CAPONE ACCUSED OF 15 KILLINGS

ASKED AL FOR MONEY TO FLEE

Wife Adds Light to Study of Chicago Crime

CHICAGO, Oct. 15. (P)—The state's attorney today detained a man he believes holds the key to some of the most vicious gang murders of recent years.

The man—Frank Biege, alias Biege, alias Perry—was asked these questions:

"Who killed McSwiggan? (Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggan, assassinated in front of the Pony cafe April 27, 1926.)

"Were you one of the men who killed the New York gangster, Frankie Uale, last year?"

"Were you one of the men who took part in the execution of seven of Bugs Moran gangsters, lining them up against a garage wall and shooting them down last Valentine's day?"

Biege's arrest last Saturday followed three months of surveillance. Three letters written by Biege's wife to Al (Scarface) Capone, now in jail in Philadelphia for gun toting, put the state's attorney on Biege's trail. The letters were intercepted in Philadelphia and turned over to State's Attorney Swanson.

Slayer Identified
Pat Roche, special prosecutor for the state's attorney, said that pictures of Biege, under the alias Perry, had been identified as being of one of the actual slayers of Uale.

Mrs. Biege's letters to Capone asked $10,000 from him to enable her husband to flee Chicago and gangster enemies who sought his life. The letters threatened to "tell the cops everything" if Capone failed to provide flight money for Biege.

Mrs. Biege gave officers additional information, they said. They quoted her as saying:

"I guess you've got the goods on Frank. I probably could help him a bit by giving you the entire goods on that double-crossing Al Brown. He thinks he's nice and safe, tucked into that Pennsylvania jail, while Frank's left behind to take the big rap."

The first letter to Capone said, in part:

Wanted to Flee
"You know what Frank has done for you. He's got to get out of town pronto, for the other mob (gang) are wise. So you get us $10,000 in cash and get it quick."

The second letter was somewhat stronger in tone and told Capone to "kick across" with the cash, "or Frank will go to the police and spill everything he knows. Everything."

The third letter was abrupt:

"All right. You are just as good as putting Frank on the spot. Well, how'd you like getting the finger on yourself? Frank's going to tell. He remembers 15 shootings he did because you ordered him to do them. He's going to tell just who killed McSwiggan for a starter. And he's going to tell about why you had him bump off Ben Newman—because you heard Ben wanted to steal your racket and had put up a cash offer to the man that got you. Newman was an investigator for former State's Attorney Robert E. Croye."

"Yes, and then he's going to tell about your sending him to New York along with others to let the daylight through Frankie Uale. Of course he's going to sing about that Valentine's day affair. And how are you going to like that, Mr. Al Brown?" (Capone also is known as Brown).

Extortionists Move Westward— Shawnee Business Man Kidnaped and Many Others Are Threatened

Arthur L. Fauble Abducted When He Refuses to Aid Plot Against His Wealthy Friends by Terrorism

SHAWNEE, Okla., Oct. 15. (P)—City and county officials and a corps of private watchmen and detectives tightened their lines today against an unknown enemy as revelation that a Shawnee business man had been abducted and threatened with death brought disclosures that five wealthy men of this region have been threatened by a band of extortionists.

First public knowledge of the activities came when Arthur L. Fauble, Shawnee, appeared in Wichita, Kas., Sunday night after being missing since the night previous, and told police he was kidnaped by a band of men to whom he several months before had paid between $3,000 and $4,000.

Fauble said he was abducted because he refused to aid the gang in intimidating wealthy friends by shooting at their houses from his car. He was thrown into the dry bed of the Arkansas river in Wichita, he said, and fired at as he fled in the darkness.

Police here revealed soon after hearing of Fauble's abduction that a series of threats have been made against the lives of four other wealthy men of Shawnee and a multi-millionaire neighbor of Earlboro. Demands were made for sums ranging from $10,000 to $15,000 according to F. A. Budd, chief of the Shawnee detective squad.

Those threatened were H. T. Douglas, president of the Shawnee National bank; Frank Buck, president of the Federal National bank; C. A. Youts, retired millionaire oil land owner; W. F. Varnum, president of the Farm Union association in Oklahoma, and Forest Andersen, one of the country's wealthiest ranchmen.

Lecture

DIETING HINTS ARE STRESSED

Five-Day Course Is Expected to Be Big Help

Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig's lecture and demonstration subject for today at the Daily News free cooking school was luncheon. Tomorrow she will discuss the preparation of a balanced dinner, and will demonstrate the serving of that meal at a table fully equipped with silver, china, and linens.

The audience for today's lecture, the second in the five-day school, indicated a growing interest, both in its size and its enthusiasm. More than 300 women were present.

Convenient features of the school are a nursery where mothers may leave their babies and small children, and a special section for negro women who wish to attend.

The Pampa Daily News second annual cooking school under the skilled direction of Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig opened yesterday afternoon at the Plam-Mor auditorium, with an attendance of more than 300 women and an enthusiasm on the part of both class and teacher that bespoke five days of accomplishment.

Allowing that all schools have their "blue Mondays," it was expected that today's crowd would be even greater, and that the attendance would grow as it did last year, until the very last day. The popularity of the first of the schools in the city was shown yesterday when scores of the women who attended returned yesterday for Mrs. Ihrig's second series of lectures.

Mrs. Ihrig formally opened the school with a warm greeting to her old friends and a gracious welcome to the new. In conducting this second school in Pampa, she announced, she would be doing her first "repeat." Under the rulings of the big agency through which she operates, a lecturer is not sent to the same city twice, she said, "I had to raise an awful howl to make them send me, instead of some one else, to Pampa," she said.

Breakfast is Topic
The opening demonstration and lecture was on the preparation of breakfast. And such a breakfast, it was, as might have decked the family tables of two generations back, insofar as variety and richness were considered. It was a matter of fact, an introduction to a number of dishes, any one of which would make breakfast a meal of equal interest with luncheon or dinner, instead of the chore it has grown to be in many households. A careful regard for nutrition and digestibility unheard of in those days, marked a wide difference, however.

Pointing out that every breakfast should include a fruit or its substitute for its health giving acids and vitamins for a meat for proteins and fats, and a bread or cereal for carbohydrates, she proceeded to demonstrate one or more ways in which each food may be made very delicious through a little thought and care, and without material sacrifices of time.

An Attractive Arrangement
First of all, she arranged a platter of meats on the broiling rack of the electric stove. A half-inch thick cut of ham was surrounded by stuffed mushrooms, a means little used for prepared in thin slices of bacon. These she cooked in the broiling oven for a few minutes, and then added a bit of mustard and brown sugar paste to the ham and topped it with rings of pineapple. The whole formed a very attractive platter, and at the same time delicious.

Miami Not Fearing Sheet of Water

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15. (P)—Drainage ditches overflowing from recent heavy rains caused an enormous lake to converge on lowland sections of Miami, Hialeah, and other points in this section of Florida today.

Millions of acres were flooded by the gigantic sheet of water, but the flood was not expected to reach into Miami proper.

Hialeah, in the immediate path of the slowly moving flood, was faced with prospect of complete evacuation. Water was standing from a few inches to several feet deep in Hialeah, a suburb of Miami.

An emergency fund of $21,000 has been voted by the Miami city commission for cutting a drainage ditch in the southwest section of the city to allow the high water to flow more freely into Biscayne bay.

Offer to Drown Elephant Killer Is Refused Today

CORPUS CHRISTI, Oct. 15. (P)—An offer by the Corpus Christi chamber of commerce to defray expenses of executing Black Diamond, nine ton circus elephant, in the most humane way possible—that of drowning—was refused today by owners of the beast.

