HOOVER BUDGET MESSAGE SAYS TAX REDUCTION POSSIBLE

BIG SURPLUS NEXT YEAR IS SEEN BY HIM

Reduction Asked to Be Stimulus to Country

FOUR BILLIONS NEEDED IN 1930

Increases for Several Branches Are Probable

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—President Hoover informed congress today that it would require more than four billion dollars to run the federal government for the next fiscal year, but in doing so he presented encouraging figures on treasury finances and reiterated his recommendation for a quick reduction in taxes.

He submitted the first annual budget for the Hoover administration, which contained 1,504 pages with an accompanying summary. It called for appropriations of $3,830,446,231 and estimated the outlay for the year beginning next July 1 at $4,102,939,700. At the end of that time a surplus of $122,800,000 would be available.

The appropriations were $148,696,000 less than for this year. A $200,000,000 appropriation for the farm board, to be submitted later, and a $72,000,000 carryover from last year, however, made up the difference between the amount requested and the estimated expenditures which covered all of the major projects of the government.

Although he had recommended the 1 per cent reduction in corporation and individual income taxes his annual message, which was submitted yesterday the president devoted considerable space to this subject in the budget message.

He called the attention of congress to past expenditures which had shown that business prosperity had been stimulated by lowering of taxes.

"With an estimated surplus of over $225,000,000, this year and $122,000,000 next year," he said, "it is felt that some measure of reduction in taxes is justified."

The army, the navy, rivers and harbors, flood control, Indian care and forest protection were some of the activities listed for increases in funds over those available last year, that for the navy being $16,399,000.

The prohibition bureau would get $15,200,000, or $1,275,000 more than for the present year.

A sound financial structure was portrayed by the president who said the public debt stood at $16,931,000,000 last June 30. At its peak in August 1919 it was $26,596,000,000.

President Hoover's views were reflected by Secretary Mellon, whose annual report was submitted to congress within a few minutes after the budget was delivered. The secretary said the treasury expected an income of $4,249,263,434 next year.

Even while the budget message and the report of Secretary Mellon were being formally placed on record, the house ways and means committee reported a resolution for tax reduction, and it will be taken up for action on Thursday.

—AND A SMILE

NEW YORK (AP)—Aboard the ocean liner Ile de France there were reports that tricky gentlemen of the green cloth were keeping a sharp watch for victims. A stranger stroled up to Harry Fox, who helps make Broadway laugh, and invited him to bridge or poker. Harry replied he played cards only at home.

"But," he added, "I'll tell you what I'll play with you."

The stranger's eyes brightened. "I'll play postoffice," said Harry.

HEART ATTACK CAUSES DEATH OF LOCAL MAN

A sudden heart attack was fatal to E. F. Brake, 48, well-known churchman and general contractor, this morning at 7:15 o'clock just after he had finished loading a truck with bags of cement at the Panhandle Lumber company. Mr. Brake was preparing to crank the engine when he was stricken.

He had been living in Pampa about three years, with residence at 703 North Frost street. He was taken to the G. C. Malone funeral home in an ambulance immediately following his death. Definite hour for funeral services tomorrow at the First Baptist church will not be announced until arrival of relatives. Burial arrangements also will be announced later. G. C. Malone funeral home has charge of the body.

Mr. Brake came here from Merrimack, Okla. He was prominent in activities at the First Baptist church, where he was a member of the board of deacons and associate superintendent of the adult department of the Sunday school. He was also church clerk.

Mrs. Brake told physicians this morning that her husband was restless last night, but ate a hearty breakfast before he left for work this morning.

Mr. Brake is survived by his wife; three daughters, Mrs. K. G. Andrew of Sapulpa, Okla.; Mrs. Frank H. Caton, Tulsa, Okla.; and Miss Hildred, who is a student at Central high school. His only surviving son is Stanley, an employe at the Humble Refining company. Three surviving sisters are Mrs. A. H. Rennebaum, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Clarence Brown, Vergil, Kans.; Mrs. E. B. McKee, Glen Pool, Okla. Surviving brothers are Frank, George and William Brake, Connerville, Ind., and Lynn Brake, Peru, Kans. Two sons preceded him in death. Mr. Brake was born at Brooksville, Ind.

Resort Operators Acquitted

RICHMOND, Dec. 4. (AP)—Fred C. Browning and B. C. Wakefield were acquitted by a jury here last night on charges of having operated Loma Linda, a night club, as a gambling resort. Browning and Wakefield were billed after the club was raided by Texas Rangers in August, 1928. Gambling paraphernalia was seized.

Labor Chief Killed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—James P. Noonan, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor and president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, died here today from burns received in his apartment.

The Knights of Pythias and the Pythian Sisters, assisted by a large group of friends, last night gave the first performance of their jubilee minstrel show, under the direction of "Happy Doc" Holland. The second and last performance will be given this evening at the Central auditorium, beginning at 8:15 o'clock.

The show, arranged in three parts, was one of great variety. It opened with a blackface song and dance act which was well seasoned with wisecracks and minstrel jokes. Harold White acted as interlocutor, and the end men were as follows: J. A. King, Mr. Holland, Murry Freundlich, Moses Johnson, S. J. Rice, Walter D. Hardin, Morris Johnson, and Bert Ochiltree. The minstrel circle included the following: S. S. Gault, Ernest Gee, T. G. Green, J. T. Cooper, E. R. Hunsate, C. C. Matheny, S. Erling Williams, Cloyce Cloud, John Shannon, O. G. Smith, Roy Sullivan, T. G. Nabers, Rhy Wilson, and Charlie Thompson.

Vocal solos were sung by John Shannon, S. J. Rice, Walter Hardin, Morris Johnson, and Bert Ochiltree. Ochiltree's presentation of "Sadie Green from New Orleans," almost professionally clever, and J. Milliken's tap dancing were the features of the blackface performance. Grady Morton, in a dashing Spanish costume, sang three popular songs in the smouldering, sardonic mood. A pantomime of "Old Black Joe," in which Steffing Williams was Uncle Joe and Roy Sullivan, Aunt Chloe, received applause. The act closed with a fanfare in which Uncle Sam, a soldier, and a sailor appeared, waving the stars and stripes.

