WHAT IS THE CONDITION of the special road district No. 2 bond fund? This question is best answered by the official statement for the time up to and including the August payments. For public information, this statement of the county is presented herewith:

- Sale of bonds, $400,000.
 - Premium on sale, $21,000.
 - Accrued interest, $4,644.44.
 - Interest payments, $3,124.02
 - Tractor hire, $530.
 - TOTAL, $429,298.46.
- Paid to engineers, $23,568.25.
 - Paid to Prater (contractor), $30,394.28.
 - Paid to Foty (contractor), $44,578.14.
 - Right-of-way and damages, $6,775.59.
 - Traveling expenses, $3,394.
 - Paid to Stuckey, $122,290.27
 - 11.
 - Tractor, $4,959.
 - Legal expense, $1,250.
 - Miscellaneous, $304.35.
 - TOTAL, $237,498.99.
 - Balance in bank 9/10/29, $76,799.47.
 - Highway 33 sewer account, $15,000.
 - Balance in hands of Brown-Crummer company, $100,000.
 - TOTAL, $191,799.47.
- Outstanding contracts, $135,056.08.
 - BALANCE, $56,743.39.

There is considerable doubt of the strict legality of using part of the bond funds for traveling expenses, chiefly to Austin concerning the road situation, and for a tractor. Assuming that these two items, totaling $8,353.11, are reimbursed from the road and bridge fund of the county as legal procedure is said to direct, a balance of $65,096.40 would be available for the final and as yet uncontracted unit—the paving on highway 33 from the west city limits to the Carson county line.

This section of highway 33 is but 60 feet wide, and the traffic is extremely heavy. The roadbed is worn out and there is not enough dirt inside the right-of-way fence to permit proper rebuilding of the crown. Eighty feet of width would be ample, and the cost of this widening would perhaps not be prohibitive. The state asks 100 feet, which would require so much of the slightly more than $65,000 available that the district could not meet its full share for the concrete slab. The $15,000 mentioned in the official statement as being in escrow was set aside as the district share in the grading and drainage, but it was reserved before the 100-foot width was asked by the state.

County officials should use every means for securing an understanding with the state on the right-of-way to the Carson county line, with the end in view of getting the grade made this winter so that the concrete can be poured next summer. Nothing will cause more adverse comment on the part of the public than the stretch of mud along which it was contemplated, when the $400,000 was voted, to place hardsurfacing promptly.

The state highway commission will meet Sept. 17 to let the last contracts it is likely to consider this year. Little for Gray county may be expected at this meeting, but immediately thereafter the commission should be in a receptive mood to consider plans for next year. The commission is eager to have connected paving, and certainly the Pampa-Carson county gap comes under this classification.

An acceptable plan of cooperation with the state should have the district many thousands of dollars. It is regrettable that the differences arising over routes caused the district to have to proceed alone. The state is in better position to let contracts and to supervise the work. Its employees are, or should be, familiar with highway work in all parts of the state. Perusal of the district statement reveals that surely too much was charged for engineering. The present engineer, apparently, will be much underpaid for his efforts in contrast to what was paid previously for work done in connection with the project. There was considerable difficulty and loss of at least several hundred dollars in failing to have a strict contract with the bond buyers. But these things are of the past, while the present affords problems enough.

The bulk of the balance remaining for the highway 33 project was obtained by cutting contracts 20 per cent. This would not have been necessary had the state granted aid in connection with any of the contracts already let. The contracts mentioned in the statement are: Prater, grading and drainage on highways 88 and Borger road; Foty, grading and drainage on highway 33 north from Pampa; Stuckey, paving of highway 88 south and of Borger road and contracts on highway 33 north and on LeFors road. Bridging and grade on highway 33 north from the city was recently completed and must stand during the winter before paving will be possible. The LeFors road has stood longer since grading, and possibly might be ready to stand the slab this fall, weather permitting. A test will be made soon, with the idea of beginning work if possible. Stuckey Construction company has the contract for what probably will be about 2.4 miles of concrete.

The highway paving project of district No. 2 will, therefore, not be finished before next summer. It will be as extensive as the $400,000 voted by the district will permit alone. State and federal aid was once thought certain on two-thirds of the program. This aid has not been granted, except on the Pampa-Carson county lap, where the 100-foot requirement is causing delay. It is not too late to obtain state aid on the roads that may be selected to traverse the county. But if this aid comes at the cost of missing the city, or of skirting the railroad eastward to miss Miami and intervening population, residents of Gray and Roberts will probably continue to refuse it. A score of other counties in Texas are taking similar stands.

