ARIZ., Nov. 8. (AP)—The grasshopper has raised a new question here.

During the locust invasion of the past summer and fall many giant, Saguaro and smaller cacti were found literally covered with grasshoppers, impaled on the sharp spines.

Do these crop pests simply fail to look where they leap, or do birds file them away on the spines for future consumption? That's the most question.

Made dry land farmers say that the birds, used to drooping years, have become provident and store up grasshoppers on cactus spines and birds of wire fences, letting the sun "cure" them.

MISS MILLER WILL ATTEND HEDLEY MEET

Miss Myrtle Miller, Gray county home demonstration agent, will attend the First Year Rural Recreation Institute at Hedley, November 10 to 13, and a demonstration of meat butchering, canning and curing in Hall county.

Roy E. Schneider and Miss Zetha Melnes, both of the A. & M. extension service, will conduct the demonstration. Mr. Schneider is a specialist in butchering and curing of meats and Miss Melnes is a specialist in the preparation of meats and vegetables for use in the home.

The meeting will be the only one of its kind in the Panhandle. The recreation institute will be conducted by a director of the Playground Association of America. The purpose of the institute is the training of leaders for the playing of games by men, women and children within the home.

The institute is being held at night, thus making it convenient for workers to attend the demonstration at Hedley in the day and the institute at Memphis during the evening. Miss Miller plans to attend the institute on Tuesday and Wednesday night. On Thursday she will go to Alameda, where the women's and girls' home demonstration clubs have their meetings. On Friday, she will go to the Elbridge and Hopkins No. 1 and 2 club meetings.

Living room contest, to which much attention has been given by the women's clubs of the county, is a movement that is sponsored by the Semi-Weekly Farm News, published at Dallas, the Texas A. & M. extension service and the United States department of agriculture. This is the third annual contest. All entries must be made by November 27.

Recreation institute is for leaders only and will be attended by representatives of such organizations as 4-H clubs, farm bureau, women's organizations, fruit growers associations, rural school P. T. A.

Gray county citizens can now obtain a real made in Gray county product. Whole grain wheat was placed on sale at the Piggy Wigly stores No. 1 and 2 in Pampa yesterday.

Mrs. Charles Talley of Laketon and Mrs. Hugh Isbell of Wayside were in Panhandle yesterday, attending the Carson county home demonstration club council. There will be a council of the home demonstration clubs at McLean, Monday, held in the First Methodist church.

Margaret Irving, daughter of Old Kentucky, named by Howard Chandler Christy and James Montgomery Flagg as one of the world's seven most beautiful women, is re-enacting in "Animal Crackers," at the Rex theatre commencing Saturday, a photoplay equivalent of the role she created for Marx Brothers in their original stage version of this mad farce.

Miss Irving was brought from her home in Paducah and given a part in Fred Stone's "Tip Top" after winning a contest in which her photograph was selected from 10 tons of film sent from all parts of the world.

She scored such a striking success in the Stone show that Florenz Ziegfeld employed her in his Follies of the next season. She then played in three successive Music Box Revues, was headlined on the Orpheum Vaudeville Circuit and took the leading feminine part in "Mercenary Mary" opposite John Boles, now also a motion picture actor.

The Kentucky belle signed a motion picture contract then and was featured with Glenn Hunter in "Buddy's Wife" and "The Broadway Boob," later co-starring with Grant Mitchell in "Mars Calling," the world's first stereoptical film. Realizing that audible motion pictures soon would relegate the silent stars to the background, Miss Irving then abandoned her film career and started vocal training under Norman Winter, one of Caruso's former teachers.

Her contralto voice gave such promise that she was offered a part with the San Carlo Opera company. She decided instead to accept the role of the Spanish siren in the stage version of "The Desert Song" and played the part for three years.

Sponsor Clean-Up

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 8. (AP)—As a move to combat unemployment in San Antonio, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Isaac Walton league and various other civic organizations have sponsored clean-up and paint-up week for the Alamo City.

Charles Wheatley, president of the Isaac Walton league, estimates that there are 2,500 unemployed in the city. The league hopes to serve two purposes by the cleanup-paint-up week. The city will be beautified, and a large number of these unemployed will be temporarily cared for.

Amarillo officers have notified police here of the theft in Amarillo of a Master "6" Buick roadster, painted in two shades of yellow, and with a bullet hole on the left side of the hood. License number of the stolen automobile is 7781434 and motor number 190-6477.

Automatic Barbecue Machine Now Working in Canary Sandwich Shop

The Canary Sandwich Shop has in operation one of the few full automatic Bar-B-Q roasters in this section.

It roasts 10 pounds of meat each four hours, and will handle 40 chickens in an hour. The machine, which is entirely visible in operation and automatically controlled by electricity, is located just inside the shop window, where it may be observed by passers-by.

The cooking is by adjustable radiant heat, with natural gas used as fuel. The machine is self-basting, with a pump circulating the fluid from the drip pan at frequent intervals. The roasts and fowls may be seen turning slowly before the heating units.

The meat barbecued in this manner is delicious and has a distinctive flavor on account of the method used. The machine is dust proof and sanitary in every particular. The roasts are served with natural sauce, and orders for sandwiches and other party menu items are given special attention. According to Frank Allison, proprietor, the Tecktonius Manufacturing company makes no better machine than this, although it has been in business for 40 years.

The New York Yankee baseball club this year broke its home attendance record of 1927 by 200,000.

LONGHORNS SHUT OUT BAYLOR WITH SCORE OF 14 TO 0

Texas Christian Defeats Rice Institute Eleven 20 To 0

BOTH TEAMS HELD SCORELESS UNTIL LAST TWO PERIODS IN TERRIFIC CONFERENCE BATTLE

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
CARROLL FIELD, Waco, Texas, Nov. 8.—Held for a half by a desperately fighting Baylor eleven, the University of Texas Longhorns had enough power and polish to come back in the third and fourth periods to score two touchdowns and win their important Southwest conference battle here today, 14 to 0.

For the first half the big Orange and White eleven failed to show its potency of the previous week, when it crushed Southern Methodist university under an avalanche of touchdowns, but in the second half it was unbeatable. Had it not been for the splendid kicking of Little Jack Wilson, Baylor quarterback, the Steers probably would have piled up a larger score.

The Orange struck first midway of the third period, when Koy shot a short, underhand pass to Stafford, big sophomore halfback, who tore through the Baylor secondary behind block-like blocking and sprinted 53 yards for a touchdown. Blanton kicked the point.

They led the game late in the final period when a substitute backfield, featuring Clewis and Craig, marched half the length of the field for a touchdown through the tired Baylor line. A series of plunges by Clewis and Craig carried to the 30-yard mark, and Craig then slipped off tackle and raced to the Bruins one-yard line before he was hauled down. Clewis slipped over for the score, standing up, and Perkins made good the extra point.

The closing gun probably robbed the Orange of another score. When it banged, the ball was reposing on Baylor's five-yard mark, the result of a pass from Perkins to Craig, who ran and fought his way 25 yards.

Although the first downs were 11 for Texas and eight for Baylor, they did not accurately gauge the offensive strength of the two teams. The Longhorns were aggressors all the way, gaining in almost any fashion except when they attempted to pierce the center of Baylor's big line. There they were stopped by Franks, Koch, Morris and Witcher. Five of Baylor's first downs resulted from passes, two from penalties and one on a running play. Except for several spectacular punts and kickoff returns by Wilson and short gains by Lewter, the Bruins exhibited little running strength.

Possibly the outstanding star in the Longhorn constellation was Wilson "Poe" Elkins, little quarterback. In addition to generalizing the Steers in fine fashion, he turned in the longest run of the way, a 57-yard return of one of Wilson's long spirals. Stafford, however, ran him a close second for honors. The big sophomore fast is proving himself one of the Southwest's outstanding backs.

Both teams played cautiously during the first period, taking no chances and punting on second and third downs, with Wilson having the advantage of Shelley in the length and loft of his spirals. The Longhorns were on the offensive most of the period, doing their best to crash through Baylor's staunch defense, but the Bruins held when forced into their own territory. Early in the second period the Longhorns made the first scoring threat of the tussle when Koy shot a series of passes to Stafford that carried from midfield to Baylor's 16-yard stripe. Here the Bruin forwards braced, however, and despite a five-yard offside penalty assessed them, stopped the Steer assault on the eight-yard line.