Solo numbers largely comprised the second act. Miss Josephine Maxwell sang two numbers, and Miss Nellie Hardin did a blues song effectively. Irene Poffenbarger and Thelma Frutice did a dance act that included some rather complicated acrobatics, and did it with skill. Roy Wilson, Murry Freundlich, and T. G. Nabers sang solos. J. A. King, as "Unconscious," right end man, received his greatest applause singing a recent popular favorite and Swiss yodeling melodies. Mr. Holland again sang and wisecracked. Mrs. Ray Chambers played two violin numbers that were much enjoyed. Vern Springer played the guitar in an inter-act, after which Charles Thompson sang and played his own mandolin accompaniment.

One of the hits of the evening was Harold White's planologue, "Waiting for Ships that Never Come In." For an encore he did a novelty dance that also brought unusual applause. H. H. McKimmig played the piano for the entire show, with the exception of Mrs. Chambers' violin solo. For that number Mrs. Ray Wilson played the accompaniment.

"In the Trenches," farce and slapstick comedy, was the grand finale, the end men and minstrel circle of the first act filling the roles of soldiers in a comic war camp.

Precisely this evening's performance will be a short lecture by Dr. Dean C. Dutton of Oklahoma university, who is here under the auspices of the Pampa schools. Those attending the show are cordially invited to arrive earlier for Dr. Dutton's address, which will be given at 7:45 o'clock.

'UNFRIENDLY' ACT IS CHARGE AGAINST U. S. A.

President Is Delaying Comment Upon Note

FRANCE WILL SEND MESSAGE

Unnecessary Pressure in China Row Is Alleged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—Unconcealed astonishment and vigorous, if unofficial, denial today greeted the charge of Soviet Russia that unfriendly motives lay behind American efforts to prevent warfare between the Soviet Union and China.

Awaiting receipt of the Russian memorandum, forwarded through French diplomatic channels, government officials studied the text of the communication as transmitted by press correspondents and informally expressed surprise and amazement at the severity of its tone and the harshness with which it criticized the action of the United States in calling attention to commitments under the Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war.

In this connection, they singled out the passage asserting that this step of the American government could not be taken as a friendly act in view of the progress of negotiations with the Mukden provincial government of Manchuria for a direct settlement of the dispute over the Chinese eastern railway, the controversy which gave rise to the Sino-Russian crisis.

Hoover Withholds Comment President Hoover and Secretary Stimson were informed of the Russian response to America's peace proposals last night, but together with other high officers of the administration declined to comment.

Subordinate officers of the state department, however, were not hesitant about speaking their opinion of the new turn in the Sino-Russian situation. Wonder was expressed as to how the government's effort to mobilize the public opinion of the world in opposition to war in the Orient and to remind China and Russia of their treaty commitments could be construed as other than purely in the interest of peace.

Particular significance was attached to the phraseology of the passage asserting that Russia could not regard the American reminder as a friendly act. It was pointed out that in the parlance of diplomacy this language has come to acquire an especial emphasis and importance.

MOSCOW, Dec. 4. (AP)—The Soviet government notified the United States today it could not consider the American note reminding the Russian and Chinese governments of their Kellogg pact obligations as a "friendly act."

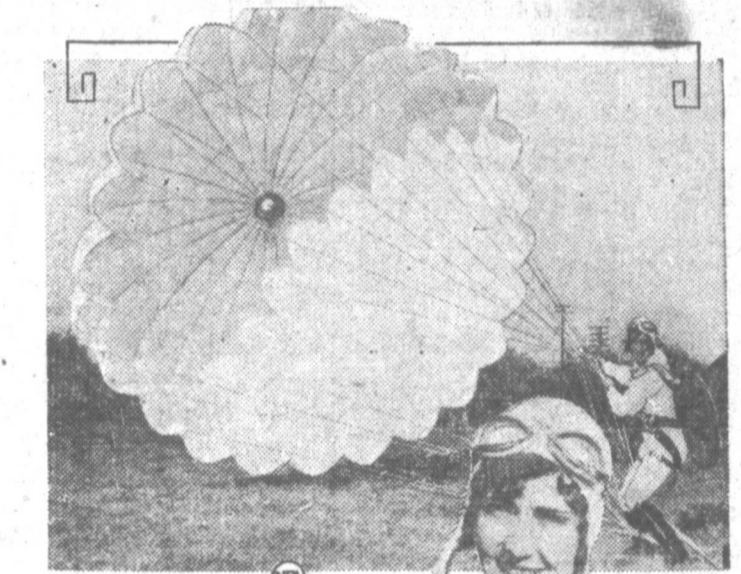

In a memo handed the French ambassador, Maurice Herbet, by Maxim Litvinoff, acting commissar for foreign affairs, the Soviet government expressed "amazement that the government of the United States, which by its own will has no official relations with the Soviet, deems it possible to apply to it with advice and counsel."

In another place the memorandum said: "The Soviet government states further that the pact of Paris does not give any single state or group of states the function of protector of this pact. The Soviet at any rate never expressed consent that any states themselves, or by mutual consent, should take upon themselves such a right."