The plans of the Corpus Christi organization was to have the car containing the animal switched to the wharves, tie 30 tons of lead to its feet and then have two tugs drag the beast into the turning basin.

Circus officials said Black Diamond had not come out of his jungle madness, which caused the elephant to kill a woman and injure a former trainer and it was dangerous for trainers to unchain him for the execution.

The animal probably will not be put to death until tomorrow when the circus reaches Kenedy, 90 miles north of here.

BORGER, Oct. 15.—(AP)—W. A. Henderson, townsite developer and hotel owner, has been named new mayor of Borger, succeeding Glenn A. Pace who resigned yesterday, John W. Crabtree, suspended police commissioner, announced today.

BORGER, Oct. 15. (P)—Not a single member of the former police forces of Borger and Hutchinson county shall remain in office, Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Walters said here today in denying a report that deputy was to be appointed to the place vacated yesterday by the resignation of Sheriff Joe Ownbey. The commander of Texas National Guardsmen enforcing martial law also indicated troops might not be withdrawn by tomorrow of Thursday, declaring a full group of soldiers would be kept here until a "clean sweep" of offices was made. General Walters said yesterday after Sheriff Ownbey and Mayor Glenn A. Pace had resigned, that martial law begun September 30 to break up the "entrenched criminal ring," might be lifted this week.

Borger remained quiet today. Only two arrests were made yesterday, but the military court of inquiry and the district grand jury continued their investigations. The first trial since district court convened yesterday was that of George W. Hoff, under a liquor indictment. A jury trial was being selected.

HELD FOR BORGER

DALLAS, Oct. 15. (P)—A man arrested here Sunday night on a tip from Borger was still detained in the city jail today, awaiting instructions from Hutchinson county officials.

Calhoun, commenting on possible successors to the mayor and sheriff, said: "There positively will be no one chosen who has been connected with politics in this county, and whoever gets the job will have to promise that he won't be a candidate for election when his term expires."

"No applicant for mayor has been accepted. One citizen committee recommended to me a man whose establishment later was raided, the raiders finding Jamaica ginger there, as well as a shipment to him at the express office. There have been no recommendations since the resignations yesterday."

It was believed here a Texas Ranger or former Ranger might be appointed sheriff. Ranger Sergeant J. B. Wheatley has been serving in that capacity.

BORGER, Oct. 15. (P)—County Judge H. M. Hood adjourned his court this afternoon until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, saying no announcement of a new sheriff would be made until then.

BORGER, Oct. 15. (P)—Borger's army of occupation looked forward today to marching home again sometime tomorrow or Thursday after a sudden decision of Mayor Glenn A. Pace and Sheriff Joe Ownbey to resign.

Governor Moody, who sent the troops here to enforce martial law, had announced he intended to keep them in Borger until a set of officers, satisfactory to Assistant District Attorney Cletus Calhoun, had been installed.

In announcing the resignations yesterday, Brigadier General Walters, commanding troops here, said he expected the city commission to resign as soon as it could select a new mayor and asserted all of Ownbey's appointees went out of office automatically with the sheriff's resignation. The county commissioners court will select the

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing, or reputation of any individual, firm, concern, or corporation that may appear in the columns of the Pampa Daily News will be gladly corrected when called to the attention of the editor. It is not the intention of this newspaper to injure any individual, firm, or corporation, and corrections will be made, when warranted, as promptly as was the wrongfully published reference or article.

FAMILY WELL BEING IS MUCH DEPENDENT UPON THE FAMILY INCOME, BUT LESS SO ON THE WELL ORDERED FARMS. WHILE IT MAY BE, THAT FARMERS OF THIS AREA ARE MORE PROSPEROUS THAN THE AVERAGE, THE DESIRED SETTLEMENT OF UNBROKEN LAND WILL BRING IN MANY FAMILIES WHO ARE NOT SO SITUATED.

Gray county needs more thrifty farmers of the old-fashioned type. By this we mean that class which is largely self-sustaining, and which knows the worth of home grown products. Food preservation is almost a lost art in new sections, but the county agents and home demonstration agents of the Panhandle are having much success in reviving the mode.

An example will suffice. Down at Wellington more than 400 pounds of meat per family has been cured, and an average of 223 containers of fruits and vegetables canned by each of 180 women and girls in home demonstration clubs in Collingsworth county. This exceeded by a large margin the goal set for food preservation work at the beginning of the year, and is significant because the canning and curing has proceeded according to a definite balanced canning budget and in compliance with the high standards of quality set in the clubs.

The agricultural workers make the programs easy by demonstrating what should be done and by doing much of it in the good old-fashioned manner of community gatherings. Such workers are needed by Gray county in helping to make gradual and imperceptible the transition from oil to agriculture.

THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS COOKING SCHOOL IS OPERATED IN BEHALF OF THE WOMEN OF THE CITY, AND PROFIT IS A DOUBTFUL AND SECONDARY PROPOSITION. THE INTEREST ATTACHED TO THE COURSE JUSTIFIES THE LABOR NECESSARY TO MAKE THE WORK A SUCCESS.

Experience in such matters has taught members of The News staff that no matter how much skill a woman may possess in the kitchen, she appreciates the opportunity to hear her favorite subject discussed by an expert. The most skillful cooks, moreover, are often among the most enthusiastic pupils.

The News hopes the present school will be a continuation of the admirable relations established last year, and will be largely participated in by the women of the community.

Daily News Want-Ads Bring Results.

Good Example
Dr. J. E. Nunn of Amarillo has offered to Wayland College of Plainview $5,000 for every $25,000 raised for an endowment fund. The offer of Dr. Nunn is a worthy one, and demands the consideration of the people interested in Wayland. It is proposed to raise $250,000 endowment for Wayland, and if the movement is successful, Dr. Nunn will be very largely responsible for the good work, as he started the movement.

Giving money to colleges is the best way any wealthy man may invest his money in the future good of his nation. There is no finer compliment for any individual than for him to make it possible for some young person to find himself, and Dr. Nunn is pointing the way. There are many wealthy men in the Panhandle who could afford to make such an investment for the sake of the young men and women who will come after them. Building a memorial building at the West Texas State Teachers college would be a much more creditable monument to some wealthy man than to leave a great fortune which might soon be disbursed by reckless hands. The wealthy men of this section should think about the good example set by Dr. Nunn. Canyon News.

work on it, but since that time it has been strenuous enough to keep a record of present growth, not to speak of the past. It would be easy to write the history of a dead county, but this one is at the other end of the extreme.

Columbus discovered a country of great possibilities. There are a few Pampans who have never thus discovered Pampa.

A tactful husband is one who can manage to get wife off the Daily News cooking school without suggesting that her cooking might be improved.

Some towns are more friendly than others, but it is our observation that every place is sure to welcome a newcomer who jumps right in, shows an interest in public affairs and the work and pastimes of his fellows, and is willing to give a bit of his time to boost the old town along.

Pampa society may not be so swell, but at least our folks do not have to fight over the order in which they shall be seated around the tables.

About New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

NEW YORK—Most of his friends and some of his critics call Sinclair Lewis "Red."
But his best friend and severest critic, if Dorothy Thompson Lewis lives up to wives' tradition, calls him "Hal."
The Lewises are still at Twin Farms, Barnard, Vt., where Red, or Hal, is planning a new novel, the preparation of which will keep him traveling most of the winter both east and west in his own United States.

As She Spoke
In a recent communication, Hazel Lewis reports that many children born in France to American parents have grown Gallic-tongued. The bulk of United States citizens living in Paris, being middle-class, can hardly afford the luxury of an English speaking governess and hence rely on French nursemaids, whose native speed presumably is copied by the kiddies, even to the accent.

This lingual problem often is brought to New York, when families come back home, as some do.

