Sweet peas in varied shades and a profusion of ferns and greenery lent an atmosphere of springtime to the house.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Corner Francis and Warren
Repentance is something that God has required of sinners in every dispensation. The prophets preached a turning away from sin and a turning unto God. John the Baptist and Christ preached repentance in the Jewish dispensation. The apostles in the Christian dispensation preached a repentance as the second step in becoming a Christian. Let us remember the language of our Savior: Luke 12-2, "I tell you, Nay; but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."

Salvation Army Drive Is Nearing Goal of $2,400

The Salvation Army drive for funds was almost "over the top" last night. While several solicitors had not reported their collections, a total of $2,300 had been raised. The goal had been set at $2,400. Every indication was that the remaining $100 would be accounted for when full collections are turned in.

The budget for the year is $4,000. Of this amount, $1,600 was raised for relief work during January. The Salvation Army now has $3,500 on hand to finance the year's work. About $800 has been spent in the last two months.

Ensign Edgar King of the Salvation Army says that the Army had as many relief cases last week as during the January blitz. Many of these cases were transients who arrive here penniless and hungry and immediately ask the Salvation Army for assistance.

Ensign King reports there has not been much improvement in the employment situation, but that many are expecting a strong resumption of activities in the oil fields next week.

Carson Pool Is Oil Dilemma of Panhandle Area

Almost perfect quiet brooded over the oil fields of Gray county last week while the production was increasing 2,333 barrels daily as a result of the heavy production brought in during the previous week. A single completion was made in the week ending Feb. 27, Texas company's No. 20 G. H. Saunders was shot in with 180 quarts and had a daily production of 45 barrels.

The inactivity in the field was not applicable to the officers of major companies where the oil tariff and proration for Carson county was being discussed.

Independents, who have taken the lead in restricting drilling and proration, are now planning to nip the new Carson county oil pool west of Cuyler in the bud. Development of this pool at this time can ruin the whole Panhandle picture, the independent operators aver.

The proration meeting next Tuesday is not coming too soon for consideration of the Carson county problem. Although Empire Gas and Fuel company is opposed to exploration of the field and tried to forestall extensive drilling by leasing most of the territory, other companies have managed to acquire enough leases to compel the drilling of a score of wells.

In addition to the tariff and Carson county worries, many oil men of the Panhandle are expecting another cut in the price of crude oil. The big companies are beginning to show their teeth in their fight to wipe out the independents, they assert. The cut is expected in the first part of March.

Representatives of all companies will gather at the Schneider hotel Tuesday to discuss further proration for Gray county and restricted drilling for Carson county.

The two Gray county locations in the past week were No. 6 and No. 7 Wright, Magnolia Production company, section 13, block 3.

Daily production of counties compared with the previous week follows: Carson—197 wells, producing 9,381 barrels, a loss of 512 barrels. Gray—517 wells, producing 54,921 barrels, an increase of 2,333 barrels. Hutchinson—968 wells, producing 23,518 barrels, a loss of 1,306 barrels. Moore—19 wells, producing 739 barrels, an increase of 138 barrels. Wheeler—38 wells producing 614 barrels, a gain of 130 barrels.

Total production, 89,172 barrels, an increase of 182 barrels.

Konjola Makes Good After All Else Failed!

St. Louis Lady Glad to Relate Her Fine Experience With New and Different Medicine

MRS. DORA BAUER

Konjola is a different medicine simply because it scores victory after victory in cases that have defied and resisted all medicines and treatments tried. This is not a boast. It is a fact established and proved in thousands of cases like that of Mrs. Dora Bauer's, 3403 St. Vincent avenue, St. Louis. Read her grateful words:

"How I wish that every sufferer from neuritis could know what Konjola did for me. For ten years I endured agonies from this awful ailment. I had to keep my arms wrapped tightly to ease the pain. My digestion was bad, too, and this weakened me, making me still easier prey for neuritis. I can not remember how many medicines and treatments I tried, but found nothing to give relief, until I found Konjola. In just five weeks this remarkable medicine restored digestion, rid my system of poisons and impurities, and then the neuritis left as if by magic. What a boon Konjola proved to be to me. No wonder Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends. It should have a billion."

Konjola is sold in Pampa at City drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Adv.