Prior to publication of the memorandum announcement was made that plenipotentiaries of the Moscow and Mukden provincial governments, conferring at Nikolai-Ussurilsky, a few miles north of Vladivostok, had signed a protocol reorganizing the administration of the disputed Chinese Eastern

She'll Leap 15,000 Feet to Fame

NEA Los Angeles Bureau A leap into space at an altitude of 15,000 feet! That's the daring feat to be attempted soon by Miss Billie Brown of El Monte, Calif., to set a new world's record for women parachute jumpers. Miss Brown has already surpassed the present record of 8325 feet in unofficial tests, and will carry a sealed barograph on her next attempt over Calles airport at El Monte. Aware of the danger if her parachute fails to open, Miss Brown makes it a point always to test her own chute, which she is doing in the upper picture. FIVE AIRPLANES MAKING UP PAMPA AEROCADE TO ROSWELL AIRPORT DEDICATION LEAVE

Five planes making up Pampa's aerocade to the dedication of Roswell New Mexico's airport today were winging their way toward the new landing field this morning.

Beginning about 8 o'clock, the five ships took the air and without mishap headed westward. The ships and their pilots follow:

Cree & Hoover Dutch Bartgis pilot. Murphy & McKernan, Jack Seiger pilot.

Pampa Refining company, Boyd Kennedy pilot. Dr. J. C. McKean with himself as pilot.

Bill Ponder, Ryan line distributor, piloting his own cabin plane.

The planes carried several passengers, largely friends of the pilots, while local business men included DeLea Vicars and Bob Sower.

The party will be among the guests of the Roswell Chamber of Commerce this evening, and the return trip will be made tomorrow morning.

Roswell dispatches say that Governor R. C. Dillon of New Mexico will be on hand to greet the guests, and Col. E. A. Lohman of the army air corps, who will head the contingent of military planes, will speak on aviation during the ceremonies. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was invited, but it was believed he probably would be unable to be present.

The Roswell airport has one of the most modern lighting systems, which in recent tests enabled planes to take off and land very easily at night.

Deputies Charged With Conspiracy

WACO, Dec. 4. (AP)—Two Freestone county deputy sheriffs and seventeen other men were named by the last federal grand jury in an indictment charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, it was learned when their bonds were set before the U. S. commissioner.

The deputy sheriffs, Abe Chavers and Raymond Davis, were charged with accepting money for protection of operators. Roger Young, wealthy Freestone county citizen, was among those named.

COLLISION AT NOON INJURES NEW RESIDENT

J. C. Lewis May Have Fracture of Skull

TWO CITIZENS ARE IN HOSPITAL

H. L. Case and William R. Kaufman in Accident

In a collision between a truck and a small car just north of the bridge in the Cook-Adams addition at noon today, J. C. Lewis, 47, suffered a concussion of the brain, back injuries, a severely lacerated scalp, and painful body bruises, while his son, J. C. Lewis, Jr., 17, was painfully bruised and cut.

Both were rushed to McKean & Connor hospital, where surgeons said there is a possibility that the father has a fractured skull, and the son may have suffered internal injuries. An hour after the accident, the elder Lewis was in a dazed condition. The Lewis family came here three months ago from Amarillo. The father and son were riding in the chassis of a small car that had been converted into a truck. Mr. Lewis was brought to the hospital by A. Greening.

Observers and the Lewis boy said that the truck coming from a side street, collided with the rear end of the Lewis car, which was coming to town. Name of the truck driver had not been learned early this afternoon.

Two Pampa men were injured and two Amarillo residents suffered leg fractures early last night when their cars crashed near the English airport just east of Amarillo.

H. L. Case, prominent local contractor who has the courthouse contract, suffered severe chest injuries and a bad cut on the right side of the head, but he was not seriously hurt. W. E. Kourban, local architect, who designed the courthouse and other local structures, who was riding with Mr. Case, has minor fractures, including a sprained and bruised ankle.

George S. Vineyard, sales manager of the Great West Mill & Elevator company of Amarillo, and Bill Dohoney, assistant traffic manager of the same firm, suffered broken legs and other injuries. Mr. Dohoney's fracture was particularly bad, according to his nurse at St. Anthony's hospital, where all of the men were rushed in Boxwell Bros. ambulances called by J. D. Clark of Amarillo, who found the victims unconscious.

Both cars were demolished and spectators were inclined to wonder that fatalities did not result. It appeared that the crash was almost head-on, but no explanation had been made today.

Mr. Vineyard and Mr. Dohoney were on their way to Berger to attend a retail merchants' banquet at the time of the accident.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S INSISTENCE UPON PUBLIC AND PRIVATE BUILDING PROGRAMS IN 1930 SHOULD HAVE AN INDIRECT BUT NEVERTHELESS INFLUENTIAL EFFECT UPON THE PAMPA-CHILDRESS RAILROAD PROJECT.

This territory certainly needs a north-south rail line, and its construction would be in line with the Hoover idea. There is no need for retrenchment now. And the joint trackage proposal between Shamrock and Wellington removes the competitive angle insofar as double expenditure is concerned.

Fort Worth & Denver officials seem superbly confident that they will be given the I. C. C. permit to start work early next year. The Rock Island, which wishes to build from Shamrock to near Quanah, also feels that it is sure to get Interstate Commerce Commission approval. The Fort Worth & Denver has formed a Texas corporation to finance the proposed line, while the Rock Island has proposed an appropriation of $5,500,000, which its directors will consider early in January.

In addition to the ultimate benefits of the completed roads, the construction of the two lines would mean much immediately to points along the routes. Granting of the permits would result in immediate stability, and would tend to encourage private building. Immediate movement of men and materials from major points along the routes would be necessary. Thousands of dollars would be spent with merchants. Pampa would undoubtedly be a base for supplies of the Denver, just as Shamrock would be for the Rock Island portion of the work.

While nothing is definite enough to basic a prediction upon, every consideration seems to encourage the view that approval of all Panhandle rail requests will be made. It would be little short of ridiculous should a remote body in far-away Washington hold back the progress of these developing plans.

ARE WE GROWING MORE RELIGIOUS?
 It is generally taken for granted that ours is a somewhat irreligious age. From pulpit, editorial column and magazine page we are continually being told that we have less faith than our fathers had. But Commissioner John McMillan, who commands the Salvation Army forces of the middle western district, does not agree. He thinks that true religion is making more progress than ever before.
 "Though church pews regrettably may be less crowded than they were two decades ago, and the purely outward manifestations of religion not so evident, nevertheless, men's hearts have softened more in the spirit of helpfulness and brotherhood during the past ten years than ever before in history," he says.

