Narrow vote makes courthouse smoke free

Judge Peet casts deciding 3-2 vote

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

When county employees move back into the Gray County Courthouse following the completion of the restoration project next year, there will be no smoking allowed anywhere in the building.

County Judge Richard Peet said several staff members had requested the matter be placed on the meeting agenda, but did not identify the employees.

The four Gray County Commissioners were split 2-2 during this week's meeting, but Peet broke the tie by casting his vote to stop all smoking in the building.

Precinct 2 Commissioner Jim Greene made the motion to not have a designated smoking area in the refurbished courthouse while Precinct 1 Commissioner Joe Wheeley seconded the motion.

Precinct 3 Commissioner Gerald Wright and Precinct 4 Commissioner James Hetley voted against the measure throwing it into a tie vote before Peet broke the tie.

Currently, two designated smoking areas are in the courthouse: one area is on the ground floor behind the stairwell while the second one is on the fourth floor.

Discussion on the matter became emotion-charged prior to the vote.

Wright said that whoever is offended by the designated smoking areas does not have to go into the smoke rooms. He added when he first went into office as a county commissioner over 16 years ago that smoking was allowed during county commission meetings. He said that was changed a few years ago.

County Clerk Susan Winborne said the smell of the smoke was not contained in the designated smoking areas. She said on court days anyone going to the fourth floor could smell the smoke as it came from the designated smoking area.

Part of the issue is that there will not be a public break room in the restored courthouse, said County Auditor Elaine Morris. She said the employee break room would be the only area available for a smoking area.

County Tax Assessor/Collector Sammie Morris asked who would enforce the policy as she said she was not a policeman.

Peet said he would "tell people they could smoke in the building."

Greene believes the public will accept the ban on smoking in the building. He said many restaurants

Pantex employees from Pampa, and some of their family members, were all over the Super Playground recently as part of a special day of volunteer work. The group planted six trees and painted the playground's wood with water seal.

Thanks to some Pampans who work at Pantex the Super Playground area has six new trees and the wooden playground equipment has a fresh coat of water sealant.

Pantex employees all over the area did about 40 projects as part of a first ever BWTX Pantex Day of Volunteering, said Jo Karbo of Pampa, who predicted the activity will become an annual event.

More than 700 Pantex employees and family members participated.

"It's a way for Pantex to give back to the communities," she said. Pantex picked up the tab for all costs involved. Other communities served included
Claude, Fritch, Groom, Panhandle, Canyon and Amarillo.

And so it was on a recent Saturday morning when 39 people showed up at Pampa's Super Playground where they used 60 gallons of water seal to give the equipment a good coat of protection.

It took from about 8:30 a.m.
until noon to complete the job

It's time to find Golden Horseshoe

Top O' Texas Rodeo Association is sponsoring the "Golden Horseshoe Treasure Hunt" again in conjunction with the Top O' Texas Rodeo July 12, 13 and 14. A
"Golden Horseshoe" has been hidden in the area and clues will be given each day that will help locate the horseshoe.

The lucky person who finds the horseshoe will receive a box seat to all three performances of the 55th Annual Top O' Texas Rodeo valued at $150. They will also be able to ride in the rodeo parade on Saturday, July 14.

This year the clues will be placed in selected stores in Pampa and you can only get the clues by going into that store.

The kind of store will be listed each day in the newspaper and on the radio. The name of that store will be listed the next day along with the kind of store for the current day's clue.

No clues will be given in the paper or on the radio. Merchants have been asked not to give any information out over the telephone. Thursday's clue can be found at a local pharmacy.

If you have any questions concerning the Top O' Texas Rodeo or the Golden Horseshoe Hunt, call Jane Jacobs at the rodeo office, (806) 669-0434.

Special prosecutor legality questioned Judge Waters reserves ruling

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

The defense filed a motion to disqualify a lawyer who hasn't been asked for, but the judge reserved ruling until the state moves to appoint him.

During a hearing Tuesday on motions in connection with sexual assault and indecency with a child charges against Oscar Lynn Aylor, 52, of Borger, Aylor's attorney, Steve Cross of Borger, moved to have Perryton lawyer David Scott disqualified from being appointed attorney pro tem but noted in court that District Attorney Rick Roach has not moved to have Scott appointed.

Cross, however, said he had talked with Roach and Roach had indicated that he was planning to ask that Scott be appointed to help the district attorney's office with the case against Aylor. Cross also said he had talked with Scott and the Perryton attorney told him he had Aylor's file from the district attorney's office.

Scott, an attorney in private practice, has served as Roach's assistant in several cases this year.

Probation revoked; man sent to prison

A 21-year-old man is headed to state prison for the next seven years in connection with a 1998 conviction here for indecency with a child.

David Reames, 21, who is already serving three years in prison after being convicted for burglary in Liberty County, south of San Antonio, for a June 23, 2000, break-in, was sentenced Tuesday afternoon by 223rd District Court Lee Waters to spend seven years in prison for his 1998 indecency with a child conviction in Gray County.

Reames had been convicted here of indecency with a child on Feb.
9, 1998. He was given a 10-year deferred adjudication sentence, but his burglary conviction violated his probation. He was returned to Pampa to appear before Judge Waters for final sentencing in the 1998 case.

During the probation revocation hearing, Reames admitted to being delinquent in payments for his fines, court costs, attorney fees and transcript fees to the tune of about $2,300.

In a plea agreement with the Gray County District Attorney's office, Reames will serve the remainder of his 10-year sentence in confinement.

Court officials said the sentence will run concurrently with the time served for the burglary.

Texas regulators cite facility after tropical storm deaths

HOUSTON (AP) — Drownings of two residents from a Southeast Texas health care home during Tropical Storm Allison have prompted state regulators to cite the facility for having a deficient evacuation plan. However, the Texas Department of Human Services report found insufficient evidence to support allegations that Brightstar Care Home was negligent or failed to provide enough care and supervision to prevent the drownings.

Texas round up ...

Hutchison says she doesn't expect Navy to pursue plan

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Many state and local officials expect the Navy to abandon its proposal to use part of Padre Island and the South Texas coastline as a warfare training site after a number of high-ranking officials publicly spoke out against the plan.

After U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison expressed reluctance Tuesday to support the Navy's plan, many consider the proposal dead on arrival.

"She carries more leverage than all of us put together, you could say, in regards to the (Bush) administration," state Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times for its Wednesday editions.

Hutchison added her name to a growing list of people against the plan.

Earlier Tuesday in Austin, Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander cited environmental concerns and doubts about an economic boon in her opposition.

Researcher says sargassum seaweed helps preserve beaches

PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — Seaweed. At low tide long stretches of the beach are covered with it — matted, greenish-brown blotches of sargassum.

Tourism types look at it as a nuisance, one that requires daily, pre-dawn use of huge motorized rakes to clear the sand for sunbathers. But sea life experts say the seaweed has its benefits. For one, it is a natural lattice that traps sand and rebuilds the beach.

"When left alone it aids in stabilizing the beach and allowing dunes to reform," Texas A&M oceanographer Tony Amos said.

For another, the weed is an ecosystem in itself — a raft for oceanic small guys like sargassum shrimp and sargassum fish as well as flatworms, small anemones and pipefish.

On the Texas coast, peak seaweed season is typically April through June; this year the weed has been around since January. Around November, northern winds tend to cool the Gulf waters and the seaweed abates.

Megastore sells fireworks in air-conditioned convenience

HUDSON OAKS, Texas (AP) — Rodney Harris stood awestruck at the Texas Giant Fireworks counter, gazing at the freshly stocked shelves of bottle rockets, Roman candles, flaming balls and smoke bombs.

