This Country Must Be Consulted Upon Stands

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (P)—America today stood upon the threshold of the world court with the statutes of that famous tribunal revised to facilitate her entry.

The next step, and the one which will carry the Washington government formally into the permanent court of international justice, will be ratification by the senate.

Since then, however, a revision of the statutes under which the court operates has been affected, designed to obviate the difficulties which the senate three years ago saw as standing in the way of American adherence.

Five Reservations. The senate at that time stipulated five reservations, of which four were acceptable to other nations.

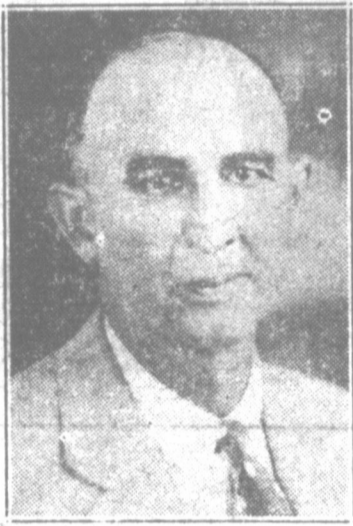

Requests for advisory opinions originate in the council, or assembly, of the league of nations, in which the United States has no representation.

Under the new scheme, America will be notified of pending requests for advisory opinions and conversations between Geneva and Washington will follow.

Close Restriction. If the United States is involved in any dispute or controversy, to what ever degree, with another country.

Young Men Fail in Jail Breaking to Free Friend

An approved gangster plan of liberating a comrade from prison was frustrated by Scott Rheudis last night when four young men attempted to rescue a woman from the new county jail at the courthouse where she was being held, charged with possessing intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale.

The young woman had been in the none-too-strongly built bastle for several days. The youths had unsuccessfully attempted to secure bond for her.

Now the young men and the lady are all in jail. No longer do the men come to her window and talk—in fact, they're not even in shouting distance of her.

ACCIDENTS IN TEXAS ON WEEK-END TAKE TEN LIVES AND INJURE MANY PERSONS—OIL FIELD WORKER FALLS TO DEATH HERE

Airplane Crash Fatal to Two Persons at Stamford

MAN IS KILLED BY FAST TRAIN

Okloman Swept from Derrick Friday Saturday

By the Associated Press. Accidents in Texas over the last week-end exacted a toll of at least ten lives, and numerous injuries.

Two were killed in an airplane crash. Five were fatally injured in automobile wrecks. A woman died of shock after suffering burns, and a man was killed jumping from a freight train.

Cotton Hansen, pilot, and Miss Winnie Williams, 20, his passenger, were killed at Stamford when Hansen's plane crashed and burst into flames.

Four persons were killed in automobile accidents near Waxahachie. Glenn V. Folks of Austin was killed and Mrs. Folks was seriously injured when their car overturned. Folks had gone to Dallas to meet Mrs. Folks, who had been visiting in St. Joseph, Mo., according to advices from Austin.

The wreck of two cars in which a Mexican family of nine was traveling from Oklahoma to Ennis, resulted in the death of a mother and her two-week-old baby and her brother. Two others were critically injured.

Slipping as he jumped from a moving freight train, Raymond Friday, 27, Corinto, Miss., struck the platform and was killed.

Mrs. J. P. Starr, 76, died from the shock suffered when her dress caught fire in an open gas stove. Although not seriously burned the aged woman could not survive the shock.

Frank J. Vernon of Vernon was killed at Oklaunion in a collision between his truck and an automobile. A heavy fog was blamed for the crash.

His body crushed and broken by a 55-foot fall from an Operators' Oil company derrick late Saturday in the Bowers field, Owen Bishop, 23, died at four o'clock Sunday morning in a local hospital.

Bishop, a rig-ouder who has lived here and at Borger for the past three years, was walking across a board scaffold spanning the derrick 55 feet up when the derrick line jerked, struck the scaffold, and unbalanced Bishop. He jumped for the side of the derrick but missed it about a foot and crashed on a timber and tools at the foot of the rig.

In the descent, Bishop's head struck an angle iron. He also suffered fatal internal injuries, leg fractures, a broken foot and deep lacerations on the face. He was brought to a local hospital by Roy West and Brady Davis. West had just walked across the scaffold before Bishop made his attempt.

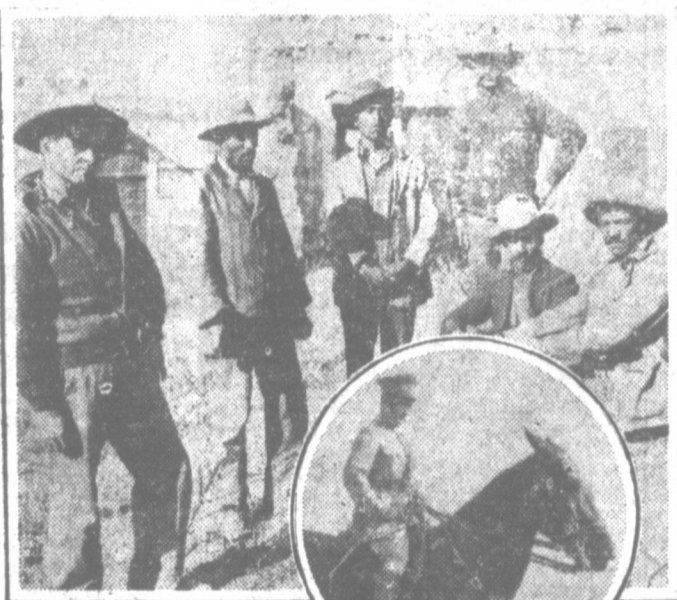

Funeral services will be held this evening at 8:30 o'clock at the G. C. Malone funeral chapel with Rev. James Todd, Jr., chaplain in charge. Bishop was widely and popularly known to rig-builders in this section, and all of them have been invited to attend the services. The body will then be taken to Muskogee, Okla., by way of Clinton for burial, by Malone's funeral car.

Bishop is survived by his wife; father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bishop of Muskogee; a brother, Forest B. Bishop, student at Claremore Military academy, Claremore, Okla.; and a sister, Mrs. J. C. Justice of El Paso, Texas. Bishop was married to Miss Freda Carroll of Independence, Kans., last February.