"Judged simply by deeds and not by talk, society is definitely on the up-grade in humanitarian impulses, and the world by and large is a much better place to live in than even fifty years ago.

"The development of the high order of ethics now guiding the conduct of big business, and the growth of widespread civic consciousness are social attributes which have back of them an unconscious spirituality that may in large measure be attributed to the seed of religious inspiration sown during the past generation of intense evangelism. This seed today is bearing fruit, with the result that many who profess religion at all are being actuated by genuine religious impulses, sometimes difficult to discover, but which, nevertheless, are moving the hearts of men to compassion for their less fortunate fellows as never before in the world's history."

Commissioner Cook points out that already more than 400,000 people have contributed to build up the fund through which the Salvation Army will carry on its work in the Chicago district during the coming year. Which, in very truth, makes it look as if the spirit of genuine Christianity were pretty widely diffused. — Childress Index.

Such staunch bachelors as Horace Park and this column mechanic may not be well organized like these Bachelors Protective association members, but, as Horace says, you can't beat us for results. (Not an adv.)

But we're getting so frequent at we are going to get accustomed to cigars, as much as we are prejudiced against them since reading those recent "spit" ads in the big magazines.

Come to think of it, airplane conductors would have a hard job if they called off all the stations they pass.

Heard: Local golfer say he was going to train a pup to carry balls and drop them into little cups on the sly. But that would be a "doggie," not a birdie nor an ace.

It takes fifteen days for the human body to recover from loss of two consecutive nights' sleep, according to experts. At that rate some people we know are going to have to live a long time to "catch up" before they die.

Those who took our advice, they said, on how to escape colds have suffered bad ones, and since we have not taken our own advice we are unable to say whether they are justified in calling us a "quack".

"A great many people, perfectly honest, useful, intelligent, and successful, never receive from the printed page anything which helps them to live more intelligently," says a Massachusetts professor. He sounds like the defense counsel defending those Weatherford jurors.

Grubbs to Meet Kitchens Again in Pla-Mor Bout

Featuring an "all-star revenge" card at the Pla-Mor auditorium Dec. 12, Neal "Pug" Grubbs of Berger is scheduled for another 8-round bout with K. O. Kitchens, the pride of Pampa, according to an announcement this morning from Jesse C. Rogers, promoter Grubbs who now lays claim to the bantam as well as the featherweight championship of the southwest, was signed up to fight his old adversary after Skeet Sherrod reported he would not be able to fight because of injuries sustained in a recent bout with Kid Platter.

"I've already licked him once, but I've got to have some money to go home Christmas, so I'll take him on. This time there's not going to be any doubt but what Pug has been whipped," Kitchens said yesterday.

Fight fans will remember that K. O. and Pug fought a bloody eight rounds here a month ago with no decision being awarded. Pug's father and manager sends word that his son now weighs 121 pounds. Kitchens weight is 128. K. O. sent word to Rogers yesterday that he can't come to Pampa to work out but has fixed up the basement in his uncle's home near Miami, preparing to get revenge for that draw. As for Pug? Why, there's not the least doubt in that sleek-headed youngster's mind about his losing the tilt.

Cyclone Bonds is the other pugilist who will seek for gory revenge on the same night. Night and day he thinks of nothing except how he is going to give Luther Platter a worse beating than the latter gave him Thanksgiving night. Platter and Bonds will go for 10 rounds if one does not knock out the other. With these two bouts featuring the card, Rogers believes the program is the best he has ever offered to Pampans and he has advertised it as "The Winner."

fully running the universe. He is architect, builder, universal artist, musician, chemist, naturalist. The theological interpretation must be enlarged to include the Creator's relationship to the material universe and as a masterful planner of the whole infinite affair."

This Dr. Dean C. Dutton told his audience last night at the First Methodist church, delivering his second night lecture to Pampans. Dr. Dutton's subject tonight at the church will be "The Majesty of Man." Thursday at 11 o'clock at the central gymnasium his subject will be "The Art of Being a Life-Long Lover." Dr. Dutton says this lecture will be a discussion of love and sex matters and will be given before the senior and junior high school boys. Fathers are invited to be present.

The lecturer, who is head of the extension division of the University of Oklahoma, came here under the auspices of the high school and churches. He talks to high school students twice daily.

Dr. Dutton explains that his talk to the high school boys will not be an ordinary sex talk. "Many a young man makes a mess of courtship and wedlock simply because he does not know the beautiful sacred meaning of it all," he says.

Friday afternoon at three o'clock, Dr. Dutton will address high school girls, fathers and mothers on "the sex-love world of a woman" in an address entitled, "The Sacredness of Love Intimacies."

Operators' Firm Has Record Reading Like Romance

Having made two fortunes, valued at over a million dollars each, within a year, Tom Doswell and other officials of the Operators Oil company will begin drilling operations here again as soon as they finish business details connected with the sale of their company to Sunray Oil corporation last Thursday.

At present, and for some time in the future, Mr. Doswell will continue to represent the purchasing coming in its field here.

Starting as practically unknown wildcat operators, the company managed by Mr. Doswell within a year became one of the major concerns in the Gray county field. Under his early leadership, valuable acreage was acquired and during the last nine months gusher after gusher was brought in. The beginning and development of the Operators Oil company properties would read like a romance.

Operators first sale involved an 80-acre lease in the Bowers pool to Phillips Petroleum company for $1,200,000. The company was sold last week to Sunray for $2,000,000.

Miss Mary Virginia Glover has returned from a visit with her sister, Miss Betty Louise, who is a student in C. I. A. at Denton.