An hour and $800 later, the North Rickland Hills man carried out his plethora of pyrotechnics with help from his wife Kelly, 8-year-old daughter Samantha and several store clerks.

"He's like a 5-year-old," Kelly Harris said Tuesday, laughing as she carried one of five boxes. "This is his Christmas."

She said this year's shopping spree was more enjoyable than in previous years because of the store's wide selection and air-conditioned building, unlike small roadside stands popping up each summer outside many Texas towns.

Attracting customers through comfort and convenience was the idea behind the 16,000-square-foot store, which opened June 24 off Interstate 20 in Parker County several miles west of Fort Worth.

Investigators say UT student intentionally set fatal blaze

AUSTIN (AP) — A dorm fire that killed a University of Texas freshman and severely burned his roommate was intentionally set by the student who died, investigators said Tuesday.

Anoor Hajee, 18, of Dallas was described by friends in an investigation report as a "happy-go-lucky guy" who was often drunk, smoked marijuana and sometimes went too far with his pranks. He also had a history of problems with fire.

Fire investigators found a propane lighter and burned paper in Hajee's bedroom at University Towers, a high-rise luxury private residence hall near UT's Austin campus.

The May 1 fire was started in the apartment's living room between 6 a.m. and 6:15 a.m., according to an Austin Fire Department report.

The report did not elaborate on how the blaze started in the living room, stating only that Hajee used "an open flame and available combustible materials." A lighter is an example of an open flame, and paper or furniture are examples of combustible materials, said Dale Whitaker, department spokeswoman.

Earthworm business forced to close

AUSTIN (AP) — If you're in the Austin area and in need of worms, don't bother shopping at the Rev. Tommy Bunton's house.

The 58-year-old's worm trade was closed after officials said it violated city zoning laws.

Bunton, who sells wriggling European earthworms for $2.50 a cup, said he received a letter June 28 from the city giving him 10 days to remove a wooden sign from his front yard that read, "Notary. Counselor. Worms."

Bunton, who faced a maximum $2,000 fine for failing to comply, said he received the notice one day after his worm business was featured in a front-page story in the Austin American-Statesman.

People in the news ...

NEW YORK (AP) — Can you name all five of the original MTV VJs?

Well, if not, they're getting together to celebrate the cable channel's 20th anniversary, so you can refresh your memory then.

Martha Quinn, J.J. Jackson, Alan Hunter, Nina Blackwood, and Mark Goodman will take part in the Aug. 1 party at New York's Hammerstein Ballroom.

Carson Daly of MTV's "Total Request Live" will be the host of the event, which will be broadcast live from 8-11 p.m. EDT. It will feature artist performances, interviews — and the triumphant return of Beavis and Butt-head.

"We're stuffing 20 years of MTV in one room for one night with all the music, irreverence and energy that we're known for," MTV president Van Toffler said. "This should be a memorable night — it will certainly make compelling television."

NEW YORK (AP) — Mark Wahlberg made a name for himself wearing Calvin Klein's underwear — but can he fill Cary Grant's shoes?

Wahlberg recently spent time in Paris shooting a remake of "Charade," the 1963 romantic thriller which starred Grant and Audrey Hepburn.

Jonathan Demme will direct the new film, titled "The Truth About Charlie," which is due out next year. Wahlberg plays the Grant role and Thandie Newton plays Hepburn's role.

"I probably won't realize what it means until it's over and I get bashed for destroying a great part," the 30-year-old former underwear model and rapper told Vanity Fair magazine in its August issue. "But I'm really not scared of taking risks."

Wahlberg stars next in the updated version of "Planet of the Apes," which opens July 27.

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a beautiful day in the cyberhood.

Fred Rogers, the longtime host and creator of the children's TV show "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood," has become pretty high-tech for someone who's known for his low-tech trolley and puppets.

He's working on an interactive program for the PBS Web site, which will debut this summer, and he hopes to create a series of children's stories for www.mister-rogers.org.

"Technology in any form (from computers to atomic power) can be used for good or evil," Rogers said in the August issue of ON magazine, on newsstands next week. "It all depends on the hearts and minds of those who use it."

The 73-year-old taped his final episodes of the show last year after 33 years on television.

NEW YORK (AP) — Brian Wilson is hearing voices in his head — and they're definitely not harmonizing about surfing and girls in bikinis.

The Beach Boys co-founder told ABC's "Good Morning America" about his struggle with mental illness, which has plagued him on stage.

"I'm thinking, 'God help me if I get these crazy thoughts in my head,' you know. I have auditory hallucinations that I get," he said in an interview that aired on the show Tuesday.

"Voices saying, 'I'm going to hurt you, we're going to kill you, we're going to kill,' you know, crazy stuff."

At 59, Wilson said he'll always be on medication to treat his condition. But he's still making music, and will be honored with "An All-Star Tribute to Brian Wilson," which airs at 8 p.m. EDT Wednesday on TNT. Ricky Martin, Carly Simon, Vince Gill, the Go-Go's and Billy Joel are among the artists taking part.

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — "Babe" actor James Cromwell was among five animal rights protesters arrested outside a Wendy's fast food restaurant.

As many as 350 other people demonstrated outside the restaurant Tuesday but dispersed after about an hour, police said. No injuries were reported.

Police say Cromwell, 51, and three officials of the Norfolk, Va., based People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals refused to leave after urging patrons to boycott the restaurant.

Cromwell was released on his own recognizance after about five hours, a PETA spokesman said. A fifth protester was arrested after he allegedly climbed onto the restaurant's roof with a banner that read, "Wendy's: Closed for animal cruelty."

"After 'Babe,' people recognized that pigs and other animals ... are sensitive, gentle animals," Cromwell said in a statement released by PETA. "It's high time that big corporations like Wendy's stopped treating these wonderful animals like meat machines."

A spokesman for Ohio-based Wendy's did not respond to a request for comment.

Weather Service said showers and thunderstorms across South Texas are likely in the afternoon and evening hours. Highs Wednesday were expected to be in the 80s and 90s.

Skies were mostly clear early Wednesday morning with high humidity. Temperatures ranged from 63 degrees in Marfa to 80 in Galveston.

In West Texas mostly sunny skies were expected on Wednesday with a few afternoon and evening thunderstorms possible. Highs were expected to be in the upper 90s with overnight lows in the mid 60s to lower 70s.

They followed the work with a picnic lunch in the park. Pampa Public Service Superintendent Kimberly Lincycumb said the City is appreciative of the work done saying, "It saved taxpayers both labor and material costs."

The trees planted are "cottonless cottonwoods," Lincycumb said, adding that a drip irrigation system is in place to water the new trees.

On the day of the project, the Pantex employees were aided by city employee Terry Brown, Lincycumb said.

Attorneys file request for competency hearing for mother accused of drowning

By PAM EASTON
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston woman accused of drowning her five young children two weeks ago is deeply depressed and psychotic and unable to communicate well enough to stand trial, defense attorneys said in a request for a competency hearing.

State District Judge Belinda Hill did not immediately rule on a request to hold a competency hearing for Andrea Yates, who confessed to the June 20 slayings of her five young children.

The request came hours after medical records of Andrea Yates were turned over to prosecutors and defense lawyers.

Yates, 37, is charged with one count of capital murder for the deaths of her two oldest children: Noah, 7, and John, 5.

Police called to the Yates'

Houston home found John, Paul, 3; Luke, 2; and Mary, 6 months, still wet under a sheet on a bed. Noah was found in the bathtub. Police say Andrea Yates, who has a history of suicide attempts, confessed to the slayings.

She remains in the Harris County Jail without bond. Her next court appearance is scheduled for July 24.

Earlier Tuesday, Hill summoned Dr. Mohammad Saeed, a psychiatrist who treated Yates, and Beverly Bedard, the custodian of records at Devereux Texas Treatment Network where Yates was hospitalized.