Markets

Farm Board Helps
CHICAGO, March 1. (AP)—Rallied by purchasing operations ascribed to Farm Board allies, prices of March and May wheat contracts here recovered sharply today from early severe downturns. July and September contracts finished at material losses. The chief apparent source of today's weakness in wheat values was heavy deliveries on March contracts at Liverpool, together with dearth of new-export demand for wheat from North America.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1-8 — 1 5-8c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 1-4c higher, oats 1-8-3-4c up, and provisions showing 7-10c decline.

The outcome of the market as a whole was largely determined by purchasing of about 2,000,000 bushels of May wheat for government sponsored agencies.

Lamb Prices Crash

KANSAS CITY, March 1. (AP)—(United States Department of Agriculture)—Livestock trade around the eleven-market circuit today was featured by a liberal movement of fed lambs with prices slumping to new low levels for the season. Fat lambs generally were 75-1.00 under a week ago, while mature classes of sheep shared a portion of the decline on lambs. Chicago had a late top of 10.85 on choice light weight lambs. The supply approximated 324,000, an increase of 38,500 over last week and 46,500 heavier than the same period a year ago.

Hogs closing values unevenly 25-45c under a week ago with a late top of 11.15 at Chicago. Offerings 594,400 against 573,851 last week and 580,758 a year ago.

Fed steers strictly choice, along with fat light yearlings held steady. Other killing classes weak to unevenly lower. In between grades of steers at most centers closed 25-50c lower and material losses were taken by slaughter cows and bulls. Receipts 167,000, exclusive of 44,000 calves, a decrease of 7,000 from last week but 17,500 heavier than a year ago.

THE TARIFF FIGHT MAY OR MAY NOT BE LOST. REMARKABLE PROGRESS WAS MADE BY THE INDEPENDENT OIL AND LAND MEN WHO WAGED A CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

It was a hard fight from the first, and Wirt Franklin and his helpers had little assistance from Congressmen for a considerable time. If those who eventually came into the fold continue to work for the tariff, success may be possible in the next vote.

Party and tradition and business alliances are hard to break. The number of Democratic senators who were able to see that this tariff was meant to prevent a monopoly, not to create one, turned out to be rather small. Some of the G. O. P. regulars opposed the bill. It is not hard to catch the viewpoint of those who found it illogical to make raids to lower G. O. P. tariff schedules and in the next breath argue for a higher oil duty. Some of the senators never able to see that an oil tariff would not help the big companies and make possible a substantial hike in gasoline prices.

In the face of these circumstances, Mr. Franklin and other independents—including many from Pampa—carried on the battle with enthusiasm and effectiveness. The cause of the independent producer has been well advanced, regardless of the outcome of the present balloting upon the subject.

WHEN YOU CONSIDER ALL THINGS, THERE IS NO FUNCTION OF MODERN GOVERNMENT QUITE AS IMPORTANT AS THE EDUCATION OF THE NATION'S CHILDREN.

Education, as that famed Texan, Mirabeau Lamar, once remarked, "is the guardian genius" of democracy. More tax money is spent for education than for any other purpose. To this fact is due the truth that opportunity knocks at more humble U. S. homes than in any other land. School training is the most tangible benefit conferred by the government upon the average family.

Many millions go into school buildings every year. The Clovis News-Journal adds these facts:

"School building may shatter all records in 1930, in spite of the fact that educational buildings erected in the United States last year cost $416,279,720.

"Such is the encouraging news contained in a recent statement based on reports made to the C. A. Dunham company, Chicago heating engineers. It is also indicated that the class of construction and equipment to be employed will be better than formerly. "The little old red school-house of sentimental fame, with its flimsy, firetrap walls, its draughty floors and poor lighting, has faded into obscurity. Yet health bureaus declare that a million persons are ill daily from preventable causes, many being school children who are victims of improper heating, usually overheating.

"Educational leaders are striving to correct this condition," say the engineers, "and many of the new schools will install differential vacuum heating systems, while others are changing over to this scientific method, thus protecting health and saving at least a fourth of the fuel bill."

"Twenty million children are now in the grade schools, while other millions are overflowing the high schools and colleges. Thousands of school buildings are obsolete, and throughout the nation many new buildings are vitally needed to meet population growth.

