BETTER FARMING
LAND IS CLAIM

Locating Engineer Is on Stand Today for Company

AMARILLO, Jan. 23. (P)—A spirited contest over the routing of the proposed new Santa Fe lines in South-

Springfield, Colo. developed at today's hearing here before Interstate Commerce Commission Examiner T. T. Sullivan.

J. W. Stewart, Amarillo, chief locating engineer for the Santa Fe, was cross examined at length by attorneys representing the cities of Lamar, and Springfield, Colo. Stewart had been on the stand two hours yesterday.

One reason of the Santa Fe's proposed 320-mile new construction program is to 400-mile line from Amarillo to Las Animas, Colorado, passing through Pritchett, in Baca county, Colorado.

Intervenor from Springfield and Lamar sought to prove that the route would serve a more favorable farming territory if it should go through Springfield and intercept the main line at Lamar, rather than at Las Animas.

They indicated that Springfield citizens originally had been led to believe the route would come through their city, but Stewart denied any such promises had been made. He was questioned at length by Grandy Billyer, attorney of Lamar, and by A. C. Gordon, also representing the Lamar and Spring field contestants.

In reply to direct questions Stewart
said the Pritchett-Las Animas route was chosen because of the farming territory to be served, the low grade line and the directness of the line.

Attorneys for the cities sought to show the route would be no longer through their cities and argued that a smoother and more fertile territory
would be served.

Stewart was asked if the Santa Fe Land and Development company owned the Pritchett townsite. He said he understood that such a company did own considerable property in the city.

Springfield is about 14 miles east of Pritchett, and Lamar is also east of Las Animas on the transcontinental line that would be intercepted by the Amarillo-Las Animas road.

Approximately 200 citizens from cities and towns along the three proposed roads were present at today's hearing,
most of them ready to offer testimony
in support of the construction.

Charged by Daughter

CORSIGANA, Jan. 23. (P)—F. A.
Kelly, farmer, has been arrested in Seguin, and will be returned to Navarro county to face charges preferred against him by a fifteen-year-old daughter. Sheriff Rufus Feyehouse planned to leave for Seguin today to return Kelly here. Kelly has been indicted by the grand jury.

—AND A SMILE
NEW YORK. (P)—There were kisses, exclamations of "darling" and
"sweetheart," billing and cooing, presents, pictures, and press agents when Harry Richman met Clara Bow at the train on her arrival from Hollywood.
But there seems to be doubt that he will meet her at the church just yet anyhow. "I am not going to marry him, at least not on this trip," one paper quotes Clara. Another has Harry saying: "We're going to get married all right. But it won't be a circus.
It will be in secret."

Hale County
Agents Making
Good Records

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 23. (P)—The money value of projects accomplished during 1929 under her direction was stressed by Mrs. Julia Kelly, Hale county home demonstration agent, in her annual report. She estimated the value of products canned by the women's and girls' clubs at $27,400.80. The value of the clothing members of these clubs made during 1929 at her direction she placed at $17,363.

At the same time, County Agent R. M. Milhollin made his annual report and showed that he has continued to pay particular attention to the development of the dairying industry in Hale county.
During the year, two more bull circles were formed, one for Holsteins and one for Guernseys. The testing of dairy cows for tuberculosis was pushed by the agent, and now Hale county ranks first in the Panhandle-Plains area in this work, with 3,779 animals tested during the last year.

Mr. Milhollin found time to devoted to the club boys of the county.
He sponsored their grain growing projects, some of the boys raising as high as 1,200 pounds of milo maize per acre. Among the other important projects of the year for the agent, he reports terracing 1,050
acres of Hale county farm land.

Mrs. Kelly, in her report, showed that 457 women and girls are members of clubs she has organized. Hale county last year was first among Texas counties in number of entrants in the annual living room contest. This year 38 women have entered.

MILK WEEK TO BE OBSERVED IN CITY APRIL 6-12

Plans for observing "Milk Week" set for April 6-12 by the state health department which will sponsor it, are being made here by dairymen, health officers and civic bodies, according to Dr. T. J. Worrell, assistant city health officer. The State Health department is being assisted by Texas A. & M.
college in sponsoring the week.

The purpose of the program which will be followed in almost every county in Texas at that time is to promote health conservation, the consumption of milk, expansion of the dairy industry.
Milk and dairy experts sent out by the College purpose to show a way of profitable milk production. Herds will be inspected and a concentrated attempt will be made to eradicate disease among dairy cattle, and to eliminate health hazards.

The state health department is asking the cooperation of city officials, schools, Parent-Teachers associations,
and city and county health officers.

Further instructions from the department will detail the method of procedure, Dr. Worrell said.

Protest on Oil
Slash Will Be Drawn Tonight

AMARILLO, Jan. 23. (P)—Oil men of the Panhandle will meet here tonight to draw up a protest against the recent cut in crude oil prices. The meeting is one of a series scheduled in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas producing areas affected by the price cut.

Purpose of these meetings, said Earl Callaway, vice-president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, has been to determine whether there was justification for the cut, and, if so,
what steps should be taken to adjust the matter.

At meetings in Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Ogden, Fort Worth, Dallas and Wichita Falls, he said, the unanimous opinion has been that the cut was unjustified.

Norway Asked to Aid

Whalers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (P)—Acting Secretary Cotton announced today he had requested the Norwegian government to have the four or five whalers known to be just north of the south pole ice pack to go to the assistance of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, reported to be cut off from its supply ships because of density of the ice pack.
The request to the Norwegian government was sent both through the American minister to Norway and through the Norwegian minister here. Mr. Cotton explained the situation of the Byrd expedition was such that any action would have to be vigorous and prompt.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (P)—With ice
blocking passage of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's flagship to his base at Little America, an appeal has been made through the state department for the aid of Norwegian whalers to help save the Byrd expedition from spending another year on the Antarctic ice barrier.

The New York Times, which, with other newspapers, is sponsoring the expedition, said today an announcement that the flagship City of New York had reached Little America was contradicted by Captain H. H. Railey, manager of the expedition and Admiral Byrd's personal representative in New York. The announcement originated with an amateur radio operator.

"On the contrary," Captain Railey said, "the City of New York has reached only the edge of the ice pack in the Ross sea, and owing to the unprecedented condition of the pack, the New York and the Eleanor Bolling may not succeed in negotiating the southward passage to Admiral Byrd's base—at least not without the aid of larger vessels."

Penalty to Be Added to License
Cost February 1

A 25 per cent increase in the license cost of all cars that have been operated since Jan. 1, will be charged after Feb.
1, according to Tax Collector E. S.
Graves.

Not half of the motor vehicles in Gray county have been registered, and owners have only eight more days in which to avoid the added cost. The penalty for not buying licenses in January is one-third larger than the amount the license will cost now.

It is not necessary to buy licenses for cars that have not been driven this year, it was said.

LEFORS, Jan. 23. (Special)—Excavating for the new annex to the school building here is almost completed, and actual construction will begin just as soon as the weather permits.
The building, which will be constructed of brown brick, will be a one-story unit 120 by 200 feet. It will house grade and high school classes.
In addition it will contain an auditorium with a seating capacity of 538,
a gymnasium large enough for basketball and seating capacity of 400, and rooms especially adapted and equipped for home economics, manual training, mechanical drawing, commercial subjects, science, and a library. The

A total of $599 had been received when a check was made on the Pampa Daily News relief fund this afternoon.
Of this amount, $464 was acknowledged yesterday, and $135 had been re-

Several organizations and persons other than those listed have indicatdrive shall continue as long as anyone wishes to give, in order to finance welfare work during the rest of the year.

J. W. Garman, manager of the local gas company, authorized the statement that he would give free gas to needy families, and will make connections at no charge for those unable to put up the required deposits. This will be done on recommendation of the Sal-

during the unemployment period.