Before the half ended Baylor had come back to march almost the distance of the field, and throw a scare into the Longhorn camp, with Harry and Pierce taking long heaves from Alford, the Bruins penetrating clear to Texas 17-yard parallel before Shelley broke up the drive by intercepting one of Alford's pegs and running it out. The Bears barely missed scoring a touchdown when Wilson running hard a few yards from the goal line, let a pass trickle through his hands.

After the Longhorns had struck so suddenly in the third quarter, the Bruins opened up with a passing attack that once carried them far into Texas territory, but they could never make them click when within scoring distance.

Texas attempted 31 passes, completed 14 for 185 yards, and had two intercepted. Baylor threw 29, completed nine for 133 yards, but had five intercepted just when they hurt the most.

Gorillas Beaten By Mobeetie Men

Beaten down by a much heavier team, the Pampa Gorillas lost to the Mobeetie eleven by 26 to 0 in a game played at Mobeetie Saturday afternoon.

The Gorillas held their opponents for the first period but in the second quarter, Mobeetie slipped across the goal line for the first touchdown of the game. In the third quarter they scored again but failed to kick the extra point.

During the final period, Mobeetie pushed over the goal line twice but failed to kick one of the extra points, making the total for the game 26.

Coch Workmen used 30 men during the game. Walker, tackle, and Ragsdale, fullback, were the outstanding stars of the Gorillas.

Methodist Takes Win Over Aggies With 13-7 Score

By HARRELL E. LEE
Associated Press Staff Writer.
DALLAS, Nov. 8.—Southern Methodist university and Texas A. & M. today added another to their long list of close gridiron battles, the Methodists winning 13 to 7 for their second successive victory over the Aggies.

Through gaining the decision, the Mustangs broke into the Southwest victory column for the first time, although they held a decision over Indiana and had succumbed to Notre Dame by only one touchdown. It was the third conference loss for the Aggies without a single victory.

The red-jerseyed Farmers were beaten today but not subdued. They completely outplayed the passing Methodists in the last quarter, showing the Dallas team a few things about the air game, and marching from their own 19-yard line to a touchdown.

The Mustang offense was much better than that of Coach Matty Bell's proteges as the first downs, 16 for the Methodists and eight for the Aggies, indicated but the Ponies were prone to fumble and the invaders were alert for the breaks.

Both teams had numerous opportunities to score but the Aggies were fighting when their goal line was endangered and their sophomore backfield was unable to penetrate the Mustang forward wall when it stiffened in dangerous territory.

Capt. "Bull" Floyd, the only Aggie veteran in the regular backfield, was unable to play because of injuries. "Light Horse Harry" Stiller, the Aggies' quarterback flint, lived up to expectations as a passer and ball carrier but he had little help in the backfield and Charlie Malone, substitute end, was about the only Aggie who could grab a pass in the face of the Mustang defense.

The Methodists' star ends, Koonz and Long, stood out on offense and Gilbert and Travis made several good gains. The S. M. U. line was equal to every occasion.

Beautiful runs by Koonz and Long paved the way for the first Pony tally in the second quarter. Koonz intercepted a pass on his own 30-yard line and raced to the A. & M. 16-yard line. Two line plays netted only four yards but on a fake spinner Long ran around left end to the one-yard line. Gilbert carried the ball across. Long's try for the extra point was blocked.

An error in judgment by Bob Harling, substitute Aggie quarterback, contributed to the other Mustang marker in the third period. Harling let a punt roll out of bounds on his own one-yard line. McFadden was hurried on his kick and the ball traveled only to the 17-yard line. Travis made a first down on the five-yard line almost single-handed and Mason drove through left tackle for the touchdown. Travis kicked goal.

Neely tried for a field goal for the Mustangs in the last period but it was barely wide. Then the Aggies began their long drive. Malone caught two passes, one out of the hands of three Ponies and the other after a teammate had juggled it. The second one was on the Mustang seven-yard line. Two passes and an end run failed but Walter Emmons was substituted for Malone and on the first play thereafter the Plainview youth caught a pass over the goal line for the touchdown. Bell kicked goal.

Late in the first quarter the Aggies held the Mustangs on the one-foot line. The Aggies once had the ball on the Methodist five-yard line and another time Bell barely missed a pass on the goal line which would have given them a touchdown.

The Methodists showed little if anything new, perhaps saving a few pet tricks for the Navy next week.

Georgia Noses Out New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (AP)—Georgia's smooth working football team held its place among the country's great unbeaten machines this afternoon by gaining a well earned victory over New York university by the narrow margin of 7 to 6.

The southerners, well drilled in Notre Dame's tricky shift plays by the young coach, Harry Mehre, outplayed the violet garbed New York eleven through most of the game but barely held off a great closing bid in which four desperate passes by the home team clicked for long gains.

With the ball on the Georgia 17-yard line and only about 20 seconds left to play, Jim Tanguay hurried a fist pass in a final bid for victory, but Jack Roberts, Georgia's great high-scoring fullback, intercepted the ball on his own two-yard line and a highly exciting game ended an instant later.

MISSISSIPPI BEATS MEXICO IN INTERNATIONAL TUSSLE

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 8. (AP)—Before distinguished representatives of the United States and Mexico, Mississippi college today defeated the National University of Mexico 40 to 0 in the first international football game played in Mississippi.

Holding the Mississippians to a 13 to 0 score during the first half of the game in which Coach Robinson used second stringers, the Mexicans were unable to hold the Choctaws during the last half when Coach Robinson sent in first-string men.

Coach Root's players from Mexico, although playing on their second year of football, displayed skill that made the game more interesting than shown by the one-sided score. Captain Pineda was good at gaining through the Mississippi line, while Cui, Miranda and the diminutive Berumen starred in the back field. The lanky Landa at end was in almost every play with Villarreal at tackle proving troublesome to Mississippi.

Corro, Shepard, T. Hederman and Furness were outstanding in the Mississippi victory.

Among high ranking officials attending the game were Senor Manuel Tellez, Mexican ambassador to the United States, stationed at Washington; H. V. Johnson, Washington, official representative of the United States government, and chief of the Division of Mexican Affairs, and A. Horcasitas, commercial agent at New Orleans of the Mexican National railways.

MISSOURI IS GAME WINNER

MEMORIAL STADIUM, COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 8. (AP)—The University of Missouri scored two touchdowns through the air to defeat Iowa State college, 14 to 0, here today, sending the Cyclones to the cellar position in the Big Six conference race.

Late in the second quarter, Max Collins, junior from Independence, Mo., caught a 29-yard pass from John Vandyne of Sedalia, and raced 35 yards across the goal line. In the next period, after the Tigers had made a sustained drive down the field, Kelly Heitz, of St. Louis, tossed a short pass to Vandyne, who stumbled across the goal line for Missouri's second touchdown. Vandyne added both extra points.

Larry Dugin and Harold Mackey, a pair of Dartmouth ends, weigh more than 195 pounds each.

The average time of contact of a driver and a golf ball is estimated at .0006 of a second.

Jack Doyle, Chicago Cubs scout, stole 597 bases during his major league career, which extended 15 years.

NOTRE DAME SWAMPS PENN.

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8. (AP)—The green jerseyed football cyclone from South Bend, rushing the colors of Notre Dame toward another national championship, leveled the ramparts of the University of Pennsylvania today with one of the greatest scoring onslaughts ever witnessed on an American college gridiron.

The final score was Notre Dame 60, Pennsylvania 20, nine touchdowns to three. But the margin might have been 100 to 0 if the Rockne regulars had stayed in the game long enough to sustain the bewildering pace they set midway in the first half and again throughout the third quarter.

Nothing like this, not even the famous "Warner offensive" of 1938 has been witnessed on eastern gridirons since football players wore beads.

All of Pennsylvania's touchdowns, one at the close of the first half and two more toward the end of the game, were scored against second, third and fifth string Irish players.

