THE PUBLIC CANNOT STAND THE TRUTH

With politics hot on the wires and in public interest, it is pertinent to remark, as Frank R. Kent does in a current issue of Colliers, that "telling the truth—that is, the whole truth, is no way to win an election."

If a candidate is as well informed as he should be, he knows facts which explain many of the present deficiencies of government but which cannot be told. Some of these facts concern the innate dumbness of the voters, the corruptness of the lobby system, and the cheap bargaining for passage of pet measures. Yet in government as in private business there are alignments which the candidate dare not expose. In this day prohibition is a question on which thousands of office holders preach one thing and think another.

Office seekers swear to "enforce the law," yet they have, in many instances, the mental reservation "if the majority of my constituents, or the most influential ones, wish it enforced." We have much side-stepping of issues, and an English professor never received better examples of ambiguity in Freshman classes than the politicians deliberately concoct.

The reason? The public is not ready to accept the unvarnished truth. It wants to hear "tax reduction" and it does hear the phrase, even if the office seeker knows that state institutions are shamefully undernourished and that lower taxes would be ridiculous. So Mr. Kent in his article asserts that "it may not be palatable but it is nevertheless accurate to say that our great mass stomach is not strong enough for the diluted truth."

The oft-repeated observation that the public gets as good a set of public officials as it deserves has a strong basis in fact. Let a personable orator rise to his feet and press the button of political hokum about lower taxes, human liberties, "abiding faith in the intelligence of the great electorate," and similar clauses and he will defeat a candidate of frank sincerity who tries to reason in facts and to work out real reforms.

Discriminating use of the ballot, even in local elections, is in ratio to the freedom of susceptibility to hokum that the voters possess. This nation has perhaps forty millions of voters, of whom it is estimated that not more than 600,000 are sufficiently informed and continuously interested enough in public affairs to cast ballots intelligently. This may seem a strong statement, but remember that the Panhandle is an exceptional section, both as to percentage of literate native whites and as to active interest in details of government and progress.

The clever politician is not a fence rider—he speaks in words that echo on both sides of the fence. Men of strong convictions, who dare fight for them, cannot be elected unless the intelligence of the voters is high enough to grasp and to support the issues outlined. By intelligence is meant the ability to differentiate between sincere convictions and meaningless flattery.

When the public wishes better officials it will have to place a premium upon sincerity, upon fighting for convictions, upon reforms that may hurt at first but which will eventually cure. As it is, the officials are just about what the public makes them, and they will rise as public intelligence and demands rise. Moreover, when office holding becomes something of greater permanency, or surer rewards for honest service, it will attract greater numbers of the kind of men who are needed to administer this complex system we call democracy.

DANCING JUDITH

BY CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1930 BY SUNLSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Judith Grant, beautiful young Greenwich Village artist's model and dancer, lives in an attic apartment with Carlotta Morley, known as Chummy, a beautiful girl whose hair has been impaired ever since her lover, a young artist named Alan Steyne, abruptly deserted her and disappeared. Judith learns from Pastien Dumont, another artist, that Steyne is back in town, and they bring Steyne and Chummy together; but Chummy fails to recognize her former lover, and while she takes a liking to him it is quite obvious that she has completely lost all memory of him. Chummy speaks with a cold, an da specialist sent around by Steyne finds that her mind is gradually growing weaker and says that if her memory is restored it will be only by accident. Steyne, who has inherited money and is now prosperous, gives Judith money to help care for Chummy, and Judith tells Dumont she is sure Steyne is planning to marry Chummy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV
Judy saw Steyne the next day. She met him at the entrance to their building, just as she was going out. He said he had come to ask whether she and Miss Morley would go to the theatre with him that night. Judy accepted eagerly. "Chummy'll love that! She's much better. She simply adores the theatre; she'll like to go every night. You'll find that out when you're married."

She stopped suddenly. There was something electric in the atmosphere. She looked up at Steyne and saw that the merry, boyish look had gone from his face. It looked stern, almost hard.