All efforts to locate his father have proved futile. He is also a rig-builder and might be working in any one of several oil fields in Texas and Oklahoma, his wife who is here now says. Calls for him have been broadcast at Amarillo, Fort Worth and Dallas. A brother of Bishop, Roy, died two years ago in a derrick fire at Borger.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop lived at Orange camp here. He spent three years in the air service at Honolulu. In the spring of this year, he took his first degree in Masonry at the Pampa lodge.

Indian Fighters Take Trail Again

These pictures, taken exclusively for this newspaper and NEA Service, show scenes at Agua Prieta, Mexico, just south of Douglas, Ariz., where thrill-seeking adventures from far and wide are gathering for Francisco Fimbres' forthcoming expedition against Apache Indians in the Sierra Madre mountains who murdered his wife and kidnaped his little son three years ago.

W. A. TAYLOR, COMMISSIONER OF PAMPA PRECINCT FOR TEN YEARS, SUCCUMBS TODAY AT 8:45 A. M.

One of Gray county's best-known citizens, W. A. Taylor, 66, died this morning at 8:45 o'clock in a local hospital after a month's illness. Mr. Taylor underwent an operation for an ulcerated stomach Saturday morning at 11 o'clock and his condition grew steadily worse until the end came this morning.

After the operation, he failed to regain consciousness. He was taken to the hospital last Wednesday after being ill almost a month at his home at 211 North-Houston street.

Mr. Taylor's health began to fail shortly after the death of his wife, Sept. 26. An immediate operation was advised a month ago but it was opposed by the sick man. He consented to the operation after he had been brought to the hospital, but doctors knowing that death was near, performed it only to give relief from his pain, they said.

As county commissioner of Gray county from 1919 to 1929, Mr. Taylor, in that decade, was one of its most active citizens. One of his last acts as county commissioner was to concur with the other members of the board in letting the contract to build the Gray county courthouse here. He was one of the most prominent workers for the removal of the county seat from LeFors to Pampa. In addition to being a prosperous farmer, Mr. Taylor established the first grade A-1 dairy in Pampa.

In the 18 years Mr. Taylor lived here he worked hard for the development of the community. As a member of the real estate firm of Kenney & Taylor and as a partner of Sam Anderson, Mr. Taylor assisted in the bringing of many farmers to Gray county. Business friends of his remember that he worked consistently for the agricultural development of Gray county during the 18 years that he lived here. Until three years ago he lived on his farm five and one-half miles from Pampa. Mr. Taylor was born in Williamsburg, Kentucky. Before coming to (See TAYLOR, page 6.)

BULLETINS

EVERETT, Mass. (P)—Three men were burned to death today in an explosion at the plant of the Trimount Oil company. Several others were severely burned.

EAARKANA, Ark., Dec. 9. (P)—Clau's Robbins, 30, charged with slaying Clarence Terry, 23, in Ravanna, Ark., Aug. 4, pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to five years in prison in Miller county circuit court here today. The charge was reduced from first degree murder by consent. The slaying was alleged to have followed an argument over the shooting of a dog.

LA GRANGE, Dec. 9. (P)—M. K. Simmons, former game warden in San Patricio county, faced trial here today in the slaying of Bud Stoner, prominent citizen of San Patricio county, Nov. 29, 1926. It was Simmons' third trial. He was convicted twice in San Patricio county, and the court of criminal appeals, however, remanded the case each time.

LUFKIN, Dec. 9. (P)—Four men were charged with criminal assault here today in connection with an attack on a widow, the mother of three children, in the Peavy Switch community, west of Lufkin, last night. Those charged were Bob Lester, 35, Jewel Brown, 22, Otha Parker 22, and Charlton White, 20. A grand jury started an investigation.

LONDON Dec. 9. (P)—The Spanish steamer Mar Rojo, 2,302 tons, was reported to be drifting on the rocks today five miles south of Hastings, on the channel coast. The ship reported her engines had broken down and asked for immediate help.

Boy Program Is Given by Dutton in Last Lecture

Dr. Dean Dutton of the University of Oklahoma closed his week of lectures last night in an address on "Men of Tomorrow" to a large audience at the First Baptist church.

It was an appeal to the men of the community to take a deeper interest in Pampa's boys—the "men of tomorrow." As a practical suggestion, he urged that there be held a banquet for men and the boys being graduated from the seventh grades. The influence of men upon boys at that period he said, would be of tremendous value, and would spur the lads to complete their high school work.

A large part of the lecture was devoted to analyses of boyhood, the "animal" period. The speaker accounted for boyish pranks and termed them very natural and desirable. He also spoke forcefully upon motherhood as a profession ranking above every other profession. In talks to high schools girls last week, he urged them to prepare for this profession just as deliberately and fully as their brothers do for trades and other vocations.

At the close of last night's lecture, Supt. R. B. Fisher declared the series of addresses had been of tremendous value to the students. An offering to help pay for the lectures was taken.

Mare Permits Issued

R. G. Hughes was issued a permit to build a $1,500 residence in the Alexander addition. V. D. Lawson is building a residence to cost $700.

Mrs. L. S. Buzbee and children will leave Thursday for Dallas where they will visit Mrs. Buzbee's mother, Mrs. T. E. Carter and friends. They will also visit in Greenville and Paris before returning home after the holidays.

Misconduct in Stokes Case Is Basis of Action

HE CLAIMS HIS ROLE JUSTIFIED

Famous Jurist Says He Merely Acted As Mediator

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 9. (P)—Ben B. Lindsey, former juvenile court judge, today was disbarred by the Colorado state supreme court on charges of professional misconduct, embracing acceptance of fees while he was judge.

Decision of the court was unanimous. The charge against Lindsey, who won wide fame for his administration of the Denver juvenile court, was that he accepted $37,000 from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, prominent Denver and New York society woman, who was attempting to establish the rights of her two children for a settlement of the W. E. D. Stokes estate. He was charged with taking $10,000 from Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney, in the same case.

Judge Lindsey was judge of the Denver juvenile court while the Stokes case was pending. He said his connection in the Stokes case was "disinterested from the work of the juvenile court" and he acted "merely as arbitrator and mediator."

Bandits Are Mown Down by Officers With Machine Gun

SHAKOPEE, Minn., Dec. 9. (P)—Three bank bandits were shot and probably fatally wounded today when police officers, lying in wait for them, opened fire with a machine gun as the robbers left the First National bank here.