IMPORTANT OIL SESSION TO BE HELD HERE NEXT TUESDAY, WHEN PRORATION AND PRICE COME UP

Another meeting of Gray county oil operators will be held here next Tuesday to discuss continuance of the restricted production program now in effect, and to hear Umpire Ed Daly's report of the progress made since January 1.

The largest attendance of any of the monthly meetings held during the last six months is expected because oil men are planning not only to consider curtailment of production but, the recent cuts in the price of crude oil by Humble Oil and Refining company.

At the last meeting held here Dec. 28, operators almost unanimously agreed to prorate their production, believing that action would stave off a cut in oil prices. The crude cut was not expected by most of them but it was feared.
The redoubled efforts at curtailment kept alive the hope that the cut might be averted. It is feared by many operators that the effect of the cut would be to discourage the whole conservation movement. The basis for the price cut is the over-production of gasoline among the manufacturers and it is clear that this over-production was not brought about by any condition in the crude oil industry.

It is believed here that the proration program will be continued indefinitely, and that the production will be lowered next month. The daily production has not declined below 50,000 barrels and the month is almost gone.
The proration production called for a daily maximum of 35,000 barrels. Three good wells have been brought in since the first of the year.

Resignation Not Accepted by Church

The Rev. D. H. Truhitte's resignation
as pastor of the First Baptist church, tendered at the morning service last Sunday was rejected by the congregation last night at a general conference of the membership.

Concerning the effects of the congregation's action upon his future plans, the Rev. Truhitte declined to make a statement, nor was one to be had from the church officials. The conference was held at the usual weekly prayer meeting period, and was attended by the largest crowd, it was said that had been present at a Wednesday evening meeting in the church
for several months.

WACO, Jan. 23. (P)—Two charges of murder were lodged today against Lee Whatley, barber, in connection with the fatal shooting of Sam Kuss, 38, and Alex Bush, 76, in a restaurant here last night.

Bush, a waiter in the restaurant, died last night a few hours after the shooting. Kuss died today. He was proprietor of the establishment.

A justice of the peace returned a verdict that the men died of wounds inflicted by a gun in Whatley's hands.

A Mexican employe was also wounded, but was expected to recover.

Whatley was held in jail, with no date set for an examining trial. He was said to have told District Attorney Dick Holt last night that he walked into the eating house last night, as was his custom, to eat supper. He said he saw Kuss reach under a counter
so he pulled his gun and emptied it.

Whatley surrendered to a patrolman just outside the place, giving up the empty gun.

Mrs. Whatley filed suit for divorce
Jan. 3.

Kuss and Whatley formerly were next door neighbors.

Catholic Order
Studies Plan for Hospital in City

Purchase of Pampa hospital is being considered by the Catholic church,
according to two sisters of the Order of St. Augustine, Cleveland, Ohio, who were here this week at two different times conferring with the hospital board of directors.

The sisters who represent the church
are Mother Bridget and Sister Mathilda
of Cleveland.

Negotiations thus far have been indefinite. If the Pampa hospital is not bought, the Catholic church is considering the establishment of one here,
it is understood.

Dr. Walter Purviance, president of the board of directors of the hospital, said this afternoon that nothing definite has been accomplished in the negotiations.

Firemen Called Out
to Hunt Fire—No
Cancellation Given

The fire department made another wild goose chase hunting a fire in the coldest part of this morning, and Chief Alex Schneider plenty "sore."

First the fire truck, with the firemen buttoning up their shirts, went screaming down North Somerville—
they thought the operator said North Somerville. They saw not a wisp of smoke and they circled over to Frost
and went roaring down South Somerville.

Still they could find no fire. Finally they saw some people standing around a garage. One woman admitted that a pile of trash which had caught on fire had been smothered with a broom before she could stop another member of the family from turning in the alarm. Chief Schneider says the fire department could at least be notified that there is no fire when the firemen drive up to the place where the alarm has been given.

Bob Sowder is confined to his home
by illness.

SINCE WRITING UPON THE SUBJECT OF COUNTY AGENT WORK A FEW DAYS AGO, THE NEWS HAS BEEN INFORMED THAT THERE IS ALREADY A MOVE ON FOOT TO DISCREDIT THE WORK OF THE A. & M. EXTENSION MAN AND WOMAN AND TO ELIMINATE THE PROGRAM AFTER THIS YEAR.

The report may be exaggerated. There is always opposition to any major move. The right to differ is not challenged. But the right of the workers to a fair trial is even greater. The News would not, of course, favor inefficient work. It is not always possible to get the right personnel in the first attempt. If every business man discontinued a department because the first clerk employed was incapable, his business would be small indeed.

Gray county is contributing tax money toward the extension work whether she uses it or not. The cost to Gray county for the two agents will not be great. The News could point out a number of instances where it appeared the commissioners expended funds no more wisely than for the extension work. If it should come to a point where economy demands cutting of expenditures, some pertinent remarks could and should be said regarding other uses of county funds.

A fair trial will be given the coming workers, and a hearty welcome should be extended in the various communities. The workers are symbols of the dignity and value of rural life, and they represent about the only direct aid that is extended by the state government.

REAL WINTER HAS BROUGHT SUFFERING TO THE PANHANDLE BECAUSE IT HAS MEANT CURTAILMENT OF THE CONSTRUCTION WORK WHICH BROUGHT THOUSANDS OF PERSONS TO THIS SECTION.

In good weather the inevitable periods of labor surpluses do not cause much acute suffering. Lately, however, not only Pampa but several other Panhandle cities have been confronted with welfare problems. Shamrock found it necessary to send out stories contradicting the idea that the Rock Island was about to start work on the disputed line. Shamrock claims to have two hundred persons in dire need.

Childress is another point where special efforts to care for the needy are being made. Roswell is another. Publicity which tends to encourage jobless men and families to come to the Panhandle now is ill advised. A mere hint that work is plentiful will bring plenty of men when they are needed.

TWINKLES

We are going to quit talking about the weather. Every time we gather proof that old-time winters were worse than this one, a new spell of zero weather sets in. And we'll admit that we are getting tired of this zero weather. Our golf is suffering, and that's us, too.

A local man has sneezed twice lately, and lost a collar button every sneeze. That's another argument for better weather. And better collar buttons.

Our humility is heightened by the fact that our car fails to start in zero weather. It doesn't mind sub-zero, however.

And perhaps that smart Dick Byrd was even more clever than we suspected. At least we have not heard much complaint about cold weather down in the Antarctic region.

Oil has been cut as much as 41 cents a barrel, but we have not noticed any reflection in our gasoline bill. Nor do we expect to see any—nor any great decline in the country's production.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Nothing of late has amused Washington as much as the little personal feud in the house of representatives between Ham Fish of New York and Johnny Schafer of Wisconsin.

It started just before the holiday recess. There is no one who will venture to say how long it will last. But of the length of the feud depends on the personal characteristics of the principals. When a truce in the Fish-Schafer feud is far distant. For the people have less in common than Ham and Johnny. Fish is a product of the east. He is a Harvard man, captain of his alma mater's football team one year. In the world war he was a captain, then a major and won the croix de guerre. In business he is vice president of an insurance firm with offices on Broadway.

Schafer is typical of the midwest. He got no further than high school. At the time of his election to congress he was a locomotive engineer on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. He, too, has a war record, but as an enlisted man.

Row Over Speaking
Fish is tall, well groomed and poised. Schafer is short, inclined to be stout, and of the belligerent type. Fish is 42 years old, Schafer is 37. The trouble started two days before the holiday recess, when both wanted unanimous consent to address the house five minutes. Fish was recognized first and Schafer let him have the floor. A few minutes later, when Schafer was recognized, Fish roared his objection and Johnny had to sit down.

But before he took his seat he muttered a few words to Fish as to what he thought of a man who would do a trick like that. Ham smiled at him sweetly. Johnny, with red face and ready to fight, glared back. It was easy to see that Schafer was itching for revenge.

