IT WILL BE OF LOCAL INTEREST TO NOTE THAT THE RACE SEGREGATION ORDINANCES AT DALLAS HAVE BEEN FINALLY DECLARED VOID.

Technically speaking, they were based upon a state legislative act of 1927, which has been declared unconstitutional. This automatically voids any city ordinances based upon it. The Texas supreme court Wednesday upheld the ruling of the appeals court on the Dallas appeal. The supreme court refused to rehear the case of the city of Dallas against the Liberty Annex corporation, owner of a negro sub-division. The restrictions Dallas sought to impose violated the "due process of law" clause in the federal constitution, relating to property.

And that is that. Any consideration of the race question henceforth must ignore any plan to segregate by city ordinance. It cannot be done.

ASIDE FROM THE VEXING LAREDO CONSULATE PROBLEM, THE MOST IMPORTANT GOVERNMENTAL INTEREST IN TEXAS NOW IS WHETHER GOVERNOR MOODY WILL LIMIT THE SPECIAL LEGISLATIVE SESSION TO A VERY FEW ISSUES, NOTABLY PENITENTIARY AND THE FEE SYSTEM.

Many questions are being hurled at the governor in hope that he will give a chance to settle them. But he fears that battles over minor issues would jeopardize the principal problems and solutions.

Numerous local bills would be passed should the governor permit. Then there are educational matters, such as making the office of county superintendents instead of elective. And there are such other bills pending as legal reform and public utility and chain store regulation.

There is little indication now, however, that the governor will permit side-shows to detract from the main circus.

AN INVESTMENT IN PERMANENCY IS THE BEST STABILIZER THERE IS. AND STABILITY IS THE BASIS OF CREDIT. OF VALUES. OF FAITH.

Back in 1909 the small town of Canyon astonished West Texas by putting up $100,100 and getting the West Texas State Teachers college. Canyon is not a big town, and probably will never be, but without the college it would be little more than a place to purchase gasoline. Here is Editor Clyde Warwick's version of it:

"What is a college worth to a community? Canyon set the example for all towns of the Southwest when $100,100 was given in 1909 for the location of the West Texas State Teachers college.

"Canyon knows that it made a good investment in making this offer and putting up this amount of money.

"As a concrete example of the worth of the college, we call attention to the fact that this county has always furnished more students to the institution than any other county in the state. It is true that many of the students who register from Randall county have moved here on account of the college, which makes the investment good.

"Go a little farther, and see what becomes of the young men and young women who graduate.

"Canyon furnishes many teachers to the public schools of other towns, all of them graduates of the college.

"Go a little farther, and you will find that today there are in the state university at Austin 28 ex-students of W. T., practically all of whom live in Canyon or have lived in Canyon during their W. T. days. They have finished their work here, and are now seeking higher degrees, or are taking professional courses.

"What percent of this number would be in the university today, had not W. T. been located here 20 years? Probably a very small percent. The average graduate is content with his A. B. or B. S. degree, unless he embarks in the teaching profession.

"If a number of these young men are able to return to Canyon to make their future home, after completing their work at the university, the old home town will benefit more highly from the original investment made several years ago."

TWINKLES
 With ice all over the walks, it is hard to tell whether disabled individuals merely lost their equilibrium or were involved in more serious incidents.

Disarmament begins at home—and the peach tree limbs disappeared from home and school several years ago.

Personality is that which it takes to pass a bunch of boys and a snow pile without damage to one's dignity and personal appearance.

The self-styled town booster who never sees the Harvesters and their sisters in tussles with invading squads just doesn't fit into our idea of the perfect citizen. Why not drop in at Central gymnasium some time and give the young folk the shock of seeing a few down town faces in the bleachers?

We are not very ancient but we remember much worse weather than has occurred of late. However, when it comes to competing with the boys and girls who came to the Plains back in the '80s, we simply desire to change the subject.

Brady Trial May Be Last Held in Travis Courthouse

AUSTIN, Jan. 13. (AP)—Trial of John W. Brady, former member of the Court of Civil Appeals, on an indictment charging murder of Miss Leahia Highsmith, slip of a girl stenographer for the Supreme Court, will just about ring down the curtain for the famous old courthouse. Travis county has used for 43 years. Brady's trial is set to open Jan. 20.

It was within this old building that Brady spent many of his proudest years and experienced some of the satisfaction all lawyers who participate in big cases taste when they win law suits. This time it will be the biggest battle he has ever waged—a fight for his life.

