Red Rockets Hit Saigon; Viets Recapture An Loc

U.S. War Planes Strike Enemy Troop Positions

SAIGON (AP) — Counter-attacking South Vietnamese troops were reported tonight to have recaptured virtually all of the provincial capital of An Loc. Enemy rockets exploded in a Saigon suburb, killing 15 Vietnamese civilians and wounding 6, bringing the war to the capital for the first time in the current offensive.

Battlefield reports from An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, said government troops were reinforced with 400 paratroops and aided by heavy U.S. B52 strikes in the counterattack that latest reports said had retaken all but two blocks of the city.

Earlier, the Vietnamese high command said the enemy had been forced back outside the city limits after seizing the northern part of the provincial capital in a tank-led assault Thursday.

An unknown number of 100 pound rockets slammed into northern Saigon around Tan Son Nhut airbase. All but one fell off the base into civilian housing. It was here the 15 persons died and at least six others were wounded. There was no reported damage or casualties from the lone rocket that hit inside the big air base.

The skies over North Vietnam suddenly cleared today and waves of U.S. jets streaked in for heavy attacks north of the demilitarized zone.

The bombing has been seriously hampered by heavy monsoon clouds restricting attempts to hit enemy troops, tanks and supply columns heading south toward the DMZ. The weather was termed the best yet for American pilots who had resumed bombing the north April 6.

Radio Hanoi claimed six U.S. jets were shot down during the raids, it said at least four North Vietnamese provinces were attacked, giving some idea of the scope of the aerial offensive.

The eight-jet B52s dropped about 1,000 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese troop concentrations a mile west and a mile northeast of An Loc.

Waves of helicopters landed the paratroopers to the southeast. Field reports said they were engaged in light contact with the enemy.

South Vietnamese rangers were reported fighting small groups of North Vietnamese on the eastern edges of the town.

Anti-aircraft fire was said to have decreased sharply. The weather was clear, and scores of U.S. fighter-bombers were in action.

The Saigon command claimed 369 North Vietnamese killed Thursday and today, 200 of them by air strikes. An official spokesman, Col. Le Trung Hien, said 33 North Vietnamese tanks were destroyed, including 18 inside An Loc by South Vietnamese tanks and other anti-tank weapons.

Nixon To Reaffirm U.S. Canada Stand

OTTAWA (AP) — President Nixon goes before a joint session of Canada's Parliament today to reaffirm what he terms "the great lesson for all the world to see"—the tradition of settling across-the-border differences without war.

Nixon, in Ottawa with his wife for a 40-hour official visit, is the first American president to appear before Parliament since John F. Kennedy came to this capital 11 years ago.

At a white-tie dinner in his honor at Government House Thursday night, Nixon summed up his approach to U.S.-Canadian relations in a toast: "Canada and the United States, by their example, can contribute enormously to a new world in which nations can live together in peace, friendship and understanding, maintaining their dignity, maintaining their individuality."

Nixon's public recognition of Canadian individuality was calculated to please his hosts. But summit talks today between Nixon and Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau were not expected to produce agreement on touchy economic issues dividing the two governments.

Canadians have long been bothered by U.S. economic might within their borders. Some are talking about curbing U.S. investments in Canada to guard against domination by foreign firms.

Any moves to settle these difficulties presumably will be delayed until after election contests that both Nixon and Trudeau face later this year.

Arriving at Uplands Air Base Thursday night in a chilly and dreary rain, Nixon told several hundred invited guests: "We respect the separate identity, the right to pursue its own way that the people of Canada desire for their own destiny."

Canadian officials planned rigorous security for the Nixon visit, mindful of the assault last October on visiting Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

TV Networks Face U.S. Suit On Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says it will file suit aimed at breaking up network control over television entertainment programming. The action would rank as one of the government's strongest attacks on prime-time TV shows.

The department said the civil suits will accuse the Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., American Broadcasting Co. and a related firm with violating antitrust laws.

But Justice officials refused to discuss ramifications of the suit or to disclose the alternative they prefer.

CBS and ABC denounced the move; NBC officials would not comment.

First word of the government plan came from CBS Thursday.

The Justice Department then confirmed only that suits against the networks and Viacom International Inc. will be filed in a few days. Viacom, a one-time CBS subsidiary, now operates independent cable-television and syndicated-program systems.

The government intention seems unlikely to have an immediate effect on the programs beamed into millions of homes because of the anticipated lengthy route to a final court settlement.

The Justice Department said the civil antitrust suits will charge that the networks "have monopolized and restrained trade in prime-time television entertainment programs."

Department spokesmen at first refused to elaborate on the announcement, but, after repeated inquiries, said news programming would not be affected.

"These cases have absolutely nothing to do with news, public affairs or sports presentations. They are limited to prime-time entertainment programming," said Bruce B. Wilson, deputy assistant attorney general in the antitrust division.

Apollo 16 Crew Ready For Voyage To Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 16 might have been designed to keep the scientists happy. It's got experiments and tests for just about every scientific discipline.

During the mission, which is scheduled for launch Sunday, scientific experiments will be performed on the lunar surface, in orbit of the moon and on the way to the moon. In addition, there will be a science satellite left in lunar orbit, an atomic-powered science station left on the moon's surface and a biology experiment performed on the way back to earth.

Apollo 16's two spacecraft will carry 2,250 pounds of scientific equipment. The lunar module will land about 1,200 pounds of science gear on the moon, more than twice the amount used on the first moon landing almost three years ago.

Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. will collect about 195 pounds of moon samples, almost as much as the total collected during the first three moon landings combined.

The Apollo 16 command and service module will spend about six days in lunar orbit. During much of this time, astronaut Thomas K. Mattingly II will be operating an array of scientific instruments and cameras stored in the service module of the spacecraft.

These experiments include: —The laser altimeter. This device flashes a laser beam at the moon and measures the time it takes to bounce back. This helps draw an elevation map of the moon and to determine its shape.

—X ray fluorescence experiment. By detecting and measuring the characteristics of solar X-rays radiating from the moon's surface, this device can map the chemical composition of the moon.

—Gamma ray and alpha particle spectrometers. These devices map the distribution of various types of elements over the moon's surface.

Carried in the same bay with the orbital science equipment is an 85-pound, self-contained satellite that resembles a rural mailbox. The craft is powered by solar cells and batteries and is designed to operate for one year. The satellite contains two experiments, one which measures charges particles moving through space, and one which measures the magnetic fields around the moon.

Astronauts To Conduct Many Scientific Tests

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Thirteen months of intense training ends today for the Apollo 16 astronauts, then they'll relax a day before taking off for the moon on Sunday.

John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II plan to spend most of the day in spaceship trainers, rehearsing as they have so many times the critical separation of the two spaceships, descent to the moon, liftoff from the surface and rendezvous and docking.

Young and Duke, who are to become the ninth and 10th Americans to walk on the moon, will be in the lunar module simulator and Mattingly in the command ship trainer.

Re-evaluation Progress Report Made at Meet

In a Gray County Commissioners Court meeting this morning fraught with money problems, the steering committee for the Red Deer Creek Watershed project probably made fiscal history stating they did not need any money this year.

The appearance of the steering panel was to give a progress report on the project which, when completed, will have a tremendous impact on environment and ecology as well as land values of farms and ranches now ravaged when flood waters come.

The project calls for six flood control structures in Gray County and 20 in Roberts and Hemphill counties. Gray County is responsible for land rights costs while the federal government will put more than $2-million in the project through the Soil Conservation Service.

Land owners in the three counties paid some $20-thousand out of pocket for planning to eliminate time needed for planning appropriations.

Since funds have not cleared congress, the county, which entered into the project in 1967, will not need to expend any funds this year.

Members of the commissioners court noted this with relief as they launched into a discussion of the re-evaluation and re-assessment program. Gray County Tax Assessor-Collector Jack Back and some of his staff involved in the program gave a progress report. The move to broaden the tax base was started in 1971 and Back told the group he felt sure it would be completed this year.

While it was pointed out that this broadening of the tax base would eventually result in reduced tax rates, it would come very close to doubling taxes in some areas when it was implemented.

TEXAS POLITICS

Campaigns Getting Hotter As May 6 Primary Drawing Near

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New and thorny campaign issues have emerged in Texas political camps after Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes rejected news accounts linking him with legislative nepotism, senatorial candidates Ralph Yarborough and Barefoot Sanders tangled over federal programs and gubernatorial candidate Dolph Briscoe was accused of having a private road built at taxpayers' expense.

Sanders Thursday voiced opposition to a national health care plan which he said Yarborough has advocated. Sanders' stand came after Yarborough challenged him to pinpoint which federal programs he would eliminate that Yarborough sponsored while serving in the U.S. Senate.

Sanders, who was interviewed in Dallas, said the program would cost $77 billion and that Yarborough's advocacy of it represented excessive spending.

Sanders said he would not cut out programs such as the Cold War G. I. Bill, efforts to fight cancer, or bilingual education — all measures which Yarborough sponsored in the Senate.

J.C. Penney Manager Declares Anniversary Sale Highlights

HARVEY LEIKER

Harvey Leiker, manager of the J.C. Penney store in Pampa, declared the retail chain's 70th anniversary sale highlights efforts to give people the best possible value for their dollar.

A native of Hays, Kan., Leiker came to Pampa from Walsenburg, Colo. He is an Elk, was a director of Walsenburg Rotary Club and a member of the Chamber of Commerce. Enthusiastic about Pampa, he said the people here are the friendliest he has ever met. He and his wife, Ronnie Fay, have two sons, Bradley 5, and Tod, 2.

His hobbies include fishing, bowling and golfing. Seventy years ago, in an obscure Wyoming town, a man opened a small store with a very simple idea: give people the best possible value for their dollar, and charge only a fair profit. Never what the traffic would bear.

Today, there are nearly 1,700 stores based on this idea. All with the same name: J.C. Penney. It's something we'd like you to think about, as we mark another Anniversary.

At Penney's the values are here everyday. So is the quality. And so is the service. Just as they were 70 years ago. That's why now, during this month of anniversary sales and specials, you know you can count on some truly fabulous buys. Simply because our everyday values are so good. This month, while we celebrate our years, you can celebrate our prices.

He said, however, that Yarborough pays no heed to where money to finance programs will have to be raised, and continually advocates spending approaches to problem-solving.

Yarborough earlier reiterated his support of programs to spend federal money fighting cancer, to pay for the education of military veterans of the cold war, for bilingual education, and other programs that were "investments that pay dividends." He called on Sanders to single out those programs he considers wasteful.