"It is pleasing to note that a genuine effort is being made to provide the oncoming generations with facilities for health and comfort during study hours."

but not to improve upon their golf stories.

We have not yet decided to matriculate in one of Mr. Ford's schools. He has not replied to our inquiry as to which nut he thinks we should master.

Studying New York's newspapers for possible usable ideas, we note that they have pages, and ads, and lop-sided headlines, and typographical errors just like the small town press.

P. (Pure) Bunk, local politician, says that Mr. Connally's plan of "study thoroughly" the oil tariff while ascertaining how the folks back home stand in the matter had every earmark of good statesmanship.

College co-eds eat more than college men, says an authority. Yeah, sure; they don't have to worry about affairs with the co-eds.

Well, this must be approaching a city—we have several elevators now in our bigger buildings.

Something About Human Reactions Shown in Movie

"As the twig is bent, the tree inclined—in the opposite direction," according to Campbell Gullan, British actor and stage director now under contract to Fox who staged this all talking Movietone romance of the world afloat, 'The Sky Hawk,' and collaborated with the author Lewellyn Hughes in making the adaptation and writing the dialog.

Gullan, son of a noted Church of England minister, was an ardent opponent of the stage during his youth. His anti-theatrical feelings were so strong that he never attended a performance until he attended Glasgow university, studying for the bar.

His roommate once prevailed upon him to accompany him to a show. Soon thereafter Gullan abandoned his legal studies and took up dramatics. Winning a dramatic scholarship while still an undergraduate, he joined the Glasgow repertory theatre and subsequently went to London, scoring an immediate success. Since that time he has both acted and directed in New York and South Africa.

John Garrick, Helen Chandler, Gilbert Emery, Billy Bevan, Joyce Comp-ton, Lennox Pawle, Lumsden Hare, Daphne Pollard and other celebrities are in the cast of this sensational story of the Zeppelins and their raids over London. John G. Blystone directed this Fox Movietone film, which is the entertainment at the Rex theatre.

BUILDINGS ALREADY PLANNED TO COST HALF MILLION

Marion Howard, a resident of Pampa until a few months ago, and former owner of the Pampa laundry, was a business visitor in the city Friday and Saturday. He and his family now live in Lubbock.

The University of Tulsa, Okla., hopes to build up the world's largest collection of genuine Indian relics. Fifty nationalities are included in the ranks of the national guard of Hawaii.

Hall Is Prelude to Home—Should Appear Inviting

Home begins in the hall. Even a tiny hall can greet the visitor with wide-open arms, if some of the latest decorating magic is used. A striking arrangement for a little hall in a Colonial house would be a floor of black and white marbled linoleum, yellow-green walls and wood work a slightly darker tint of the same color. A line of lacquer red around the base-board and a red balustrade would complete the color scheme. A tall, narrow secretary ensemble is appropriate in such a hall, and a ladder back chair should always have a place in it. The open shelves of the secretary may hold pewter plates. No hall nowadays has to retain the shape and atmosphere in which it was built. With new things and new skill, together with the right colors of wall and floor, one can transform any hall. A long, dark hallway can be made into a gay ante-room with a linoleum in cheerful tile or flagstone design. If walls are in green, robin's eggs blue or yellow, the gloom disappears. Wallpaper has been rediscovered. Nowhere is its individuality more effective than in the hall. Scenic wallpaper is especially interesting because it seems to "tie up" outdoors and indoors. Besides the ordinary rolls, scenic papers come in striking panels, many reasonably priced. The new wallpaper is just the thing for the English or Colonial type hall. Imagine it as a single panel behind a chest of drawers, flanked by red upholstered chairs. Furniture for the hall includes console table, with mirror, between two chairs; chest of drawers, low-boy or an odd table. A particularly long hall may well be broken up by a screen with a chair near it, placed at an end table with a lamp. In a square hall you may express the spirit of the house with a round table and lamp, a comfortable chair, mirrors, carefully placed pictures, wall sconces and fabrics on the wall.