"Miss Grant," he asked, with a kind of bald coldness in his voice "why do you assume that Miss Morley and I are going to be married?" Judy was too much taken aback to speak. To begin with, Steyne seemed to be angry with her—for what reason she could not possibly imagine. Then the mere idea of his marrying Chummy took her breath away.

As she looked at him, she thought his face grew harder still.

"But," she burst out, "aren't you and Chummy going to be married?" "There is no immediate prospect of it, as you can see," he answered, speaking in an almost hostile tone, which hurt her, although she did not know why. "And when you assume it in front of other people—Dumont, for instance—it makes it very awkward for me. Moreover, it is hardly fair to Miss Morley."

"Not fair to Chummy!" Judy cried. She was almost inarticulate. To an outsider she might have appeared comic in her surprise. "But Chummy loves you with her whole heart and soul. She has loved you all these years. It is because of you that she is what she is—because you went away and left her. Oh, what can you mean?"

In the young man's face was a determination to get something over which he knew would be very unpleasant. No man likes to look sad, particularly in the eyes of such a passionate little loyalist as Judy Grant.

"Miss Grant," he said, "it is very painful for me to have to say this, but I must, or else I should be selling under false colors. I am dreadfully sorry about Miss Morley, but you must see that at present the idea of marriage in her case is unthinkable. And if she recovered, how do you know that she would have—even feelings of friendship toward me?"

"Feelings of friendship!" repeated Judy. "Oh, how can you? If she knew you again, it would be with all her old love—of course it would! How can you think anything else?"

"In those circumstances it would be different," Steyne remarked quietly. "If, as you say, I have the misfortune to be in a way responsible for Miss Morley's present condition—"

"I say so!" interrupted Judy indignantly. "Everybody says so. Ask anybody—Pastien Dumont, Michael Stone, Tony Leigh—any of them! When you left, she broke her poor heart. She had nothing left to live for. She just waited for you to come back, and you didn't come. Then she fell ill and nearly died, and when she got better she was—what she is now. Everybody knew that it was for love of you!" Judy broke off with a sob in her throat. Steyne's eyes were fixed on Judy's face beneath her shabby hat—that little flower face so lowly despite the cheap vulgarly of its make-up. The single-hearted loyalty blazing in the big purple eyes, the laughing lips trembling over poor Chummy's sorrows—they seemed to affect him strangely. He was pale under his tan, and for a moment or two he did not speak.

"Why," Judy went on, her voice still quivering, "I thought, when I heard you had come back, that it would be all right, that you would take Chummy away and marry her. They were ostensibly very good friends, but when they happened to be alone, he felt a certain smoldering hostility. She could see that Chummy had not the faintest idea of his identity, not the remotest thought of marriage with him, but she still felt that he ought to have claimed her immediately and made her his wife. That, Judy felt, was the only suitable and picturesque culmination of the strange romance."

Once Judy caught Alan looking at her, and she quickly turned away. Something dawned upon her. She would not have been a woman if the knowledge had not come to her; and she was terrified. That night she slept badly. Steyne's face was always before her, with that something behind the laughter in his eyes—something that thrilled her and made her afraid.

to forgive," she muttered. "I just thought you were another kind of man, and that it was all coming right for Chummy. It's a bit of a blow!"

Chummy made no actual progress toward recovery, but she no longer complained of feeling queer. One thing was noticeable, at any rate—she was decidedly more animated, though she looked very frail. Without doubt, Alan Steyne's companionship had much to do with it. He constantly took the two girls out, and people observing them remarked on what a happy trio they were.

But now Judy had tacitly granted that Alan had spoken the truth. They were ostensibly very good friends, but when they happened to be alone, he felt a certain smoldering hostility. She could see that Chummy had not the faintest idea of his identity, not the remotest thought of marriage with him, but she still felt that he ought to have claimed her immediately and made her his wife. That, Judy felt, was the only suitable and picturesque culmination of the strange romance."