For A Stop Watch
His opportunity came the next day. And luck with him, for Fish was in the chamber. Remembering that Fish had been peeved by certain press reports concerning a visit to the White House, Schafer attacked from that angle.

"Of course no one has the virtue of infallibility but the gentleman from New York," he began. "So impressed is he with his importance that he lost many night's sleep worrying because a certain newspaper said he spent two minutes with the president and not 15 minutes. . . . I suggest next time he notify the reporter, to accompany him and that each be required to have a stop watch. . . . That when he returns he print on the first page of the Congressional Record. . . . in big and bold letters the fact that he had called and spent so much time. . . . First sarcastic, then bitter, always rude, Schafer poured it into Fish. He overlooked nothing, and was still going strong when time was called. As he sat down there was a roar of laughter and applause.

Tourists Saved As Ship Hits Rocks

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 23. (P)—More than 400 tourists from Buenos Aires were safe today aboard the Argentine war transport Vicente Fiel del Lopez off the bleak shores of Tierra del Fuego (Land of Fire) after the grounding of their ship, the Monte Cervantes, on a rock in the straits of Magellan.

The Monte Cervantes, which has a German tramp designation and is owned by the Hamburg-South America line, went ashore on the island side of the channel through which Magellan sailed on the first circumnavigation of the globe.

While at first some fear was held for those aboard, the Argentine war transport was standing by to help. Still later it was learned the passengers and crew had taken to the ship's boats and had been transferred to the transport safely. There were no casualties.

Only the officers remained aboard. It was impossible to predict the fate of the steamer; nearby radio stations tried unsuccessfully to communicate with her as other vessels hurried toward the spot.

Available records listed the ship as of in excess of 7,000 tons displacement. It recently arrived at Buenos Aires from Hamburg.

Mrs. J. W. Bunting of Amarillo has returned to her home in Amarillo, after a visit of several days with her sister, Mrs. W. P. Vincent. Her son, Jim Bunting of Shattuck, Okla., also spent a few days in the home of his aunt, returning home the first of the week.

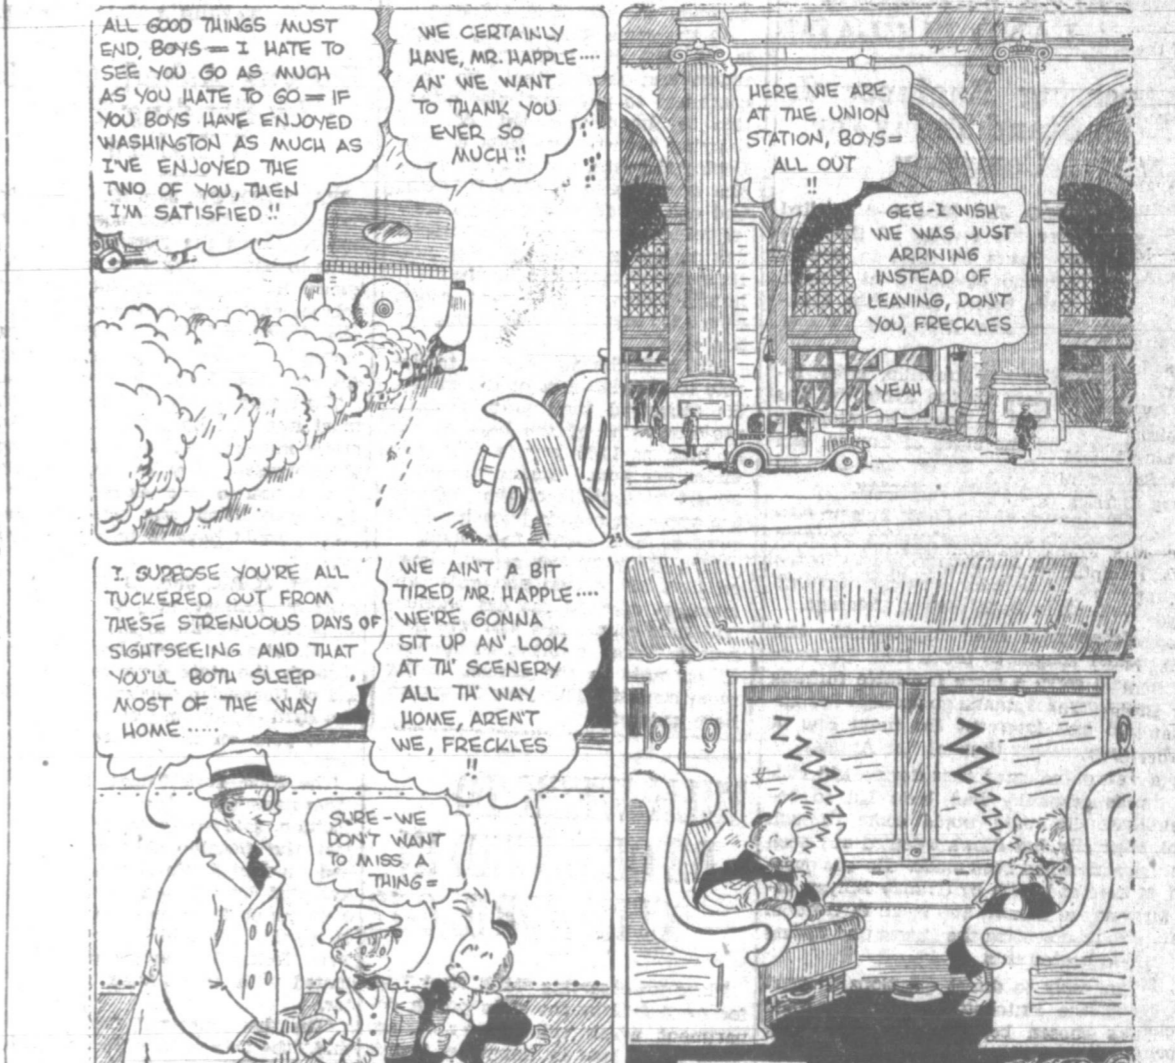

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Peck have returned home, after visiting in Corsicana and Dallas. Mr. Peck's mother was ill at Corsicana.

Methodist W. M. S. Executive Board Plans Activities for Year

The executive board of the Methodist Women's Missionary society, which is composed of the officers of the society at large and of each of the four circles, made plans at a business session at the church yesterday afternoon for a year's activity.

Stress was placed on the work to be done in the Junior department of the church, in which the W. M. S. is to sponsor the Junior Epworth Leagues and Junior Missionary societies. Feb. 9 will mark the beginning of the new work, with meetings to be held thereafter at 6:30 o'clock each Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar will superintend the work, with the following staff of teachers: Mrs. E. Wood, Mrs. Tom W. Brabham, Mrs. Joe Shelton, Mrs. J. G. Stroup, Mrs. J. D. Sackett, and Mrs. W. R. Campbell. Their objective is to have the entire young membership of the church enrolled at the beginning of the year's study.

The missionary society will continue to serve the weekly Rotary club luncheon, according to the executive board's decision, using all profits, as formerly, toward payment of the debt on the pipe organ and other church furnishings. Another financial project of the near future is to be an unique progressive tea, it was decided.

A fund of $100, set aside by the executive board, will be used in community welfare work, with the welfare committee of the W. M. S. in charge. Altogether, an extensive program was outlined for the coming year.

Officers present at the session were as follows: Mrs. W. Purviance, president, who was in the chair; Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, Mrs. Tom W. Brabham, Mrs. W. R. Campbell, Mrs. C. E. Ward, Mrs. J. G. Barnhart, Mrs. M. A. Graham, Mrs. Joe Hodge, and Mrs. Harrell.

Large Attendance Is Indicated for Banquet and Revue Friday Night

More than 150 reservations for the banquet to be given tomorrow evening by the local branch of American Association of University Women and the College club had been made at noon today for club members and guests.

