ADVANCE OF NEW DEAL NOT HALTED, DECLARES BARKLEY

NOTE: While Rodney Datcher is on vacation three pro- and three anti-administration leaders of Congress discuss the future of America's political and economic systems. Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, recently elected majority leader by one-vote margin over Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, opens the argument with a vigorous defense of the New Deal and predictions of its future achievement.

By SEN. ALBEN W. BARKLEY
Written exclusively for Pampa Daily News and NPA Service, Inc.

Where do we go from here? There can be only one answer to this question. The Democratic party which still I am sure retains the confidence of the American electorate, will move steadily forward toward the progressive realization of its pledges to the American people.

Enemies of the Democratic party who have persistently opposed the realization of its popular program are making much of the alleged failure of the last session of the New Deal legislative program.

That is a very superficial view. The first task that confronted President Roosevelt and the Democratic party at the beginning of the session was to obtain the cooperation of the judicial branch of the government in a liberal construction of the Constitution. That was an essential first step before any progressive legislative program could be undertaken.

There Was No Failure That first step was attempted and when the shouting and tumult dies away it becomes evident that there was no failure. The President did obtain a more liberal interpretation of the Constitution. The Supreme Court did take note of the national will. During the past session the Supreme Court gave a new deal to the due process clause, to the commerce clause and to the general welfare clause. Nearly all of the spurious constitutional objections to the New Deal program have been removed.

If these objections had not been removed there is not the slightest doubt that the Democratic party would have taken the necessary legislative steps to remove them. If further objections appear in the next or succeeding sessions of the court, there is little question that the country, with all its new understanding of the realities of the judicial process, will not lightly condone judicial usurpation of the legislative function.

As for the rest of the New Deal program it is not accurate to say that this session of the Congress has been a failure. The housing legislation and the tax-loophole legislation have been passed. Furthermore, the Congress has the rest of the program in well-advanced stages and would have been able to pass it all this session except for the abnormal absorption of time and attention by the Supreme Court issue.

Curb Party Split The wages and hours bill has been passed by the Senate and has been delayed in the House only through a usurpation of authority that is generally deplored and cannot possibly be persisted in when the Congress reconvenes.

The reorganization plan has been reported out of committee in both Houses. The farm program and the regional development program have undergone discussion that will vastly simplify next session's work by the committees to which they have been referred.

But over and above these specific measures the Democratic party has succeeded in the even broader task of beating off attempts to divide the party against itself by those who went down to defeat in 1936 and hope by this means to regain their old powers and their old privileges. Any party with the enormous majorities of the Democratic party in both the Senate and the House has succeeded in the even broader task to expect that kind of attack. It is always subject to an attempt to turn the cities against the farms and the farms against the cities, the north against the south and the south against the north. No one can better understand these attempts than a man from Kentucky where the farm and the city, the north and the south, the old east and the new west all meet.

New Deal Marches On But the Democratic party of today has had too much experience with these attempts of its enemies to divide and rule, to fall victim to them. It has learned from a half century of experience that no sectional party can demand the confidence of the American people. Under the leadership of President Roosevelt, therefore, it has insisted upon the par-

CITATION BY PUBLICATION OF FINAL ACCOUNT. To the Sheriff or any Constable of Gray County—Greeting: Mrs. Myrtle Jones, administratrix of the estate of J. A. Jones, deceased, having filed in our county court her application for partition and distribution of the estate of said J. A. Jones, deceased, numbered 977 on the probate docket of Gray County.

You are hereby commanded, that by publication of this writ one time, 30 days prior to September 13, 1937, in a newspaper printed in the county of Gray you give due notice to all persons interested in the partition and distribution of said estate, to appear and contest the same if they see proper so to do, on Monday, the 13th day of September, A. D. 1937, at the court house of said county in Pampa, Texas, when said application will be acted upon by said court.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, at my office in the city of Pampa, this 1st day of September, A. D. 1937.
CHARLIE THUT, Clerk, County Court, Gray County, Texas.
OLA GREGORY, Deputy.

mount importance of the general welfare.

The Democratic party realizes that politically and economically the welfare of north and south, east and west, city and country, are inextricably bound together, are interdependent, each upon all. And its supporters and leaders are both aware that today the Democratic party expresses the essential unity everywhere of the plain people, willing to live and to let live, as they use government to fight off the exploiters who would destroy the humane and honorable kind of a world in which all honest and tolerant people want to live.