Once Judy caught Alan looking at her, and she quickly turned away. Something dawned upon her. She would not have been a woman if the knowledge had not come to her; and she was terrified. That night she slept badly. Steyne's face was always before her, with that something behind the laughter in his eyes—something that thrilled her and made her afraid.

Talley Citizens Discuss Election

Fifty residents of the Talley addition met at McKennie hall Friday night to consider the question of incorporation of the addition as the "City of Talley." Frank Carter presided at the meeting.

T. C. Ward, Elmer Cary, and Rev. John Mahoney were the principal speakers who spoke in opposition to the proposal of J. G. Christy, who, with Earl Talley, was present to show why the addition should be incorporated. The election will be held Tuesday.

Mr. Christy's plan involves the incorporation of the addition as the "City of Talley," and its dissolution two or three years hence, when it is proposed that the addition be annexed by the city of Pampa.

In discussing the proposed plan, Rev. Mahoney stated that it would be impossible to collect any taxes for the "City of Talley" until 1932 and even then the taxes would amount to only $2,475, based on present tax assessments of the city of Pampa; that the valuation of Talley addition, provided each home was estimated as worth $1,000, would be $220,000, and furthermore, that only three-fourths of this $220,000 was available for taxes.

Answering Mr. Christy's arguments in favor of a city commission form of government, whereby commissioners would serve without pay, Rev. Mahoney said that this might be true in the beginning, but what of the future? Mr. Christy claimed that under his plan the residents of Talley would be able to secure a 10 per cent reduction in gas rates, which, according to the counter argument of the Rev. Mahoney, would only amount to 60 or 70 cents per month, and the reduction itself was not known for a certainty.

Regarding the streets, Mr. Christy estimated that $500 a year or more would be needed to care for the streets in the addition. Continuing his argument, Rev. Mahoney declared that all knew that the Talley addition had no businesses from which to derive revenue such as Pampa had.

"We are in precinct No. 2, and as the county collects taxes off this addition, we are entitled to the benefit of the county's equipment to care for the streets. I believe if this question is presented in the proper way to the officials it will be taken care of," said Mahoney.

Speaking of fire protection, Rev. Mahoney stated: "The city of Pampa fire department will answer any call within a mile of the city limits. While we know we have no water system for fighting fires, we are protected by the Pampa fire department as was the case last winter when they made a call out here and put out a fire that threatened a house and barn, by means of chemicals. But, if we are incorporated in the city of Talley, Mr. Schneider, the fire chief, informs us he will make no free calls in the City of Talley."

Concerning the sewer system, Rev. Mahoney said, "The city of Pampa is laying sewer system in the western part of town and has lowered the lines sixteen feet to care for Talley addition."

In conclusion, he said, "therefore, by incorporating as the city of Talley, we would first have to dissolve as a city and be free of debt before we could be included in the city of Pampa. It is very hard for cities of the size of the proposed City of Talley, with no more tax valuation than we have, to be free of debt at any time. If we are not ready to enter the city of Pampa, we are not ready to incorporate as the City of Talley. I have talked to Mr. Gwin, Mr. Boyd, and Mr. Fatheree and they gave their personal opinion that we did not need to incorporate as the City of Talley, and that had they any interest in the matter they would be fighting it the same as we are."

Respectfully submitted,
Newton P. Willis.

AVIATION NEWS

Dr. J. C. McKean and Paul McNamara flew to Fort Worth, Dallas and Waco Friday morning with Dr. McKean piloting his Stearman biplane. They will return the first of the coming week.

It took only an hour last week for an Amarillo grain man to sell how much of the wheat from Amarillo to Miami on the Rock Island and Santa Fe had been harvested. In the Cree and Hoover plane, piloted by R. W. "Dutch" Bartsig, he judged that 90 per cent of the wheat was harvested on that particular day, and subsequent figures indicated that his estimate was right. A section of wheat looks not so large from a distance of 3,000 feet.