Army Crew Wins In Battle With Illinois Squad

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (AP)—With one flash of sustained power that blasted the fighting Illinois squad and one individual feat of brilliance, Army's unbeaten eleven humbled battered but dogged Illinois, 13 to 0, today in one of the prime intersectional duels of the day.

The Illinois, beaten on successive Saturdays by Northwestern, Michigan and Purdue back west on the more familiar grounds of the Big Ten conference, fought Army to a complete standstill in the first half, nominating the play all through the second quarter, but the fire were out. A brilliant forward wall crumbled, and the 70,000 who saw the colorful "Keydets" in their sole metropolitan appearance of the season, rose with them in the second half to howl them on to victory.

Stecker, a big 170-pound halfback from Hazelton, Pa., teamed with Tom Kilday, another big, hard running fellow from San Antonio, Texas, to smash the Illinois line for the first touchdown in the third quarter. In the final period, when the Illinois passed in desperation, Stecker intercepted one of Charley Hall's passes on the Illinois 45-yard line and scrambled around the startled Westerners to score standing up.

HORNED FROGS MAINTAIN TOP POSITION IN CONFERENCE BY WIN OVER OWLS AT HOUSTON

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer.
RICE FIELD, HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 8. (AP)—The Texas Christian University Horned Frogs sorely defeated the Rice Institute eleven, 20 to 0, this afternoon and hung up the purple high in the November wind for everybody to shoot at in the Southwest Conference championship race.

The Christians, defending champs, turned on the heat six minutes after the first whistle. It was the worst lacing the Owls, conquerors of Texas University, had taken this season and it kept the Frogs marching on, undefeated and untied, so far as titular matches are concerned.

Martin's block of an Institute punt early in the first period indirectly brought about the first touchdown. He downed the ball on the Rice for-yard line, colwine plunged out a yard and Griffith carried on from there, smashing three yards and over. He kicked the point, as he did the only other one made during the game.

Then, in the second period, came the most spectacular play of the day, halfback Spearman bringing down a pass and dashing 53 yards with it across the Rice goal line. The stocky sophomore previously had intercepted a Rice pass and had carried it five yards before being halted.

The Institute fought off all attempts to score in the third period, but in the fourth air intercepted pass again gave the Frogs opportunity to force across. Howell grabbed it and was halted on the Rice 15-yard line. Hinton and Spearman collaborated to carry the ball within four yards of the posts, Griffith added a yard and Hinton frogged over.

The teams, which in eight years of meeting had divided honors, finished up with the same number of first downs—seven.

Fumbles were thick in the first period, Cy LeJard being guilty of one on his 20-yard line and "Gorilla" McCabe fumbling a pass just as he was approaching the Christian goal.

When the whistle blew the Institute was 24 yards away from a score, but could not make it, either through or overhead, and T. C. U. regained possession on its 15-yard stripe early in the second quarter.

The third period was heavy with punts and headlined with the Institute's 3-yard line stand.

The prospect for another Christian touchdown was bright as the last quarter began, the ball having been left on the Owl one-yard stripe by a T. C. U. punt that rolled out of bounds, but Rice staved it off momentarily, stopping the Frogs, who were bringing back a 23-yard punt, at the 16-yard line. Here, however, the big Boswell reached into the air to appropriate the Rice pass that afforded his mates the chance for a last llok across the goal line.

STORES EXPECTED TO BE CLOSED TUESDAY DURING PAMPA-CHILDRESS GAME

Pampa merchants Saturday were passing favorably on the suggestion to close all day Tuesday for Armistice day and the football game with Childress at Harvester park.

The city will mass at the park to see the most difficult local game of the season. The Harvesters, after their 47-13 victory at Electra Friday, need only rest to put them in fine fettle for the Armistice classic.

Coach Mitchell started pulling the regulars in the third quarter, and most of the first stringers were down town eating dinner when the game ended.

The new bleachers at Harvester park will be ready by Tuesday, according to Lynn Boyd, and will be topped by the new press box. Information from Childress is that that city will send several hundred fans to the game.

CHILDRESS NOT SCARED

Despite the overwhelming odds placed on the Pampa Harvesters in the battle between the oil city gridsters and the Childress Bobcats, the locals will go on the field next Tuesday on the Pampa gridiron with a firm belief that they have a good chance to beat the mighty Harvesters. They will have no "inferiority complex."

The Bobcats watched from the sidelines the game between the Pampans and the Vernon Lions last week, and they discovered that the Harvesters are far from invincible. They watched the Lions stage marches down the field time and time again to place the ball within scoring distance, only to lack the needed punch to put it over.

The Bobcats have a better club than Vernon, the boys contend, and their defeat of the Lions here some weeks ago bears out their theory. The Cats have the necessary punch to put over touchdowns, they claim, and their two counters made against the Amarillo Golden Sandies bear out this latter contention.

Have Fighting Team

"We have a team that is fighting hard every minute and is improving rapidly," Coach Ballard said today. "We believe we can beat Pampa if we give the best we've got. We are not aware of the fact that the Harvesters are a great football team, but those who think we have not a chance are mistaken. We will give them a tough scrap, and we have hopes of winning."

The same lineup that faced the Wichita Falls Coyotes last Saturday will in all probability start against the Pampa aggregation, Coach Ballard said. This will find Bradshaw at center, Smith and Frazier at guards, Thomas and Captain Sikes at tackle, Bybee and Preston at ends, B. Davis and Barclay at halves, Groce at full, and R. Davis at quarter. These lads played the entire game against the Coyotes Saturday, and conducted themselves in such a manner as to plaster a stinging 12 to 0 defeat on the Pack. They tried before the game was over and permitted the fresh Coyotes to stage a march that threatened, but they still had enough power at the end to keep the Pack from crossing the line.

More Reserve Strength

The Bobcats are in better condition from the standpoint of reserve strength this week than last. Sartin, husky lineman, has recovered sufficiently from his recent leg injury to get into scrimmage this week, and he will doubtless be rushed into the fracas when the going gets tough. Teague, also laid up with a leg injury, has been resting the past few days and rested through the entire Coyote game. He will be in condition to see service if needed.

Adair, flashy half whose extended absence because of a hip injury has been keenly felt by his mates, has been in uniform this week, but will be unable to see action Tuesday. This speedy lad who is also favorably remembered for the whale of a game he turned in against the Amarillo Sandies, is taking care of himself in hopes he will be able to get into the battle against the Plainview Bobcats two weeks hence.

School will be dismissed Armistice day and a large crowd is expected to accompany the Cats to the home of the Harvesters.

Bruce Caldwell, former great Yale back and rookie outfielder for the Cleveland Indians, now is in New Haven running a cigar store.

Buckaroos Win Over Abilene

ABILENE, Texas, Nov. 8. (AP)—Abilene's aerial surprise strength was found only soon enough this afternoon to make a thrilling exhibition out of a game that the Breckenridge Buckaroos won 26 to 20. The victory all but clinched the Oil Belt title for the champion Breckenridge squad.

The passing, running and punting of "Boone" Magness, quarterback, enabled Breckenridge to roll up a lead of 26 to 7 through the third period, then the Eagles' aerial show was opened up in full blast. Abilene sweeping down from its own 21-yard line on a drive that ended when Blackmon took a pass from Galbraith and stumbled over the goal. Five minutes later, Galbraith tossed a 30-yard pass to Routh and the diminutive quarterback carried it on 25 yards more for the third touchdown. The gun halted further overhead operations.

Magness stunned the Eagles with one 60-yard gallop for a touchdown and three perfect passes to Adams and Blackburn for two others.

The third and fourth touchdowns came in quick order with the Aggie backfield again running around the dazed Pampans line. Highfill tossed two passes for twenty and fifteen yards putting the ball on the Arkansas five yard line. Clark went over tackle for a touchdown and Highfill added the extra point. Johnson scored the final touchdown after the Aggies again worked the ball down the field by the overhead route. Highfill kicked goal.

Jack Dale, fullback, three times stopped the Aggie drives by intercepting passes deep in Arkansas territory. This was the second homecoming game in Arkansas history that the Pampans have lost. They dropped a 10 to 7 decision to Texas Christian University in 1928.