The advance of the New Deal has not been halted. There may be some who have not the courage of their faith. But honest difference of opinion as to the most effective ways and means of accomplishing New Deal objectives must not be mistaken for opposition to New Deal objectives. The onward march of New Deal democracy will not be stopped by those whose cries of split and failure are wishful thinking.

NEXT: Senator Edward R. Burke, Nebraska Democrat who vigorously opposed the administration court plan, warns of the danger of a permanent split in the Democratic party in the second article of six on America's future.

JAPANESE WOULD ELIMINATE GENERALISSIMO CHIANG

TOKYO, Sept. 2 (AP)—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota indicated today that Japan's objective in its undeclared war with China was the elimination of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, premier of China.

Describing Gen. Chiang as "the spearhead of the anti-Japan movement," the foreign minister declared Japan's main objective in China at the moment was the up-rooting of anti-Japanese elements and the reestablishment of cooperation between China and Japan.

On the eve of an extraordinary session of the diet, the major political parties unanimously adopted resolutions of support for government policies.

At a national mass meeting, the parties urged overthrow of the Nanking government and "chastisement" of China.

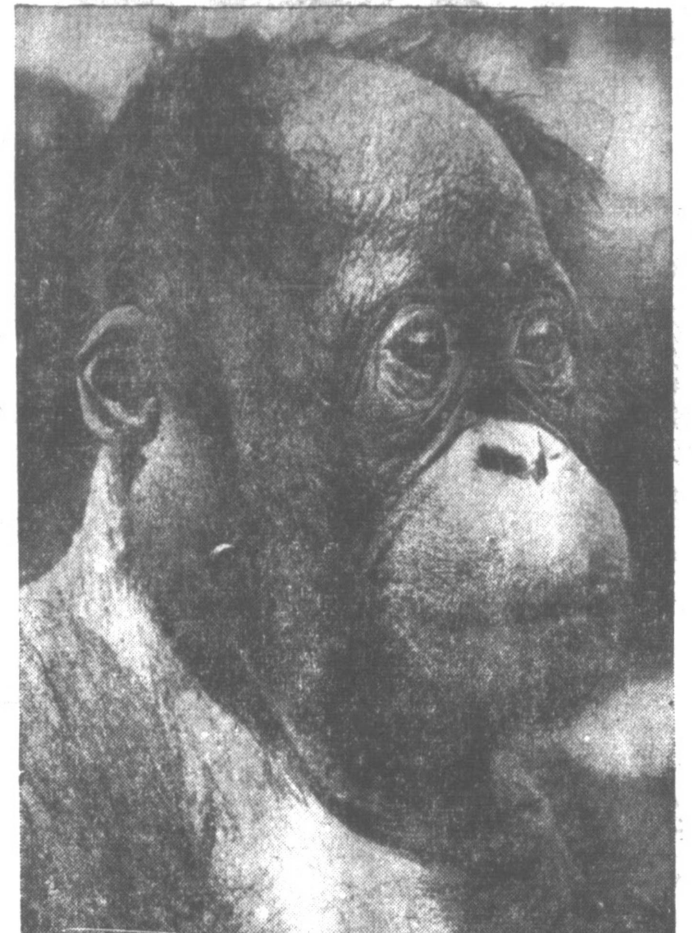

The Tokyo chamber of commerce urged the government to establish central Japanese economic control in which both state and private interests would participate.

Hirota declared that the rights and interests of third powers in China would "be fully respected by Japan." At the same time he invited the powers, "in order that peace may be restored as soon as possible" to refrain from any action which would be likely to prolong the conflict.

He declared that the Japanese blockade of China's coast would not interfere with foreign vessels "with peaceful intentions."

TWINS BORN AFTER MOTHER DIES, LIVE

KINGSVILLE, Sept. 2 (AP)—Infant twins—a boy and a girl—gained strength in this deep south Texas city today although their mother had died before they were born.

The mother, Mrs. Gorge Oonde, 41, wife of a tenant farmer, was brought to the Kleburg County hospital Monday suffering from a heart attack.

As the case grew worse, Dr. D. A. Harrison was called. Dr. C. C. Carrithers accompanied him. "When she died," Dr. Harrison said, "everything was ready, so we just went ahead."

The twins showed effect of their mother's poor circulation immediately after the quickly-performed operation. They responded, however, to efforts to revive them which included brief incubator treatment. The boy weighed four pounds and 12 ounces, the girl five pounds, eight ounces.