The view was taken in the Moscow memorandum, which was to be forwarded to Paris and Washington, that the American note came at a time when some conditions of the negotiations already had been agreed upon. "In view of this fact," the memorandum said: "The declaration cannot but be considered unjustifiable pressure on the negotiations and cannot therefore be taken as a friendly act."

EIGHT FAMILIES ARE CARED FOR IN WELFARE WORK

The Pampa Welfare association is now providing for eight destitute families in the city, or a total of 35 persons, according to Rev. James Todd, Jr., who has been in charge of the charity work of the association since Nov. 22. These families are being furnished food, clothes, fuel and other necessities of life.

Clothing and shoes are being distributed this week at the Lamar and Baker schools. Rev. Todd suggests that those who are in need of wearing apparel apply to him at his office at the G. C. Malone funeral home. The association has a sizeable supply of shoes on hand now.

Rev. Todd investigates each case from all angles before help is given. The association was compelled to place a family back on the charity list this week when a month-old baby became ill with smallpox and the family was quarantined. Several members of the family have just recovered from the contagious disease.

Last week a family reported to be in dire need of food was brought to the attention of Rev. Todd. He investigated and found that the five children, mother and father had had nothing but cornbread to eat for two days. The mother had been taking in washing which her husband collected and delivered, but this revenue was stopped when he became too ill to work.

Mrs. A. Frank Hill has accepted a position as Dr. E. L. Thomason's secretary. Before her recent marriage, Mrs. Hill was employed at the Davis Electric company office for a time. She formerly was Miss Isabel Hafner.

Executive Board of A. A. U. W. College Club Meets Tuesday

The executive board of the Pampa Branch of American Association of University Women and College club will recommend to the club at its luncheon meeting, Saturday noon, the election of Miss Josephine Carraker as chairman of the committee on international relations, and the cancellation of the memberships of those who have not paid dues for the year with a given time.

An executive session was held last evening at the home of the president, with Mrs. Tom E. Rose presiding. A detailed discussion of plans for the founders' day banquet and program, which will be given in January, was held, following reports from the entertainment committee.

MISS WILMA BEHREND'S GIVES SMALL PARTY

Miss Wilma Behrends was hostess last evening at a delightful party at her country home. Three tables were arranged for bridge, with the players as follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip R. Pond, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Trimble, and Harry E. Hoare.

Favors were given Mrs. Trimble and Mr. Pond for high scores. Mr. Trimble was consoled for low, and Mr. Craig was given high cut favor. Delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. E. Paul Adkins and infant daughter, Ruth, have returned to their home in Tulsa, after an extended visit with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Minnis.

Father Chooses to Pay Fine of Boy Not in School

Choice of either paying a fine or starting his 16-year-old son to school was given to a father this morning by Police Judge C. O. Busby after the youth had been arrested for speeding and found guilty. The police judge contended the boy ought to be in school instead of rushing up and down the streets in an automobile. The father said his son didn't have any clothes "fit to wear." "Look at his clothes—you wouldn't want him to go to school in that garb." The judge looked down at the torn overalls and did not fail to mention that he saw the gray trousers showing through the holes. He also noticed the good shoes the boy wore. "That's all I can do for you. The boy ought to be in school. You can pay it or send him to school. Your choice." The father said the fine.

Cigar Store Is Robbed of $161

For two days officers have been searching for burglars who entered the United Cigar store Sunday night and took $161 in cash from a space in a cigar store. The burglary was discovered early Monday morning, soon after March M. Rutherford, owner, opened the store. It is believed the robbers may have gained entrance through an opening in the roof of the store. The opening in the roof was removable and was built of boards. It was about two feet square. Police and county officers are working on the case.

The Avenging Parrot

©1929 by NEA Service, Inc. Anne Austin, author of "The Black Pigeon," "Rival Wives," etc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED BONNIE DUNDEE, "our" detective under LIEUTENANT STRAWN of the homicide squad of Houston, sees a room at Mrs. RHODES' boarding house to be seen Mrs. EMMA HOGARTH, who has applied to the police for protection Dundee meets other boarders: MRS. SHARP, DASHY SHEPHERD, saleswoman WALTER STYLES, proprietor of a small haberdashery; NORMA PAIGE, his fiancée; BERT MAGNUS, an amateur scenario writer; CORA BARKER, theater pianist; HENRY DOWD, newsboy out of work, and DUSTY RHODES, wireless husband of Mrs. Rhodes. Dundee learns that Mrs. Hogarth constantly changes her will to assist a new favorite. Names the latest address, introduces Dundee to Mrs. Hogarth after dinner, but he gets only a few minutes' chat with her alone. He leaves at 11, promising to return later. He comes back at 12:20 to find her choked to death. Strawn takes charge of the investigation. Dundee, stationed behind a screen in the murder room, sees a man enter Mrs. Hogarth's room. A detective reports that SEVIER, former boarder, left town on the one o'clock train. Dundee sees a man running across the alley as he went for his car about 12:10 to make a call. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX "YES, I watched him until he disappeared," Dr. Weeks answered. "As soon as the car had backed out of the alley, the man straightened up, and ran faster than ever out of the alley into Tenth street. "In the direction the car had taken?" Strawn asked. Perhaps that car, turning briefly into the alley and flashing its headlights, had been a pre-arranged signal. "No. The opposite direction—toward Maple avenue, the street just north of Chestnut, you know. The car turned toward Chestnut. "Could you distinguish the make of the car or its occupants?" "No—neither. In fact, I paid no attention to the car. I was watching the man. If I had had my wits about me and had not been in such a hurry to make my call—a pretty sick patient by the way—I suppose I should have challenged the man, or reported the matter to the police. Or if I had known the man to be a former boarder, an evicted one, I should, of course, have notified Mrs. Rhodes of his strange behavior. I have a high regard for Mrs. Rhodes. "I'm sure you have, doctor," Strawn interrupted. "And thank you very much. You've helped me a great deal. You'll be needed by the inquest, of course. . . . By the way, doctor, you say you attended Mrs. Hogarth occasionally during the last three or four years. In your opinion, was she—well, mentally normal?" The doctor chuckled, then remembered he was in a room where murder had been committed a very short time before, and looked embarrassed. "One of the shrewdest women I've ever met. Lieutenant Strawn. And the most close-mouthed. A queer woman, but not a crazy woman. I'm sure of that, Lieutenant Strawn."