WASHINGTON—One of the most certain things about Premier Ramsay MacDonald's visit to Washington is the assurance that the British prime minister won't come unless he and President Hoover have reached a complete naval understanding in advance.

His appearance here is planned as a gesture of agreement between the English-speaking peoples, a felicitous move of probable great moral effect toward world peace. The agreement itself is still being worked out and there is still just a bare chance that no satisfactory conclusion will be reached. In any event, it should be understood that MacDonald has had no thought of coming over here to conclude the unsettled negotiations in person.

MacDonald and Hoover both realize that the British premier's "good will" trip without an agreement would be worse than no "good will" trip at all. The political effect would be bad in both countries and might especially react against MacDonald, whose position is none too strong. The effect on British and American psychology probably would be even more serious.

Laurence Richey, the Hoover secretary, captured a strange beast recently on the Virginia estate where the president goes fishing. Returning from a holiday devoted to firefighting, Richey brought the animal back in a nice clean tin can to find out what it was and dumped it onto Secretary George Akerson's desk for the inspection of Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, who was waiting for an audience with the president.

The critter turned out to be of the crawling variety, about six inches long and less than an inch thick, most fearsome in aspect. The general color scheme was light green and it was armed with horns, claws and talons.

"Don't touch it!" warned Richey to several who gathered around the desk to gaze in awe. Then he attempted to return it to the can with an envelope opener, unsuccessful until Hyde rushed in heroically.

"What are you all so darned afraid of?" he demanded, as he tossed the thing in with a quick swoop.

At last reports the beast was being psychoanalyzed at the Bureau of Entomology.

Among recent political gossip is the rumor that Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Joseph M. Dixon is being groomed to oppose Senator Thomas J. Walsh in the Montana senatorial election next year.

Dixon failed to defeat Senator Burton K. Wheeler last November, losing by some 12,000 votes while Hoover was getting a majority of 35,000 over Smith. There are some reasons, however, why he might have more success against Walsh, despite the tendency in off-years to return Democratic senators where the race is customarily close.

TWINKLES

An oil field worker was heard to complain that he was arrested for drunkenness or vagrancy every week-end when he came to town, so he has decided to get drunk just to justify the procedure. If he is telling the truth this column would be glad to furnish a chaperon. You cannot distinguish a "vag" by the condition of his clothing and cleanliness of his skin. We saw a prominent citizen trying to extricate his car from a mud hole, and he looked "vag-ish" enough to satisfy anybody.