Here the youngsters trained to "parley-vo" are marked among their schoolmates by the difficulty with which they speak the language of their fathers. They seem to have only a meager knowledge of English, picked up from dinner-table talk.

Usually the children are sent to a private school where this knowledge is augmented, but I have heard the foreign accent in the words of such children who have been over here for several years. This is due, perhaps, to the elders retaining the French phrases they used abroad.

If a child leaves a door open, for instance, he is most likely to get the command, "Fermis la porte, mon chou."

instead of "Close the door, darling."
Date Sweepstakes
The first shipment of new dates is received in New York with more eagerness than that attending the arrival of a first bale of cotton in New Orleans.

The race to land the first cargo of the Persian fruit is more reminiscent of the tea clipper races from Calcutta in older days.

Leaving Basra, Persia, with the annual crop about the middle of September, the four or five ships engaged in the date trade reach the docks here in October. Each owner keeps his ship's sailing secret, for the first cargo to reach port when the dates are comparatively scarce, brings the highest price.

Each cargo consists of 100,000 to 150,000 cases. Each case weighs 78 pounds and the contents are worth $5 to $7 at the pier. At retail, after being packed in boxes, the shipment of some 5,000 tons is worth several million dollars.

Neighborhood grocery stores long have had a custom of closing their doors for the noon lunch hour. Now the practice is being adopted by the luxury shops. Several of the ultra-smart fur salons of Fifth avenue that cater to the sable class are locking the front doors while all the help go out for their lettuce and tomato sandwiches. Just like Grandpa used to leave his "general store."

Continuance Is Granted in Bank Robbery Trial

SAN MARCOS, Oct. 15. (AP)—District Judge M. C. Jeffreys today granted a continuance in the so-called "bank robbery reward" murder trial of J. H. Dumas and "Red" Wood. The case was continued until March 3.

Postponement was asked by District Attorney Fred Blundell, who said a number of material witnesses were absent and the prosecution had not had time to make a thorough investigation of the slayings.

Offsets Are Not Flowing as Well as Was Expected

Three offsets to White Eagle Oil and Refining company's No. 2 Paulkner in section 28, which made an initial production of 960 barrels last week have been drilled in and two of them proved to be disappointments thus far as far as oil is concerned. The other, Danziger Oil and Refining company's No. 4 Powell in section 28 made an initial production of 550 barrels.

Prairie Langham No. 1 was drilled to a total depth of 2,907 feet and was swabbed a day for eight barrels. It is being deepened. The well is in section 1, block B-2.

Texas company's No. 3 Bruce Bull in section 2, block B-2 came in yesterday is now flowing 28,000,000 feet of gas and no oil. As this is a medium good gasser it is not likely the well will be deepened, unless it dies down considerably, operators say.

CHICAGO FANS WELCOME CUBS

CHICAGO, Oct. 15. (AP)—Several hundred loyal fans gave the Cubs such a warm reception when they returned from Philadelphia and the futile world series struggle with the Athletics today that they looked more like conquering heroes than the vanquished.

As the players left their special train the greeting crowd cheered long and lustily. In return the players exchanged greetings and told the fans "the breaks beat us."

"If ever a ball club got bad breaks we did," sighed Hack Wilson, leading batter of the series. "But we'll be back next fall, and maybe we'll bring the bacon back with us."

Scene of Robbery Visited at Lamar

LAMAR, Colo., Oct. 15. (AP)—The First National bank of Lamar, scene of the robbery in which A. N. Parrish, resident, and his son, the cashier, were killed, was today visited by the jury trying Howard L. Royston, confessed member of the robber gang.

Inspection of the scene of the robbery and killings was made at the request of the prosecution to acquaint the jurors with the interior of the building. Royston, heavily shackled and guarded, accompanied the jury.

The jurors were absent only a few minutes from the court room, returning to their seats after an examination of the interior of the bank and the presentation of testimony was begun by the state.

A. G. Gordon, special prosecutor, told the jury it must find Royston guilty of first or second degree murder, stressing the fact the state law characterized as first degree murder any killing taking place during the commission of a felony.

The prosecutor pictured the killing of Parrish as deliberate and cold blooded.

Judge Says It Is Illegal to Buy Bootleg Liquor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 15. (AP)—The October grand jury of the United States district court here today was under instruction from Judge Charles I. Dawson to indict, if the evidence warranted, the buyer as well as the seller of liquor.

Attacking the "so-called good citizen" who patronizes bootleggers, Judge Dawson, former Kentucky attorney general, declared the widespread impression it is not against the law to purchase liquor is erroneous.

Referring to a recent decision of the circuit court of appeals of the second district at Philadelphia, Judge Dawson said he had not read that court's opinion, but it was his opinion "that what that court really decided was that one who purchases liquor is not such an aider or abettor of the seller as to make him guilty as a seller under the federal law."

To that extent, Judge Dawson said in his charge, "I agree with the opinion, but if that opinion holds it is not an offense against the national prohibition act for one to purchase liquor without a permit and not on a prescription, then I cannot agree with it, because I have no doubt whatever that the Volstead act intended to do and does, in express terms, make it illegal for individuals to purchase liquor for personal consumption for beverage purposes."

Although the object of the meeting, expected to continue for several days, was disclosed in only a general way, there were intimations that before reaching an adjournment, the commission might take action regarding selection of additional experts to deal with specific phases of crime.

PIES . . . and 2 Pastry Shortcuts

Canadian Pineapple Pie

Between the crusts of this pie is a story that dates back to olden days when sailing vessels plied the seas from England to the Indies and brought home silks, spices and the rare, exotic fruit—pineapple.

"So expensive it was," says the originator of this recipe, "that it was served only to guests one wished to honor. And thus it became the symbol of hospitality—beds in the guest rooms had pineapples carved on the posts and some houses bore the symbol above their doorways. That is why, centuries later, pineapple pie is our company pie." And how good it is in a crust made with Crisco—a shortening that tastes sweet and fresh just as it comes from the can!

1 1/2 cups grated canned pineapple
2 egg yolks beaten light
3/4 cup pineapple juice
3/4 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons pastry flour

Mix flour, salt and sugar. Add to beaten egg yolks. Add fruit juices to this mixture and cook until thick in double boiler. Remove from fire and add grated pineapple. Line pie-plate with Crisco pastry. Brush with melted Crisco to prevent soaking. Pour in the filling. Moisten edges of crust with water. Cover with pastry and bake 10 minutes in hot oven (450° F.). Reduce heat to moderate (350° F.) and continue baking for 25 minutes.

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

Flakier Pie Crust

with two time-saving suggestions

Pie crust made with Crisco is flakier, more tender. Sweeter-tasting, too, because Crisco tastes so sweet and fresh—yes, actually sweet and pure all by itself!

To save time in pie-baking, you can keep this pastry dough, already mixed, in the ice-box for a week and bake a crust just when you need it. It will stay sweet, because Crisco itself stays sweet. And the thorough chilling will make the crust even flakier than usual.

Or you can keep unbaked pastry-shells in the ice-box always ready for use. Then when you want a pie, just put in your filling, pop the pie into the oven and bake.

2 cups flour
3/4 teaspoon baking powder
6 to 8 tablespoons cold water
3/4 teaspoon salt

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut Crisco in well with two knives. Add water gradually and only enough to hold mixture together. Roll 1/4 inch thick on floured board. For baked shell, take half of recipe and cover inverted pie-plate. Leave enough dough to fold back to make a firm edge. Prick well with fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes. For two crust pie, bake at 450° F. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350° F.) and bake until filling is done.

Criss-Cross Apple Pie

Up in the Kentucky hills is an old hotel famous for its pies. Every day the menu lists three kinds: "Open, criss-cross and covered—all apple."

