COAST GUARD MEANS BUSINESS SAYS ITS BOSS

By The Associated Press Week-end drives by prohibition enforcement authorities resulted in the death of three rum smugglers at the hands of the Coast Guard and the seizure of 5,000 cases of liquor and the critical wounding of three officers in Virginia and California.

In addition, a federal jury at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, returned verdicts of guilty against 24 of 29 officials of Mullin, Idaho, and others who were charged with violations of the liquor law.

The three smugglers were killed in an effort to run a consignment of 500 cases of liquor into Newport in the speedboat "Black Duck" of that city. The Coast Guard patrol boat CG-290, opened fire, its commanding officer said, after the "Black Duck" had refused to heed an order to stop. A fourth member of the crew of the speedboat, who was wounded, claimed no warning had been given.

The remainder of the contraband liquor was seized by Coast Guardsmen in Long Island sound waters from two other craft, the crews of which escaped.

At Washington, Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard, said that service "means business" and has no use for "gentle words and amiable gestures."

After raiding an illicit still and arresting three men, Bernard Puryear, a deputy sheriff, and Mack E. Tuck, a Clarksville, Virginia, policeman, were seriously wounded by a fourth, who escaped. They were in a critical condition today. The raid took place in MacKlenburg county, Virginia, just across the line from Oxford, North Carolina.

Raiding the home of John South, wealthy rancher, near Yountville, California, Robert D. Freeman, San Francisco prohibition agent received wounds in his chest which may prove fatal. The wounded man said South shot him when he attempted to prevent the rancher from destroying a bottle of liquor. South, however, asserted Freeman pulled the trigger of a pistol over which they were struggling.

Harry Jones, another dry agent, who accompanied Freeman, said Mrs. South fired a shotgun at him during the raid but missed and was disabled before she could shoot again.

The verdict at Coeur d'Alene was returned after twenty-one hours of deliberation. Among those convicted were Mayor Arthur Harwood of Mullin and Sheriff R. E. Weninger of Shoshone county.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Disclosure by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle that the name and telephone number of City Magistrate Albert H. Vitale had been found among papers seized in a recent raid heightened interest today in an investigation into Vitale's connections.

Mr. Tuttle said federal narcotic agents had found a card in a bag owned by Louis Faccarona, Harlem case owner, bearing the caption "numbers frequently called." Among the notations on the card, they said, was "Al Vitale, Fordham 6435." The number is that listed for the residence of Magistrate Vitale in the telephone book.

Photostatic copies of the card will be turned over to the bar association of New York, Mr. Tuttle said, for use in the investigation being conducted by the association into the magistrate's connections.

The Rockefeller Foundation has granted $225,000 to carry on archeological research in Palestine and Mesopotamia.

EVIDENCE TOO MEAGER FOR EXACT VERDICT

Tenant Farmer and Six Children Found Dead Sunday

MURDER, SUICIDE BELIEF IS HELD

Unexplained Details in Case' Puzzle Officers

VERNON, Dec. 30. (AP)—A verdict of "death by gunshot wounds at the hands of unknown persons" was returned by Justice of the Peace H. C. Justin today at an inquest into the deaths of J. H. Haggard, 66-year-old tenant farmer, and his six children, whose bodies were found yesterday.

The verdict was returned after Justin had conferred with the district attorney, who indicated no arrests were planned, but evidence was not considered sufficient to substantiate any other verdict.

Arrangements were completed for burial of the six this afternoon.

VERNON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Officials here today puzzled over the fatal shooting of a family of six discovered in their farm home near Vernon yesterday by a young Mexican. No motive was assigned immediately for the slaying.

The dead were: J. H. Haggard, 66, tenant farmer, and his five children, Simon, 18, John, 10, Alta, 15, Alma, 12, and Dorothy, 6.

A note reading, "All dead. I had rather be dead. Look in cellar," found on the door of the house was advanced in support of the suicide theory, and officers made no attempt to link any one outside of the family with the case. The wife and mother had been dead three years. Her brother, I. G. Church of Vernon, could not be located, declaring Haggard had not been dependent, so far as he knew.

The dead, all of whom were shot in the head, were found in their beds. Apparently the children were slain as they slept, although officers could not account for their not awakening at the sound of the shots. A shotgun was found across the body of Haggard, and his feet under the covers on his bed, were splattered with blood.

Seven shells, one in the gun, were found. The youngest girl was in a room with her father, the other two girls were in bed in another room, and the bodies of the boys were in their bed in a c-Par fifty feet from the house.

Only the barest necessities of life and a few worn pieces of furniture were in the house. Lewis Rivers, Mexican, who found the bodies, had come to the farm to borrow a saw and investigated when his call went unanswered.

CHARGE THAT TEXAS PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT IS LAX IS DENIED IN STATEMENT OF FEDERAL OFFICIAL

Administrator Carl Jackson Says Conditions as Good as in Any Other State, Considering Number of Men Used—Lack of State Cooperation Is Cited.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 30. (AP)—"I can see no foundation for the charges made against Idaho, either," Jackson declared. "I came to this office from that section. In the more than eight years I have been in this work, I have found only one outstanding weakness. That is in the lack of cooperation given federal officers by other law enforcement officers."

Referring to Representative Schaffer's charges against San Antonio, citing the number of arrests made there in one year, Jackson stated that "arrests are no measure of the success or failure of an enforcement program."

Scott Trial Is Halted by State

CANADIAN, Dec. 30. (AP)—The case against Mrs. Earl Scott, jointly charged with her husband with the murder of Mrs. Bonnie Turner at Borger, April 15, was dismissed today on motion of the state, on grounds of insufficient evidence. No announcement was made as to Scott.

Officers at Borger reported that Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Turner had an argument in a downtown store a few hours before Mrs. Turner was shot and killed.

Boys Held on Liquor Charge Claim Frame-Up

Two brothers, Woodrow Shawn, 16, and Sherman Shawn, 14, are being held in jail here on charges of possessing and transporting intoxicating liquor, pending trial this afternoon in county court presided over by County Judge Ivy E. Duncan.

The boys who were arrested in South Pampa by Constable G. H. Parrish, had two pints of whiskey. In the hearing before District Attorney Clifford Braly, the brothers said they found the liquor wrapped up in a newspaper in an alley. Two negroes testified that they had bought whiskey from the boys. The brothers said the negroes were "trying to frame" them and that they never saw them before. They denied that they had sold any whiskey.