BANK WILL BE LARGEST UNIT OF PROGRAM

A $500,000 building program has already been planned for Pampa this year. Construction has been started on some of the new buildings but plans for most of them have not been completed. The new headquarters for the Panhandle Lumber company on West Foster is almost completed. A casual inspection indicates that it will be a beautiful building and a credit to Foster street. The cost of the new lumber yard will be about $20,000. The pasteurizing plant of the Taylor Dairy farm is now under construction. Its cost will be about $7,500. Building of an addition to the Pampa Daily News began last Monday. Permit for $3,500 was issued to erect the building. It will house the press and the stereotyping department of The Pampa Daily News and the Pampa Morning Post. Plans for raising a modern five-story structure on the site now occupied by the Pampa National bank were announced at the last meeting of the bank stock holders. Estimated cost of such a structure was $265,000. As soon as plans for the addition to the Santa Fe depot arrive, construction of an east and west addition will commence. The Santa Fe not only intends to spend $50,000 enlarging the depot but a large sum in installing the block system of signals in the railroad yard here. Contract to erect a two-story building on the site of Pampa's most famed landmark, the present building at the corner of Foster and Cuyler which houses the K. C. Store, C & C system, Diamond Shop and Kraft's Mint, has been let to John Glover. This edifice when completed will be a modern brick building. Its cost has been estimated at $40,000. B. W. Rose is considering plans to add three more floors to the Rose building. Meanwhile construction in the oil fields is not lagging. Phillips Petroleum company is enlarging its LePore gasoline plant and when this work is completed the plant will be the biggest in the world. Enlarging of the plant necessitated the building of many cottages. Residential building in the last month has not lagged, although bad weather in January practically forced cessation of any construction work. A dozen new residences are now being built in the city. Contract for building the $100,000 city hall is expected to be let before the end of this month. Excavation for paving of Mary Ellen and Christine streets in the Cook-Adams addition has already begun. In all a total of 50 blocks in the city will be paved and also approaches to various highways, all at a cost of about $250,000, during 1930. A fire station is also scheduled to be erected by the city at a cost of $35,000.

Blending of Hues in Bathrooms Now Latest of Mode

Mere color no longer suffices in the bathroom—just color is almost as passe as the old white clinic effect. The new bathroom must be a blending of hues that harmonize—and everything must contribute to the ensemble. For the new bathroom, there is all the rainbow and more from which to choose. It may be a work of art in green tiles and lavender plumbing fixtures; a modernist creation of slateblack tile floor, black fixtures and peach tile wainscoting, or a gay symphony of blue fixtures against a yellow background. Imagination can run riot with the fixtures and tiles in peach, red, blue, ivory, brown, orchid, and rose. Even the old "hospital" bathroom can be transformed with a few good color-notes for a more home. Is there a white tile floor? Paint the wainscoting and woodwork lettuce green, say, or soft yellow, groto blue or a delicate wisteria. The walls, too, may be painted or done over with one of the delightful new sunfast and washable wallpapers. You are tired of the old floor new linoleums provide strikingly unusual combinations. Patterns may be had in cream and black, cream and brick, green, blue—more colors than one can imagine. With transformed bathrooms the necessary things should be as gay as the walls. Fixtures may be in solid colors or interesting designs in two-tone effects, waves, stair-steps, checks, modernistic flowers. Surely there is something you will like and that will fit into the particular ensemble you have created. With the new towels in soft pastels, whether you use one color for all or a different one for each, the result is always pleasing. If you prefer turquoise and coral, you can have towels, wash clothes and bathmats in the same pastel and in harmonizing tints of the same color in special ensemble packages.

Eddie Buzzell Sings and Rides on Screen

Eddie Buzzell, one of Broadway's favorite comedians, will sing in "Little Johnny Jones," which is at the Crescent theatre today. The film is an elaborate First National and Vitaphone adaptation of George M. Cohan's well-remembered success. Alice Day plays opposite Buzzell in a busy hotel and appealing love story, and Edna Murphy as a blonde vaudeville actress teaches the hero about women and about New York night life. Donald Reed, Robert Edeson, Wheeler Oakman and other favorites also appear. Two of the old song hits, "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "Give My Regards to Broadway," have been retained in the picture. Many new ones were written, and the dialogue sparkles with comedy. Director Mervyn Le Roy, it is said, has filled the show with colorful types and kaleidoscopic backgrounds. The locale shifts from a small town and its race track to New York city, then to the Liverpool and London water fronts, and finally Epsom Downs, where the world-famous Derby is run. See our windows for new designs in Armstrong's Floor coverings. Malone Furniture Co. Robert Brown and Charles Compton are visiting friends at Anadarko, Okla. this week-end. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Tolbert and daughters are spending the week-end at their ranch near Laketon. See our windows for new designs in Armstrong's Floor coverings. Malone Furniture Co.