Working on a tip from the protective department of the Minnesota Bankers' association that the bank would be robbed, the officers had maintained a watch at the bank for several days. The robbers were permitted to enter the bank and were preparing to drive away with $1,500 when the officers opened fire.

Man Critically Burned as Boiler House Is Ignited

Trapped in a Gulf company boiler-house which was filled with flames when the boiler exploded, W. P. Marshall was seriously burned Saturday midnight. He is now in a critical condition at McKean & Connor hospital. With his clothing in flames, Marshall was compelled to escape through a window when the door of the building blew shut, locking from the outside. In smashing the glass panes of the window with his fists, he suffered painful cuts on the hand. His entire body, face and head were badly burned.

Two Die in Blast

EVERETT, Mass., Dec. 9. (P)—Two men were killed today in an explosion at the plant of the Trimount Oil company and several others were reported injured. The explosion occurred in a tank from which a truck was being loaded with liquid asphalt.

THE POULTRY AND RABBIT SHOW WAS A CREDIT TO THE EXHIBITORS. AND THOSE WHO VIEWED THE FOWLS AND THE RABBITS MUST HAVE BEEN IMPRESSED WITH THE FINE STOCK OWNED IN THIS VICINITY.

Several deductions may be made concerning the show. One is that it is not necessary to send elsewhere for eggs or fine fowls. The nucleus is here for thousands of fine fowls.

It was very apparent that too few persons owned the fine chickens. If the show had only interested a few people in building up and enlarging their flocks, it would have been worthwhile.

The rabbit division was assembled by devoted members of that profession. "Try raising rabbits and you won't bother with poultry" remarked a follower of the bunnies, smiling at a poultry fancier a short distance away.

Perhaps an "Eat More Rabbit Week" would be in order. The demand in Amarillo, however, is said to exceed the supply. The rabbits require little room, little attention, and just plenty of alfalfa hay.

"HIGGINS IS NOW BLESSED WITH AN AMPLE SUPPLY OF GAS", exults the Higgins News.

Yes, good North Plains gas, just as real as timber or coal and a whole lot less troublesome. The casual observer fails to realize the extent of oil field assets because so many of them are hidden.

"Of course, Higgins has had, at sundry times, a surplus of gas," admits The News, "and while some of it was of somewhat inflammatory nature, it was not combustible and did nothing whatever for the good and welfare of the community. To the doubting ones who are of the skeptical order, we would say that the gas we are now using is sure enough gas. It gives off a good heat. It burns with a minimum of trouble to the person who is fortunate enough to be using it. No coal to carry in! No ashes to carry out! No continuous "stoking" in order to keep the stove hot—no trouble what ever! A glorious condition, friends and countrymen! A perfect heaven for the lazy man. And, also, the best woman saver in the world."

Verily, verily. It is quite a contrast to think of the fuel that burns the instant you place a lighted match near it and then to recall that pioneer fuel of the range. The writer's memory does not run back into the preceding century by a good deal, but he does recall that while a small boy he used to gather the "chips" from the prairie and after considerable difficulty kindle a roaring fire—often so hot that the stove suffered and the sour dough biscuits resembled cinders. Yes, the gas of today is quite an improvement, and one that most of the newcomers will never realize.

TOO CLEVER?

It takes a good deal of faith to live happily in this modern world.

There are so many things that disturb one's serenity; so many troubling indications that human beings are neither very wise, very noble or very important. To live in contentment in spite of these things requires a good bit of faith in the things that are unseen.

There is, for instance, the great steel mill district that surrounds the southern end of Lake Michigan. Entering Chicago from the east, you ride through this district for miles. As far as you can see, in every direction, there is nothing but a jumble of factories.

These factories are not disturbing because of their ugliness. Men have always built ugly buildings, and they always will. The sheer size and complexity of this conglomeration of mills are what bothers one. They make the men who work in them and live about them seem insignificant. They cause one to doubt that man is made for a high destiny when he can spend his whole life as an insignificant mite in the chaos of furnaces.

Then there are the automobile factories at Detroit. They spraddle out over miles of ground. Their production lines seem utterly unending. In them are machines that seem almost human—and human beings that seem almost machine-like. A person visiting them cannot escape the horrible suspicion that the man-is-a-machine theory may be right.

There are, also, Chicago's stockyards. It is impossible to avoid a slight chill of uneasiness at the sight of those droves of cattle and hogs being swiftly, relentlessly transformed from living animals into dressed beef and pork. Life, there, becomes a mere matter of breathing an eating and sleeping. How can you keep feeling that life is a miracle when you see how easily, and casually, it can be destroyed?

There are a very few of the things that assail a man in this modern age. It is hard to keep the old faith, hard to cling to the old belief that life partakes of a glory beyond the stars.

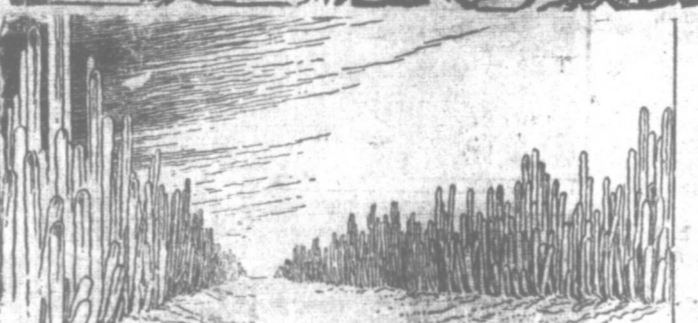

We are, after all, alone on a planet that swings through empty space, and if we conclude that we are traveling without a goal the job of living becomes insupportable, for most of us. Yet our very cleverness in making machines, erecting factories and putting great cities together is operating to rob us of the faith that we need.

Have we grown, perhaps, just a little bit too clever?—Lubbock Journal.

GRID PROBES OF SOUTHWEST IN PROSPECT

DALLAS, Dec. 9. (AP)—Followers of college athletics looked toward Dallas today for a probable discussion of the recent Carnegie report criticism of methods employed in obtaining the services of athletes.

Although this subject was not formally scheduled for discussion at the annual meetings of the Southwest, the Texas and the T. I. A. A. conferences, it was generally believed a discussion would be launched. Opinion was expressed that T. O. Walton, president of Texas A. & M. college, would ask Southwest conference officials for an investigation. He has previously indicated his belief that only an official investigation would definitely clear the Southwest of any possible cloud resulting from the report.