The log of the Cree and Hoover Ryan B-7 shows that on July 7, "Dutch" Bartsig flew the plane to Moore county with passengers on the 8th, to Berger and Moore county with passengers; on the 9th two trips to Berger and Moore county and Amarillo. On Friday, Frank P. Graham, superintendent of the Skelly, was a passenger in the plane to Moore county.

BOBBY JONES RALLIES TO WIN AMERICAN OPEN GOLF TITLE

SOUTHERNER TWO STROKES TO THE GOOD

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
INTERLACHEN CLUB, Minn., July 12. (AP)—The king of all the golfers, flushed with the heat of one of the greatest battles of his career, strode to the home hole today with his throne a trifle shaky, the professional light brigade in hot pursuit and a 40-foot putt over the rolling turf before him. While close to 10,000 spectators held their breath, Bobby Jones hit the ball straight and true into the cup for a birdie three that closed the door to all challengers, clinching his fourth victory and successful defense of the open golf championship of the United States.

The roar that greeted this final stroke of the master shot-maker sounded the knell of what few lingering hopes remained as the all-conquering son of the South completed his third major golfing triumph of the year at home and abroad.

All that Bobby Jones needs to do now to make a clean sweep for 1936, with all four major British and American titles, is to win the first man's belt for the first time in history, is to recapture the United States amateur crown at Philadelphia in September.

Jones, with successive rounds of 71-73-68-75, finished his conquest today with a total of 287, the second lowest total in the history of the American open and only one stroke short of the record set 14 years ago by Chick Evans at the nearby Minnikahada course.

It gave him a winning margin of two strokes over his nearest rival, the veteran MacDonald Smith, of New York, who made a sensational fight that fell just a trifle short of overhauling the Georgian in the final round.

Mac Smith, alone of the star professionals to stand the gaff of the final day after Jones had burned up the course with a record-breaking third round, finished with rounds of 70-76-74-70 for a total of 290 to clinch second place.

Horton Smith, 22-year-old professional who shot himself into the lead at the half way mark only to crack under the strain today, wound up in third place, five strokes back of Jones, with 72-70-76-74—292. Fourth place went to Lighthouse Harry Cooper of Chicago, with figures of 72-72-73-76—293. Fifth was the veteran John Golden of Darien, Conn., with 74-73-71-76—294, while the rest of the professional clan, including such early threats as Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, Charles Lacey, and Walter Hagen, fell by the wayside.

To show just how badly beaten the big stars were, Armour finished ten strokes to the rear with 297. Lacey wound up with 298 after making a "dark horse" threat, Farrell finished with 299, Leo Diegel with 301, Hagen with 303, Denny Shute with 305, and Gene Sarazen with 306.

Bruce Barnes Wins

DES MOINES, Ia., July 12. (AP)—Bruce Barnes, Austin, Texas, today won the men's singles championship of the Missouri valley in a hard fought final match with Harris Coggeshall, western champion. The scores were 6-3, 6-8, 6-4, 7-5.

Gulf Guns to Play Magnolias In Amarillo Tournament at 2 o'Clock —Memphis Will Tangle With Tacks

This afternoon at 2 o'clock, just one week from the date of their first clash, the Gulf Guns and the Magnolias will settle the question of supremacy once and for all in their second game at the Amarillo tournament.

Fans attending the tournament declare that the result of the game cannot be predicted with any degree of accuracy, but all seem to agree that the Guns displayed a better brand of baseball against the Amarillo Tacks, to whom they lost 17 to 12, than the Magnolias showed in their game with the Memphis Owls which won 17 to 5.

The winning team tomorrow hopes to prove again that a club can lose its first game and then win the tournament, as the Pampa Grays did two years ago. If either Pampa team should win the tournament it would be the third consecutive time that the pennant would be brought here.