Ensuing hours saw the twins reach a state of normalcy, though the girl was thought to be slightly weaker than the boy.

Dr. Harrison, about 35, is a University of Texas graduate. Dr. Carrithers, about 30, is a University of Arkansas graduate.

The two doctors said the case might be the first of its kind in medical history.

A family of printers named Ballard enjoyed a virtual monopoly of music printing in France between 1550 and 1750.

HOLT PUSHES MOVE AGAINST THIRD TERM

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—Senator Holt (D., W. Va.) said today he will seek to record the Senate against a third term for President Roosevelt.

A frequent administration critic, Holt said he would offer the same resolution opposing a third term which the Senate approved in 1928 and the House adopted in 1929.

He noted that nearly a score of Democrats now in the Senate voted nine years ago, when Calvin Coolidge was president, that a third term would be "unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

While Holt took this method of recognizing talk of a third term for the President, there were expressions of doubt from other Democrats that Mr. Roosevelt would seek or accept renomination in 1940.

Senator Tydings (D., Md.) said he "took no stock whatever in the talk of a third term."

"I don't think Mr. Roosevelt wants it," he added.

Before he left the capital after the adjournment of Congress, Senator George (D., Ga.) said he was "confident" that the President at the proper time would declare his position and step aside for another. Unwilling to be quoted directly in speculation in advance of the next campaign, other Democrats said privately they doubted a third term was likely.

'SLINGIN' SAMMY' STARS AS COLLEGIANS CRUSH GREEN BAY PACKERS

TEXAN HURLS PAYOFF PASS IN GRID GAME

By WILLIAM WEEKES.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP)—Samuel Adrian Baugh—"Slingin' Sam" of Texas Christian university—is all the football player anybody ever would be. He is the professional champion Green Bay Packers will have on hand to defeat.

The Packers had heard about Baugh, but they had to wait until last night at Soldier Field, with a throng of 85,560 fans looking on to get it first hand. They became the first professional team to take a beating from an all-star college aggregation, and it was Baugh who was the number one hero of the collegians' 6 to 0 triumph.

The former Texas Christian ace was expected to give Green Bay's Annie Herber quite a battle at passing, but he wound up by outshining his professional rival at throwing the football when the blue chips were down, and did a lot of other things besides.

Early in the first period, Baugh, director of the battle plan laid out by Charles E. (Gus) Dorais of the University of Detroit, head of the All-Star board of strategy, started the one successful thrust of the night, by a quick kick over the Packers goal line. The return boot by Clarke Hinkle, the Packers' great fullback, went out of bounds on the collegians' 48-yard line.

Baugh called two running plays, then electrified the huge crowd by uncoiling the payoff pass of the game, a 20-yard shot to Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State's All-American end. Tinsley caught the ball 28 yards from the Packers goal, executed a "best change of pace" to leave Hank Bruder clawing air, and raced to the touchdown.

Sam Francis, Nebraska's All-American fullback, failed on the try for the extra point, but it was never missed as the All-Stars, with Baugh one of the main characters, played an almost airtight defensive game the rest of the way.

The professional champions tried everything in their bag of tricks to get the extra point back to victory. With Herber firing passes and Geo. Sauer and Joe Laws running with the ball, they outgained the collegians in first downs, 17 to 8, and their best was a rousing 73-yard drive that fell three yards short of a touchdown in the second period.

A 20-yard pass by Herber to his famous battery mate, Duke Carraway, who ran another 20 yards before he was brought down, took the ball to the All-Star 25-yard line. The one packer opportunity was snuffed out, however, when John Drake of Purdue, mallet runner who had managed Herber's fourth down pass on the three-yard line.

Baugh intercepted one of Herber's long shots in the third period and danger. He snatched another in the final session, and on and off, turned in a brilliant exhibition of punting and tackling. Herber was forced out of action in the third quarter by a badly wrenched right shoulder.

In spite of his brilliance on the gridiron, no team in the pro league will have the use of Baugh's remarkable talents. Instead of playing the same for dough, he has signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals as an infielder, and will continue his football to coaching.

Foreign sales of farm equipment from the United States have reached their highest peak since the early part of 1931, government statistics show.

Giants Still Leading Cubs Two Percentage Points

By BILL BONI
(By The Associated Press)

The National league inter-sectional series that were supposed to provide so much of the answer to the still-present question, "Who's going to cop the pennant?" end today.