Little Work Before Motor Bus Session

DALLAS, Dec. 30. (AP)—Only one witness, R. L. Miller of Fort Worth, owner of the applicant line, was heard at this morning's motor bus hearing which brought to Dallas railway commissions of Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas and leaders of the motor bus industry of the Southwest.

The hearing was on the petition of the Mid-Continent lines to operate interstate between Fort Worth, Dallas, and Oklahoma City, and between Dallas and Little Rock where connection would be made for Memphis, Tenn.

Former Governor Pat Neff chairman of the Texas commission, presided.

COACH STRIKES CAR WEST OF PEABODY, KANS

Flying Glass Is Cause of Injuries to Many

ANOTHER CRASH NEAR STAMFORD

Spur Girl Found Dead Under Vehicle Today

PEABODY, Kans., Dec. 30. (AP)—Fourteen persons were injured, none critically, when a Wichita-to-Kansas City bus of the Southern Kansas stage lines collided with a sedan 4 miles west of here today.

The injured, occupants of the bus, were brought here for emergency treatment.

Otis Thompson, Tonkawa, Okla., received a broken arm and cuts and bruises, and J. W. Heckler, address not given, fractured ribs. Others who were bruised and cut by flying glass included:

Frank Crejci, Groveton, Texas; Mrs. E. W. Leftwith, Enid, Okla., and Roy Morgan, Tonkawa, Okla.

STAMFORD, Dec. 30. (AP)—Miss Donna Mae Larsen of Spur was fatally injured in an automobile accident here today. She was found, pinned beneath an overturned car, by two men en route to Spur to call on her. The men, Homer Churchill and Martin Encke, of Stamford, discovered the car in a ditch and righted it before they found the girl. She died a short time later. Two others in the wrecked car suffered minor injuries.

Two Men Claim Dope Agents Held Them Captive

DALLAS, Dec. 30. (AP)—Police of Dallas and Waco today investigated the adventures through which two Waco men say they went Saturday night. Dr. C. G. Swift, Jr., physician, and Lawrence Teague, taxi driver, reported they were kidnaped by narcotic addicts or peddlers there Saturday night, forced to drive to several North Texas towns and threatened with death.

Dr. Swift appeared here early Sunday, and the taxi driver telephoned from Alvarado. They said they were captured by a man and a woman or two men, one dressed as a woman, the latter theory being reported at Waco by Teague. Their captors were armed with a machine gun and carried a large amount of narcotics in a suit case, the men said.

Dr. Swift told how he left his home to make a call in company with one man while the other person accompanied Teague in the taxi in which all three arrived at the doctor's house.

After driving to several towns, Dr. Swift said he escaped by pushing one captor and running when they halted in a field near here. Teague was released a short time later when the two men met another car near Burleson and drove away.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 30. (AP)—Police today reported two developments—arrest of a suspect and finding of a physician's brief case—which they hoped would throw some light on the reported abduction and robbery of Dr. C. G. Swift, Jr., and Lawrence Teague, taxi driver, at Waco Saturday night.

The suspect was discovered asleep in a rest room at Jennings avenue high school by a night watchman. The suspect is about 25 years old and police said he fits the description given by Dr. Swift of one of the bandits.

The physician's brief case was found at the central bus station Saturday night and has been identified as belonging to Dr. Swift.

And the Outraged Mr. Nutnawinski Wailed and Fled

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Three men with pistols took Walter Nutnawinski's accordin from him last night.

Nutnawinski had paid $500 for it. He could have gotten a piano for that money but he preferred an accordin.

The robbers went down the street playing it and Nutnawinski pursued—at a respectable distance. Each piece they played wrenched Nutnawinski's soul.

First came "The Engineer's Child," a gloomy opus, and then "The Letter Edged in Black," gloomier still. The trio drifted into "The Wreck of the Old Ninty-Seven."

Nutnawinski felt very badly, that his accordin should lend itself to such musical drivel. Nutnawinski such in more for "Poet and Peasant" overture and things like that.

Finally the robbers swung around a corner and burst into:

"In All My Dreams,

Your Fair Face Bee-ums,

You're the Eye-Dul Luv my He-a-r-r-r-r-r-

Sweet Ad-o-li-i-n-ne."

Nutnawinski fell down in the snow. The last he heard from his accordin was:

"Did you ever hear Pete Go tweet-tweet-tweet On his piccolo? No?"

"Oh!" exclaimed the outraged Mr. Nutnawinski, and fled.

ANOTHER CLUE IS DISPROVED IN HOLMES CASE

BORGER, Dec. 30. (AP)—Borger officials were expected to return here today from Oklahoma after another clue in the slaying of John A. Holmes, district attorney of this city, went glimmering.

Henry York, held in the Seminole county jail at Wewoka, Okla., was fabricating when he confessed to participation in the case, officials were quoted as saying in dispatches from Oklahoma last night.

"Statements made by York did not check with facts in the killing," undersheriff George Hall of Seminole was quoted as saying.

York is held in Oklahoma in the robbery of a theatre.

This Duck Story Is Illustrated by Plenty of Birds

An illustrated duck story, dealing with 54 ducks strung on a wire the entire length of an automobile and the four hunters who brought them down was on exhibition this morning in front of the courthouse. Most of the ducks were mallards although a few gray backs and several geese were seen in the 20-foot string.

The "good shots" were Roy and Rufus Sewell, Rufus H. "Doc" Kitchings and Jack Mason, all well-known nimrods. The ducks were bagged "north of Miami on the river," according to Roy Sewell. Soon after the men arrived at one water hole yesterday they began shooting at a cloud of ducks that arose from it.

When they laid down their guns they picked up 47 ducks. They continued to have good luck the rest of the day. The men said the country north of Miami has many ducks and geese.

Child Dies in Fire

BEAUMONT, Dec. 30. (AP)—Katherine Ainsworth, 5, was burned to death and her mother, Mrs. J. M. Ainsworth, was severely burned in attempting to rescue the child when their home was destroyed by fire near Sour-Jake today. Two other children escaped with minor injuries.