It was evident in the Tack-Guns game Thursday that the Gulf team had improved 100 per cent since they were defeated 11 to 3 last Sunday at Gun park by the hard-hitting Magnolias. The Guns have been playing erratic baseball and if they get off on the right foot, the Mags may have to work hard to beat them. The champion Pampa Grays last year won with almost the same combination that the Guns have this year—Lefty Graham, Joe Marcum, Al Williamson, Spec Roberts, Johnny Munds.

The Gulf will start either Had-

Flower Pot Can Be Developed On Edge of Street, It Is Proved by Mrs. Smith Wise at 414 North Gray

BY ARCHER FULLINGIM

Last spring the space between the sidewalk and the curb in front of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Smith at 414 North Gray street was planted in grass, but before the summer was over the "lawn" had crowded out the grass and the plot became covered with sandbars. This spring Mrs. Wise was afraid that if she planted it in grass, sandbars would again dominate. She became convinced that she'd better not plant any grass until the sandbars were eradicated.

She decided to make a flower garden on the spot, even if it was next to the street—better a flower garden than a sandbar! The beautiful flower garden that she and her mother, Mrs. Nora M. Harbison, created, is witness to their success. It is now one of the most colorful spots on Gray street.

Gladiolus Dominate

The space which the garden occupies is about 12 by 30 feet. The flowers are not planted in rows but with voluptuous abandon. More than a dozen blossoming gladiolus dominate the garden. These are of all colors, but especially red. Mrs. Harbison said she was "always foolish about red." There are even more sinias than gladiolus and more petunias than sinias, all of which have been blooming for weeks. These plants are unusually large and healthy. Mrs. Harbison said this is because the flowers are watered at night with a sprinkler. Daisies, phlox, cosmos, and other flowers are in the garden.

But the beautified sandbar bed is not any more attractive than the shrubbery and flowers around the house and at the rear. There is one super-large dahlia bush which has more than a score of buds on it now. A clump of "Old Dusty Miller" is wistfully old-fashioned. Among the varieties of shrubbery are althea bushes which have pink blossoms. On the north side of the house is a perennial phlox which has great balls of red blossoms. A sweet pea lattice is still dainty with many blossoms.

Around the house are deep purple larkspur, marigold, nasturtiums, pansies, verbenas, toad-me-nots, four climbing roses, a honeysuckle vine, a morning glory vine. The lawn is mixed, grass and clover. A bed of poppies have just finished blooming. A dwarf honeysuckle among the shrubbery has interesting and odorous blossoms.

In the garden at the rear of the house are vegetables and fruit trees. Some tomato vines appeared to be unusually productive. The back yard garden also has many flowers similar to those growing at the front of the house.

Back Graham's Yard Pretty

Almost at the end of North Somerville lives M. A. Graham, at No. 823 to be exact. The dark green lawn of grass and clover first drew the attention because this is the time of the year when lawns, the best of them, begin to look a little yellow. The Graham lawn is luxuriously thick, smooth and level. At the front of the house between the sidewalk and the street are unusually fine catalpas. It is only when catalpas are planted close together that they lose their grace. At the entrance to the residence, there are pansies, violets, gladiolus one side of the step catches the eye, while a cedar is on the other. Elm trees face the street on the north side of the house. Mrs. Graham is evidently a convert to the theory that the back garden should be the show-place of a home, be-

Hoo-Hoo Club Is Active Organization of Lumber Dealers

Pampa Hoo-Hoo club met at a dinner at the Schneider hotel, July 9, with twenty-two members present.

The promotion of the lumber industry was discussed. Advertising was one of the principal subjects. Many letters that had been received from national officers of the organization were read and comments made upon them.

A year's advertising contract has been entered into by the club with the Pampa Daily News for advertisements to be published in the Sunday issues of the newspaper. An advertising committee was appointed. It consists of Harvey Todd, Panhandle Lumber company, Charles E. Lawrence, Pickering Lumber company, and J. B. Austin, of Merrick & Boyd Lumber company. It was decided at the meeting to appoint a publicity committee, one member from each of the companies to report all news items pertaining to building and home improvement.

Jack Lander, of the Pampa Times, a visitor at the meeting, made a talk on advertising.