But as far as any decisive settlement of the issue is concerned everything is as clear as this morning's coffee grounds.

The Giants, back on top by those same two percentage points that separated them from the Cubs on Tuesday night, planned to send Harry Gumbert against the Cardinals in the final engagement of their series that stands deadlocked at one-all as the result of the Terrymen's 7-3 win yesterday.

The Cubs, drubbed by the Dodgers in the second encounter of their three-game set, 6-4, pinned their hopes on Bill Lee in their season's farwell-barring appearance in the world series—to the east.

If anything has been decided during this last week, it is that the Giants are stronger at home than the Cubs are on the road. But this was evident before all the fuss and feathers started flying and besides, the positions will be reversed when the Giants invade the west for the last time twelve days from now.

Since the Chicagoans came east on a four-game lead, they have dropped a doubleheader to the current pacemakers and split two games each with the Bees, Phils and Dodgers.

The Giants, during that time, won two from the Cubs, three out of four from Philadelphia, two straight from the Reds and split two with the Cards.

This morning, the figures read:

New York	72	47	.605
Chicago	73	48	.603

RED MICHAEL AND LIPSCOMB WILL TANGLE MONDAY NIGHT

By BILL BONI
(By The Associated Press)

Who's afraid of the Big, Bad Wolff, says John Nemanic, above, who meets the pug-ugly Frank Wolff in the main event of the wrestling card Monday night. Also scheduled to brawl are Red Michael and Buck Lipscomb, and Indian Ike Caselli and Uno Kiyoshi.

Fans who have already made plans to attend the wrestling matches Monday night needn't be afraid of not getting their money's worth, for one of the best cards of the year has been arranged. Three wrestlers who have not tussled here for a long time will be back in better form than ever, and three grapplers who are always sure to please Pampa crowds will also appear.

Red Michael, local boy who made good, will return to tackle the mighty Buck Lipscomb in the semi-final. Michael is a former high school lad and wrestled here before going away to enter the game professionally. While here, he was well-known as a tough bone-crusher and is supposed to be much better now. Lipscomb of course needs no introduction. Fans who saw the bouts Monday night won't need any urging to come out for one of his matches. Lipscomb is the first, second and third ranking contender for the dirtiest, meanest wrestler, and holds the title now himself. When the Hoosier Hotshot and the Pampa red-head meet, there's something liable to pop!

For the main event, Frank Wolff, the himbale, will wrestle John Nemanic. Wolff, a veteran Samson of the ring, is not known for his ethics, and Nemanic has also been accused of being slightly underhanded in a few bouts on the mat. Wolff is the ugliest and possesses more ring knowledge than Nemanic, but John is no slouch himself when it comes either to bad looks or mat technique.

An unusual preliminary will be presented with wrestlers of two different races meeting. Bill "Indian Ike" Cazell of Amarillo, familiar to fans here, and Uno Kiyoshi, Japanese from San Francisco, are said to be among the best that can be had from those races. Both are fast and strong on the mat.

Bill Terry To Be Highest Paid Manager in 1938

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Win or lose in his current bid to pilot the New York Giants to their third National league pennant in five seasons, Memphis Bill Terry will be baseball's highest-paid manager in 1938.

He will be, that is, unless his neighboring rival, Joe McCarthy of the World Champion Yankees, gets his stipend substantially increased as a reward for present and pending accomplishments.

McCarthy now is getting $35,000 a year to Terry's $27,500, but under the terms of a new five year contract, effective next season, the pilot of the Giants will, it is believed, be paid $40,000 annually.

The only managerial salaries believed to surpass it were those paid to Connie Mack of the Athletics and Terry's predecessor, John J. McGraw, at the height of boom times. Tops at the time was Babe Ruth's $80,000.

Under his new contract, which displaces a five-year document that had one more year to run, Terry will be general manager of the Giants, besides continuing to direct the club on the field.

The formal announcement didn't say so but on the new club stationery it's "William H. Terry, general manager" and there's no doubt Terry is taking full charge of operations, including the rapidly-expanding "farm" system of the Giants. His reported $40,000 salary includes a substantial amount at least $5,000 per year, for superintending the minor league acreage.

TEXAS LEAGUE LEADERS

(By The Associated Press)

The high-flying Oklahoma City Indians, Texas league leaders by a wide margin, last night bowed to the second-to-last Houston Buffs, 2-7, in the first game of a double-header but won the shortened finale 2 to 0.