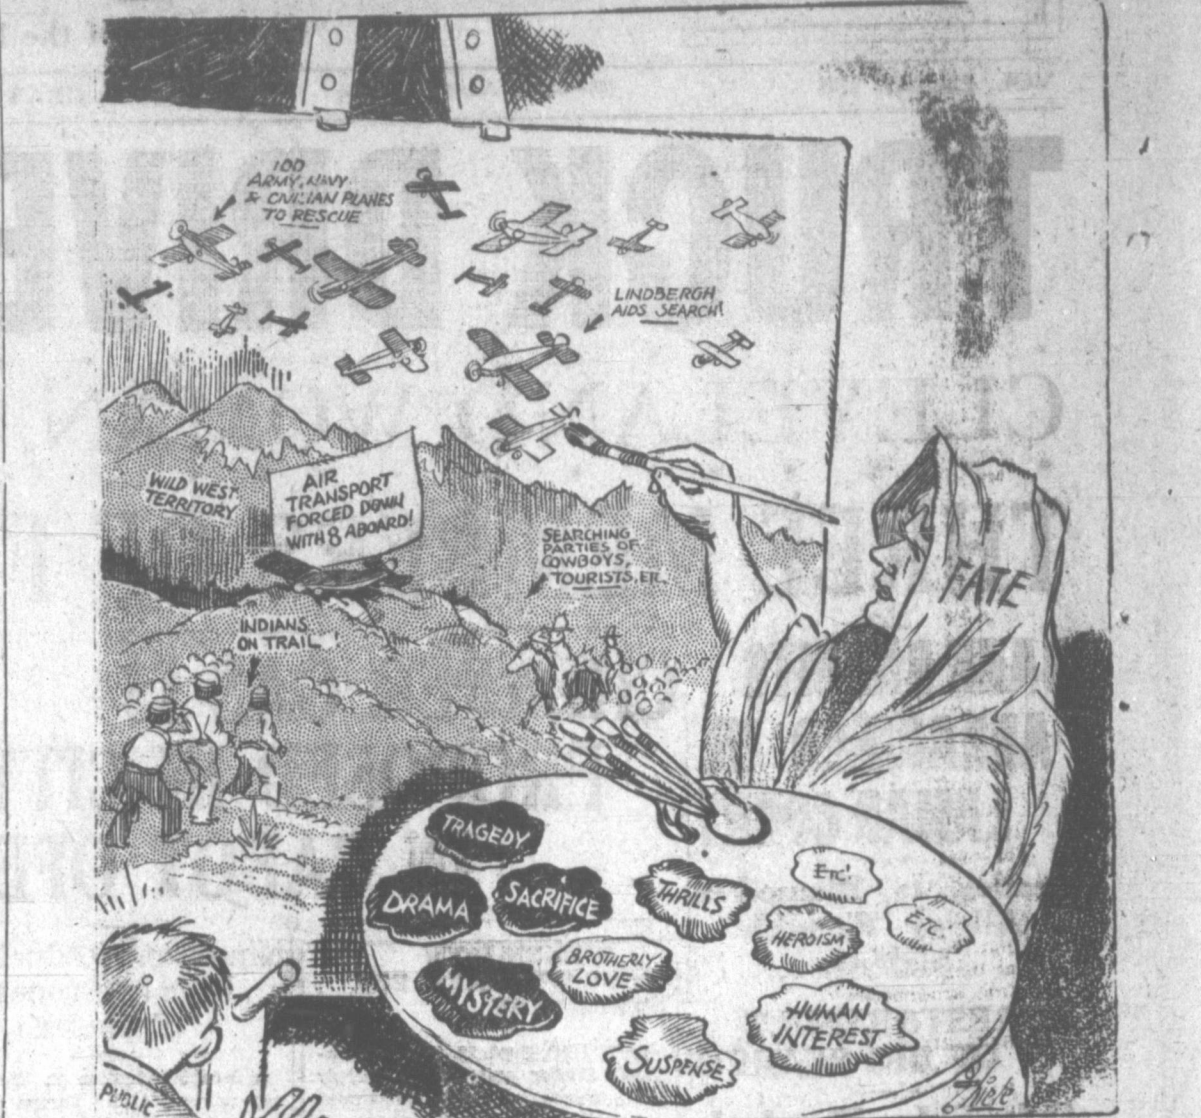

A new encyclopedia and a new dictionary are just off the press. We must consult them to find out if we are butchering the English tongue or are to be commended for adopting certain new words in our conversation.

The American tongue is creating new words at the rate of more than one a day, and the critics are accepting many of them to the discomfiture of conservative English teachers who look to the past, rather than the present, for anything worthy of approval.

Needing a fall tonic? Then get out of your routine habits and cheer the Harvesters along tomorrow afternoon. They may need your inspiration, for the Estelline lads are very much feared on the South Plains.

If you do not believe Pampa is getting to be quite a city, take a look at the pupils that are crowding local school buildings to the brim. Thirty pupils to the room is the recognized ideal, but what would you call it when there are as many as eighty-five?

Moose Lodge Holds Open Session and Presents Program
Members of the Moose lodge and their friends were entertained at an open session at the IOOF hall Tuesday evening with a program of pleasing variety. Short addresses were made by Frank Henry, local dictator; Jack Cooper, secretary; W. E. Hardip, Walt Newton, E. G. Lambert, Robert Followell, H. C. Hart, and F. E. Smith.
Tom Christian and Roy Brunley sang a group of popular songs, playing their own accompaniment on the guitar and ukulele. They also furnished music for clever tap dances given by Jake Milliken. A dialectic monologue, "Lavinia's Wedding," read by Scott Barcus, was a popular number.
Mrs. Rex Taylor, representing the women's branch of Moose Legion, made an interesting address. Later two cakes were sold at auction for the benefit of the organization. Refreshments were served during the social hour following the program. Officials of the lodge said the delightful event was one of many open sessions planned for the fall and winter months.

HOLLYWOOD—It is an old theme, this "one-screen-this but off-screen" tale of movie folk, yet the roving reporter in Hollywood almost daily encounters an illustration worthy of more than passing mention.

Therefore, meet Belle Bennett, and get the shock of your fan-life. You remember her, probably, as "Stella Dallas," that glorification of self-effacing mother love which gave her place in Hollywood's hall of the "arrived." In the four years since that was released she has appeared only in mother roles, usually as a more or less aged mother.

But in life her hair is not white, but golden; nor is her face a network of wrinkles and crow's-feet. She is, as movie ages go, a young woman. Her greeting is youthfully hearty. In the grey smiling eyes broods the shadow of sadness—recently she lost a son, and her life, her friends confide, has had more than its share of tragedy.

Glad Of It

Miss Bennett is devoutly religious, and probably more serious in her spoken views on work and play and life than Hollywood ordinarily allows. She takes little part in the usual Hollywood social life. Practically all her entertaining is done aboard her new yacht, to which she slips away between pictures to rest and read and study.