Gales Sweeping Continent Doing Great Damage

LONDON, Dec. 30. (AP)—At least seven persons were killed and a greater number injured in a gale which swept England, Western France and intervening seas over the week-end. The wind reached 80 miles an hour at Scilly Isle.

Although that gale subsided Sunday night, the weather bureau predicted 1929 probably would pass out equally boisterously. A further atmospheric depression was spotted on the eastern Atlantic.

A woman and her daughter were killed and four others severely injured in Manchester when a house was wrecked. At Harve, France, a crane was blown over and the tug Abelle sunk. Three of its crew drowned. A huge elm fell before the wind at Hazebrouck and killed two.

Damage occurred in many towns in South and West Britain and in Normandy. Telegraphic communications were interrupted in outlying districts. The aerial of the broadcasting station at Chelmsford was blown away, preventing proposed transmission to America of the archbishop of Canterbury's sermon.

Rain which accompanied the gale greatly increased floods in some districts, particularly in North Wales where the River Dee swamped a wide area. Many sheep were drowned and roads submerged three feet deep.

Damage was heavy alongshore and practically every port showed innumerable boats which put in to escape the blow. The Margate lifeboat rescued the crew of the small German steamer Hermine in heavy weather at North Foreland. The steamer was abandoned, a derelict.

THE THREE YEARS THAT THE WRITER HAS OBSERVED PAMPA HAVE BEEN BUSY YEARS, GROWING YEARS.

"The New Pampa" has been going lively just expanding and taking care of her new citizens that she has developed the busy, introspective outlook.

But the boom long since passed and two solid years of steady development have followed, each bringing building permits of $1,450,000.

Pampa's growth in the future must be guided lest the city become grotesque and its ugly spots become permanent.

Percy, the office mouse, is missing. Whether he crawled into Santa's sleigh or was boxed up and shipped away with some merchandise—or became cat meat—we are unhappily unable to say.

"Rio Rita" Fine Movie Contribution to Great Pictures

An eye and ear feast par excellence! Such is the treat in store for patrons of the Rex theatre where Radio Pictures' all-talking all-musical extravaganza, "Rio Rita," opened its engagement yesterday with Belle Daniels and John Boles in the outstanding roles.

Harry Tierney's basic, so written for the stage production of "Rio Rita" and the book by Guy Bolton and Fred Thompson were more ably presented than by such players as Miss Daniels, M. Toles, Bert Wheeler, Tobert Woolsey, Dorothy Lee, Helen Kaiser, Don Alvarado, Georges Renvent and the 200 others in the cast.

Belle Daniels is a revelation to "Rio Rita" audiences. She has built her following on portrayal of silent roles, but now she blossoms forth as a vocalist of exceptional merit and early holds her own with John Boles, leading man, who has had years of training on the operatic stage.

Being of Spanish descent, Miss Daniels fits her senorita role like the proverbial glove and gives it a dash and finesse that stamps her as a versatile star of the newest expression of the celluloid drama—the talkies.

The inimitable comedy ability of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, who were featured players in the stage production of "Rio Rita," enhance the value of Radio Pictures' adaptation of the Ziegfeld success. Helen Kaiser, also with the original "Rio Rita" company gives to her role of "Mrs. Bear" a naive treatment.

Don Alvarado is well cast as the brother of "Rio Rita" and Georges Renvent as the "Kinkajou," the bold mad mystic bandit, gets out of the role the ultimate thrill and appeal.

The colorful story is made doubly so through the employment of technicolor in many sequences aboard the night club barge. In these sequences the screen is alive with people, literally hundreds of them, and the specialties are worthy of the best spent on any vaudeville bill.

"Rio Rita" is a fine contribution to the newest expression of the cinema-audience. It has mystery, adventure, music, song, action, color—everything that goes to appeal to the eye and the ear.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK logo and title.

WASHINGTON—There's a group of young women in the tiny little village of Vienna, Ga., who look forward eagerly each year to the time when congress adjourns.

They comprise a Sunday school class at the Baptist church. Their teacher is the junior United States senator from Georgia, Walter F. George.

When he left Georgia to come to the senate seven years ago, he announced that he liked teaching a Sunday school class so well that he hoped he would be able to do so in Washington.

Only when he returns to his little home village of 2,000 people is he able to impart Biblical instruction to the young.

CHIVALROUS The tall, dark-haired, dignified Georgian is distinguished from his colleagues in other ways than being a Sabbath school teacher. He is also the only United States senator who ever succeeded a woman.

Seven years ago he stood aside in the senate chamber while Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton was sworn in as his predecessor and pronounced the first woman senator. It was an act of chivalry on George's part. The Felton appointment was merely a compliment. Mrs. Felton was an active senator for only 22 hours.

Few men have come to the senate as little known at first as was Senator George. He was a small town lawyer, and probably had never made more than a dozen political speeches in his life before he entered the race.

Born of poor parents of the small farmer class in Georgia, he worked his way through college and law school, and had risen to a seat on the Georgia Supreme court bench by the time he had reached his early forties. He had resigned as justice and was practicing law in Vienna when he ran for the senate and was elected.

AND SERIOUS The man's outstanding characteristic is his seriousness. One of his closest friends says:

"I doubt if he ever told an anecdote, or figured in many worth the telling."

Yet George is thoroughly human—in his quiet way.

When he makes a speech in the senate his style is reminiscent of the classic writings on common law. The United States supreme court once quoted from a speech of his in a decision.

His physical presence is striking and his speaking voice—soft and thoroughly southern—is pleasing.

Personally he is one of the most respected men in the senate. He is inclined to be more studious than anything else.

His philosophies of politics and public service are well developed and clearly defined.

George thought enough of him to support him for the presidency, at the democratic national convention in Houston last year.

MOVIES

AT THE GREENBERRY Not only do the Fuzzy Wuzzies of Northeastern Africa regard the coveting of their wives by neighbors as a sin but they also object to the mere act of their wives being looked upon by others.

A great deal of the tribal warfare of these brave original inhabitants of the Red Sea hills is caused by disputes over women, according to Ernest B. Schoedsack and Merian C. Cooper, who spent over a year in that part of the world filming location scenes for "The Four Feathers."

Although thousands of Fuzzy warriors appear in the battle scenes of this thrilling adventure story, adapted from A. E. W. Mason's famous novel, the directors never caught more than a glimpse of their wives and families.