The banquet will be given at Central high school auditorium, at 7:30 o'clock. It will be followed by a colorful revue, "Progress of the Texas Panhandle," in which 75 persons will take part. The show was written for the occasion, and the stage settings, as well as the costumes, were designed for the spectacle. It is expected that the revue will surpass any amateur performance of the year. Harold White is in charge of the staging.

Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, president of the hostess club, asks that every club member and her guest be present before 7:30 o'clock, in order that there be no delay in seating the large gathering, nor in the presentation of the show.

Talks To Parents

A DOLLAR AN HOUR
By ALICE JUDSON PEALE
Carl and Gilbert are both children of well to do parents, but their respective attitudes toward earning money offer striking illustrations of wise and unwise training.

Both boys were asked at different times to sit as models for an artist, a mutual friend of their mothers.

Carl responded eagerly to the prospect of earning $1 an hour. A dollar an hour! Three dollars earned in a morning by simply sitting quite still so a lady could make a picture of you!

He came promptly and held his pose conscientiously.

When Gilbert came to pose it was with a nonchalance and lack of attention which showed that $3 earned seemed of little consequence to him and that he had little idea that he must give service in return.

Carl is kept upon a strict allowance and the money he earned meant to him just so many more tennis balls and so many more hours of tennis.

Gilbert has no allowance. He gets whatever spending money he asks for. To him the money he earned was nothing—he was, as it were, merely posing to oblige his mother's friend.

Obviously the attitude of the first lad will be far more serviceable than that of the second in helping to achieve an acceptable adjustment in a world where, for all but the fabulously wealthy, it is important to have a proper respect for dollars and cents, and proper feeling that one must give value in return for them.

OLYMPIC HERO SELLS CANNED GOODS IN N. Y.

BY TED VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—A cheerful little man with lean features and bright gray eyes hunched over a desk in his office on 42nd street and scrawled down an order for canned fruit.

About him there was nothing to indicate that he was the hero of the most dramatic event in all Olympic history, but hanging above the desk was a faded photograph of a great stadium in London where, 22 years ago this summer, a pint-sized New York department store clerk by the name of Johnny Hayes won the classic marathon as the Italian, Dorando, fainted, fell and was helped across the line.

The years have dealt kindly with Johnny Hayes. Out of the obscurity of a department store counter he came to gain immortality on that hot day in 1908 and to comparative obscurity he has returned with no regrets. Pounding the pavements of London on the way to fame has not spoiled Johnny for the routine business of pounding the pavements of New York in quest of orders for canned goods.

"I like it," he announced. "I went into business instead of taking up coaching because I wanted to prove it isn't so that a good athlete does not make a good business man, as some people think."

"I don't have time to do very much running any more, but I have kept in good condition. In 22 years I have put on just 22 pounds. I still can step and occasionally I run to and from the ferry boat on which I commute to my home in Woodcliff, N. J."

The other day a doctor was looking me over—not that I needed it, but I guess because he wanted to see what made me go.

"He told me I had a six-footer's heart, and it only has to work half the time because in a little fellow like me it does not have so far to pump the blood."

"That, he told me, is the reason I was able to run so far and so fast. When I won the London Olympic race of 22, I weighed 118 pounds and my height, of course, was the same as now, 5 feet, 3 1/2 inches."

"I am a great believer in heredity, too. I think I owe much of my athletic ability to my father, who came over to this country from Ireland when he was a young fellow. As a boy in the old country, he and his mates made a sport of coursing hares with greyhounds, following them on foot."

Many Students on Honor Roll From Big Territory

CANYON, Jan. 23. (Special)—Sixty-one students representing widely scattered sections of Texas and New Mexico were able to do work excellent enough to place them on the Honor Roll of the West Texas State Teachers College for the fall term.

IMPROVING HARVESTERS TAKE GAME FROM MIAMI, 27-5, WITH NEW COMBINATION IN LINE-UP

Several days' intensive drill proved valuable to the Pampa Harvesters, who journeyed to Miami last night to defeat the Warriors 27 to 5.

Lard and English displayed unusual ability at guard positions, so confounding the Miami forwards that the latter threw only one field goal in the first half and a field goal and free throw in the last half. The score at the half was Pampa 18, Miami 2.

Saulsbury was moved from guard to forward, and he threw two field goals. James and Henry Ayres tied for high point honors with 7 markers each. Jim Ayres, center on a substitute five, was a close contender with six points. He threw twice from the field and twice from the foul line. Lard threw a free goal and English got one from the floor.

The starting line-up: Saulsbury and English, forwards; H. Ayres, center; Lard and English guards. Braly substituted for James and Leyler for English. In the third quarter an entirely new line-up was inserted, composed of Poe and Chastain, forwards; J. Ayres, center; Milton and Schmidt, guards.

The Miami team had an "off" night, most of their shots going wild. So close were the forwards guarded that they had few close-up opportunities. K. O. Kitchens, pugilist-athlete, played part of the game for Miami, but was ineffective.

The Harvesters will drive to Shamrock tomorrow to meet the Irishmen in the latter's miniature gymnasium.

Harvesters Are Rotary Guests
Pampa High School football boys were guests of the Rotary club at its luncheon at the Methodist church yesterday. Each of the boys introduced himself telling the position he played and the one he hoped to play next year. Short talks about the past season were made by Don Saulsbury, Albert Lard, Coach Odus Mitchell, M. A. Fox, L. L. Sone, and R. B. Fisher.

Rotarians who made talks were Al Duerr and Tom Rose. Lynn Boyd was master of ceremonies. W. A. Kelly sang several solos, accompanied by Miss Nellie Hardin.

FREAK PLAY RECALLED BY NOTED COACH

BY "PHOG" ALLEN
Some Freakish Plays I Have Seen.
Tom Churchill, the great University of Oklahoma all-around athlete, pulled off one of the most freakish plays that I have ever seen.

Last season, in a Big Six championship basketball game between Oklahoma and Kansas, Oklahoma won the game by a two point margin. This freakish goal was the margin of victory.

A Kansas player passed the ball high in the air, across the court to a Kansas mate. While Churchill and this Kansas player strove to gain possession of the aerial pass—Churchill was quick witted enough to see that catching the ball under these circumstances was impossible. Both players were rushing out from under Oklahoma's basket.

With one quick punch Churchill smashed the ball underneath with his clenched fist. The ball took a reverse english and bounded high and far over Churchill's head, and with a 45-foot arch landed squarely in the Oklahoma basket.

An old rule was overlooked by the officials and the great was allowed. Striking the ball with the fist or kicking the ball is a violation. The ball should have gone to the other end of the court. At the nearest sideline at right angles to where the violation occurred. These old rules of the game, seldom called upon, are many times overlooked by both players and officials.

Often, players in their excitement get their goals or baskets confused and pull a Mericle or a Riegels, in basketball.

In one of the early season games of the Minnesota "Gophers" with the Cornell Iowa College at Minneapolis, Scober, who supplanted Lund of Cornell at forward, got control of the ball on the first tip-off. Instead of going for the Iowa basket, the Hawkeye youth lost his bearings and dribbled under the Minnesota rim and sank a basket for the Gopher.

Tolley Hopes to Return Here for Golf Campaign

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—Unless his business interferes, Cyril Tolley, British amateur golf champion, expects to compete in the United States amateur and open championships this year. Tolley's business keeps him in the United States a large part of the year and will give him the opportunity to compete unless it is pressing too hard at the time the tournaments take place.

"I am looking forward especially to the open," he said yesterday, "for as yet I have never competed in one of your national open championships."

He expects to return to England April 30 to take part in the Walker cup matches, if he is chosen for the British team, and in the British championships, but will return later in the summer.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
No amount of lobbying, it seems, can bring about a reconciliation, this year at least, between those erstwhile arch-rivals of the college gridiron—Army and Navy, Harvard and Princeton.