Separate meetings were arranged for faculty representatives, who govern the associations, and athletic directors and business managers, who are directly in charge of sports. Election of officers for the coming year, the awarding of football championships for the season just closed, and possible discussion of next year's schedules completed the programs.

Francis A. Schmidt, Texas Christian university mentor, was scheduled for the principal address before the meeting of the Texas approved board of basketball officials. Schmidt is a member of the national basketball rules committee.

EAST TO TRY TO REGAIN ITS LOST HONORS

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (AP)—The drive of eastern football forces upon the far western front, comprising the last major maneuver of the gridiron season, begins this week.

Carnegie and Pittsburgh join the Army in an attack that has for its objective the recovery of laurels lost last year when the heroes from the Pacific coast over-ran everything in sight.

Carnegie plays Southern California Saturday at Los Angeles in a skirmish that will furnish a more definite basis than is usually available in figuring the new year's day classic in the Rose Bowl. Carnegie was soundly trounced by Pittsburgh, the unbeaten clan that has drawn the invitation to meet Southern California in the big holiday engagement. Tech may "soften up" the Trojans, or they may be able to give an eye-witness account of just what Pitt will be up against. Within the next fortnight, Pitt's Panthers, as well as West Point's cadets will be on the march west, by easy stages. The soldiers are assigned to the Palo Alto sector, determined on a final drive to break their "jinx" of 1929, win a major battle and at the same time obtain revenge for the walloping administered by Stanford at the Yankee stadium last year.

On the basis of the form Red Cagle and his mates displayed against Notre Dame their chances over overthrowing the Cardinals appear worth some bally hoo. This 1929 Army team has the stuff and Palo Alto may be the spot they have been looking for to exhibit it.

So far the West Coast has tumbled considerably below its 1928 standard of inter-sectional play.

California beat Pennsylvania and Oregon defeated Detroit, but three defeats offset these victories. Southern California dropped the decision to Notre Dame. Washington was trounced by Chicago, and in the latest, longest-range inter-sectional tilt, Oregon fell before Florida's fast array.

Florida's 20 to 6 victory over the web foots at Miami helped bring the Southern season to a particularly impressive climax. Like the 12-6 triumph of Georgia over Georgia Tech in the battle of old rivals at Athens, the victory enabled the Gators to register a rousing finish to a somewhat erratic season.

Florida and Georgia, at the end, were not in position to dispute Tulane's claim to the Southern conference championship, but each rated high. Florida, by a strange twist, was the only major victim of Georgia Tech, which lost six of its nine games after being on top of the gridiron world a year ago. Other wise the Gators cleaned up in the South and balanced their Harvard defeat by the Oregon triumph.

The week after being held to a tie by Kentucky, Tennessee closed with a burst of scoring power that was just as impressive as anything Tulane, Colgate, Pittsburgh, and Stanford registered in their climax games. The volunteers, who ran wild against South Carolina's Game Cocks to the tune of 54 to 0, looked as powerful as any team in the country. McEver's scoring spree, involving 30 points put the line-buster at the top with 130 points.

Miss Fannie Florence and Miss Nettie Sims were called to their home in Clarendon yesterday by the sudden death of their grand-father, T. B. Loveless. They will accompany their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Sims, to Roswell, N. M., where funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Maryland Team Leads Country in Grid Percentage

By the Associated Press
Aside from a few games in the far west that cannot affect the standing football has closed its slate for the season with little Western Maryland leading all the rest in victories.

Dick Harlow's charges from Westminster, Md., closed a great season on Saturday with a 12-0 victory over Maryland. It was Western Maryland's 11th successive victory with neither tie nor defeat. Thirteen other unbeaten teams trailed the Hallow eleven.

Among the unbeaten teams Tennessee was the heaviest scorer with 330 points. St. Mary's of California led on the defense with only six points chalked up against it.

The list of major unbeaten teams: Western Maryland; Ohio university; Tulane; Pittsburgh; Notre Dame; Purdue; Utah; Tennessee; Texas Christian; Duquesne; St. Mary's (California); Rider; Fordham, and Southern Methodist.

Shires Fight Is Feature Event

CHICAGO, Dec. 9. (AP)—An indication of how good Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires is as a box fighter under Marquis of Queensberry rules will be learned tonight when he engages Dan Daly, Cleveland heavyweight, in a six-round bout in the White City arena.

Shires gained somewhat of a reputation as a free lance fighter last summer in two formal tilts with Russell Blackburne, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, Shires' employer. Daly has arrived from Cleveland, and the Illinois State Athletic commission has approved the bout.

EVENLY MATCHED—VERY

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 9. (AP)—Even their warmest partisans admitted today that the 23rd infantry of Fort Sam Houston and the flyers from the Air Corps training center of Kelly field have fairly evenly matched football teams.

They played their second match yesterday for the army league championship. The first game was a six to six tie. The second ended with the count 0-0.

Port Arthur to Play Denton on Next Saturday

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 9. (AP)—Coach Tom Dennis' Yellow Jackets, the club that jerked the tail feathers out of Brownsville's Eagles to win bi-district honors on Rice field, Houston, Saturday, will meet the championship Denton eleven on Franklin field at 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

Port Arthur school officials definitely announced today that the game would be played here and that it had been secured for the Jackets' home field through a substantial guarantee, amount of which they refused to divulge.

In defeating the Brownsville eleven, the Dentonmen jumped into the lead in the state interscholastic grid race and became favorites of many to come through to the finals.

Dennis began intensive training for Denton today.
Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Twiford will spend Tuesday in Amarillo, where Mr. Twiford will attend to business.

Christmas Seal Design Made by Wood Engraver

When the people of Texas this season purchase a supply of Christmas seals in the sale sponsored by the Texas Public Health association they will observe on each seal a design fashioned by a wood engraver of the old school. The engraver is John W. Evans, 74 years old, of Baldwin, Long Island. His design will appear on 32,000,000 seals which are to be offered the people of Texas this Christmas to help stamp out tuberculosis. The seal shows a medieval bell-ringer pulling the rope which sends "health greetings" out to the world.

When it was desired to obtain a new idea for the Christmas seal sale this year, Evans was found at his bench, still at work as he was 50 years ago, producing reproductions of fine works of art such as he did for the Century Magazine until the process was abandoned in 1900.