An effort to make some small photographs of Fuzzy home life for his own personal use by Schoedsack brought grinning but firm refusals on the part of the black warriors.

"The women keep themselves completely covered, especially when strangers are about," Schoedsack said. Included among the noted film players who portray important roles in "The Four Feathers" are Richard Arlen, Fay Wray, Clive Brook, William Powell, Noah Beery, Theodor Von Eltz, George Pawcett, E. J. Ratcliffe, Noble Johnson and others.

New West Texas Conference Will Be Talked Tuesday

SWEETWATER, Dec. 30. (AP)—Representatives from at least seven West Texas and New Mexico colleges will meet here tomorrow to consider formation of the staked plains athletic conference, sponsored by the Texas Tech athletic council.

The council will be host to twenty or more faculty and athletic representatives at a luncheon, following which discussion concerning the organization will start. W. L. Stangel, chairman of the Tech athletic council, will preside.

Telegrams received here indicated the following schools would send representatives: Howard Payne, Brownwood; Simmons university, Abilene; Texas Tech, Lubbock; Texas School of Mines, El Paso; West Texas Teachers, Canyon; New Mexico Aggies, Las Cruces; and the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque.

W. L. Ratcliff of Gainesville and his son, Jack Ratcliff, of Childress, are visiting their wife and mother, who has been with her sister, Mrs. C. W. Laurence, for the last several weeks.

Dallas Pastor Blames Gin For Marital Storms

DALLAS, Dec. 30. (AP)—Marital storms were blamed on gin here last night by Dr. Carl C. Gregory, pastor of the First Methodist church, South.

Easy divorces was called one of the chief enemies of America's home life, he told his congregation and liquor drinking by both husband and wife one of the big reasons for divorce.

Several hundred couples who were united in matrimony by Dr. Gregory marched down the aisle to the strains of a wedding march. They renewed their marriage vows and joined in prayer for domestic peace and happiness.

A similar service is an annual affair at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Malone returned Saturday from Hillsboro where they spent the Christmas holidays with relatives.

Radio Reception to Be Better in the Near Future

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 30. (AP)—Improving radio reception for several years except for a brief period about a year hence was forecast at the American association for the advancement of science convention today by Dr. Stetson of Ohio Wesleyan university.

Stetson based his prediction on what he described a "remarkable fulfillment" of a forecast of the effect of sunspots upon radio that he and Dr. Greenleaf W. Pickard "ventured" before the association a year ago. This was that there would be an increase in the number of sunspots this fall interfering with the broadcast band used for programs. That, he said, was just what happened this fall in October and November.

He said he has additional evidence that the number of spots rises and falls each fifteen months while making a big rise and fall each 11 years, a circle within a circle. The big 11-year peak is over. "Forecasting on the basis of the 18 month cycle," he said, "the year 1930 should show a general decrease in the number of sunspots as the year waxes, with corresponding increase in radio signal strength in the broadcast zone. By the end of 1930 and the beginning of 1931 the general rise of secondary sunspots maximum should be evident. By 1931 however, it is believed we shall be far from the maximum 11 year period that the secondary period will have no such effect on radio reception as we had in 1928 and 1929."

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Behrends are spending the day in Amarillo.

A new type of DESK

Inspect the new Shaw-Walker Skyscraper Desk

There have been steel desks before, you say? But none with the features of this new Skyscraper Desk! It's an entirely new conception. The sturdy "Skyscraper" construction accounts for its noiselessness and for the smooth, silent action of the drawers. No need to touch cold metal in your work—drawer pulls are of Bakelite and the comfortable rolled-edge top is made of fine-textured, leather-like linoleum.

In appearance the new desk is the equal of the more expensive wood desks, even to the artistic beading of its quarter-round legs. In economy and durability it offers the advantages of steel construction. Before you make any change in office equipment see this new desk! In three finishes—mahogany or walnut with green top, or green with a warm brown top. Important! Come in and see the organization features; see how this new desk is organized for work.

HITTERS HAD GREAT YEAR IN NATIONAL LOOP

By BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—As official averages of the National League are released, evidence grows that 1929 was a hitters' year in baseball. The pennant winning Chicago Cubs made a new record for runs batted in when they drove 933 tallies across the plate. This broke the old record of 820 established by the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1925. If the Cubs had not smashed the old high water mark, three other clubs would have done so, for the Phillies, the Pirates themselves and the Giants drove in more runs than the three-year-old record.

The Cubs also received most bases on balls, and to square accounts struck out the most, the bases on balls totaling 589 and the strikeouts 567.

The hard hitting Phillies outslugged their fellows, amassing an average of .467 with total bases of 2,559.

The Cubs were legitimate champions for they led the league at home and abroad. The Giants were second on the road, but sixth home, doing only a little better than an even break at the Polo Grounds. The Cubs had a per cent of .675 at home and .613 abroad.

Rogers Hornsby headed the sluggers for the second year in a row, his percentage of .381 surpassing by 48 points his winning average of 1928. Hack Wilson, another Cub, made a new league record for runs batted in with 159, beating by seven Hornsby's record of 1922. Wilson also was the most accomplished player in the league at missing third strikes. He struck out 83 times.

Melvin Ott of the Giants led the league in drawing bases on balls, 113, and Jimmy Welsh of the Giants and Braves was hit the most time, 11. Of the regulars, Pie Traynor, Pirates, proved the most difficult batsman to fool entirely. He struck out only seven times.

Jim Bottomley, Cardinals, for the sixth consecutive year batted in more than 100 runs.

Booze Licensing Used by City to Pay Off Debts

COUER D'ALENE, Idaho, Dec. 30. (AP)—Twenty-four residents of Mullan, Idaho, including the mayor and city councilmen, as well as the sheriff of Shoshone county, convicted on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law, will appear in court here tomorrow to hear sentences. The two dozen defendants were convicted last night when the jury returned a verdict. Five others were acquitted.

Caught in a federal roundup which resulted in the arrest of more than 200 persons in the northern Idaho mining area, the 29 persons were accused of helping to keep Mullan, a "wide open" town. The government charged the officials "licensed" liquor dispensaries, gambling places and disorderly houses, using the fees to pay expenses of the municipality.

City and county officials admitted that since Mullan was, and always has been, a "wide open" town, and because the city was financially embarrassed, a system of licensing business places had been adopted as a means of raising revenue, but asserted the officials did not deliberately license a place to sell liquor.