The criss-cross pie was so different and so good that I brought the recipe home. The pie crust, of course, was Crisco crust. For while their ice supply was uncertain, their pie crusts couldn't be. They knew that Crisco always stood for sweetness and freshness in shortening (and pie crust) no matter where the thermometer stood.

6 large apples sliced thin
3/4 cup brown sugar
3/4 cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon flour (pastry)
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3/4 teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons Crisco

Line pie-plate with pastry. Brush with melted Crisco to prevent soaking. Place a layer of apples in crust, sprinkle with part of mixture of dry ingredients. Dot with bits of Crisco. Proceed with similar layers until crust is filled, ending with sugar mixture and Crisco on top. Cover with narrow pastry strips to form lattice work. Moisten ends of latticed pastry first so they'll stick to lower crust. Follow baking directions for double pie crust in standard pastry recipe.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

CRISCO is used in the Cooking School now being conducted by this paper

Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, in the News Cooking School, makes a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she uses Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

Government to Be Subject for Extension Work

An extension course class in constitutional government was organized here yesterday by Mrs. T. V. Reeves, head of the public service bureau of West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon. Eighteen teachers in the city schools enrolled for the course, and it was indicated that others would take it...

The course will be taught by a member of the social science faculty of the teachers college, and in all probability by S. H. Condon, professor of American government. The instructor will come to Pampa each Monday, and will hold a two and one-half hour class at one of the schools, beginning at 4 o'clock.

Courses in federal and state government, covered in the constitutional government course, will be among the required studies in public and grade schools, beginning with the opening of school in the fall of 1930. It is chiefly to prepare themselves to teach those courses that many of the local teachers will take the extension work. Moreover, all state schools hereafter will make a college course in constitutional government prerequisite to a degree, to a permanent certificate, or to the extension of a present state certificate.

Nine Jurors Are Selected in Trial of T. C. Johnson

Nine jurors had been selected up to noon today in the trial of T. C. Johnson of Wheeler county, charged with statutory offense. Judge C. G. Englewood late yesterday afternoon overruled a motion for continuance. The defense pleaded absence of material witnesses.

A special session last night was enlivened by a fistic encounter between W. M. Lewright and Raymond Allred, attorneys. Each was fined $25 after being held in contempt of court by Judge Englewood. The argument concerned the Johnson case, in which Mr. Allred is serving as court stenographer in the absence of William Holmes, who is assisting General Wolters at Berger.

The nine jurors were selected by the attorneys after more than 40 had been examined and rejected. The remaining three jurors will be chosen this afternoon and the hearing of testimony will begin tonight or tomorrow morning.

The following jurors were chosen by noon today: L. N. McCullough, lumberman; D. D. Rider, tool dresser; O. W. Ferguson, clothing merchant; A. S. Cambren, ranchman; W. F. Taylor, dairyman; Jack Broyles, ranchman; W. C. Archer, farmer; J. D. Sackett, lumberman; E. E. Reynolds, ranchman. Judge Newton P. Willis is heading the corps of defense lawyers comprising Clayton Heare of Shamrock, Judge Reynolds of Shamrock and Ben Allred of Stinnett. Mr. Lewright is assisting Clifford Braly in the prosecution.

Swamp Land Yields Record Oat Crop

What was two years ago a duck pond, on which J. D. Honeyman and his friends went hunting, is now a tract of land which has just produced the highest oat yield in the country this year. Honeyman's land, near Scappoose, Ore., was checked by a committee of federal and railroad agricultural agents, and one acre was found to yield more than 118 bushels. When Honeyman's land was reclaimed, it cost about $75 an acre, but his first crops will more than pay for the cost. A harvester at work in his oat field is shown above and Honeyman is shown in the inset.

COLLEGE GIRLS BADLY HURT AS PORCH BREAKS

BLUE MOUNTAIN, Miss., Oct. 15. (P)—Seventeen young women students of Blue Mountain college today were in hospitals at New Albany, Miss., with broken bones and other injuries and more than a score of others were under treatment at the college here for less severe hurts—the result of the collapse of a second story porch of a school dormitory last night.

A section of the flooring gave way during the final event of "initiation week," a student custom to induct freshmen into activities of college life.

Some fifty girls had crowded on the porch to witness the festivities within the dormitory. Suddenly about 20 feet of the floor collapsed and the half hundred students were hurled with the debris down about 30 feet to the ground. College officials with other members of the student body extricated the victims, and the more seriously hurt were taken in ambulances to hospitals at New Albany.

Roberts from New Albany said that while a number of the young women were severely injured it was expected all would recover.

In the evening, the secretaries attended a meeting welcoming Division Engineer Bally, who is replacing Engineer French, recently transferred to the Abilene division. The highway routing and paving situation was discussed informally, and cooperation pledged by all present.

Duck Hunting to Begin Tomorrow in Northern Zone

Tomorrow opens the duck hunting season in this northern zone of Texas, and for that reason it will be a day of red-letter significance to several hundred Pampa men who are enthusiastic followers of the sport.

Hundreds of licenses have been sold here in the last several days, and scores of guns, chiefly shot-guns, have been bought in preparation for the season, which will last until Jan. 31.

In short, guns are primed; the hunters are all set; and if the ducks themselves are not quite all set, literally, at least they are plentiful, according to the information gathered by local hardware men, who not only sell the guns but handle the licenses.

The bag limit for any one day is 25, and that is written to include other game birds in season. For any week the limit is 50 ducks. The state game law specifically forbids hunting from motor boat, sail boat, or any kind of boat under tow, or from an airplane.

Local Men Are Witnesses in Case Against Killian

U. S. Deputy Marshal Oscar Brothers of Paducah, Texas, was here today issuing subpoenas to R. E. Johnson, J. M. Dodson, and A. J. McAllister to appear as witnesses at the trial of A. C. Killian, which will be held in federal court at Fort Worth, Oct. 17.

Killian was recently indicted by the federal grand jury on swindling charges. He is well-known here. Mrs. Maggie Hopkins is the prosecuting witness.

Mr. Brothers is serving as deputy marshal for this district while U. S. Marshal J. F. Harper is taking a woman to Federal prison in Virginia. Deputy Brothers has headquarters at Lubbock.

Yesterday was the first time Mr. Brothers had been here in 25 years. Then, he said he stayed at the section house because the only other hotel in town, the old Schneider, was full. The other business establishments here at that time were a mercantile store and a blacksmith shop.

Deputy Brothers came here from Amarillo, where Sunday afternoon he took a bus load of prisoners, all arrested on prohibition charges at Borger.

The Innocent Cheat

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE INC. Ruth Dewey Groves AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL", ETC.

The girl had struck lay motionless at the side of the road. The pitiful sight tore at Helen's heart.