Joe and Bert Isbell, Jr., returned today from Durham, Okla., where they have been visiting their grand mother the last month.

New "State" Theatre Will Open On Tuesday—"Mamba" is Feature

C. P. Washmon is announcing the opening Tuesday of his new theatre located at 111 South Cuyler, in the building formerly occupied by Jarretts' Fashion Shop. It will be known as the State theatre.

The picture of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be "Mamba," an all-color, all-talking drama with its locale laid in the heart of the African jungle.

Jean Hersholt, Eleanor Boardman and Ralph Forbes head the cast. The story was written by F. Schumann-Heinek and John Reinhardt. Hersholt, once again in his spectacular career as an actor, turns mean. In fact, it is from the meanness of the character he portrays that the picture gets its title, for the Mamba is a deadly poisonous snake of Africa—and August Bolte is as vile and feared as any reptile.

He thinks to command the respect of the English and Germans at New Posen by marriage to the daughter of a German count. This beautiful girl has consented to marry the immensely wealthy Bolte only because the price he pays for her will save her father from bankruptcy. She is as refined and exquisitely bred as Bolte is gross and vulgar and she shrinks from him in horror. On the way to her new home in Africa she meets Karl von Reiden, a handsome young German officer, and her unhappiness is made greater by their falling in love at sight.

How the romance is untangled and Bolte becomes the victim of his own cruelty is told in "Mamba". Eleanor Boardman plays the purchased bride and Ralph Forbes the young officer. Others in the cast are Josef Swickard, Claude Fleming, William Staunton, William von Brincken, Hazel Jones and Arthur Stone. RCA Photophone recording.

Kelly Patterson returned Saturday from a ten-day vacation trip to Missouri.

Three Arrested In Liquor Raids

After making bonds aggregating $6,500, Mr. and Mrs. "Murf" Smith and Louise Baker were released yesterday afternoon from the Potter county jail, where they were placed Thursday evening following raids made at two places here by Department of Justice officers. They returned to Pampa immediately.

In the raid, the third staged here in the last three months, officers seized 20 gallons of new beer and 21 pints of whiskey at a building in South Pampa on the Clarendon road, and eight and one-half gallons of whiskey and 70 pints of beer at an address on the Borger road. The three were arrested on charges of possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale. They were taken to the Potter county jail Thursday night and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Friday morning.

Smith's bond was set at $1,000; his wife's at $2,500, and Baker's at $1,500. Mrs. Smith's bond was set larger than her husband's because it was the third time she had been brought before the commissioner on similar charges. A second bond on a like charge was set Thursday for her at $1,500.

Two weeks ago, federal officers raided a South Pampa drug store, seized a quantity of whiskey and arrested Roy Albritton on charges of possession and conspiracy. He was released after several days on a $25,000 bond.

CHICAGO, July 12. (AP)—The policeman who chased a blonde gunman from the scene of Jake Lingle's slaying identified a picture at the detective bureau as that of the man he purued. Parnell Warns Against Efforts of Oil Companies

TAYLOR, July 12.—Not satisfied with 19 years of anti-trust law violations, those who control the oil industry are now plotting the repeal of anti-trust laws," was a charge made here by J. D. Parnell of Wichita Falls, candidate for lieutenant-governor. The major oil companies of the state have disseminated a false propaganda of oil conservation, aimed to "freeze out" the independent oil operators," declared Parnell.

"They will be before the next session of the legislature and the next congress asking for a repeal or modification of the anti-trust laws," said the former senator, who praised the exploration and development work done by independent operators.

"The state lost $1,500,000 last year because of the low price of crude oil. There was a greater loss to the counties, and the public did not benefit," he declared. The major oil companies import oil from foreign countries, duty free, and sell it in Texas where oil production is curtailed through proration and conservation, devised to destroy the independent," he said.

"I am against any more laws," said the candidate. "We are now over-burdened and imposed on with unintelligible and futile laws. The legislature would do well to pass only such departmental and appropriation bills as are necessary, and then adjourn. There should be fewer and better laws."