Those convicted are: R. E. Weniger, sheriff of Shoshone county; Charles Bloom, his deputy; Arthur J. Harwood, mayor of Mullan and chairman of the city board of trustees; John Wheatley, Charles R. tau, Henry Foss and George Huston, members of the board; F. O. Welch, chief of police; Harcourt Morphy, night patrolman; Joseph Speck, John Malloy, William Coughlin; Charles Ford, Charles Anderson, Wain Pickerman, Walter Johnson, Mike Kennedy, Roy Appleton, Milford Gardner, Bertha Symon, "Babe" Kelly, Aggie West, Mona McDonald and Herman Arbliss.

John Thompson, Jimmie Ryan (a woman) and Anna Thornberg, Regina Dalo and Gus Aro were acquitted.

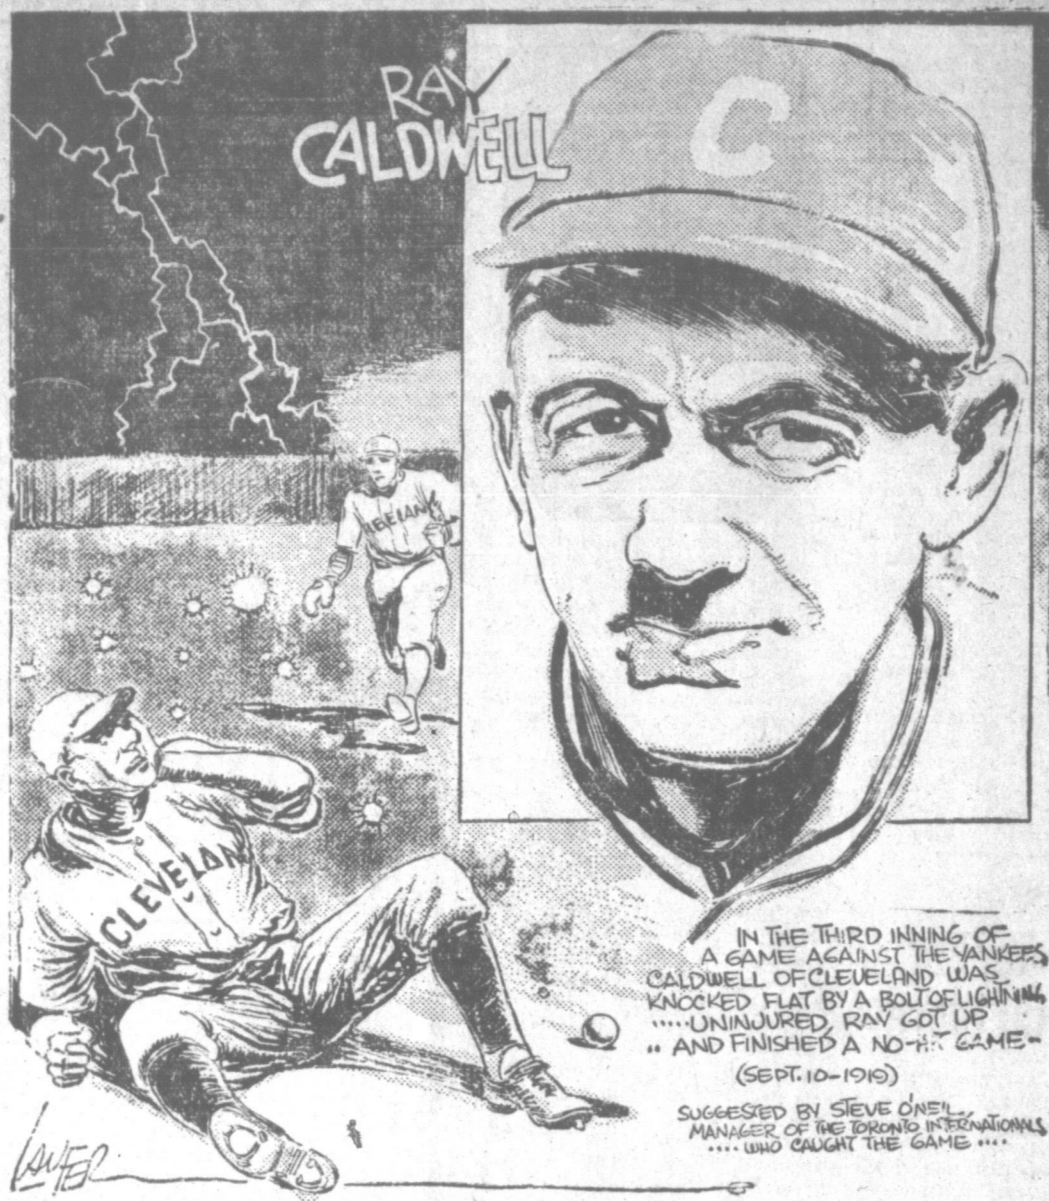

Ticket Sell-Out Expected in Dallas

DALLAS, Dec. 30. (AP)—With a seat sell-out expected and balmy weather continuing the Southwest and Midwest football stars here for a New Year's day benefit clash began tapering off today. Twice daily drills were cut to one today and tomorrow.

They spent yesterday in golfing and other mild diversions and today were reported in excellent shape by Ray Morrison of Southern Methodist university, in charge of the Southerners, and Jimmy Phelan, former Purdue mentor, who is coaching the midwestern players.

Both planned to supplement the single workout with skull practice. Morrison had not decided on his starting line-up, but indicated he would run his men in relays keeping intact two sets of backs and two forward walls. One of these walls possesses tonnage that will compare favorably in weight with the opposition while the other set of linemen is lighter but speedier. Neither backfield has a great amount of weight. Phelan probably will adopt the single substitution plan on their team instead of using two complete squads.

SPORT SLANTS

Alan J. Gould

One of the best ways to commit suicide is to swap punches with young Mr. James McLarnin. The baby-faced kid celebrated his twenty-third birthday on Dec. 19 and if there is a more dangerous socker in the ring for his weight, inches and age than this Celtic clouter, he can't be located at the moment.