THIS HAS HAPPENED HELLEN PAGE feels unhappy when her circumstances accuse her of being in the wrong with her honest guardian, LEONARD BRENT. But he represents all that she knows of honor and family even though he refuses to clear up the mystery of her birth until after her graduation. However, a chance meeting with a dying beggar, CHARLES OWEN NELLIN, causes Brent to change all his plans regarding Helen's future. Before the man dies, Brent secures facts and evidence which he is able to corroborate to some extent by a visit to Yonkers. On graduating, Helen reminds her guardian of his promise to tell her about her parents, and is amazed when he informs her that she is heiress of a millionaire, CHARLES R. CUNNINGHAM, and that he promised her parents to take her to her grandfather when she was 18. Brent takes her to Yonkers and introduces her to Cunningham as his granddaughter. He tells the story and offers as proof the locket containing a picture of EVANGELINE CUNNINGHAM NELLIN which he had taken from the dying beggar. Cunningham and his lawyer request that Helen remain at Yonkers until an investigation is made. Brent favors this, but the girl objects, resenting the fact that she is under suspicion. Brent makes her stay and the old man tries to win her love by a gift—a surprise, he tells her. CHAPTER XIV HELEN lifted her face from Mr. Cunningham's shoulder and he was happy to see that she was not so depressed that she had no curiosity. "I'm sure you're going to like it," he went on, meaning the surprise he had spoken of. "What is it?" Helen asked, dabbing a tear away from her lashes and giving him the softest smile he'd yet seen on her lovely young countenance. "Wait and see," he told her. "And would you mind ringing for Marks?" Helen was constrained to curb her curiosity and do as her grandfather asked. When the servant appeared the old man gave him a pre-arranged signal and dismissed him. Helen's curiosity grew apace, but Mr. Cunningham was not yet ready to satisfy it. "Sit here," he said, patting the arm of his chair, "and cry if you want to." Helen shook her head. "Tears don't help," she told him. "Then you're really unhappy?" "Well, I... oh, I was going to have such a wonderful time! I'd planned it for years. Traveling with Leonard. It got so dull at school sometimes. You see, I've never been any place and..." "Listen," Mr. Cunningham broke in. He bent his head in an attentive attitude and Helen followed suit. She heard a car in the driveway, a soft sound that barely came up through the open windows. "Go and see who it is," he told her and she flew swiftly to see if Leonard had returned. HER disappointment was instant. This was a car she had never seen before. "I don't know who it is," she turned back to her grandfather. "H'm, what kind of car is it?" "I don't know, but it's a beauty," Helen admitted. "Well, well, I wonder why we haven't thought of having a car for you. You would like one, wouldn't you?" "I'd love it," Helen exclaimed, thinking how fascinating it would be if she could drive about the country and break the monotony of living at Bramblewood. "Can you drive?" he asked her. "Of course, Leonard taught me." "But he didn't buy you a car, eh?" "No," she said, "Spann would not permit it. But one day it brought trouble. She was near home, going along at a moderate pace down a winding hill when the thought that she was burning up her emotions like so much waste came to her with a clarity that made her resentful. She closed her eyes for an instant. The car hugged the road, but Helen had forgotten that she was descending a hill. Her foot pressed the accelerator and the car shot forward like a startled deer. Even then, but for the fact that these things happen, no harm would have been done, for she had the car under control. But a girl chose that instant to step from a path along the road directly in front of the car. Her scream and Helen's were simultaneous. Helen's strong young hands cemented themselves to the wheel in a quick, firm grip. The athletically trained muscles of her forearms stood up like a boy's under her soft skin. The car whipped aside like a drunken rowdy, climbed a bank and tore through a wire fence before it came to a stop. For an instant Helen was seized with a vertigo that made her feel faint and ill. Had there been no one else to consider she would probably have lost consciousness, but her mind retained the fleeting vision of a body being hurled aside from impact with her car's fender and this vision sent her running back to the scene, white and shaking with dread. THE girl she had struck lay motionless at the side of the road. The pitiful sight tore at Helen's heart. She gathered the crumpled young body into her arms, sobbing out her horror. The girl stirred and Helen gasped at the hope that she was not dead. She put her down again very gently out of the way of any car that might pass and ran up to her own car. A prayer of thankfulness escaped her lips when she got the motor started and managed to back down on the road. It required the utmost of her strength to get the injured girl into it, where she lay white and still in a lifeless attitude that frightened Helen to the verge of hysterics. The drive that followed was a nightmare to the girl at the wheel. She controlled the car automatically, gripping the gear shift lever as though her hand were frozen to it and not daring to let herself glance at the figure beside her. When she came into Yonkers she was half paralyzed with the tenseness of the situation. "I can never get to the hospital," she wailed silently. "I can't! I can't!" People in cars that passed her looked at her curiously but she halted no one until she was compelled to stop for traffic where an officer was on duty. She motioned to him when he looked at her and he saw her slump the next instant as though she were fainting. But when he reached the side of the car she was fully conscious. "There's been an accident," she gasped. "Please help me get this girl to the hospital. I can't drive any farther!" Her breath died in a choking sob and her head dropped on the arm she flung over the wheel. The officer took one look at the girl who had been hurt and whirled to commandeer a driver. He blew his whistle to stop a taxicab that was passing and called to the chauffeur to pull up to the curb. The man had a bad moment of wondering what traffic law he had violated but the officer hurried over and eased his mind in short order. "Get that injured girl out of that car over there and take her to the hospital without delay," he directed. "The Good Shepherd. And leave your number." He turned back to Helen, grimly taking stock of her damaged car. (To Be Continued) monstrated a means little used for preparing breakfast meats and a novel fruit suggestion.

While the meats were cooking, Mrs. Ihrig prepared a cake especially adaptable to the breakfast menu. Matrimonial cake, it was called, and the famous cook considered the name a happy one. She next showed the variations possible in making French toast, and suggested that to always be fried in deep, boiling fat, for the sake of economy and healthfulness. Other helpful suggestions offered during the lecture were: That the door of the oven be left open while meats are being broiled, to prevent smoking and firing that the water used in making coffee be at boiling point when put in the percolator; and that muffins and desserts be cooked or frozen, as the case might be, in waxed paper cups to save labor.

And Philosophy, Too

Mrs. Ihrig flavored the whole of her lecture-demonstration with bits of her individual philosophy and her interesting broad view of affairs. Life of today, she said yesterday, is running away with people of today. With the individuals of every family differently occupied and going their own ways, families are being torn apart and are unable to develop unity, she said. A gathering of the family once a day, she believes, would do much to recover the family spirit of yesterday and develop the confidential, friendly relations between parents and children that formerly existed. She advocates a breakfast where the family gathers before beginning the day. She advocates, moreover, a substantial breakfast and an interesting one.

Mrs. Ihrig regards breakfast as the most essential meal of the day. Two-thirds of the nation's big business is done between 9 o'clock in the morning and 2 o'clock in the afternoon, she told her audience. She suggested that those wishing to reduce would do much better to cut down on calories at every meal and achieve a more balanced diet than to omit breakfast. She offered suggestions for making breakfast a tempting meal to small children and babies.

new sheriff, but Wolters made it clear the men selected for mayor and a sheriff must meet approval of Calhoun.

In the meantime, Calhoun prepared to put before the grand jury the voluminous record of crime in Borger which a military investigating committee has been collecting ever since martial law was declared. In charging the jury, District Judge E. J. Pickens asked it to bind every effort toward fastening the assassination here Sept. 13 of District Attorney John A. Holmes upon the guilty person. Much evidence collected by the military inquisition concerned this crime and the criminal background which led up to it. Judge Pickens cleared the deck for rapid disposition of his mountainous criminal docket by announcing the first five weeks of the term would be devoted to criminal cases.

Tolley Deals With A Treed Golf Ball

The majestic figure of Cyril James Hastings Tolley, British amateur golf champion, strode along the cliff-bordered fairway of the eighteenth hole at Pebble Beach. He was outlined, from the landward side, in a fashion singularly stately against the Maxfield Parrish atmosphere of California sky and Pacific ocean, or, rather, Carmel bay.

Mr. Tolley was qualifying handsily for match play in the 1929 United States amateur championships, after some rather untoward practice rounds. A 75 in the first 18 holes had left him in a comfortable position Monday. And now, on Tuesday, he was doing another neat 75, or possibly a 76, according to whether he did a 4 or a par 5 at the long eighteenth.

Either, or even a considerably higher card, would qualify Mr. Tolley, and his presence was one of port and dignity, very pleasant to observe.