He maintained that the true culprit to blame for heavy deficits is the Vietnam War. Yarborough said the United States has poured $140 billion "down that pit" in Vietnam. Inflation is continuing upward, Yarborough said, and one of the quickest ways to halt it would be to get out of Vietnam completely.

Meanwhile, Barnes said he thought it was "extremely unfair" that the name of his son, Greg, 13, was brought into newspaper stories about legislative nepotism. Barnes said his son received a $5.50 check for serving as honorary page the opening day of the 1965 session, but for the rest of the time, when Greg was a regular page, his wages were paid by Barnes.

Frances Farenthold, Democratic candidate for governor, told students at the University of Texas at El Paso that UT regents are pushing the UT system to the brink of ruin.

"The resignations in the past week of five more teachers and two department chairmen at UT-Austin is further evidence that the once great faculty there is now a shambles," she said.

In Austin, Sens. Oscar Mauzy, Dallas, and William T. Moore, Bryan, called a special news conference to claim that Dolph Briscoe, Democratic candidate for governor, used his influence to get a $200,000 road built across his South Texas ranch at taxpayers' expense. Moore is a local campaign manager for Barnes.

In other developments, disharmony has hit the Republican camp.

Sen. Henry Grover, Houston, Republican Candidate for governor, said one of his opponents, David Reagan, acts like "a desperate candidate whose entire campaign has been negative and personal... The party hierarchy is again hell bent in making a deal with the liberals like they did in 1970. That's why they have picked a liberal college political science professor like Reagan."

Reagan said in Houston that Republicans must elect a reform-minded candidate "capable of taking on this one party Democratic monopoly with all its ingrained waste and corruption."

In Odessa, Tom McElroy, Dallas, said he was the only Republican candidate for governor who could defeat a Democrat. "My appeal is to the hard working, tax paying, common-sense middle road conservative who is tired of the political circus in Austin," he said.

Briscoe said in Richardson that Texas has growth taxes totaling $375 million every two years "which goes far toward meeting any new tax needs. I propose to live within those means." Briscoe repeated his opposition to any extension of the sales tax to food and medicine.

Gov. Preston Smith said in Lufkin that the opening phase of his 72-stop campaign tour has received a "tremendous" response.

FBI Nabs Extortion Suspect

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — FBI agents arrested a man late Thursday in an alleged extortion attempt to obtain $270,000 from Trans World Airlines here.

The FBI said agents arrested Wallace Shackelford, 50, operator of an electrical and plumbing company, and booked him for investigation of extortion. Agents said they would seek a summons for the arrest of a Tucson barmaid in the case, but declined to say what the charge would be.

Both the FBI and TWA declined to say how the alleged extortion attempt was made.

City Manager Will Chair Annual Muster

Pampa's city manager, Mack Wofford, will program chairman for the annual muster of former students of Texas A&M University to be held at 7 p.m. next Friday, April 21, on the Tom O'Loughlin Ranch, five miles west of Miami.

Wofford said the Aggie Muster is held each year to mark the passing of comrades and honor them. The muster began April 21, 1903, and is held annually on that date wherever A&M former students find themselves on that day.

Wofford said: "Aggies have mustered on board ship, in foxholes on the battlefield, in the Swiss Alps, in airplanes, and on Corregidor shortly before the Japanese captured the island in World War II.

"More than 500 musters will be held around the world this year, including many in Vietnam and doubtless in prison camps. For some A&M former students this will be the last muster."

The ceremony, Wofford said, is the same in every location. Former students pay their respects to those who are absent. When the names of the honored dead are called from muster roles, a friend of the deceased answers, "here."

Wofford added that the oldest A&M former student in the Northeast Panhandle District is W. S. Tolbert, 2501 Mary Ellen, a 1913 graduate.

American Indians taught early colonists how to make maple sugar, and today it still is produced only in the United States and Canada.

Barnes Denies Charges On Nepotism

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said Thursday it was "extremely unfair" to bring his 13-year-old son, Greg, into newspaper stories about legislative nepotism.

Barnes commented as two newspapers brought out further revelations about Sen. David Ratliff's payroll, as well as that of other legislators.

"To drag the name of my son Greg into the nepotism stories is extremely unfair and contrary to the facts," Barnes said. "My wife and I ordered him removed from the state payroll as a Capitol guide immediately after our marriage in 1971."

Contrary to the published report, he did not work for two months after the marriage, but only for a few days," Barnes said. The Houston Chronicle said in a copyrighted story Thursday that a veteran handwriting analyst said 14 of 17 state payroll checks issued by Ratliff's children during the past 18 months were endorsed by Ratliff himself.

Later, Barnes said, his son received a $5.50 check because honorary pages are carried on the payroll records, even for a single day's work.

Greg also served as a full-time page, "but I paid him out of my own pocket and never put him on the state payroll, for the very reason that I did not want any question of impropriety to be raised," Barnes said.

He also denied reports that his step-son, Scott Sayers, Jr. remained on the Senate payroll as a Capitol guide more than two months after Barnes married the boy's mother.

"My wife and I ordered him removed from the state payroll as a Capitol guide immediately after our marriage in 1971. Contrary to the published report, he did not work for two months after the marriage, but only for a few days," Barnes said.

The Houston Chronicle said in a copyrighted story Thursday that a veteran handwriting analyst said 14 of 17 state payroll checks issued by Ratliff's children during the past 18 months were endorsed by Ratliff himself.

Ralph Queen, who retired in January as head of the Houston Police Department's identification division, made the analysis, the Chronicle said.

The newspaper said the checks were made out to John Ratliff, the Stamford senator's son, and Lynnora Ratliff, a daughter, who have worked intermittently since 1965 for Rep. John Allen of Longview.

Ratliff also had two of Allen's children on his payroll during the same period.

The Chronicle also reported that Mrs. Mary Jane Maniloff, Ratliff's married daughter, worked for the senator as a clerk for 20 months in 1970-72, receiving $6,035 in state funds as salary. The newspaper said she apparently lived neither in Austin nor anywhere in her father's senate district while she was on his payroll.

Texas law prohibits a legislator from hiring his relatives or, apparently, those of any other lawmaker.

Nepotism is a misdemeanor, carrying a possible penalty of a $100 to $1,000 fine.

The Chronicle said Mrs. Maniloff lived in El Paso during 5 1/2 months of the period when she was on her father's payroll. The manager of the apartment where she lived with her husband and daughter was quoted as saying, "She didn't work for anybody. She stayed home at all times."

John W. Young To Make Fourth Trip Into Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — John W. Young will tie a record on Apollo 16 by making his fourth trip into space, but the 41-year-old astronaut says he hopes the mission is not his last.

"I expect to be in the space program until they kick me out," says Young, a Navy captain who flew twice in the Gemini program, circled the moon on Apollo 10 and will go all the way to a lunar landing as commander of Apollo 16. The mission is scheduled for launch this Sunday.

Crews for all of the scheduled space missions have already been selected, but Young believes his country will not abandon manned spaceflight after all it has done.

"It's inconceivable to me that we're going to be technological copouts," he says.

John Young was born in San Francisco, but raised in Orlando, Fla., and considers the smaller town home.

He was an outstanding student and athlete in high school and, like many of the astronauts, was attracted to flying while still a teen-ager.

Young majored in aeronautical engineering at Georgia Institute of Technology and also enlisted in the Navy ROTC. He went right into the Navy after graduation in 1952 and within seven years was a Navy test pilot.

In 1962, Young set two world records which still stand for "scrambling" an interceptor jet. He set the first by roaring from a standstill on a runway to an altitude of 9,280 feet in 34 seconds aboard a Phantom jet fighter. The second record was for an altitude of 80,000 feet.

The Navy pilot became an astronaut in 1962 and has since contributed as much to the lore and legend of the space corps as he has to the technology of flying in space.

Young hides a first-class mind behind a folksy facade of dry wit, mildly mangled grammar and a deadpan delivery.

The astronaut takes a simple, direct approach to engineering problems which occasionally has made the complex studies used by most engineers appear a little silly.

One example concerns the problem of shaving in space. For years engineers spent thousands of dollars on various shaving devices which would not only cut the beard but sweep up the cut whiskers and keep them from floating around in the spacecraft.

On Apollo 10, Young solved the whole problem with a safety razor, some thick lather and a tissue. He theorized that the lather would hold the cut whiskers, and the lather could then be blotted up with the tissue. He was right.

Young will be at the controls of the Apollo 16 lunar module for man's fifth landing on the moon. With him will be Charles M. Duke Jr. The command module pilot on the mission is Thomas K. Mattingly II who will remain in lunar orbit aboard the command ship. Both Mattingly and Duke are space rookies.

During three days on the moon, Young and Duke will make three explorations using a battery-powered car.

Young will be at the car's controls, although he claims to be "a terrible driver."

"To train us for the rougher terrain on this mission, they prepared a sort of obstacle course," says the astronaut in mock seriousness. "They told me I was doing pretty good the other day. I only hit five logs, three rocks, an orange and a lizard. I didn't see the lizard."

Down With Progress

In Hull, Quebec, the firm of Les Enterprises Dasken Ltd. built a seven-story apartment tower and a three story apartment tower. The firm had the approval of the city council. But it happened that there was a zoning by-law that restricted the area to single-family residences. The inhabitants of the neighborhood went to court. The case was appealed and re-appealed. At last it reached the Supreme Court of Canada. That tribunal ordered the two towers demolished.

The case was reported in the March, 1972 "Buildings," journal of the construction and building-management industry. We offer a review here as a reminder to those businessmen who promote zoning in the belief that they can avert the bad effects on themselves by conniving with a city council. We haven't heard of a case in which a U.S. court took as stringent a view as the Canadian court, but judicial decisions are a highly contagious disease.

Who Wants It?

Like the 1770s which produced an American Revolution, the 1970s can be a decade of revolutionary change. That was the opening remark by President Nixon when he unveiled his "Revenue Sharing Plan" to Congress on March 4, 1971.

A reader writes The News about the statement. Apparently she has been puzzling over it for some time. She notes that the Revolution of the 1770s was fought by the people against a tyrannical government, but wants to know why President Nixon would call for a revolution when he is the very apex of the government. Is he calling for a revolution executed from the top down, she wonders.