The idea of the bell-ringer was utilized as expressive of seasonal health greetings. The original painting was photographed on a block of wood much larger than the size of the finished product. Evans then took the wood to represent the lines and shadows desired, and the proof of this cut was used to make plates from which the seals were actually printed.

PHIL SCOTT TO BATTLE PORAT THIS EVENING

BY HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (AP)—Otto von Porat of Norway and Phil Scott, fireman from London, clash in a 12-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight for charity's sake and for a possible "shot" at the heavyweight championship of the world.

Twenty-four hours before the battle, William Muldoon, venerable New York state athletic commissioner and co-donor, with Gene Tunney, of the Tunney-Muldoon heavyweight championship trophy, announced that so far as he could see there were only three real contenders for the vacant title—Jack Sharkey of Boston, Max Schmeling of Germany, and the winner of tonight's bout.

In a general review of the heavyweight situation, Muldoon outlined plans for two matches, one in Miami in February, and the other in New York in September, by which he hoped the throne could be acceptably filled.

Under Muldoon's plan the survivor of tonight's bout would meet Sharkey or Schmeling at Miami with the winner battling Sharkey or Schmeling for the title in September. Thus if Sharkey gets the call in February and won, he would meet Schmeling in September and vice versa should Schmeling be picked for the Miami fight.

In the event that Schmeling, who stands suspended in this state at present, declines to enter the tournament, Muldoon said only one thing could be done. "That will be to recognize the winner of tomorrow night's fight and Jacky Sharkey as the finalists and decide the tournament by a bout between them," he explained.

With Muldoon's announcement as an added incentive to fans and with Jack Dempsey to be referee, tonight's card, for the benefit of the Christmas charity fund of which Mrs. Randolph Hearst is chairman, should be a sell-out. Von Porat, because of his great punching power, ruled a slight favorite.

The Rev. D. H. Truhitt, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city; the Rev. W. T. Gregory, pastor of the Miami Baptist church; and the Rev. George Stout of Miami, associational missionary of the Canadian association, left this morning in the Rev. Truhitt's car for Dallas, where they will attend a meeting of the executive board of the Texas Baptist convention.

Football Season Not Over—Grade Schools Will Have Big Tournament

Not all of the "crooshul" football games of the season have been played as the youthful gridsters of the city grade schools will tell the world. Championships and loving cups are still to be won, and big battles are ahead.

After a series of preliminary tussles during the last several days, the four ward schools—Lamar, Baker, East Ward and West Ward—tomorrow will play semi-final games, and on Thursday the winners of the two tilts will fight it out for a handsome loving cup offered by the athletic association.

The teams of Baker and West Ward will play at 12:10 tomorrow on the West Ward field. East Ward will meet Lamar at the Harvester field at 2 o'clock. The championship game will be played at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, on the Harvester field.

The tournament was sponsored by the athletic association of the school, composed of members of the board of trustees and the faculty, and was directed by L. L. Sone, principal of the high school, and Odus Mitchell, head coach of Central high. Mr. Sone and Mr. Mitchell will referee all games. Each team was coached by a member of the faculty of the school represented.

All games are open to the public without charge, and it is the desire of the teachers, principals, and sponsors that there be a large crowd of spectators at each, to lend encouragement to the youngsters. They particularly urge all parents and friends of the boys to be at the final game.

The Baker team was coached by Miss Gwendolyn Spradley. The squad includes: First string—Reginald Altman, Floyd Organ, Benjamin Horn, Earl Lorton, Vernon Thomas, John Austin, Woodrow Woodridge, Kelley Kitchen, Cecil Bond, Forest Anderson, and James Bell; second string—John Dow Lawson, Vernon Thomas, E. C. Allison, Norman Griesman, Noble Hall, Joe Waldman, D. C. Turner, Robert Kilgore, Richard Kilgore, Junior Perkins, Harlen Fulks, Nelson Link, and George Houston. A pep squad of nineteen girls will be led by Carmelle Owens and Evelyn Kentling.

Mrs. E. A. Hampton is coach of the East Ward huskies. The players are: Jack Walstad, captain; Doyle Bailey, Douris Ray Hungate, Ralph Hamilton, Bob Mitchell, Sammy Link, Charles Hutchins, W. C. Bartels, Owen Goddard, Edward Lovell, John Williams, Olie Henderson, Rex Rose, Edward Redell, Foy Cass, Kenneth New, C. E. F. J. Meadow, Billie Cornelius, Wind-Phillips, Albert Reynolds, Holt Hamlett, Nor Baker, Paul Link, Clyde Wayne, Donald Stout, Glen Twiford, Travis New, Donald Stout, Glen Twiford, Travis New, R. V. Sewell, Junior Strickland, A. C. Walker, and Tappy Reynolds. The pep squad will be led by Flora Dean Finley and De Ann Heskell.

West Ward players were coached by Mrs. T. A. Cox, who is expecting to use her entire squad in tomorrow's game. The players are: Bob Stapp, Lon Noblitt, Ivan Noblitt, Joe Thorpe, Lewis Stark, R. L. Speck, Ernest Haggard, A. L. Sanders, Harvey Shadwick, Robert Riley, Victor Wade, Chester Hunkapillar, George Nix, and Ray Gwin.

Jack Wood, principal, coached the following Lamar players: J. G. McConnell, W. J. Brown, Scott Mullins, Francis Cullen, captain, Richard Wilks, Bob Bailey, Foster Kinsler, Jim Arndt, Wayne Winkler, W. J. Trippett, Bob Drake, Brice Green, Billie Fish, Clyde Flowers, Robert Burba, George Marvin Lane, Elmer LeRoy Johnson, Thomas Metcalf, Billie Hart, Clove Wells, Henry Berry, and Carl White.

INJURED YOUTH RECOVERING

Elmer Willis, Mrs. Frank Shaw's brother, who was painfully injured when the large car he was driving overturned in the ditch near Kingsmill last Wednesday night, is recovering at Pampa hospital. He suffered a fracture at the base of the brain in the accident.

His mother, Mrs. W. R. Willis and a friend of Miss Jane Carr, arrived here from Louisville, Ky., yesterday to be with him. Soon after she arrived, Miss Carr received a message that her sister had just recovered a period of illness, she was unable to make the trip back east.

Crouch's Friends Make Up Bond as Man Arrives

TEMPLE, Dec. 9. (AP)—A. B. Crouch, arrested in Heleusville, New Zealand, after a thirteen year search, was returned to Temple today to face the ten indictments for forging as many grain bills of lading.