Hill ordered Saeed and Bedard to bring all medical records related to Yates, including admission forms, history and physical consultations, narratives, operation narratives, radiology reports, laboratory reports, nurses' notes, physicians' orders, progress notes, psychiatric reports, psychological testing medication lists and logs and discharge summaries.

Defense attorneys and prosecutors were barred from commenting on Tuesday's 30-minute meeting by a gag order. But, the Houston Chronicle is asking an appeals court to throw out the gag order.

Yates did not attend the session.

Yates' husband, Russell, who returned home from his job at the nearby Johnson Space Center to find his children dead, has said his wife suffered from postpartum depression.

"I think it was postpartum depression. I think Andrea should be in a mental hospital, not jail," Andrea Yates' mother Jutta Kennedy told the Houston Chronicle.

Russell Yates said the condition surfaced after the birth of their fourth child, Luke. After undergoing treatment, Yates said his wife recovered, only to suffer a relapse following the birth of the family's fifth child, Mary.

About three months after

Mary's birth, Andrea Yates' father died, deepening her depression, her husband has said.

Russell Yates has said his wife attempted suicide after Luke's birth. Andrea Yates' brother, Andrew Kennedy, said his sister was hospitalized following another suicide attempt several months ago. Kennedy said his sister held a knife to her throat at her parent's home and threatened to kill herself. He said Andrea Yates was hospitalized at least four times after the suicide attempt.

A source familiar with Andrea Yates' medical treatment told the Houston Chronicle that her severe depression was apparent during a stay in a psychiatric hospital earlier this year.

"When she came in she wouldn't eat. She was malnourished," the source said. Yates was also described as being "zombie-like."

"She was the saddest-looking person I've ever seen. She looked horrible," the source said. "She was sad looking. She was just lost and had a blank stare."

Former players, manager can sue over nude drill

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Two former Rutgers basketball players and a team manager who said they were forced to do naked wind sprints can sue their former coaches, an appellate court has ruled.

The decision, issued Tuesday, overturned a lower court ruling that dismissed the suit brought by former players Earl Johnson Jr. and Josh Sankes, and former manager Juan Carlos Pla.

The nude drill followed a free-throw shooting contest during a 1997 basketball practice. The three agreed to shed a piece of clothing for every missed shot, but they said they expected it would stop at under-shorts.

SMOKING

and public buildings have designated smoking areas while others don't allow smoking at all.

County Treasurer Scott Hahn said, "Smoking is not allowed at all at Pampa High School stadium."

Wright said smoking isn't allowed in the stands of the Texas Rangers ballpark either, but it is allowed under the stands. He also said he thought there were enough rules without adding more. He expressed concern where smokers would smoke in freezing weather.

Morris expressed concern the smoke would also damage the restored woodwork when the building project is completed.

Peet said the ban on smoking could extend to all county buildings. Morris said, "It doesn't have to extend to every arm of the county."

Other county-owned buildings include the Clyde Carruth Pavilion (Bull Barn), Lovett Building (former nurses dorm), the four precinct buildings, and the county annex on Highway 60. No action was taken on whether or not the remainder of the county buildings would have a ban on smoking.

PROSECUTOR

Cross argued that Scott's appointment was a violation of statute law and was unethical. Under the Texas Code of Criminal Procedures, Cross said that Scott could not be appointed attorney pro tem unless Roach disqualified himself or was unable to prosecute the case.

Roach said that Scott could be appointed a special assistant prosecutor and that he had checked with the Texas District and County Attorneys Association on the question.

"It happens all over the state," Roach told 223rd District Judge Lee Waters. "Not just in this area."

Roach said Scott had been asked to assist the prosecution because Roach has not hired an assistant district attorney yet.

Cross said that while he did not think Roach or Scott would do anything unethical, he called into question the possibility of conflicts of interest with a lawyer who is a defense attorney in one county and a prosecutor in another.

"In this case," Roach argued, "Mr. Scott doesn't know Mr. Aylor. He has never met Mr. Aylor."

Cross said that makes no difference. He indicated that under state law an attorney cannot be a prosecutor if he has opposed the state in any county in any court in the state.

Judge Waters said he would reserve a ruling for the time if, and when, Roach may move to have Scott appointed to assist in the case.

Both Roach and Cross agreed to most other pre-trial motions filed by the defense.

Many of them had to do with the length of time it had taken to get Aylor indicted and to trial, others had to do with the vagueness of accusations.

Aylor was arrested in December, 1999, but wasn't indicted until April, 2000. He was later indicted and then indicted on four additional counts while the initial indictment was dropped.

In April, 2001, Aylor was indicted on charges of engaging in sexual contact with a child younger than 17 on four occasions in 1998 and for sexual assault of a child younger than 17 on March 7, 1999.

The motion to set aside the indictments and to dismiss the case was denied after Roach argued that the defense had twice asked for continuances in the case.

Roach agreed to be more specific with his list of witnesses and accusations after Cross accused the district attorney of being vague in the information he had sent the defense, particularly with regard to allegedly pornographic videos that the district attorney claims in court records that Aylor showed to minors in March, 1997.

Roach also agreed to provide any evidence favorable to the accused.

The district attorney also told the court that no deals were made with witnesses in connection with their testimony in this case after Cross questioned whether one of the state's witnesses faced perjury charges.

Roach also agreed to avoid improper arguments before the jury and to limit mention of prior offenses and bad acts by the defendant. Judge Waters granted motions concerning discovery during the punishment phase of the trial, should it reach that point, listing of witnesses before the grand jury and a motion to have the court reporter, Richard Mackie, make a complete record of all court proceedings and conferences.

Cross also requested and received up to $2,500 in funds to hire an investigator to question witnesses in the case.

"I hope it will not take that much," Cross said.

Texas towns celebrate the 4th

In the supremely patriotic Texas towns of Old Glory, Independence and Liberty, celebrating the Fourth of July is as much a responsibility as a holiday.

"We are the only town in the U.S. with the name Old Glory," said Joe Castro, vice president of the Old Glory Days committee. "With a name like that, we had to have a celebration."

Old Glory, with a population of 70 northwest of Dallas, was predominantly a German town in the late 1800s called Brandenburg. Residents voted to change the name in 1918 to show patriotism during World War I.

Motorcycle shows, arts and crafts and a car show will be part of the three-day festivities to celebrate the nation's 225th birthday.

Texas isn't the only state dotted with patriotically named places. They stretch from Freedom, Maine, to Independence, Ore. But Texans take their freedom seriously, even celebrating March 2, the day Texas signed its Declaration of Independence from Mexico in 1836.

"Texans are known for doing things in a grand style," said Nancy Nesbitt of the Texas Historical Commission. "Texans may identify with the national holiday in a unique way since no period in Texas history is as distinctive as the state's own struggle for independence."

Nothing could be truer for the residents of Independence and Washington.

Many of Independence's 140 residents make their way to nearby Washington for holiday celebrations.

It was on March 1, 1836, in Washington, about 85 miles northwest of Houston, that delegates elected from each Texas municipality convened to declare Texas independent from Mexico and write a constitution that established the Republic of Texas.

An estimated 6,500 people are expected to participate in the festivities. Adults tour Independence Hall as the children make yarn dolls. The night is capped with a fireworks show.

"It's a full day of activities," said Stefani Holtsclaw, director of tourism for Washington County.

Independence was one of the original settlements of Stephen F. Austin, the "Father of Texas," who brought the first 297 families to colonize Texas under a contract with the Mexican Government.

"It's special and unique," Holtsclaw said. "You are celebrating the nation's independence where Texas celebrated its independence."