STAGG FIELD, CHICAGO, Nov. 8. (AP)—Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg and his luckless Chicago Maroons threw an old-fashioned surprise party for Purdue's Bollermakers today but it didn't last long enough. The Staggian party extended through the first half when the Maroons, astounded the Bollermakers by scoring their first touchdown in five major games and taking a one-point lead. But Purdue came back in regulation style and captured the game by the customary margin of 26 to 7.

Arkansas Fails To Stop Aggies On Home-Coming

PAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 8. (AP)—The Arkansas grid machine was powerless to stop the Oklahoma Aggies from administering a crushing 26-0 defeat today before a gallery of about 7,000 here for the home-coming celebration game.

Playing with their backs to their own goal for the first period, after "Cowboy" Kyle fumbled, giving the Aggies the ball on the Pampans' 30-yard line, the Razorbacks saw the light Aggie backfield pass its way over their own goal line, with highfill tossing to Duane Fisher for a touchdown. Highfill failed to kick a goal.

In the third quarter, the Pampans advanced the ball out of their territory for the first time, when their aerial attack caught the heavier Aggies flatfooted.

Holmes shot two quick passes to Captain Creighton and Chambers to pull the trick. But the rally was short-lived, after Dale punted badly for Arkansas, giving the Oklahoma the ball 30-yards away from their own goal.

Opening with a vicious running attack in the early moments of the final period, Trigg, Bowman and Baker slashed off tackle to pave the way for the Aggies' second touchdown. Baker went over. Highfill failed to kick a goal.

The third and fourth touchdowns came in quick order with the Aggie backfield again running around the dazed Pampans line. Highfill tossed two passes for twenty and fifteen yards putting the ball on the Arkansas five yard line. Clark went over tackle for a touchdown and Highfill added the extra point. Johnson scored the final touchdown after the Aggies again worked the ball down the field by the overhead route. Highfill kicked goal.

CLINGMAN IS RILED BY ROSE —WILL MEET HIM THURSDAY

It had to come sooner or later—this battle between Jack Rose and Otis Clingman.

Rose kept hounding Clingman, challenging him in the ring, and writing to the newspapers. Otis listened disdainfully for awhile, but now he is thoroughly riled.

"Rose wants to be run out of the Panhandle and I guess it is up to me to do it," Clingman said last night. "I'll say this in advance: I am not going to take a thing off Rose and I am going to be rougher than he ever saw."

Rose is highly unpopular with the fans, but he has a few supporters who will strive to be heard above the clamor. Fans razed Rose unmercifully when he was a spectator last Thursday, but this will be a mere sample of what will take place Thursday.

All indications point to something slightly short of murder for the next match.

Brilliant Comedy Is Offered Now At State—"She's My Weakness"

Sparkling romance with dramatic moments and many laughs is briefly described "She's My Weakness," Radio Pictures' all talking comedy-drama which opens at the State theatre today.

The story was adapted from the stage play "Tommy," which ran for nearly two years on Broadway.

Arthur Lake and Sue Carol, vivacious youngsters, are co-featured with such well-known players as Lucien Littlefield, William Collier, Sr., Alan Bunce, who originated his role on the stage, and Helen Ware.

Melville Brown, noted for his treatment of romantic comedy, directed.

The story takes place in a typical American town and hinges around the machinations of a combined politician and matchmaker who almost ruins Arthur Lake's chances to capture the affection of Sue Carol.

An insight into the character of the plot is given by a quotation from young Lake's dialog in the picture. He says, "I'm in love with a girl and she wants to marry me, but we can't because her father and mother want us to."

Picture Taken Of Children In Pampa Nursery

A picture of the children's day nursery taken this week by Mrs. De-Lea Vicars, treasurer of the nursery committee, shows 14 smiling youngsters grouped in front of the building. Mrs. Gray, the keeper, is holding the red-headed boy that used to cry all the time but doesn't any more. Two children of the 16 being kept at the nursery regularly were not in the picture. They were asleep in the nursery bedroom.

Mrs. Vicars reports that the little girl who sat in her first children's rocker when she was brought to the nursery has formed a passionate attachment for the rocker and that when she is not sitting in it, she carries it around with her. Some of the other children cry for the rocker most of the time, and Mrs. W. H. Davis, business manager of the nursery asks some kind, charitable persons to donate a few little chairs and rockers. The chairs are badly needed.

More monthly pledges are still needed. Mrs. Vicars said. Those who owe October and November pledges are urged to send in checks as soon as possible. About $75 per month has been pledged for the upkeep of the nursery, but the amount needed is $185. The children are wee sons and daughters of fathers and mothers, mostly widows and widowers, who must work in the day to make a living. Some of the mothers work in laundries, others in cafes, some in private homes, others as clerks and stenographers. Most all of the children being kept have older brothers and sisters going to school who would have to stay at home and take care of younger children if it were not for the nursery.

MARKETS

GRAIN GOES DOWN

By JOHN P. DOUGHAN

Associated Press Market Editor.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—With stock market depression as an alibi, grain prices went down again today. In the final dealings, however, wheat and other cereals as well showed considerable power to rally, and there was all around erasing of a good share of the losses.

Rainy weather prevailed in Argentina, and reports at hand said rust infection of wheat was overspreading Buenos Aires province, where the harvest is furthest off and where likelihood of severe damage is correspondingly increased.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1-2@1c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn likewise closed 1-2@1c down, oats unchanged to 3-8c up, and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 5c.

It was only after United States Steel shares had touched a new low price record today that wheat and other grain responded much to the bearish influence of the stock market. Even then, numerous traders in grain were emphatic in contending that wheat and other cereals were much cheaper than stocks as judged by all ordinary standards.

Provisions averaged higher in price as a result of large buying of cash houses.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—December 72 1-4c, 74 3-4@7-8c; March 76 1-4c, 78 7-8c; May 78 3-8@1-2c, 81c; July (offers) 81 318c. Corn—December 71 718c, 73 718c; March 74 7-8c, 77 3-4c; May 77 1-8@1-4c, 79 1-8c.

FORCE PRICE ADVANCE
KANSAS CITY, Nov. 8. (AP)—(U. S. Department of Agriculture)—

Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit this week was featured by a forced price advance on most all killing classes of cattle that was influenced by a curtailed supply. Values on killing classes advanced from 25c@31.00. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 211,000.

Hogs were unevenly 10@45c higher than a week ago, butchers generally commanding a slight premium over weight averages 300 pounds down. St. Louis had a closing top of $9.45. Offerings were around 470,500.

Although receipts of sheep were considerably short of last week, trade on fat lambs was slow with current prices unevenly steady to 35c higher than a year ago. Aged stock was on a strong to 25c higher basis. Best fat lambs late in the week at Chicago brought $8.85. The supply numbered around 358,600.

COTTON ACTIVE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8. (AP)—As it was bureau day the short Saturday session in the cotton market here was active. Prior to publication of the government report prices had declined seven to eight points on poor cables and belated long liquidation but had rallied to levels three to 11 points above the early lows by the time the market recessed to receive the report.

The government made the indicated yield based on conditions revealing it was smaller than the estimate of a month ago. This was a surprise to the trade and prices rallied promptly on the resumption of trading 25 to 31 points from the prices prevailing before the market recessed and 41 to 43 points above the lows of the early morning.

In the late trading, however, the market eased off 16 to 20 points from the top on rather heavy hedge selling and probably also in sympathy with weakness in stocks. The closing was barely steady with the general market nevertheless showing net gains for the day of 15 to 20 points.

The census bureau made the total ginnings to November 1 10,863,801 running bales which was smaller than expected and smaller than last year's total for the corresponding date. This showing probably helped the advance.

Owing to a commerce telegraphic error the first flash giving the crop estimate was 700,000 bales higher than the actual figure which might have done damage had the market been in session but as it was, no special harm resulted. The slightly smaller estimate today than that of a month ago was due principally to a falling off in prospects in Texas and Mississippi.

