But now the highest commanding officers of the U.S. army announce that any idea of fighting future wars in the air is just so much bunk. Planes, they say, cannot hold objectives. cannot clean out machine gun nests or snipers, cannot fly in bad weather and are harassed too greatly by anti-aircraft guns. They're most valuable for scouting, for bombing bridges and a little terrorizing ground strafing.

It's too bad. There goes the last glorification, the final swagger, the end of spectacular individualism. War is just muddy trenches and barbed wire and death in a shell hole af-

WASHINGTON-One of the things that can happen to an Indian in this day of enlightened treatment of the redman is to be left off the Offhand that would sound like being expelled from the D. A. R. or the Elks but to an Indian it is a cash proposition, not sentimental. The Indians on the tribal roll receive dividends from tribal property. In many tribes the community kitty runs into millions and the income buys much gasoline and many blan-

In other tribes the property has already been divided among the members, but those off the roll would like to get on because it would give them at least a semblance of a claim against the government for not being cut in. * * *

A samble is the case of Robert Fix, who claims to be a descendant of Choctaw Indians He and his family were left off the rolls and he is quite frank in stating that he wants to be on so as to share the tribal bounty.

Fix was a lad of about high school age when. in 1907, a government commission held a hearing to determine who were Choctaw Indians and so entitled to a division of the tribal property. The Fix family was left off for failure to prove Choctaw connections.

Since becoming old enough to realize what had happened to him, Fix has been an almost constant witness before congressional committees. He has a stack of documents and Indian affidavits that tell a story as weird almost as an "Arabian Nights" tale.

He tells it before the senate Indian affairs committee in about this fashion:

His great grandmother marched overland from Mississippi to Oklahoma in the enforced migration of that tribe. She had several children. One of the daughters married a Civil soldier out in Kansas, had three children by him and then was murdered. The children were abandoned. They made their way back to Oklahoma and lived with relatives among the Choctaws. One of the children, Fix says. was his mother.

* * * The commission in 1907 was dissatisfied with the story and the Fix family got no land. The senate committee has not acted on his case yet, either. The Choctaws still have some land as tribal property and Fix predicts some day he will get a share of it.

Not only does the government oppose him since it made the original finding, but memhers of the tribe in good standing on the rolls don't want him in on the tribal pool.

There are hundreds of other Indians in like condition. The Klamath Indians in Washington have valuable timber holdings and pay comfortable fees to a firm of attorneys in Washington, D. C., merely to draw up timber sale contracts. Several hundred Indians were left off the Klamath rolls, also, and thereby hangs another case before congress.

It is all very complex, because the Indians did not keep especially good birth records. Among themselves they knew who was who.

the Panhandle of Texas, and if you happened to be out driving during this coming Labor Day week-end, . . And if you happened to have your radio turned on in your auto, tuned into the right station, then you would hear by air about the traffic situation going on all around you. . . You would be told that Highway so-and-so is overcrowded, as is Highway such-and-such, and you would be advised to turn off at the next junction on a road that leads to another Highway, not so congested. * * *

It sounds like a splendid plan. . . Pennsylvania will employ six state-owned airplanes during the Labor Day week-end to help untangle its traffic situation. . . The planes will fly over the main highways and report back to broadcasting stations on the relative overstuffed conditions on various roads throughout the state. . . The broadcasting stations then will go on the air with words to motorists, advising in most instances of less frequented roads. When those are all filled up, presumably, the country lanes will get a turn. . . . All-white loudspeaker autos will tour the roadways to worry the poky drivers and hike them up to a 30-mile-an-hour speed, warning them at the same time not to go over 50. * * *

If you don't happen to be in Pennsylvania, as is quite likely, then you will just have to ferret out the traffic jams and the crowded highways for yourself, which shouldn't be too difficult. It really doesn't make a great deal of difference. Neither traffic jams nor detours are conducive to the most enjoyable of holi-. It all boils down to the simple sum that taking the family out for a drive over the Labor Day week-end is not only a hazardous enterprise, but an unenjoyable one. * * *

Without counting the several hundred persons who will be killed or maimed in auto accidents in the United States during those few days the cost in strained nerves and tempers from accidents that almost happen will be terrific. Think of the thousands of wrong hand signals that will be given, of the guy who always insists on pulling out of the line, of the screeching brakes, of the irascible traffic cops and of the roadside inn that has sold out of chicken dinners long before you got there. . Maybe the best idea is to have a picnic in the backyard with home-made ice cream and watermelon preserves. . . Or pray that it rains a gully-washer.

* * * When cold winds whistled through a sun bathers convention in New Jersey, the nudists put on transparent overcoats-which didn't cover their convictions. . . Maybe Jimmy Walker was intended as the wild card in that New York political game. . . With all the recent advances in medical science isn't there some way to make dictators allergic to war?

The Pennsylvania slayer who returned to prison under three life sentences, probably hopes for leniency after he has served the first two. . . It must be pretty discouraging to Hitler and Mussolini, not being able to mix into the Chinese-Japanese fracas.

There were 35,062.682 telephones in use in the world as of Jan. 1, 1936. The United States contained 17,423,871 of this total. . . Asia's non-Christian Confucianist-Taoist sect had 350,600,000 believers, the largest religious following in the world. . . Eighty-five out of every 100 dinners on a train order coffee. while 15 prefer tea, according to statistics Fed one bushel of corn, a lean hog will gain 10 pounds in weight, creating 7 to 8 more pounds of marketable pork. . . Visitors to Florida spend between $200,000,00 and $300,-000.000 annually in that state.