He made bond of $13,000. In custody of Sheriff John Big-ham, Crouch was accompanied on the trans-Pacific trip by his wife and his solicitor, John Terry of New Zealand.

Known in Heleusville as John Grey, Crouch was one of the leading citizens of the little town and a potential candidate for mayor. His arrest followed identification by a private detective, which was confirmed by Sheriff Big-ham, who made the trip when advised Crouch had been located.

He was awaiting him when he arrived here. It had been made by business men of McGregor, Bell county, where he formerly lived. This hoard of bills of more than $300,000.

No date has been set for the trial. Crouch was arrested several months ago, but a requisition hearing delayed the start of the long trip.

At the time of his arrest, he was known in Heleusville as "Honest John." He left four children in New Zealand to carry on the work of his ranch.

He has refused to discuss the charges, saying only that he had been in the grain business in Texas and failed.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MRS. EMMA HOGARTH, miserably and frequently changed her will to be a new favorite among the orders, is strangled to death in her room on the second floor of Mrs. Rhodes' boarding house...

"Of course! She wasn't angry with me. She was just determined to keep me from marrying Walter—for my own good, she said."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIII

"WELL, Miss Paige, I see you're already in mourning for Mrs. Hogarth."

"Lieutenant Strawn greeted the girl who advanced timidly toward the desk where one of the dead woman's last acts had been to record in her diary her intention of disinheriting her latest favorite."

"A quick flush tinged the pallor of the lovely face. Tears welled in her eyes, which looked as if they had shed many that night."

"I—hardly realized what I was putting on, after—after I was told about poor Mrs. Hogarth," Norma stammered, smoothing the sheenless black of her dress with nervous hands. "But I am—in mourning for her in my heart."

"What was your feeling toward Mrs. Hogarth?" Strawn asked, after he had placed the trembling girl in a chair beside him.

"I loved her very much," Norma answered simply. "My mother and father are both dead, and Mrs. Hogarth seemed more like a mother to me than anyone has since—"

"Did you still love her after your interview with her this evening?"

"The flush deepened painfully. "I—yes! I knew she was wrong about—about Walter, but I knew she thought she was acting for my own good. Things she said about Walter hurt me terribly, but I didn't quarrel with her or become really angry with her."

"Suppose you begin at the beginning, Miss Paige—or rather, at about 11 o'clock, and tell me everything you know about this bad news."

"I know nothing about Mrs. Hogarth's death," Norma flashed. She was as well as usual when I saw her last—"

"And that was when?"

"About half-past 11. It was nearly 1 when Mr. Dundee—a new boarder here, whom I look to meet Mrs. Hogarth—left the house, and Walter and I came upstairs from the way to tell her we were engaged."

"I know she wouldn't be pleased, but couldn't deceive her, and perhaps she'd really have wanted me to, if she'd known the truth."

"Miss Paige, I believe you spent part of all of that time in Mrs. Hogarth's room, and that you know who killed her."

"Did Mr. Styles your fiancé, my engagement to Walter—"

"And what was your answer?" Strawn interrupted.

"The girl's eyes widened incredulously. "Why, of course, I told her I was going to marry Walter anyway!"

"Then what were you crying about when you left this room at half-past 11?" Strawn demanded.

"I felt terrible because I'd hurt her feelings, after she'd been so kind to me," Norma faltered. "And—"

"—and she made me cry, too, by making a wager that Walter would—would hit me when I told him that she had disinherited me."

"Because you half believed she was right?" Strawn prodded, mercilessly.

"No, no! I knew he loved me for myself, not for what Mrs. Hogarth might leave me."

"But your engagement took place after Mrs. Hogarth had made the will in your favor?"

"THE flush deepened to scarlet. "Please don't be so—so nasty to me!" she begged piteously. "How could Walter and I have become engaged much sooner than we did? I had never seen him before I came to board here on June first."

"Then it took Mrs. Hogarth's time to choose an heirless than for Mr. Styles to fall in love?" Strawn smiled.

"Oh! She flung out her hands in a hopeless gesture. "Very well, Miss Paige, I apologize. Why tell me what happened from half-past eleven on. You left this room in tears—"

"Mrs. Hogarth cried, too," Norma told him. "I bent and kissed her—she was sitting where you are now, at her desk—"

"She didn't get up to unlock the door and lock it after you, as was her custom?" Strawn interrupted quickly.

"I turned the key in the lock myself, but she was rising when I opened the door. I hesitated a moment outside the door, heard her turn the key in the lock, and then I called out good night—"

"And she answered you?"

"THE girl sprang to her feet. "No, no! I never saw her again, I tell you! I know nothing whatever of her death—"

"Then where were you, Miss Paige? I think you see the necessity for telling the whole truth," Strawn urged gently.

"Norma sank back into her chair. "I—you won't tell on me, will you, Lieutenant Strawn? It was so innocent, really, but you know how a boarding house is—"

"What you tell me here is in confidence, Miss Paige," Strawn assured her. "unless it concerns the death of Mrs. Hogarth."

"It doesn't! Oh, please believe I know nothing, and that Walter doesn't either!" she begged, the tears spilling out of her eyes upon her white cheeks. "I went straight to my room after I had told Mrs. Hogarth good night. I—cried for awhile, then I decided to take a cool bath. I undressed, and put on pajamas and a kimono, and took my things to the bathroom—my towel and soap, you know. I turned on the water, and then started back to my room to get my toothbrush. Walter had been watching for me. His room is just across the hall from mine, you know, and as I started back to my room he called to me in a whisper. Of course, I knew he wanted to know what Mrs. Hogarth had said to me. I had promised to call him out into the hall when the interview was over, to tell him all about it, but—but—"

"You didn't want him to know how badly Mrs. Hogarth's charges against him had upset you?" Strawn suggested.

"Norma bowed her head, then flung it high again defiantly. "But I knew they were untrue, that she was mistaken in him—in his motives!"

"As soon as she spoke to me, I began to cry again, and she begged me to fix the stopper in the tub so the water wouldn't overflow, then came into his room to tell him all about it. He thought it was better for Mrs. Sharp or anyone who wanted to talk to me about what Mrs. Hogarth had said—everyone knew all about it, you see, and was interested—to think I was in the bathroom, and—and not in his room—"

"Mr. Styles seems to have a talent for plotting," Strawn remarked dryly.