Well that, is a penetrating question. Why would the President of the United States adopt the sloganizing of those intent on dismantling the existing system. Certainly he has nothing to gain by doing so. And we can't think of anything that he has to lose by not doing so. Maybe his objective is to co-opt the domestic enemies of the country by mouthing their catch words, maybe he is only politicking. Like our reader we can only wonder. Why would any government try to revolutionize the citizenry? After all, revolution in the sense that our enemies mean—is not fun and games, but suffering and bloodshed. Who wants it?

The Pre-Mao Rich Still Fare Better

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—A Chinese friend who fled the mainland when Mao Tse-tung came to power, has received word the property he left in Shanghai 22 years ago is still drawing profits.

These profits, or at least part of them, he understands, have been banked in his name.

My friend, who has been denounced by Peking as a counter-revolutionary, does not dare go back to claim the money. Nor is he willing to send back an agent to negotiate for him. He is certain any agent he sends will be in for trouble because of his own anti-Communist activities.

It should be noted that this particular friend has been an active anti-Communist guerrilla in Southeast Asia.

The property in question consisted of 200 houses in Shanghai which Mao's government, he said, took over by decree. But so far as my friend can determine, he is still "part owner"—or at least is being credited—with income from the rentals.

China watchers here note that Peking of late has been seeking better relations with overseas Chinese for purposes that are not yet clear. But they doubt any former capitalists or landlords still own property, even half or quarter interests. It is more likely that Peking valued the confiscated houses at some deflated level and now pays interest on that sum.

One way of another, my friend has heard about the present status of the property of about 40 of his wealthy friends of pre-Mao days. Some owned banks, some department stores, factories and real estate.

He believes the bankers were wiped out, though some escaped with their liquid assets and are now doing quite well in Brazil and other lands. As for the others, the Communists took over each man's property and set up companies to operate these investments.

In each case my friend investigated, his former associates receive some income from the property. In some cases, the former owner has stayed on as a manager or technical advisor.

His brother is still in China. Before Mao's victory, he owned several factories. Today he receives some returns from these and is a director or manager of sorts.

These once-wealthy friends apparently have no way of investing their incomes. They cannot send funds out of the country. If they live abroad, the money cannot be changed into foreign currency and sent to them.

My informant's old friends and relatives use their money to buy scarce foods on the black market, at four, six or eight or 10 times the normal prices—usually fats, oil or meat. Or they buy clothing or other luxuries when they can find them. Some are able to drive cars.

The wealthy cannot live alone in large houses, for there is a strict limit on the amount of room each person can have. If his family is small and the house large, a part of the space must be rented to others, under government management.

My friend also understands that children are able to inherit capital holdings from their parents. (China watchers doubt this, but are not certain.)

His old friends are, from time to time, he hears, the subject of a great deal of personal abuse. During the Cultural Revolution some were badly beaten. One had his arms broken. But if these men and women stay on the mainland and manage to endure these personal torments, they seem to fare better than the average mainland Chinese financially.

What About Downtown Areas Across Nations?

By PAUL HARVEY
It's almost axiomatic now: If your town's downtown is not in decay it's headed that way.

But after that—

When Main Street is lined with poster-plastered windows on empty stores it's more than an eyesore, it's symptomatic of internal hemorrhaging.

The long-range prognosis, however, is good or bad depending on your point of view.

Early Americans would have reacted with horror to any prospect of multiple dwellings—apartment living.

A man's cabin was his castle. The very idea of sharing walls and halls and floors and doors was inconceivable.

Yet subsequent generations learned to live over and under and with one another; indeed many now prefer it.

Nowadays we are again repulsed by the visionaries' visions of things to come: cities shaped like honeycombed spheres and such.

"I don't want to live in a beehive!" you protest.

Yet I look out my skyscraper window in Chicago or down from an inbound airplane and see 150 additional recent high-rise residential buildings. I watch their towers obscure the sky with construction ever more cloistered until already midtown is a quasi-commune of cubicles and passageways with common heat, power, plumbing and patches of green—Astroturf.

So what's happening is that we are moving into the beehive but gradually enough to become acclimated.

Some fight it. President Nixon says the cities are "strangling themselves."

A presidential task force on rural development urges everybody to "move out into the country."

Yet more to blame than the population increase which gets most of the blame is the "herd instinct" which bunches us regardless.

Constantinos Doxiadis, the Greek city planner who has developed and directed urban projects in 53 countries on five continents, predicts that mankind will build more buildings during the next 30 years than he has built in the last 6,000 years!

And a University of Chicago psychologist, Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, says we are building faster than we are adapting. He says, "The vastness of the building makes for anonymity within it; the individual, for recognition, may revert to extremes of behavior, even to violence."

And laboratory animals, too, respond to confinement with violence—at first.

Seldom is any major transition painless if only because it involves too much uprooting. That is what is now happening downtown—the displacement which precedes replacement.

Our Department of Commerce is predicating its planning on the assumption that within 30 years it'll be all one city from Boston to Washington, from Chicago to Pittsburgh, from San Francisco to San Diego—for better or worse.

I think that people are a little bit like ivy. They ought to be repotted every once in awhile.—Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., on why he left a successful business career to enter politics.

H.L. Hunt Writes

THEY NEVER LEARN

So many examples of basic failures of Marxist policies abound that it looks like communists and socialists eventually would learn that their system cannot deliver the goods. The latest example is the abject failure of communism in Cuba: the world's greatest producer of cane sugar this year will have its worst harvest in six years.

Despite aid from Moscow of more than $1 billion a day, the Cuban economy is in shambles. Castro's subjects, who once enjoyed massive sugar surpluses, are having their personal sugar ration cut from six pounds a month to four pounds. Still there won't be enough export sugar to meet foreign exchange needs.

The people who once had the highest standard of living of any Latin American nation now live in grinding poverty, not a few poor people, but everybody—except the few in the communist elite who boss everything in Cuba. If the people of Formosa or South Korea or Greece or Spain or any other anti-communist nation had to have their previous chief crop rationed, they would hear a great deal about it from the national TV networks.

Castro has drafted civilian and military workers and forced them to work in the fields, along with some volunteer revolutionaries from U.S. communist groups, but continues to suffer disasters in every economic activity. Freedom enthusiasts can point to a long line of failures by nations which have abandoned personal enterprise and the profit-motive system.

Argentina once was the leading beef-eating country in the world. Peron adopted a socialist-like system to "build" the economy and Argentina never has recovered, periodically being forced to ration beef even today. Russia and China both have been forced to buy wheat to fight communist-caused famines, despite being the two largest land area nations in the world. Marxists and their friends never learn.

Grow Old Along With Me

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like your comment on the gallbladder. I am told from X rays that I have small stones and gravel. What about the common duct that doesn't empty out as it should? I am on a gallbladder diet. It seems I have a full feeling at the base of my right ribs most of the time, especially if I am a little nervous, and sometimes I hurt in my back. Can these ever be dissolved? Would you advise more than one doctor's opinion before any operation?

Dear Reader—Gallbladder disease is a very common problem. An old medical aphorism says that it is found in people who are "fair, fat, forty and four," referring to middle-aged women with four children. This isn't always true, since it also occurs in men and can occur at almost any age.

Gallstones are made of cholesterol manufactured by the bile and bile pigment that gives bile its color. There are several combinations of these that can make different kinds of gallstones.

Bile is found in the liver cells and collected in thousands of tiny tubules that actually begin within the cell. These connect to form larger tubes and finally the large bile tube (duct) that comes out of the liver. The bile duct gives off a side duct which leads to the small, round gallbladder. The main bile duct from the liver with the side duct to the gallbladder forms a "Y" fork. Bile, manufactured by the liver, comes down one fork of the "Y" and goes up the other fork into the gallbladder. Both forks of the "Y" join together into a common duct, the stem of the "Y," which empties directly into the small intestine.

Bile can flow down one fork of the "Y" duct and through the common duct directly into the intestine, or the bile which has been stored in the gallbladder can be ejected by the contraction of the bladder and pass down its fork of the "Y" entering the common duct and into the intestine. Thus, the gallbladder is really a storage reservoir and that is all. A stone can lodge in the duct coming directly from the gallbladder and just block off the gallbladder itself or a stone can pass down to the common duct and actually block off the drainage from the liver and the gallbladder both. This can cause severe pain and even jaundice.

The bile enters the intestine and aids digestion, particularly of fatty foods. When there is inadequate bile flow into the intestine, it is more difficult to digest fatty foods, hence, people with gallbladder disease often have intolerance to fatty foods. This forms gas and pain and results in indigestion.

It is a good idea to have the opinions of two doctors before an operation. You should have a family physician and, if you have a problem that requires surgery, let him refer you to a surgeon. The two of them can decide whether surgery is justified in a given case.

Barry and Stennis in Showdown Over Survivors' Benefits Bill

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—A very unusual head-on clash is in the making in a most unlikely place—the mighty and lofty decorous Senate Armed Services Committee which has jurisdiction over the stupendous $78 billion military budget.

Two top members—Chairman John Stennis D-Miss., and Sen. Barry Goldwater, Ariz., a ranking Republican—are squaring off over the former's mysterious foot-dragging on legislation of pressing moment to nearly one million veterans and their families throughout the country.

This is the retirees survivors benefits bill which was passed by the House way back last October by an overwhelming vote of 372 to 0—and inexplicably has been gathering dust in the Senate committee ever since.

Goldwater has privately served notice on Stennis that unless there is long-overdue action on the strangely stalled measure he will ask the newly created Senate Veterans Committee to launch hearings for the express purpose of ensuring Senate concurrence this year.

With characteristic blunt forthrightness Goldwater makes no bones of his concern that unless the legislation is brought to the Senate by June at the latest it will "die on the vine" in a pigeonhole in Stennis's committee.

Similarly the 1964 GOP Presidential standard-bearer is equally emphatic that if the bill does reach the Senate it will be approved just as speedily and decisively as it was in the House. Says Goldwater tersely "I can't find anyone against it—except surreptitiously certain key people in the Armed Services Committee who quietly appear bent on scuttling it."

Chairman Vance Hartke D-Ind., of the Veterans Committee has told Goldwater that it is willing and ready to hold hearings on the mired survivors benefits measure.

A move by Goldwater to "discharge" the Armed Services Committee and turn the bill over to the Veterans Committee almost certainly would precipitate a heated furor.

That sort of stark forcefulness just isn't done in the Senate. It is not unprecedented but it is highly out of the ordinary—especially in the case of a committee as powerful and prestigious as Armed Services. Taking important legislation away from it (regardless of how justified that might be) almost teeters on the edge of being sacrilegious.