Liverpool came in three to four penny points lower than due and private cables said that there had been local and foreign liquidation. Owing to the poor cables and some eleventh hour liquidation, prices eased off in the early trading to 10.83 for December and 11.24 for March, down six points from the previous close but before the bureau estimate was issued December rose to 11.00 and March to 11.33, or nine to 17 points up from the lows. The highest prices reached after the report were 11.25 for December and 11.65 for March or 25 to 31 points above the pre-war level and 41 to 43 points above the lows of the morning. Owing to the later decline on hedge selling December closed at 11.09 and March at 11.43 down 16 to 20 points from the top and 15 to 20 points net higher for the day.

Port receipts 45,903, for season 4,990,148, last season 4,749,765. Exports 26,729, for season 2,462,774, last season 2,407,069. Port stocks 3,823, 118, last year 2,438,440. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 143,523, last year 170,996. Spot sales at southern markets 44,189, last year 32,100.

RICHEST DEBS AWAIT THEIR FIRST 'SEASON'; WILL BOW TO NEW YORK SOCIETY THIS WINTER

Wealth and Luxuries Do Not Spoil Misses Duke, Hutton

(By ADELAIDE KERE)
NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (AP)—Two of America's richest heiresses are making their bows to New York society this winter in the splendor which wealth bestows.

Doris Duke, golden-haired and blue-eyed, who inherits from her father, James B. Duke, tobacco magnate, a fortune variously estimated from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, has already stepped into the limelight with a presentation at Buckingham Palace and an initial debut at her family estate in Newport this summer.

To Inherit Fortune
Barbara Hutton, dark-haired grand-daughter of Frank W. Woolworth, and heiress to the estimated $60,000,000 which he gleaned from a chain of nickel and dime emporiums, will make her first bow December 22, at a ball in the new Hotel Pierre in New York.

Both have been quietly, though luxuriously, reared; both are 18; both possess simplicity and charm of manner and both will move in a brilliant spotlight on which the eyes of the world are focused.

The spotlight flashed on Doris Duke five years ago with her father's death when, as a slim girl of 13, she became known as the heiress to the vast wealth which he founded on tobacco and increased in the aluminum industry.

Had Many Luxuries
A Fifth Avenue home, appraised with its contents at $1,000,000, a 2,000-acre estate at Somerville, N. J., the family home "Rough Point" at Newport, R. I., a private Pullman car with "Doris" dined on the panning, motor cars and horses were among the things included in that wealth.

Yet, a few months later, when she and her mother sailed for Europe, they selected a first cabin, entirely lacking the ostentation of a suite. Camera men, who had the ghost of an idea who she was, were attracted by the girl's smile as she watched celebrities being photographed before departure and asked to take her picture. They discovered her identity only when that ceremony was over.

Doris Duke's love is sports. She swims, plays tennis, and as a child dashed up and down the New Jersey country roads on a Shetland pony, which is now replaced by a galloping saddle horse. Recently she joined a dancing class with other sub-debs and could be found several evenings a week clopping away for dear life.

Last spring she donned white satin gown and ostrich feathers and made her bow before King George and Queen Mary.

Greets Her Guests
Then came her debut at her home in Newport. A large marquee, lined with milax and hung with baskets of golden gladioli, received the 600 guests, while trees and gardens were flooded with colored lights and searchlights played over the waves that broke against the shore near her home.

This winter she will join a throng of almost 300 debutantes and will be the guest of honor at a number of the festivities which go to make the New York debutante season the gayest in America.

Barbara Hutton stepped into the limelight four years ago when her trustees, acting for her, sold $60,000 shares ($10,000,000 worth) of common stock in the Woolworth company, which she had inherited from the grandfather who started his first five-and-ten-cent store on a borrowed $350. It constituted one of the largest private stock transactions which Wall Street had ever seen and interest focused on the young girl in whose name the sale was made.

During her sub-deb days she has lived quietly, but this fall her father and stepmother—her mother died a few years ago—are deep in plans for her debutante festivities, which start with a whirl three days before Christmas.

Armistice Service Is to Be Held at Local High School

"Americanism" is the subject chosen by R. L. Champion for the main address at the special Armistice day chapel program to be given at the high school at 9:35 Wednesday morning. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Especially prepared music by the high school orchestra will open the program, and will be followed by announcements by L. L. Rine, principal. La Valle Meyer will give a short talk on "Founders of Education in America," after which Mrs. Paul Kachube will discuss the A. A. U. W. scholarship for senior girls. Artie Rogers will render a special solo, and "The Star Spangled Banner" will be sung by the high school assembly.

Barbara Hutton and Doris Duke (inset), America's richest debutantes, will make their bows to society in New York this winter.

BEAUMONT, Nov. 8. (AP)—Four boys—one-year-old and self supporting.

That is the record hung up by quadruplet sons of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Perricone, of this city, who already are known internationally.

The lads were born October 31, 1929, the only quadruplet boys known to be living in the United States. They have thrived like the proverbial green bay tree and this fall have been making rounds of fairs in this section, where they were among the most interesting curiosities.

Among fairs attended were those at Jasper, Lufkin and Shreveport, and they will be at the South Texas State fair, to be held here from November 10 to 16.

Pageant Contest Will Be Held for Business Women

A prize of $150.00 is offered by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs for the best short pageant depicting the progress of women in business and in professions, according to announcement of Miss Marjorie Shuler of New York City, chairman of the National Publicity committee. The contest will close at midnight, Dec. 31.

Students of leading colleges and universities, schools of drama and pageantry as well as individual business women are being offered an opportunity to compete.

It is anticipated that the winning pageant will be presented in a large number of the 1,200 communities where there are local Business and Professional Women's clubs as a part of the observance of National Business Women's Week, March 8 to 14, 1931.

"With 10,000,000 women gainfully employed in the United States today, and with women following all but 35 of the 572 known occupations, this seems an appropriate moment to commemorate their achievements along business and professional lines," said Miss Shuler in explanation of the contest. "Only those who come into contact with them every day realize how rapidly American business women are forging into positions of executive responsibility, and what a large proportion of the world's work they do. Yesterday there were many occupations seemingly sacred to men. But today women are succeeding in engineering, aviation, mining and merchandising and in a variety of fields which they had not even dreamed of invading 25 years ago. It is the progress of this new woman that we seek to depict in the pageant. A real student of American business women will find a wealth of dramatic material."

A pageant that is suitable for indoor production in a small hall and that will require a cast of not more than 50 or 75 is sought, Miss Shuler said. Running time should be not more than three-quarters of an hour. If a musical accompaniment is desired music should be suggested that is already orchestrated.

All entries must be in the headquarters office of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Room 912, 1819 Broadway, New York City, by midnight on Dec. 31. Manuscripts should be addressed to the pageant contest editor.

The judges will be Miss Valeria Ladd of the Noyes School of Rhythm, New York City, formerly a member of the faculty of the University of Minnesota; Mrs. Mabel F. Hobbs, drama consultant with the Playground and Recreation Association of America, and Miss Jessie Dotterer, who has presented a number of successful pageants with the Young Women's Christian association and other large organizations.

P-TA Council Asks Contributions To School Libraries During Book Week; Tests of Good Reading Given

... words are things; and a small drop of ink, falling like dew upon a thought, produces that which makes thousands, perhaps millions, think."

Thus is seen the importance of good reading, which is to be stressed during book week. Book week is to be observed in the public schools of Pampa November 10-16, inclusive, which also is education week. A plea has been made by the city council of Parent-Teacher associations that books be given during this week to the school libraries in order that children in the first to fifth grades, inclusive, may have more supplementary reading.

Tests of Good Book
The tests of a good book as given by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers are as follows: "The essential qualities of a book for a child are worth-while content, good English, right standards of morals and conduct, reasonable truth to human experience, and interest for the child mind. Other essentials in books of fact are truth, accuracy, simplicity and good illustrations where these are necessary to the understanding of subject matter. Desirable qualities are beauty of language, beauty of thought, beautiful illustrations, charm of style, and such interest and appeal to the child's mind that he be led unconsciously to appreciate and emulate the beauty of thought and conduct, and to love reading."

Why Have Books
The congress gave the following reasons why children should have books:

"To imbue them with a love of reading so that there may be opened up to them the wonderful world of literature, and the wisdom handed down to us through the ages."