Begin at the TOP MODERNIZE

Now is the time to repaint the roof—or, if necessary, reshingle right over the old shingles. And at the same time you can paint and redecorate inside and out—add that extra room or porch—put down a cement or board walk—lay an all-weather driveway—enlarge or build a new garage—and, in fact, make your place over to where it will be an inspiration to look at and live in! Don't put off—for there's no sounder investment you can make than to modernize your home.

Confederates of Youth Will Be Sought at Once

Sentence of Russell Burton, who explained in detail before Judge Ivy E. Duncan how he stole and sold numerous articles, including a valuable watch and a 40-pound case of cigars, was deferred yesterday afternoon by Judge Duncan until "the rest of this gang of boys, and the people to whom they have sold the stolen goods are rounded up."

"There are persons living here who are putting a premium on petty thievery by buying stolen articles from these boys. They know the articles have been stolen when they buy them and they are just as guilty as the boys," Judge Duncan said.

Russell was taken back to jail and will be kept there until his mother makes good her promise to Judge Duncan that she will place him in some disciplinary school. His mother, who was present at the trial, said that her son is 12 instead of 13 years old. She also revealed that he was given a suspended sentence while living at Berger for assisting another boy in the theft of a car. He was 10 years old at that time.

The child said the first things he ever stole and sold were milk bottles. That was at Berger. Russell said that he stole the 40-pound case of cigars from a delivery truck. He named the persons to whom he sold the cartons for less than half of the wholesale price.

B. W. Rose, from whose office Russell took a valuable watch, said he believed that the other delinquent boys with whom Russell has been associating and the persons to whom he sold merchandise should be arrested and brought to justice.

Mrs. Burton said she had tried to impress upon her son the fact that "crime doesn't pay." Repeatedly, she said, she has taken him to the movies to see crime pictures, and had pointed out to her son the results of crime. "That probably inspired him to be a more clever criminal," Judge Duncan observed.

The mother said she and other members of the Berger P.-T.-A. had aided in the break-up of the "Dirty Dozen" gang of delinquents at Berger. Judge Duncan declared that it was due to lack of proper parental influence that the boy had become incorrigible.

Demonstrations of New Oaklands to Be Held Soon

In order that every local resident may enjoy the thrill of a ride in the new Oakland V-type Eight and thus learn at first hand its many points of performance superiority, a unique and convenient demonstration campaign has been arranged by Pampa Motor company, Oakland-Pontiac dealer.

Oakland Eights, on whose sides will be painted large golden rockets emblematic of their soaring acceleration and speed, will travel the streets during the entire month of March. These cars will be at the service of the public. The drivers will stop on signal. Cheerfully and without obligation, they will carry the passenger to his or her local destination. Or, if the passenger's time permits, they will offer a complete demonstration over routes where the capabilities of the new Oakland Eight may be more fully revealed.

"Even the veteran motorist who has driven expensive cars will find a new experience in riding one of these Golden Rocket demonstrators," declared Walter Butler, of the Pampa Motor company. "He will encounter an entirely fresh conception of automotive performance. He will be amazed at the Oakland's ability to get away in traffic, at its dazzling pace on the open road, at its marvelous hill-climbing prowess."

"Only then can he appreciate the advantage of its 80-horsepower engine affords with its ratio of one horsepower to each 27 pounds of weight. He will enjoy the comfort of improved suspension and the luxury of new Fisher bodies. This demonstration may be obtained either by signalling the driver of a passing Golden Rocket, or by calling at the showroom where additional cars will be available.