"And she answered you?"

Grand Jury to Ignore Brookhart

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—The grand jury today decided to ignore testimony by Senator Brookhart of Iowa relative to the "Wall Street boom" party given by Walter Fahy, New York banker, to new members of congress in 1926, at which Brookhart said liquor was served.

Brookhart said he sat at the dinner between Otto Kahn New York financier and E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, and that the latter poured "some alcoholic stuff" from a glass and drank it.

The grand jury in its report said it was "deemed that the lack of evidence, together with the extraordinary lapse of time between the alleged violations and the revelation of the facts relating to this affair, make it impracticable for the grand jury to consider the matter further."

TAYLOR

Texas, he lived for many years at Moore in Cleveland county, Oklahoma. He was county commissioner at the county seat, Norman, for 12 years. Twenty years ago, he moved to Panhandle and after living there two years, he came to Pampa.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Hugh Isbell, three sons, L. R. Taylor, H. B. Taylor and W. F. Taylor, and eight grand-children. A daughter, Mrs. Phoebe Sallor, preceded her father in death nine years ago and her son, Warren James Sallor, 9, has been living with his grand-parents since his mother's death.

Mrs. Taylor died of cancer at her home after an illness of two months during which she underwent major operations at Temple and Dallas.

About New York

By RICHARD MASSOCK

NEW YORK—Eighteen years ago the Rev. William Norman Guthrie came to the historic old parish of St. Mark's-in-the-Bowery.

He found there a quaint, but dilapidated edifice, now exactly 100 years old, a neglected churchyard and a congregation depleted by the general removal of former parishioners from the east side tenement neighborhood to the more fashionable uptown.

Now the parish is fairly prosperous, the churchyard has been transformed into a garden, the church is to be further "beautified" and the rector, wardens and vestry are even considering developing their property along modernistic and artistic lines.

This property includes a row of tenements, acquired in recent years, in the same block with the church. Whether the modernism will be expressed in new apartment buildings, a new church, or both, they are not ready to say.

Ritualistic Innovations

Behind this progress is the familiar story of the critical flurry aroused by Dr. Guthrie's eurythmic rituals, sometimes called "barefoot dancing."

This story found its way into the public prints in February, 1922, when a Parsee priest officiated at a native service in St. Mark's. The next month six barefoot girls danced before the veiled sanctuary. In December it was announced that Bishop William T. Manning had intervened to prevent Isadora Duncan from appearing in the church.

For several years after that services of the American Indian, of the Egyptians (portraying worship of Amen-Ra, the sun god), of the Buddhists and of other non-Christian peoples created considerable controversy.

The introduction of incense urns and gongs, including a large "devil gong" from India, were among the unorthodox innovations and some of the older parishioners criticized the rose-pink frescoes and a mural of skipping gazelles, trees, birds and fish, painted over the church's doors.

Colonial and Classic

The "mystic offices" still are used, however. The mural still is visible from Second avenue. The gongs still ring at the climax of the services. And the garden still is ornamented with numerous statues, one of them, the Little Lady of the Dew, by Solon Borglum, having been dedicated by Dr. Manning himself before he was elevated to the bishopric.

To these Dr. Guthrie hopes to add a dozen Venetian church relics to give the old Colonial church a touch of the Byzantine that distinguishes the more famous St. Mark's of Venice. These pieces, on which he obtained options after visiting innumerable old world palaces and cellars to attics, include a font and marble columns for the porch, sedilia (or seats for the clergy) for the chancel and marble pendants for the walls.

Thus will be transformed one of the most picturesque spots of New York, and the oldest church site in Manhattan still used for its original purpose.

For the original chapel was established by Pedrus Stuyvesant, the Dutch governor, on his farm, or Bouwerie, before 1660, chiefly for the use of his 40 black servants.

It became an Episcopal chapel in 1791 and was replaced by the present Colonial building in 1829. So it is venerable despite the spotlights that now flood the altar with theatrical brilliance.

NEW YORK—Having launched two infant violinists on careers to fame, Louis Persinger, of Illinois and California has come to New York to live and, perhaps to teach other youngsters the technique of fiddling.

For Persinger has become known as the master of Yehudi Mequhin and Ruggiero Ricci the contemporary prodigies of music.

Yehudi's success set a fad for prodigy violinists. As a result, Persinger has heard from the fond parents of 86 other infants who see incipient talent in their offspring. A Boston family wanted him to teach a 22-month-old son and he has listened to the playing of a Baltimore 4-year-old.

But Persinger doesn't take them before they are 6. And the geniuses are few.

His own two sons, for instance one 9, the other 12, have been around good music so long they wake up in the morning to whistle a Beethoven concerto. And the younger "is doing pretty good on the violin." But their father does not over-estimate their talents.

Ruggiero's brother Giorgio, offers more promise and, being 6, now is a Persinger pupil.

DISCOVERING TALENT

Nine-year-old Roger's acclaim (he'll be called Roger for simplicity's sake) at his metropolitan debut this season rivaled only that two years ago of Yehudi, who now is 12.

Unlike Yehudi's parents, however, Roger's are in humble circumstances. The father is a day laborer in San Francisco. At one time he organized a family orchestra, himself playing the trombone, Roger the violin, George (as the younger brother prefers being called) the drums and a sister the piano. Soon Roger became the leader.

Two Killed When Plane Falls and Burst Into Flames

STAMFORD, Dec. 9. (AP)—Pilot Cotton Hansen, 30, and his 20-year-old passenger, Miss Winnie Williams, were burned to death in the wreck of Hansen's plane here yesterday, while Miss Williams' escort, who had pleaded with her to forego the ride, looked helplessly on.

The plane crashed and burst into flames at the local landing field, before a large crowd which had gathered while Hansen was taking up passengers.

Spectators said the plane was flying low when it fell. Hansen had taxied down the field at a high rate of speed, they said, before taking off. He then circled low over the field. As the plane flew near the crowd, it went into a tailspin, turned over, and crashed on its nose.

Pilot and passenger were strapped in. Both bodies were badly burned.

COTTON FORECAST ACCURATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—An estimated production of 14,919,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight was shown by the department of agriculture report today on the basis of December indications. Compared with a forecast of 15,900,000 bales made a month ago and 14,478,000 bales produced last year.