"To give them a good and adequate vocabulary."

"To teach them to reason and think for themselves, and to draw their own conclusions."

"To teach them the great fundamental truths."

"To teach them the use of print, to give them the ability to get thought from the printed page, and to follow printed instructions so that they may be able to use books in their work."

"To teach them to appreciate beauty in every form of art, literature and life."

"To give them ideas and food for thought."

"To so inspire and train them as to bring out the best that is in them."

Continue Body Tests In Gray County Schools

Two more days will be required to complete the physical examinations being given Gray county school pupils as a part of the system devised by County Supt. John B. Hessey to make and keep a permanent school record. During the past week 250 students at the Eldridge, McClellan and Phillips schools were examined by the county superintendent and his assistant.

Intelligence tests will be started with the completion of the physical examinations.

badly beaten in a horse race. But Curtis does. He tells the story that one time he was so far behind as he galloped into the stretch an ironic spectator waved him forward and called out:

"Go on, kid. You're headed the right way. The others all went in that direction."

The kindly old elevator operator, like so many others at the capitol, has a private political background of significance. He is continuously political minded—the years have done little to dim his interest in practical vote-getting maneuvers in Kansas.

Gotham Headgear

He was a key man out in Brown county when the political destiny of the vice president was in the making. As county clerk and a Curtis man he played a prominent part in that memorable Curtis-Bailey battle of long ago.

His vacation in the year of the last Republican convention was spent at Kansas City politicking for Curtis among neighbors and friends of the corn belt delegations.

And only a few days ago he returned to the capital from Kansas where he looked the situation over prior to the elections.

Among the swarm of congressional attaches, from uniformed police guards to doorkeepers and elevator men, Johnny is looked upon as an oracle on Kansas politics. One of his proudest possessions is a leather-brimmed cap that he won in the last presidential election, and which he wears on his elevator job.

"My New York hat," he calls it, as he chuckles.

Chicago may have all the racketeers it needs but California can boast of one thing—that it has had a successful oldtime train robbery done up in western fashion.

County Poultry Raisers Prepare Against Thefts

Determined to take action that will result in checking the activities of poultry thieves in the county, 20 Gray county poultry raisers met in the county court yesterday afternoon and formulated plans for the organization of a Poultry Protective association. It was suggested that each member adopt a brand for his chickens and have that brand registered in the office of the county clerk. Identification of the chickens would be by the means of tattooing them.

Officers elected were Irvin Cole, president, and C. C. Dodd, secretary-treasurer. A committee consisting of C. C. Dodd, W. G. Christy and County Agent Ralph R. Thomas was appointed to make the by-laws and regulations for the organization. They will meet tomorrow at the office of the county agent.

The committee will report at the next meeting of the association, November 15, at 3 o'clock, when the by-laws and regulations will be submitted to the members for their approval.

Cards have been printed for the members of the association, and offering a reward for the capture of any thieves robbing their poultry houses.

Chevrolet Cuts Price Schedule

Culbertson-Small Chevrolet company announced yesterday price reductions on Chevrolets, making the car as low as $475, f.o.b. Flint, Mich.

Prices on all models have been reduced, making even lower prices for this popular six-cylinder car. The new prices apply to all new 1930 models that the dealer has or will receive.

Children See Buster Brown and His "Tige"

Fifteen hundred or more children jammed the Rex theater Saturday morning to see Buster Brown and Tige, his famous dog.

The children were awarded two to each seat and one for every arm. They were intensely interested in Buster, the dog, and the prizes that were awarded.

Buster Brown appeared under the auspices of the Brownhill Shoe store, of which Joe Lazarus is proprietor.

Chevrolet Salesman Wins Cash Prize

W. C. Williams, salesman for Culbertson-Small Chevrolet company, has received word that he has won first in this zone, in a sales contest conducted by the Chevrolet Motor company.

He will receive a cash prize and will be entertained November 11, at a banquet at Amarillo. Other entertainment is also provided for the contest winners. There were 513 salesmen competing in this zone.

by local chambers of commerce and the regional organization will serve as their federation for dealing with regional projects. Most thorough and complete are the studies already made by the organization on certain territorial problems.

From the industrial survey, which equipped the chamber with detailed and dependable information on West Texas, the facts on what West Texas produces were secured and when published astounded even West Texas. These facts were used in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce poster stamp publicity campaign—more than a million and a half of the stamps being circulated throughout the United States.

In the study made on state revenues and expenditures as pertaining to West Texas counties, it was discovered that West Texas paid over 50 per cent of the taxes of Texas and received back less than 30 per cent. The study made by the organization on mis-statements and inaccuracies in public schools' geographicals of the United States has brought about a statewide movement to effect correction. As a result of a study on the drought situation, the WTCC was put in a position to take a leadership in securing for the affected counties Red Cross aid and reduced railway rates, and the facts produced by the study are now being used as a basis for securing assistance through federal appropriation.

The entire work program is carried on under three divisions. The first has to do with the protecting and expanding of those things already in West Texas through the protection and expansion bureau; the second with getting new advantages for West Texas, through the development bureau, and the third, giving publicity to, and information about West Texas, through the publicity bureau. Serving with these three bureaus are 12 committees. The manager and his assistants carry on the work in each division.

Just one year ago the organization met for its 1929 convention at El Paso. A deficit of $28,000 had accumulated, and brought the convention into a prominence that it otherwise would not have deserved. That was soon wiped out, and the organization's leaders went into black ink and have been there ever since.

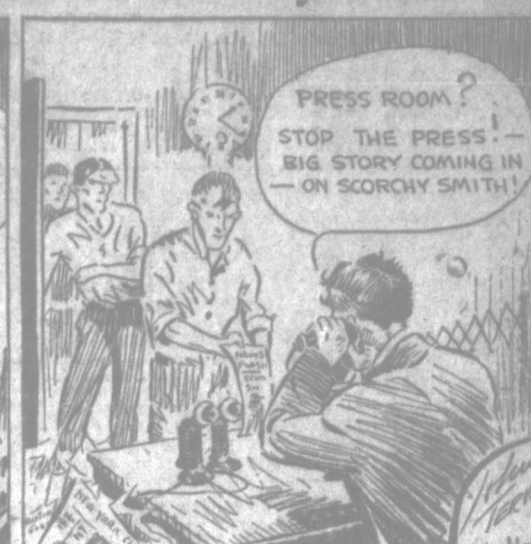

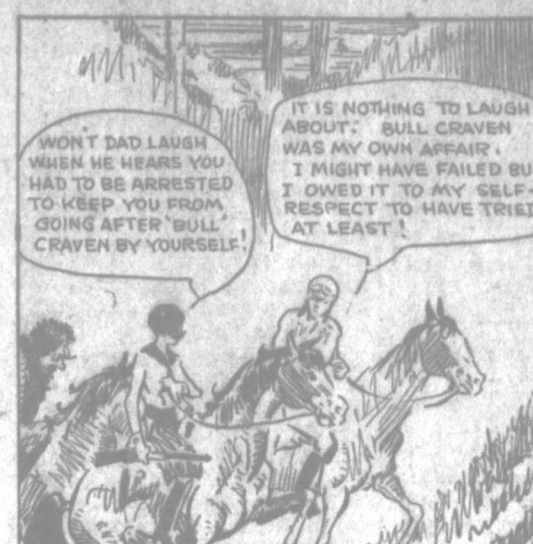

Again, six months later, the organization met in convention at Abilene—in a convention where several previous convention records were broken. There were more bands and more entries in the speaking contest. Cost to Abilene for the entertainment was less than $500 and the expense of the West Texas chamber was practically nothing. The bills had been paid; a cash balance was in the bank and the work program on which the organization is now engaged was developed.

Truly, the record of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce during the past 12 months is a glowing tribute to the progressiveness, energy and forcefulness of West Texans. With its organization well equipped and prepared—with widespread confidence and respect at high levels, the West Texas chamber has come back in a pronounced and impressive way and is now launched upon the highest plane of service in its history.—Abilene Reporter-News.

A NOTABLE PARTY RESOLUTION

This week-end leaders of both the Democratic and the Republican parties pledged themselves to make the next session of congress one of co-operation to steer legislation through to help put the nation back on the road to prosperity.