The old court room that will be obliterated when the ancient courthouse is razed to make room for a new structure holds many memories for Brady, and doubtless they will parade before him as he waits on a jury again. This time 12 men will weigh his own fate.

The former court official will go on trial in the room where as county attorney of Travis county he appeared for the State of Texas—now his accuser—against the Waters-Pierce Oil Corporation to prosecute it for violation of the anti-trust laws. He won his lawsuit and the State was paid more than $1,000,000 in penalties. Brady's achievement was heralded as a victory of which the young county attorney could be proud.

As an attorney in general practice, Brady pleaded at this bar for many defendants. His eloquent appeals to juries here—where he will now sit and listen to freedom for many of his clients. His reputation as an orator was statewide.

The old courthouse is famous for some of its trials. In recent times, the Rev. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth, fundamental preacher, was tried there for the murder of D. E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman. Incidentally, the chief counsel for Norris in that remarkable acquittal was Dayton Moses of Fort Worth, who will appear as one of Brady's attorneys.

The State meets its legal adversaries there when titles to land, many times involving millions, are determined. When the State sues or is sued venue is in Travis county. Hence, the courthouse which will about finish its service with the Brady trial, has been the meeting place of some of Texas' greatest barristers. Within its walls has been determined ownership of millions upon millions of dollars in property.

The building is situated on State land, leased to the county some 43 years ago for 90 years. Now the question for Travis county is to decide if it desires to place its new structure on this site with the State's lease of about 45 years yet to run, or go elsewhere to spend its money.

American Study Naval Plans During Voyage to London

S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—After three days of almost complete rest, the American delegation to the forthcoming London naval conference today began the final round of consultation preparatory to opening of the conference one week from tomorrow.

First meeting of the delegation since the Washington called last Thursday was understood to have been called for today for a general survey of the task ahead.

Although these meetings will continue during the remainder of the voyage, it is unlikely there will be any public announcement regarding them, since all major points of the American position have already been determined and were announced before the delegation left Washington. The present discussions are concerned rather with methods and procedure.

LONDON, Jan. 13. (AP)—A note from the British government to the French, published today, tacitly asked that France not come to the forthcoming London naval conference with a preconceived stand from which it might be difficult to recede.

The note reaffirmed the British expression of faith in the Kellogg anti-war pact as a basis for prospective naval limitation in contrast to the French view that the covenant of the League of Nations should be the basis instead of the Kellogg pact.

The British note expressed preference for handling of limitation by classes, types, and categories, rather than on the French thesis of global tonnage. The British gave little encouragement to the French suggestion of a pact of non-aggression and mutual security in the Mediterranean.

The note was the answer of Mr. MacDonald's government to the French communication of December 20 in which various French views with reference to the coming conference were set forth. Although London after publication of that note saw no insurmountable obstacles to a naval agreement in its expressions, certain Washington circles regarded it as distinctly clouding possibility of a five-power agreement.

Laredo Customs Brokers Told Not to Move Offices

LAREDO, Jan. 13. (AP)—Laredo today began another day of watchful waiting for the reopening of the Mexican consulate, alternately cheered and cast down by reports from various posts.

Added to earlier advice that President Hoover had taken personal note of the situation and that the state department was doing all that was possible was word from Mexico City where President Gil said the Mexican foreign office was discussing the matter, but had not reached a decision. Mexico City was silent on the negotiations known to be going on with a representative of the United States government.

It was said customs brokers in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, had been advised not to move their offices to other border towns, as have several American firms. This was taken to mean a settlement was near in the controversy caused by District Attorney John A. Valls' threats to arrest former President Calles of Mexico on charges of conspiracy to murder.

At Mexico City an agent of the National Railways of Mexico said no embargo had been placed in Mexico on Laredo, but that Mexican shippers had been advised to use other ports of entry into the United States as the latter were at present better fitted to handle shipments.