The Committee probably would have a severe attack of parliamentary convulsions.

Putting Them on Spot
That possibility is of no moment to Sen. Goldwater.

The tall slim Arizona is neither perturbed nor deterred by the likelihood of a stalling on an admittedly urgent veterans bill which took the House Armed Services Committee more than a year to formulate.

In fact, Goldwater rather welcomes the idea of showdown over the matter.

Thoroughly indignant at the covert dawdling, he feels there is much to gain and nothing to lose by bringing that out into the open—particularly in this election year with some 35 Senators scrambling to hold on to their prized seats and numerous juicy prerequisites and other plums.

By insistently demanding action by one committee or another, Goldwater is firmly (and correctly) convinced that he will get it—and very probably from Sen. Stennis's committee.

The plain fact is that the stately Mississippi has gotten away with doing nothing on the measure because there was no outcry about that and no one was doing anything about it. Once the backstage pussyfooting is pinpointed and assailed it's a sure bet Stennis will bestir himself—at long last.

One significant reason is that the principal hatchet wielder on this legislation is not a committee member but an employe of the panel—T. Edward Braswell, Jr., $36,000-a-year chief counsel and staff director.

It is an open secret among committeemen and staff workers that Braswell is gruffly against the bill and would like to axe it.

Exactly why he is hostile is not clear. He claims the long delay has been due to the need to obtain additional statistical and other information from the Pentagon and other sources. Why such data is required is suspiciously murky.

The House Armed Services Committee spent around 15 months holding exhaustive hearings and deliberations in compiling the legislation. It has published voluminous reports that are fully available to the Senate committee. As far as can be ascertained, there is no evidence Braswell and his large staff of assistants have paid much, if any, attention to the House's detailed studies.

As chief counsel and staff director (and as such Chairman Stennis's righthand lieutenant) Braswell is in a potentially strategic position to largely determine the fate of pending legislation.

Sen. Goldwater is candidly convinced Braswell has been harpooning the survivors benefits bill—because of pique or some other unknown reason.

Says Goldwater indignantly "This committee and its staff have not conducted hearings on pay legislation for military retirees for more than 15 years. I am not going to stand for that kind of obstructionism any longer, if I can possibly help. If this committee and its high-handed staff won't act I'll go to the Veterans Committee. In one way or another, I am determined to blow this issue out into the open and force action."

The Mason-Dixon Line became famous during the Civil War as the boundary separating the Confederate States from the Union. TIME FOR A BATH--One of the rooms set up for exhibit at the White Deer Lands Museum is an early-day kitchen. Depicting one of the hardships of youth, two dummies portray a mother trying to get her crying son to step into a tub of hot water for a bath. (Staff Photo by John Ebling)

BY THE FIRESIDE--Many, if not most, of the early houses in this area had a fireplace in the absence of central heating. A fireplace has been set up in one of the rooms at the White Deer Lands Museum, with a baby's cradle, spinning loom and a child's rocking chair nearby. (Staff Photo by John Ebling)

ANYONE FOR A DANCE?--As it is nowadays, the phonograph usually occupied a special spot in the parlor or living room of the early houses. Looking at the White Deer Lands Museum exhibit are, from left, Dianna McCain, Mrs. Jerry Bond and Jean Sims. Miss McCain is a Neighborhood Youth Corps volunteer worker, while Mrs. Bond and Miss Sims are Junior Service League volunteers. (Staff Photo by John Ebling)

A list of all the items and where they were obtained is kept in the museum. Mrs. Thompson said. In addition, the building is equipped with a good burglar alarm and fire prevention system to protect the exhibits.

Persons wishing to donate or loan items to the museum may call the museum at 665-5521.

Currently all the exhibits on display are on the first floor of the building, in the carriage house or in the backyard.

Most of the rooms have been organized to look like a room in a typical house of the early 20th Century in this section of the country.

The rooms depict a parlor, a bedroom, a kitchen and a chapel.

The parlor at one time was the U.S. Post Office for Pampa. The Catholic Church also met there for a year before they had their own building.

The chapel contains items from the early churches of Pampa, including the pulpit and communion table from the Christian Church, a chandelier and pews from the Baptist Church, a painting from the Methodist Church, flags and a litany desk from the Episcopal Church and several articles from the Catholic Church.

Other items in the museum include an old wood-burning stove, a barber chair, clothes, pioneer furniture, a gramophone, military uniforms and insignia, pictures (including those of the directors of the company) and other artifacts.

The carriage house and backyard contain a chuck wagon, a duck board, a Studebaker buggy (considered one of the finest), an anvil, plows, farm tools, implements and other equipment.

Various replicas of old buildings and structures are located in the museum, including one of the first oil well on the White Deer lands, the Old Gulf No. 2, originally located in Carson County; and the old courthouse and jail of Lefors.

As the need prevails, Mrs. Thompson expects the museum to expand into the upper floors. Plans are also being made to draw more tourists to the building. The museum is mentioned on one of the Chamber of Commerce billboards, which has attracted some visitors. Some signs will be placed on all the approaches to the city.

A brochure of the museum, which is listed in the National Directory of Museums, has also been printed. Copies are being distributed to tourist bureaus throughout the state and to cities along highway 60.

During the winter months, the museum is open from 2-5 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday. It is open from 2-5 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Arrangements for special tours during the week may be made by calling the museum.

Over 5,000 people have toured the White Deer Lands Museum, 116 S. Cuyler, since it was opened to the public in June, 1970, Mrs. Fred Thompson, curator, said.

People have come from as far away as England and France to see the collection of pioneer and early 20th Century clothing, furniture and other artifacts.

Approximately 20,000 articles are collected in the museum. This includes archives, papers, documents and records from the original White Deer Lands Co. and other organizations and firms.

These papers and records account for about half of the exhibits, Mrs. Thompson said.

Another 8,000 items are found in the Rolla J. Sailor Arrowhead and Indian artifact collection. Considered to be one of the finest such collections in the Southwest, this exhibit attracts many visitors by itself, Mrs. Thompson noted.

The late M.K. Brown, one of the original owners of the White Deer Lands Co., began plans in the spring of 1964 to turn the building into a museum. When he died in the fall of the same year, the M.K. Brown Foundation continued the work.

Mrs. Thompson has aided in the formation of the museum since 1964. She is helped by another part-time worker, Mrs. Mona Blanton. The rest of the help comes from volunteer workers and members of the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

The Pampa Genealogical and Historical Society has an office in the building and often helps with the tours.

Most of the exhibits come from this area, most of them donated by people who have lived in this area a long time. Other exhibits have been loaned to the museum.

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford Motor Co., was paid $689,000 in salaries and bonuses last year, an amount $189,000 higher than his 1970 earnings.

The company said in a proxy statement mailed to shareholders Friday that its earnings of $657 million were the second highest in its history and that officers' salaries and bonuses went up an average of 27 per cent.

Ford, the highest paid officer, received $264,000 in salaries and $425,000 in bonuses.

Texas Will Get Only Enough Fund To Buy 500-Acre Recreational Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bob Eckhardt says if the budget bureau prevails, Texas will get only enough money to buy one 500-acre tract in targeted recreational sites within national forests.

If the full U.S. Forest Service budget is approved by Congress, however, Eckhardt said, Texas would receive about $2.5 million "which would go a long way toward providing additional recreational sites for six national forest areas in the state."

Eckhardt, a Houston Democrat and a conservationist, testified Wednesday before the House appropriations interior subcommittee.

The major areas are in the Sabine, Angelina, David Crockett and Sam Houston national forests, Eckhardt said.

He recommended that the subcommittee approve the full $31.9-million request by the Forest Service for acquisition of recreation sites in national forests across the country.

"The Office of Management and Budget is proposing a spending level of only $10.9 million for the entire nation," Eckhardt said.

Only $3.3 million would go to the region that includes Texas, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and part of Oklahoma.

"If this reduction is permitted to stand, Texas will get at the most, only enough funds to purchase one 500-acre tract in the Sabine National Forest, costing $475,000," Eckhardt said.

He noted that the Forest Service has proposed purchasing 215 acres in the Sam Houston National Forest near Conroe, an hour's drive from Houston which has a metropolitan population of two million.

How to Read a Person Like a Book

2. Facial Expressions

The individual significance of a gesture is sometimes subject to as many interpretations as the number of persons evaluating it. But we must remember that each gesture is only one input and that the total congruent communication picture is what we are seeking. Easily the least controversial of all the areas of nonverbal communication is facial expression. For example, smiles.

The simple smile, with no teeth exposed, is commonly seen when a person is not participating in any outgoing activity. He is smiling to himself. In the upper smile the upper incisors are exposed and there is usually eye-to-eye contact. It is often used as a greeting smile when friends meet, or sometimes, when children greet their parents. A broad smile is commonly seen during play and is often associated with laughter; both upper and lower incisors are exposed, the eye-to-eye contact seldom occurs. Smiles should not always be associated with happy moments. "Beware of the oblong smile." This is used when people have to be polite. The lips are drawn fully back from the upper and lower teeth, forming the oblong with the lips. Somehow there is no depth to this smile.

BETTY CANARY

'Reasoning' Teens Understand

By BETTY CANARY

Some of us still believe it is possible to reason with children. I don't believe that, of course, although I have had my moments. Moments, now that I look back on them, that seemed like hours.

Not that I am trying to convert those who believe reasoning with children is possible.

Once I stopped trying to reason with my children I had time to get a manicure, clean three closets and write a book.

I knew one woman whose gray hair turned black overnight when she stopped reasoning with her children. And there was a man who, after his ulcer healed, took dancing lessons and last week booked passage on a Caribbean cruise ship.

I would say one of the first mistakes most of us make as parents is to confuse "reasoning" with "giving reasons."

A toddler ready to rap baby in the head with a bottle

Muslin minis make inexpensive and great looking beach outfits. Shifts serve as the bathing suit cover-ups. To add a particular color to the unbleached muslin all you have to do is border the shift with a colorful print trim.

isn't ready for reasoning. He just needs stopping.

There is no reasoning with children who swing by their ankles on the basement water pipes. No reasoning when they strip down the power mower for parts to make rockets. No reasoning when they want to play hairdresser and begin cutting a neighbor's waist-length hair.

As everyone knows, growing older doesn't make much difference. Attempting to reason with teen-agers can be like climbing Mount Everest with their hands tied behind your back.

Some of us who have tried for a lifestyle of giving gentle admonishments mixed with understanding are amazed when we discover what a curt and simple answer can do.