Although there has been lively agitation for it, especially from sources having no connection whatever with either academy, the chance of Annapolis and West-Point resuming relations is still somewhat remote. The arrangement of 1930 schedules precludes any immediate chance of healing this breach, for the Navy will point for Pennsylvania as a climax opponent while Army will engage Notre Dame in its main finale.

The Cadets, for the time being, will undertake no further post-season assignments, with Stanford or any other outfit. They have had enough for some time to come and will be entirely satisfied this Fall to tackle Harvard, Yale, Illinois and Notre Dame in the headline engagements. The Navy takes on Notre Dame, Princeton, Ohio State, Southern Methodist and Pennsylvania in this year's Notre Dame contests.

Harvard already has completed its 1931 schedule, with Dartmouth occupying the early November date formerly held by Princeton, two weeks before the climax with Yale. It is the logical spot for this New England classic and there does not seem much chance for the time being of any attempt to patch up the famous break in the old Big Three.

But for these facts, some significance might be attached to the tribute paid to Harvard's 1929 team by Bill Roper, Princeton coach, who will retire after this year. Roper, in an article for the Athletic Journal of the Western Conference (Big Nine) goes out of his way to remark:

"Harvard made splendid use of the lateral pass and the team in addition was the fortunate possessor of a splendid forward passer, Barry Wood, a very heady quarterback. This combination of lateral and forward pass gave Harvard a powerful attack. Wood was by far the best quarterback in the East in addition to being a fine passer and drop-kicker. His fake drop-kick against Yale was one of the best plays I have seen—Ben Ticknor the Harvard captain elect was the outstanding center in this section. He was a fine leader, too, and in both the Dartmouth and Yale games showed magnificent pluck in continuing to play with a painful injury—Ticknor and Marsters were the outstanding players in the East."

Booth was handicapped by getting the most ridiculous amount of publicity I have ever known a football play to receive with the exception of Red Grange. It was hardly fair to him though he was a great player."

Maryland's contribution in the way of baseball talent for the major league show is pretty well known since Jimmy Foxx and Bob Grove helped Connie Mack's Athletics capture the world's championship. Pointing to them as products of Maryland's physical education program in the public schools, Dr. William Burdick in a recent article for "Sportsmanship" revealed Foxx's fine record as an all-around track athlete. The first baseman, it seems, might have made a success as a decathlon performer, for several of his records still stand. His state mark of 23 seconds for the 220 yard dash, made in 1923, has not been beaten, in addition to which he still holds the Queen Anne county records of 10 3-5 seconds for the 100 yard dash and 24 2-5 for the 220. He established a junior high jump record of 5 6 inches in 1920.

Art Shires may be advised to maintain a discreet silence in connection with challenges he has received from several of the playboys of professional hockey. They might not be able to recognize the Great One around first base in the spring if he gets into the ring with Eddie Shore of the Boston Bruins, Lionel Conacher of the New York Americans (one time amateur champion boxer of Canada) or 220-pound Moose Goheen of St. Paul's school.

Pampa Library Association to Meet Saturday in Effort to Solve Problem of Financing and Continuing Activity

Pampa Library association will consider ways and means of solving its present financial problem, which admittedly is serious, and will elect officers for the year at a special meeting next Saturday afternoon, when it is expected that each of the organizations supporting the library will have three representatives present.

Within a few weeks the Pampa Library will pass its first anniversary. Whether it passes that important milestone with its doors open depends, officers of the association believe, upon whether or not means can be devised for raising a substantial fund immediately. For this reason they urge the necessity of a full representation at the Saturday meeting, which will open at 3 o'clock in the women's parlor on the second floor of the Methodist church.

A committee of three, appointed at a called meeting of the executive committee last Monday night, will make suggestions on means for raising funds for paying the librarian's salary and meeting other expenses of the institution, while another committee of four, appointed at the same meeting, will nominate officers for the new term. The temporary ways and means committee is headed by Mrs. B. E. Finley and includes Mrs. H. H. Hicks and I. B. Hughey. The nominating committee comprises: Mrs. John V. Andrews, chairman; Mrs. Tom E. Rose, Mrs. Tom Clayton, and Mrs. Floyd A. Smith.

Organizations which jointly sponsored the establishment and maintenance of the library or which are considered sponsors by virtue of joining other clubs of the city in similar undertakings, and which are expected to have three representatives each at the meeting are as follows: El Progresso, Twentieth Century, Junior Twentieth Century, Child Study, Coterie, and Wayside women's clubs; the Rotary and Lions clubs; the Pampa Branch of American Association of University Women and College club; the Business and Professional Women's club; the American Legion; the Board of City Development; and the women's societies of the Methodist, the Baptist, the First Christian, the Catholic, the Church of Christ, the Presbyterian, and the Episcopal churches; and the six Parent-Teacher associations.

The library has in its reading room in the educational wing of the First Methodist church more than 5,000 standard volumes, representing a wide variety of material. The best of reference sets and late encyclopedias, historical works, travel stories, philosophy, psychology, classics of English and American literature, religious tracts, children's books, and popular late fiction may be found there. Many excellent magazines and papers are found there, too. The books are carefully catalogued, and the files are said to be in good condition. The librarian reported recently that less than a dozen books had been entirely lost during the year the library has been in public use. It is believed the library would pass tests for a county or city institution.

Seven hundred persons—men, women, boys and girls—are regular patrons of the library. Most of them read one or more books every week, and some of them, as many as one a day. The institution has always been particularly popular with children and high school boys and girls. A recent substantial addition to the children's collection, through a club "book shower" served to increase the popularity. The library is much used by persons in all conditions of wealth and poverty, but it is perhaps by those little boys and girls who otherwise would have good reading only once in a great while that its privileges are most appreciated. Men convalescing in the local hospitals find the reading room an excellent place to while away their hours profitably and pleasantly. It is said, however, that the greater number of men patronizing the institution are from the oil fields.

Officers of the library association, as well as these more than 700 regular patrons of the reading room, believe that the closing of the library would mean a severe loss to Pampa, speaking in terms of the social and the educational. They are very loath to see the library closed after so short and successful a service to the community. Hence the meeting at 3 o'clock Saturday, and hence the urgency of full attendance.

ORCHESTRA LEADER'S SONS PLAN TEXAS CATTLE RANCH

FORT WORTH, (P)—The American youth of the Chet Verbrugghen, whose name is known wherever symphony orchestras play, is to be completed on some Texas cattle ranch.

Unlike their father, who came from Australia to achieve fame as conductor of the Minneapolis symphony orchestra Philippe and Marcel Verbrugghen will learn American ways far from the concert hall. A well-stocked ranch of beef cattle is their ambition.

At Henri Verbrugghen's insistence his sons left their Australian ranch interests to join other members of their family already in this country. They will be the last Americans of a Belgian family whose adventures have carried them from Scotland to Australia and part way back again.

For the next year the brothers will study the many differences between American and Australian farming methods, particularly as regards the cattle business. They will tour Texas ranches and talk with veteran breeders, until they feel at ease in substituting "ranchman" for "bushman" in conversation. Then they will buy a ranch.

Nor do they wish to become familiar with the American cattle industry alone. Thorough Americanization is their aim. They want to be able to speak of drug stores without calling them "chemists' shops," to say "elevator" instead of "lift" and "street car" for "tram."

Even the ranches of Texas, considered huge in this country, appear comparatively small to them. In Australia they held an interest in a ranch covering 7,000 square miles—with no fences.

Million Head of Cattle Are Fed on North Plains

AMARILLO, Jan. 23. (P)—Cattlemen in the Texas Panhandle are feeding a million head this winter, most of the animals being on both pasture and feed, Grover C. Butler, secretary of the Panhandle livestock association, estimates.

"We have about a million cattle feeding in the Panhandle this winter," he said. "It is not as many as we usually have. There are not many cattle being fed on full feed. Most of them are on both feed and pasture."