With a 120-foot flag pole and 30-by-60-foot American flag at its entrance on U.S. 90, Liberty is hard to miss.

In Liberty, a city of about 8,000 people 60 miles northeast of Houston, residents and businesses make $25 donations to the Evening Lions Club, which buys the U.S. flags that get planted around town July 4.

RSVP ADVISORY COUNCIL

An exciting opportunity is on the horizon for a Pampa-area resident who: 1) Would like to volunteer his/her services for the betterment of their community; and 2) can travel to Amarillo once a month to attend scheduled meetings after 5 p.m. Retired and Senior Volunteer Program, or RSVP, a national organization with an office in Amarillo, has an opening for an Advisory Council position to represent the Pampa community. Pampa has been represented since 1992, and a lot of positive things have been done, including increased volunteer participation and the addition of more volunteer stations (locations where the volunteers work). Gray Co. is but one of 11 counties served by RSVP's Amarillo office, and representation from our own area is important. The Advisory Council term would be for two years, starting at the end of March, and is not limited to someone who is 55-years-old or older. Interested in senior volunteerism? Interested in improving Pampa's social services? For more information or to receive an application, call Amarillo RSVP Director Nova Neuhaus toll-free at 1-877-373-8389.

LOVETT MEMORIAL LIBRARY

Lovett Memorial Library will offer four introductory hands-on computer workshops: "Computer Comfort I" for beginners; "Computer Comfort II" for individuals who can open and close files and use the mouse; "What is the Internet?"; and "Introduction to E-Mail," for individuals who wish to learn how to establish a free web-based e-mail account. All classes are free but registration is required. Class size is limited to 10, so space is limited. For information, contact the library at 669-5780. The workshops will continue monthly through the spring.

Lefors student earns perfect TAAS score

LEFORS — Lefors school officials recently honored Lefors High School sophomore, Zach Kidd, as the only student in the district making a perfect TAAS score this year.

Kidd successfully answered 148 questions on the exit level Texas Academic Assessment Survey, in addition to achieving a perfect score on the writing essay, said LHS instructor Suzanne Law.

Kidd also made a perfect score on his eighth-grade TAAS exam.

Because of his academic achievements, Law nominated the LHS sophomore for the National Young Leaders Conference in Washington, D.C. this fall.

Kidd was notified last week of his acceptance to the prestigious conference in a letter from Marguerite C. Regan, director of curriculum for the Congressional Youth Leadership Council in Washington, D.C.

The intensive six-day conference is designed for junior and senior students from throughout the U.S. who demonstrated academic achievement and outstanding leadership potential.

The conference includes opportunities to watch Congress in action, as well as interactions with

Zach Kidd

Congressional leaders, members of the executive branch, national news media and diplomatic corps.

Kidd is the son of Billy and Rhonda Kidd of Lefors.

Labor Department offers women's apprenticeship program

DALLAS — The Department of Labor Women's Bureau has announced the availability of funds for Women in Apprenticeship and Nontraditional Occupations (WANTO) grant projects for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 2001.

The grants will be awarded to community-based organizations, which may include faith-based organizations, to provide technical assistance to employers and labor unions on how to successfully recruit, hire and retain women in apprenticeship and nontraditional occupations. Applications must be received by the U.S. Department of Labor by July 16, 2001.

"Apprenticeship is a great opportunity for women to gain valuable skills that can advance their careers," Women's Bureau Director Shinae Chun said. "By expanding the skills of America's working women, we are addressing the needs of our workforce and assisting women to develop rewarding careers."

For the past seven years, the Women's Bureau has awarded grants to qualified community-based organizations for the purposes of increasing the number of women being placed and retained in apprenticeship and nontraditional occupations. The program also benefits employers who are trying to retain an apprenticeship workforce by providing them trained and dedicated workers.

Q

What do you think the Census 2000 figures mean for the two-parent family?

A

The long-awaited report from the U.S. Census Bureau was released May 15, reflecting population trends and living patterns during the 10-year period ending in the year 2000. The report confirmed that the institution of the family has continued the downward spiral that began in the early '70s. Indeed, it is now in an unfettered free fall. Headlines shouted "Nuclear Family Fading" and "Nuclear Family in Meltdown." Allan Carlson of the Howard Center of the Family said, "We are moving toward a post-family society."

Here are some of the most disturbing findings from the report: Household headed by unmarried partners grew by almost 72 percent during the past decade, most of them involving people living together out of wedlock. Households headed by single mothers increased by more than 25 percent, and those led by single fathers grew by almost 62 percent. For the first time ever, nuclear families dropped below 25 percent of households. A third of all babies were born to unmarried women (33 percent) compared to only 3.8 percent in 1940. From other studies we know that co-habitation has increased by 1,000 percent from 1960 to 1998. We are also seeing a growing number of unmarried women in their 20s and 30s who are choosing to bear and raise children alone.

It is predicted now, based on these trends, that about half of the children today will spend at least part of their childhood in single-parent homes. Already, the United States is the leader in the percentage of single parents among industrialized nations, and that number is skyrocketing.

What will happen if marriage does, indeed, become obsolete or largely irrelevant in the days ahead? It portends a world where almost every child will have several "mom" and "dad," perhaps six or eight "grandparents," and dozens of half-siblings. It will be a world where little boys and girls are shuffled from pillar to post in an ever-changing pattern of living arrangements. Imagine a world where nothing is stable, and where people think primarily about themselves and their own self-preservation. In short, the demise of families will be a chaotic world that will be devastating to children.

Barbara Dafoe Whitehead, writing in her acclaimed article "Dan Quayle Was Right," said this about fall stresses experienced by children when their families fall apart:

"All this uncertainty can be devastating to children. Anyone who knows children that they are deeply conservative creatures. They like things to stay the same. So pronounced is this tendency that certain children have been known to request the same peanut-butter-and-jelly sandwich for lunch for years on end. Children are particularly set in their ways when it comes to family, friends, neighborhoods and schools. Yet when a family breaks up, all these things may change. The novelist Pat Conroy has observed that 'each divorce is the death of a small civilization.' No one feels this more acutely than children."

Our political leaders have been shameless in their disregard for the institution of the family. When Margaret La Montagne, White House domestic policy adviser to President George W. Bush, was asked about her reaction to the census report during a C-Span interview, she replied, "I guess I would respond to say, you know, 'So what?'"

Her comment sets some kind of record for its ignorance. The nation's families are steadily disintegrating, yet La Montagne said, in effect, "Who cares?" The disturbing thing is that this woman sits at the highest level of government, offering advice and counsel every day to the most powerful man on Earth. Unfortunately, her flippant remark reflects the cavalier attitude toward families common among official in Washington.

There are a few bright spots on this dark landscape, of course. For example, the president recently nominated Dr. Wade Horn to a top position in the Department of Health and Human Services. Some of you may recognize Dr. Horn as the president of the National Fatherhood Initiative, an organization that has long proclaimed the importance of the two-parent household and warned of the increased risks that children face without a father in their lives.

But to go back to your original question, I think the 2000 Census is a wake-up call for America. Americans should ask themselves, "Is this the path we truly want to go down, and what will it mean for our children and grandchildren?"

Daughter Angry That Mom Took Holdup Lying Down

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 36-year-old "super mom." I'm active in PTA, shuttle our two daughters and their friends around town, play on a community softball team, go to a gym twice a week, and work Wednesdays in a small sports equipment store owned by my in-laws.

My older daughter, "Jenny" (a junior in high school), stopped by the store last Wednesday after school. A few minutes later a nervous-looking man entered. He asked me about some ski equipment, and then — holding what he claimed was a gun in his pocket — demanded money from the register.

Abby, if I had been there alone I would have walloped him and run for the door, but I didn't want to take any chances with my daughter there. I told him to take what he wanted and leave.