A sharp "Stop that!" can work wonders.

A quick, "I said, NO!" is a relief to a child, who has heretofore been burdened with long explanations.

"Just tell them your hateful old mother won't let you, is often welcomed by a teen-ager who wants off the hook.

Dear Abby

He'd like to 'muzzle' grandma gracefully

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife's mother became widowed last year and came to make her home with us as my wife is her only child. At first we treated Grandma like a guest, but she soon started to take over, criticizing my wife's handling of our children and her extravagance in managing the house. Then she started in on the children. She found fault with their friends, their clothes, their habits and the noise they made.

The old lady even told me that I should give up golf as it was a "silly" game, and took too much of my time away from my family. She also told me that I subscribed to more magazines than any one person could possibly read.

The kids and my wife have been very patient and respectfully silent thus far, but I know they resent Grandma. How can I put this old busybody in her place without a major flare-up? Or should I keep quiet and wait until my wife also has a bellyful and handles it her way?

BELLYFUL IN S. F.

DEAR BELLYFUL: Let your wife handle it her way. You probably won't have to wait long.

DEAR ABBY: Why do basically honest people cheat at bridge?

We are members of a bridge club, and one of the women in our foursome always keeps score, and almost all the time she wins the high score prize. As soon as the game is over, this woman makes a pretense of clearing off the table and she immediately destroys the score sheets.

This annoys all of us who have noticed it, and if she did not have otherwise lovable qualities we would drop her from the foursome.

Can you please give us some ideas on how we can straighten her out without offending her or causing her embarrassment?

SUCH GOOD FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: Basically honest people do not cheat at anything. Either keep this lady with the "otherwise lovable qualities" honest by relieving her of the score keeping job or drop her.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote in asking what to do with unsolicited stuff that comes in the mail. Some organizations send out personalized key chains, packets of Christmas cards, name stickers and a lot of other items, hoping the recipients will send them a dollar or two.

I wish I could afford to help all these missions, churches, veterans, handicapped people, etc., but I am on social security and I can't. Also, why should I have to pay postage to return stuff I never sent for in the first place?

Well, here's the answer: My mailman told me that if I ever get anything in the mail I did not order and do not want, I shouldn't even open it. [But if I do open it, I can tape it closed again.] Just write on the package, "Refused. Return To Sender."

The sender will have to pay the postage for its return so you won't have to worry about hearing from them again because after a while, they'll get the message.

NO MORE JUNK

DEAR ABBY: Mark Evans, Ph. D., who says he is a grown man who enjoys living at home with his mother and father, and is probably considered an oddball by society because he respects his parents and shares their values, did not disclose the subject of his degree.

If it's psychology, I will kill myself!

Your Horoscope

By Jean Dixon

SATURDAY, APRIL 15
Your birthday today: Sees you trying to move to a more comfortable economic situation, a better balance between income, spending, and investment. Spiritual growth must go along with material progress. New social relations, reconciliations and relocations are the order of the year. Today's natives include many leaders and organizers of missionary and evangelic movements.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Get an early start, push projects as if an emergency existed, then relax and turn to a completely different environment for later hours.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Good advice is at hand although you may not be ready to listen. Later hours bring a change of attitude in all concerned.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Study, looking for missing objects, shopping for special needs should fill your morning. There isn't any drive for change in later hours.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Act, don't talk about it. Don't wait for comments that serve no purpose. Evening reflections include surprises.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Forget about glamour and flamboyancy. Do what is necessary while the going is reasonably good. Evening skepticism is helpful.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: If things fail to settle into place early, postpone whatever will keep. Light diversion turns out more significant than serious effort.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Today may lack novelty but promises peaceful progress. Getting busy early makes quiet celebration possible later.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Taking it slowly doesn't necessarily mean easy—the painstaking care of a job well done on your own brings rewards beyond expectations.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: It is time to spell out what you need to associates and relatives, and what you intend to do in return. Expect no immediate reaction.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Work and play should come one after the other for a long and productive day. You have such a variety of chores that interest is easily sustained.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Group and community interests coincide with family welfare. Take stock, gather cooperative pledges, present your projects.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: The week's work drags on a bit longer than convenient, but must be closed out properly. Patience and perseverance are in order.

History Film Is Slated

AMARILLO—A mind-expanding view of the cultural contribution and strivings of mankind, "Civilization," a 13-part film series will be shown at Amarillo Art Center, beginning at 2:30 p.m. Sunday and at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Each of the 52-minute films in the series will be shown twice weekly—at 2:30 p.m. Sundays and at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays—at the Art Center, 2nd and Van Buren on the Amarillo College campus.

"This series, a major cultural benefit not only to the Panhandle but indeed to all mankind, will be shown twice a week so that those interested in works of genius—man and his culture as philosophy, literature and the fine arts—can see each film two times if they wish," said Thomas P. Matthews, director of the Amarillo Art Center.

Matthews added, "This production was acclaimed at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., and at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, as well as at the Wichita Falls Museum of Arts, nearer home."

"Already considered a classic, the film series was written and narrated by Sir Kenneth Clark, former chairman of the Arts Council of Great Britain, and produced by the British Broadcasting Corporation," Matthews said.

Describing the series as "a joy and a pleasure," Matthews said, "Judging from the response in other cultural centers in the United States, it might well be said that never has it been easier to rip off the veils of misconception and ignorance about man's cultural heritage."

"It is truly enlightening to see the history of man—struggling heroically for thousands of years toward ever higher levels of understanding," he added.

"Consistent with the attitude of the Amarillo Art Center is the fact that there will be no admission charge for this series," Matthews said. "We are glad to have people aware of their heritage."

The films will be shown on a 16-foot screen in Gallery 200 of the Art Center.

Part One of the series is called "The Skin of Our Teeth." It presents a synoptic view of the thousand years between the fall of Rome and the rise of Gothic culture.

"Presentation of the series has been arranged through the generosity and kindness of an out-of-town donor," Matthews said.

Sometimes 10s and nines turn out to be a liability. South does well to arrive at five diamonds. He has to lose two spades and eventually must decide which way to finesse for the queen of hearts.

Make the 10 and nine of hearts little ones and South will have to play West for the queen and will make his contract.

When we saw this hand played we watched a rather good player go down two tricks as the result of some deception by West. This deception was made possible because South had no idea that West knew anything about card play. Otherwise the deception might have told South exactly where the queen of hearts was.

West opened the king of spades and continued with the jack to his partner's ace. East led a third spade and West dropped the fourth spot.

South ran off the rest of his trumps and all the clubs with no apparent thought. West discarded with equally apparent lack of interest in the proceedings. West's first discard was the 10 of spades; his second, the four of hearts. East's first discard was the club three; his second, the three of hearts.

South knew that West was hanging on to the queen of spades. Could this be guile or was it just careless discarding by a man with no interest in the heart suit?

South decided it was the latter. He led a heart to dummy's king and finessed against East on the next play. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

CARD Sense

The bidding has been:
West North East South

You, South, hold:
♠ A K Q J 10 6 5 ♥ A 3 2 ♦ K 5 ♣ 2

What do you bid?
A—Just bid one spade. You aren't quite strong enough for a forcing two bid and are far too strong to preempt.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Your partner responds two clubs. What do you do now?

RAISES A BUDGET
WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Although many church denominations have had to pare their budgets because of the economic squeeze, the Seventh-day Adventists have approved the highest budget in their history for 1972 — a total of $54.5 million, up nearly $5 million from 1971.

PAVING THE WAY
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A controversial expressway here, stalled in the courts for years, found its way into a church sermon.

Pastor Roy Osborne told the congregation of Sunset Ridge Church of Christ about an automobile he had noticed.

"On one end of its back bumper, it carried a sticker announcing, 'Jesus is coming soon,'" Osborne related.

"On the other end — and I'm sure there must have been some significance — was the sticker, 'complete the North Expressway now.'"

CONFERENCE ON CASSETTE—The Rev. Jack McGee, right, cues Judy Jordan and newscaster Walter Evans for their unusual cassette tape coverage of the United Methodist General Conference at Atlanta, Ga. Four tapes holding 120 minutes of the conclave will be mailed to subscribers of United Methodist Communications, Dallas.

Local Church Leader Attends Historic Meet

The Rev. Ted J. Dotts, superintendent, Pampa district, United Methodist Church, is one of 71 delegates from Texas attending the General Conference of the United Methodist Church April 16-29 at Atlanta, Ga.

Conducted every four years, this is the first regular legislative session of the ecclesiastical body since Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren Churches were joined in 1968.

One thousand delegates from 80 countries will participate in the quadrennial meeting of United Methodist's supreme law making body here in Atlanta's Civic Center.

Half of the delegates are ministers, and half are from the laity, with 129 of the latter being women—a higher percentage than ever before in the church's history. Eighty-nine blacks comprise about 10 per cent of the American delegates—58 per cent more than in 1968. Well over half of the 86 overseas delegates are also non-white.

The Episcopal address will be delivered Monday morning,

April 17, by Bishop F. Gerald Ensey of Columbus, Ohio. This "state of the church" message will be prepared and given by Bishop Ensey but will bear the signatures and have the support of the nearly 100 active and retired United Methodist bishops throughout the world.

Opening business is scheduled for Monday morning, April 17. Following the Episcopal address and organization of the conference, first agenda items will be reports of the Structure Study Commission, headed by the Rev. Dow Kirkpatrick of Evanston, Ill., and the Theological Study Commission on Doctrine and Doctrinal Standards, chaired by Prof. Albert C. Outler of Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas.

His commission as a delegate to this historic conference is considered a signal honor for Rev. Dotts. Both the delegate responsibilities and those of superintendent usually go to older men. He is the youngest superintendent the Pampa district has ever had.

TO SPEAK—Rev. and Mrs. Dan Kusner, missionaries to Japan, will be at Pampa Baptist Temple, 500 E. Kingsmill, on Sunday, April 16, 7:00 p.m. The church invites you to attend this service in which Rev. Kusner will be presenting their field of service.

Miller Will Speak In Series

Waymon Miller, Tulsa, international traveler, author and missionary, will be the featured speaker for a Gospel Meeting at the Mary Ellen Church of Christ Sunday through Friday.

Miller has written 10 books, travelled in 26 foreign countries and conducted two tours of the Holy Land. He also served five years as a missionary to the Republic of South Africa.

In addition to this series of services, Sunday is an important day for the congregation in that remodeling of the auditorium has been completed. Members urge all to join them for the first worship in the beautiful surroundings and for this series.