Mr. Tolley had struck off a fine, large drive and followed it with a fine, large second shot, sheaved out a trifle, however, so that his pitch to the green was close by the line of a large tree—of several large trees in fact. Still this was on the safe side. On the other side was a 50-foot cliff down to the beach that fringes Carmel bay. This was, essentially, something to keep away from. Mr. Tolley was well inland, with his second shot.

His third shot, however, was not on the green. It was not on the golf course at all, insofar as a golf course consists of turf and sand. The ball never came down—that day at any rate. It stopped up in the crotch of one of the large trees, 40 feet above the ground. It may be there yet, for all it knew.

His serenity unruffled, Mr. Tolley surveyed the situation, permitted himself the faintest of smiles as a concession of camaraderie with the chortling thousands in the gallery, declined a suggestion to climb the tree and play the ball out, dropped another (at a penalty stroke and distance), pitched to the green and holed out for a 7, a card of 78, a total of 153, and a place in the sun—through the first two matches, as it turned out.

Methodist Junior College Likely to Be Abandoned

DALLAS, Oct. 15. (AP)—Abandonment of most of the junior colleges in Texas supported by the Methodist church was foreseen today as clerical and lay leaders of the denomination met to discuss the educational situation.

Several of those attending the meeting indicated the state had practically eliminated further competition on the part of junior church schools by enacting that law.

Reports from ten college presidents were made. A set of recommendations will be presented at the North Texas conference in McKinney Oct. 24.

"We must face our task seriously and with an open mind," Bishop John M. Moore said. "I am, of course, interested in our past educational accomplishments and not in the means used in attaining these accomplishments."

In listing schools which should be paramount in the sections were they are located, he mentioned Lon Morris college at Jacksonville, Westmorland college at San Antonio and McMurry college at Abilene.

Tanker Loses Much of Her Oil Cargo

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15. (AP)—A dispatch to El Universal from Tampico today said the tanker San Dustany of the Eagle Oil Transport company grounded on a sand bar off Tampico in the high seas yesterday.

The crew of 42 and two passengers landed safely but in grounding the bottom of the tanker was ripped open and 4,000 tons of oil drained into the sea.

The message apparently was a request to the coast guard cutter Unalga for assistance and said the stern of the vessel was ashore while the bow was free. The message also stated she was unable to turn her propeller.

Delay Is Urged in Boundary Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 15. (AP)—A motion to delay approval by the United States supreme court of the boundary commissioners' report on the Western Oklahoma line was prepared today by the state attorney general's office.

After receiving a telegram yesterday from Senator Elmer Thomas pointing out that acceptance of the report would result in the transfer to Texas of approximately 23,000 acres which has been considered a part of Oklahoma, Governor W. J. Holloway requested the attorney general to take immediate action.

J. Berry King, attorney general, said the only showing his office could make before the supreme court would be to call the court's attention to the fact congress authorized negotiations between Oklahoma and Texas for settlement of the boundary dispute and ask the tribunal to postpone action until the negotiations, now pending, could be concluded.

King said the boundary commissioners' report was filed with the supreme court yesterday and would be up for approval next Monday.

Several of those attending the meeting indicated the state had practically eliminated further competition on the part of junior church schools by enacting that law.

Reports from ten college presidents were made. A set of recommendations will be presented at the North Texas conference in McKinney Oct. 24.

"We must face our task seriously and with an open mind," Bishop John M. Moore said. "I am, of course, interested in our past educational accomplishments and not in the means used in attaining these accomplishments."

Lots of women are becoming airplane pilots but few of them are striving for a transport pilot's license, which qualifies the holder to fly the biggest passenger liners. Nevertheless, Laura Ingalls, 24, above, has set that at her goal. A student at Universal's St. Louis Flying School, she has already qualified for a limited commercial pilot's license.

Canadian Barred From U. S. Entry

MALONE, N. Y., Oct. 15. (AP)—This is the story of "Flynn's lines" and the answer to something of an international question.

"Flynn's Lines" is a general store with living quarters upstairs, a woodshed attached to the rear of the house and an international boundary line reposing on the threshold of the woodshed door. The new owner of the building, Arthur Plante, sits in his Canadian woodshed and gazes into the dusty hung interior of his American general store and living quarters from which he has been barred by decision of the United States immigration bureau.

Plante, a carpenter, purchased the store four months ago from John B. Flynn and went about his business of living on both sides of the border the United States. The immigration bureau called a special board of inquiry to decide on the application of the Canadian who reported he had lived in the United States since 1900. The board found him "inadmissible," and the immigration office barred him from this country even though he held title to land within its borders.

Plante today eyed the woodshed into which he and his wife had moved their furniture, studied the tar paper lining he was tacking to the inner wall to keep out the approaching winter's winds roaring up from "Canadian flats" and declared he was not going to be "frozen out" of that part of his property by the immigration ruling. Immigration officers, moving about on the United States side of the boundary occasionally cast a glance through the windows of the general store to assure themselves of its vacancy.

National System of Air Traffic Is Being Outlined

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP)—The administration is giving close attention to the principal air routes in the hope of setting up a system of national airways as mediums of mail transportation and passenger traffic.

Regarding the letting of air mail contracts, Mr. Hoover believes a liberal government subsidy is advisable and necessary to establish this method of transporting mails, and it was said the postoffice department had been proceeding upon that basis.

HEROES HARD TO CHOOSE IN WORLD SERIES

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15. (AP)—The task of picking the hero of the 1929 world's series seemed today as difficult as it was trying to guess Connie Mack's starting pitchers.

There was one heroic figure after another down through the lineup of the triumphant Athletics. The three perhaps that stood out most conspicuously were Jimmy Foxx, young first sacker, his bat mighty in three of the four victories; George Haas, whose freak home run was a crucial blow in the historic "lucky seventh" of the fourth game and his second, man-sized homer the tying factor in the final contest; and Robert Moses Grove, whose southpaw speed saved two games and was ready for a third, only to have the distinction to go to George Walberg, another portlander.

There was, also, the chunky figure of Jimmy Dykes, with the highest batting mark of any of his team-mates; Mickey Cochrane, who caught every game with marvelous skill; Al Simmons, the great left-fielder, potent in both critical rallies of the last two games; and last, but not least, Edmund (Bing) Miller, veteran right-fielder, who knocked in the deciding runs in the first game and the winning run with a $50,000 blow in the last.

Grove unquestionably would have been the outstanding hero had he been delegated to relieve Howard Ehmke in the last game and succeeded as Walberg did. Ehmke's first game heroics were not repeated, or he might also have been the main bidder for the laurel wreath.

Perhaps, after all, Connie Mack was the real hero, for it was mostly for him all these agile "boys," as he calls them, were outdoing themselves.

The hero of the Cubs, from a pitching angle, was Guy Bush, the only winner and therefore the only candidate for the honor. Otherwise their greatest figure was Pudgy Hack Wilson, mightiest of a Cub clouting array that otherwise failed to live up to its reputation. Wilson led both teams at bat with .471. Yet Hack also was a "goat," for it was his dismal performance in losing fly balls in the sun Saturday that contributed largely to the A's startling comeback. Charley Grimm, clever first baseman, played brilliantly throughout the series and also hit hard. The batting "bust" was Rogers Hornsby, the seven-time rajah of the National league hitters, who struck out eight times to lead the list of Cub strikeout victims. The fielding "goat," aside from Wilson, was shortstop Elwood English, with four errors, some of which he redeemed with a great exhibition in the last game.

"It's Baseball", Declare Cubs in Shrugging Away Remorse of Having Lost World Series to Connie Mack

BY BRIAN BELL,
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15. (AP)—The Athletics of Philadelphia today are champions of the baseball world, thanks to a rally that routed the Chicago Cubs at the 59th minute of the 11th hour.