He continued: "If we will quit regulating and legislating so much and try to formulate some plan whereby we can develop the state and keep the "saw and hammer brigade" going, we will have done a real service to the people in giving employment to the unemployed and bringing in more consumers for our products."

In advocating good highways, he said: "Develop the state with highways! Misplaced interest in 'tourist travel' and inefficient road financing have stung the tax-payers. Attempts have been made to shorten highways at the expense and to the injury of the rightful owners, the small communities, for the benefit of tourists. Build more lateral roads for home people," he advised. "Let's develop the state and then tourists will pour in."

CHURCH OF CHRIST
 Francis and Warren Streets
 Sin has caused all sorrow, sadness, disappointment, and tears. Many commit sin in ignorance while some sin knowingly; this is a presumptuous sin. However, presumptuous sin may be committed in ignorance. The fact that one could know and not learn is presumption.
 Some have said, "I am wrong religiously, I do not want to know it. There are others that go on supposition; not in worldly matters, but far worse, they suppose the religion that they are practicing is all right. They think it is all right because their teacher said it was and their father and mother practiced it. They fail to study God's word for themselves. We do not inherit our religion any more, or we should not. Our grandparents are not our guides. Jesus said: "I am the way, and the truth and the life." So let us follow Jesus regardless of what people may say or do. If we do otherwise, we are going on supposition and commit a presumptuous sin. You have a special invitation to study this lesson with us Sunday night.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
 A personal word from the pastor: I am not here altogether a stranger. Four happy years were lived here before, from 1917 to 1920 as pastor of this church. No church and people meant more to myself and wife.
 One of the most gratifying experiences was that the friendship transcended that of the church we tried to serve, and reached to every church, and those of no church. It also went beyond the limits of the town of a thousand population, to the vast section and rich territory of aggressive farmers that Pampa serves. We want it to be true now, and also include the increased population of people who have since come and those who will shortly come to make this their home.
 We are here to be one in your midst who serves. We want that service to reach to the confines of the community. We shall also seek to make the church an agency of service to all, and a ministry that will bless all. It has been heartening to find the friendships and fellowship a reality after ten years absence.

We request that any shall be free to command us in any service we may render. The church has sacrificed in lifting of pressing debts that were pressing. Last Sunday we committed ourselves to raising fifteen thousand dollars in cash this month to lift these debts so the church and pastor may be free to give ourselves in an undivided service to the community for which a church exists. Much encouragement has come from the membership, and those not members. More than half has been raised.

AT AMARILLO MEETING
 Eleven members of the local post of the American Legion were guests of the Amarillo post Thursday night at the Palisades, in an interpost meeting.
 Those attending from Pampa were: F. J. Thomas, F. M. Culbertson, R. A. Webb, J. A. Pearson, S. A. Burns, L. O. Cox, W. C. de Cordova, P. D. Hill, Gib Moore, G. C. Morris, and D. W. Thurman.

this city. We are glad to be back again, and point back with much joy as we think of the splendid cooperation on the part of the Pampa people and we are sure that the same cooperation will continue.
 Beginning Sunday, July 20, we are to have the famous "fighting Georgia congressman" with us in a meeting. Widespread interest has already been created. William D. Upshaw leaped into International fame overnight by a ringing speech on "Sober Officials," in which he called on every official in Washington—Congressmen, senators, cabinet members, and even the president—to "begin on yourself if you you want to enforce prohibition." To hear Upshaw once will mean that you hear him for two weeks, beginning July 20, meeting in the high school auditorium. We invite the ministers and churches of the city to cooperate with us in this meeting.

PREBYTERIAN CHURCH
 This morning's sermon will present the question of "blinds." Protectors from glare of the sun, from wind and storm, to secure privacy of the home, they sometimes become barriers. What is behind the blinds. And what do the blinds withhold? Hear the sermon, "Blinds," at 11 o'clock.