Well, that wasn't the end of it. He ordered us into the back room, told us to lie face down, bound our hands and feet with duct tape, gagged us and left. Despite heroic tugging and squirming, neither Jenny nor I could free ourselves. It was more than an hour before a customer came in, heard us moaning and found us trussed up in the back of the store.

Thinking back, I was more angry than scared during the time we lay bound. Mostly I was worried that Jenny would be traumatized for life. I felt completely helpless.

I could hardly believe what happened next. When we were freed, Jenny wasn't traumatized. She became furious — at me! She literally screamed at me, "Why did you let him tie us up, Mom?" She apparently felt — and still feels — that we could have used kung fu on him or something.

Dear Abby

Is written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips.

Although I still think I did the right thing, I feel guilty that my daughter is disillusioned because her mother allowed someone to tie us up without a fight. I have gone from super mom to super snook. Any ideas on how to win back my daughter's admiration?

BOUND AND GAGGED, NEWTON, PA.

DEAR BOUND AND GAGGED: You acted appropriately. Real life is not a martial arts movie where heroines take risks and live beyond the closing credits. If you had tried to "wallop" the robber, one or both of you might not be alive today.

Don't be so quick to conclude that your daughter "wasn't traumatized." She is blaming you for what happened because she felt helpless and humiliated. Both of you could benefit from some short-term post-traumatic stress counseling so that what happened can be put in proper perspective.

DEAR ABBY: This may be a bit "racy" for your column, but consider it an alternative to your advice to "Furious in Adrian, Mich.," the 14-year-old whose ex-boyfriend wrongly claimed to have had sex with her.

Rather than forcing a potentially ugly confrontation, a more effective way to shut the guy up would be to follow an example related to me by a colleague from Italy:

A braggart once boasted to all who would listen that he'd had sex with the class beauty. When someone would mention it to her, she'd simply shrug it off by saying, "Yes, he tried — but he was sooo small..."

NO BIG DEAL IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR N.B.D.: I'd like to take it a step further. Only a small-minded person would try to make himself look better by making another person look worse. People who brag about their sexual exploits are usually lying.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DEAREST MOM AND AUNT EPPIE: Happy birthday and love to the prettiest, wittiest "firecracker" in the world.

XXX — JEANNE

HORSE RACING

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — Royal Spy cruised to a seven-length victory over Rockchalk Jayhawk in the $125,000 Grand Prairie Turf Challenge Tuesday night at Lone Star Park.

Royal Spy's victory moves the 3-year-old son of Peteski another step closer to the Grade I Secretariat Stakes at Arlington Park in Chicago in August. Earlier this season, Royal Spy posted a nine-length romp in the $200,000 Diamond "A" USA Stakes on Lone Star Million Day.

He finished the one mile in 1:36.06, the fastest time at that distance on turf this season at Lone Star Park.

Royal Spy, the favorite, moved into contention around the final turn and pulled away from Grifter and Gracie's Dancer for a convincing victory over Rockchalk Jayhawk and Kris Havingfunnow.

"Grifter and Gracie's Dancer took off quickly and drew off from us," jockey Anthony Lovato said. "I didn't panic and just sat back. I knew I had all the horse in the world. When I asked him to come on, he did it. He finished really well and won by a good margin."

The victory was Lovato's fifth of six on the night.

Royal Spy, owned by Drs. K.K. and Vilasini D. Jayaraman of Hot Springs, Ark., paid $2.80 to win. The $75,000 winner's share of the purse boosted his bankroll to $285,595.

BOXING

NEW YORK (AP) — A light-heavyweight boxer, comatose for six days after he was knocked out in the waning seconds of a nationally televised 10-round fight, died from his injuries.

Beethavean Scotland, 26, was pronounced dead at 10:36 p.m. Monday at the Bellevue Hospital Center, the facility announced. Scotland, who underwent two surgeries at the hospital, never regained consciousness.

The fighter was survived by his wife, Denise, their three children and a large extended family.

Scotland was knocked out by a left-right combination with just 37 seconds left in his 10-round bout with undefeated George Khalid Jones. He was initially able to answer questions in the ring, but fell unconscious within minutes.

The fighter was rushed to Bellevue, where his condition deteriorated over the next 48 hours.

Scotland, a last-minute replacement when another boxer was injured, becomes the first boxer to die in New York since 1989. Super-middleweight John Gross died of similar head injuries suffered in his bout.

SOCCER

BLAINE, Minn. (AP) — Tiffeny Milbrett's goal in the 77th minute gave the defending World Cup champion and Olympic silver medalist United States a 1-0 victory and snapped their four-game winless streak against Canada in an exhibition.

The Americans were tied 2-2 by the Canadians on Saturday night in Toronto in the opener of the two-game Independence Day series to drop to 0-2-2 in their last four games against Canada. They now lead the overall series 23-3-2.

Milbrett beat goalkeeper Nicci Wright with a rebound of her own shot following a free kick by Mia Hamm.

Simpson hopes to challenge for senior title

Amarillo golfer Earl Simpson hopes to challenge Lubbock's Tommy Wilson again for the Tri-State Senior title July 23-26 at the Pampa Country Club course.

Wilson beat Simpson and E.C. Roark of Lake Suzy, Fla. by six strokes to win his second straight Tri-State crown last year. Simpson, who operates a real estate agency, defeated Roark on the first hole of a playoff to claim second place.

"I didn't play wonderful, but I played pretty consistent," Simpson said about last year's score. He had a pair of 74s sandwiched around a 77 in the 54-hole tournament. Simpson trailed Wilson by only three strokes and was tied with Roark going into last year's final round.

Wilson will be going for his third consecutive Tri-State championship.

Like other golfers, the bad winter reduced Simpson's practice time this year.

"Now that the heat's back I'm playing more, and hopefully I'll keep getting better as the summer goes along," he said.

Simpson started playing in the Tri-State tourney in 1994. Last year was the closest he's come to taking home the top trophy.

"My golf game is coming along pretty good,"

L.D. Strate

Sports Editor

Simpson said. "I look forward to the Tri-State Tournament every year."

Pampa boys' head basketball coach Jerry Schaeffer is hanging out with a coaching legend these days.

Schaeffer is assisting with the Bob Knight Boys Basketball School in Lubbock. Schaeffer just finished with a camp of his own in Pampa.

The camp — which is for third graders through high school seniors to be — lasts for four days and is being held at the United Spirit Arena in Lubbock. Another Knight camp is set for July 29-Aug. 2 at Texas Tech.

Schaeffer was one of several high school coaches helping out at the camp.

Three members of Knight's staff were also at the camp. They include assistant coach Pat Knight, his son; Les Fertig, director of basketball operations, and Bubba Jennings, the former All-Southwest Conference guard at Tech.

Dave Campbell's Texas Football magazine picks Wheeler's Gavin McQueen as one of the District 1-A players to watch this season.

McQueen is a 6-2, 210-pound junior who could start at both tight end and linebacker for the Mustangs.

McQueen could also be picked as a player to watch in golf. He was a member of Wheeler's state championship squad in the spring.

Speaking of Wheeler, the 4th annual Men's Softball Tournament will be held July 14 in Wheeler.

The tournament is hosted by the Wheeler High School Cheerleaders with proceeds going to help their program.

Entry fee is $100 per team and entries should be turned in by July 9.

Amarillo's 2001 Streetball Challenge set for July 28-29

AMARILLO — Amarillo's original 3-on-3 streetball event returns for the 10th consecutive year as Kids Incorporated brings the ultimate in basketball back to the downtown area of the city.

Tipoff for the 2001 Streetball Challenge is July 28-29.

Held in downtown Amarillo for the sixth year in a row, the Challenge will be played on the third, fourth and fifth blocks of Polk and Tyler streets.