She is far from "old." Yet she is glad she can "play mothers." She has been rehearsing lately for another maternal role.

Rewards

"Stella Dallas" typed me," she says, "but I have always been that way. My father, when I was just a child, used to call me 'Mother.' I'm glad for mother parts. Why? The aged or middle-aged mother, skipping herself for her children's sake, often is unattractive and unloved by those children, because she is dowdy herself, for love of them. And unappreciated.

"So every time I am given the opportunity to portray such a character, sympathetically, I feel that I am helping a little to make such mothers better loved and understood by their husbands and children. Many letters I have received from patrons bear me out. Yes, I'm glad."

Clara Bow is planning an European vacation in October, and she indicated she may go alone or, rather, as Miss Dow and not as Mrs. Harry Richman.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard E. Taylor went to Amarillo yesterday.

Brilliant Group Acts Picture of Stage Sensation

"Like a story dripping with human interest in an atmosphere that everyone likes to hear about, give it a cast of fine, trouping, magnetic actors and a production that puts into it every possible value and you get a picture like "Gentlemen of the Press," Paramount's latest all-talking drama of newspaper life which the Rex theatre will feature Friday and Saturday.

On the stage "Gentlemen of the Press" was the sensation of New York and the story has been faithfully reproduced for the screen. A master cast headed by the incomparable stage artist, Walter Huston, includes six members of the original stage cast.

The story deals with a veteran newspaperman who has given up everything in life for his business. When his daughter was born, he was covering a prize fight; when his wife died, he was on assignment covering a Mexican uprising; when his daughter graduated from high school he was writing about Lindbergh. The only thing he has not given up is his fatal susceptibility for a pretty woman.

It is this character that Walter Huston portrays on the talking screen in "Gentlemen of the Press." It is this thrilling story that will entertain and delight patrons of the Rex theatre.

Program Numbers Are Announced for Club Luncheon

Entertainment features of the A. A. U. W. and College club's first fall luncheon, scheduled for 12:15 o'clock Saturday at the Schneider hotel, were announced today.

Mrs. F. Lee Hill, head of the expression and dramatic art department of Central high school, will give a reading, after which she will discuss possibilities for a Little Theatre in Pampa. Miss Audrey Noel, talented young soprano, will sing a solo.

During the business session at which Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, president, will preside, the projects committee will submit plans for approval and the members of other standing committees will explain the functions of their departments.

New Bridge Club Entertained at Hollenbeck Home

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hollenbeck opened their home last evening for the first party of a new bridge club, which so recently made its bow among the social groups of the city that it has not yet a name.

A chrysanthemum motif was featured in card table accessories, and bouquets of beautiful blossoms lent the house added charm. Yellow was predominant in the color scheme of the dainty refreshment menu.

At three tables the players were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gribbon, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Broughton, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. John I. Peake, and the host and hostess, Mrs. Broughton scored high for women, and Mr. Peake for men.

Her on the program. She read also "A Waterfowl."

The poet's thoughts on life and death, as expressed in some of his most famous works, were discussed by Mrs. C. C. Cook. Mrs. C. M. Brown told of Bryan's indebtedness to Wordsworth, closing her interesting talk by reading "Thanatopsis."

The following members were present for the initial meeting: Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. C. P. Buckler, Mrs. T. D. Hobart, Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, Mrs. Carson Loftus, Mrs. Dave Popper, Mrs. W. Purviance, Mrs. Charles Thut, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Bryson, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Craven, and Mrs. Todd. They were guests of Mrs. McDonald for a pleasant social hour following the program.

Many Officers Are Involved in Shake-down Ring

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12. (AP)—Two police sergeants and a patrolman were under arrest, nine warrants were waiting to be served and another was withheld here today as the result of a "shakedown ring" composed of police officers had collected thousands of dollars in bribes from Los Angeles bootleggers in five years. The investigation was undertaken ten days ago by District Attorney Buron Pitts, upon information furnished by J. B. Westman, alias Harry D. MacDonald, confessed bootlegger and police "payoff man." Sergeants Harry M. Hill, and Leonard S. Sale, and Patrolman Thomas B. Washburn, of the vice detail, were arrested last night. Washburn later was released on $10,000 bond. Westman, when arrested ten days ago, confessed to bootlegging activities over a period of six years, during which his business totaled, he said, more than half a million dollars. He told District Attorney Pitts he was "sick and tired of being shaken down" by the police.

Alleged Robber Held in Kansas

HUGOTOWN, Kas., Sept. 12. (AP)—William Trotter, 32, held here for Galveston, Texas, officers in connection with a $6,500 payroll robbery last May, and other Texas charges, today announced he would resist efforts at extradition.