We do not know how sincere the party leaders are in this statement but we do know if both parties get together and draft workable plans the nation will go ahead as it has not for many months.

Congress in the past at times has been deadlocked by politics. It has been stubborn and has crossed the plan of the president and has in no way tried to put over constructive plans. It has stalled off measures of one group just because the opposition party started the movement.

In the past, it came be safely said, both parties have paid too much attention to their own petty jealousies and have disregarded the wishes of the great American public.

Late returns indicate the Republicans will have 218 members in the house. The Democrats will have 216, with one Farmer-Laborite seated. In the senate, the Republicans will have 47 while the Democrats will have 47 and the Farmer-Labor party will have one.

In case the Farmer-Labor vote goes with the Democrats on an issue and all the Republicans stick tight, it will tie the vote. If one Republican is missing on roll call and his vote is not permitted to go with the party's and the Labor vote goes with the Democrats, the same result will happen in the house.

When time comes for the seventy-second congress to convene, that body will need much co-operation to bring the nation out of a business slump before any more persons are injured by the trying times.

Colonel Woods, who has been appointed by the president to direct the work of the unemployment commission, has started off well but he will need much federal assistance.

PAYING DOCTORS' BILLS

There is no particular news in the fact that a sick man often postpones calling the doctor because he feels that it will be hard to pay the fee. Consequently, it is not surprising to learn that wage-earners and their dependents summon medical attention more often when no bill is to follow than they do when they have to pay for it. Nevertheless, a study recently made of such a situation by the committee on the costs of medical care is well worth reading for the implications it contains.

The committee studied the Workers' Medical Service set up by the Endicott-Johnson corporation for its employees, maintained by company and workers at a cost of approximately $800,000 a year. Under this plan, any worker can get medical attention whenever he needs it free. Not only the doctors' fees but hospitalization and nursing costs as well, for the worker for members of his family, are paid out of this general company fund.

Naturally enough, comparing the results under this system with those to be found in a similar group of outside workers, the committee found that all but 19 per cent of the cases of illness among the Endicott-Johnson workers received medical care, as compared with 87 per cent on the outside. Furthermore, in 76 per cent of these cases the doctor was called within three days; on the outside, this average was only 68 per cent. The protected workers were hospitalized more often, consulted specialists more often and had the services of a dentist more often than the other workers.

Now this, to repeat, is not at all surprising; but it testifies rather strongly about the part which financial resources, or the lack of them, can play in any general health program. All too often the wage-earner will try to ignore the onset of an illness rather than pay out doctors' fees. Where some means are provided by which this service comes to him without a fee, he acts much more promptly to save his health—and, as an inevitable result, thereby has better health than he would otherwise.—NEA.

W. T. C. C. WORK GOES WELL ON PRESENT BASIS

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has just finished its first year's work after its reorganization at the El Paso convention a year ago, and it would not be amiss to survey the results of that reorganization and take a peek into the future at what this fine regional powerhouse of progress proposes to do for the upbuilding and development of its territory.

An outstanding record of achievement, based on a new—but absolutely fundamental—conception of regional commercial organization activities, has been produced by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce during the past 12 months. The full financial deficit has been wiped out and a substantial cash balance built up. A work program reaching down deep into the real needs of the area has been formulated, adopted and put into operation, and widespread confidence and respect in the organization has been inspired.

Now, with its house in order, with a notable list of accomplishments already credited to it and with the foundation laid for actual, positive, far-reaching, creative operation, it is starting on its second year under the new arrangement, and during that period West Texans may expect even greater and better results than those so far attained.

To the casual, outside observer three distinctive features of the new arrangement—organizational structure, business-like methods and the work program are especially noticeable and impressive.

Under the organizational structure arrangement now in effect each town or city selects its own representatives on the board of directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The entire territory divided into 10 districts and the local directors of the WTCC in each district select a district director who acts as an executive head for the sub-regional chamber of commerce composed of his district. Together with the president, two vice presidents, and the immediate past president of the West Texas chamber, these district directors make up the executive board of the organization.

Policy determining functions are delegated to the full board of directors, while the executive functions are in the hands of the executive board, which operates in close contact with the management of all matters. Here is a piece of machinery representative of all communities of West Texas and at the same time a set-up with a strong, centralized executive control—thus enabling the doing of some work with dispatch and efficiency.

Working in close touch with the management is the secretaries' advisory board, made up of one secretary from each of the 10 districts. The traffic advisory board, consisting of the traffic managers of West Texas communities, makes possible the executive board securing at all times the best advice and counsel available on West Texas traffic problems.

Noticeable in this arrangement is the fact that the organizational machinery of the West Texas chamber is easily and quickly responsive to the will of West Texans, yet is sufficiently centralized to enable effective administration and is thoroughly responsible. Another impressive thing is the high type and character of the men enlisted as officers, directors and committee members in the organization. They are leading citizens in their respective communities—federated together through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for the benefit of the territory.

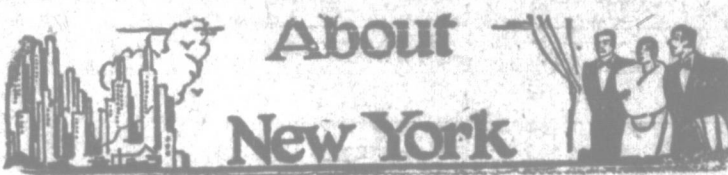

Impressive also are the business-like methods of the organization. Beginning at the headquarters office at Stamford, this is most notable. The office building has been remodeled, repainted and refurnished, and is a headquarters of which West Texas can be proud. Modern accounting records have been installed; office supplies and stock are systematically cared for, and now an entire new filing system is being put in. Number of employees has been reduced to a minimum and they are at work constantly, all occupied on positive development projects.

No paid membership solicitors are used—the entire set-up being based on the premise that any concern that produces dividends will have no trouble in securing operating funds. When employees go into the field, they go for the purpose of performing some definite service for West Texans. Their business-like methods and plans command attention. A definite plan for the administration and operation of "West Texas Today," official publication of the organization, has been adopted which resulted in its being self-sustaining. The entire arrangement is based on the program of showing profitable returns or dividends on all investments of time, money, thought and effort expended through the body.

On the work program, the most noticeable change is observed. Instead of waiting for problems and propositions to present themselves, the organization now has a definite program, based on handling territorial problems. The WTCC assumes that local and individual community matters will be handled

AFTER BIG GAME

By Richard Massock

NEW YORK—Near the back door of J. P. Morgan's town house is one of the last relics of a gas-lit Manhattan. It is Mr. Morgan's post-box. It does not belong to the great financier, of course, but to the United States government. Yet a postman, stopped on his daily rounds, said it was maintained for him.

The maintenance involves little but the collection of letters dropped into it, some of them dropped by the tenants of the boarding houses just back of the Morgan home. The entire block, on East Thirty-seventh street between Park and Madison avenues, is owned, so the postman said, by Mr. Morgan.

Aged Beacon

The post-box is affixed to an old-fashioned lamppost, topped by a round globe that is tilting with age. Inside a tiny gas flame flickers day and night, untended. So long has the incongruous globe, unlike any of the modern street lights around it, been untouched that smoke and dirt have given it a milk-gray coating.

On the darkest night the gas light is barely discernible. But it burns always. The collection of mail from the box is very light, the postman said. For there is another, at either end of the block, where most pedestrians deposit their mail.

It is probably unique. Certainly the Rockefellers have none in front of their homes on West Fifty-fourth street. They have to walk to Fifth avenue, a half-block away, to mail their correspondence.

Maybe, where the new Union League clubhouse is opened on the Park avenue corner of the Morgan block, the light will serve as a feeble guide to members who have an urgent note to post.

Society Caterer

The new Hotel Pierre quickly became fashionable. Its elegance already is a Fifth avenue landmark.

As Louis Sherry, the American restaurateur, was lunching one day in a restaurant in London, back in 1903, waiters stood around to watch him. One was awed by this former waiter who had become proprietor of a smart dining room in New York was Pierre Casalsasco, a Corsican.