Cora Barker, escorted by the patrolman, appeared in the doorway.

top of it. I took her fingerprints first thing, and they match with those found on the desk. No prints on the keys, either. "When Carraway had left, Strawn joined Dundee behind the screen. "Well, boy, I'm afraid this case is going to be too simple for your tastes," the older detective commented, a gleam of triumphant mirth in his eyes. Dundee grinned amiably, then remarked, very casually: "I wonder why it took Sevier—if it was Sevier the doctor saw—so long to run from here to the station? He was still running when he caught the train, you know. How far is it from the Rhodes House to the Union Station?" Strawn scowled. "As a matter of fact, it's only about 10 blocks. But that doesn't prove anything, Dundee. Sevier must have known we'd get on his trail, because of the old lady's complaints against him. He wouldn't board a train with the swag on him. My idea is that he met a fence somewhere, who undertook to take care of the stuff for him until the police were tired of watching him, or released him on insufficient evidence. Either that, or he hid it somewhere, and then barely had time to make the train he had advertised he was going to take. No flies on Sevier," he added admiringly. "As a matter of cold fact, unless we get more on him than we now have, we shan't be able to get a conviction. If we could find that car—whatever swung his lights full on a running man in an alley is going to have a pretty good picture of that man fixed in his mind. Guess I'd better get the papers to help me. Mrs. Rhodes is holding some reporters at bay downstairs now." "It was more than 15 minutes before Lieutenant Strawn returned from his session with the reporters. "Well, that's that!" Strawn commented with satisfaction. "I gave the newspaper boys the low-down on our suspicions of Sevier. He told them to soft-pedal it; just to say that Sevier was wanted for questioning. They ate up the doctor's story of the running man and the car, and are going to ask the driver of the car to come forward, like a good citizen, and tell anything he knows. . . . Say, young feller, me lad, what are you grinning about?" he broke off to demand half angrily. "I was just thinking," Dundee confessed, his eyes twinkling. "How Sevier must have known we'd get on his trail, because of the old lady's complaints against him. I should have gone about this case." The careful wording did not deceive Strawn. He flushed, then shrugged. "All right! Spill it! How would you have gone about this case?" "I'm afraid I should have made an awful lot of work for myself and the police department," Dundee admitted, ruefully. "I should have begun on the supposition that any one who lived in this house, or who had ever lived in it, or had even taken a meal in it, and had heard the story of a miser with a hidden hoard in her room, was a possible suspect. Greed, you know, is such a universal passion. I believe it is responsible for more crimes than any other motive, isn't it?" "Of course, I realize that things look bad for Sevier—provided any one comes forward to identify him as the man running down the alley," Dundee went on, with his disarming smile. "But I can't help remembering, lieutenant, that everyone in this house knew Emil Sevier had been evicted on Mrs. Hogarth's complaints, that Sevier would be leaving town to look elsewhere for work, and that the police would think of him first as the murderer!" "And I also can't help remembering," Dundee went on, with that same quiet emphasis, "that everyone in this house knew that Mrs. Hogarth's reinforced window screen would be installed Monday, making access to her room from the porch impossible. Unless Cora Barker or someone else has been keeping him informed, Sevier could not have known that the screen was not already in place. Mrs. Hogarth told me she had given Dusty Rhodes the money to buy materials for it nearly a month ago. Also, I heard Mrs. Rhodes say, in the presence of all the boarders and 'travlers' that all screens, including Mrs. Hogarth's, would be installed Monday. They are the kind that push up and down, like windows. I noticed the grooves for them in my own window." "Well?" Strawn barked, as Dundee paused. "THE young man shrugged slightly. "It just occurred to me that if the murderer was an inmate of the house, he—or she—would want to do his little job of robbing and murdering before those screens were installed. All the rooms on the front and the east side of this floor have windows opening directly upon the upstairs porch. Without screens on those windows, any boarder on this floor could step out of a window, creep along the porch to Mrs. Hogarth's window, enter noiselessly, since the windows are low, and steal up on the old lady from behind. "Once the screens were in, however, the raising of one of the screens might have attracted attention. . . . By the way, I said all the rooms on this floor, because those having rooms on the west side of the house, which has no porch, could gain access to the roof merely by walking across the hall, which is T-shaped, you know, with a window opening directly upon the porch. Naturally a roomer on the third floor could have crept down the stairs to this hall, stepped past Cora Barker's room and on to Mrs. Hogarth's on the front porch. In fact, this house, without screens, is an ideally constructed place, from a robber's viewpoint. If he doesn't care to board here, he can climb the rose trellis on the west end of the front porch, saunter along that porch and enter any room that strikes his fancy." "Which is exactly what Emil Sevier did," Strawn caught him up stubbornly. "But don't think I'm going to let that preconceived idea of mine, as the lawyers put it, keep me from catching a new one if it comes along. The papers used to call me 'Third Degree' Strawn—not that I deserved such a harsh title, of course," he grinned. He strode to the door. "Boyle! Bring in Miss Barker, and tell Payne to follow orders." A minute later, Cora Barker, escorted by the patrolman, appeared in the doorway. Through the screen Dundee could see her face, and he almost betrayed his presence by exclaiming in pity. SECRETARY OF BASEBALL NOW GIVES REPORT

By BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 4. (AP)—John H. Farrell, secretary and treasurer of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, today submitted his twenty-eighth annual report to the convention.