He obtained an attorney last night and withdrew a waiver of extradition he previously had signed, Undersheriff E. Jones, of Stevens county, said.

Others Implicated in Bank Fraud

NEW CASTLE, Wyo., Sept. 12. (AP)—Seemingly unconcerned as to his future, C. D. Waggoner, president of the small bank of Telluride, Colo., awaited quietly in his cell here today the next action of federal authorities who charge him with a half million dollar fraudulent financial coup.

Unconcerned by the furore caused by his manipulations which placed to his credit $500,000 belonging to six New York banks, through receipt of faked telegraphic orders, Waggoner told of his financial dealings.

Meanwhile, Preston T. McAvoy, county attorney, was en route to Denver with information which he expected to aid authorities there who are investigating the Denver angle of the case that baffled authorities and amazed the financial world. McAvoy indicated his information implicated Denver persons in Waggoner's deal.

Real Oldtimer to Play in Contest

A really old-time fiddler is Horace D. Jones, 73, who will play "Golden Slippers" at the Fla-Mor's second annual old-time fiddlers contest which will be held at the Fla-Mor auditorium Friday night. Mr. Jones possesses an ancient fiddle, valued at $2,900, and he plays some tunes that are as ancient as any ever played in America.

J. J. Denebeim announces that he has received 30 entries from almost every town in the North Panhandle and some from the South Plains. He says when Eck Robinson, Sam Anderson and Babe Barker compete against each other it's going to be a real contest. An added attraction will be David Mahuka, native Hawaiian and Jack Burns of Panhandle, former Keith vaudeville circuit Hawaiian duet.

SPORT SLANTS Alan J. Gould

Tommy Loughran may furnish no lurid fireworks but if he gets Jack Sharkey in their September 26 engagement he will be distinctly in the forefront of contenders for the vacated championship. Loughran had plenty of endurance at 175 pounds. He can pack on ten more pounds to advantage and make no concessions to any rival, for the Philadelphian is unquestionably the cleverest and fastest of any of the big fellows. He won't be 27 until this November. Tunney was 28 when he beat Dempsey for the title.

Victoria Campolo, the Argentine sensation, has a moderate amount of skill, a terrific body punch and plenty of courage in his 223 pounds, distributed over a frame of six and a half feet. In victories over DeKuh and Heeneey, the South American impressed critics as being more formidable than the loudly ballyhooed but temporarily exiled German puncher, Max Schmeling.

With Campolo, Loughran and Sharkey, in addition to Schmeling and possibly Phil Scott, there will be material enough to keep the heavyweights division lively this winter, in New York as well as Miami, Detroit, Boston and Chicago.

There seems no apparent reason to include Young Stribling in the picture, yet the agile Georgian again may represent the South in the next battle of the breezes in Florida. Stribling has tossed away too many chances to crash the heavyweight gate to be given much consideration, but for that matter so has Sharkey, still fumbling for recognition.

For sheer, raw courage, the comeback of Campolo is as remarkable as anything his predecessor, Luis Angel Firpo, ever turned in. Campolo, a crude beginner, was knocked out by Monte Munn, the ex-Nebraska college and legislator, at Beunos Aires in May, 1928. Within a few seconds after the match started, Campolo was stretched on the canvas by a smashing blow to the head. He took a nine count, got up and managed to weather the storm until the ninth round in spite of a terrific battering. The big

Talks To Parents

By ALICE JUDSON PEALE

To millions of children, music means jazz. The only songs they know are the words of jazz tunes. There is little in these that can exercise a happy influence on the growing child.

The words are vulgar and sentimental, the rhythms, however excellent they may be for dancing, merely echo or accentuate the quality of the words. Children who hear little else grow up starved for the fine, hearty tunes and the gay, friendly words which should constitute for them a large part of their musical experience.

Some children are lucky. From the schools they had attended and the background of their own homes they bring a store of pleasant songs.

At a certain camp the boys and girls sometimes sing from seven in the evening until it is time to go to bed. They know nonsense songs by the score—silly, irresponsible words and music of which they never seem to tire.

The happier of the negro spirituals they sing with a joy in the rhythm and the rich, simple words. They know dozens of old English folk songs, simple ballads, most of them, sung to quaint and charming melodies. They sing each one from beginning to end, whether there are three stanzas or 30, and they faithfully repeat each refrain. They know many of the songs from "Pinafore," "The Pirates of Penzance," and "Iolanthe."