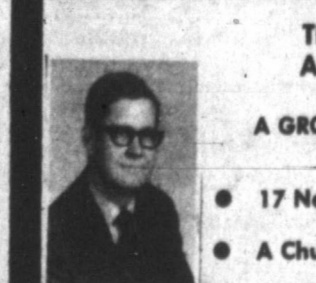

Sunday worship services will be at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Weedyay services will be at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

The Weekly Message of Inspiration

By REV. L.C. LYNCH
Pastor, First Freewill Baptist Church

Jeremiah 6:16: "Thus saith the Lord, stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls: But they said, we will not walk therein."

Here we find the Lord warning Judah of her sins and the judgments of wrath to come upon them if they did not stand in the ways of God. Verse 10: We find the word of the Lord is unto them a reproach: "They have no delight in it."

As it was in Jeremiah's day, we find the same coldness to God's message of warning now. In today's rapidly changing world, I am fully aware of the falling away from the true teaching of the Bible of how men should live and obey God, and also obey the laws of the land.

I Timothy 1:4: "Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith: giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils."

Fame and fortune have caused our nation and the world to drop to the lowest moral standard we have ever known since this nation was founded. New movements are arising that say the old way is outdated and is not sufficient for the present, modern way. Hebrews 13:8 reads, "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today, and forever." Men are trying to make the Bible to coincide with their way of living. Let me say now, if we go to Heaven, we will have to make our lives conform to God's Word and abide by the same.

Our sins of strife, envy, hatred, and neglect to listen to God's warning have come upon us as a nation. When our nation gets in trouble, we expect our lawmakers and political forces to correct the causes and get the wheels of progress rolling again. My friend, it will take a power far greater than man to halt the downfall of our nation.

I Corinthians 1:20 reads, "Hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world?" It will take a great return to God to stop the murders, rapes, robberies, kidnappings, and dope traffic that are flooding our nation, poisoning the minds and lives of our youth, and causing a lukewarm condition in a lot of churches. All of this should be a warning that we, as Christians, need to exercise the freedom to worship God to the best of our ability by going to church on the sabbath day, expecting to receive the spiritual guidance and fellowship that is essential if we are to enjoy a prosperous, enduring Christian life.

Galatians 6:7: "Be not deceived: God is not mocked: For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

HOLDING ON to the baton will be uppermost in the minds of Pampa's sprint relay team this Saturday at the district 3-4A track meet in Amarillo. Members of the team are from left; Chuck Reeves, Garvin McCarrell, Richard McCampbell and Rick McGuire.

Pampa Track Travels To Amarillo Saturday

By CLAY LIVELY
Pampa High School's track team goes to Amarillo tomorrow morning to compete in the district 3-4A track meet.
The meet will be held at Dick Divins Stadium. Preliminaries are scheduled to begin at 9:00 and the finals will be held at 11:00.
The Harvesters will be pitted against teams from Borger, Amarillo High, Palo Duro, Tascosa and Caprock.
The structure of Pampa's mile relay team poses a problem not common to most high school coaches. Coach Ed Lehnick has to decide between six boys who are all very capable quarter-milers.
Pampa's best time of the year and not incidentally, the school's all time best clocking was run at El Paso by a team composed of Mike Reddell, Terry Riddle, Larry Marlar and Bobby Owen. That group ran the mile in 3:23.0. That would seem to solve any question for most of us.
Lehnick, however, can't view that way. The rub occurs when last week's Amarillo Relays are taken into consideration. At that meet Pampa's mile relay won with the time of 3:23.2. That team was made up of Reddell and Riddle, along with Dennis Stowers and Steve Mathis.
So the choice will be a difficult one and according to Lehnick, "I'll have to wait until Saturday to make the decision."
Pampa's time in the mile relay is the best run by any team in the district this year. Amarillo, at 3:23.7 should make for a good race.
The Harvesters' sprint relay has also run the best time recorded in district 3-4A this season 42.2. That team (Chuck Reeves, Garvin McCarrell, Rick McGuire and Richard McCampbell) broke Pampa's year old record of 42.8. Ample competition will be provided by Borger (42.8) and Amarillo High (42.9).
Each of Pampa's relays has been beaten only once this year—both at the same meet (Mustang Relays) by the same margin, two-tenths of a second.
Pampa will be represented in the 100-yard dash by Reeves, McCampbell and McCarrell. Reeves (9.56) has the fastest official clocking in the district. Melton Brooks and Craig Prewitt of Borger have been timed in 9.6.
McGuire, McCampbell and Reeves are entered in the 220. Wardell Gilbert of Amarillo High won the Amarillo Relays last week with a time of 21.4, second best in the state. McGuire and Weldon Edwards of Caprock have both run 21.8's

Little League Try-outs Scheduled Next Week

The Pampa Optimist Boy's Club has announced that Little League tryouts for all boys ages 9-12 have been scheduled for April 18, 19, 20 and 21.
To be eligible for Little League, a boy must be nine years old before August 1, 1972 or must not reach his 13th birthday before August 1, 1972.
All boys who participated on a Little League team last season do not have to try-out, but all boys who played farm league ball last year must try-out.
Boys living east of Russell St. up to 23rd and Perryton Parkway north will be in the National League; all boys west of this section will be in the American League. If anyone has any question about which league you should play in, please contact Gene Bynum, president of the National League or T.V. Lowrance, president of the American League, at the tryouts.
All tryouts will be held at 5:30 at the Optimist Club Parks. All boys in the National League section, report to the south park and all boys in the American League section report to the north park.
Tryouts will be split up in age groups this year. All boys who are nine or eleven report April 18 and 20th and boys 10 and 12

Baseball Strike Ends Games Begin Saturday

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
A shortened baseball season will finally get under way 11 days late Saturday, but before the first pitch is thrown the sport has two losers and a count of one strike.
The first general walkout in the history of the so-called national pastime ended Thursday on two fronts—in Chicago, where major league club owners voted to pick up the season beginning Saturday and cancel all games called off by the strike, and in New York, where the player representatives agreed.
The pennant races thus will be decided on a percentage basis, since not all teams will play the same number of games. Technically, the races always are decided on percentage, but games affecting the final standings usually are made up.
In the American League East, Baltimore has 154 games remaining, Boston and New York 155 and Cleveland, Detroit and Milwaukee 156. In the AL West, Chicago, Kansas City, Minnesota and Texas will play 154 games, California and Oakland 155.
Chicago and Pittsburgh in the National League East show 155 games left while Montreal, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis have 156. In the NL West, Houston and San Diego have 153, Atlanta and Cincinnati 154 and Los Angeles and San Francisco 155.
All 24 teams will lose at least one home game.
The players went on strike April 1 in a dispute with the owners over the amount of money owners would contribute to the players' pension plan.

Scores Soaring At Palm Springs

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — After fighting a two-day losing battle with desert gales, a field of 39 women professional golfers was hoping for calmer weather today when it teed off in the $110,000 Winner's Circle tournament, the richest event in women's golf history.
Only four players broke par 72 during Wednesday's pro-am play in 30-mile-an-hour winds, and gusts up to 40 m.p.h. Thursday sent the entire field over par. Jane Blalock, Jan Ferraris and Kathy Farrer tied for the best round at 74.
The 54-hole tournament offers a first prize of $20,000, also the highest in the history of the Ladies Professional Golf Association. The field is limited to LPGA tournament winners in the past 10 years and second and third-place finisher since the start of 1970.

NORWAY SHIPS LEAD

HOUSTON (AP) — Norway again led all foreign nations in the number of vessels entering the Port of Houston in 1971 with a total of 460 ships, followed by Liberia with 404, West Germany with 253, the United Kingdom with 217 and Greece with 213.

Baseball, Other Sports Play Today

The Pampa Harvester baseball team hosts the Palo Duro Dons this afternoon in Optimist Park at 4:00. Both teams are 9-3 in district play.
Pampa has lost its last six games and is 7-8 on the year. Palo Duro has also lost its last six games and stands 4-13 for the season.
Jeff Hogan is slated to pitch for the Harvesters and Jim Rogers will go for the Dons.
In reporting last Tuesday's game against Borger, Jody Johnson was inadvertently given the loss. Hogan came on in the sixth inning and the loss is tagged to his record.
Pampa's golf team hosts the final round of district competition today at Pampa Country Club. The Harvesters should have a good chance of improving upon their seventh place standing since the round will be on their home course.
The Harvester tennis team goes to Borger today to participate in the meet there.

Marlar (49.5) Owen (49.9) and Mathis will run the 440-yard dash for Pampa. Willie Johnson of Borger has the second best time in the state for that race—47.9.
Redell has the best recorded 880 in the district with a time of 1:59.5. Steve Weatherly will run the mile for the Harvesters.
Randy Stephens will be entered in the 120-yard high hurdles for Pampa. Mike Swift, Tommy Montgomery and Stephens will compete in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles.
Billy Lemons and Mark Warren will toss the shot. Warren is also entered in the discus competition. Montgomery and Kim Lindsey are entered in the pole vault.
Tommy Downs, Robert Yeager and McGuire will contest in the broad jump.
In the high jump Freddie Wilbon (6'2") and John Davis will engage, among others, Elroy Williams (6'9") and Pat Cauley (6'6"). Williams, of Palo Duro is second in the state in this event.
B-team entries from Pampa are:
100-yard dash—Jerry Sims and Rick Scrimshire.
220-yard dash—Joe Curtis and Sims.
440-yard dash—Jack King and Kelly Newman.
880-yard run—Johnny Cook, Benny Schiffman, and Brent Brumpton.
120-yard high hurdles—Carson Watt, Charles Smith, and Teddy Riddle.
330-yard intermediate hurdles—David Nipp, Watt, and Riddle.
440 relay—Sims, Scrimshire, Curtis and Rick Smith.
Mile relay—Curtis, King, Cook and Newman.

will each lose 10-182nds of their salary.
The owners were losers, too. Some estimates place the loss at $5 million, including game receipts, parking concessions and one canceled national television game.
"Nobody won," said commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who called the owners' meeting in Chicago. "The players suffered, the owners suffered, baseball suffered. I hope we've all learned a lesson. I will work with people in baseball for procedures to prevent this sort of thing in the future. Nobody wants it again."
"I think it's fair to say nobody ever wins in a strike situation," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association. "This one is no exception. We're not going to claim victory even though our objectives were achieved."
Meanwhile, it remained to be seen how the players would be received by the fans.
"Regardless of how the fans felt before, I think they'll be glad to see the players run onto the field Saturday."