"The pastures this winter have been in good shape. I do not think the cold weather has hurt cattle as much as people think. We know better how to take care of them."

Mr. Butler estimates the normal movement out of the Panhandle in a year is between 500,000 and 600,000 head. "Most of the young stuff goes to Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, and Illinois," he added.

WISCONSIN BANK ROBBED

BRODHEAD, Wis., Jan. 23. (P)—Two unmasked men robbed the Green county bank here of about $4,000 shortly after the bank opened today. Employees were herded into a cage and forced to lie on the floor.

Suffering Great in Flood Stricken Areas of Nation

CHICAGO, Jan. 23. (AP)—Abnormally low temperatures held sway throughout most of the United States today, and in the Mississippi valley widespread floods added to the suffering.

The Rocky Mountain states and the Southwest after a fortnight of it have resigned to sub-zero weather. In the Middle West the cold wave has been unbroken for a week. Even Dixie shivers, and the East was threatened today.

A 70 at Los Angeles, an 80 at Miami, a 78 at Tampa and a 68 at San Diego provided about all the warm reading the temperature chart had to offer yesterday. The Pacific Coast states and the minus 10 at Walla Walla, Wash., being the only sub-zero recorded there.

Alaska, strangely, basked in what it regarded as mild weather, with the temperature in some places just under 30 above.

These were exceptions. In Fort Smith, Ark., the reading of 10 above was 34 degrees below what the weather bureau regards as the seasonal normal.

Only one city in the group classified as "West Central States" failed to report a below-zero reading yesterday. That was Little Rock, Ark., and the drop there was to two above.

Temperatures in the Dakotas were as low as 30 below, though the average in the middle west was 20 degrees higher.

The Mountain states continued cold, with the mercury around 25 below in Wyoming. Readings in Canada were much more temperate, with Calgary and Edmonton being on the plus side of the cipher.

The banks of the Wabash in Indiana and Illinois were scenes of suffering, with some relief for marooned families afforded by airplanes and rescuers in boats. The severe cold, extending even to the southern reaches of the flood area, was proving an aid to rescue workers, some of whom were successful in getting through on sleds, but at the same time the cold added to the misery of those stranded by the flood waters.

A report from Mt. Carmel, on the Illinois side of the Wabash, said many persons in the bottom lands had scarcely enough food to last a week, and in some cases the food supply already was exhausted. A slight recession of the flood waters was reported there.

Rescue crews, deflated in their first attempts by frozen flood waters, sought today to remove several hundred ice bound and water-trapped families from the Big Lake area of Arkansas.

WHICH PRINCESS WILL WALES MARRY?

With the bachelor Prince of Wales making an effort to find himself a bride, the list of European princesses eligible to share the throne of the British kingdom is fast dwindling. Marriage of pretty Marie Jose, of Belgium, reduced the field to eight, and two more royal marriages are in prospect. The princess from whose ranks Wales must choose a bride, if he marries, are: Ingrid of Sweden, 19, tall, blond, socially popular and a favorite prospect; Maria Christina of Spain, 18, one of the best dressed princesses; Beatrice of Spain, 20, brunette and a fine dancer; Giovanna of Italy, 22, with coal-black hair, but whose eyes are set on the Bulgarian throne; Juliana of Holland, 20, blond and buxom, but whose marriage to a Teuton prince seems a certainty; Eudoxia of Bulgaria, 31, domestically inclined and caretaker of the palace of her bachelor brother, Boris; Hilda of Luxembourg, 32, 32, blond and an exceptionally fine cook; Ileana of Rumania, 20, a real blond beauty and taller than the prince.

Letters Received Here Traveled by Sled and Train

"Notwithstanding that many think there is nothing between us and the North Pole, from Arctic Red River, Canada, to Pampa is some journey," according to the Rev. A. A. Hyde.

It took an air mail letter 21 days to make the trip between the two points, he said. Two letters were received Monday morning by Mr. Hyde, one of which was mailed at Arctic Red River, Northwest Territory, the other at Ak-lavik, in the same territory. Both were postmarked Dec. 30, 1929, and were received in Edmonton, Canada, Jan. 10, and were received in Pampa, Jan. 20.

These letters were souvenirs sent Mr. Hyde by a friend in Maryland, who forwarded them to the remote frontier post offices that they might come on the first air mail trip. The envelopes bore a cachet reading, "Canada Air Mail, Arctic Red River to Fort McMurray, first regular official flight."

In view of the fact that a letter mailed in Tampa, Fla., Jan. 17, reached Pampa on the same day, the Rev. Hyde is of the opinion that "The only flight made by these Canadian letters was by dog sled and snow bound train." He adds, however, "They are attractive souvenirs of a pioneer service which will in no distant future make every town in the far north Canada and Alaska accessible to the rest of the world."

RACE HORSES DIE IN BLAZE AT NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23. (AP)—Two stablemen and an apprentice jockey suffered burns and an undetermined number of race horses were burned to death in a fire which swept two barns at the fair grounds racing plant today.

Wilfred May, 19, the apprentice, suffered serious burns. J. W. Smith, stableman, and Phil Cattman received less serious burns.

Police said the fire started from an overheated oil stove in the stable of H. B. Reether. It spread rapidly through the two buildings.

Two score horses were quartered in the barns. Some were driven out during the fire and allowed to roam about the grounds while others were placed in nearby stables.

First count placed the number of thoroughbreds burned at 15. One, Cannon Club, ran second as field horse in the third race yesterday.

Following is a partial list of horses burned to death: In the Reether stable: Cannon Club and Bourbon. Gene Lutz stable: Petruchio, Leisure Hour.

Joe Letter and Kenneth Gilpin stable: Clemence, Patsy Jane, and Princess Vosky. J. H. Clark stable: Coreopsis, Blumponian, and Bogue's Gold. Major R. Nicholls stable: Pick Quick and Fly Jack.

COLD AT LAREDO LAREDO, Jan. 23. (AP)—Coldest weather of the winter prevailed in the Laredo section today, the mercury tumbling from a maximum of 41 Wednesday afternoon to 16 today. KANSAS CITY, Jan. 23. (AP)—More than a score of passengers were shaken here today, but no one was injured, when the southwest limited of the Milwaukee railroad crashed into Santa Fe train No. 45, Southern Kansas express, in the Union Station yards. One of two locomotives on the Milwaukee train was derailed. A pullman vestibule also was demolished, and a section of track was torn up.

Legislature to Leave Tonight on Trip to Prison

AUSTIN, Jan. 23. (AP)—The legislature received its fifth prison concentration and reorganization bill today, as it planned to adjourn until Monday in order to go to the penitentiary properties for a first hand inspection. The latest measure came from Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham. The house argued over the propriety of asking Governor Moody to furnish it with certain financial data. The resolution, sponsored by Representative J. D. Avis of Wichita Falls, was preferred to the committee on state affairs. It was definitely determined to leave tonight at 10:30 o'clock for Huntsville and the prison farms. The senate session lasted only about twenty minutes. The house resolution calling upon the governor to submit the subject of amending the Confederate pension law was adopted without argument and by a viva voce vote. The house received the report of the committee which investigated the facts surrounding erection of a division of office building by the highway department at Tyler, and a resolution of "disapproving" of similar practices was left hanging fire when adjournment was taken. A resolution by Representative Polk Hornaday and others giving expression to "disapproval of the policy of erecting of any substantial building by any department without authority of the legislature" lost no consideration when a point of order that the time for considering resolutions had expired. The McFarlane prison concentration bill was voted out of committee a few minutes later. Bills by Senators Edgar Witt of Waco, in favor of relocation near Austin, and Nat Patton of Crockett, who is for rehabilitation at Huntsville, had been reported favorably.

Miss Nellie Hardin underwent a tonsilectomy this morning at Pampa hospital.