Rains Replacing Snow in Texas (By the Associated Press) While the sun greeted Texans in some portions of the state today, Texas was beset with high waters and flooded highways, and other sections of the state expected rain. The mercury rose rapidly over the state yesterday following several days of intense cold which claimed at least 11 lives. Ice which costed most cities had melted away. Rain accompanied rising temperatures in South Texas, which escaped severe weather. Modernize Your Home! Complete stock of wall paper. Painting and decorating of all kinds. Dr. Cook's Hearing for Parole to Be Held in Leavenworth LEAVENWORTH, Kans., Jan. 13. (AP)—A parole hearing beginning in the federal penitentiary here today may spell freedom for Dr. Frederick A. Cook, explorer serving a sentence for using the mails to defraud. Dr. Cook's parole application will be heard with 1,200 others. There is a general feeling here that the explorers' application will be approved, as there is no known opposition. The man who was honored as a hero when he announced in 1898 that he had reached the north pole, only later to be branded a faker, has been broken by his disgrace and penal confinement. It is on a plea of ill health that his parole application is based. Dr. Cook says he does not believe he can live through the remainder of his sentence of 14 years, 9 months. Dr. Cook was sentenced from Fort Worth, Texas, in 1923 for using the mails to defraud in an oil promotion scheme, but did not enter the prison until April 4, 1925. Thirteen other persons convicted with him have been paroled or have completed lighter sentences. Under department of justice rules no announcement can be made here of action taken by the parole board. Dr. Cook has been a boon to officials of the penitentiary. He has conducted a night school for prisoners, edited The New Era, prison publication, given lectures on scientific subjects, served as physician and interne in the prison hospital, and has been in general a builder of morale among the penitentiary population. Warden Thomas B. White said the explorer never had broken a prison rule. Walt Snideman of Amarillo is in charge of the shoe department at Jarrett's for a few days. Mr. Hemp-hill, regular manager, is at an Amarillo hospital taking treatment. SPECIAL NOTICE Due to bad weather we are extending date on 1-2 price Xmas offer certificates to April 1, 1930. PROHIBITION-

Asserting that as to enforcement there were no reliable figures to show the size of the problem, the commission said the reported arrests in the last fiscal year of upwards of 80,000 persons from every part of continental United States "indicates a staggering number of what might be called focal points of infection."

Attention was directed that there also were 18,700 miles of boundary and shore lines for the United States "at every point of which infection is possible."

The number of smuggling roads from Canada is reported as at least 1,000, it was added.

Forces Too Small

"To deal with an enforcement problem of this size and spread," the report continued, "the federal government can draw only on a portion of the personnel of three federal services, whose staffs aggregate about 23,000."

"Approximately one-tenth of this number is in the investigative section of the prohibition unit. Of the remaining 20,000, only a small portion of the personnel is available for actual preventive and investigative work. The remainder is engaged in work far different from prohibition."

"These figures speak for themselves. To adjust the machinery of federal administration, as it has grown up for other purposes, to this huge problem of enforcement of prohibition is not easy, and will require much further study. Unification, centralization of responsibility, and means of ensuring the cooperation between federal and state agencies, as things to which we must come, quite apart from the exigencies of enforcement of prohibition, but which can not be achieved overnight."

Replying to those who have assailed it for a failure to hold public hearings on the prohibition question, the commission reported to President Hoover that it conceived it "to be more useful to make a careful study of the whole question, securing information from the responsible officers of government and from printed reports, as well as from hearings before committees of congress, before embarking upon public hearings."

Four Recommendations

Summing up its four recommendations for legislative enactments, the commission said:

"We think they could not in any wise interfere with any ultimate program which we may have to recommend and would in the meantime advance observance of the law."

The commission dealt with each of its recommendations separately and with some of them at considerable length. In urging transfer of the prohibition unit from the treasury to the justice department, the report said it was an anomaly that the case are investigated and prepared by agencies entirely with and not answerable to those who are to prosecute them.

"If prosecution, the legal side of enforcement, is partitioned between two district agencies," the report said, "the diffused ill-defined, non-located responsibility is sure in the long run to be an obstacle to efficiency."

The commission reported that there must be a careful study of how to separate the work which belongs in the study. Unification, centralization of administration of regulations as to the legitimate use of alcohol or liquors.

gested would be a fine of not more than $500 and imprisonment in jail without hard labor not to exceed six months or both.

"We think also that it would be expedient for congress to define the term 'casual or slight violations,' the commission said. "Speedy convictions and certain impositions for penalties are important considerations and are more likely to be efficacious than threats of severe punishment rendered nugatory by congested dockets over-passing any possibilities of trial in the manner constitutionally appointed for crimes of such magnitude."

Suggestion also was made that petty cases be heard before a United States commissioner and a report made to the courts which would pass judgment of the case. There would be a safeguard that the accused if found guilty by a commissioner could demand trial by jury within three days.