When Sherry returned to New York, he brought the Corsican, who later changed his name to Charles Pierre. Eventually Pierre had his own restaurant on Park avenue, near the present Sherry's. Now he also has the hotel, on the site of the old Commodore Gerry mansion.

In his new place he intends to specialize in the ballroom, coming-out and banquet trade. Society already has booked the ballroom for numerous parties. Only two shops are allowed in the hotel, one a flower shop, the other a beauty salon.

On the forty-first floor is a breakfast room, probably the highest-up in town, although there is one other elsewhere. The latter, however, is a sort of club where members plan to have a cabaret show with their morning grapefruit.

The Pierre also has a club, composed of Goulds, Hutons, Vanderbilts and others of equal social standing. It's a dinner and supper affair.

If the rents in our fair city were reduced a trifle, some of the husbands would be able to buy themselves a new suit or a pair of garters at least once a year.

A radio enthusiast the other night got New York, then Chicago, and then got sleepy and went to bed.

This is a funny, funny world. A man killed one man and was sentenced to prison. He killed another and was given his freedom and sent home in high honors. He was a trustee at a prison and killed another convict who attempted to escape and slugged a guard.

PREJUDICES OF PARENTS BAD FOR CHILDREN

BY AGNES JUDSON FEALE

Not long ago I went to visit a baby. He was napping, and I was taken to see him while he slept.

The room in which he lay was in twilight dimness, the shades and hangings drawn to exclude the sun. The French window that opened on a little balcony on the south side of the house was ajar just six inches although it was a balmy Indian summer day.

"But he isn't sick, is he?" I exclaimed. Involuntarily as I looked down at his white little face.

"Of course not." "But I should think that you would put him to sleep on the balcony or at least let him have some sunshine and air in here."

My remark was not altogether tactful and the reply I received was chill.

"I'm simply not a fresh air fiend myself, and his father doesn't like too much light in the house because his eyes are sensitive. Baby is perfectly all right, I assure you."

No doubt baby will survive, yet it seems too bad that because of his parents' idiosyncrasies he should be deprived of the obvious advantages that he literally just outside his door.

Parents do not usually project their prejudices upon their children in matters where their well-being is so obviously interfered with.

But everywhere an observing eye may see the same mental mechanism at work, causing parents to deprive their children of opportunities and outlets for expression, simply because some limitation of their own has given them a negative attitude toward that particular thing.

Parents' decisions for their children should be based not upon their own feelings of fear, dislike or inferiority but upon an objective consideration of what is actually best for the child.

ABOUT BOOKS

Winter is ahead of us. Soon will come those forebodings when indoor occupations are in order.

Certainly one of the best of indoor occupations for young and old has always been reading, or for the very young, absorption in picture books.

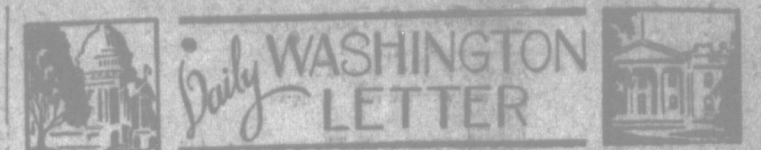

Parents generally spend on their children's books too little thought and less money than is warranted by the scale of their other expenditures.

Regarding them as inconsequential playthings, they buy cheap editions of the most obvious of children's classics and a good deal of poorly written, sentimental trash.

Really good stories and picture books, chosen with consideration for the taste of the individual child, are worth the money. Indeed, it is far more important to spend money freely for a child's books than for his clothes.

The expenditure of money for clothes beyond what is necessary to procure warmth and comfort and a certain amount of attractiveness is foolish waste. But money spent for the best and most beautiful books procurable is always well laid out.

Every few months it is well to look over your child's book-shelf and to consult approved book lists of the sort that are gotten out by schools, parent-teacher associations, public libraries, and the Child Study association of America with a view to adding to his collection whatever new and delightful books he is ready to appreciate.

WASHINGTON—Dr. Lillian Moller Gilbreth, the consulting engineer who was selected to aid the president's emergency commission on employment by getting the women of the country into the relief campaign, believes the maternal instinct of women will help a lot.

Dr. Gilbreth is the mother of six boys and six girls. "Suffering has always been the concern of women," she said. "Women who realize that other women and children and men are suffering from hunger and cold will do all they can to alleviate distress if they can only learn how best to go about it."

"There isn't any women's division of this committee, shut off from the rest, but we are making a special effort to line up the women because there is so much they can do."

"First we are trying to get each woman to see what can be done in and around her home in the way of upkeep and repair and how much money she can afford to spend to have it done. An immense amount of work can thus be provided if enough women become interested. There are screens to be taken down, storm windows to be put up, painting to be done, leaves to be raked and so on."

Urges Expansion

"Every woman ought to center into community employment activity and support community chest and Red Cross drives as much as she can. Women who function on school, hospital and library boards can assist by urging little expansions which will create more employment. Increased interest in hospitals is especially to be recommended because there will be an unusual demand for free hospital facilities."

"I have written to the president of every national organization I know of which has women members, urging their active interest and cooperation. I wish any such president who hasn't heard from us would advise me and we hope for requests for additional information and details as to the things that can be done. We are looking just now for records of successes by groups of women or by any single woman, so that we can set them forth as examples to others."

"Although this is an emergency and may seem to many persons only a temporary affair, I hope that we can establish something permanent from it—such as permanent municipal employment bureaus which will be ready to help at all times."

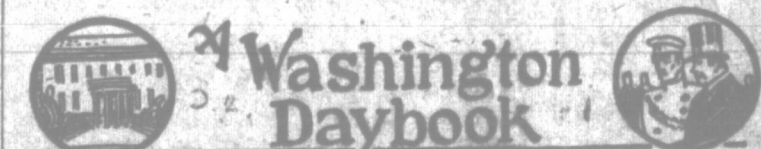

Dr. Gilbreth is as thoroughly steamed up over her job as Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of the president's committee, is over his. A long, active career and the bearing of many children have left her still sparkling with vitality and youth. She is blond and rather slender, radiant with the health with comes from outdoor recreation.

Studies Waste Saving

At the University of California, where she graduated in 1904, she studied psychology and education. She married a consulting engineer named Frank Bunker Gilbreth and developed an interest in management engineering, first as applied to production, then to the office and to distribution and finally to homes. She is now one of the foremost authorities on the study of motion and the technique of saving waste motion through methods of work. In 1915 she took some of her children to Providence and studied for a Ph. D. degree at Brown university.

For several years she has been teaching women to schedule and route their work and to choose and arrange their equipment properly in order to get more done in less time. She teaches them to find the correct height for a "working surface" in the kitchen, to fit the sink, table, kitchen cabinet and stove into sequence which will require only the minimum motion. The average woman, she says, has a sink much too low—and the same is likely to be true of kitchen tables and chairs.

Lately, Dr. Gilbreth has developed a service for measuring women so that their "working surfaces" may be fitted to their heights. She has designed a circular work spaces so that a woman may do nearly all her kitchen work with no more movement of her body than that involved in turning around.

WASHINGTON — It's a big moment for Johnny Weltman when his elevator bell rings three times and he finds that the summons is that of the vice president of the United States.

Johnny is that beaming, broad-shouldered son of Kansas who operates the elevator in the capital leading to the senate press gallery. But, what is more important, Johnny is a Charlie Curtis man first, last and for all time.

Although past 70, he is as agile as the youngest of them when the vice president is his passenger.

"Where to, Mr. Vice President?" is his gracious inquiry.

"To the floor, John," answers Curtis, and it's a non-stop flight to the floor. For Johnny's car is an express on such occasions.

He knew Charlie Curtis long before he attained such prominence as he now enjoys. Back in the days when the vice president was a jockey, riding horses at the county fair, Johnny was one of the spectators.

Indian Boy

"We called him the Indian boy then," he says. "He was a little skinny youngster, but a cracking good rider. They used to tie him on his horse, for that's the way he wanted to ride."

"And never would he admit that anybody could beat him at horse-racing any more than he'll admit now anybody can beat him at Kansas politics."

Johnny can't remember when the vice president was