Rafter heads for possible match with Agassi

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Patrick Rafter moved into the Wimbledon semifinals, beating Thomas Enqvist in straight sets Wednesday and setting up a possible match with Andre Agassi.

Rafter, seeded third, topped the 10th-seeded Swede seventh Wimbledon championship in eight years.

But the top-seeded Sampras isn't around this year, having lost in the fourth round to 15th-seeded Federer.

Coupled with top-seeded

Martina Hingis' opening-round loss, this is the first time that neither top-seeded player reached the quarterfinals since the Open era began in 1968.

Rafter, a two-time U.S. Open champ, has a 7-0 record in Grand Slam quarterfinals.

Rafter dominated the first two sets before Enqvist showed signs of a comeback when he broke the Australian to lead 2-1 in the third set. But the Australian broke Enqvist and tied the set 4-4. It stayed tied at 6-6, forcing a tiebreaker.

Rafter quickly took command, going ahead 5-1 as he broke two of Enqvist's first three serves. With the score 6-2, Rafter needed to win just his next serve to take the match.

But he failed and, when Enqvist held his two serves, the lead was down to 6-5. Rafter then ended any doubts with an overpowering serve for an ace and a semifinal berth. He smiled and threw a ball into the crowd.

Rafter had 13 aces and just five double faults, Enqvist had nine aces and 13 double faults.

Grizzlies are moving to Memphis

By WOODY BAIRD
Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Grizzlies are giving Memphis its first big-time sports team.

The NBA gave its approval Tuesday for the Grizzlies' relocation from Vancouver.

The formal approval wasn't a surprise because the Grizzlies had already moved their basketball operations, but it was necessary, nevertheless.

"This is an exciting day for the people of Memphis," said Memphis businessman J.R. "Pitt" Hyde, leader of a local group that worked for more than a year to attract the NBA. "It's time now to turn our focus to building a competitive basketball team that will be a positive force in the city."

In unanimously approving the move, the NBA Board of Governors also cleared the way for Hyde's group to buy a minority interest in the team.

The league's relocation committee gave its approval last week, and Grizzlies boosters held a relocation party in Memphis on Saturday.

The team conducted its NBA draft last week at The Peabody Hotel, a downtown Memphis landmark.

Billy Knight, the Grizzlies' general manager, said approval from the board of governors was expected.

"We're glad we got the final step done, but it was like a step, like you're walking and that foot is up in the air and it's got to come down," he said.

The relocation is the league's first since the Kings moved from Kansas City to Sacramento in 1985.

Memphis has longed for a major league sports franchise for more than 30 years, but until now managed only to attract teams from second-tier leagues, like those with the former World Football League, the United States Football League, the Canadian Football League, the old American Basketball Association and most recently, the XFL.

After Nashville got an NFL team in 1997, Memphis set its sites on the NBA, stepping up efforts this year when owner Michael Heisley said he wanted to leave Vancouver.

Heisley said he looked at Las Vegas; Anaheim, St. Louis, New Orleans and Louisville before choosing Memphis.

NBA boosters promised the league a new $250 million arena, and the city and county governments have agreed to build one.

It will be mostly paid for by the taxpayers, through sales tax rebates, government backed bonds and hotel and car rental taxes.

The Grizzlies will play at The Pyramid, a 10-year-old arena along the Memphis riverfront, while the new downtown stadium is built. Completion is expected by 2004.

The Grizzlies started their rookie camp Tuesday at Rhodes College, a private school in Memphis.

"What makes me happy and makes me comfortable is getting in the gym and working with our players," coach Sidney Lowe said. "I'm glad it's all over and now we're back to work."

The Grizzlies were added to the NBA as an expansion team in 1994 and began play in 1995.

They won just 15 games the first season, and 14 the year after that. They went 19-63 in their third year and won just eight of 50 games in the lock-out season of 1998-99.

The Grizzlies improved to 22-60 in 1999-2000 and 23-59 last season.

In the past week, the Grizzlies traded off forward Shareef Abdur-Rahim and guard Mike Bibby, two of their top players.

But they added young standouts like Shane Battier of Duke, Pau Gasol of Spain and Jason Williams of Sacramento, while promising an overall, up tempo approach on the court.

German wrestler faces drug ruling

GENEVA (AP) — German wrestler Alexander Leipold will learn July 17 whether he will regain the Olympic gold medal he lost because of a failed drug test.

The Court of Arbitration for Sport held a hearing Tuesday and said a ruling will come in two weeks.

Leipold tested positive for the steroid nandrolone at the Sydney Olympics after he won the 167 1/2-pound division. He lost his gold medal to American finalist Brandon Slay of Amarillo, Texas and was banned internationally for two years.

The Olympic medical commission said Leipold's sample showed 20 nanograms of nandrolone per milliliter of urine.

Different styles bring success at Wimbledon Tournament

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Lindsay Davenport wore a simple silver clip in her hair. Venus Williams sported a sparkling blue and white pin on one side and a glistening red and green one on the other.

Davenport doesn't get much attention.

Williams can't escape it. But there was a similarity Tuesday. Both won their Wimbledon matches.

And when they meet in the semifinals Thursday, their styles won't be much different — two tall, hard-hitting women whose theatrics are rarer than double faults.

They also happen to be the last two Wimbledon champions. "She goes about her business, doesn't say much anymore," Davenport said, "just plays, wins or loses. I don't really think there's too much drama with her."

Davenport could just as well be describing herself, except, unlike defending champion Williams, the spotlight doesn't seek her off the court.

"I'm not a shy person, but a shy person in the sense that I don't like reading stories about myself," Davenport said. "I definitely don't think it's hurt my career."

She didn't need much flair to end 1998 as the world's top-ranked woman player and finish the last two years second to Martina Hingis. A knee injury that shelved her for three months this year didn't keep her from being ranked third heading into Wimbledon.

Yet she's far down on the headline writers' popularity list, even when the London tabloids are having an off year without Anna Kournikova in the tournament.

In the men's quarterfinals Wednesday, it was Andre Agassi against Nicholas Pietrangeli, Marat Safin against Goran Ivanisevic, Tim Henman against Roger Federer and Pat Rafter against Thomas Enqvist.

The other women's semifinal Thursday features Jennifer Capriati as the comeback queen who's made it halfway to winning the Grand Slam.

In a dramatic if hardly flawless match, Capriati came from within two points of losing, then beat Serena Williams 6-7 (4), 7-5, 6-3.

Serena took a break after falling behind 4-0 in the third set when the stomach virus that began bothering her last week caused more problems.

"I was really nauseated," she said. "I just had to get out of there. I don't know how I came back."

She won three of the next four games before Capriati won her 19th straight Grand Slam match and moved two wins away from winning the third of the four Grand Slam tournaments in the same year.

Davenport played a less thrilling match against a talented but lesser-known opponent, beating French Open runner-up Kim Clijsters 6-1, 6-2.

"After a day of a lot of drama, my match was pretty mellow," Davenport said.

The stage will be brighter when she meets Venus in a rematch of last year's championship match. Capriati faces Justine Henin in the other semifinal.

"There's going to be more rallies" than in the match with Serena, Capriati said.

Henin, a French Open semifinalist, overwhelmed 1994 champion Conchita Martinez 6-1, 6-0. Venus breezed by Nathalie Tauziat 7-5, 6-1.

Fans cheered loudly for Venus, who has won all 10 sets she's played in the tournament. She appreciates that, but public support is no guarantee of private contentment.

"Wasn't that like the chief theme of Death of a Salesman, to be well-liked? What happened to them?" she said. "You've got to like yourself first. If that doesn't help, you're lost." Serena discussed nutrition rather than literature, revealing how her ailment made it tough to eat.