McLarnin is one of the most deceptive and at the same time most destructive fighters in the game. Jimmy has a mild, almost inoffensive manner. Before a fight, he sits tense, unsmiling in his corner, beautifully controlled. At the bell, he glides about the ring, arms poised in a manner all his own. There is little waste motion in the McLarnin technique. Coolly he fences, side-steps and blocks with a natural grace. At the sign of an opening, however, he shoots for the mark with both hands and with stunning force. In his graceful footwork and lightning handwork, the welterweight Irishman is a pocket-sized Dempsey.

Few who have chosen to punch with McLarnin have escaped being carried to their corners. Jimmy's victims have included sluggers like Kid Kaplan, Stanislaus Loaysa and Phil Mc. Graw; boxers like Sid Terris, Ruby Goldstein and Jackie Fields, now the welterweight champion. McLarnin knocked out Fields in 1925 in two rounds at a time when each was a comparative novice, although Fields had won Olympic honors as an

Ice Hockey Will Be Started Soon in Southwest Loo

DALLAS, Dec. 30. (AP)—Benny Leonard, who voluntarily relinquished the lightweight boxing crown, virtually has completed arrangements for a new ice hockey league in the sunny South. Leonard said he had signed teams in Dallas, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City, and was certain of obtaining organization of a club in Tulsa, already represented in the American association. The former lightweight champion is principal stockholder of the Pittsburgh National league team and intends to use the Southern league to develop players, he said.

according to the agile statisticians, played exactly 30 minutes all season in the line as compared with 268 minutes at fullback. He may be induced, however, to accept the nomination with the understanding that he can carry the ball now and then when the All-American team needs a few extra yards.

Add to the flowery 1930 gridiron intersectional prospects. Stanford and Minnesota; Iowa and Penn State. Incidentally, all that Notre Dame will do as a climax to its 1930 campaign is play the Army in New York one Saturday and Southern California in Los Angeles the next.

May Kill Point After Touchdown

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Recommendations for the abolition of the point after touchdown was made to the National Football Coaches association today by its rules committee, headed by Glenn Thistlewaite of Wisconsin. The rules committee reported that the point after touchdown, devised to prevent tie games, had not done that. An exhaustive study of 1,487 games reported during the past season showed the average number of plays in a game, 160, scored only an average of 21 points whereas the single point after touchdown is scored on one play. The committee pointed out that this left a decided lack of balance in the scoring system inasmuch as an average of 7 plays were necessary to score a point by the touchdown route.

'SHOPPING' BY ATHLETES ONE OF BIG EVILS

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—A further attack on subsidizing athletes by colleges and universities was launched by Howard J. Savage of the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching in a speech prepared for delivery at a luncheon of the sportsmanship brotherhood today.

Mr. Savage declared that although the practice of recruiting high school and preparatory school athletes "probably is diminishing gradually," the situation still "is so serious it should engage the attention of every sportsman."

"Recruiting of athletes is no simple matter, and its rights and wrongs are not so immediately obvious as one might wish," said Mr. Savage. "The practice seldom, and probably never, exists without the use of subsidies. As the fisherman baits his hook, so the recruiter dangles the subsidy before the preparatory or high school athlete. So widely recognized are the practices a complimentary practice has developed among schoolboys known as 'shopping around,' in which the boy may offer by correspondence and even by telegraph his athletic services to the higher bidder among the colleges."

"It is a satisfaction to note many colleges do not solicit athletes as athletes or respond favorably to their tenders are athletic ability. It is even more gratifying to know recruiting probably is diminishing, although gradually, and that the time will come when 'shopping around' will be even more disreputable than it is today. Yet, however, much we can congratulate ourselves upon improvement in these respects the situation is still so serious it should engage the attention of every sportsman."

Fourteen Hundred Basketball Teams to Enter League

AUSTIN, Dec. 30. (AP)—Approximately 1,400 teams will begin the contest in Interscholastic League basketball when that tournament opens immediately after the Christmas holidays, according to Roy Anderson, athletic director of the University of Texas League Bureau. Some 200 counties are participating in basketball. The state finals will be played in the new university gymnasium on March 7 and 8.

The state bureau will also begin immediately after the Christmas season to work out details for the regional baseball games. Mr. Henderson said, "This year is the first the Interscholastic League has sponsored this sport, and the contests will end at the regional meets instead of at the state meet. The state will be divided into six or seven regions and a champion will be selected in each region. The first games will be played in March and the tournament will be over by May 1. This sport will round out the entire year for the league, with football in the fall, basketball in the winter, and baseball and track being scheduled concurrently in the spring."

FOOTBALL TO COME TO END ON NEW YEAR

(By the Associated Press)

Football will breathe its last with four big games on New Year's day.

The University of Pittsburgh, unbeaten and untied, clashes with Southern California in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena. A picked eastern team battles an all-star western aggregation in the annual Shriner's charity game at San Francisco.

Eastern Stars Rest for Battle with Westerners

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Last minute practice was held today by the western all-star football team for its contest with the east grid eleven on New Year's day.

The east players were idle, as coaches Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley at Palo Alto figured their stars were in the best possible condition after several days' practice.

In the western camp Tommy Dowler, star Colgate halfback, had a badly wrenched knee, but Coach Kerr said Dowler may play part of the game, although not as originally planned. Glasgow, Iowa star, has been worked at both right and left half, while Yablock, Colgate, also is trying for these positions.

India Will Ask Her Independence

LAHORE, India, Dec. 30. (AP)—Resolutions asking complete independence of India from the British crown will be presented to the 44th national congress, which opened Sunday, with full approval of the All-India National congress party's executive committee.

The executive committee voted 134 to 77 in approval of a resolution of Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader, who advocated as a first step non-cooperation with the British governmental machinery.

An amendment to Gandhi's motion providing for severance of relations and severance of participation in the present government of India was rejected 131 to 89 after Gandhi had made his plea for gradual progress in the campaign for ultimate self-government.

Gandhi led the fight in the committee against those who were inclined to favor dominion status for India. His measures of non-cooperation with the British governmental machinery included refusal to attend the round table conference called to meet in London to discuss the political situation in India, and favored a boycott of the central and provincial legislatures with authorization for a program of civil disobedience and non-payment of taxes.

More than 30,000 Indians attended the congress.

Among those who were removed from Pampa hospital to their homes yesterday were Mrs. Earl Skaggs and baby, Mrs. Jack Hoskinson, Mrs. E. D. Moriarty, Miss Pauline Noel.