The loss of one tilt, while the second-place Fort Worth club defeated Beaumont, 4-3, forced the Oklahoma team to postpone clinching the regular season championship.

The San Antonio Missions, who recently slid from second to fourth place, dropped another to the bottom-rung Dallas Steers, 6-2.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
KAY DEARBORN—heroine who inherits a yacht for vacation.
MELITA HOWARD—Kay's roommate and co-adventurer.
PRISCILLA DUNN—the third adventurer.
FORREST BROTHERS and GRANT HARPER—young scientists whose expedition turned out to be a rare experience.

Yesterday: Stepping off at what they believe is Laramore Island, the three girls anchor their little yacht while Kay goes ashore to a lighted cabin. Suddenly they hear Kay scream.

CHAPTER VII

Melita and Priscilla ran toward Kay Dearborn, caught her swaying, hardly able to speak.

"Kay! Kay! What's wrong?"

When she did speak, it was in a tortured whisper. "In there she said, pointing to the window."

Fearfully Melita and Priscilla drew themselves nearer to that window. At first they could make out nothing among the weird and flickering shadows created by a dying fire on the hearth. Then they saw what had brought Kay's scream.

The figure of a woman was slumped half in a chair, half across a small table in the center of the room! One white hand hung loosely, and running slowly from the sleeve and down to the limp fingers was a thin red trickle.

The two girls turned, their faces pale. But Kay had gained possession of herself now. Without a word she started for the door of the cabin and tried the latch. It opened with a sound that seemed to crack the silliness wide open. Wordless and trembling, the three ventured slowly into the half-lighted room.

"Wait!" Kay whispered. Swiftly she bathed the room in the flash-light's glare. There was apparently no other occupant in the one-room cabin. The bull's-eye of the light's beam came to rest on the mantel where a thin trail of gray smoke drifted ceilingward. "Look," Kay said. "Here's a lighted cigar—" and with instinct on the end. She stared at Priscilla and Melita.

The latter found her voice with difficulty. "There—there must be another woman around. The one who—"

she broke off.

"Or this was hers..." Kay nodded toward the inert figure in the center of the room. "This happened only a moment or so ago. The—"

the murderer must be near here now!"

"Let's get out," Priscilla said, moving back toward the door.

And that seemed precisely the thing to do. Feeling that darkness was much safer at that moment, Kay switched off the flashlight. Huddled together they groped down the path toward the beach and the dinghy.

"What'll we do?" Melita asked.

"I—I don't know," Kay admitted. "Let's get back to the boat as fast as we can."

Never had the deck of the little cruiser seemed so solid and so secure as when they returned to it after that awful sight in the lonely cabin. All three sank exhausted in the aft cockpit and stared toward shore where the pane of the cabin window still glowed from the fireplace's reflection.

Suddenly Kay got to her feet. "If that's an island, I'm going to circle it and see if there's another boat around here." Suiting the action to the word, she went forward, heaved up the anchor, and in a moment was at the pilot house controls. Slowly and cautiously the "Chinook" crept along, with every light dead. But they could dimly make out the shorelines—and certainly enough, the body of land was an island. And small. Within a short time the "Chinook" was abreast of the cabin again without having encountered another boat, or any sign of life along the shore.

"Here's what we'll do," Kay said at last, switching off the ignition. "We'll stay right here until morning. Then we'll go ashore again and see what this is all about."

"I move we consider it none of our business and keep moving," Priscilla suggested.

Melita took a middle ground. "We're safe out here, anyhow. Let's take Kay's suggestion and see how we feel in the morning."

"All right," said Kay. "We'll keep a lookout. You two go below and sleep. I'll watch for two hours, then wake one of you up for a little rest of my own."

Following her suggestion, they did keep watch—but the fact was that none slept. The two in the berths below were every bit as wide-awake as the lookout above. Yet at dawn nothing had happened to justify their nocturnal vigilance.

"In the daylight," Priscilla pointed out, "that cabin looks as innocent and peaceful as can be."

Her companions followed her gaze across the water to the wooded island. The small, well-built structure looked indeed idyllic. In the light of day the memory of its interior seemed like a weird dream.

"Well," suggested Kay. "Do we go ashore and have another look?"

"At least in daylight we'll have that satisfaction of seeing who it is taking a shot at us!" Melita hitched up her slacks with a determined gesture. "I'm game to see what this is all about. A murder is a little more than I bargained for on my vacation—but there's a .22-caliber rifle down in the cabin, and I'm not a bad shot!"