What sort of songs do your children sing? If it seems to you that their repertory is not all it might be, make up your mind to think of the children next time you go into a music store. If you browse and inquire a little you will surely unearth the sort of music they will really love to sing. Bring home with you some English folk songs or the score of a Gilbert and Sullivan opera crowd around you to learn songs which, if they were not so delightful to grownups, one would say had been written especially for children.

Rains Will Be of Crop Benefit Despite Tardiness

AUSTIN, Sept. 12. (AP)—Heavy rains since September 4 will be beneficial to crops not yet made, H. H. Schutz, administrator with the United States department of agriculture, said in a report issued today.

"Owing to the long duration of drought conditions during August have not been as good as usual," he said. "Cotton in Texas on August 1, had good prospects for a fair crop except in portions of the south, but the extremely high temperatures and lack of rainfall during the month caused deterioration seldom equaled in rapidity or severity. Insect damage over the south half of the state has been rather injurious, while other areas have suffered only nominal losses.

"Corn condition is reported at 60 per cent of normal compared with 74 per cent a year ago and a production of 99,162,000 bushels. This year's crop points to 81,550,000 bushels.

"Sowing of fall wheat has begun in the northwest district, and it is expected the acreage this fall will exceed the 2,567,000 acres sown last fall.

"The condition of grain sorghum is 50 per cent of normal as compared with 68 per cent on August 1 and 75 per cent a year ago.

Rodeo and Labor Day Parade Films Being Shown Now

Hundreds of Pampanos are in the movies now.

Bill Jackson's Panhandle Production company staff filmed the Labor Day parade and the American Legion rodeo and will show the reels today and tomorrow at the Crescent Theatre, which has been rented for the two days.

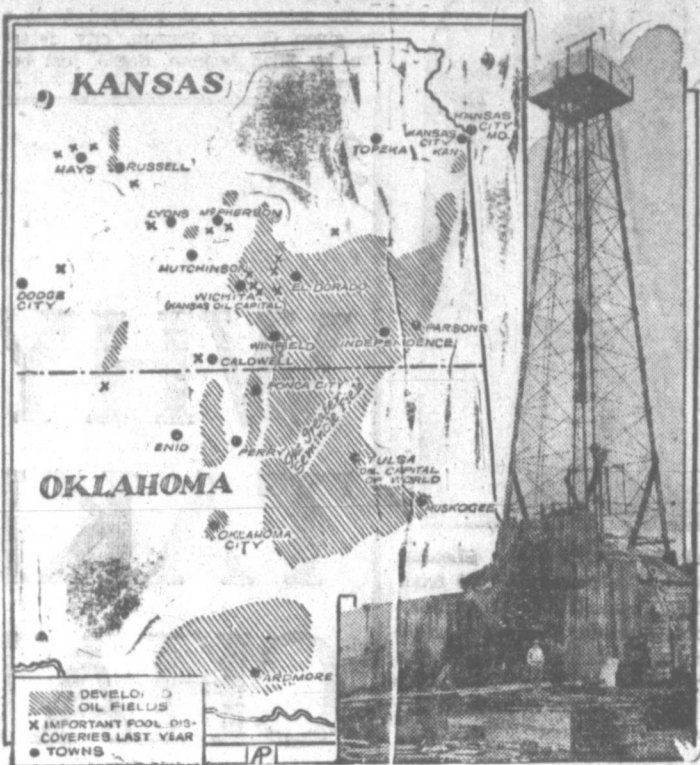

Twenty-two hundred feet of film was used in making the local picture, which is called "Scratch 'em Cowboy." Since the entire parade was "shot" and the rodeo audience was included, many local persons will see themselves on the screen. The Crescent opens at 1:45 p. m. daily and has six performances.

The usual Crescent pictures also will be shown. Jack Daugherty is being featured in "The Body Punch."

SPOUTING KANSAS OIL PROMOTES STAMPEDE OVER HALF OF STATE

Kansas has a new oil rush. The map shows the Kansas field in relation to the Oklahoma oil districts.

WICHITA, Kas. (AP)—A new arrow on the nation's oil map points beckoningly to Kansas, where a "black gold rush" has brought a drillers' stampede to nearly half the state's 105 counties.

About 125,000 barrels of oil are spouting daily from almost 500 wells in 51 counties. More than 100 rigs were built in June under pressure of the wildcatter's advance. New producers are found daily in southern and western Kansas.

The plains' country stands expectantly on the brink of a new industrial era. There is a feverish search for oil. More than 200 wells are being drilled.

The state's production is centered around the Sedgwick county-Wichita field, whose 90 wells pour out 35,000 barrels daily. Much of the oil play, however, is scattered over townships where residents never dreamed of sudden riches.