The local demonstration will be held in conjunction with a national Golden Rocket demonstration during March in which nearly 5,000 Oakland-Pontiac dealers plan to participate.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JUDITH CAMERON, New York typist, marries ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the publishing house in which she is employed. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 18, in Paris, and a son, JUNIOR, 16, at school. When Tony returns home she denounces Judith as a gold digger.
Tony is secretly continuing a flirtation with MICKEY MORTIMER, wealthy and married. When Junior comes home for the Christmas holidays he also treats Judith coldly.
ANDY CRAIG, whom Knight has helped through college, takes a position with the publishing firm. He has been in love with Tony for a long while. In a fit of anger Tony tries to convince her father that Andy and Judith are carrying on an affair. Knight denies this but Tony tricks the pair into a compromising situation.
Knight becomes seriously ill with pneumonia. Two nurses are installed in the household and Junior is summoned. Before Junior returns to school he admits to Judith that he has misjudged her. Knight's recuperation is slow and Judith is resentful because he seems to prefer Tony's company to hers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXV
It was after six o'clock when Judith Knight arrived home that evening. She came hurrying, almost running, up the walk and pushed open the front door. There was no one in sight in the hallway and Judith closed the door softly behind her. Then she turned toward the staircase.
"Well—you must have had quite an afternoon!"
Tony stood at the head of the stairs gazing downward. She was wearing a frock of sheer bronze net, one of the new ones bought for the trip to Florida Slippers, gleaming bracelets and other accessories indicated that Tony had made plans for a festive evening. The girl smiled but there were bitterness and sarcasm in the smile.
"Yes. It got late before I realized it." Judith had been startled by the other girl's appearance. She looked disturbed and a trifle confused as her eyes met Tony's and then dropped. Probably she would have moved on quickly but the younger girl stood in her path.
Then Tony came down the stairs. Leaning casually against the bannister and studying her stepmother coolly she asked:
"Did you meet friends?"
Judith raised her head.
"Oh, no," she said. "Just the usual thing. Some shopping and tea and—I don't know, the time seemed to fly! By the way, they promised to send you watch out Wednesday."
"Thanks," Tony drawled.
Judith passed her. She had gone but a few steps when she turned.
"Going out for the evening?" she asked.
"Having dinner with Andy. I hope you don't mind?"
Judith's cheeks crimsoned.
"Hardly!" she said. "Would you mind telling Harriet you're not to be here?"
The younger girl said she would speak to the maid. Judith hurried upstairs to pull off hat and coat, pat her hair into place and dust her face with powder.
Then she crossed the hall and rapped at the door of Arthur's room.
Miss Mallory's cheerful face appeared.
"Oh, Mrs. Knight! Your husband's been waiting for you and he's had such a good afternoon!"
Judith entered the room and looked toward Arthur. There was no sign that he had missed her. Arthur Knight looked quite comfortable, and he was smiling.
"Hello," she said. "I'm so sorry to be late."
"Oh, is it late?" the nurse asked. She glanced at her wrist watch. "Well it is! Nearly 6:30. I'd better be seeing about a certain gentleman's dinner!"
Miss Mallory left the room. Judith moved nearer to the bed and sat down by her husband.
"Did you and Tony have a nice afternoon?"
"Splendid," he nodded. "Enjoy your trip in town?"
She said that she did, then turned the conversation. Just how Judith Knight had spent that afternoon in the city none of the members of the household were to learn.
Dinner was served a little later. Tony and Andy had left the house so Judith ate the meal in solitude. Later she sat with Arthur and Miss Mallory until it was time for the patient to go to sleep. An early bedtime was part of the strict program which Dr. Shephard had laid down for the sick man.

Days followed in which Judith found herself continually shut away from Arthur Knight. Each afternoon Tony sat with her father while the nurse took her airing. If Judith lingered it was only too obvious that her presence made Knight restless.
She made repeated trips into the city, almost always by train instead of taking the car. Her comings and goings seemed to make little difference in the suburban home.
Gradually Arthur Knight's health was returning. He was permitted to get out of bed and sit for an hour in the morning, propped up with pillows in his big chair and well wrapped in blankets. Next day he was permitted an hour thus in the morning and another in the afternoon.
"The only thing holding him back," Miss Mallory told Judith privately, "is the way he worries about business affairs. I wish there was something we could do to make him stop."
Judith did not know what to do. She broached the subject to the doctor.
"What's the matter with his business?" he asked gruffly. "Hunter Brothers are still printing books aren't they?"
"Yes, of course. I know it's silly but, you see, for years Arthur has let business mean almost everything to him. I was wondering if perhaps we might take a trip somewhere."
The physician shook his head.
"Later," he said. "Foolish to risk traveling now. Isn't well enough." He thought for a minute. Then he said, "Who's your husband's assistant?"
"He hasn't any assistant—exactly. There are four or five men who each have a good many responsibilities. Of course he has a secretary, who's been with him for years."
"Man?" Dr. Shephard asked.
"No—Miss Tupper is her name. She's been sending the personal letters out and telephoning every day. She's very capable."
"I'll tell you what you do now," the doctor said decisively. "Get this Miss What's-her-name to come out here for an hour or two, bring his letters along, let him dictate, make him think he's getting back into the game. Will you do this?"
"Miss Tupper—here?" Judith asked in dismay.
"Certainly. Right here. That'll give your husband something to think about. I've been noticing this melancholy that's developing and I don't like it. My plan may not help any but I've an idea it will. Anyhow we'll try it."