Melita's light bravado fooled nobody, not even Melita herself. Nevertheless, the girls climbed into the dinghy and started shoreward, each watching the cabin and the surrounding wood with the keen eyes of a hawk.

The cabin they approached with caution. Melita ahead with her small rifle ready for instant use. Simultaneously they peered thru the cabin window, expecting again the sight that had so unnerved them last night.

The room was empty!

Only a small, tell tale pool of blood indicated that they had not been the victims of some odd hallucination.

"We'll go inside," Kay moved shakily. "You stand near the door, Mel, while Priscilla and I have a look around."

In the light of day the cabin proved to be well appointed. Furniture and accessories were sturdy and in keeping with outdoor life, but were of the expensive variety to be found at exclusive stores. There was no way to tell its exact age, but certainly it wasn't of ancient variety. Curiously, the room was equipped for everything but cooking. There was neither a stove nor pantry, and no evidence of food of any sort. And no trace of the woman could Kay or Priscilla find in their nervous examination while Melita stood guard with the rifle.

"This gets too d-deep for me," Priscilla said, looking at Kay and Melita. "My notion is that we'd better get away and do some cruising—while we're all three young and healthy."

Fort Jefferson, which gives its name to Fort Jefferson National monument, Florida, is the largest all-masonry fortification in the western world.

Melita and Kay were ready to agree. Closing the door of the ominous cabin behind them, they started down the path again, entirely ready to let their part in the strange business be confined to a report to the police. But when they reached the dinghy they were due for a surprise. A great hole had been hacked through the bottom of the dinghy!

YOUNG BRITONS BALK AT ARMY

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP)—Great Britain, confronted by youths who have been taught to hate war, started her troopless season today with 23,000 vacancies in the army.

Britain has done practically everything possible with ingenuity and taxes to bring the army up to its quota of 205,000. But with the foreign battalions marching home today, no one pretended to know how they would be replaced.

A whole series of reforms has been instituted to overbalance the heritage of world war memories and preachments against war in countless educational institutions and books. The reforms admittedly have not been tested thoroughly but there still are no sidewalk jams outside the recruiting offices.

To interest young men in the army as a career, Britain had offered:

—Four meals a day, counting tea; uniforms designed to flutter the most pacific feminine heart; steam heat in barracks; three pence (six cents) extra spending money per fortnight day, and free shaving mugs and canes.

Besides all these, she has offered to let reservists come back to the colors and, with soldiers now in the ranks, qualify for pensions of 14 shillings ($3.36) a week for the remainder of their lives after 21 years of service.

The latest scheme to fill the quota was the boosting of the upper age limit for recruits from 25 to 28 years.

Observers believe the British youth will be won. Where else, they reason, could a young Briton be sure of a steady job for 21 years—not to mention free shaving mugs and canes?

In the 19th century the British army was recruited partly by hunger and partly by the scarlet coat issued when the men signed up. In the 20th century an assurance of an extra meal a day may help.

Fort Jefferson, which gives its name to Fort Jefferson National monument, Florida, is the largest all-masonry fortification in the western world.

Market Briefs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—A new federal agency with different aims—the Farm Security Administration—replaced today the Resettlement administration, stormy New Deal unit founded by Rexford G. Tugwell.

The new agency will direct the longtime and admittedly difficult job of trying to convert some 3,000,000 tenants, sharecroppers and farm laborers into owner-operators.

Secretary Wallace officially ended the Resettlement Administration's such of its projects as will be completed.

He christened the new agency "security" and warned appointees publicly they must live up to its name.

The cabinet member said building of model suburban and rural communities—pet projects when Tugwell was at the helm—will have no place in the new program.

Instead the new agency will concentrate on loans preserving tenants to help them acquire farms and on relief for needy farmers under the broad term of "rehabilitation."

Wallace ordered the new agency to confine its efforts to the loan activities. He picked Dr. W. W. Alexander, former chief lieutenant under Tugwell and his successor as resettlement administrator, to direct the new agency.

Besides the Farm Security administration, Wallace also established a Farmer's Home corporation to handle legal and business affairs of the tenancy program.

Directors of this include Alexander, Harry L. Brown, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Dr. G. G. Black, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics.