Hundreds of Dogs Will Be Shot for Lack of Licenses

Less than a dozen dogs of the 300 dogs in town that must be licensed if they are to live have been tagged. Chief J. I. Downs said. All dogs that have not been tagged and vaccinated by Feb. 1 will be gathered in by the police department and shot unmercifully, is the word from police headquarters. Aristocratic canines will get a bullet same as curs of low degree, it is stated. The dogs must be vaccinated to protect the city against rabies. The five dogs that got new tags this year: Alex Schneider's black shepherd "Buster"; C. L. Todd's brindle bull, "Tex"; Jack Wilkinson's brown police "Wolf"; Dr. J. C. Rash Romance by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

Begin Here Today JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing house, is snubbed by other girls in the office, partly because of jealousy of her beauty and partly because Judith is not committal, about her private affairs. She incurs the dislike of KATHRYN TUPPER, office executive, who gives her disagreeable tasks. ARTHUR KNIGHT, head of the department, who is reserved and a widower, becomes interested in the girl. Knight summons Judith to his office and asks her to take dinner with him. Judith, somewhat embarrassed, accepts the invitation. Knight, who has acted on a whim, becomes more and more attracted by the girl's magnetism. He is lonely and his two children—TONY, 13, and JUNIOR, 16—are both away from home. It is three nights later that Judith keeps a mysterious appointment with a young man whom she calls DAN.

Now go on with the story. CHAPTER III The young man with Judith Cameron was arguing. In the street darkened by looming outlines of bleak warehouses, his features could not be distinguished. Then a taxicab driver, circling at the street's intersection, threw the pair into bright illumination with his headlights. A spectator would have had time to note that the girl was clutching her companion's arm and that her face was startled and pale. She was in dark clothes, as was the youth beside her. He was taller than the girl, rather slender, and wore a cap which shadowed his features. If the spectator had been very quick he might have noticed that the young man wore a mustache. But there was no spectator. Not that evening. The youth whom Judith had called "Dan" was arguing in low tones but his manner was heated. The girl, after her quick, sharp exclamation, remained silent. Now and then she seemed about to speak but the torrent of the man's words held her. At last he stopped. "All right," Judith Cameron said in a subdued voice. "All right, Dan. They were standing near the wall of an unlighted building. Dan drew away, looked down at the girl, and then clapped a hand on each of her arms. "Good kid, Judy," he tol her gruffly. "You'll go through with it?" "I—I promise Dan." There was a quick movement in the dark. It might have been a caress or again it might not have been. After this the couple headed about, walking swiftly in the direction from which they had come. At the nearest subway station they parted. The young man touched his cap, gave a farewell wave and was gone. Judith Cameron hesitated, watched the little figure disappear in the crowded street. A brooding look had come over the girl's face. Her poise and self-confidence were gone. It was as though some power against which she had no strength at all had spoken and Judith was answering the summons. Still, for an instant after the man was out of sight Judith waited. Then she turned quickly and hurried down the subway stairs.

There certainly was no sign to be discovered in the busy office of Hunter Brothers that Arthur Knight, officer of the board of directors and executive of the textbook division, was paying court to one of his newest employees, a stenographer whose pay envelope contained $22 weekly. The first two days after their dinner party Knight did not see Judith, remaining judiciously from even passing thru the outer office. The third day he found occasion to enter the room. Judith Cameron was absent on one of Miss Tupper's innumerable errands. Knight, with a gaze which was quite inscrutable, returned to his own desk. His fingers tapped a Morocco leather memorandum pad nervously. Ringing the bell for his private secretary, he announced rather peremptorily that he would be out of the office the rest of the morning. To Judith life appeared exactly as it had been. The other girls gossiped together and ignored her. Kathryn Tupper continued to pile up extra tasks for her, and Tim Mulligan, with youthful loyalty, remained a staunch friend. Through her fellow workers might shun Judith socially, they found her an ever-engaging subject for discussion. "Gosh," Mitzel Kraft mused one afternoon, "how long do you think she'll stick it out? Believe me, it's a right the way Tupper keeps that girl on the trot. I wouldn't blame her for getting sore any day." Mitzel and Carla Morrison were repairing the impeccable whiteness of their noses. Carla bowed her lips to get the flame and ivory outline exactly right before replying. "Her get sore?" Carla's words exploded violently. "Fuh!—guess there isn't much danger of that happening! What I'm looking for—and this baby wants to be on the front row when it happens, too—is for Tupper to blow the lid off. Boy, that'll be one real pic-

"Judith, will you marry me?"

nic. It'll happen, too. Any time Kathryn K. Tupper gets into her head to get rid of a girl, out she goes." "You think they'll fire her?" Mitzel asked incredulously. Carla nodded. "Serve her right!" she added darkly. "The big high-hat!" A final dusting of powder on a cheek already completely resurfaced and the two girls returned to their office. An hour later Tim Mulligan came quietly to Judith Cameron's desk. "Hi," he said, handing her a crumpled, rather grimy bit of paper. "Here's what them dames was gabbling about so hot this noon." Judith looked down at the fragment of newspaper and then up at Tim. "That's the boss's daughter—Tony," he explained. "Ain't she a looker, though?" What Judith held was a picture torn from the Sunday photograph section of a newspaper. The picture showed a slight, graceful girl in jaunty white riding breeches and white shirt open at the throat, high dark boots and gloves. She was holding a riding whip. The whip had puffed out wisps of dark hair from under the close white beret she wore. The girl was laughing, her face turned toward her companion who was also in riding attire. "That's a older and rather foppish," the two were walking apparently in a park. Below the photograph were these words: "YOUTHFUL HORSEWOMAN. Miss Antonette Knight, popular member of New York's younger social set, was photographed at an Italian resort with Count Serge Bodansky. The pair are often seen together on a morning gallop. Miss Knight is an expert horsewoman and has exhibited blue ribbon mounts often at Newport." Judith studied the picture. "She certainly is a pretty girl," she told Tim. "I'll say she is!" the boy echoed her sentiments. "Breeded in here once last summer to the boss. Dolled up in a swell outfit and furs to put your eyes out. Tony's the berries, all right—that's what they call her, you know." Judith smiled and held out the clipping. Tim shrugged his shoulders. "I don't want it. She's a little too old for me." Then he grinned and returned to his task of sealing envelopes. The picture lay on Judith Cameron's desk. She studied the face of Arthur Knight's youthful daughter for several moments. Attractive indeed. The chin and eyes were like her father's. The resemblance was quite marked. The photograph was indistinct and rather small, but somehow as Judith looked at it she knew Tony Knight to be willful, aggressive and a foe (if she should be) to be feared.

The fourth morning following her dinner engagement with Arthur Knight Judith was summoned again to his office. The message came to her once more from Kathryn Tupper's lips and a suspicious glaring glance accompanied it. Judith stepped to the door of her employer's private door and knocked. She heard his call to come in. This time, instead of waving her toward a chair, Arthur Knight rose and came forward. "Miss Cameron," he said taking her hand. "I wanted to see you." "Yes, Mr. Knight?" "Here—won't you sit here?" He placed the chair for her, then resumed his own at the desk. The office manner was gone completely and Knight was smiling. "I suppose it's not strictly according to business routine," he told her, "but I called you in here to ask if we might not have dinner together again tonight. I—I don't like to break the office program to make social engagements but, well—" He broke off, evidently at a loss for words but smiling broadly. There was no flush on Judith Cameron's cheeks. While Knight was speaking the haunted look had come once more into the girl's eyes. She hesitated, then spoke rapidly. "I—I'm sorry, Mr. Knight. Tonight I have an engagement. Some other time—" "Oh, I quite understand! That's all right. Would you care to name the evening?" The girl sat silent. "Yes," she said slowly. "I'll be glad to go with you Thursday." Thursday was three nights distant. "Very well. Let's make it Thursday then." Judith rose and though she smiled, certainly there was wistfulness in that smile. "At 6:30?" he asked. "At 6:30." They dined together that Thursday night. They dined again on Saturday and two nights later attended a musical play. It was a play of lovely melodies—mostly love songs. Judith Cameron had 10 engagements with her employer during the next two weeks. On the tenth night he asked her to marry him. They had returned from a concert at Carnegie Hall. Knight dismissed the cab as he helped Judith to the pavement and followed her up the steps. "Is there any place—any place at all here where I might come in for a few moments and talk to you?" She led the way into the odoriferous, brightly furnished boarding house "reception room." "Only this," Judith smiled wanly as she spoke. "It isn't very elegant." Arthur Knight did not once glance about the room. His eyes were intently on those of the girl before him. Dark eyes, aroused now. Insistent. Tenderly he lifted the girl's chin with his two hands. "Judith—his voice was low but vibrant—"I want you, I love you. Judith will you marry me?" The girl started. She held back instinctively. Then, with a startling little cry she threw herself toward him. "Take me," moaned Judith Cameron. "Oh, please take me away—" The rest of the exclamation was muffled in a cheviot shoulder. BRADY JURY IS HALF PICKED AT AUSTIN TODAY