Mr. Farrell reported that 27 leagues qualified last year, one did not start, two disbanded, and 24 finished the season. The Utah-Idaho league was not started, and the Lone Star league and California state league failed to complete the baseball year.

The roll of players employed by the National Association clubs during the season reached a total of 7,653, and the secretary's office handled 18,500 pieces of mail in transacting the business of the National Association. Telegrams totaled 5,255. The secretary's files now contain more than 50,000 names of baseball players and their records.

Formal opening of the convention shared interest with a decision from President H. M. Sexton after a rehearing of the case of George Toporcer, Rochester infielder, recently suspended for one year from organized baseball after being fined $200 and that of William H. Southworth, the Rochester manager, fined $500 as an aftermath of the "Little World Series."

President Sexton, with members of the board of arbitration also present at the hearing, spent almost all of yesterday in hearing the defense of the disciplined players who were making their first personal appearance before him, as they failed to receive notices inviting them to attend the first meeting when the suspension and fines were imposed.

The two International leaguers appealed to the board of arbitration for a rehearing in their case, but action by the board was unnecessary as the association president reopened the matter

All-Star Game Seemingly Certain

DALLAS, Dec. 4. (AP)—Resumption of the "Dixie Classic" between a senior all-star team selected from Southwest conference elevens and a similar aggregation from Big Ten schools seemed assured today with approval of the project by directors of the Texas Scottish Rite hospital for crippled children, beneficiary of the game.

Under present plans, Coach Ray Morrison of Southern Methodist university and Coach Jimmy Phelan of the undefeated Purdue eleven will coach the teams for their respective conferences. The game is scheduled for Ownby stadium, New Year's day.

Last year an all-star team from the Big Six defeated the Southwest's best.

CATS PURCHASE PITCHER

FORT WORTH, Dec. 4. (AP)—Ferdinand Maurice Schupp, former New York Giant hurler, has been purchased by the Fort Worth baseball club, it was announced today. Schupp was bought from Indianapolis of the American association. He is a southpaw.

Mrs. W. A. Duerr Is in Amarillo today.

and heard their side as presented by Branch Riekey, vice-president of the St. Louis National league club, owner of the Rochester club. Mr. Sexton withheld announcement of his ruling until today.

One of the few deals involving major and minor league clubs resulted in the transfer of the contract of Frank Nekolai young lefthanded pitcher of Holy Cross, from the New York Yankees to the St. Paul club of the American association.

Major league presidents and managers came to the National association as visitors, but they were willing to trade among themselves if the details could be arranged. Joe McCarthy of the Chicago Cubs was understood to be willing to pay Pittsburgh a large sum for the release of Burlieigh Grimes, Pirate pitcher.

HORTON SMITH BEATEN OUT IN GOLF TOURNEY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4. (AP)—Horton Smith, 21-year-old pride of the Missouri Ozarks, today was listed among the missing as sixteen survivors in the Professional Golfers' association championship went into their second round of match play.

The superb drives and putts of Craig Wood, youthful Long Island, N. Y., professional, eliminated one of the favorites in the first round of match play yesterday.

Leo Diegel, defending champion, turned in a 64 for his morning eighteen, a new competitive course record and a good start on an advantage which enabled him to oust P. O. Hart, Wheeling, W. Va., 10 and 9.

No less outstanding was the rousing comeback of Walter Hagen. Apparently unmindful of the troublesome qualifying round Monday which saw him stumble almost into elimination, the five-time winner of the P. G. A. event ended his match with Bob Shave, of Aurora, Ohio, on the twenty-eighth green 9 and 8. Just to prove that the course, which saw him medal a 149 on opening day, held no power over him, the great "Hag" played the first eighteen in five under par, 66.

But it was Wood's victory over Smith which supplied the greatest upset in a duel which went to the thirty-seventh green before a bridle three forced the Joplin, Mo., professional into defeat.

Among the chosen sixteen, eight of whom faced elimination today was Fred Morrison, medalist. The Los Angeles professional fought an up-hill battle before winning 5 and 4 from Joe Kirkwood, trick shot artist from Philadelphia.

A former open champion, Gene Sarazen Fresh Meadow, N. Y., stood in Morrison's path today.

By coincidence, Hagen, Bill Mehlhorn New York, and Henry Cuiel, Mill River, Conn.—the trio which was forced into a twilight series to earn the right to enter yesterday's play—survived their matches.

Diegel will meet Herman Barron, Philadelphia, a comparative stranger in big time golf, while Hagen is confronted by Charlie Guest, Los Angeles professional. Both are conceded the edge over their opponents.

Al Espinosa, Chicagoan, whom Diegel defeated in the final bracket at Baltimore a year ago, must subdue "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn to continue in the race.

Wood, flushed with the Smith victory, can count on Neil Christian, Portland, Ore., professional, to give him another tough round. The Northwesterner turned in one of the important cards yesterday by eliminating Frank Walsh, Chicago, 6 and 5.

Other matches on today's schedule: Larry Nabholz, Houston, Tex., vs. Al Watrous, Detroit.

Henry Cuiel, vs. John Farrell, Long Island, N. Y.

ABOUT FOLKS

Those who go to Pampa hospital expecting to see the traditional type of hospital superintendent—a hard-boiled and unemotional man with little claim to beauty, will get a surprise when they turn to the first door on the left and meet the superintendent, Miss Ethel Simpson, who seems to be a spiritual descendant of that nurse's ideal, Florence Nightingale. And right here we nominate 22-year-old Miss Simpson as one of the youngest, if not the youngest of hospital superintendents in the country. Probably the sympathy, kindness, and courtesy that show in Miss Simpson's face and eyes, is the reason why surgeons over the country since the war are anxious for young nurses to take care of their patients. One has only to watch the faces of patients as Miss Simpson goes into a room to know that she is a favorite.

Miss Simpson came to Pampa hospital two years ago from Cottage Hospital, Chickasha, Okla. She is in the same class and on the same day with Miss Ethel Claybaker, business manager at Pampa hospital. Miss Claybaker's home is in Blackwell, Okla. She has also been here two years.