Everybody Involved Happy Strike Over

By Associated Press
"Everyone is glad that the baseball strike is over," said a spokesman for the Philadelphia Phillies.
And that literally means just about everyone—players, management and the man on the street.
People of the baseball world and the fans who love the sport reacted with high enthusiasm and relief after settlement Thursday of the arduous, 13-day strike.
"I'm relieved... I really feel good. I just want to play ball," said Chuck Dobson, the Oakland A's pitcher.
"I really feel good," said Joe Torre, the St. Louis Cardinal star.
"I can't explain how I feel in one word, but happy will do for now," said Rusty Staub, the New York Mets' right-fielder.
Happiness was spread liberally throughout the nation and brought smiles all around.

'Baltimore Buddy': Prey Eludes the Pool Shark

By JOHN SCHULIAN
(Written for NEA)
BALTIMORE — (NEA) — They usually move alone and at night, drifting through smoked-filled rooms, lusting after fast money and the ego gratification that comes with being recognized as "The Man."
They know each other by deed if not by face, but few people outside their highly select subculture know anything about them. That is the way they like it.
Baltimore Buddy Dennis realizes what happens to professional pool players when their faces become too familiar, for it has happened to him in his home town.
"I can't get anyone to play," he was saying. "The last time I gambled here, I lost $1,200 because I had to spot some guy two balls in games of nine-ball."
It is a tale Dan Janes, an erstwhile hustler who now manufactures pool cues instead of using them, has heard before. "You might be the best pool player in town, but you never get a chance to prove it," he said. "You sit around, you get rusty, and by the time you get to play, you aren't the best anymore."
There are those who would tell Baltimore Buddy to find another field of endeavor. The catch is that Baltimore Buddy wants to do nothing with his life but shoot pool and, on occasion, play cards.
"I've been a file clerk at Social Security and I've tried all different kinds of other regulation, productive-type jobs," the lean, deadpan, 28-year-old pool shark said. "Right now, all I'm working at is growing back my handlebar mustache."

This devout aversion to toil actually may have helped his game of pool. "The first job I ever had was racking balls in a pool room," he said. "I still rack them when I lose. That's what I play for—to keep from racking the balls."
There are also those who would tell Baltimore Buddy to forsake his three-quarter-length brown leather jacket and flared trousers for something less fashionable, say a bus driver's cap and jacket.
It would not be the first time such a con has been worked in Baltimore. One successful local hustler, known only as Kilroy, has had a wardrobe of service station attendant's uniforms for the last 20 years. Dan Janes and Champagne Ed Kelly used to finagle uniforms from the Good Humor Company to ease their way into pay-day pool games there. "It was like eating ice cream," said Janes.
Despite his acknowledged fondness for an easy buck, Baltimore Buddy refuses to classify himself as a hustler. "I don't work that way," he said. "Instead of looking to fool someone, I go into places looking for action, trying to find the best player with the most money."
At this time of year, the Richie Florences and Luther Lassiters and Bill (Weenie Beenie) Stattons of the game are shooting for pots of $25,000 and more in places like Los Angeles and Las Vegas.
Meanwhile, Buddy Dennis, lacking the price of a ticket out of town, is confined to a basement pool room on the north side of Baltimore where he is playing in a three-week-long tournament with a field of bartenders, traveling salesmen and college students.
The tournament looked rich opening night when two Cadillac Eldorados were parked in front of the pool room's entrance. But only 650 official dollars will be split among the top five finishers in each of its three divisions, and a man will have to win all three to pocket as much as $350.
The lure of the tournament is enhanced by the knowledge that the side bets on many individual games will total more than the entire cash pot. "That's the nicest part about these things," an old codger said through a cloud of cigar smoke. "Everybody's here. Usually they're out looking for each other."
Buddy Dennis will take whatever cash he wins and head west, to where he is an unknown quantity, as fast as he can put his cue in its carrying case. He hopes to return bearing renewed claim to the nickname of Baltimore Buddy.
"People only call me that when I have money," he said. "When I'm broke, it's just plain Buddy."

UP AND AWAY—but which way? It looks like this entry in the Southland Sweepstakes Regatta at St. Petersburg, Fla., is going head over keel.

the NBA, according to Coach Al Bianchi.
"We made up our minds that we had to do it together," said Bianchi.
Erving scored 26 points to lead the attack for the Squires, who moved to a 62-35 halftime lead. The Nets' low totals of 35 half points and 13 second-quarter points were ABA playoff records.
George Irvine scored 25. Adrian Smith 23 and Bernie Williams 20 for the Squires while John Roche hit 26 points. The Nets' Rick Barry was held to just 12 points.
The Knicks opened up a 20-point lead on the Celtics in the second quarter. Boston managed to pull within nine points in the third quarter but the game was all New York as Walt Frazier scored 36 points for a game-high total.
Boston's cold shooting in the first half gave New York a solid 53-36 lead at the half.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

8—Trevino's New Weapon

Lee Trevino is carrying a 6-wood this year, a club usually thought of as being for women or senior golfers. A 6-wood probably would cut strokes off your handicap.
Trevino, like most weekend golfers, has trouble hitting the ball high, especially with long irons. The 2-iron, 3-iron and 4-iron chronically plague the average player.
But fairway woods are easier to swing. Plus you probably hit more fairway woods than practically anything else, and you have no fear of them. A 6-wood can replace the long irons and bring about more high, accurate hits.
It can be very valuable on many par-3 holes. Out of the rough, it is less difficult to use than an iron.
For too long, clubs like the 6-wood have been thought of as sissy clubs. Trevino is giving the lie to that, and I can think of no better example for the weekenders.

Monsanto Open Lead Goes To Dave Hill

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — "If I can hang on to the club, and get real lucky, I might even make the cut."
"I thought I'd probably go out and shoot about 76, and that's about what I should have had."
"All I'm trying to do is keep from whiffing."
It was Dave Hill at his laconic best, describing his seven-under-par 64 that gave him the first round lead Thursday in the $150,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament.
"I was absolutely pathetic," said Hill, who was in the woods three times, found a trap or two, once missed a fairway by 100 yards, but saved it all with a magic putter. He used only 22 strokes on the greens and canned putts totaling 64 yards in length.
While Hill was shaking his head in amazement at his low score, weary Lee Trevino was merely shaking the dust of the long, long tour from his shoes.
Trevino, pleading exhaustion, withdrew after posting a first-round 74.
"I'm absolutely exhausted," said Trevino, who has missed only one tournament in 15 weeks this season. "I'm sure I can't play winning golf again until I get some rest."
He said he would return home to El Paso, Tex. and rest for the tournament of Champions next week.
Hill, meanwhile, had a single stroke lead over husky Bob Smith, who spiced his round of 65 with an eagle three on the 542-yard sixth hole. He reached it with a four wood second shot and ran in a 30-foot putt.
Kermit Zarler had a 66, while Chris Blocker and Jim Colbert matched 67s. All the leaders

Pixie People Teach About Life HEW Funds TV Shorts for Kids

By JOYCE GABRIEL

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Children in the U.S. watch between 30 and 50 hours of television a week, according to survey estimates.

With that much exposure, the tots to teens viewers hopefully could learn a lot of useful things from the nation's No. 1 babysitter, TV's critics, however, claim the medium falls far short of its teaching potential with most programming not educational in intent.

Public television has attacked this shortcoming with some success. Sesame Street and The Electric Company are classic examples of what can be done educationally using this most influential "member" of the family.

The latest entrant in the children's programming field is the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. HEW funded a series of 50 three-and-one-half minute segments dealing with three crucial areas of life: health, nutrition and growing up.

CAPTAIN KANGAROO (Bob Keeshan) welcomes some animated friends to the Captain Kangaroo Show. They appear in Health, Education and Welfare-funded 3 1/2-minute segments on health, nutrition and growing up and will be featured on his CBS-TV programs through the week of June 5.

The segments are being shown daily for 10 weeks on CBS-TV's Captain Kangaroo show. Since April 3, children have been able to tune in the highly popular Captain and get a message from HEW as well. The segments are bright, entertaining sequences done in both animation and film. Topics include: the difference between being alone and being lonely; using food as a toothbrush; learning how to deal with making mistakes. They are far from controversial.

What has caused some controversy and concern, however, is that the federal government for the first time has funded programming for use on a commercial network. And the timing for the segments' premiere proved unfortunate since congressional hearings on the effects of TV violence on children had just concluded in Washington. It seemed to some to be a politically motivated move to gain favor on the part of CBS.

However, the facts, as Keeshan (Captain Kangaroo himself) relates them, don't bear out this charge.

"Last year," Keeshan explained, "HEW went to Sutherland Learning Associates (a California organization that's produced educational/entertaining programs for 25 years) with a proposal for a series of segments on health, nutrition and growing up. The segments were to be shown in institutions across the country. Sutherland then came to me (Keeshan has his own production company for Captain Kangaroo) and asked me whether I'd like to incorporate the segments into our show. I would do a few minutes' introduction to the topics and make some concluding remarks.

"I thought the idea was great and I went to CBS President Bob Wood with the suggestion. He agreed. And here we are. It's not as if the government gave CBS money for programming. These shows would have been made anyway. We're just featuring them on our show."

Is Keeshan worried that the government may try to propagandize in these segments?

"Not at all," he said. "I have full editorial control over the content. If anyone is propagandizing, it is me."

And Dr. Edward Zigler, director of the HEW Office of Child Development, explains the coalition between the government and CBS this way:

"Our greatest hope for this series is to get across to families information on the growth and development of children. We are using the medium of television because it reaches so many

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The watchdogs at the George Hawkins Marine Sporting Center are geese, Albert and Abigail.

"We haven't had a break since I bought them," says Hawkins. He picked the birds up for $25 four years ago and feeds them about $2 worth of goose food a month.

Hawkins says they've frightened off several would-be thieves.

"They can't bite, but they can give a good pinch with their bills," he said.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — For Paul Hayes, a dentist and reluctant taxpayer, it's the skull and crossbones until April 15.

"The government uses force to take our money like a bunch of pirates," says Hayes. "That's why I chose the skull and crossbones."

The Jolly Roger, outlined in white on a 16-square-foot black cloth, flies from the top of a 60-foot flagpole at his home here.

millions. And, since we felt we needed a personality to convey the message, we chose Bob Keeshan because of his popularity with children.

Keeshan sees the segments as an extension of programming he has been doing for children for nearly 17 years. Adults will learn from them, too.