With President Hoover as a spectator the White Elephants of Connie Mack rose in the ninth inning of the fifth game to stage a comeback without parallel in world's series history.

Only two outs stood between the American leaguers and a defeat that would have entailed a continuation of the series in Chicago, with the result in the lap of baseball gods, when the storm broke.

The A's were trailing 2 to 0 and with one out in the final inning, and it seemed that only a baseball miracle could give the veteran Cornelius McGillicuddy his undisputed place at the head of the baseball procession of all time, as the only man to win four world's series.

Pat Malone got two strikes and a ball on Bishop and then Bishop drove the ball a foot inside the third base foul line for a single. Mule Haas then swung viciously at the first pitch, a high, inside fast ball. The ball traveled high and far to right field, clearing the fence above the athletic figure of Kiki Cuyler, who went as far as he could in a mad dash.

Mike Cochrane tried hard but his smash went straight to Hornsby and the rajah tossed to Grimm for the second putout of the inning. The faltering Malone seemed himself again, but he wasn't. Al Simmons let a ball go by and then drove the next against the scoreboard in right center. The Milwaukee mauler stopped at second. Jimmy Foxx was purposely walked, and this shifted responsibility from Foxx to Bing Miller, a swarthy player whose every baseball move is effortless. Miller is known to American pitchers as a "curve ball hitter," and he saw nothing but fast ones. The first was high, the second split the plate. The third clipped the inside corner for another called strike. The next was over but low.

And then a high one. A crash as the "Bingo" swung and the ball started on a line between Hack Wilson and Kiki Cuyler. The ball left the bat a base hit and Simmons raced home under wraps. Miller ran to second. He could have gone on to third, but the ball game was over when Simmons touched the plate, so Miller was credited with a two base hit.

Haas had been mobbed by his enthusiastic fellows when he hit his home run. That scene was a pink tea compared to the picture when the final run was driven home. Miller tried to keep his shirt on but could not. His teammates tore it off. Harry A. Mackey, mayor of Philadelphia, abs deserted the presidential box to hug Haas after his home run. He had no chance to give an encore to Miller. This reception committee was composed exclusively of players.

Mack did not fail to be generous in his summing up. "We outplayed the Cubs," he said, "but we also outluck-ed them." He paid tribute to the defeated National leaguers, as "a great club."

The Cubs, from Manager McCarthy to the bat boy, were philosophical. "It's baseball," they said.

Paper Money Has Value!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

An ancient prejudice nursed the ignorant fear and distrust of paper money. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE inspires the faith which completely accepts the printed obligation. In the interest of convenience and safety, its use is universal.

"toasting did it" —

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Baseball will feel the effects of one of the biggest shakeups in its history when the major league champions of 1930 get under way. Since this season and thru the excitement of the world's series, more managerial changes have developed than in any single year on record, with no less than seven of the 16 clubs reorganizing for various reasons.

The death of Miller Huggins deprived the Yankees of a pilot who could have held his job as long as he wished but internal warfare, as well as demands for improvement contributed to most of the other changes in leadership that have been effected or are to be.

The big turnover began with the recall of Bill McKechnie to replace Billy Southworth in the leadership of the Cardinals, who abruptly sent the former to the minors after the debacle against the Yankees in the 1928 series.

Now McKechnie has a four-year contract with the Braves, a job that may easily take that long to get the Boston club lifted out of its long decline.

Donie Bush departed from Pittsburgh under circumstances reminiscent of McKechnie's leave-taking of the Pirates a year after winning the 1925 pennant. Donie lost little time signing a two-year contract with the White Sox, replacing Lena Blackburne, while Jewel Ems, a coach under Bush, assumed the leadership of the Pirates.

Dan Howley made a first-division club out of the St. Louis Browns but resigned after a season of some discontent, to be replaced by Bill Killefer. A change in the Cincinnati ownership involved the withdrawal of Jack Hendricks as manager, with at least a half dozen candidates in the field to succeed him.

"We will have a winning club in Cincinnati, no matter whether it takes one year, two or three years to build it up," said Sidney Weil, the new club president, to me during the world series.

"No player on the club is for sale and there are at least three, Red Lucas, Hughey Critz and Swanson, the new outfield star, who could not be bought for any price. When William Wrigley, Jr., asked me to put a price on Lucas, I just laughed. Lucas is the greatest pitcher in the league. There is no reason why we can't put baseball back on its feet in Cincinnati."

The rest of the National league club owners will watch the efforts of Mr. Weil to rebuild, with considerable interest, for his club has been a weak link, financially and competitively, for some time; so much so that there has been talking of shifting the franchise to such a city as Detroit.

Among the comebacks of the latter part of 1929, there have been: none more conspicuous than those of Jack Sharkey in the ring, Big Bill Tilden on the courts and Glenn Collett on the links.

Miss Collett's performance was no comeback in one sense of the word, for she demonstrated her supremacy in American golf for the second successive year at the fourth time altogether, yet it took a series of courageous uphill fights for her to even reach the final at Oakland Hills against Mrs. Leona Press.

Japanese Reply On Disarmament Is Reported Favorable

TOKYO, Oct. 15. (AP)—The Japanese cabinet today approved the final draft of the Japanese reply to the British invitation to a naval disarmament conference. The draft will be sent to the Japanese ambassador as soon as the emperor's sanction is obtained.

Government officials were loath to discuss the contents of the reply, but newspapers professing to have reliable information said it would contain four points, as follows:

- (1) Emphasizing Japan's satisfaction that Great Britain and the United States already have reached a basic agreement;
 - (2) Expressing Japanese willingness to participate in the conference in accordance with the spirit of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact;
 - (3) Offering to do everything possible by way of preliminary conversations to clear the way for a successful conference;
 - (4) Expressing a sincere desire that the conference may aim at definite reductions of naval armaments.
- "Hip Slapping" by customs officers to determine the presence of liquor flasks on persons returning from abroad has been forbidden by the treasury department.
- When the prince of Wales recently gave a party for fourteen, and one member failed to come because of illness, a doll was made to sit in place with the thirteen guests.
- If Iowa lays twenty additional miles of highway this month, it will have actually constructed more miles than were laid or contracted for in any other state.

LITTLEFIELD IS PROVING TO BE BRAINY COACH

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
 Associated Press Sports Writer

Clyde Littlefield, noted athlete at Texas university in his time, has won his spurs as coach of his alma mater. When the Longhorns won last year's Southwest Conference grid crown, many critics were prone to ascribe it to the wealth of material, rather than to the coaching genius on Littlefield's part. That reasoning received a jolt in the Steers' 27 to 0 triumph over Arkansas. The team that wears the orange this season is a Littlefield product. As freshman coach three years ago he taught several of its brightest stars their first college football. For the last two seasons, he has had them under his wing on the varsity. It is his team, and, as Arkansas doubtless will testify, a rather good one.

Texas Christian university will face the Aggies in Saturday's vital conflict at Fort Worth without the services of its powerful fullback, Aulstin Griffith, but neither low means nor advance alibis are emanating from the Frog camp. Harlos Green, sophomore find, has filled Griffith's berth. He threatens, in fact, to bulge over. In addition to his ball-toting and defensive ability, the youngster has a sure-shot toe. The Frogs scored four times on Centenary, and each time he tacked on the extra point. Ability to get that seventh point might prove powerfully important against the Aggies, who missed two out of three against Kansas.

The Baylor Bears probably felt let down when the Razorbacks curled up before the Longhorns at Fayetteville. Baylor has been priming for the Porkers ever since the season opened. Coach Jennings frankly believed that was the team he had to beat to reach the conference throne. Now he has a superb eleven steamed up for Saturday's tussle and almost nowhere to go, so to speak. To live up to its rating as heir apparent to the title, the green machine will have to crush Arkansas by as great a margin as Texas did.