"It's a great diet," she said with a laugh.

The down-to-earth Davenport spoke about her steady if unspectacular game based on hard, deep shots.

"Might not look as flashy as some other players hitting winners all the time," she said, "but (it) certainly gets the job done."

Yet Davenport appreciates the attention the playing and personal styles of the Williams sisters have brought to the sport.

"They've been probably the best thing that's happened to tennis," she said.

Davenport's been pretty good, too.

Seattle's Sele turns back Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Seattle manager Lou Piniella got his point across to Aaron Sele.

After Texas All-Stars Ivan Rodriguez and Alex Rodriguez hit consecutive homers off Sele to start the fourth, Piniella quickly went to the mound.

"I told him to get more aggressive in the strike zone, get ahead of the hitters early," Piniella said. "And I told him he had a good lead to work with, he had good stuff and just to trust it."

Sele (9-1) didn't give up another run and won for the first time in six starts as the Mariners beat the Texas 8-4 Tuesday night.

Seattle had a 5-1 lead, thanks to Mike Cameron's three-run homer in the first and David Bell's solo shot in the fourth, before the Texas homers.

Sele pitched 6 2-3 innings, allowing three runs and six hits. He admitted that the visit from the manager helped.

"It gives you a break, a chance to collect yourself and get back to what you are supposed to do," Sele said. "It's definitely not a friendly visit, it's more like 'Hey, let's get this going.'"

Ivan Rodriguez hit a 417-foot homer, then A-Rod hit his shot 441 feet into the second deck of stands in left. Only Juan Gonzalez, Mark McGwire and Dean Palmer had hit balls in that part of The Ballpark in Arlington. Gonzalez was the last on Aug. 22, 1998.

Cameron's three-run homer, his 15th, came before Sele even took the mound. And the Mariners had a season-high 10 extra-base hits, including seven in six innings against Darren Oliver (7-3).

Seattle has the best record in the majors at 61-21. The Rangers lost their 50th game and are in last place in the AL West, 29 games behind the Mariners.

"They have very consistent at-bats, they wear you down in the grind," said Rangers shortstop Alex Rodriguez, who played the past seven seasons in Seattle. "They are a good example of baseball for both leagues."

Boone had an RBI double in the third and hit his 22nd homer to lead off the seventh against Texas reliever Ryan Glynn. Edgar Martinez, like Boone an All-Star, had two doubles and an RBI.

Ichiro Suzuki and David Bell both had three hits and just missed hitting for the cycle. Suzuki, the top vote-getter for next week's All-Star game who leads the majors with 129 hits, didn't homer, while Bell failed to hit a triple.

After beating Baltimore on May 31 to improve to 8-0 for the first time in his career, Sele went 0-1 in five June starts, during which he gave up more than four earned runs just once.

Oliver gave up six runs, and nine hits in six innings.

Sele was relieved by Jeff Nelson after he walked Mike Lamb with two outs in the seventh.

"We got Sele back on track. That's good to see," Piniella said. "I'm glad to see him finally get his ninth win. Maybe we can get him on a roll now."

Notes: Oliver's last home appearance was May 7, when he was struck on the left thumb by a ball hit by Chicago White Sox leadoff hitter Tony Graffanino. His first five starts after coming off the disabled list June 6 were on the road, where he was 3-1 with a 3.26 ERA. ... Ruben Sierra has 35 RBIs in 38 games after an RBI single in the eighth for Texas. ... Nelson had seven straight strikeouts over his last three appearances before Frank Catalanotto, the first batter he faced, flew out.

Caminiti wants back in NL

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Ken Caminiti figured the worst thing that could happen would be to return home and play with his three daughters, so the frustrated and injury-prone third baseman didn't wait until August for the inevitable decision by the Texas Rangers.

After playing just 54 games, Caminiti requested and received his unconditional release on Monday.

"I don't want to be on a team that doesn't really want me, and doesn't need me," Caminiti said. "I'd rather be on a team that has me in their future, has me longer than August. They were going to ditch me in August anyway."

With the Rangers in last place in the AL West and content with playing as many young players as possible, the 38-year-old former NL MVP didn't really fit any longer. There was also the $3 million or more Caminiti would have been owed had he still be on the roster Aug. 15.

Caminiti had been on the disabled list since June 17 with a pulled left hamstring.

"I never thought I'd be in this situation. Even if I was playing bad, I thought the team would be doing good and wait for me to pick up the pieces," he said. "It just never got there."

There are about four teams — all in the National League — that Caminiti has an interest in. While he wouldn't name the teams, the most likely are Atlanta, St. Louis, San Francisco and the Chicago Cubs.

"I want to go and fit on a team that wants me, that I can fit in with, that needs me and wants me to come help the team win," Caminiti said. "It doesn't have to be a team that's necessarily in first place."

Caminiti hopes to be back on the field after the All-Star break.

Teams that weren't willing to give up anything for Caminiti in a trade can now sign him for the league minimum. He is eligible to be activated whenever he signs.

"After I discussed the situation with Ken, he has decided that it is in his best interest to take his release," Texas general manager Doug Melvin said. "With our decision to go with younger players, he did not fit in with the future plans."

After spending his first 12 seasons in the National League, where he is a .275 career hitter, Caminiti hit .232 with nine homers and 25 RBIs in his short American League stint. He struck out 41 times in 185 at-bats and had committed nine errors.

While disappointed and embarrassed by his AL performance, Caminiti insists he still has confidence in his swing and his ability to contribute to a team.

"It's going to come, I believe that in my heart. If I didn't I would go home to my kids and just stay home," Caminiti said.

Dodgers hold off Giants to extend win streak to eight in a row

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Jim Tracy joined an ever-growing list: managers who don't want to mess around with Barry Bonds.

With runners on first and second, two outs in the ninth inning and Los Angeles clinging to a one-run lead Tuesday night, Tracy ordered reliever Jeff Shaw to intentionally walk Bonds.

Waiting on deck was Jeff Kent — a just-elected All-Star, the reigning NL MVP and San Francisco's cleanup hitter.

How much time did it take Tracy to decide on the strategy?

"Not long," the Dodgers manager said.

And it worked. With the bases loaded, Kent popped out on Shaw's first pitch, and Los Angeles defeated the Giants 4-3 to extend its winning streak to eight.

"It's a double-edged sword. I just felt very strongly about the matchups. I was going to take my chances with Jeff Kent," Tracy said.

Bonds, leading the majors with 39 home runs, was 7-for-20 lifetime against Shaw. Kent is now 4-for-22 against the Los Angeles closer.

"They won, we lost," Bonds said. "Who cares how it looks?"

Kent said the Dodgers were "taking a back step — running scared."

In other NL games, Chicago topped New York 3-0, Houston beat Arizona 6-5, Atlanta defeated Philadelphia 14-7, San Diego stopped Colorado 6-5, Florida blanked Montreal 7-0, Milwaukee beat St. Louis 2-0 and Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati 3-2.

In 1998, Arizona manager Buck Showalter had reliever Gregg Olson intentionally walk Bonds with the bases loaded, two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning and the Diamondbacks ahead by two runs. Brent Mayne then lined out to end the Giants' 8-7 loss.

"I do what Tracy tells me to do," Shaw said. "He came out and said we were going to walk him, we match up better with Kent. Barry's one of the best clutch hitters in baseball. Kent's been swinging the bat well, too. You pick one or the other. We picked Kent."

Paul Lo Duca homered twice for Los Angeles, and Marquis Grissom's RBI double capped a three-run rally in the eighth inning at Dodger Stadium.

Before the game, the Dodgers learned that pitcher Darren Dreifort needs reconstructive surgery on his right elbow. He's expected to be sidelined at least one year.