The land purchase end of the tenancy program was turned over to bureau of agricultural economics under Dr. Black.

the "active desire" of humans. Monkeys were reported devoid of any signs of this craving.

The chimps would whimper and cry, he said, if an attempt was made to return them to their cages without a "shot" of morphine injection at the time they expected it.

If they were taken into the room where the "shots" were given and then not injected, they would scream, fight and show other signs of rage.

They learned to pick up the morphine syringe to offer it for use on themselves. When hungry they were given the choice of food and the syringe. They usually chose the "dope" in place of food.

Exceptions were when very hungry and at the same time not particularly suffering from lack of morphine.

The chimps were taken off the morphine habit by methods of "withdrawal" similar to human beings. They appeared to be curable the same as humans.

He'd probably have McCarthy hanging on the other knee, anyhow, making cracks. I know just how it would be. I have been taking Bergen's lip from McCarthy for months.

Bergen, out of the city, called Miss Canova by telephone last night. They started arguing and went like that a fast pace that the brunette actress finally hung up.

STOCK MARKET NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Tumbling stocks encountered a small buying cushion in today's market and initial losses of fractions to 3 or more points were reversed, cancelled or converted into moderate gains in late dealings.

Steel, motors, oils, farm implements, rails, coppers and specialties were subjected to considerable pressure in the first hour. The pace was fastest on the close-back period.

Transfers approximated 1,250,000 shares, the largest turnover since July 7.

NO. EIGHT— (Continued from Page One)

met meeting adjourned early this afternoon. One British flotilla, consisting of nine destroyers, now is engaged in Britain's Spanish patrol on the western Mediterranean.

Statement issued The foreign office issued this statement: "A meeting of the ministers over which the chancellor of the exchequer (Sir John Simon) presided was held at the foreign office today, when the current international situation both in the far east and the Mediterranean was considered."

"In view of recent attacks on British shipping it was decided to reinforce the destroyer strength of the fleet in the western basin of the Mediterranean."

"Arrangements have been made for a cabinet meeting next week." The possibility arose that the mysterious submarine that attacked the Havock had been destroyed by the Havock's depth charge.

Members of the Havock's crew at Gibraltar said the destroyer, sighting the approaching torpedo, had zig-zagged and dropped five depth bombs.

Oil Appears Members of the Havock signalled to other British warships and a watch was kept on a 15-mile radius. Soon oil appeared on the surface indicating, the seamen believed, that the submarine had been sunk.

Today British destroyers still were on the trail of this or other submarine aggressors, with permission to sink them if they found them. The attack on the Woodford occurred about 70 miles north of where the destroyer Havock was attacked yesterday. The captain reported the ship sank three hours after she was torpedoed and that the crew took to the boats, arriving at the town of Benicarlo on the west Spanish coast after eight hours at sea.

Formerly under the Greek flag, the Woodford was being transferred to British ownership and was permitted to fly the British flag. The Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome, held a surprise interview with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden before the ministers met.

It was believed their conversation was not in furtherance of Anglo-Italian friendship negotiations which have been proceeding lately. British Exasperated British temper rising over the Mediterranean "piracy" appeared

LEGION LADIES NIGHT BANQUET TO BE HELD

The whole Mediterranean question is due for an airing at a Geneva meeting of the League of Nations Sept 10 where Italy has been accused by the Valencia regime of aggression against Spanish government shipping.

The feeling here was that unless Italy disproved the Spanish charges the future of Anglo-Italian friendship talks would be virtually hopeless.

SONG WRITER DIES. HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2 (AP)—Last rites for Harry McCoy, 43-year-old composer of the "Fagan Love Song" who died yesterday of heart disease, will be held tomorrow.

The American Geographical Society of New York is the oldest geographical society in the country. It was founded in 1852.

Committee in charge of the banquet consists of Frank Culberson,

"LUNG" FLOWN FROM CANADA FOR PATIENT

DENVER, Sept. 2 (AP)—Shirley Krause, 2 1/2-year-old victim of infantile paralysis, was transferred at 7:33 a. m. to the artificial "lung" flown here from Toronto, Canada.

The child, who Monday had rendered Denver's only other "mechanical lung" to Maybelle Outcalt, 15, suffering from the same disease, had been in a precarious condition throughout the night.

The Outcalt girl was unable to breathe outside of the "lung," but Shirley was able to breathe naturally, although with difficulty.

Bagatelle, meaning "trifle" in French, applied to music means a short piece of pianoforte music in light style.