* * * Speaking of dust storms, high winds carry dust from Australia to New Zealand, a distance of 1300 miles. . . Fly wings are used in the construction of parts of a new instrument to measure the heat in the more distant stars.

. . If a man fails to pay his debts in some parts of China, his creditors carry away one of his doors. This permits evil spirits to enter the house, according to native belief. . . Senator Pittman believes it would be "cowardly" to leave the United States interests in China unprotected. They can't intimidate us, eh senator? . . . There's a suspicion Roosevelt would like to leave a few senators off his invitation list for that autumn special session.

Man About Manhattan

-By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK-Any listing of dominant personalities in New York should include these names: Robert Moses, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Fiorello LaGuardia, Bill Robinson, Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig, George M. Cohan, and Elsa Maxwell. They dominate New York.

Moses is park commissioner and has built a vast chain of free playgrounds, thus contributing materially to the welfare of thousands of children who ordinarily would have no recreational places except trafficcongested streets and tenement allevs. The commissioner's enthusiasm for athletics dates back to undergraduate days when he was captain of the swimming team at Yale.

Health? his hobby at the moment. But he is as much interested in the spiritual welfare as the architectural growth of the city and has contributed enormously to churches and welfare organizations. Almost every project of importance in the last 10 years has enjoyed the benefit of his advice and checkbook Fiorello LaGuardia, whose name neans Little Flower, is New York's Fusionist mayor and, as such, is the center of much bombastic action. He is short and squat, a tireless worker and a fearless administrator. Joe DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig control youthful enthusiasm in New York. Being homerun hitters and members of the powerful Yankees. they now share the toga that Babe Ruth used to wear. Each is followed in the street by gangs of hero-worshippers, clamoring for autographs.

George M. Cohan, of course, is Broadway's own Yankee Doodle Boy and the most beloved figure in town. Twenty years ago he wrote a patriotic song and last winter Congress got around to awarding him a medal. Playwright, poet, composer and actor, he is also the town's most enthusiastic baseball fan.

Mayor of Harlem Bill Robinson, ebony and girnning, enjoys an exalted place in the heart of Harlem . . . He is the Belt's unofficial mayor, a distinction which he never wearies of talking about. Robinson not only is recognized as a great artist-but as a humanitarian too. He has helped thousands of negro youngsters toward footholds in the theater. Paul Draper thinks he belongs in the class with Nijinski Astaire, and a few others.

Elsa Maxwell, fat and 40, thinks of absurd but always delightful ways for society to entertain itself. Young men in silk hats milking cows, etc. Their idea of roughing it is drinking champagen from tin cups.

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD-The years are so

I. The company was on location for a romantic western film. It was hot, and the makeup on the actors dripped. It was no place to be unless you had to, but the auburn-haired girl on the sidelines didn't seem to mind the heat or anything. She just sat there and watched her husband go through the motions of being remantic and western.

It was funny in two ways. The husband had made his fame as a witty, quick-on-the-uptake master of ceremonies. He'd probably never met horse before. The wife was famous on Broadway but in Hollywood they didn't care. They'd tried her once, and decided she was a fizzle. So she sat on the sidelines, adoring, but still not to happy. No actress s happy on the sidelines .

But it wasn't long before Frank Capra fixed that with "Ladies of Leisure" and started Barbara Stanwyck on an upward path recently climaxed by "Stella Dalls." wasn't long before Frank Fay had it was only a year or so ago that the adoration business declined and Stanwyck didn't take up her option on Fay . . . He's still around, doing well enough in radio and his close friends call him "the most misunderstood guy in Hollywood, a great chap." . And Barbara's going places—in pictures and with Robert

"The Seven Who Fled" (Harper & Brothers, $2.50) were seven Europeans forced to escape for political reasons from Kashgar, a city in Chinese Turkestan.

In writing the story of these seven, Frederic Prokasch won the Harper Prize Novel competition for 1937 and turned out a story rich in color, adventure and though

An aristocrat from England, an exile from Russia, a German and an Austrian, members of a geologi-cal expedition; a fugitive from Bel-gium; a French cosmopolite and his beautiful Spanish life all join the caravan of a wealthy Chinese merchant in the hopes of reaching Shanghai at the end of their flight, At Agsu, the first stop of their journey, circumstances force their paths to diverge.

Again the rich tapestry of the east their stories unfold. Across the Tibetian desert, through the fortresses of the Kunlun mountains, on the broad, yellow Yangtze river, in prison and in plague-ridden cities, each travels his own road, fulfilling his own implacable destiny.

As strange as the land are those that people it. Dark Mongols in soiled brocade, silken-robed Chinese, Kirghiz tribesmen with gray. knife-like eyes and Turks in great boots and shaggy coats shoulder their way through the story. Mr. Prokasch portrays his character's reactions to the fantastic landscapes, and their psychological conflicts with a sure hand, never once relinquishing his objectivity. He pays infinte attention to detail. Phrases of his description catch at your memory.

The happiness of childhood, the exhilirating quality of terror, the power of love and the fascination of death are themes, all woven into the strange mosaic of the novel. Here is a rare book, combining a swiftly moving panorama of travel and adventure with the narrated search of men, each according to his destiny, to find an ultimate understanding of life. It is probably too good to become a best seller.—B. N.