Cubs 3, Mets 0

Kerry Wood pitched 6 1-3 scoreless innings, Sammy Sosa hit his 27th home run and Chicago won at Shea Stadium for the first time since April 16, 1998.

The NL Central leaders lost six in a row at New York before Wood, Kyle Farnsworth and Tom Gordon combined on a five-hitter.

The Mets, the lowest-scoring team in the majors, were blanked for the eighth time this year.

Braves 14, Phillies 7

Chipper Jones went 4-for-4, homered twice and scored a team record-tying five runs to lead Atlanta over Philadelphia at Turner Field.

B.J. Surhoff hit a two-run single, triggering an eight-run outburst in the seventh inning as the Braves broke away from a 5-5 tie.

Atlanta ended the Phillies' five-game winning streak and cut their lead in the NL East to one game.

Astros 6, Diamondbacks 5

Luis Gonzalez hit a grand slam and a solo home run, but Houston roughed up Curt Schilling to beat Arizona at Enron Field.

Julio Lugo hit a go-ahead homer in the sixth inning as the Astros won their fourth in a row.

Gonzalez hit his third career slam and later connected for his 34th homer of the season.

Schilling (12-3) fell behind 5-0 after two innings, and the Diamondbacks' four-game winning streak came to an end.

Padres 6, Rockies 5

D'Angelo Jimenez lifted San Diego's fourth sacrifice fly of the night — tying the NL record — and the host Padres ended a five-game losing streak.

Ryan Klesko, Wiki Gonzalez and Woody Williams also had sacrifice flies as the Padres matched the NL record, accomplished 10 times previously. The major league mark is five by Seattle against Oakland on Aug. 7, 1988.

Tony Gwynn came off the disabled list before the game and struck out as a pinch-hitter against Colorado reliever Juan Acevedo. Gwynn batted for the first time since May 9.

Marlins 7, Expos 0

Canadian native Ryan Dempster remained unbeaten at Olympic Stadium, pitching a four-hitter for his second career shutout.

Dempster is 5-0 with a 2.30 ERA in six lifetime starts at Montreal.

Charles Johnson doubled twice and drove in three runs for Florida. Expos starter Tony Armas Jr. lost on the night his family, including former slugger Tony Armas Sr., was in town from Venezuela to watch him pitch in the majors for the first time.

Pirates 3, Reds 2

Todd Ritchie kept up his impressive turnaround, pitching Pittsburgh past Cincinnati at Cinergy Field.

Ritchie started out the season 0-8, but has since put together the first five-game winning streak by a Pirates pitcher since Denny Neagle in 1995.

Lefors ISD uses grant funds to teach students community spirit

Lefors students, Tanner Ray, 11; Tommy Hughes, 11; Daniel Wariner, 9("and a half"), and Luke Hughes, 12, check out tomato plants in the community garden behind Lefors schools. Last year, the garden produced a bumper crop of yellow squash, tomatoes and zucchini which were given away at the Lefors Senior Citizens Center and to local residents.

LEFORS — Educators here believe they have a greater responsibility than simply teaching reading, writing and math. They also want to encourage good citizenship and pride in their pupils.

Through funds from state "Learn and Serve" grants, Lefors students and teachers are painting and landscaping the school grounds, raising a garden, creating a playground, improving sports fields and even erecting an outdoor pavilion with picnic tables for special events.

Paula Whitney and Suzanne Law each wrote grants totaling more than $7,000 this year to help pay for the school improvements.

"The good thing about 'Learn and Serve' is they teach kids they can help the community," Whitney said during a recent tour of the school grounds.

She points to the rows of fruit trees lining the perimeter of the school grounds.

"We've planted 40 fruit trees and 40 pecan trees," she said. "We could never have done this without the grants."

Richard Moore, high school coach and horticulture teacher, taught his students about the planting and care of trees.

"The kids dug the holes and planted the trees," Whitney explained, pointing to one of the trees — a tiny peach tree loaded with fruit.

Kindergarten through senior class, Lefors' 184 students help with the various projects, she said.

"The home economic class bring the little ones and show them what they can do," she added.

"The kids built the fence around the garden," she added, pointing to a chain link fence surrounding a vegetable garden, north of the school grounds.

Students also helped sow the vegetables and many come by on summer morning to weed and water the plants.

The produce from last year's efforts — yellow squash, zucchini and tomatoes — were taken to the Lefors Senior Citizens Center first, then distributed door-to-door among other members of the community.

This spring, Lefors High School (LHS) students assembled equipment bought with the grant money for the elementary school playground. Art students used their creativity to liven up such mundane items as trash cans with whimsical balloons, flowers, and a scene with dinosaurs and volcanoes. One trash can, painted to look like a black and white dog, represented a student's puppy that had died that year.

Inside the school, on the day of the interview, students were washing lockers and painting them orange and black — the school colors.

Two teen-age boys had put up playback boards on the tennis courts, fertilized the grounds and started the sprinkler system to water the front lawn.

"We're doing this to build pride," said Superintendent Allen Law. "It makes the kids proud of their school and the community proud of the kids."

"Everything to me is 100 percent better," said Josh Jackson, a junior at LHS. "There's a lot of school spirit. It's a lot more fun to go to school now."

Senior Ray Turpen agrees. "The school looks a lot better with the benches and the flowers. The football stadium is 100 percent better, too. Coach (Eugene) Wilton has done a lot of stuff."

"He's put in countless hours cleaning up and making it better," Suzanne interjected.

"The whole town is getting more involved in sports," Turpen added.

Amanda Daugherty, a junior, said "Everyone is willing to help out to get the school looking better," adding that the program has taught her to paint and work hard. She's also glad to see a renewed interest in sports. "There's more people showing up at the girls' basketball games," she said.

"I've learned that if you want to get something accomplished, you have to stick to what your doing," Jennifer Sprouse, also a junior, said.

"There's a lot of stuff that needed cleaning and you can't do it all by yourself," she said. "It has to be a community effort." "These four are good examples of student leaders," Suzanne said. "And it's not just them. It's all the kids in the student body."

"When kids give 110 percent, it makes it easier for us to work for them," she added.

Law and his wife have put much of their own time into the project. Law built the flower beds at the front of the school building using railroad ties.

"At graduation the roses were in bloom, even more than they are now, and everyone was 'oohing' and 'aahing' and wanting their pictures taken in front of them," Whitney said.

Law also bought whiskey barrel planters for the students to fill with flowers and place around the school. Right now he's building 10 picnic tables to place under the school's new outdoor pavilion.

This spring, before school was let out for the summer, he cooked hamburgers for the students and everyone ate under the pavilion.

"It's almost time for our next all-school reunion and we want to have them ready by then," his wife said of the picnic tables.

had hung curtains and stenciled bright sunflowers on the walls and cabinets.

"That makes it look more like a kitchen instead of school room," he said with pride.

"That's our goal, to make the school warm and welcoming — not institutional," he explained.

The Laws envision more changes for the schools in the future.

"We've got lots of plans in the works," Suzanne said. "The (school) board has lots of good ideas."

Many of the ideas center around the growing interest in school sports, the superintendent said, such as an outdoor basketball goal and soccer goals, more lighting on the school grounds for safety, and painting the tennis courts in the school colors.

"We want to start baseball next year, so we need to build a baseball field," Law said. "We've had 24 sign up who say they want to play baseball."

In past years, barely enough students signed up for varsity football. Next fall, he said, so many students are showing an interest the school will be able to have a junior varsity team for the first time in many years.

"The whole town is getting more involved in sports," he commented.

"It's a lot of little stuff," Law said of the schools' spruce-up program.

"But after the while the faculty gets in a mode of 'ho-hum'. If nothing else, we've gotten back to what we're here for."