Latest reports show a daily average of 121,210 barrels a day from all Kansas fields. This lacks only a few hundred barrels of the mark reached 11 years ago when El Dorado's field was a sensation.

Outstandingly productive is a wildcat well, miles from any other field, near the old cattle town of Caldwell. For three months this phenomenal well has flowed "natural" with a half a million cattle passed north through there—and cowboys "relaxed" 1,000 barrels a day.

That discovery was Caldwell's biggest discovery since 1871, when nearly half a million cattle passed north through there—and cowboys "relaxed" so vigorously that a Wichita weekly newspaper tersely bulletined: "As we sit in prison hall is again in session at Caldwell."

Studebaker PRESIDENT EIGHT sets New Stock Car Record in 1929 Pikes Peak Climb!

Adds famous Penrose Trophy to 11 world and 23 international record.

A strictly stock, fully equipped Studebaker President Eight, driven by Glen Shultz, set the fastest stock car time in history up Pikes Peak, to win the Annual Penrose Trophy Race. Another triumph for Studebaker, holder of more official stock car records for speed and endurance than all other American cars combined! The Pikes Peak Climb was sanctioned, timed and checked by the American Automobile Association, as was The President's famous run of 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes. Studebaker's President Eight covered the 12 miles and 2200 feet to the summit of Pikes Peak, 14,109 feet above sea level, in 21 minutes, 43.4 seconds. Average speed was 34.3 miles per hour. 154 breath-taking curves make this a supreme test of balance and handling ease. You can buy a duplicate of the Pikes Peak President from any Studebaker dealer. The SHINING TALENT By ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MOLLY BURHAM, with a couple of shows on Broadway, and more money than she knows what to do with, decided to ask JACK WELLS to marry her.

Jack missed the sarcasm. "She's a wonder!" he pronounced solemnly. "I'd like to have you meet her, Molly. You'd like her a lot. And I'd certainly like to show you her summer place. I re-modeled it last season. You'd be crazy about it. Maybe," he laughed rather mirthlessly.

"I've something to ask you," she announced, when the last waffle had disappeared. "Shoot!" he commanded. "I ought to be getting up to the office pretty soon."

"You've cramped my style!" she pouted. "It's very important. You mustn't hurry me. Besides, I'm embarrassed."
"You're blushing!" he accused.
"Maybe I am. I feel like bursting a blood vessel," she admitted.

"I don't blame you for anything," she told him proudly. It is quite enough, Jack, that you do not care to marry me. You really needn't lecture me. With your declination of my preposterous proposal, we will let the matter drop."

"You're late now," she reminded him. "Grab a taxi, and go ahead. I want to telephone, and I might as well do it from here."

"Somehow she was keeping the tears out of her voice. In another moment, if he did not leave her, she would break down."

THE looked at his watch absently. "All right," he said. "I've getting late. I suppose I'd better be getting along."

"Good luck," she said. "You have all the luck," he told her.
"See," she agreed. "I have all the luck. Goodby, Jack."

"Oh, go!" she cried. "For goodness sake, go!"
Her eyes were blinded with tears, but before she could wink them away, he had gone. And there was only a patch of sunshine in the place where he had stood.

Well, she would go back to Boston. She would move away from her beautiful apartment. She would bury herself somewhere in the country. She would devote her whole life to Rita. And never, never love anybody else so long as she should live.

She would be a hermit—that was what she'd be! She'd show Jack Wells how little she cared for adulation. Excitement. Crowds. Fame. That was what he said. He said she was that way. She'd show him!

And then, some day, the time might come when he would want to marry her. When he would give anything in the world to have her. And then—oh, she'd let him come crawling on his knees. That was what she'd do! She would scorn him, as he had scorned her.

"Oh, God, I love him! I love him so! Jack! Jack! Why did you leave me, dear!"
For weeks Molly avoided Bob and Red. She changed her mind about submitting the apartment, and taking a place in the country. She even changed her mind about being a hermit. She would be a man-hater instead. She'd treat them like the dirt beneath her feet. She'd make them pay and pay for all the misery they caused women.

Then she had another idea. She would gather the tragic tales of the world's great lovers—Juliete and Tristran—Dante and Beatrice—Paola and Francesca—Anthony and Cleopatra—Abstarid and Heloise—why, they were all tragedians. And she would write of them tenderly and understandingly. For the exquisite delight and pain of all women who had loved and lost. She went to the library, and came home with her arms full of books. And that evening, while she was reading them, Bob came, unannounced, to call.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON—Life is that way—

Take Claudius Hart Huston for instance, the man who will be the next chairman of the republican national committee. Something like that happened to him. He might have been an unheard of school teacher or college professor today if things had broken a little differently for him. Instead he is one of the country's recognized big business men and is soon to take over one of the biggest political jobs in the United States.