Baylor enters its first conference fray without having had the advantage of a good, stiff game against a non-conference team. The Bears have looked great, but the fact remains they have not faced a real test. It might have been wiser to have sandwiched a hard bout in between those four early games and saved one of the Strength of Claude, Next Team to Play Here, Hard to Estimate Now

Coaches Mitchell and Fox of Central high school would give a great deal to know the strength of Claude's eleven, which will play here Friday.

The Claude boys are rated about two touchdowns weaker than Berger, but when they played the Hutchinson county team the latter was on its home ground and going stronger than it did here last week. Assuming that Claude is improving, the result might be that the second string men of Pampa could not hold them.

Coach Mitchell has written to several schools in hopes of getting tougher games for the first team, but has met with little success. Claude, Miami, and Wheeler in a row are not calculated to point the Harvesters for the bi-division play-off coming about Arizona. "sure things" to break the conference grind.

This week's inter-sectional dish at Dallas, bringing together Texas and Oklahoma universities, should draw a capacity house. There probably are as many old grads of the two schools in Texas as of any other institutions that could be named. Two special trains will bring them from Oklahoma. Rivalry between the Longhorns and Sooner dates back to 1900. They have met on the gridiron 24 times, Texas winning 14, Oklahoma 8, and two resulting in ties.

Two Men Charged in Assault Attempt

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15. (AP)—James H. Grigsby, film actor, today was held under $1,000 bond for trial on a charge of attempted assault brought by Mrs. Habel Soller Kuechmeister, beauty contest winner.

Leob L. Cossack, San Bernardino, Calif., attorney, recently was bound over to Superior court for trial on a similar charge brought by the youthful Chicago matron.

Mrs. Kuechmeister testified that on the night of September 20, Cossack and Grigsby invited her to go for an automobile ride with them, after having halted her as she stood in front of a cafe. She said they took her to an apartment house where Cossack attempted to attack her, and that Grigsby volunteered to take her home. Instead of driving her home, however, she said the man took her to an isolated section of the city, and he also attempted to attack her.

Consolidation of Church Schools May Be Avoided

DALLAS, Oct. 15. (AP)—The problem of placing Methodist colleges and universities in Texas on a firm economic foundation, under investigation by the Methodist educational commission for several years, neared a head today as members of the commission met to draft their report.

It was thought the commission would request more authority so it would be free to put into effect any program of retrenchment it might deem necessary.

At the time the commission was appointed it seemed inevitable that some of the institutions would be consolidated, but since that time churchmen believe conditions have improved and consolidation may not be necessary. The commission has surveyed 10 different Methodist educational institutions in the state.

The report must be approved by the five conferences of the church in the state.

According to the plans of the sponsors, each radio dealer in the city will hold open house on the afternoons and evenings of Oct. 17, 18, and 19, when the public may visit the shops. At each shop a courtesy coupon worth ten votes in the contest will be given every visitor.

Buyers of radios will receive 100 votes for each dollar spent in the purchase of a radio between Oct. 15, when the contest opened, and Nov. 2, when it will close.

The local P.-T. A. council will compete with individuals and organizations in all North Parkland counties for the district prize. In the event a radio is won, it will be placed in the auditorium for the use of the schools of the city. There is a great need for it in public school courses, according to Miss Iva June Willis, supervisor of that branch.

Hupmobile introduces a completely modernistic treatment of all bodies and equipment by using a single decorative theme.

This striking motif of geometrical origin includes a median line on all bodies which divides the ensemble into separate and contiguous planes. All windshield visors, roof valances, rear panels and rear decks carry out this original theme.

Superimposed planes and facets are the keynote used to complement this unique body design. All bumper attachments, lights, foot rest and robe rail brackets and all interior hardware bear the same new and simple motif. Thus does Hupmobile announce the first unified beauty theme in a complete series of models.

AN ALL TALKING COMEDY

A WASHINGTON BYSTANDER

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Senator Smith, Brookhart has worked out this business of opposing prohibition on a sound mathematical basis.

The junior senator from Iowa popped into the limelight rather unexpectedly the other day on the question. His revelation on the floor of the senate that some of his colleagues were in attendance at a wet party in the capital recently has stirred up something closely akin to a hornet's nest.

There is talk that he will be asked to go before a grand jury soon and tell all he knows. And if he is called, the senator intimates that he will divulge plenty.

It is necessary to go back some 20 years to get the proper slant on the senator's attitude.

In 1907—and from then until he entered the senate—Brookhart was an expert rifle instructor. At that time he was trying to teach Iowa national guardsmen how to shoot.

Beer and liquor in those days were as prevalent around camp as rifles and ammunition. Brookhart soon concluded that the two were not compatible.

Plenty Dry

So he went to the governor of Iowa. So impressed was the executive that he told his rifle instructor to write any kind of "bone dry" law he chose, and that it would have his signature.

Brookhart did. So "bone dry" was it that even if a man who did nothing but tack up targets on the range was found drinking, out he went. And not only the guilty one, but also every member of his detail.

Such disciplinary action had its effect. Since that time the senator has personally trained 26,000 men—more than any man in the world.

During the succeeding years he made a careful study of the effect of stimuulants on nerve coordination. And he can tell these figures off at a moment's notice.

His Statistics

Says the senator:
If one drinks mild beer his efficiency is decreased 7 per cent.
If one smokes tobacco his efficiency is decreased 5 per cent. (No study was made of those who chew.)
If one drinks tea or coffee his efficiency is decreased 3 per cent.
Stimulants stronger than mild beer were never considered. The man who so indulged was not fit for study.

Brookhart believes that these figures are as accurate and scientific as any. His study on mild beer was substantiated by tests made in Germany.

He indulges in none of these himself. And he attributes the success of his rifle teams to abstinence. As evidence, he points to the fact that his teams improved their standing from twenty-fourth place in 1907 to:

1908—Twelfth.
1909—Tenth.
1910—Fourth.

Since that time teams he has coached have always been in the front rank, often defeating the best rifle squads in the country.

THE INDIAN TEPEE
By Mary Graham Bonner

The little black clock had certainly succeeded in changing the whole scene back several hundred years.

No sooner had he told John and Peggy of his magic powers than they saw an Indian tepee. All around was a great prairie, and in the distance the children saw a fine herd of buffaloes.

The tepee had figures painted on it and all sorts of fancy pictures. Smoke was curling out of the top, and from the little opening at one side an Indian chief appeared.

How magnificent he was! How tall, how splendid, how strong! John longed to feel his muscle, but he waited to see what would happen.

"Enter," said the chief. "Boy of many years from now, enter and be welcome."

Then at the opening of the tepee appeared an Indian squaw, and following her were several children.

"Girl of many years from now, enter! Enter and be welcome," she said to Peggy.

So Peggy and John and the little clock entered the tepee.

There the fire was burning. The chief and the squaw and the children sat around on stones in front of the fire. John and Peggy looked about at the low beds, the feathers, the pipe of the great chief and toys belonging to the children.

"Boy of the White Face, Girl with Eyes the Color of the Sky on the Noblest Days," began the chief, "we will eat of soup and corn before the Clock dance begins."

The squaw saw that all had plenty to eat. Peggy saw the dolls belonging to the Indian girls, and John was most interested in arrowheads.

Then the chief gave a great whoop. "We must get ready. We must put on more paint, more beads, more feathers. The dance, O Mighty Little Clock, is about to begin."

The clock clapped his hands. "This is going to be splendid. I hoped they would do this for us."