Indicated yield of lint cotton per acre is, placed at 155.3 pounds per acre, compared with 152.9 pounds last year. Abandonment of acreage since July was shown as 3.3 per cent of the acreage planted, leaving 45,981,000 acres for harvest.

Production by states was estimated as follows: Virginia, 46,000; North Carolina 735,000; South Carolina, 843,000; Georgia, 1,345,000; Florida, 29,000; Missouri, 215,000; Tennessee, 515,000; Alabama, 1,335,000; Mississippi, 1,915,000; Louisiana, 810,000; Texas, 3,950,000; Oklahoma, 1,200,000; Arkansas, 1,490,000; New Mexico, 84,000; Arizona, 156,000; California, 242,000; others 7,000; Lower California, 80,000.

Ginnings by states were:

Alabama, 1,200,092; Arizona, 103,147; Arkansas, 1,251,765; California, 178,910; Florida, 29,675; Georgia, 1,176,882; Louisiana, 781,335; Mississippi, 1,692,572; Missouri, 161,553; New Mexico, 64,916; North Carolina, 599,352; Oklahoma, 980,035; South Carolina, 702,568; Tennessee, 395,907; Texas, 3,515,877; Virginia 35,717; all other states, 5,668.

Wheat Again Lower

CHICAGO, Dec. 9. (AP)—Wheat prices averaged lower here today, influenced by reports that large offerings of Argentine wheat both old crop and new were being made abroad.

Starting unchanged to 1c off, Chicago wheat afterward rallied, but then underwent a general setback. Corn, oats and provisions—were also easier, with corn opening at 3-8c decline to 1-8c advance and subsequently sagging.

More than 125,000 acres of Persian walnuts are in bearing in California.

tant, then discovered Roger in her class of children at Berkeley, Cal., and took his as a protegee, along with George. Obtaining legal custody of both, she brought them to New York, where they lived in her apartment.

DIFFERENT TYPES

Roger and Yehudi are of entirely different types, the former slender and pretty as a girl, Yehudi fat and boyish.

Both admire their teacher, Yehudi's fondness evidenced by letters and inscriptions on photographs and a watch he gave his teacher.

The latter was born in Rochester, N. Y., and studied in Leipzig and in Brussels, under Ysaye. He was the first American concert master of the Berlin symphony orchestra and made his American debut in 1912 with the Philadelphia orchestra. Although regarded now as a teacher of babes, he still plays in about 30 concerts a season.

Persinger went to California in 1915 to live and there found his prodigies who also include a 9-year-old girl, Beverly Blake. She probably will be heard in New York next spring.

The majority of musical children, he thinks are spoiled by too much praise for too little accomplishment. He tries to give his pupils style and musical understanding—in short, to teach them general musicianship.

"They are not born with that," he says. He sees no harm for them if they are not exploited—"burned out" and aged beyond their years. Four performances are enough for one year, he thinks. Roger has already turned down four engagements and Yehudi did the same in his first year.

Hollywood Sights

By ROBBINS COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It was one of those scorching October days which Hollywood sometimes experiences, and Natalie Moorhead, swathed in a tweed-lined fur coat, was displaying its charms beneath the blazing lights required for color photography.

The posing was agonizing to all concerned, but it had to be done, heat or no heat.

It was no frantic director, far behind his production schedule, who insisted on the "torture," nor was the scene a part of any regular movie at all. Natalie's boss, in this case, was only Dame Fashion, rushing in midsummer heat to project her pictured whims for winter garb almost simultaneously on several hundred screens in America and Canada.

The result of that day's work, only a reel in length, has been seen, probably, in your town already—the talking, all-color fashion news feature which displays belles of the film colony wearing the final squawk, le dierrier cri, in feminine apparel.

SPEEDY

The film's makers, working with uncanny speed, release their approximate-ly 270 prints simultaneously, and claim that each such feature is in circulation never more than two weeks, after which time they are all called back to New York and scrapped, being considered as timely, from the style standpoint, as yesterday's newspaper.

The fashion news reel, an established silent feature, joined the talkie ranks soon after the screen became audible.

Like ghosts venturing from oblivion into the bright light of today, once famous or near famous screen players of yesterday now and again break into front page headlines to carry on the tradition that Hollywood is a den of iniquity and the favorite resort of Old Nick himself.

INTO HEADLINES

A forgotten western star as a recent example, gets smeared in creaming ink across the news mastheads as the aftermath of a drinking bout, or an erstwhile famous-star's widow get in trouble arising from poverty which it is alleged led her to extremes in financial matters.

Some obscure director, some painfully unimportant extra, leaps into headlines with a "wild party" or some other minor sensation of the sort—and Hollywood, by hook or crook, as it were, sustains its reputation for wickedness, born in earlier days when murders, triangular love affairs, and lurid mysteries found their way to print.

"Yet the film colony has not had a "first-class scandal" in years. Which for scandal-lovers, at any rate, is certainly a disgusting state of affairs.

Texas Boy Selected

AUSTIN, Dec. 9. (AP)—Robert Eikel, awarded the Rhodes scholarship for Texas, is a son of Mrs. Beatrice Eikel of Sherman and a senior in the law school of the University of Texas.

Eikel was president of the Students' association for two years. He was on the university debating team last year and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Cornhuskers Matched

LINCOLN, Nebr., Dec. 9. (AP)—The Texas Aggies will play Nebraska's Cornhuskers at the opening game here of the 1930 football season. Athletic Director Herbert Gish announced today the battle will be staged Oct. 4.

Law Sone, superintendent of Panhandle schools, and Mrs. Sone, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Sone here Sunday.

Tennessee Back Is Scoring Hero

By The Associated Press Saving his biggest scoring spurge for the last game of the season, Gene McEver, flashy Tennessee halfback, has won the national football individual scoring race.

McEver tallied five touchdowns and three points after touchdown against Southern Carolina Saturday to run his season's total to 130 points, just two more than Clark Hinkle, Bucknell fullback, the previous leader.

The leader in each of the eight major groups or conferences, as compiled by the Associated Press, follows:

South—McEver, Tennessee; East—Hinkle, Bucknell; Southwest—Wilson Baylor; Pacific—Schwartz, Wash. State; Rocky Mt.—Clark, Colo. College; Missouri Val.—King, Drake; Big Ten—Berghem, Northwestern; Farmer, Minnesota, and Big Six—Young, Nebraska.