Business Men of Laredo to Have Meeting Tonight

LAREDO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Seeking a possible way to prevent the closing of Laredo as a port of entry into Mexico for commerce, Laredo business men have announced they will hold a mass meeting here tonight.

Action regarding the threatened closing of the Mexican customs house in Nuevo Laredo also is considered. Customs brokers held a meeting Saturday night.

Many citizens claim the recent closing of the Mexican consulate here and the other measure which would restrict commerce through the city into Mexico are retaliatory measures of the Mexican government for the Calles-Calles incident. John Valls district attorney, announced he would arrest former-president Plutarco Elias Calles on an old murder charge, if Calles came through Texas on his way to Mexico from New York. Calles passed through Laredo guarded by U. S. Marines.

Negro Boys Are Killed by Plane in Texas Accident

HEARNE, Dec. 30. (AP)—Three negro boys were dead and another was in a critical condition today as a result of an airplane crashing into a crowd that swarmed over the flying field here yesterday.

Miss Dorothy Stocker, 17, Houston student, said to have a private pilot's license and considerable flying time to her credit, was alone in the plane when it swooped down upon the scurrying crowd.

The dead youths, two of whom were killed instantly, were Kelsey Hearne, 7, and James Hearne, 9, sons of John Hearne, and Jim Webster, 12, son of John Webster. The boy injured was Dock Wright.

Miss Stocker who returned to Houston for treatment of minor injuries, was accompanied here by Mrs. Ola M. Smith, A. R. Emmerson and L. M. Emmerson. They brought two planes. Attempting to land, Miss Stocker was unable to speed her engine and regain altitude when she saw the impending tragedy.

County Attorney T. L. Tyson of Franklin investigated the accident.