Huston was hardly 16 years old when he was appointed a substitute school teacher in Harrison county, Indiana. He was just past 16 when he was granted a certificate as a full-time teacher in the same county.

Born a son of one of the pioneer Presbyterian ministers in Indiana, young Huston earned enough money to pay for his tuition and books and conclude his education at Valparaiso, Ind.

Then he decided to stake his chances for success in the south, and set out for Chattanooga, Tenn. For something like two years he served as an instructor and officer in the Chattanooga normal school.

A short while later he became interested in a business college and ran it with considerable success. His original methods of teaching business principles and ethics attracted attention.

The Turning Point

It was the turning point in his life. In 1900 a group of men got together in Chattanooga and organized a machinery company. When officers were being selected someone thought of the young business school teacher and suggested that he would make a good secretary and treasurer for the company.

Huston was approached and offered the position. He accepted, and thus began a career that has brought him to the front rank of business leadership and wealth.

Back in Chattanooga Huston is known as an organizer. His friends say that even in his early days as a business man he would take over small and large concerns in deep financial water and bring them to the shore of financial responsibility and respectability. One remembers in particular a little print shop that he snatched from the brink of financial ruin and put back on its feet.

He is also an avowed apostle of good

Texas Girl Christens New Cruiser

roads. Much of the man's energy in recent years has been exerted toward making the highway system of the south equal to any in the country.

A Male Deb

The capital's smart set was treated to a brand new idea recently. And it can't decide whether it likes it or not. Mme. Samy Pasha, wife of the Egyptian minister to the United States, formally presented her brother to society in much the same way that a debutante would be introduced.

Tea tables are still buzzing over the event.

A congressman easy to pick out in a crowd:

Rep. Robert A. Green of Florida, because he dresses like a Kentucky colonel, even to a white 10-gallon hat, white shoes and flowing black artist's tie.

Daily News want-ads bring results.

TAXING AROUND THE AIRPORTS

The Charleston, S. C., municipal airport, which gives promise of becoming one of the best in the south, has been cleared and graded. Two runways are now available. The installation of ground markers on the building of hangars and shops is to begin at once. Additional ground will be cleared and graded during the winter, making an all-way landing area of 3,000 feet by 3,200 feet.

A test of sprinkler equipment for fire protection in airplane hangars will be made at Middletown, Pa., September 16, by a committee appointed by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The sprinkling apparatus is being installed in a hangar donated for the test by the army air corps. An old airplane will be set on fire in the hangar.

A beacon and landing flood lights have been placed in operation at the Grosse Ile combined seaplane and land plane airport at Detroit. Places are being prepared for seaplane and land-plane hangars and for the administration and other buildings. The Curtiss Flying service has completed its first hangar unit at the airport and is ready to start work on the second.

The 200-acre municipal airport acquired by Cadillac, Mich., has been cleared and graded and is available for aircraft operation. Facilities, including hangars, shops and lighting equipment, are to be installed soon. The city is preparing ordinances to control flying activities and to standardize fees and rentals.

The department of commerce has received requests for airport ratings from the cities of Houston and El Paso, Tex. and Denver, Colo. Several airports are being inspected by department of commerce airport experts and ratings will be announced as soon as the work is completed.

Work on the Buffalo, N. Y., municipal seaplane port on the Niagara river will start early in September and it is expected to be available for use before winter.

Tear Bombs Are Thrown at Mob in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12. (AP)—Use of tear gas bombs by police and a United States deputy marshal in dispersing a crowd at the scene of a street car dynamited last night three hours after the local car men's union rejected a tentative strike settlement today brought sharp criticism from Acting Mayor T. Semmes Walmsky, a victim of the gas.

"The bombing was outrageous, and under no condition will we tolerate such affairs," he declared, "but I consider the conduct of the United States marshal and the police just as reprehensible in throwing tear gas bombs into the crowd. One landed within two or three feet of me. I saw one thrown at the feet of a woman with a baby in her arms."

The crowd, including the mayor, was attracted to the scene as the members left a neighborhood political meeting seeking city drainage relief from rains. The dynamite cracked a car wheel, but the crew and passengers, a white woman and two negroes, were uninjured. Police threw gas bombs when bricks hurled from the crowd smashed in the car windows.

Four sticks of dynamite were discovered on the Tulane belt tracks three hours later by Motorman U. S. Langston, who stopped his car in time to avert an explosion.

With the board of directors of public service declaring it would complete its organizations by filling 400 positions previously held open pending settlement of the strike, the city was faced with an indefinite traction strike called July 2.