For example, one segment "Brushing Your Teeth with Food," has an animated character explain to children that certain foods—such as raw carrots, raw celery, corn on the cob—are natural "toothbrushes" that remove food particles from between teeth. Another segment deals with loneliness and being alone.

The theme song for the series sums up its basic philosophy: "You Are the Most Important Person in the World—to You."

As Bob Keeshan puts it: "Shows like Sesame Street and The Electric Company teach certain skills, such as reading, spelling, counting. What I have always done, and what these segments are designed to do, is to convey attitudes to children, to motivate them to learn and to be interested in the world around them."

When Keeshan began his Captain Kangaroo program in 1955, he had what was then a unique approach to children's programming. As Clarabelle on the old Howdy Doody Show, he had squirted a seltzer bottle at people and thrown pies in their faces to entertain children. As the Captain, he opted for a gentle approach, a combination of entertainment and education based on two main principles: (1) that a child is an intelligent human being who deserves respect; and (2) that a child, potentially, has good taste and it is up to children's programmers to encourage that good taste.

In recent years, with the advent of Children's Television Workshop programs more and more emphasis has been placed on improving the quality of children's programming. And Keeshan's soft-sell, gentle approach is the one now favored by educators, psychologists, concerned parents' groups, and, apparently HEW. The segments will be separated for the Fall '72 season.

Deadliest Gang Warfare Sweeps Across New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — As the deadliest gangland warfare in a decade swept across New York City these past two weeks, Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy observed of the combatants:

"They play for high stakes. They live dangerously. They sometimes die by the gun they live by."

During the two weeks, seven have died in underworld-style, slain by the gun. Murphy Thursday had hundreds of police engaged in an effort to end the shooting. From the commissioner, his men had this mandate:

"We cannot permit the streets of this city to become a battleground for gang warfare."

Three of the biggest names in organized crime figured in the current underworld drama.

There was Joseph Colombo, 48, youngest of all the Cosa Nostra chieftains, now comatose with brain damage from a bullet in the head last June.

There was Joey "Crazy Joe"

Gallo, 43, a flashy mobster assassinated last Friday, a decade after he had lost a war for control of the crime family later taken over by Colombo.

And there was Carlo "Don Carlo" Gambino, whom authorities call the underworld's boss of bosses—a courtly figure who resembles the "Godfather" of the novel and movie. Police questioned him when the rumblings of war began in his empire.

A suave, gray-haired 69, Gambino came here from his native Palermo, Sicily, in 1921, a stowaway who made it ashore at Norfolk, Va. He is currently under deportation order.

His 1,600-member Cosa Nostra family is said by federal authorities to be deeply involved in loan sharking, waterfront crime, gambling and construction and labor rackets.

A Senate committee in 1963 heard testimony that Gambino and the late Vito "Genovese" turned to bring about the 1967 rout of Mafia chieftain Albert Anastasia, shot to death in a barber's chair in a midtown hotel.

The late Joe Valachi, the mobster-turned informant, claimed that the contract to kill Anastasia was let by Gambino to the Gallo brothers—Joey, Albert and Larry.

Anastasia's crime family was taken over by Gambino. And when Genovese died in prison in 1969, authorities said Gambino succeeded him as high commissioner of organized crime.

Colombo directed a gang of about 200, described as active in construction, linen supply and liquor rackets, bookmaking and shylocking. The Justice Department listed him with Gambino as one of the Cosa Nostra's eight national commissioners.

Colombo was shot June 28, 1971, while leading an Italian-American rally in Columbus Circle. His assailant, a black posing as a professional photographer, was gunned down on the spot, presumably by Colombo henchmen.

Colombo's family attributed his shooting to the act of a psychopath, unrelated to underworld animosities. But rumors persisted that the assault had been arranged, and often speculation centered upon Crazy Joe Gallo.

Colombo was believed to have incurred the displeasure of Gambino and other gangland leaders by a flamboyant life style, which included the picketing of FBI headquarters in behalf of his Italian-American Civil Rights League.

If Gambino was the stereotype of the Godfather, Crazy Joe Gallo was straight out of an old Jimmy Cagney gangster movie.

Always on stage, Joey, a wiry 5-foot-6, was summoned to Washington in 1968 by a Senate committee investigating jukebox racketeering. Legend has it, he paid a visit to the office of the late Robert F. Kennedy, then the committee's chief counsel, and observed out of the side of his mouth:

"Nice carpet ya got here, kid.

Be good for a crap game."

Joey and his two brothers gained reputations as button-men, or hired guns, with the old Joseph Profaci family. But they grew dissatisfied over their role in the gang's operations—some said they felt they had received insufficient recognition for their barber shop call on Anastasia.

At any rate, the Gallos gathered supporters about them and launched a war for control of the Profaci mob. Before it ran its course, it claimed 12 lives. Profaci died of cancer in 1962. Colombo took over and patched together a truce with the Gallos.

Joey went to prison in 1963 for extortion. Cancer claimed Larry. Little was heard in the intervening years from the youngest brother, Albert "Kid Blast" Gallo, now the last of the three.

Joey Gallo got out of prison three months before Colombo was shot. Detectives said he had been under partial surveillance since the gunplay and word got around that Crazy Joe was a marked man.

At 5:30 p.m. last Friday, Gallo, his bride of three weeks, Sina, her 10-year-old daughter, Lisa, and relatives and friends were celebrating the mobster's 43rd birthday at Umberto's Clam House in Manhattan's Little Italy, a block from the city's main police headquarters.

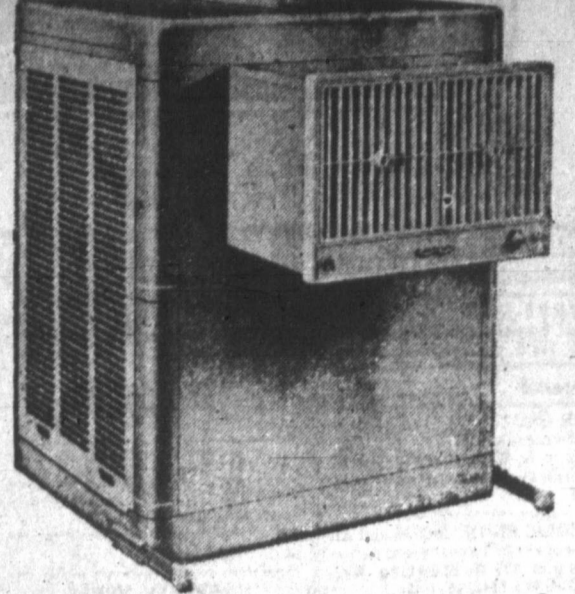

A middle-aged gunman walked in and pumped three shots into Crazy Joe.

The fourth gang-style killing since March 30, Gallo's rout was followed in quick succession by three others through April 10.

A GRAFFITI EPIDEMIC NEW YORK (AP) — There's a new epidemic in this city. It's called graffiti and scrawls on subway walls and trains are noticeable almost everywhere.

Frank T. Berry, a Transit Authority official, says it costs the city more than a half million dollars a year to remove the scrawls. Most of the markings are drawn by teen-agers using felt-tipped pens.

George Wallace Asks Texans To Support Him

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Gov. George Wallace of Alabama has asked his Texas followers to "inundate the precinct conventions" on May 6 and give him the delegates he will need in his bid for the presidential nomination at the Democratic convention in Miami.

Making his pitch to what he called "the neglected average citizen," the governor asked his supporters to send the Democratic party leadership and the government "a strong message" similar to the one that, he said, was sent by the Florida voters on the school busing issue.

This was in reference to his overwhelming victory in the Florida primary where he campaigned strongly against busing of school children, and the subsequent announcement by President Nixon calling for a busing moratorium.

Texas does not have a presidential primary preference, so the governor stressed in a speech before nearly 800 enthusiastic supporters at a downtown hotel that the key to victory is in the selection of convention delegates at precinct levels.

Wallace asserted that his opponents in the bid for the presidential nomination are now copying him.

He charged that his opponents — whom he described as "the six senators" — are now saying they are, like Wallace, in favor of tax and welfare reform and against forced busing of school children.

"Together they have spent 100 years in the Senate," Wallace said. "And they had a chance to do something about the issues which they are now discussing but they never did."

"Hubert Humphrey is now saying we should get loafers off the welfare payrolls," he said, "but he is the one who put them there."

He said that Sen. Edmond Muskie is now stating that he made a mistake when he voted in favor of the Gulf of Tonkin resolution and then added: "A man who makes a mistake that cost so many thousands of American lives is not entitled to be president of the United States."

He told his followers that the strong reaction of the "average citizen" in favor of his appeal for tax reform will force the government into action before the November election in the form of a tax relief measure.

Wallace made speeches in Longview and Tyler before coming to Dallas.

It was his second trip to Texas in recent months in his quest for Texas votes. He will return April 21 for speeches in Lubbock and San Antonio and again on May 2 for rallies scheduled at Houston and Beaumont.

ONLY ONE TEACHER SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — There are three one-teacher schools remaining in New Mexico, according to the Department of Education. In 1961-62 school year, there were 50 one-teacher schools in New Mexico and in 1951-52 there were 168.

STUFFING IS LEGAL ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — It is now lawful for a taxidermist to work in Howard County.

The county zoning board approved new zoning regulations which permit taxidermists to operate in the county for the first time in its history.

People In The News

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Earl Warren, retired U.S. chief justice and former California governor, has returned to the University of California's Berkeley campus as regents' lecturer in the department of rhetoric.

Warren, a 1912 graduate, is conducting six informal discussion sessions with groups of about 20 graduate and undergraduate students planning careers in law. The first of the hour-long sessions was held Wednesday and the last is scheduled for next Thursday.

While on campus, the 81-year-old Warren is to receive the Clark Kerr Award for contributions to higher education and membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national fraternity for scholastic achievement.

a religious meeting addressed by Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, but she apparently was not aware of it.

Acharya Desh Bhushan Maharaj, spiritual leader of the Jain religion, strode into Parliament House totally nude Wednesday for a meeting called to commemorate Mahavira, founder of the Jain religion.

The Jain pontiff was undressed because he, like other advanced members of the sect, considers clothing a badge of mankind's lost innocence and a barrier to communion with nature and God.

Security officials said they couldn't do anything about his presence because of his large following and the fact that he was a guest of the government.

But one of Mrs. Gandhi's aides said the naked guest was blocked from Mrs. Gandhi's eyes by a table.