COURT ROOM, Austin, Jan. 23. (AP)—Going rapidly down the line of ven- tremen, counsel selected three new jurors this morning to half fill the John W. Brady murder trial jury box. The three men, who joined three al- ready chosen, were: John Dittmar, 53-year-old farmer, who had known Brady as an eminent jurist.

R. F. Burke, sign painter, a Metho- dist, who said Brady's religion—Catho- licism—would make no difference to him. He was a dapper, nervous man. Fred Erkus, 31-year-old-mill hand, who said he "didn't hardly ever get a paper" and knew little or nothing about the Brady case. The lawyers did not ask him about his religious beliefs, but he told reporters, "I don't belong to no church."

Brady was even more expressionless than usual, occasionally asking the name of a venireman from some one at the press table, but never speaking to his lawyers. Mrs. Brady was there, too, along with other relatives who have been with her husband. She chuckled frequently. About an hour before the noon recess the jailer, C. A. Redding, dressed in black and having a rather funereal ap- pearance, came in and solemnly sat down behind Brady. He had not been notic- ed in the court room before.

The defense used two more challen- ges and the state one, each bring its total to six. Nine remain for either side side.

Edward S. Harkness of New York, who graduated from Yale in 1897, has given the school $10,000,000.

Many Speeches Are Heard at London Session

BY BYRON PRICE (Associated Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Jan. 23. (AP)—Meeting in a friendly atmosphere, delegates to the five-power naval conference outlined their national viewpoints briefly at the first working session today and then resumed private conversations seeking solutions of outstanding problems. France and Italy shared the spot- light at today's session, which was held in the Queen Anne's drawing room at St. James's palace with the public ex- cluded.

The conferees exchanged national viewpoints on the unsettled details of Anglo-American parity and many other vital topics thrust into the back- ground, while France outlined again her claim to a greater place in the naval world and Italy repeated her as- pirations for parity with France.

Representatives of all the participat- ing governments, including the British dominions, spoke briefly.

Henry L. Stimson, American secre- tary of state, said he would not ex- pect at the present time upon Ameri- can naval needs as it was well under- stood the United States was looking to the conference for as much actual reduction as possible. The secretary said:

"After careful consideration and con- sultation with my colleagues I have decided not to make any statement to- day as to the naval requirements of America. I do not think that to do would particularly assist our delibera- tions. These requirements are well understood. They have been cheerfully recognized by the nation which is our host, which has through its prime minister agreed with us that equality in naval power between us is the basis upon which he can best promote the beneficent purposes of this confer- ence."

"We also believe that the require- ments for national defense on the part of the various nations of the world are necessarily largely relative to the gen- eral condition of the world, and there- fore if this conference can find a way by which general reduction can be se- cured, our own navy likewise can be reduced."

"While this is our attitude, we shall gladly listen to any statements which may be made by others as we are anx- ious and cordially to understand the difficulties and problems which may confront our sister nations, and for ourselves I shall not make any state- ment."

Prime Minister MacDonald, who acted as chairman, opened with a short general statement and said af- terward that the whole proceeding was most friendly. The session completed its permanent organization and chose Sir Maurice Hankey as secretary-gen- eral. It lasted but two hours. "The meeting was most interesting, most informing and most friendly," said Prime Minister MacDonald later. "There was evident no hostile desire whatever on the part of the delega- tions to question one another."

The delegates went immediately from the palace to resumption of their many-sided conversations, one of the most interesting of which was a meet- ing late this afternoon between the British, French and Italians. No date was set for the next full session, but apparently none was planned this week. Interest centered around the French and Italian addresses because of the emphasis placed on their viewpoints in the personal conferences recently. Premier Tardieu's address repeated several points made in the French memorandum of last December, but in what was felt to be a hopeful and con- ciliatory spirit. He repeated France's need for a navy in view of her col- onial expansion and touched by infer- ence on the long held French desire for some international accord for secu- rity.

Miss Christine Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Campbell of this city, has resigned her position in Groom high school, to return to the University of Texas at Austin. She will leave this afternoon or tomorrow morning, and will be accompanied as far as Clarendon by her parents.

Development rooms tomorrow at 2 p. m. to perfect organization of a local board: M. K. Brown, Alex Schneider, Clyde Patheere, George Briggs, W. H. Curry, B. E. Finley, F. M. Gwin, Mrs. DeLeon Vicars, Mrs. A. H. Doucette, Frank Goodhalter, Rev. F. W. O'Malley, Paul Hill, J. W. Garman. Officers will be elected and a program adopted.

This advisory board, it was explain- ed, will exercise a directing influence over the Salvation Army activities, will direct raising and expenditure of funds, and generally will have the du- ties of such boards in other organiza- tions.

While the primary aim of the Army is religious, the welfare work is an im- portant function, and the local staff is experienced in all its phases. It is said that the charity work can be handled on an economical basis because the Army staff has time to investigate cases and to prevent the unworthy from receiving cash as often happens under other plans.

It was said today that the local board probably would decide to continue the relief drive until a sum sufficient to carry out a year's welfare program is obtained. And while a small sum is to be sent to national headquarters to help carry out national and interna- tional relief, it was said that most of the money received would be spent lo- cally. The percentage for national work was said to be less than required by the Red Cross and other organiza- tions with international programs.

George Briggs, B. C. D. manager, to- day praised the ability and integrity of Ensign King, with whom he was as- sociated in welfare work at Eastland. As Chamber of Commerce secretary at Eastland Mr. Briggs helped to organ- ize the Salvation Army there, and Mr. King was sent as officer in charge. Mr. Briggs said that Eastland found the Army program, supervised by a local advisory board, to be the best so- lution of the welfare problem. He endorsed the plan to carry out a simi- lar activity in Pampa.

Food and clothing continued to be given to the Salvation Army today at 212 East Foster avenue. Some addi- tional cash contributions were received by the Daily News and B. C. D. funds, and several pledges were out- standing.

Twelve hundred garments, in addi- tion to food and other items, were giv- en out by the Salvation Army yester- day.

BILOXI, Miss., Jan. 23. (AP)—In a tem- perature of 20 degrees above zero, a hundred widows of confederate veter- ans round ninety years of age were rescued safely today from their dor- mitory at the old soldiers home at Beau voir near here as the building, a one- story frame structure, was swept by fire. It Is Folly To Stay Fat

The proof is everywhere. In every circle you can see that excess fat is dis- appearing fast. Modern science has found a major cause of excess fat in a weak- ened gland. In late years, physicians the world over have been fighting that cause. They do not rely on starvation. This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, as prepared by famous experts. People have used these tablets for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now nearly all have friends who show the results in new beauty, health and vigor. Go try Marmola. Test the right way to reduce. The results will amaze and delight you.