Kathryn Tupper was almost maternal in the way she fluttered and hovered about the man. Probably Arthur Knight was 10 years older than his secretary. But he was ill now, weakened and the greatest exertion permitted him was to sit in this chair.
Conditions were reversed. In his office Knight was the dominant figure and the secretary took instructions. To day Kathryn Tupper took command immediately. She raised the flap of the brief case.
"I've gone through all the correspondence," she said. "There wasn't anything important this morning but there are a few letters I've been holding which I thought you'd like to see personally."
The shrewd, absorbed expression Arthur Knight wore when he was deeply concerned in a business interview crossed his face. Miss Tupper began to read from the letter in her hand.
Judith and Miss Mallory both left the room. After Kathryn Tupper had finished reading Knight dictated some notes which she wrote on the letter's margin. There were other documents to be gone through and the time passed swiftly.
At four o'clock the nurse returned.
"That's enough work for today now, Mr. Knight," she said, smiling in her good-humored way. Miss Tupper sat back, looked a bit offended, then began to pack the papers back into her brief case.
"Am I to come tomorrow again?" she asked Knight.
He told her he would like to see her at the same hour next afternoon. That evening, though Arthur Knight admitted he was tired, he looked contented.

"It'll be good to get back into the harness again," he told Judith with a deep sigh.
"You'll be there before long," she assured him. "Is Miss Tupper coming tomorrow again?"
"Yes, I asked her to."
The secretary continued to visit the Knight home. Dr. Shephard declared the tonic was having its desired effect. At the end of the fifth week of Arthur's illness he was able to move about the house. Except for periods of rest after meals the invalid was allowed to make his own schedule.
The nurse was assigned to another case and departed. Life in the Knight household became almost what it had been two months before. One of the exceptions was that each afternoon from two until five o'clock Arthur sat discussing matters of business and giving dictation to Miss Tupper. The downstairs room, which had been known as Knight's "office" merely because it was a sort of private den, became a place of business indeed.
It was all very well for Knight to get on with affairs of the publishing company, but Kathryn Tupper's presence undoubtedly increased the breach which was widening between Arthur and Judith.
Tony, on the other hand, welcomed the secretary with surprising friendliness. Judith, coming through the living room one afternoon, found the pair together in eager discussion.

draw Miss Tupper's beady little eyes into gimlets. In speaking to the young Mrs. Knight the private secretary assumed the same tone she had used months and months before to assign Judith unpleasant tasks in the office.
Facing this cool and hostile visitor was disconcerting.
"Harriet will take your things," Judith said, and the maid stepped forward to take Miss Tupper's coat and hat.
"Now will you come upstairs?"
Kathryn Tupper had been in her employer's home once or twice before but not since Judith had had it redecorated. She snatched a quick glance into the living room, then followed Judith up the stairs, making swift mental notes as she went.
In one hand she carried a small leather brief case.
At the door of Arthur's room Judith stepped back. She knocked and the nurse admitted them.
"Miss Tupper—how do you do?"
"How do you do, Mr. Knight."
Like a flash the secretary's cold forbidding manner disappeared. She hurried toward her employer, took his hand and pressed it gently.
"Oh, it's so good to see you," she went on quickly. "We—we miss you at the office Mr. Knight. We want you to hurry and get well enough to come back."

Kathryn Tupper was almost maternal in the way she fluttered and hovered about the man. Probably Arthur Knight was 10 years older than his secretary. But he was ill now, weakened and the greatest exertion permitted him was to sit in this chair.