Suspicion is directed at EMIL SEVIER, former housekeeper, whom Mrs. Hogarth has accused of trying to rob her and who has disappeared. CORA BARKER, murderer and theater owner, thought she had had an affair with Sevier, rested as a material witness against him. Other witnesses are usually named as being in the room at the time of the murder. BONNIE DUNDUE, who is a detective, is the only one who refuses to stay on at the Rhodes' house. Bonnie learns from papers discovered in the trunk of the victim's trunk that the SALLY CHAVES who has been arrested, and that the DEX GRIF-FIN, now-in-law, possesses a newspaper which had been in the room at the time of the murder in New York one month previous. He has information from the police that the white magazine store checks. However, a trunk of electrical apparatus in Magnus' room puzzles Dundue. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXX DINNER that Monday evening began as a rather ghastly affair due largely to Cora's first appearance in the boarding house family since her arrest the day before as a material witness against Emil Sevier. Much as Dundue admitted her courage, there was no doubt that Cora Barker was like a death's head at the feast. And as if that were not enough, she was the very real kindness of her heart, had outdone herself on the menu. Making a brave effort to ignore the unusually large crowd of "guests" at the little tables scattered throughout the dining room, the regular boarders tried to chat normally with Cora, expressing their sympathy only with their eyes. But it was no go. Cora's tragic, suddenly old face brooded somberly over the food she scarcely touched, and the only answers she gave were monosyllables—until Bert Magnus entered the room, a little later. Dundue wished the two could have had that first moment of meeting after the tragedy alone, unwatched by the curious though sympathetic eyes of all their fellow boarders. By accident or design, the chair next to Cora's had been left vacant, and now Bert Magnus slipped into it. Without actually seeing the clasp, Dundue was sure that their hands—Bert's unscrupled left and Cora's right—met beneath the table cloth, and there was no doubt at all of the fond, faithful light in Bert's eyes as they clung to the woman's tragic dark eyes. It was Jewel Briggs who broke the tension. "I tell you, folks! Let's all walk down to the Little Queen with Cora and see the movie, just to show everybody that we're her friends. Bert, you walk with Cora. Waiter with Norma, and I'll let Mr. Dundue escort me, if he's very good!" Dundue's impulse was to refuse, tactfully, but as he was about to speak he caught a strange expression on Cora Barker's face. Her eyes were blazing upon Jewel Briggs and her nostrils were flaring ominously, but she said nothing, and Jewel seemed to be blissfully unaware of the searing glare. But Cora's enmity toward Jewel Briggs required investigating. Besides, he could do little sleuthing until the next day, when the boarders would again be out of the house. "AM I going to be left out of this little pleasure party?" Mr. Lawrence Sharp boomed. "Remember you're a married man, you old sheik!" Jewel laughed. "But since Mrs. Sharp is still out of town, suppose you both Daisy—if she'll take a chance." Daisy Shepherd, whose broad, jolly face was entirely free of any embarrassment, although she had been unmercifully teased about her speedy return to "Mother" Rhodes' good meals, seconded Jewel's suggestion heartily, so the party was arranged. At a quarter to seven the four couples sallied forth from the Rhodes House, rather self-conscious of their championship of a woman under arrest, but talking and laughing at a great rate to hide their embarrassment. Before they had walked a block the pairing off had taken place, and Dundue found Jewel Briggs clinging to his arm. A few paces ahead of them, Walter and Norma strolled together slowly, the man's head bent worshipfully toward the hatless, bronze-curl-crowned head of the girl. But that would not bear thinking of, and Dundue resolutely turned his attention to Jewel's chatter. "Of course I'm terribly sorry for you, but isn't it lovely how this awful murder has brought them so close together?" Jewel was saying eagerly. "Miss Paige and Mr. Styles?" Dundue asked, slightly puzzled. "Oh, dear! You weren't listening!" Jewel cried reproachfully. "Of course I don't mean Norma and Walter. They were engaged before the murder. I do believe you're half in love with Norma already, you bad boy! Is my heart going to be broken all over again?" "Not by me!" Dundue laughed, and hugged her arm close to his side. He might as well play up. "Whom did you mean then, Jewel?" "Cora and Bert, of course, stupid! I'm going to ask Cora to let me be maid of honor at her wedding—if you'll be Bert's best man!" "Are they engaged?" "I don't suppose he's asked her yet, but a blind man could see that he will. I've always heard that sympathy is love's first cousin. Now if only I could get into some terrible trouble—" "I rather imagine you will, if you ask Cora to let you be her bridesmaid," Dundue chuckled. "You don't seem to be her favorite girl friend at the moment—" "Oh, as soon as she and Bert are really engaged they'll get over that," Jewel retorted happily. "You see, Precious, I used to have a crush on Bert myself and Cora's still just a little mistletoe. I wasn't really in love with him, but I was sorta thrilled over him being a writer and all that. He's written the grandest secret of Cora heard me offer to copy it for him, or let him dictate to me, straight to the machine, you know, because I'm an awfully fast stenographer, and it made her wild. Not that she had the least cause to be really jealous; Bert's not the type of man I could do in a big way, not tall and handsome—like you! And he is sort of—well—" "Boring!" Dundue suggested, laughing delightedly. "Well, yes, because I'm not a bit literary myself, and a girl does want to talk about something besides stories and traveling. Do you blame me, Precious?" "BONNIE DUNDUE reassured her with great gravity, and proceeded to talk of the subject most interesting to Miss Jewel Briggs herself. But at the entrance to the Little Queen Theater Jewel was back, to revert to the topic of Cora's jealousy. "You really believe me when I say Cora had no cause to be jealous of me with Bert, don't you, Bonnie?" she coaxed, for she had managed very skillfully to extract the secret of the young detective's nickname. "Of course, Jewel," Dundue assured her gravely. "Besides," she rushed on eagerly "when I was flirting with Bert—oh in a nice way, you understand—Emil Sevier was still at the Rhodes' House and we all thought Cora had no eyes for anyone but him. Good news, because she let him make love to her enough! I thought Bert would be too slow for Cora. Honest, Bonnie, I don't believe that flat-tire ever kissed a girl in his life! And how Cora could fall for him, after—" "But at that interesting moment the rest of the party gaily demanded that the two loiterers join them. Although he and Jewel walked home together after the first show leaving Bert to see the picture twice and then escort Cora home when her work as maid was finished, Dundue was no nearer to finding the answer to that question than when they had entered the theater. He was still tantalized by this new and probably trivial mystery when he set about his work upon the major mystery of the next morning—a mystery still very little nearer solution than it had been two hours after Mrs. Hogarth's murder. A cold chill of fear settled upon the young detective's characteristic optimism. He who had been so sure of a penchant for criminology that he had stubbornly blasted his father's hopes of making a surgeon of him! Still, he told himself miserably, he had not been altogether useless. It was he who had led the trail of Dan Griffin, he, really, who had sent Lieutenant Strawn to Belton, Mo. But what if Strawn stubbornly insisted that was a wild goose chase? Well—he shrugged, as he hung upon the receiver of his private telephone to police headquarters—if he was falling, he was in good company. The police system of the entire state had as yet failed to turn upon the slightest clue to the whereabouts of their own pet suspect—the elusive Sevier. But that reflection, instead of raising Dundue's spirits, depressed them the more. Where the devil was Sevier—and why? If Sevier were as innocent of the actual murder as Dundue believed him to be, why in the name of all that was sane and reasonable was Sevier in hiding? Certainly no other crime had been unearthed against him; therefore his extreme invisibility must have some connection with the Hogarth case. But what? What? THESE questions nagged at the young detective's brain like buzzing mosquitoes which one snaps at but never hits, as he doggedly followed his program of searching every room in the Rhodes House. To make matters worse, Bonnie felt like a meddling busybody as he viewed through the highly innocent and uninteresting possessions of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sharp. For one restless moment he thought the treasure hunt was ended when he found a thick package of what felt like greenbacks, tucked away between Mrs. Sharp's decorous nightgowns. But the greenbacks proved to be cigar coupons. "Now what?" Dundue asked himself, after he had made a very thorough job of the big pleasant room. "Guess I'd better tackle the fair Tilda's domestic nest. Poor Tilda's so dumb she wouldn't have got it to it yet if the murderer had tucked his stolen fortune into one of her apron pockets." But if Tilda could have overlooked such a dubious present, Dundue's keen young eyes would have discovered it—and it was certainly not to be found in that cheerless little room. The chambermaid's cheap finery—Uncle Sam's perfume, face powder, lipstick, glass beads—touched the too susceptible young detective's heart. There was no use wasting time on Daisy Shepherd's room, he told himself, since Daisy had returned to it the night before after a 30-hour sojourn in a hotel since the murder. But he might as well have a look on general principles. . . . Daisy had unpacked her wardrobe trunk the night before, he discovered, but the lazy Dusty had not yet removed it to the basement storeroom. The two halves stood slightly ajar, and Dundue was about to turn away from his obvious emptiness when he caught sight of an envelope lying face downward in the shoe compartment. There was no letter inside, but the address was: "Miss Daisy Shepherd, care of Marcus-Craw, a Department Store, Hamilton." Odd that this letter should not have come to the boarding house, where Daisy's other mail was delivered, as he had already observed. The postmarks were Chicago, June 27 and Hamilton, June 28. In the upper left hand corner, was the picture and name of a Chicago hotel, and below the name of the hotel was inscribed in ink the name of the writer, A. B. Wheeler. Wheeler? Dundue frowned. He had heard that name very recently, but when, where, in what connection? (To Be Continued)

Body of Accident Victim Is Not Yet Fully Identified

COLUMBUS, Dec. 30. (P)—The body of a man thought to be Dr. Jonathan W. S. Carver, British archaeologist and explorer, awaited positive identification here today.

Victim of an automobile accident in which eight other persons were injured near Columbus Saturday, the man was described as scientist, wanderer and man of mystery by H. G. Miller of Roanoke, Va., who says he is 21 and has been a companion of Carver since Thanksgiving.

Finding of a diary, inscribed in different inks, with the names John W. Sargent and Dr. Jonathan W. S. Carver, yesterday, brought uncertainty of his identity. Four residents of San Francisco, Calif., named Sargent, were mentioned in the diary. A query from the undertaker who holds Carver's body here, brought an answer from California that the man was unknown, but an effort would be made to identify him.

Miller said Carver told him he was a member of the scientific expedition which opened the tomb of King Tut, and that he expected the violent death which ten other members of the expedition have met.

Friends of the dead man in El Paso have declared he is Dr. Carver. They said he organized and conducted two archaeological expeditions into Mexico last March and April, and also was believed to have been a close friend of Dr. John W. Sargent who has studied archaeological ruins near El Paso.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