Miss Simpson believes that if a girl is not naturally callous or unsympathetic, she will have the opposite of those characteristics after becoming a nurse. "Nurses are just like other people," she said. "You cannot become naturally kind when you are naturally unkind. There are kind nurses and unkind nurses."

"I believe every conscientious nurse or doctor worries more than those outside the profession think when they lose a patient, and that time comes all too often," she said. "Sometimes when we lose a patient I think the atmosphere in the hospital is like that in a prison when a criminal is to be executed. We worry because we always have the feeling that we might have done something to save the life—though we don't know what. However we simply can't afford to worry about patients after they leave the hospital—we'd have too many worries."

Resides Miss Simpson and Miss Claybaker, both of whom are registered nurses, another nurse at Pampa hospital is Miss Elizabeth Zuehl of Fayetteville, Ark. She is now on night duty. She is a graduate of the Fayetteville hospital. Mrs. Elmer De Kitch came here about two months ago from Little Rock, Ark.

Miss Bonnie Burros came to the hospital about four months ago from Elk City, Okla. She is a graduate of Standifer hospital. Mrs. Queenie Brack came about three months from Amarillo.

$100 Reward—Identify This House

Who recognizes this house? A reward of $100 will be paid to the first person who can identify it. The above picture was found in a secret drawer in the home of Mrs. Beecher M. Crouse, right, wealthy society woman of Utica, N. Y., after her disappearance recently. An international search, spurred by her husband's offer of a $5000 reward for his discovery, has failed to disclose her whereabouts, and those in charge of the hunt believe the house seen above may furnish a clue. It also is feared that she may be a victim of amnesia.

TUNNEY SPIKES RUMOR OF RETURN TO RING

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (P)—Gene Tunney is home again, not to fight, but to live "quietly and simply." Tunney, with his wife, the former Polly Lauder, returned to the United States yesterday from Italy after spending fifteen months abroad.

It was a new Tunney who came back to the land that gave him fame and fortune. More gracious than fistic reporters had ever seen him, the retired heavyweight champion of the world submitted cheerfully to photographers' demands while answering as best he could hundreds of questions fired at him.

Concerning the suit Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty has brought against him, Tunney had nothing to say, but he was ready and willing to talk about boxing.

Anticipating questions as to whether he would return to the ring, Tunney had a prepared statement for the personal use of reporters: "The echo of a rumor at home that I am contemplating returning to the boxing game to defend the heavyweight championship reached me in Italy. This is in no sense true for I have permanently ended my public career. My great work now is to live quietly and simply, for this manner of living brings me most happiness."

SPORT SLANTS

Kipling didn't have Bronko Nagurski in mind at the time, yet he might have revised one of his songs of the cobra "Nag," something like this for the benefit of the Minnesota fullback: Eye to eye and head to head, (Keep the measure, Nag) Up front or back, the enemy's dread; (At thy pleasure, Nag) Turn for turn and twist for twist— (They can't spill thee, Nag) Here was the tackler who never missed! (Did the battle thrill thee, Nag)

When Bronko Nagurski scored the two touchdowns that helped Minnesota beat Wisconsin in the final game of the season for the Gophers, he finished a career as "the greatest" all-around football player I have ever seen." The quotation is from his coach, Dr. Clarence W. Spears, All-American guard at Dartmouth himself in 1915.

Enthusiastically, the doctor added: "In my career as a player and coach I have played against and coached against the best teams of the East and Middle West and I have never encountered Nagurski's equal."

Of "Ukrainian blood," the "Big Nag" is a "physical brute with an artistic temperament," Spears explains. "His development, or evolution from end to tackle to pulverizing fullback is one of the dramatic features of a game cherished of the usual. When he cracked three ribs in the Iowa game last year and was forced to wear a brace, Nagurski went back into the line," he said, to play some football "standing straight up" inasmuch as he could not bend over to take the passes from center!

The turn-over in football coaches, for a variety of reasons, will be heavier after the close of the 1929 season than usual, whether or not it has anything to do with the findings of the famous Carnegie report that the tenure of a coach's office in 3 out of 7 instances depends on the production of winning teams.

Military arrangements figure in the situation. At West Point, Major Ralph Sasse will take over the work of Biff Jones, but at the University of Tennessee, where Major Bob Neyland has finished a four-year term special assignment will permit him to continue his brilliant work with the volunteers. Another Army man, Major John McEwan, has ended four years at the University of Oregon, but since he resigned from the military to go west, he is free to pick another coaching spot.

Washington must find a successor to Enoch Bagshaw, the storm-center of an internal war at Seattle this year. The Armstrong's contract expires after this season at the University of Utah, but his remarkable success with the Indians is likely to produce strong inducements to stay at Salt Lake City, in preference to turning an attentive ear to other offers. At Syracuse, Vic Hanson, one-time All-American end and all-around star, is due to succeed Lew Andreas as head coach of the Orange in 1930.

The talk about replacing Arnold Horween at Harvard with either Eddie Casey or Charley Hubbard, due to Horween's business demands in Chicago, may turn to persuasive tones as a result of the fine victory of the Crimson over Yale.

Charley Crowley may figure in a shift at Columbia but the veteran Gil Dobie, after surviving a pre-season storm at Cornell, now seems slated to fill out his long-term contract, especially with a rise in gridiron fortunes for the Ithacans.

Effective December 1, the Pampa Service Station began operating under the ownership of F. S. Brown and S. E. Paxton. No change has been made in the name of the station, and we assure you of the same courteous service as has been rendered in the past.

We appreciate the continued patronage of the old customers and extend a welcome to every one in this community to visit our station.

High quality oils, greases, gasoline, tires, etc., plus the best service that it is humanly possible to give are the basis on which we solicit your business, and your satisfaction is the basis on which we expect to continue serving you.
